Lord Curzon gives his countrymen good advice in urging them "not to begin to divide up the German empire before you have got hold of it." He truly says that "more than one Christmas will roll by before the ending of hostilities." Only preliminary skirmishes have been fought so far.

Montreal Herald-Telegraph: "The Kaiser thanks God, to whom "be all honor" for the "glorious result" of the bombardment of Antwerp by the big German guns. He evidently still wants his people to think he has Divine approval of his treachery towards an unoffending nation whose neutrality Germany, as well as Great Britain, was sworn to protect."

The German Emperor announced at the beginning of the war that he was prepared to sacrifice a million soldiers in the effort to take Paris. His official lists of losses so far, in the Prussian portion of his army alone, is 211,000. If to these are added the losses in the Bavarian, Saxon and Wurtemburgian regiments of his army, it is quite possible the total losses are already half a million. And it is still a "long, long way" to Paris.

Hamilton Spectator: "Should the Empire's emergency permit of a successful Boer revolt, for the time being, its ultimate suppression will be none the less absolute. The government will not permit of any such side issue to interfere with its main object—the blotting out of German militarism. And, when that certain period arrives, the treatment of the traitors will be swift and terrible."

Journal of Commerce: "The Austrians have now given a certificate of character to the Russians, even declaring that the Cossacks were not the barbarians that they were led to believe. Apparently the only barbarians taking part in the present war are the Germans—famous for their culture and refinement. By the time the Allies are through with them they are going to find that war is an expensive and a disastrous business."

MARITIME PROVINCES TABOO MORATORIUM

HALIFAX, N.S., Oct. 13—Special—It is understood that the Nova Scotia government has made inquiries of the trust, loan and morgage companies of Halifax, to learn their views of the situation. The feeling in the eastern provinces is opposed to the moratorium and the financial interests of Halifax are opposed to such an arrangement. In the enquiries made by the government no reference was made to the moratorium, the communication simply asking for an expression of opinion as to the financial conditions and the need or otherwise of any intervention by the government. One loan company manager flatly said that a moratorium in the east would do more harm than good, he said: "There is no need of it. Take the bank clearings, for example. Last year there was a boom in real estate in Halifax and through the province, the transactions swelling the clearing house returns. Yet the figures for this year hold up well as compared with last, in spite of the boom then, and they are ahead of the clearing of two years ago. The general view of a number of the heads of mortgage and loan trust companies was that the payments were being met satisfactorily, and that money is coming in as usual. Funds obtained in England and Scotland are now cut off for the time, but as amounts borrowed in Nova Scotia are small, this makes no difference materially. The manager of the Nova Scotia Building and Loan Society said "Out of 2,000 mortgages held by us, there has only been one foreclosure this year, and we have in the past seven months paid out more than $50,000 in excess of the amount loaned on mortgage to subscribers in the corresponding seven months a year ago. This shows our faith in the situation and we have seen nothing to make us think it is not absolutely secure. The opinion in Halifax is that a moratorium would paralyze business, and that financial conditions are perfectly sound.

MANY WOMEN ARE NOT ATTRACTIVE

because of repulsive looking Warts on the hands. They can be painlessly removed in one day by Putnam's Corn and Wart Extractor. Putnam's is the best Corn and Wart cure made. Try it.

Praise the man who asks you for advice and he will be satisfied.

Cupid usually hits the mark, but he selects some mighty poor targets.

Microbes in Your Scalp

Authorities say that a microbe causes baldness. If you are losing hair try our remedy at our risk.

Professor Unna, of Germany, and Dr. Sabouraud, the great French Dermatologist, claim that a microbe causes baldness, and their theory has been verified by eminent scientists. This microbe destroys the hair follicles, in time causing the scalp pores to close and the scalp to become shiny. Then, it is believed nothing will revive the growth. If treated before this occurs, baldness may be overcome.

We know of nothing that has given such universal satisfaction in treating the scalp and hair as Rexall "93" Hair Tonic. It has been designed after long study to overcome the cause of falling hair as discovered by Prof. Unna, Dr. Sabouraud and other scalp and hair specialists, and we believe it will do more than anything else can to remove dandruff and stop falling hair; and if any human agency can promote a new growth of hair it will do that, too.

We want you to make us prove it. We will pay for a month's treatment of Rexall "93" Hair Tonic used during a trial, if you will use it according to directions, and are not thoroughly satisfied. When we will do this, you surely should not hesitate to at least try it.

Start the treatment today. Your mere request will get your money back if you want it. Two sizes, 50c and $1.00.

You can buy Rexall "93" Hair Tonic in this community only at our store:

J. S. McKEOWN

The Rexall Store

There is a Rexall Store in nearly every town and city in the United States, Canada and Great Britain. There is a different Rexall Remedy for nearly every ordinary human ill—each especially designed for the particular ill for which it is recommended.

The Rexall Stores are America's Greatest Drug Stores

THE DOW

ALES & PORTERS

The best extracts of malt and hops.
Wholesome.
Delicious.

Ask for "DOW"

FOR SALE AT YOUR LEADING LIQUOR STORES

RAILROAD TRANSPORTATION

GRAND TRUNK RAILWAY SYSTEM

TORONTO - CHICAGO
TORONTO - MONTREAL

The International Limited
Canada's Train of Superior Service
Leaves Toronto 4.40 p.m. daily, arrives Detroit 9.55 p.m. and Chicago 8.00 a.m.

MORNING SERVICE
Leaves Toronto 8 a.m., arrives Detroit 1.45 p.m. and Chicago 8.40 p.m. daily.

LAST TRAIN OUT OF TORONTO AT NIGHT
Leaves 11.35 p.m., arrives Detroit 8 a.m. and Chicago 3.00 p.m. daily, assuring important connection with principal trains for Western States and Canada.

FOR MONTREAL
Leaves Toronto 9 a.m., 8.30 p.m., and 11 p.m. daily.
Berth reservations, etc., at G. T. R. ticket offices.
H. C. Thompson, City Passenger and Ticket Agent. Phone 403.
T. H. Coppin, Station Ticket Agent. Phone 5o.

CANADIAN PACIFIC

WINTER TOURS

To The Land of Sunshine and Summer Days.
CALIFORNIA, FLORIDA, LOUISIANA, ETC.

Limited trains leave Toronto daily, making direct connection at Detroit and Buffalo for the Southern States, and at Chicago for California, etc.

Those contemplating a trip of any nature should consult Canadian Pacific Agents, who will be pleased to quote rates, arrange reservations and attend to all details in connection with your trip, or write M. G. Murphy, District Passenger Agent, corner King and Yonge Streets, Toronto.

S. BURROWS, Gen. Agent, Belleville.

CANADIAN NORTHERN

Trough Service To TORONTO and OTTAWA

(Daily except Sunday)

THE BEST WAY TO PORT HOPE, COBOURG, TRENTON, PICTON, BELLEVILLE, NAPANEE, SMITHS FALLS, HAWKESBURY, JOILETTE, AND ALL INTERMEDIATE POINTS.

For rail and steamship tickets and all information apply to J. H. Patterson, Town Agent, or L. W. Buller, Station Agent.

CANADIAN GOVERNMENT RAILWAYS
INTERCOLONIAL
PRINCE EDWARD ISLAND RY

2 Through Trains 2

From Bonaventure Union Depot, Montreal.

OCEAN LIMITED

Leaves 7.30 p.m. daily for Quebec, Riviere du Loup, Campbellton, Moncton, St. John, Truro and Halifax. Connections for Glasgow, etc., and the Sydneys (except Saturdays).

Maritime Express

Leaves 8.40 a.m. daily except Saturday, for Quebec, Campbellton, Moncton, Truro, Halifax, St. John. On Saturdays will run Montreal to St. Flavie only.

For further information concerning rates, reservations, etc., apply to local Grank Trunk Railway Ticket or Freight Agent, or to E. Tiffin, General Western Agent, 51 King St. East, (King Edward Hotel Block), Toronto, Ontario.

RAILWAY TIME TABLE.

GRAND TRUNK RAILWAY

Time of departure from Belleville station.

Going East.

No. 18—12.30 a.m. Mail train, daily.
No. 16— 2.08 a.m. Fast train, Flyer, daily.
No. 32—Local for Brockville, 7 a.m.; arrives back from Brockville, 8.50 p.m.; daily except Sunday.
No. 6—11.10 a.m.—Mail and Express, daily.
No. 14—12.16 p.m. Express, daily.
No. 28— 5.45 p.m. Local passenger, daily except Sunday.
No. 30— 9.30 p.m.—Local passenger, daily except Sunday.

Going West.

No. 19— 2.15 a.m.—Mail and Express, daily.
No. 13— 4.35 a.m. Limited Express, daily.
No. 29— 7.50 a.m. Local Passenger, daily except Sunday, leaving Toronto 6.00 p.m., arrives in Belleville at 9.25 p.m., arrives in Kingston at 11.05 p.m.
No. 27—11.15 a.m. Passenger, daily except Sunday.
No. 1— 1.50 p.m. International Limited, daily.
No. 7— 4.55 p.m. Mail and Express, daily.

BELLEVILLE AND PETERBORO'

Going West.

| | Leave. | Ar. Peterboro' |
|---|---|---|
| Mail .. .. .. .. | 5.20 a.m. | 8.00 a.m. |
| Passenger .. .. | 6.00 p.m. | 8.50 p.m. |

Going East.

| | Arrive | Lv. Peterboro' |
|---|---|---|
| Mixed .. .. .. .. | 10.55 a.m. | 8.20 a.m. |
| Mail .. .. .. .. | 4.15 p.m. | 1.30 p.m. |

BELLEVILLE AND MADOC.

Going North.

| | Leave | Ar. Madoc |
|---|---|---|
| Mixed .. .. .. .. | 12.11 p.m. | 1.50 p.m. |
| Mixed .. .. .. .. | 6.30 p.m. | 7.50 p.m. |

Going South.

| | Arrive | Lv. Madoc |
|---|---|---|
| Mixed .. .. .. .. | 4.50 p.m. | 3.20 p.m. |
| Mixed .. .. .. .. | 9.15 a.m. | 7.15 a.m. |

None of the above trains run on Sunday.

RAILWAY TIME TABLE

CANADIAN NORTHERN ONTARIO RAILWAY

EFFECTIVE SEPT. 14TH.

For Toronto and intermediate points—6.40 a.m., 5.15 p.m.

Trenton, Wellington, Picton and intermediate points—6.40 a.m., 12.40 noon.

Marmora, Bannockburn and Coe Hill—12.40 noon.

Marmora, Bannockburn, Bancroft and Maynooth, and intermediate stations—6.40 a.m.

Deseronto, Napanee and B. Q. stations—10.35 a.m., 1.00 p.m., 9.40 p.m.

For Kingston, Brockville, Smith's Falls, Ottawa and intermediate stations—1.00 p.m.

Trains arrive from Toronto and intermediate points—1.00 p.m., 9.40 p.m.

From Picton, Wellington, Trenton and intermediate stations—10.35 a.m., 6.05 p.m., 9.40 p.m.

From Napanee, Deseronto and intermediate stations—6.40 a.m., 12.40 p.m., 5.15 p.m.

From Maynooth and intermediate stations—6.22 p.m.

From Coe Hill and intermediate stations—10.35 a.m.

From Tamworth and intermediate stations—5.15 p.m.

From Kingston, Brockville, Smith's Falls, Ottawa and intermediate stations—6.15 p.m.

OUR LINES

Automobile Storage and Car Repairing
Supplies
Bicycle Repairing
Motor Cycle Repairing
Gas Engine Work
Electrical Contracting
Electrical Supplies
Oxy-Acetyline Welding
Locksmithing
Machine Work
Storage Battery Care and Charging
General and Steel Repairing

Call and see us, whether you do business or not, at

The Garage
GREENLEAF & SON
Phone 83. 288 Pinnacle St.

MARRIAGE LICENSES

Marriage Licenses issued by P. Harrison at The Intelligencer Office, or at residence, Lewis Street.

Advertise in The Intelligencer.

THE STANDARD BANK OF CANADA

QUARTERLY DIVIDEND NOTICE No. 96.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that a Dividend at the rate of Thirteen Per Cent Per Annum upon the Capital Stock of this Bank has been declared for the quarter ending the 31st October, 1914, and that the same will be payable at the Head Office in this City and its Branches on and after Monday, the 2nd day of November, 1914, to shareholders of record of the 23rd of October, 1914.

By order of the Board,
G. P. SCHOLFIELD,
General Manager.
Toronto, 29th September, 1914.

JOHN ELLIOTT, Manager, Belleville Branch

Shannonville Branch open Mondays and Thursdays
Foxboro „ „ Tuesdays and Fridays
Rednersville „ „ Wednesdays

The Merchants Bank
Of Canada

Capital .......................$7,000,000
Reserve.......................$7,000,000

YOUR SAVINGS ACCOUNT INVITED
Interest added every six months. Small or large amounts deposited. Banking may be done by mail. Drafts on any parts of the world sold or bought.
A General Banking Business conducted.

Belleville Branch H. SNEYD, Manager

HIS HEALTH IN A TERRIBLE STATE

"Fruit-a-tives" Healed His Kidneys and Cured Him

HACKERSVILLE, ONT., AUG. 26th. 1913.

"About two years ago, I found my health in a very bad state. My Kidneys were not doing their work and I was all run down in condition. I felt the need of some good remedy, and having seen "Fruit-a-tives" advertised, I decided to try them. Their effect, I found more than satisfactory.

Their action was mild and the result all that could be expected.

My Kidneys resumed their normal action after I had taken upwards of a dozen boxes, and I regained my old-time vitality. Today, I am enjoying the best health I have ever had".

B. A. KELLY

"Fruit-a-tives" is the greatest Kidney Remedy in the world. It acts on the bowels and skin as well as on the kidneys, and thereby soothes and cures any Kidney soreness.

"Fruit-a-tives" is sold by all dealers at 50c. a box, 6 for $2.50, trial size 25c. or will be sent on receipt of price by Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

Girl Ticket Agent Robbed and Bound

Miss Merrtt Finds Her Revolver at Hasbrouck Heights, N. J., is Unloaded

HACKENSACK, N.J., Oct. 14.—Failure to keep her military establishment in a state of preparedness brought misfortune today to Miss Helen Merritt, 18 years old, station agent for the New Jersey & New York Railroad at Williams Avenue, Hasbrouck Heights. The station is in the meadow region, half a mile from the nearest house, and her friends often have advised her to keep a loaded revolver. There was a revolver in the station, and without examining its condition Miss Merritt relied on for protection in emergency.

At about noon yesterday, when the station was deserted and no passengers in sight, a well-dressed man suddenly appeared in the waiting room, walked over to the ticket window, and with a pleasant smile pointed a revolver at Miss Merritt and demanded all the money in the cash drawer. The girl started back; whereat the intruder remarked:

"Now, don't yell, young lady, or I'll have to hurt you."

To show her what he could do if he tried he fired a shot through the ticket window; then, assuming that he had terrified the girl, he turned around to make sure that no one was approaching.

Miss Merritt saw her chance. While his head was turned she snatched the old revolver off the shelf, pointed it at the robber, and bade him throw up his hands. Instead he raised his gun again and she pulled the trigger. But the revolver was empty; and the robber, finding somewhat to his surprise that he was unhurt, broke into the office, and as a matter of regrettable necessity tied Miss Merritt's hands and feet. Then he carried her to an adjoining baggage room, gagged her with a green and white signal flag, and returned to the ticket office. Here he ransacked the room and found $4.50, but the smallness of the return for his labor did not make him lose his temper, and he politely bade Miss Merritt good afternoon as he went away.

The girl was left bound and gagged in the baggage room. Here she lay unnoticed while the train from Jersey City passed through at 12.58, but a few minutes later an eastbound trainman, got off with a suitcase which was to be left at the station. He missed the girl in the ticket office, so searched the premises and found her nearly strangled in the baggage room.

VIEWED FERRATA'S BODY.

Thousands Paid Respects to Late Papal Secretary of State.

ROME, Oct. 13. — Thousands of people, including cardinals, diplomats and high dignitaries of the church, Sunday viewed the body of Cardinal Ferrata, the late papal secretary of state, as it lay in state. After lying in state throughout yesterday the body was taken to the Church of St John Lateran, where to-day a solemn funeral will be celebrated. Burial will be made in the family tomb in the diocese of Cracoli, near Viterbo.

DRS. SOPER & WHITE

SPECIALISTS

Piles, Eczema, Asthma, Catarrh, Pimples, Dyspepsia, Epilepsy, Rheumatism, Skin, Kidney, Blood, Nerve and Bladder Diseases.

Call or send history for free advice. Medicine furnished in tablet form. Hours—10 a.m. to 1 p.m. and 2 to 6 p.m. Sundays—10 a.m. to 1 p.m.

Consultation Free

DRS. SOPER & WHITE

25 Toronto St., Toronto, Ont.

STARVING FOR THE BREAD OF LIFE

In the Midst of a Famine After Righteousness.

THE POWER OF GOD'S WORD

A Famine In the Land—Many Hearts Crying Out For a Living and True God—Faint For Want of Spiritual Food—Table of Divine Provision Well Filled—The Bread and the Water of Life—A Satisfying Portion.

PASTOR RUSSELL

October 11.—To-day Pastor Russell chose for his text the words, "Behold, the days come, saith the Lord God, that I will send a famine in the land, not a famine of bread, nor a thirst for water, but of hearing the words of the Lord." (Amos 8:11.) He spoke in part as follows:

To-day this prophecy is fulfilled in our midst! Notwithstanding the fact that during the past century Bibles have been printed and circulated amongst the people by the million, and notwithstanding the fact that education has become so general that rich and poor, old and young, have the ability to read the Word of God, nevertheless we are in the midst of the very famine which the Prophet specifies. It seems almost incredible that we should be famishing now with Bibles in our homes, when our saintly forefathers did not famish, although their education was limited. The secret lies in the fact that increasing intelligence on every hand has awakened our reasoning faculties along religious lines, and the result is the gnawing of hunger in our hearts. Both heart and flesh cry out for a living and true God—a God greater than ourselves—more just, more powerful, more loving. Realizing our own impotency, we feel more and more our need of the Friend whose love is closer than a brother's.

Consequently we cannot find in the Scriptures the rest, the refreshment and the comfort which our forefathers derived therefrom. Consequently the young men and the purest of heart in the world are repelled by the religion of the past. They are hungry for the Truth, thirsty for the refreshment which they need. Intellectually, many are looking, wandering from sea to sea, desiring the Bread of Life.

Scanning the creeds of all denominations, they find these practically alike as respects theories of eternal reprobation and damnation for all except the Elect, the saintly few. They grow faint for want of spiritual food and drink. They even look to the heathen world, and examine the Theosophy of India, the Buddhism of Japan and the Confucianism of China, seeking for some satisfying portion of Truth.

In some respects these are like the prodigal son—far from home. They perceive the swinish content with the husks of business, money, pleasure and politics; but their spiritual longings cannot be satisfied with the husks which the "swine" eat. Because of their interest in spiritual things they are thought peculiar. They are misunderstood by their best earthly friends. In their wanderings along the highways of science and world-religion they must surely learn that they will get no satisfaction from those sources.

Ho, all ye that hunger for Truth, come ye! There is an abundance for us all in our Heavenly Father's wonderful provision—in the Bible. Deserting all the creeds and traditions of men, let us gather at our Heavenly Father's Board as His family, as His children. Let us prove the truthfulness of His declaration that "Like as a father pitieth his children, so the Lord pitieth them that reverence Him." Let us seek and find the satisfying portion. Let us satisfy our longings at the table of Divine provision. Mark the words of the Lord and consider how truthful they are —"Blessed are they that hunger and thirst after righteousness; for they shall be filled."

It is this Truth-hungry class whom we address. We know their heart-longings; for we have had the same experience. We know the satisfaction which they crave; for we have received it and are therefore doubly glad to hand forth the Bread and the Water of Life to those who desire it. There are many who are ready to serve the appetites of those who long for pleasure—ball games, society fetes, chess, travel, etc. Against these we have not one word to say. It is not our thought that they are en route to eternal torment; hence we do not frantically beset them or annoy them. Let them have their pleasure. Let them wait for the time to come when something may occur in their experiences which will put them into the class of the broken-hearted and contrite of spirit; something which will cause them to feel after God, if haply they might find Him as a satisfying portion.

In harmony with the Master's directions, it is our aim to "bind up the broken-hearted and to comfort those that mourn," to tell them of the oil of joy which the Lord is willing to bestow for their spirit of heaviness and sorrow for sin. (Isaiah 61:1-3.) As the Master expressed no reproof of those engaged in any sort of moral reform, even asceticism, so it is with us. We desire to oppose no one who is doing any good wo whether or not he follows with us in every particular. There are so many engaged in doing evil works, and so few engaged in doing good, that not one of the latter class can be spared from the ranks of the service of righteousness.

As the Master did not give His time to temperance reform or to social reform or to political reform, but gave it to the instruction of the people in the doctrines of the Word of God, so let us be intent to follow His example in this matter, not "teaching for doctrines the precepts of men," but the Word of God, which liveth and abideth forever—expounding to the people the Scriptures and assisting them to see the length and the breadth and height and depth of their meaning.

Nevertheless, as the religious teachers of the Master's day hated Jesus and His disciples for this cause, "because they taught the people," and as they persecuted the Master and His followers because they did not walk in the beaten paths of their day, so we may expect that the Scribes, the Pharisees and the Doctors of the Law to-day will be grieved because the people are taught, because the light of the knowledge of the glory of God shining in the face of Jesus Christ is presented to the people as an incentive to love and obedience, instead of the doctrine of eternal torment.

It matters not that all the educated ministers to-day well know, and would not for a moment deny, their disbelief in the doctrine of eternal torment, if cross-questioned. Nevertheless, many of them hate us and oppose us because we show the people the true interpretations of the Word of God and lift before the eyes of their understanding a God of Love, just, merciful, righteous altogether, and fully capable both in Wisdom and Power to work out all the glorious designs which He "purposed in Himself before the foundation of the world."

(1) They perceive that the teaching of the doctrines of purgatory and eternal torment has not had a sanctifying influence upon mankind in all the sixteen centuries in which these doctrines have been preached. But they fear that to deny these doctrines now would only make a bad matter worse. They fear that if the Gospel of the Love of God and the fact that the Bible does not teach eternal torment for any were generally made known, the effect upon the world would be to increase its wickedness, to make life and property less secure and to fill the world with blasphemies still more than now.

(2) They fear also that a certain amount of discredit would come to themselves because, knowing that the Bible does not teach eternal torment, according to the Hebrew and Greek original, they secreted the knowledge from the people. They fear that this would forever discredit them with their hearers. Hence they still lend their influence outwardly to the doctrine of eternal torture, which they do not believe, and feel angry towards us because we teach the people the truth upon the subject, which they know will bring to them hundreds of questions difficult to answer or to dodge.

We ask you, dear fellow Christians, Were you constrained to become children of God and to render to the Lord the homage and obedience of your lives through fear or through love? We are not asking you whether you never have feared; but what brought you to the point of consecrating your life to God? Surely it was not fear! We are aware, of course, that there is a proper, godly fear, reverence; and that the Scriptures declare it—"The fear (reverence) of the Lord is the beginning of wisdom." (Psalm 111:10.) But this is not the fear of eternal torment, which tends to drive out love. How could we love or esteem or truly worship a God who purposed the eternal torment of His creatures from before their creation!

We could give you many proofs of the power of love over the human heart, in contrast with the ungodly fear of the error. God says to us in so many words, "Their fear toward Me is taught by the precept of men." (Isaiah 29:13.) As an illustration: Some years ago at a Bible Students Convention in Ohio a well-dressed gentleman in attendance told me of how his heart had been touched with our presentation of the "Love Divine, All Love Excelling."

He said, "For years I have been a member of the Presbyterian Church without being really a Christian at all. Occasionally I went on sprees, sometimes I gambled and drank, etc. Not until I received a knowledge of the true character of God as set forth in your 'STUDIES IN THE SCRIPTURES' did my heart ever come to the proper attitude of surrender to the Lord. Then I was glad to give Him my little all, and wished that it was more."

The next day, as I was passing from the hotel to the auditorium to conduct a question meeting, this gentleman put a slip of paper into my hand. Supposing that it contained a question, I thrust it into my coat pocket. On the platform I drew it forth as one of the questions to be answered, and to my astonishment I found it to be a check for one thousand dollars. The man had not been asked to contribute even one cent; but the love of God had captivated his heart and had gotten control—not only of it, but of his pocket-book and all. He wished to show the Lord his appreciation of the Love Divine, the length, the breadth, the height and the depth of which he now comprehended as never before.

Another case: Several years ago I met with a Convention of Bible Students in Chattanooga. While there, a gentleman introduced himself, saying that he was from Mississippi and that he had become deeply interested in our presentations of the harmony of the Word of God. He said in substance, "I will not attempt to tell you how wicked a man I was before I got your literature. My dear wife here, an earnest Methodist, said to me, John, John you will surely go to Hell!' I replied to her, 'Mary, I know it! I know it! And, Mary, I am determined to deserve all that I get. I am not going to Hell for nothing.'

"One of your tracts came to my desk in my store. I read it and perceived that it was different from anything I had ever understood respecting the teachings of the Bible; for it seemed more rational and more God-like. I sent to you for various Bible Students' Helps. The result is that the Love of God has constrained me, has conquered me, in a way that the doctrines of devilish torments could not influence me. Now I see the true teachings of the Word of God; I can honor Him, worship Him, and take pleasure in laying down my life in His service. I have made a full consecration of everything I possess.

"For a time I sent you a fifty-dollar check every month; but, Brother Russell, it was in the nature of conscience-money. At that time the most profitable feature of my store trade was the sale of liquor to the Mississippi negroes. As the grace of God more and more filled my heart to overflowing, it brought me to see that I must love my neighbor as myself and do injury to none, and those checks stopped. I ceased to deal in liquor, and have devoted my whole life to the service of God and of my fellow men."

Three murderers confined in the Ohio State Penitentiary had from childhood been trained in the doctrine of eternal torment by different denominations; and yet these men had committed murder. Under the providence of God, these men received some of our literature—"STUDIES IN THE SCRIPTURES"—and were cut to the heart when they learned of the Love of God, as expressed in the Divine Plan of the Ages. This knowledge made such a change in the hearts and the lives of these three murderers that the prison-keepers took knowledge of them that they had been with Jesus and had learned of Him. By and by they were patroled, and to-day two of them are preaching the Gospel of the Love of God, seeking to bring their fellow-men out of the condition of darkness and sin into the glorious sunlight of Divine Love and Truth.

Having tried the Gospel of Fear and Damnation and Torture for the past sixteen centuries, and having seen that under this teaching there are more blasphemy and general wickedness in Christendom than even in the heathen world, should we not decide that it is due time to give the true Bread and Water of Life to the hungry and thirsty ones who, for lack of it, are searching the earth over, and many of whom are falling into Higher Criticism and other delusions peculiar to our day?

With shame of face we must all acknowledge that "we have done those things which we ought not to have done, and have left undone those things which we ought to have done; and there is no health in us." The proper thing for us to do, dear Christian friends, is to get down upon our knees before the Lord and in contrition of heart acknowledge that we have wrought no deliverance in the earth (Isaiah 26:18); that our sectarian differences are our shame; that the ignorance in which we have all been respecting the Word of God is humiliating.

When once the eyes of our understanding are opened, we can comprehend as never before the harmony of God's Message from Genesis to the Revelation. Daily the Word of God becomes more precious to us. More and more we realize that it is our duty to fly to the assistance of our dear brethren in Christ and to call upon them to join us in a determined stand for God and His Word of Truth. We must show them that our God has been dishonored by misrepresentations of His character and of the real teachings of His Word. We must point them to the fact that the Bible does not teach that all mankind except the Elect will be consigned to an eternity of torture at the hands of demons.

We must also show them that the Election of the Church during this Gospel Age does not mean injury to the non-elect; but that on the contrary it is the Divine purpose that the elect saints with the great Redeemer shall constitute God's Kingdom, which will bind Satan, put down sin, banish ignorance, error and superstition, and uplift mankind by resurrection processes to all that was lost in Eden by Adam's disobedience, but secured for him and all his race through the great transaction accomplished on Calvary. All mankind shall yet see that the Divine Purpose shall be accomplished; that the Word which has gone forth out of Jehovah's mouth shall prosper in the thing whereunto He sent it.

In concluding his discourse, the Pastor declared that as the test at the end of the Millennial Age will be loyalty, even so this is the test upon Christian people to-day. The Lord desires not those who merely fear to do wrong, but those who love to do right and hate to do wrong. He claimed that there is only a little more time in which Christians will have the opportunity to develop character and to stand the test.

---

The older a girl is the easier it is for her to forget her birthday anniversaries.

Some men attract no more attention than a thermometer on a pleasant day.

---

What has become of the old time statistician who used to figure out how far the wheat chop would reach into space if the grains were placed end to end?

Switzerland's Capital.

The quaint city of Berne has been the capital of the Swiss republic since 1848. It is one of the most interesting towns of Europe for its numerous medieval features. It was founded in 1191 by a duke of Zahringen, and by 1288 it was strong enough to ward off two sieges by Rudolph of Hapsburg, the ancestor of the present Emperor of Austria.

Red Not Very Conspicuous.

It is a common delusion that red uniforms are the most conspicuous in the field. They were in the days when the British army used them, but ranges are much longer nowadays. At a distance of over 1,000 yards red is less easily seen than steel-grey or other light shades.

Assurance!

Belgian clocks have been altered to German time in that area occupied by the German troops. In reply to a protest, General von der Goltz replied: "In Germany there shall be only one time."

A man imagines he is a philanthropist every time he gives away a penny's worth of advice.

Sometimes a bit of flippant slang may have a real respectable meaning.

GURNEY-OXFORD

How the Dampers Work; Grate Arrangement; Where the Heat Goes—

BUYING a stove is different from buying almost anything else. It is supposed to last a long time: it is in use three times every day—in fact, all day.

So buying a stove is not something to be decided off-hand. Cheapness is not the consideration. But—Quality is. A cheap stove cannot last. In reality it is not cheap. A stove that is a trouble to look after, that gives poor results, is a baneful thing. When the fire goes out, when the oven will not heat, or heats only in one or two corners, then cooking is drudgery. If a stove is extravagant in fuel, it should not have a place in your house.

The Gurney-Oxford is a truly remarkable stove. It is heavily made and thoroughly well put together. It is practically indestructible.

The Gurney-Oxford Economizer, fitted to the stove pipe, gives you complete control of the fire always. One turn of the handle dampens the fire down to a spark that consumes practically no coal when the fire is not in use. Turn the handle the opposite way and in a short time the fire is burning brightly again.

Let us show you why the Gurney-Oxford is peerless among stoves!

The fire is supported on grates that present a large surface to the air. There is no smouldering of coal without heat. This perfect combustion means two things: a bright, hot fire with the minimum of coal, and no waste in the form of clinkers.

The heat from the Gurney-Oxford fire box goes through a series of divided flues over and around the oven, not up the chimney. There is no unevenness of heat.

Every housewife knows the absolute satisfaction and pleasure that comes from a stove that never fails.

Let us show you the Gurney-Oxford range and demonstrate its many good points.

Let us show you the construction of it—the arrangement of dampers—the fire box and flues that have made it peerless among stoves, and the most cherished possession of thousands of Canadian women.

JOHN LEWIS CO. LIMITED

Fashion-Craft

MODEL 100

One of Many Shown for Fall

THERE are certain points about Fashion-Craft Clothes which make them different from other Men's Clothing—points which every well-dressed man should be familiar with:—

Fashion-Craft Clothes are carefully tailored, carefully sewn, each piece carefully fitted by skilled workmen and all work done in large, airy, well-ventilated and well-lighted rooms. This costs more than the sweat-shop methods, but it insures careful tailoring even to the smallest detail, and perfect fit after months of wear.

Cut illustrates a well-made, neat, perfect-fitting, single-breasted, three-button Sack Coat, with collarless six-button Waistcoat, and Trousers made on standard lines. Price range varied—workmanship always uniformly the same.

OBTAINABLE AT THE SHOPS OF

FASHION-CRAFT

F. W. MILLARD

236 Front Street

Belleville, Ont.

MADE · IN · CANADA

Wealth may not bring happiness, but it saves the bill collector many steps.

IN EVERY HOME
ROYAL
YEAST CAKES ARE USED, AND ALWAYS GIVE PERFECT SATISFACTION
ROYAL
YEAST CAKES

HUNGARY SEEKING TERMS.

Roumanian Diplomat Says Offers Are Being Made To Russia.

PETROGRAD, Oct. 14.—(Via London.)—The Roumanian Minister to Russia, C. Diamandy, to-day gave out a statement concerning the attitude of his country as regards the war. The statement says in part:

"In view of the conflicting reports and general obscurity surrounding Roumania's attitude since the death of the late king, I will say that at present Roumania is prevented from rendering active assistance to the allies by the necessity of keeping troops along the Danube. I know for a fact of the existence of pourparlers between Russia and Hungary regarding the ceding of Transylvania and the guaranteeing to Hungary of national severance from Austria in return for Hungary's withdrawal of her troops from Cracow. Hungary's attempts are not seriously regarded by Roumania, for we feel that so long as the present Russian Foreign Ministry is in office our interests will be safeguarded. Moreover, the Hungarian conversations are not official, but are instigated by Hungarian prisoners in Russia."

Col. Hughes May Lose Auto.

OTTAWA, Oct. 14.—Before sailing for England, it is said, Col. Sam Hughes had his automobile shipped to Ostend, so as to facilitate his movements in France when he went over to see war at close range. In view of recent happenings his friends say that it will be a matter of interest to see who enjoys the use of the automobile, the Canadian Minister of Militia, or some of Kaiser William's officers.

Nearly a Million In Army.

ROME, Oct. 14. — (Via Paris.)—According to advices received here from the German officers at Constantinople, estimate the Turkish army at 900,000 men.

The estimate made here on figures from reliable sources places the number at between 600,000 and 700,000.

British Air Raid Costly.

LONDON, Oct. 14—A letter received in Amsterdam from Dusseldorf, says The Daily Chronicle's Amsterdam correspondent, declares that in the recent British aeroplane raid on Dusseldorf, besides a Zeppelin airship being destroyed, four persons were killed and many wounded.

THREE FRENCH HEROES.

They Routed German Infantry and Took Two Quick-Firers.

BORDEAUX, Oct. 10.—The story of how three French soldiers captured two German quick-firers and put to flight two companies of German infantry is related in a letter sent home by the captain of a company of infantry which is fighting on the Aisne.

Two corporals and a private in reconnoitering crawled within ten yards of the German trenches. Most of the German soldiers were away for the purpose of fetching dinner and the officers were some distnace back of the guns.

The three Frenchmen sprang into the trenches and turned the guns on the unsuspecting Germans, who fled, communicating the panic to two companies. French artillerymen, who had been watching the proceedings, then opened fire and exterminated the Germans.

That same night the two corporals were promoted to be second lieutenants and the soldier was made a sergeant-major as a reward for their daring work.

Yukon Soldiers On Way.

OTTAWA, Oct. 10. — The first troops of the second contingent to leave home to go to the front are a picked machine gun corps from the Yukon, who will cover a distance of 7,800 miles before they reach the field of war. They are practically all South African war veterans and left Dawson yesterday for Victoria, where they will go into training until they are summoned to join th contingent when about to sail. Dr. H. Boyle, a prominent Yukon miner, gave two of the machine guns for the corps.

Wounded Canadian Home.

MONTREAL, Oct. 13. — The first wounded Canadian from the war zone, Pte. Joseph Hay of the Cameron Highlanders, has arrived in Montreal. He was shot through a lung near Mons.

Pte. Hay was a reservist of the Cameron Highlanders, and has been a resident of Calgary. Last July he went to Perth, Scotland, to visit his grandfather. When the declaartion of war came, on Aug. 4, he went to Edinburgh Castle to report.

Villa Confiscated German Property.

EL PASO, Texas, Oct. 15.—Advices reported here yesterday by Carranza officers state that Gen. Francisco Villa has confiscated property belonging to German citizens in the state of Durango totalling in value $1,000,000. Villa is also reported to have ordered the confiscation of all large estates within his territory, whether owned by foreigners or natives.

FOUR CONVICTS ESCAPE FROM CENTRAL PRISON

TORONTO, Oct. 15. — Slashing a guard at the Central Prison over the head with a piece of gas pipe and leaving him unconscious, four men escaped from the prison yesterday afternoon and are still at liberty. Their names are Mulhall, Schwier, McLaughlin and Spence. The first three are "repenters," Mulhall having a bad record all over the province, Spence was serving his first term.

The plan of escape was devised by Mulhall. On the pretext that he wished to replace a pane of glass in the northeast tower he gained permission from the guard to ascend the ladder leading upwards to the top of the stone wall which surrounds the prison. He took glass and putty and mounted to the tower, which is situated on the top of the wall almost directly opposite the city stock yards. Then waiting until the guards was looking the other way he struck him over the head with a length of gas pipe covered with one thickness of canvass. The guard dropped his rifle and fell.

When they saw that the way of escape was open Schwier, Spence and McLaughlin, who were watching, made a dash for the wall. All four took the eighteen-foot drop from the wall to the cinder road running between the railway tracks and the prison. Mulhall carried the guard's rifle. The prisoners ran westward through the Parkdale freight yards, and lost themselves in the labyrinth of cars.

It was not until the guard had regained consciousness at three o'clock that the alarm was raised. Two attendants were immediately despatched to search for the prisoners. They traced the fugitives to the C. P. R. freight yards.

When the pursuing guards arrived, the C. P. R. officials remembered having seen the men whose clothes resemble laborers' jumpers. The guards telephoned from the C. P. R. freight office for assistance to the jail, and the search was maintained throughout the night.

TELEGRAPH BRIEFS.

A patrol of Cossacks, while hidden in a forest near Warsaw, brought down a Zeppelin airship by well-directed fire. The crew of the Zeppelin were saved.

The Paris Figaro announces that the harvest has been completed in the Champagne district despite the German gun fire, that the vines suffered very little.

Cases of cholera are multiplying rapidly in Galicia, Transylvania and North and East Hungary. The fear is expressed that the disease will prove a serious menace to military operations.

The Haytian Government forces were defeated by the rebels in a battle in the vicinity of Limonade, on the northern side of the island. The President of Hayti is reported to be retreating.

Despatches received here from Sofia, Bulgaria, and other points, report the appearance of the former German cruisers Breslau and Goeben, which fly the Turkish flag, in the Black Sea.

Advices from Berlin state that the German Emperor has approved the suggestion of the Archbishop of Cologne, to treat all captured French priests as officers, though they be serving as privates.

Details of the seizure by British cruisers of the American steamship Rio Pasig, and her detention at Hong Kong as a prize, show that the vessel was charged with endeavoring to supply German cruisers.

The Jones Philippine Bill, which declares the purpose of the United States to recognize the independence of the islands "as soon as a stable government can be established there," passed the House of Representatives yesterday by a vote of 211 to 59.

SHOULD BUY HERE.

Maisonneuve Mayor Thinks Britain Spends Too Much Abroad.

MONTREAL, Oct. 15.—On motion of Mayor A. Michaud, the Maisonneuve City Council yesterday passed a resolution protesting against the alleged action of the Imperial authorities, whom the council accused of sending orders to the United States for material which may be procured in Canada at prices which defy competition. A copy of the resolution will be forwarded to Ottawa and to the Imperial authorities in London.

Mayor Michaud referred to many of the local industries which had all but closed down as the result of the stagnation in the business world. This stress, the mayor said, could be relieved to a very great extent by the Imperial authorities giving Canadian companies a chance to supply the present requirements of the Home Government.

Bank Clerk Captured.

MONTREAL, Oct. 15.—After eluding officers of the law for more than a year, W. L. Wyatt, formerly collection clerk at the head office of the Molsons Bank, St. James street, Montreal, was brought to this city yesterday morning from San Jose, California, by Deputy Sheriff Hicks, of that place, and will face trial here on the charge of stealing $2,000 from the bank.

The charge against Wyatt is dated Sept. 13, 1913, when Wyatt left the city.

Force Goes After Maritz.

LONDON, Oct. 15. — According to late official reports from South Africa the rebellious commando under Col. Maritz numbers about 500 men, including a number of Germans who have joined him.

Gen. Botha, the South African Premier, has sent a strong force against Maritz, who has near Upinton a large number of German cannon, rifles, ammunition and stores.

Heavy Loss In Explosion.

LONDON, Oct. 13. — A hundred people were killed or injured in Lisbon, Portugal, Saturday night by an explosion at the Lisbon Gas Works, according to a despatch to Reuter's Telegram Co. from the Portuguese capital. The explosion caused a fire in which the staff of the gas works was trapped. Several tram car passengers and pedestrians were among the victims.

Spy With Indian Troops.

PARIS, Oct. 14.—Le Temps says the daring of German spies is again shown by the discovery of one of them disguised who joined the Indian troops when they left India and traveled with them to Marseilles, where he was detected and captured.

MARKET REPORTS

CHICAGO, Oct. 14.—Fresh activity and a revival of strength developed in wheat today, largely because of higher prices at Liverpool, and owing to a sensational drop in receipts at Winnipeg. The market closed strong at 1⅛c to 2¼c above last night. Corn gained ⅛c to ⅝c; oats ⅛c to ⅝c, and provisions 7½c to 25c.

TORONTO GRAIN MARKET.

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| Wheat, fall, bushel..... | $1 15 to $ | .... |
| Goose wheat, bushel.... | 1 10 | .... |
| Barley, bushel .......... | 0 67 | 0 68 |
| Peas, bushel ............ | 1 25 | .... |
| Oats, bushel ............ | 0 52 | .... |
| Rye, bushel ............ | 0 85 | .... |
| Buckwheat, bushel ..... | 0 75 | .... |

TORONTO DAIRY MARKET.

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| Butter, creamery, lb. sq.. | 0 29 | 0 31 |
| Butter, creamery, solids.. | 0 27 | 0 28 |
| Butter, separator, dairy. | 0 27 | 0 28 |
| Cheese, new, lb........... | 0 18 | .... |
| Eggs, new-laid ........... | 0 27 | 0 28 |
| Honey, new, lb............ | 0 11 | 0 12 |
| Honey, comb, dozen....... | 2 50 | 3 00 |

WINNIPEG GRAIN MARKET.

WINNIPEG, Oct. 14.—A strong tone in Liverpool caused a strong opening here, with fair cash demand, for all grades of wheat, oats and barley, but flax was not wanted. No. 1 flax sold for less than No. 1 northern wheat during the morning, something almost without precedent. Some 232,000 bushels of wheat were delivered on the option during the morning, mainly No. 2 northern.

The close for wheat was 1⅜c to 1⅝c up, and oats ⅛c higher.

Cash: Wheat—No. 1 northern, $1.12; No. 2 do., $1.05½; No. 3 do., $1.03¼; No. 4, 96¾c; No. 5, 92c; No. 6, 83¼c; feed, 84½c.

Winter wheat—No. 1 red, $1.11½; No. 2 red, $1.08¾; No. 3 do., $1.03¼.

Oats—No. 2 C.W., 54½c; No. 3 C.W., 50½c; extra No. 1 feed, 50½c; No. 1 feed, 48½c; No. 2 feed, 47½c.

Barley—No. 3, 68c; No. 4, 61c; rejected, 58½c; feed, 57c.

Flax—No. 1 N.W.C., $1.11¾; No. 2 C. W., $1.08¾.

MONTREAL GRAIN MARKET.

MONTREAL, Oct. 14.—There was a fairly good demand from overseas buyers for Manitoba spring wheat at an advance in prices of 3d to 6d per quarter, but owing to the further rise of 1½c to 1¾c per bushel in the Winnipeg market exporters claimed that the bids were all out of line.

In sympathy with another advance in prices for oats in Winnipeg of ¾c to 1¾c per bushel the local market was much stronger today and prices were marked up 1c to 1½c, but the demand for both local and country buyers continues quiet and the volume of business passing is small. Ontario and Quebec No. 2 white are selling at 53c and No. 3 at 52c ex store. There was no improvement in the demand for flour, and the market is quiet with a firm undertone.

The demand for millfeed is steady.

A fair amount of business is passing in butter and cheese at firm prices.

Eggs were fairly active.

Dressed hogs declined 25c.

MINNEAPOLIS GRAIN MARKET.

MINNEAPOLIS, Oct. 14.—Wheat—No. 1 hard, $1.12⅝; No. 1 northern, $1.09⅝ to $1.11⅝; No. 2 do., $1.06⅝ to $1.09⅝; December, $1.10¾.

Corn—No. 3 yellow, 67c to 68c.

Oats—No. 3 white, 43¾c to 44c.

Flour and bran unchanged.

DULUTH GRAIN MARKET.

DULUTH, Oct. 14.—Wheat—No. 1 northern, $1.12¾; No. 2 do., $1.08¾; December, $1.11¾.

CHEESE MARKETS.

MADOC, Ont., Oct. 14.—On the Madoc Cheese Board today, 325 boxes of cheese were boarded, and all were sold at 15 1-16c.

WOODSTOCK, Ont., Oct. 14.—On the cheese board, 1605 boxes of colored cheese were offered, with the highest bid 15c. No sales were made.

CATTLE MARKETS

UNION STOCK YARDS.

TORONTO, Oct. 14.—Receipts of live stock at the Union Yards were 1277 cattle, 1746 hogs, 1372 sheep and lambs and 352 calves.

Butchers' Cattle.

Choice cattle sold at $8 to $8.25; good butchers' sold at $7.75 to $8; medium at $7.25 to $7.60; common at $6.50 to $7; choice cows at $6.75 to $7; good cows at $6.25 to $6.50; medium cows at $5.75 to $6; canners and cutters at $3.50 to $4.50; bulls at $5 to $7.25.

Stockers and Feeders.

Prices for stockers and feeders were unchanged. Choice steers sold at $7 to $7.25; good steers at $6.50 to $6.75, and stockers at $5 to $6.25.

Milkers and Springers.

The supply of milkers and springers was not very large and values firm. Prices ranged from $65 to $110 each.

Veal Calves.

Choice calves sold at $10 to $10.50; good at $9 to $9.50; medium at $8 to $8.50; common at $7 to $7.50; inferior, rough, eastern calves, at $5.50 to $6.50.

Sheep and Lambs.

Receipts were fairly large, and good lambs were firm, but heavy, coarse lambs were slow sale. Sheep, ewes, sold at $5 to $6.25; heavy ewes at $3.50 to $4.50; culls and rams at $2.50 to $3; lambs at $7.30 to $7.90; culls at $6 to $6.50.

Hogs.

Liberal receipts caused the market to be easier, or at least slow sale. Selects fed and watered, $8.25 and $8.50 weighed off cars and $7.90 f.o.b. at country points.

MONTREAL LIVE STOCK.

MONTREAL, Oct. 14.—About 1000 head of butchers' cattle, 400 calves, 1000 sheep and lambs, and 1650 hogs were brought to the east end abattoir market for sale. There were no really prime beeves for sale and trade was dull with a decline of about ¼c per pound in cattle and ¼c per pound in hogs. Best cattle sold at 7½c and 7¾c per pound and from that down to 5½c per pound for pretty good animals. Common stock 4c to 5½c, and canners 3½c per pound.

Calves sold from 4½c to 8½c per pound. Sheep sold at from 4¾c to 5½c per pound, lambs 7c to 7¾c per pound. Good lots of hogs sold at 8¾c per pound off cars.

CHICAGO LIVE STOCK.

CHICAGO, Oct. 14.—Cattle—Receipts, 14,000; market, firm; beeves, $6.50 to $10.90; Texas steers, $6.10 to $9.10; stockers and feeders, $5.20 to $8.15; cows and heifers, $3.40 to $9; calves, $7.50 to $11.25.

Hogs—Receipts, 20,000; market, higher; light, $7.65 to $8.10; mixed, $7.25 to $8.20; heavy, $6.95 to $8.15; rough, $6.95 to $7.15; pigs, $4.50 to $7.70; bulk of sales, $7.30 to $7.90.

Sheep—Receipts, 42,000; market easy; native, $4.75 to $6; yearlings, $5.60 to $6.45; lambs, native, $6 to $8.

"Le Royal Canadien."

OTTAWA, Oct. 15.—The official authority to proceed with the organization of a French-Canadian Regiment, with headquarters in Montreal, was given yesterday morning at a meeting of the Militia Council, presided over by Hon. J. D. Hazen, acting Militia Minister. The regiment will be commanded by Col. F. M. Gaudet, who is given control of the organization, including the nomination of his officers. It will be called "Le Royal Canadien," if official sanction can be obtained, and will form part of Quebec's contingent.

CANADIANS AT PLYMOUTH.

Hon. George H. Perley Announces Safe Arrival of Troops.

OTTAWA, Oct. 15.—A brief cable was received by the Government yesterday afternoon from Hon. Geo. H. Perley, Acting High Commissioner in London, announcing the safe arrival yesterday at Plymouth of the Canadian troops.

No details were given in the cable, but the fact of the landing at Plymouth is taken here to mean that the Canadians will march straight to the training camp at Salisbury Plains. Previous detailed announcements as to the arrival of the Canadian troops at Southampton were unauthoritative, and, as events have shown, decidedly imaginative.

The trip across the Atlantic has taken practically two weeks, which is about the time expected by the officials here when the transports started. The landing of 32,000 Canadian troops in England takes place within two months from the time the mobilization orders went out from Ottawa.

So far as is known here there were no untoward circumstances connected with the trip across. Shortly after the transports started a few of the horses on some of the ships had to be shot in consequence of being hurt through stampeding in the close quarters in which they had to be confined.

A Canadian Associated Press despatch from London, received yesterday, was as follows:

The Canadian troops arrived today. Sir Edward Ward has been appointed to represent the War Office in all matters connected with the general comfort of colonial contingents, and in administrative action in connection therewith communications should be sent to Scotland House, New Scotland Yard, London.

50,000 Stretchers Ordered.

READING, Pa., Oct. 15.—The British Government has ordered 50,000 stretchers from a local firm, to be used by the Red Cross on the fighting line in France. They are to be delivered at the rate of 1,000 per week.

Smart Coat Styles

For Young Ladies

In our Ladies' Wear Department we are showing a variety of Coat Styles specially designed for young ladies of 14 to 20 years of age. These Coats are shown in all this season's most fashionable cloths, and are priced

From $5 00 to $18.50 each

Ladies' Satin Underskirts

From $1 to $4 each

Here's a range of Ladies' Underskirts that represent the Best Values we have ever offered.

These Underskirts are all made of Extra Quality of English Satins, in Black and all the New Fall Colors, including Blues, Greens, Tans, Browns, Slates, Cerise, Purples, Mauves, Tango, etc., to sell at

$1.00, $2.50, $3.00, $3.50 and $4.00 each

NEW STYLES IN DRESS SKIRTS.

The shorter coat styles as worn this season, has at once created a demand for Ladies' Dress Skirts, and here again the New Dress Skirt Styles appeal to every woman.

The New Tunic Styles and Combination Dress Materials are shown in great variety in our Skirt Department, to sell at every price from $5.00 to $11.50.

NEW WOOL PLAIDS and WOOL CHECKS

For Ladies' Early Autumn Wear.

For Ladies' and Misses' Suits, Coats, Dresses, Skirts and Waists, there is nothing newer or more stylish than the pretty Wool Goods we are showing in a great variety of weaves, including Serges, Zebilines, Broad Cloths, Tweeds, Blanket Cloths, etc., to sell at every price from 50c to $3 per yd.

Sinclair's Have you seen our LADIES' SUITS, "NORTHWAY MAKE," at $17.50. Sinclair's

BELLEVILLE BUSINESS DIRECTORY

The Professional Fraternity of our city will find an advertisement under this head an exceptionally advantageous investment, the returns hitherto obtained making the extremely moderate rates but normal. By consulting our price list in another column, or calling at The Intelligencer business office, full information may be obtained.

LEGAL.

WILLS & WRIGHT

Barristers, Solicitors, Notaries Public, etc. Office: 15 Campbell Street, Belleville. Money to loan at lowest rates.

J. FRANKLIN WILLS, K.C.
MALCOLM WRIGHT.

NORTHRUP & PONTON

Barristers, Solicitors, Notaries Public, Comissioners. Offices: North Bridge Street. Solicitors for the Merchants Bank of Canada and the Bank of Montreal. Money to loan on mortgages.

W. B. NORTHRUP, K.C., M.P.
W. N. PONTON K.C.
R. D. PONTON.

CLUTE & SHOREY

Barristers, Solicitors, Notaries, etc., Office: North side of Campbell Street, Belleville. Solicitors for the Dominion Bank. Money to loan on mortgages on easy terms.

A. X. CLUTE, LL.B.
W. D. M. SHOREY.

PORTER & CARNEW

Barristers and Notaries Public, etc. Office; Robertson Block, East Front St., Belleville, Ont.

E. GUSS PORTER, K.C., M.P.
WM. CARNEW.
Solicitors for Union Bank.

W. C. MIKEL, B.C.L., K.C.

Barristers, &c., 28 Bridge St., over G.N.W. Telegraph office.
Solicitor for Molsons Bank.
Phone 77.

MUSICAL.

Mrs. Wilmot

VOCAL INSTRUCTOR

Tone Production a speciality. Pupils conscientiously trained for Concert Work and Church Positions. Voices tested free of charge.

"THE STUDIO,"
S16,dtf BRIDGE ST.

HIGGS Miss Joy.
Violin Instruction.
Terms Moderate
"THE STUDIO," Bridge

WHEATLEY Professor.
Piano. Theory.
Vocal.
Modern Methods. Best Results
THE "STUDIO." Tel. 594

One day's pay is being contributed to the Patriotic Fund by all Edmonton's policemen

INSURANCE.

Liverpool & London & Globe Ins. Co.; North British & Mercantile Ins. Co.; Sun Fire; Waterloo Mutual; Lloyd's Plate Glass; Dominion of Canada Guarantee and Accident Insurance Co., and other companies.

Farm and City property insured in first-class and reliable companies and at lowest current rates. Land valuator and agent for selling, purchasing, or renting property. Rents collected.

W. H. HUDSON

Office: No. 17 Campbell St. Belleville. Phone 161

FARM INSURANCE

I have made arrangements with English Companies to insure Farm Dwellings and Barns and contents at from 75c. to $1.00 per $100.
Call and see me before renewing your insurance.

CHANCEY ASHLEY

Opposite Post Office. Belleville, Ont

THOS. STEWART

Bridge Street, Belleville.
Fire, Accident and Plate Glass Insurance effected in the oldest and most reliable companies.
REAL ESTATE AGENT
Stocks and bonds bought and sold.

R. H. KETCHESON

Agent for
Queen Fire Insurance Co.; York Fire Insurance Co.; Inter-State Live Stock Insurance.
Canadian Railway Accident Insurance Co

ROBERT BOGLE

MERCANTILE AGENCY.
Insurance, Real Estate, Loans Negotiated, Accountant, Auditor, Estates Managed
Office: 28 Bridge Street.

LAUNDRY.

QUINTE LAUNDRY

Work done by the Quinte Laundry is guaranteed to be satisfactory in every way.
Shirts, Collars and Cuffs our specialty
Family work done by the dozen.
W. R. VALLANCE .. .. .. .. .. Manager
Phone 338

BUS, AUTO AND CABS

ASELSTINE'S

BUS, CAB AND TRANSFER LINE.

Special cabs, broughams and carriages, all rubber tired; for weddings, private driving or funerals. The finest turnouts in town.

Office and stables, cor. Moira and Centre Streets. Tweed Stage in connection. Phone 223.

Advertise in The Intelligencer.

MEDICAL.

JOHN J. FARLEY, M.D., C.M.,

M.R.C.S., England.

Office and Residence: Corner of Bridge and George Streets; three streets east of the Post Office.

DR. J. CHANT

Specialist in Diseases of Eye, Ear, Nose and Throat, and Fitting of Glasses.
Office: Corner Queen and John Streets.
Phone 715.

MONEY.

Private money to loan on mortgages on farms and other real estate, at lowest rate of interest, on terms to suit borrowers.
Apply to

S. MASSON

Barrister, etc.
Over Wallbridge & Clarke's, Bridge St., Belleville

ENGINEERING.

J. D. EVANS, C.E. & O.L.S.
J. W. EVANS, C.E & M.E.

EVANS & EVANS

Civil and Mining Engineers,
and
Ontario Land Surveyors.
Belleville and Trenton.
Belleville Office: 185 Pinnacle Street, opposite market. Telephone 386.

AUCTIONEER.

J. L. PALMER

We specialise on City sales.
Terms Reasonable
Belleville Box 183 Ontario
LICENSED AUCTIONEER
for counties of Hastings, Prince Edward Northumberland, Lennox and Addington
Office: over Bell Telephone, opposite Post Office, Bridge St. Prompt attention.

MINING

BELLEVILLE ASSAY OFFICE.

Ores and minerals of all kinds tested and assayed. Samples sent by mail or express will receive prompt attention. All results guaranteed. Office and Laboratory, 185 Pinnacle St., opposite market. Telephone 386.

"COLLIP"

FLORIST

Night Phone 176. Day Phone 2[illegible]
All kinds of Cut Flowers and Plants in Season.
Wedding and Funeral designs specialty, shipped to all parts
Front Street.

High living doesn't help much toward the uplift of humanity.

GOOD CLOTHES NEWS

This House of Better Clothes is at your service with Fall and Winter Garments.

Our Suits and Overcoats will bring us crowds of Buyers, not because of what we say about them, but because of what they are. An Army of Men and Boys comes back to us season after season for their Outfitting.

Suits and Overcoats
$6, $8, $10, $12 to $25

They are our Every Day Values at Every Day Prices, and are guaranteed to be the lowest at which Good Clothes can be sold by anybody anywhere.

Lowndes Toronto

Quick & Robertson
THE BETTER VALUE STORE

Don't Think Your Eyesight

is good because you read the paper a yard from your eyes!

This is a sure sign that you have Presbyopia, and need Glasses to see clearly for close work.

Decide to-day to have me examine your eyes and prepare just the Lenses your eyes need to enable you to see without effort.

Alex. Ray
Eye Specialist

ARTHUR McGIE
Merchant Tailor

Our New Fall Stock of imported Suitings and Overcoatings now in stock in all latest designs.

You are invited to inspect our stock.

ARTHUR McGIE
208 Front Street

Coffee Ice Cream

COFFEE ICE CREAM makes a nice change, and we will have it on our menus for the balance of the week, or have a brick delivered to you.

Coffee and Walnut Bricks, 25c and 50c

Ed. F. Dickens & Son
Phone 170

A SAVING PROBLEM

GET THE
F. SANDERSON CO'S
GENUINE
SCRANTON
COAL
BELLEVILLE

Pure Clinkerless, Well Screened Coal.
"The coal of perfect satisfaction."
Office, 42 Bridge St. Phone 231a
Yard Office, S. Front St. Phone 231b

AT-HOME BALL, BANQUET, and Private Invitation Cards—new line—at The Intelligencer Job Dept. See these. Prices right.

Every man who is wedded to his ideal is more or less henpecked.

S. A. HYMAN & CO.

Established 1870. Maker of Fine Furs

Now Is The Time To Buy Furs

The economy of wise purchasing of Furs never presented to better advantage than this season.

The prices of all our Furs are Much the Lowest in Several Years.

Our Furs are made in our own Factory, thoroughly dependable and fully guaranteed.

We want prospective buyers to form their own opinion of our Furs. Comparison is the only saft test of value in every purchase a customer makes.

We can demonstrate to your entire satisfaction that it will pay you to BUY YOUR FURS HERE.

Ladies' Musk Rat Coats, finest quality skins, 52 inches long, with large double striped shawl collar, double striped cuffs and best satin lining. Regular price $95, now .......... $75

Fine quality Black Russian Wolf sets, Stole and Muff. Regular price $40 per set, now per set, .......... $27

S. A. Hyman & Co.
242 FRONT STREET

N.B.—Get our prices for Fur Repairs and Alterations, which are the Lowest.

At our Window.

The little ones enjoying the

BARLER "IDEAL" HEATER

$4.00, $5.00, $6.50

THE SMITH HARDWARE CO.
PLUMBING—HEATING
MOTOR CYCLES
· 314 FRONT ST. —— PHONE 204 ·

HAVE THE INTELLIGENCER
SENT TO YOUR HOME ADDRESS

IN AND ABOUT THE CITY

Condensed News Items for Busy Readers.

DOORS INSECURE

The front doors of a business place on Front and Bridge streets were last night found insecure by the police.

THROWING STONES

Shortly after 8 o'clock last night the police were called to Albert street, where it was alleged boys were amusing themselves by throwing stones at houses. The boys decamped before the officer arrived.

SHIPPING APPLES

The "Water Lily" unloaded about 400 barrels of apples at the C. P. R. wharf at Brockville yesterday. They were from Prince Edward County, and were consigned to different parties between Brockville and Ottawa on the line of the C.P.R.

FIRE DESTROYS A BARN

At a few minutes before 2 o'clock this morning the fire brigade was called out. A fire broke out in a frame barn on Mr. O. S. Latta's premises on North Front street, and was badly damaged before the blaze was extinguished. A cutter and other articles which were in the barn were destroyed. How the fire originated is not known. Mr. Latta owned the building and his loss is partially covered by insurance.

NOTICE

All accounts due the Hogan Burial Co. must be paid to their account in the Standard Bank, Belleville, on or before Monday, Oct. 26th, and accounts owed by them mailed to the undersigned with statement of account on or before that date when they will be paid in full.

Hogan Burial Co.
Mrs. F. L. Hogan,
15,d3t Atty.

LITTLE KINGSTON

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Nix were recently the guests of Mr. and Mrs MacIntyre, Trenton.

Mr. Whitton of Brighton, was in our neighborhood last week buying cattle, and succeeded in getting quite a number.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Clarke, Picton, visted Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Murphy recently.

Mr. and Mrs. James Anderson spent last week the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Carter, Wiggin's Point.

There was no school for a few days last week as our teacher, Miss Wright, was attending the Teachers' Convenion at Picton.

Mr. and Mrs. John Huffman of Bowerman's were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Murphy on Tuesday.

Mrs. D. Murphy and Mrs. Gilbert Murphy spent Saturday in Trenton.

Mr. Clayton Nix of Madoc, spent a few days with relatives here.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Mutton entertained friends from Bowmanville last week.

Mr. and Mrs. James Anderson spent Sunday with relatives at Belleville.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Mastin spent Thanksgiving at Belleville, the guests of Mr. and Mrs. E. Mastin.

Mrs. David May spent Tuesday in Trenton.

What Dyspeptics Should Eat

A PHYSICIAN'S ADVICE

"Indigestion and practically all forms of stomach trouble are, nine times out of ten, due to acidity; therefore stomach sufferers should, whenever possible, avoid eating food that is acid in its nature, or which by chemical action in the stomach develops acidity. Unfortunately, such a rule eliminates most foods which are pleasant to the taste as well as those which are rich in blood, flesh and nerve building properties. This is the reason why dyspeptics and stomach sufferers are usually so thin, emaciated and lacking in that vital energy which can only come from a well fed body. For the benefit of those sufferers who have been obliged to exclude from their diet all starchy, sweet or fatty food, and are trying to keep up a miserable existence on gluten products, I would suggest that you should try a good meal of any food or foods which you make like, in moderate amount, taking immediately afterwards a teaspoonful of bisurated magnesia in a little hot or cold water. This will neutralize any acid which may be present, or which may be formed, and instead of the usual feeling of uneasiness and fullness, you will find that your food agrees with you perfectly. Bisurated magnesia is doubtless the best food corrective and antacid known. It has no direct action on the stomach; but by neutralizing the acidity of the food contents, and thus removing the source of the acid irritation which inflames the delicate stomach lining it does more than could possibly be done by any drug or medicine. As a physician, I believe in the use of medicine whenever necessary, but I must admit that I cannot see the sense of dosing an inflamed and irritated stomach with drugs instead of getting rid of the acid—the cause of all the trouble. Get a little bisurated magnesia from your druggist, eat what you want at your next meal, take some of the bisurated magnesia as directed above and see if I'm not right."

Deseronto Notes

High School Tag-Day a Big Success.—Thanksgiving Visitors.—Society Doings

Miss Jessie Clement spent Thanksgiving with friends in Gananoque.

Miss Florence Philp of the High School staff, spent the holiday at her home in Listowel.

A very successful tea was given last Thursday under the auspices of the Ladies Guild of St. Marks church, at the home of Mrs. H. Aylesworth, Napanee Road.

Miss White spent the week-end at her home in Trenton.

Mr. S. Mitchell of Toronto, is visiting his parents.

Miss G. Clement spent Thanksgiving at her home here.

Harry Fraser is visiting relatives in Orillia.

Mr. and Mrs. Hall and the Misses Hall spent the week-end with friends in Wellington.

Mrs. Johnson of London, is here for a few weeks.

Mr. Frank Young, who is in Whitby, spent Thanksgiving with his family.

Mr. and Mrs. Thompson are spending a week in New York.

Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Richardson spent Thanksgiving with Mr. Fred Richardson, Toronto. Mrs. Richardson will remain for a few weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Johnson of Gananoque, were the guests of his parents over the holidays.

Mrs. Hull was in Trenton over the week-end.

Mrs. Hugh Thompson spent Thanksgiving with Kingston friends.

Mr. Weiss of Trenton was the guest of his sister, Mrs. Carter, over the holiday.

Mrs. Mark and son of Peterboro', are visiting at her mother's, Mrs. Sayler, Dundas street.

Miss Maud Gordon of Peterboro', was home for Thanksgiving.

Rev. Mr. Forster of Kingston, occupied the pulpit of the Anglican church last Sunday.

Mr. James, a former member of the local Bank of Montreal staff, was in town over Thanksgiving.

Mr. W. Stainton spent the holiday with his brother in Montreal.

Miss Grace Richardson was the guest of Napanee friends on Monday.

Mr. Rosenberg of Peterboro', was a Thanksgiving guest of friends in town.

Miss Lulu Van Vlack of Albert College, Belleville, spent the holiday with her parents.

Mr. Boswell of Kingston, was the guest of Mrs. D. Thompson on Thanksgiving.

Mr. Fred Frost of the Standard Bank, Belleville, was home for the week-end.

Mr. E. Rathbun of Toronto, spent the week-end with his mother.

The Misses Margaret and Mary Fields of Toronto, were Thanksgiving guests of their brother, Mr. Wm. Fields, Green street.

Mr. Wm. Baxter of the Standard Bank was in Toronto for Thanksgiving.

Mrs. G. Parnham is visiting friends in Tamworth.

Mr. Jack Gowan of Oshawa, spent the holiday at his home here.

Mr. Roy Wager has been engaged as school teacher at Brule's Lake.

Miss H. Edwards of Toronto, spent the week-end with her sister, Mrs. Franklin Brennan.

Miss Mulville of Kingston, is visiting her sister, Mrs. M. Meagher.

Mr. F. Johnson of Toronto, was the guest of his sister, Mrs. Earl Deltor, on Thanksgiving.

Miss Neta Windover of Napanee, is visiting Miss Grace Richardson.

Miss Gladys Thompson has taken a position in the telegraph office in Belleville.

Mr. Frank McMannus of Toronto, spent Thanksgiving with friends in town.

Mrs. W. Brant of Winnipeg, arrived in town this week to visit Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Record.

Miss Jennie Thompson of Picton, was home over the holiday.

Miss M. Cronk of Toronto, was the week-end guest of her parents.

Dr. Pasmore spent Thanksgiving with his son in Toronto.

Mr. Herert Gunyou of Sault Ste. Marie, is visiting his cousin, Mr. S. Hearnes.

Mr. Hoag of the Bank of Montreal staff, was in Trenon over the holiday.

Miss Nesbitt spent Thanksgiving at her home in Kingston.

R. R. 3, STIRLING

Mr. Harold Lindsay of Toronto, spent Thanksgiving with Miss A. Green.

Miss Gladys Tucker visited in Trenton over the holidays.

Miss Mary A. Morton of Gunter, is visiting her sister, Mrs. E. McMullen.

The anniversary services at Bethel were well attended both morning and evening, Mr. A. J. Terrill taking the pulpit.

The Thanksgiving tea given by the Ladies Aid of Bethel was a decided success.

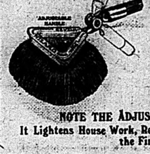
Miss Pearl DeMille of Toronto, spent the past week with relatives here.

Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Russell of Belleville, were the guests of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. Green, one day this week.

Mrs. Annie DeMille has returned to her home with her father, Mr. J. Coutts, after a few years' stay in Lakefield. We are glad to welcome her back again.

Men of strong character make enemies, but it doesn't follow that all men who make enemies are of strong character.

One kind of a cereal story is the rice thrown after the departing bride and bridegroom.



The Wizard Triangle
POLISH MOP

Saturday Only 98c

Gets in the corners

NOTE THE ADJUSTABLE HANDLE
It Lightens House Work, Removes Dust and Renews the Finish.

The John Lewis Co.
Limited

NOTICE

THE ADJOURNED ANNUAL MEETING of the shareholders of The Intelligencer Printing and Publishing House, Limited will be held at their office 227 Front St. Belleville, on THE 27th DAY OF OCTOBER, 1914 at the hour of five o'clock p.m.

MACKENZIE BOWELL
President
J. F. WILLS
Secretary

NOTICE

To my Customers and the Public in General: Everybody knows that all kinds of Fat Stock are bringing record prices at the present time; but I have not raised my prices. I buy direct from the farmer for cash so as to give my customers the middleman's profits. Read these prices:—

| | |
|---|---|
| Best Sirloin or Porter House Roasts or Steaks | 20c. lb. |
| Legs of Lamb | 20c. lb. |
| Lamb Chops | 20c. lb |
| Fore Quarters Lamb | 15c. lb. |
| Best Round Steak | 18c. lb. |
| Home made All Pork Sausages | 15c. lb. |
| Mixed Sausages | 10c. lb.; 3 lbs. for 25c. |
| Pure Home Rendered Lard | 18c. |

Choice Western Beef kept the year round.

GEO. I. THOMAS
377 Front Street. Phone 305.

ANNOUNCEMENT

Many of our customers have complimented us very highly, of late by asking how we account for the vast improvement in our bakery goods, and where we are getting all the new lines that Belleville never saw before, and to those who have inquired we have admitted the fact, but have not made it publicly known and we take this opportunity of explaining to one and all that we have secured the services of a new foreman baker, formerly of Detroit, but for the past five years has been in charge of Assuems' Bakery in Hamilton, which possibly you know is the high class Bakery of that city, and under these conditions we are now in position to give our customers everything in the baking line right up to the minute, and should you be anticipating a reception, a tea, or entertaining of any kind, we would be glad to explain some of our new fancy lines that we make only to order.

This improvement in our business has cost us considerable, as you can imagine, but we are determined to be second to none in the baking line and to give the people of Belleville what they are entitled to, "up-to-date goods."

tf ED. F. DICKENS & SON.

How's This?

We offer One Hundred Dollars Reward for any case of Catarrh that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure.

F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O.

We, the undersigned, have known F. J. Cheney for the last 15 years, and believe him perfectly honorable in all business transactions and financially able to carry out any obligations made by his firm.

NATIONAL BANK OF COMMERCE,
Toledo, O.

Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. Testimonials sent free. Price 75 cents per bottle. Sold by all Druggists.

Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

Cooling Beverages

Roy's Ale and Porter, O'Keefe's Special Mild Ale, Gold Label Ale, Lager and Stout; Carling's Ale and Porter, and Half and Half and Half; Dow's Ale and Porter; Dawe's Black Horse Ale; Molsons Ale and Porter; Regal Lager; Bass's Ale; Guinness Stout; Budweiser's Lager; Kegs of Ale, Lager and Porter.

W. A. RODBOURNE
Up-town Liquor Store
287 Front St. Phone
Orders delivered promptly to any part of the city.

All That's New
In Fall And Winter . . .
MILLINERY
Will be found at our store.
HATS for
Ladies, Girls and Children.
Moderate Prices
Miss M. Campbell

We are now showing our first importations, indicating the true trend of fashions for the approaching season in both Tailored and Dress Hats from the famous contouries of Paris.

McCrodan & Sills

BRIGHTEN UP
YOUR STOVES, STOVE PIPES, RADIATORS, Etc., with
The SHERWIN-WILLIAMS
Aluminum Paint
Looks better, lasts longest, goes farthest
25c tin
WATERS DRUG STORE

WHENEVER WHEREVER
YOU SEE THIS SIGN

SCRANTON COAL.
THE SCHUSTER CO.
LTD.

IT IS A SIGN OF GOOD COAL

We Never Sleep
The Hogan Burial Co.
Leading Undertakers
Our exclusive lines of caskets and several new additions in the line of our equipment make our parlors one of the most up-to-date in Canada. Open night and day.
Phone 774.
189 Front Street
Belleville

Better a burning kiss than an unburned love letter.

Laughing draws the corners of the mouth up; crying pulls them down.

Teachers of elocution can't do anything for the voice of conscience in most of us.

Don't have too little confidence in yourself or too much in others.

CLASSIFIED ADVERTISEMENTS

Advertisements under this head, 25 words or less, 25 cents for each insertion, and one cent for each additional word; 4 insertions 75 cents; 6 insertions, $1.00, invariably in advance. This rate applies to all except advertisements for Auction Sales, which will be published at two cents per word. Count 8 marks and 120 figures as one word each.

BUSINESS CHANCES

DO YOU NEED ADDITIONAL CAPITAL to commence or enlarge a business? If so, we will organize a Limited Company and procure such capital as required. Write or call. A. G. Robertson & Co., 156 King Street east, Toronto. dtf

WANTED

GENTLEMAN DESIRES BOARD & ROOM in refined home; vicinity West Bridge or Commercial streets preferred. Apply Box H. Intelligencer. o1012td

YOUR ORDERS FOR SILVER PLATING. Write for price list. Belleville Plating Works, 267 1-2 Front Street. o14-dim

TO-RENT

TWO SIX ROOMED DWELLINGS, CORNER Bridge and Dufferin Streets, and two five roomed flats and a two roomed flat. Apply Dr. Caldwell. o1-dtf

TWO FLATS, ONE THREE ROOMED AND one five roomed, all conveniences. Price moderate. Apply Miss Corbett, Front Street. o7-dtf

ROOMS. ALL MODERN CONVENIENCES. With or without meals. Apply 170 George Street. o8-6td

EIGHT ROOMED HOUSE WITH MODERN conveniences. Situated on Gordon St. Apply E. B. Sprague, 78 N Front St. 14-4td

ROOMS TO LET WITH OR WITHOUT board. Good locality. Modern conveniences. Apply Box E, Intelligencer Office. o14-4td

AGENTS WANTED

AGENTS WANTED — MONEY EASILY earned selling our Peerless Series of Personal Greeting Cards during your spare time. $10 to $20 per week easily earned in half an hour each evening. Our cards are the cheapest on the market. Book free. Write Toronto Greeting Card Co., 529 Pape Avenue, Toronto. o7-12td

J. L. R. GORMAN
REAL ESTATE AND INSURANCE
Office over Dominion Bank
Phones:
Office 603 Residence 534
We Specialize in City Property

More
Fresh
Confectionery
OUR OWN MAKE
Butter Scotch, - - 20c lb.
Humbugs, - - - - 20c „
Horehound Tablets, 20c „
Lemon Acid Drops, 30c „
Vanilla Cream Caramels, - - - 40c „
Salted Peanuts, - 5c pkg.
Chas. S. Clapp

BANK OF MONTREAL
Established 1817
Capital, all paid up . . $16,000,000
Rest . . . . . . . . . . . $16,000,000
SAVINGS BANK DEPARTMENT
Interest allowed on sums of $1.00 and upwards at current rates.
Banking hours, 10 to 3. Saturdays, 10 to 3.
R. TANNAHILL,
Manager Belleville Branch

LOST

BROWN FUR ROBE, GREEN LINING BEtween Belleville and Deseronto, on Sunday, Oct. 11th. Finder leave at Police Station, Belleville, and receive reward. o13-4td

FOR SALE

TWO NEW HOUSES FOR SALE OR TO rent; electric light, water and good cellar. Apply W. Smith, 33 Howard Street, near West Belleville Church. o10.4td

SECOND HAND NO. 3 DAISY HOT WATER boiler, 292 Front St., W. McGie. o15-6td

SMALL BLACK DRIVING HORSE; QUIET and sound in every way, also his buggy and harness, or will sell separately. Box O, Intelligencer. 15-2td

PERSONAL

DR. MARSHALL'S OFFICE REMOVED TO Angus McFee's Block, 216½ Front Street. a11:d&w2m

SYNOPSIS OF COAL MINING REGULATIONS

Coal mining rights of the Dominion, in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, the Yukon Territory, the North-West Territories and in a portion of the Province of British Columbia, may be leased for a term of twenty-one years at an annual rental of $1 an acre. Not more than 2,560 acres will be leased to one applicant.

Application for a lease must be made by the applicant in person to the Agent or Sub-Agent of the district in which the rights applied for are situated.

In surveyed territory the land must be described by sections, or legal sub-divisions of sections, and in unsurveyed territory the tract applied for shall be staked by the applicant himself.

Each application must be accompanied by a fee of $5 which will be refunded if the rights applied for are not available, but not otherwise. A royalty shall be paid on the merchantable output of the mine at the rate of five cents per ton.

The person operating the mine shall furnish the Agent with sworn returns accounting for the full quantity of merchantable coal mined and pay the royalty thereon. If the coal mining rights are not being operated, such returns should be furnished at least once a year.

The lease will include the coal mining rights only, but the lessee may be permitted to purchase whatever available surface rights may be considered necessary for the working of the mine at the rate of $10.00 an acre.

For full information application should be made to the Secretary of the Department of the Interior, Ottawa, or to any Agent or Sub-Agent of Dominion Lands.

W. W. CORY.
Deputy Minister of the Interior.

N. B.—Unauthorized publication of this advertisement will not be paid for.—30690 dtf

Let us Develope and Finish Your Films. We Know How.
The Belleville Pharmacy
The Kodak Store, Bridge St.

THE BOARD OF RAILWAY COMMISSIONERS FOR CANADA.

PUBLIC NOTICE is hereby given that the Campbellford, Lake Ontario and Western Railway Company will, after the expiration of four weeks from the date hereof or so soon thereafter as the Application can be heard, apply to the Board of Railway Commissioners for Canada, under the supervisions of Sections 221 and 225 of the Railway Act, for authority to construct, maintain and operate the Passing Sidings and Freight Sheds in the City of Belleville, in the County of Hastings and Province of Ontario, lying between the Westerly limit of the Moira River and the Easterly limit of the Bay Bridge Road in the said City of Belleville, as is shown in Red on the Plan, Profile and Book of Reference deposited in the Registry Office for the County of Hastings, in the City of Belleville, this 15th day of October, 1914.

Montreal.
E. W. BEATTY,
General Counsel.
o15-3td

COAL

The FOUR best to buy. D. L. & W. Scranton Coal; C. B. B. Pocahontas Coal; Butts Channel Coal; Beaver Charcoal. You can get them from Downey Coal Co

CLIP $5.00 THIS
ILLUSTRATED BIBLE
EDUCATIONAL CERTIFICATE
HISTORICAL DESCRIPTIVE
PRESENTED TO YOU BY THE
INTELLIGENCER, OCTOBER 15
ABRAHAM LINCOLN SAID: "NO LIBRARY IS COMPLETE WITHOUT TWO CERTAIN BOOKS—THE BIBLE AND SHAKESPEARE; HARDLY A QUOTATION USED IN LITERATURE THAT IS NOT TAKEN FROM ONE OF THESE WORKS."

The above Certificate with 5 others of consecutive dates
Entitles bearer to this $5.00 Illustrated Bible
If presented at the office of this newspaper, together with the stated amount that covers the necessary EXPENSE items of this great distribution—including clerk hire, cost of packing, checking, express from factory, etc., etc.

MAGNIFICENT ILLUSTRATED $5 Edition of the BIBLE (like illustration in announcements from day to day) is bound in full flexible limp leather, with overlapping covers and title stamped in gold, with numerous full-page plates in color from the world famous Tissot collection, together with six hundred superb pictures graphically illustrating and making plain the verse in the light of modern Biblical knowledge and research. The text conforms to the authorized edition, is self-pronouncing, with copious marginal references, maps and helps; printed on thin bible paper flat opening at all pages; beautiful, readable type. 6 Consecutive Free Certificates and the $1.18 Amount EXPENSE Items

The $3 ILLUSTRATED BIBLE is exactly the same as the $5 book, except in the style of binding, which is in silk cloth; contains all of the illustrations and maps. 6 consecutive free certificates and the 81c Amount EXPENSE Items

Also an Edition for Catholics
Through an exclusive arrangement, we have been most fortunate in securing the Catholic Bible, Douay Version, endorsed by Cardinal Gibbons and Archbishop (now Cardinal) Farley, as well as by the various Archbishops of the country. The illustrations consist of the full-page plates and maps approved by the Church, without the Tissot and text pictures. It will be distributed in the same bindings as the Protestant books and at the same Amount Expense Items, with the necessary Free Certificates.

Any Book by Mail, 23 Cents Extra for Postage.

An Opportunity
Anyone with a very small capital may build up a remunerative business for themselves by acting as our local representative. Exclusive territory. No experience required. You handle your own money. For particulars, address
Post Office Box 31, Toronto.

Make Good Use Of Those "Eye Gates"

MANY THINGS HEARD AND READ THAT ARE NOT APPRECIATED UNTIL SEEN

It has long been said that "seeing is believing." The ear is not to be depended upon. It could not be committed for heresy at any time. It cannot believe all it hears and on that account often takes the wrong side of the question. It is never quite sure of anything. But the eye sees and knows. It seldom errs. It is accurate. Its judgment is dependable. The things which make the depest impression on the mind are those that are seen; thing that pass to the mind through the "eye gate" are not soon forgotten, and the "eye gate" becomes the main channel of information.

The pioneer of all learning is the eye. Young and old alike ask questions about what they see. Publishers of modern literature take advantage of this and use illustrations, so that the main points of the story or the article may be impressed upon the minds of readers through the "eye gates" and thus be permanently established.

In selecting a Bible to present to its readers The Intelligencer found several that set up the clam of being illustrated, but, upon investigation, they were shown to merely contain "pictures" placed at random in the volume. In the illustrated Bible which we selected every illustration is in its place. Besides being in its place, it accurately and appropriately portrays the subject matter which it accompanies and makes clear—illuminates it—gives to it an added interest and an educational value. It matters not how many or what kind of Bible you may have in your home, the illustrations in The Intelligencer Bible give to it an individuality that at once makes it the only real reference book in any collection of Bibles.

The Illustrated Bible distributed by the Intelligencer is bound in genuine limp leather, stamped n gold, printed in large readable type on a fine quality of paper. It contains educational helps, maginal references, self-pronouncing text and colored maps. With the six hundred magnificent illustrations which were prepared for this work at an expense of $50,000, are also full-page plates from the world-famous Tissot collection, so it becomes a work of art not to be excelled.

For a short time The Intelligencer will distribute this grand educational work to its readers, and everybody in Belleville and vicinity should avail themselves of this rare opportunity. The educational certificate is printed elsewhere in to-day's issue. Clip it now, before you forget it.

BELLEVILLE HOME GUARD

An original poem, composed and written by W. James Savage, a member of the Home Guard, S. Stone St., Belleville, Ont.

O, haven't you heard
Of the Belleville Home Guard,
With Colonel Lazier in command.
The tramp of our feet,
As we march the street,
On our new asphalt pavement, is grand.

Now, we all cannot go,
To fight with the foe,
Where the roar of the cannon is heard,
So we'll show that we're trying,
To keep the flag flying,
By joining the Belleville Home Guard.

There are men in our town,
Who would rather go down,
To the pool-room, the show or the bar;
And squander his dimes,
In these troublesome times,
When he ought to be thinking of war.

There's the man who will laugh,
And throw out his chaff,
And say we are just a disgrace;
But, should the Germans step in,
You can bet he would grin,
On the opposite side of his face.

There's the dude with his girl,
And his moustache he'll twirl,
And don't know how to handle a gun,
If we had to retreat,
He'd make sure German meat,
Unless he was good on the run.

Now where would you look,
For protection; If took
By surprise by a German brigade,
Then the duty would fall
On the men, big and small
Of the Belleville Home Guard, I'm afraid.

We don't feel ashamed,
And we're not to be blamed,
Ife we make a mistake, now and then
There are some of us green,
But we'll let it be seen,
That we'll stick to old Belleville like men

For the least we can do,
Is to show that we're true,
To the land over which our flag flies,
For we don't want disgrace,
To be thrown in our face,
Should any emergency rise.

Now where would we be
If our, Land of the free
By the Emperor William were bossed.
We would long for the day,
To be laid neath the clay,
For the Freedom we love would be lost.

Now a few words for those,
Of our boys, ere I close,
Who are gone for Old England to fight
As they join hand in hand,
With the dear Motherland,
In her struggle for Freedom and right.

Let us say it aloud,
Of these boys we are proud,
And their praises let every one sing.
So, three cheers for the lads,
Who left mothers and dads
In old Belleville, to fight for their King.

Now just let me say
All who can't go away,
To the scene where the strife has been stirred
Just do your next best,
And throw out your chest,
And drill with the Belleville Home Guard.

THE RITCHIE COMPANY, LIMITED THE RITCHIE COMPANY LIMITED

29-in. Corduroy Velvets

That Would Sell In The Regular Way At 65c yd.
But We Have Secured a Special Lot to Sell At 39c

We were indeed fortunate in having secured this fine lot of Corduroy Velvets, especially at this season when they have been decreed by Dame Fashion as one of the leading materials for this and the coming Winter season. The latest and most popular shades are represented, such as Green, Light and Dark Browns, Alice, Copenhagen, White, Terra Cotta, Navy, Scarlet and Purple, every piece 29 inches wide and would be considered splendid value at 65c. a yard, but we have marked them at this extremely low figure in order that you as well as ourselves may benefit by this special purchase. They are now displayed in our show windows and at the Dress Goods Counter, plainly ticketed at .................... 39c

SEE THEM IN THE CENTRE WINDOW.

New Arrivals in Ladies' and Misses' Novelty Neckwear

Many pretty pieces of neckwear are now on display at the neckwear counter, just in from the large style centres. The selection includes Collars and sets in Organdies, Embroidered Soft Linen, Organdie Vests and Lace Collars all in the latest styles now being worn. Priced at—

25c to $1.00

Ladies' and Misses' Serge Dresses, $5.00

Splendid ladies' and misses' serge dresses in navy and Copenhagen, made of extra good material in attractive styles, plain skirt, and trimmed on cuffs and around collar with fancy braid. Sizes 14, 16, 18 and 36. All this season's, to sell at .................... $5.00

Ladies' and Misses Corset Covers, 25c

Made of good quality white cotton, trimmed with wide lace and insertion, with pink baby ribbon running through beading at neck. Sizes 34 to 44, on sale at .................... 25c

Ladies' Print Wrappers, $1.19

With high neck and long sleeves, made of good quality fast color dark grey prints in attractive styles. Sizes 34 to 44. On sale at .................... $1.19

Splendid Value in Black Moire-Underskirts At $1.35

Made of good soft Moire in large roomy sizes with wide tucked frill at bottom; skirt buttoned at side and good tape tie string. Sizes 38, 40 and 42. Excellent value at .......... $1.35

Same skirts made in O. S. sizes at ... $1.50

Ladies' and Misses' Raincoats, $4.95

They are a splendid garment, made of rubberized poplin with belt and storm cuffs, reinforced buttons and two pockets. They close well up under the neck and come in black, fawn, grey and navy shades. Sizes 14 to 44. Special ........ $4.95

Heptonnette Rain Coats.

We are also showing a large stock of these celebrated raincoats in the new styles and latest materials at—

$5.00 to $15.00

Children's Fall and Winter Dresses

AT $1.25—Made of good quality wrapperette, in black and white check, neat French styles with belt and two box pleats down front and back, piped nicely with cardinal shades; sizes 2, 3 and 4 years. Special garment at .................... $1.25

AT $2.25—SERGE DRESSES in French styles, extra good quality materials, neatly piped with contrasting colors. They are in shades of navy piped with cardinal and cardinal piped with black and white check. Ages 2, 3, 4 and 5 years, priced at .................... $2.25

AT $3.00. BEAUTIFUL SERGE DRESSES in very attractive styles, for ages 4, 5, 6 and 8 years. They are neatly piped and trimmed with black and white check, the shades being navy, cardinal and Copenhagen. Priced at .................... $3.00

Others up to .................... $5.75

FURNITURE UPHOLSTERING

We make a specialty of furniture upholstering, and if you will call phone 451a we will send a man and giev you an estimate on your needs.

The Ritchie Company Limited

Correction

The following corrections are necessary in the report of the Woman's Christian Association:

The following ladies are Vice Presidents: 1st Vice President, Mrs. J. C. Moynes; 2nd, Mrs. John Downey; 3rd, Mrs. R. J. Bell.

The Dorcas Committee, which has a membership of 21, met every week during the past winter at the residence of Mrs. Thos. Ritchie and made up several articles for the poor of the city, besides some uniforms for the Hospital. Material was also given to those who could sew for themselves.

Their Treasurer's' report is as follows:

| | |
|---|---|
| Oct. 21st, 1913, cash on hand .. | $ 3 79 |
| Received from the W. C. A. Treasurer .................. | 10 00 |
| Donation from Mrs. Corby ..... | 5 00 |
| Total . . .................... | $18 79 |
| Expenditure . . ............... | 11 59 |
| Balance . . .................. | $ 7 20 |

The country now faces the gloomy prospect of having to buy new school geographies and histories.

BLOOD ON MONEY CLUE FOR ARREST

TORONTO Oct. 14—Thomas Brooks 81 Crawford street, a driver for the Canadian Oil Company, was last night found lying unconscious in the company's yard at the foot of Strachan avenue by the night watchman. An examination showed that Brooks has been brutally assaulted by some persons whose motive has been robbery. The man's money pouch was missing. He is at the General Hospital and is still unconscious. His condition is regarded as serious.

Harry Wilson, no home, was later arrested in a hotel near the scene of the assault. The man had several blood-stained bills in his possession.

HON. MR. COCHRANE RETURNS FROM TRIP

OTTAWA, Oct. 14.—Hon. Frank Cochrane, Minister of Railways and Canals, arrived back in Ottawa this morning after a trip of inspection over the Transcontinental Railway from Quebec west to Superior Junction, thence over the G. T. P. to Port Arthur and east over the C. N. R. to Sudbury. These sections of the N. T. R. and the C.N.R. have just been completed. The question of when the Transcontinental will be taken over by the G. T. P. will be dealt with at an early date.

WIFE USES RAZOR ON SELF

Fort William Woman Has Small Chance of Recovery.

FORT WILLIAM, Ont., Oct. 14.—W. H. Evans, wife of a prominent Fort William insurance and real estate agent, attempted to commit suicide shortly before six o'clock Tuesday afternoon by cutting her throat from ear to ear with a razor. She was taken to the hospital, where her chances for recovery are said to be slight. She had been an invalid for a good many months and it is thought despondency prompted the deed.

CITY AND VICINITY

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTHWEST LAND REGULATIONS.

The sole head of a family, or an male over 18 years old, may homestead a quarter-section of available Dominion land in Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta. Applicant must appear in person at the Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-Agency for the District. Entry by proxy may be made at any Dominion Lands Agency (but not Sub-Agency) on certain conditions.

Duties—Six months residence upon and cultivation of the land in each of three years. A homesteader may live within nine miles of his homestead on a farm of at least 80 acres, on certain conditions. A habitable house is required except where residence is performed in the vicinity.

In certain districts a homesteader in good standing may pre-empt a quarter-section alongside his homestead. Price $3.00 per acre.

Duties—Six months residence in each of three years after earning homestead patent; also 50 acres extra cultivation. Preemption patent may be obtained as soon as homestead patent, on certain conditions.

A settler who has exhausted his homestead right may take a purchased homestead in certain districts. Price $3.00 per acre. Duties—Must reside six months in each of three years, cultivate 50 acres and erect a house worth $300.

The area of cultivation is subject to reduction in case of rough, scrubby or stony land. Live stock may be substituted for cultivation under certain conditions.

W. W. CORY, C.M.G.,
Deputy of the Minister of the Interior.

N.B.—Unauthorized publication of this advertisement will not be paid for.—64388

PURSUANT to Section 191 of the Railway Act Notice is hereby given that a certified copy of Plan, Profile and Book of Reference referred to in Order No. 22525 of the Board of Railway Commissioners for Canada was, together with duplicate original of said Order and certified copy of Application on which said Order is issued, deposited in the Registry Office for the County of Hastings, in the City of Belleville, this 13th day of October, 1914.

THE said Plan shows and said Order refers to certain lands situated in the City of Belleville, and are authorized to be expropriated by the Campbellford, Lake Ontario and Western Railway Company, for the purpose of a team yard at Belleville, as aforesaid.

DATED in Montreal this 9th day of October, 1914.

E. W. BEATTY,
General Counsel.
o13,3td.

Smoked Hams (8 to 10 lbs. each) 18c. a lb., and Smoked Side Bacon 18c. a lb., whole or half, while they last, at Davies. 1t

Keep date open for the Fowl Supper, and Dr. James L. Hughes' lecture, in Holloway St. Methodist Church on Monday, Oct. 26. Tea from 5.30 p.m. to 8 p.m. 14,3t

DANCING.
Academy, Alberta Hall.
Mr. and Mrs. Johnstone's Select Social Classes are held every Monday and Thursday Evening, 8.30 to 11. Private tuition given daily and at any hour by appointment. Phone 750.

NOTICE.
On Thursday Evening, Oct. 22, a Select Social Dance will be held in aid of the Red Cross Fund, 8.30 to 12. Usual Admission. wt Finnan Haddies 12 1-2c. a lb., Ciscoes, 16c. a lb., Haddie Fillets 16c. a lb.. Kippers 10c. a pair, and Cod Fish 11c. per 1 lb. block, at Davies to-morrow.

DEATHS.

BACKUS—In Belleville on Thursday, October 15th, 1914, Mary Ann Backus, relict of the late Mr. Geo. Backus, aged 71 years.

The funeral will take place from the residence of her daughter, Mrs. Edwin T. Austin, 81 Cedar Street, on Saturday, 17th inst., at 3.30 p.m., to Christ Church. Interment in family plot, Belleville cemetery.

CADMAN—In Belleville on Thursday, October 15th, 1914, Sarah S. Cadman, aged 74 years.

The funeral will take place from her late residence, No. 12 Everett Street, on Saturday, 17th inst., at 2 o'clock. Interment, Belleville cemetery.

STORM SASH AND DOORS
Made to your order, any Shape or Size
SAVE YOUR COAL BILLS
The Holton Lumber Co. Limited
EVERYTHING IN LUMBER
Phones 112-1197
Offices 1 Bride St. W; Water St.

The Daily Intelligencer.

Established 1858
FURNITURE & UNDERTAKING
TICKELL & SONS CO
SPECIAL — AT COST
49 VERANDAH CHAIRS

LET THERE BE HARMONY IN THINGS ESSENTIAL—LIBERALTY IN THINGS NOT-ESSENTIAL—CHARITY IN ALL.

Vol. 48 BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO, FRIDAY, OCTOBER 16, 1914. No. 136

ATTEMPT TO PLANT FLAG AT CALAIS FOILED

Enemy Were Met by Masked British Guns Which Mowed Down Hundreds—French Aviators Destroyed a Taube—Germans Hoped to Strike "Another Blow at British Prestige", But Failed

LONDON, Oct. 15.—The following despatch from its correspondent at Calais is published in the London Chronicle:

"The position on the left wing, which is now by far the most important section of the gigantic battle line, grows day by day more satisfactory from every point of view. The Germans have been pushed back as far as (censored), where they are entrenching and it appears that in this particular part of the war area they will make an endeavor to hold the line between Blankendurghe, Bruges and Courtral. There can now be little doubt that it was their intention to make a dash on Calais, a move which was timed to be coincident with the taking of Antwerp. They intended to score a second "blow at English prestige" by planting the German flag within sight of the shores of Breat Britain. They advanced in considerable force on Harzebrouck, Montcassel and St. Omer. Our guns, however, were advantageously placed on an eminence at Montcassel and almost before the enemy were aware of the serious nature of the opposition they were meeting with, the Allies were working most serious havoc on the oncoming German ranks.

"A considerable force of Germans advanced and while well forward were amazed at being met by the raking side-fire from the trenches on their right, which they had not noticed. The execution was deadly, and the enemy fell back with many hundreds killed and wounded and in some disorder. The advantage gained was followed up during the two following days, the result being that the German front in that region was thrown back over the Belgium border. The Germans were undoubtedly taken by surprise.

"French airmen performed a smart feat in the neighborhood of St. Omer. A German aeroplane carrying two men appeared over a little town, where it dropped a number of bombs. These killed three people and injured six others, besides blowing up a house. Five French aeroplanes started in pursuit, and quickly managed to get in close quarters with the Taube. A well-aimed shot from one of the men on the French aeroplane struck the mechanic of the German aeroplane on the head, killing him instantly. The machine swerved but the pilot managed to right it, and on he went at full speed. A few seconds later, however, a little volley rang out from his pursuer's rifles, and the pilot shared the fate of his companions. The machine which was travelling at a height of 900 or 1,000 yards, fell down like a stone to the ground."

The Paris Liberte gives details, gathered from returned officers, of the most recent fighting around Roye, which shows that the French are finally masters of this most desperately contested point.

"On reaching Roye, just reaking it for at least the twelth time," says one officer, "we received orders to make a night march on Erucheu, where the enemy were reported in some strength Toward dawn we reached the goal and waited in utmost silence.

"At 6 a.m. we received the order to fire, and took the enemy completely by surprise, who were unable to rally under the devasting storm of our shells. They broke and fled in disorder.

"At 8 o'clock the white flag appeared. One thousand horsemen and a whole battalion of infantry were made prisoners, besides much material, with a field and telephonic outfit."

Thanks Holland For Hospitality

Queen of Netherlands Sent Food and Clothing for Antwerp Refugees

THE HAGUE, Oct. 15.—"Holland has opened her arms to the unhappy people who have sought shelter within her borders with an enthusiasm which has been unshaken in accordance with her Queen's fine phrase," says a note written to the Dutch foreign minister by Baron Faillon, the Belgian minister.

"Owing to the siege, bombardment and burning of Antwerp, and the destruction of the neighoring communes, mary of the Belgian population were forced to seek refuge. Foreseeing this the Belgian Government asked the Dutch Cabinet at the Hague if it would consent to harboring the refugees.

"Yous Excellency replied that your Government would do all that was possible to aid the unhappy people of my country. I have received instructions warmly to thank the Netherlands for the promptitude with which it received the inhabitants of Antwerp. The Queen of Holland, always first to help the unhappy, sent food and clothing. All Belgians are deeply touched and are grateful for the kindness of their neighbors on the north."

THANKING OPPORTUNITY

Even the self-made man has to thank his opportunities.

His success is due to his ability to do the right thing at the right time.

Opportunity comes knocking every day — it is always seeking the man.

Every advertisement in to-day's Intelligencer is a message of advantage to some one.

It is a tender of goods or service, perhaps of property or employment.

Each message is full of cheer and hope and inspiration.

Read the advertising to-day —read it every day. Be on the job when opportunity calls.

ENCOURAGING PASSAGE

Rev. A. L. Geen, of this city, this morning received the following cablegram from his daughter, who left with the Canadian contingent as a nurse:

Received at Belleville, Oct. 16.
Cable 5 N F 6.
Plymouth.
Geen,
Belleville.
Good voyage; well.
Geen.

ANTWERP VICTIMS OCCUPY CANADIAN MASONS' HOSPITAL

LONDON, Oct. 15.—Surgeon-General Whitehead, in command of the Eastern District on behalf of the War Office yesterday inspected the Queen's Canadian Military Hospital. The House is placed at the disposal of the Canadian War Contingent Association by Sir Arthur Markham Liberal M.P. for the Mansfield district of Nottinghamshire.

The Anglo-Canadian community headed by the Hon. G. H. Perley and Sir Thomas Skinner has raised $85,000 for the equipment, of which $5,000 is a first contribution.

The Canada Masons' Lodge has sixty beds now fully occupied, chiefly by wounded from Antwerp. The staff is entirely Canadian, viz: Sir William Osler, physician-in-chief; Donald Armour, surgeon-in-chief; Doctor Fraser and Wallace, assistants, Miss MacMalyn, head nurse; and the Misses Boyce, Pyke, Mitchell, Squire, Willey, Woke, Keating, Broderick, Jackson and Meinnes.

Lady Markham presented a complete X-ray outfit and herself remains to superintend the commissariat.

The Hon. G. H. Perley's association also is arranging, with the aid of the Young Men's Christian Association, eight of whose officers are Canadian, to provide recreation and other comforts for the Canadian contingent.

Capt. John Leader, from British Columbia, is now on headquarters staff at the War Office.

CAPTAIN E. D. O'FLYNN

who with the other Belleville boys yesterday disembarked on the historic shores of Devonshire, made immortal by Drake, to undergo final training for service at the front. Just as Lieut. R. D. Ponton, his comrade in active service, is universally known as "Dick," so Alderman E. D. O'Flynn is universally known as "Eddie." Mr. and Mrs. F. E. O'Flynn like the fathers and mothers of the rest of the boys, have cause to be proud of their son. To the two gallant officers and the men Belleville sends greetings.

"Better lo'ed ye canna be,
Will ye no' come back again?"

Made-In-Canada Dies Are To Be Manufactured

MONTREAL, Oct 15.—One important feature in connection with Germany is that Canadian manufactured goods are going to get a boom that will bring much trade to this land and consequently a considerable amount of additional employment to the workers.

At the present time industrial companies in this and other lands are hard pressed to get the dyes that they require for the conducting of their several businesses. The manufacture of this important product in the street has been almost entirely confined to Germany and since the importation was stopped by the outbreak of war those who use dyes in the cotton, woolen, silk and other factories have been trying substitutes to replace the German imported stuff which they cannot now obtain.

The substitutes have not, however, been very successful, but it is learned that a dye, "Made in Canada" which will in every respect come up in quality to that previously imported if not even surpass it will shortly be placed on the market, and it will also have the additional recommendation that it will be manufactured entirely from Canadian products.

Dr. G. F Conde, who five years ago set out to convert Titanium into high class steel, but who was compelled on account of the new process requiring tremendous capital and also owing to the outbreak of war temporarily to suspend the manufacture of this steel in great quantities was asked some time ago by several large companies to discover a process of dye made from native products.

It was learned on interviewing the doctor that so far he has had great success in his experiments and hopes within the next few days to finish a few of the most urgently required colors. These will be applicable in all the requirements of the manufacturers of cotton, silk, woollen, leather and other industries, and will take the place of the dyes until recently imported from Germany. It is also expected that when the developments are complete the industrial companies of Canada will in the near future manufacture, right here in our own domonion what they have been importing from Germany in the past.

Dr. Conde is also working on a material for railway companies that will be of great advantage to them in timber treatment and will be the means of prolonging the life of cross ties.

Father O'Farrell Killed at Frankford

KINGSTON, Oct. 15.—A telephone message reached the Archbishop's Palace shortly before 4 o'clock this afternoon stating that Rev. Father O'Farrell, parish priest of Frankford, was killed in an automobile accident one mile from that village this afternoon.

Father O'Farrell is well known in this city, having been attached to the staff of the Archbishop's Palace about three years ago.

Will Drill Men Who Volunteer

Training School for Drill and Musketry Decided on by Senate

KINGSTON, Oct. 15.—Queen's University will establish a school to give preliminary training in drill and musketry to those students who will volunteer for it. A committee appointed by the Senate and composed of Principal Gordon and Dean Cappon was instructed to confer with other Canadian colleges and the Militia Department of Ottawa regarding the possibility of organizing a unit of Canadian University men to go on overseas service preferrably at the end of the Canadian Universities' winter session. Prof. Campbell of Queen's was appointed for the classes in drilling and musketry.

ITALY DECIDES TO REMAIN NEUTRAL

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15.—The Italian government's policy in regard to the European war was made plain by Ambassador Macchi di Cellere today, when he stated that Italy would not take up arms unless she was forced to do so by some evert act which threatens her own safety.

Although officially a member of the Triple Alliance, and bound by this agreement with Germany and Austria-Hungary for purposes of mutual protection, the ambassador declared that his country had no intention of endangering its neutrality by yielding to the influence of any outside powers to take sides in the conflict.

This attitude of positive neutrality, Mr. di Cellere continued, which was supported by the present ministry, in all probability would continue to be upheld even in case of minor changes in the government. This assertion was made in answer to inquiries as to the possible effect of the appointment of a successor to the Marquis di San Giuliano, minister of foreign affairs, who is reported to be seriously ill.

The ambassador explained that the reported troop movements in his country were in no way in the nature of offence. The return of the colonials from Tripoli, he stated, was merely part of a previously contemplated plan for two years' volunteer service in the colonies. The present class having served its required period, is now returning to Italy for discharge.

Widow Seeking $10,000 Damages

Her Husbsnd Was Killed by a Radial Car at York Mills

TORONTO, Oct. 15.—The circumstances surrounding the killing of Alfred James by a York Radial car at York Mills last January occupied the attention of Mr. Justice Britton and a jury in the Assize Court this morning. The widow, Mrs. Mary A. James and other relatives are suing the Radial Railway Company for $10,000 damages claiming that the car was travelling at too high rate of speed and that the brakes were defective. The defence is that proper care was not exercised by the deceased. James was a fish dealer and was driving along in his cart when struck by the car. Many witnesses were examined and the case continued this afternoon.

INDUSTRIAL OUTLOOK GOOD FOR ST. JOHN

ST. JOHN, N.B., Oct. 16.—(Special)—Much optism prevails in St. John at the announcement that St. John is to be made the depot for the shipment of horses, which means that there will be a considerable demand for labor and forage in connection with that branch of the business. Also the outlook for the steamship business during the winter appears to be good, and should give plenty of employment, and create an active daimand for supplies. The Exhibition Association has placed its live stock sheds, with their well equipped stalls at the call of the British War Office. It is assumed that there will be a large trade in grain and other products throughout the winter, and probably the imports will be on a larger scale than was anticipated at the beginning of the war, as the embargo has been lifted on considerable number of products of the Old Country, and Canadian merchants should be able to get much of the supplies as usual, plus the additional cost due to war risks and insurance. A report from Portland, Maine, says that no Canadian grain will be shipped through that port this winter. If this report is true, it will mean more business for the St. John grain elevators. The St. John Valley Railway from Gagetown through Fredericton and Woodstock to Centerville, will be ready in a few weeks to be handed over to the Intercolonial Railway for operation as a part of the government railway system.

GERMANS MAY ATTEMPT TO INVADE ENGLAND

Kaiser's Navy Not Expected To Longer Remain Inert—View Of Times Fxpert—Enemy Likely To Make Effort To Land Troops On British Coast

LONDON, Oct. 16.—Special—The Times military expert in his article to-day discusses the possibility of a German attempt to invade England, and calls upon Great Britain to be prepared for such an emergency, and not rely too much on the shield of the navy.

"Now that the war is reaching the climax of its violence," he says, "we must anticipate that all the forces of Germany will be thrown into the conflict, and that the German navy will no longer remain inert. We must expect to be attacked at home, and must not rest under any comforting illusions, but look the situation calmly in the face.

"From the soldiers' point of view, the naval defence of the British Isles presents difficulties which not even the preponderance of ships can with absolute assurance overcome. The length of our coasts, the absence of our best troops oversea, the want of a national army which is still only forming, the menace of the submarine, which keeps our grand fleet often far from the ultimately decisive point; the Zeppelins, mines and other war conditions more or less novel throw upon Admiral Jellicoe a burden of responsibility which must not be underrated."

The expert contends that Germany while acknowledging the uncertainty of success in such an undertaking, will probably hope to keep the British navy engaged by the German ships while transports, escorted by a few of the older warships, slip across and make a landing in England under the protection of mines, submarines and vessels sunk in a fairway.

"There is ample shipping in the German ports for the embarkation of a quarter of a million men," the expert continues. "From the evidence we have had of the calmness with which German generals sacrifice life to attain objects, we can be sure that the loss of fifty thousand men in transit would be considered a cheap price to pay for the landing of the remainder of the force in England."

The writer argues that Germany is well able to spare troops for the attempt, and although the odds are against its success, the adventure may be tried. He urges the Government to announce promptly the measures they propose to take, and to instruct the public how to act in case of such an emergency. He also suggests the appointment of a commander-in-chief and warns the people against indulging in a false sense of security.

MAY ASK RESIGNATION

KINGSTON, Oct. 16.—Special—At a meeting of St. George's Cathedral wardens there was a discussion upon the request recently made for the resignation of Dean G. L. Starr, who is now taking an active part in military matters in England. The matter was left in the hands of the bishops of Ontario and Kingston to decide. The outcome of it is expected to be that bishops will call for Dean Starr's resignation or his immediate return to his duties as rector of St. George's.

Nothing jolts a liar more than to have another chap beat him at his own game.

BRITISH FORCES ARE IN STRONG POSITION

Giving The Invaders More Than They Can Stand—Opinion Is That France Will Soon Be Free Of The Invaders

(Canadian Press Specials Exclusively to The Intelligencer.)

A special correspondent in the north of France says the scene of the battle continues to shift, and that is very satisfactory.

Where the main British force is I know, but I shall not say. The public may have confidence that it is in the best position to give a grand account of itself in carrying out the work of the General Staff, which, it is hoped, will soon rid France of the invader.

The new great battle is on a north and south line, which is not straight, because the Germans are sorely pressed from different quarters, and have had to concede ground after desperate fighting, and, consequently, are occupying irregular positions through country which they would not voluntarily choose and which may prove dangerous to them.

The jagged line is continuelly, though slowly, going farther northward.

The forces of the allies are pressing everywhere, and there seems solid reason for stating that we shall not have to wait long for the result of the new battle.

The Germans have no position like the line of the Aisne to defend, and there will be no long drawn duel between heavy artillery.

The German line of communication is threatened, and Von Kluk at this moment has more anxieties than Sir John French and General Joffre.

The heavy fighting I described last week was followed by further conflicts in the same region. The troops were desperately engaged, but the result was uniformly the same: the enemy had to yield the positions.

THESEUS ESCAPES GERMAN SUBMARINE

LONDON, Oct. 16.—The Admiralty has given out the following announcement:

"His Majesty's ship Theseus, Captin Hugh Edwards, was attacked by a submarine in the northern waters of the North Sea yesterday afternoon, but was missed. His Majesty's ship Hawke, Captain H. M. Williams, was attacked about the same time and sunk.

"The following officers, with 49 men of the crew, have been landed at Aberdeen from a trawler: Boatswain Sydney Austin, Gunner James Dennis, Acting Gunner Harry Evit. The remaining officers and men are missing.

"Further particulars will be published as soon as available. The Hawke was a cruiser built in 1889."

Our idea of a smart young man is one who succeeds in taming his wild oats.

FRENCH HAVE RETAKEN MUELHAUSEN

A despatch from Basle, via Rome, states that the French have re-taken Muelhausen and Altkirch. The Germans were compelled to use one hundred and fifty motor cars to carry off their wounded.

A despatch from The Hague says the first Chamber has passed a bill providing for a second war credit of $20,000,000.

EXTEND FROM YPRES TO SEA

PARIS, Oct. 16.—The War Office made an official announcement this afternoon as follows:

"The progress indicated in the communication of yesterday has been confirmed. On our left wing the field of action of the Allied forces extends at the present time from the region of Ypres to the sea."

BRITISH CRUISER SUNK IN NORTH SEA

LONDON, Oct. 16.—The British cruiser Hawk, has been sunk in the North Sea by a German submarine. Fifty out of a crew of four hundred were saved. The statement is officially confirmed.

The Hawk was of 7,350 tons displacement. She was a sister ship of the Edgar, Theseus and Gibraltar, and was launched 23 years ago.

ALLIED FORCES IN THE CHANNEL

LONDON, Oct. 16.—A Paris despatch last night said official announcements reported continued progress all along the lines.

Great activity is reported in the Channel. It is stated that the Allied fleet off Heligoland has been divided, part remaining in the Channel off Dunkirk, and part going to Portuguese waters. This would indicate that there is no fear of a cross-Channel attack by the Germans.

A CABLEGRAM FROM A BELLEVILLE BOY

The following has been received by Col. W. N. Ponton, and speaks for itself:

G. N. W. CABLEGRAM.
Received at Belleville, Oct. 15, cable.
31 N F 15.
Devonport, Devonshire, England;
Colonel Ponton,
Belleville, Ont.
All safe - sound - well - happy - notify all - final destination not known.
Richard Ponton.
5.28 p.m.

There are times when every man is a deep-dyed villian in his thoughts.

HOT ANTI-GERMAN SPEECH IN UNITED STATES CONGRESS

Representative Garden Tears President Wilson's Neutrality Declaration to Shreds, Denounces Germany, Says She Will be Defeated and Declares Americans Must Awaken to Danger

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15—President Wilson's neutrality proclamation was torn to shreds in the House today when Representative Gardner of Massachusetts flayed the Germans, and expressed the opinion that God would visit defeat upon them.

"It is true that with respect to the present European war my views are not those of a neutral," said Gardner. "I am entirely convinced that the German cause is unholy, and moreover a menace to the principles of democracy. Furthermore, I believe the God of Battles will visit defeat upon the Germans.

"But no matter which side wins we must remember that since the beginning of time victorious nations have proved headstrong and high-handed. We must begin at once to reorganize our military strength if we expect to be able to resist high-handedness when the day of necessity comes."

Stating his opinion that the United States is totally unprepared for any kind of war, he asserted that the effect of the vast sums of money spent by Carnegie in his peace propaganda had been to blind Americans to the fact that our national security from a military point of view is underrated.

Representative Gardner also introduced a resolution providing for a commission of nine to investigate the preparedness of the United States for war, either offensive or defensive. The commission would consist of three Senators, three Representatives and three other persons to be appointed by the President.

"I simply cannot understand," said Gardner, "how any intelligent student of history can fail to see that we are impotent to defend ourselves and to enforce the Monroe Doctrine by moral suasion and financial might alone. The time has not yet come when the United States can afford to allow the martial spirit of her sons to be destroyed and all the Carnegie millions in the world [illegible] those of [illegible] believe that bullets cannot [illegible] with bombast nor powder [illegible] with platitudes."

Friday & Saturday Specials

AT

Wm. McIntosh & Co.'s.

Sweater Coats, all kinds and all colors—
Children's sizes from .................... 50c. up.
Men's and Women's .................... $1.25 up.
Ladies' Underwear, natural and white, 50c.; for .... 25c. garment
Special sale of Worsted Hose, all sizes, ............... 25c. pair
Flannelette Blankets, grey and white .............. $1.25 a pair
Wool Blankets, special ........................ $2.25 and $3.25
English Flannelettes, colors fast; special ........ 8c., 10c., 12½c.
Children's Fall Coats, white bear cloth, blue nap cloth, Teddy Bear cloth.
All nice range of Girls' dresses in blue serges and checked cloths; nicely made and trimmed, all at sale prices.
Men's Underwear, fleece lined, Merino, Scotch wool and natural wool, selling from ............................ 50c. a garment
Gloves on sale, Mitts, Braces, Toques, Scarfs. Special sale of wool socks. See them ................................. 15c. pair
Boy's Underwear, special sale ..................... 25c. garment
Tinware, China, Baskets, Graniteware, Soaps, all at low prices.
Horse Rugs and Blankets, the best makes all on sale.

WM. McINTOSH & CO.

Library Tables

A Library Table for your living room will show up well with the other furnishings, besides being a very convenient and necessary article in your home.

Tables in Golden and Fumed Oak, etc., in Period and other designs to match the furniture you already have, or a complete suit if you are furnishing all your living room or den.

THE THOMPSON FURNITURE Co.
UNDERTAKERS
Phones: Day, 62; Night, 295.

CHARGE OF TREASON AGAINST TICKET AGENT

Accused of Aiding Austrain Reservists to Return Home To Fight

OTTAWA, Oct. 16.—(Special.)—The first charge of treason to be instituted against any person in Canada since the days of Louis Riel is to be taken against Israel Schafer, ticket agent, of Montreal. Schafer is charged with having aided and abetted Austrian reservists to return home to fight against the allies. The action has been instituted by the Department of Justice, and the penalty, if the evidence warrants it, is the rope and gallows. Schafer becomes liable from the fact that he is a British subject. He was found selling tickets to Austrians, whom he advised to declare themselves Roumanians. Fourteen such were arrested to-day in the Grand Trunk station, and Schafer was placed in custody.

---

Better one boil on the stove than two on the neck.

---

The older a girl is the easier it is for her to forget her birthday anniversaries.

IF QUALITY COUNTS GET IT AT McKEOWN'S

The Rexall Store

McKEOWN'S DRUGS

TO SAVE MONEY GET IT AT McKEOWN'S

REMARKABLE SAVINGS FOR SATURDAY SHOPPERS

Quality and Low Prices have built up our business. Always remember we lead in all the newest and up-to-date articles to be found in a drug store. IF IT'S ADVERTISED, WE HAVE IT.

EXTRA SPECIAL

A glass Sanitary Tooth Brush Holder FREE with a purchase of any of our regular guaranteed 25c. Tooth Brushes.

FREE

A 10c. cake of Infants' Delight Soap FREE with the purchase of a 25c. tin of Rexall Talcum Powder.

EXTRA SPECIAL

A large 10c. Wash Cloth FREE with the purchase of 2 cakes of Harmony Glycerine Soap for 25c.

Patent Medicines

| | |
|---|---|
| $1 Syrup Hypophosphites | 49c. |
| $1 Beef, Iron & Wine | 49c. |
| $1 Wine of Cod Liver Oil | 50c. |
| $1 Scott's Emulsion | 75c. |
| $1 Pinkham's Compound | 75c. |
| 50c. Scott's Emulsion | 40c. |
| 60c. Chase's Syrup | 49c. |
| 25c. Chase's Syrup | 17c. |
| 25c. Syrup White Pine 2 for | 23c. |
| 25c. Fluid Magnesia | 17c. |
| 25c. Abbey's Salt | 20c. |
| 25c. Bromo Seltzer | 20c. |
| 10c. Bromo Seltzer | 7c. |
| $1 Burdock Blood Bitters | 69c. |
| 50c. Zam-Buk Ointment | 38c. |
| 25c. Mentholatum | 18c. |
| 25c. Perfect Worm Powders | 17c. |
| 60c. Chase's Ointment | 45c. |
| 50c. Lithia Tablets | 35c. |
| 25c. Baby's Own Tablets | 16c. |
| 25c. Carter's Pills | 15c. |
| 25c. Chase's Pills | 16c. |
| 25c. Hamilton's Pills | 18c. |

50c lb.

Saturday Candy

29c

(Fresh to-day)

Extra Specials

| | |
|---|---|
| $1 Rubber Gloves | 49c. |
| 25c. Dressing Combs | 19c. |
| $1 Hair Brushes | 47c. |
| 35c. box French Toilet Soap | 25c. |
| 75c. oz. Rose Leaves Perfume | 49c. |
| 2 lbs. Genuine Castile Soap | 20c. |
| 25c. Winter Cream | 17c. |
| $1.50 Hot Water Bottle | 79c. |
| $1.25 Fountain Syringes | 69c. |
| 75c. Shaving Brushes | 49c. |
| 25c. Almond Cream | 17c. |
| 35c Hudnut's Cold Cream | 25c |
| 40c. Whisks | 25c. |

Patent Medicines

| | |
|---|---|
| 50c. Williams' Pink Pills | 35c. |
| 25c. Nerviline | 17c. |
| 25c. Thomas' Electric Oil | 15c. |
| 25c. Pain Killer | 18c. |
| 50c. Dodds' Pills | 35c. |
| 50c. Chase's Nerve Food | 35c. |
| 50c. Gin Pills | 25c. |
| 50c. Fruitatives | 34c. |
| 100 Blaud's Iron Pills | 12c. |
| 50c. Parisian Sage | 39c. |
| 50c. Florida Water | 40c. |
| 25c. Witch Hazel | 17c. |
| $1 Hay's Hair Health | 75c. |
| $1 Herpicide | 69c. |
| 50c. Sage and Sulphur | 40c. |
| 25c. Hydrogen Peroxide | 15c. |
| 40c. Hydrogen Peroxide | 25c. |
| 75c. Hydrogen Peroxide | 50c. |

Special

25c Bottles.
Essence of Vanilla
17 cents

Cigar Specials

4 FOR 25c.

La Preferencia, Irvings, Maritanas, Japs, Colonials, Sir William.

5 FOR 25c.

Grey Horse, Official Seal, Garcias, Clear Havanas.

GOLD FISH FREE

Two Gold Fish, Globe and Plant given away FREE with the purchase of a 25c. box of Rexall Stomach and Liver Pills; Rexall Cold Tablets; Rexall Little Liver Pills, and Weeks' Laxative Wafers.

Stationery Specials

| | |
|---|---|
| 35c. lb. Cascade Linen paper | 25c. |
| 50c. boxes Paper and Envelopes | 29c. |
| 25c. boxes Paper and Envelopes | 19c. |
| 25c. Writing Tablets | 19c. |
| 10c. Envelopes | 5c. |
| 15c. Writing Tablets 2 for | 15c |
| 5c. Lead Pencils 2 for | 5c. |

Shackleton says:

"The question of the concentrated beef supply is most important—it must be Bovril."

Shackleton knows. He is taking no risks. He chooses Bovril because the food he takes must yield every ounce of nourishment to his men.

Follow Shackleton's example. Into a single bottle of Bovril is packed the nourishment value of many pounds of beef, and even a plain meal yields much more strength and nourishment if you are taking Bovril. But remember Shackleton's words: It must be Bovril.

Of all Stores, etc., at 1-oz. 25c.; 2-oz. 40c.; 4-oz. 70c.; 8-oz. $1.30; 16-oz. $2.25. Bovril Cordial, large, $1.25; 5 oz. 40c. 16-oz. Johnston's Fluid Beef (Vimbos) $1.20.

S. H. B.

IN AND ABOUT THE CITY

Condensed News Items For Busy Readers.

THE PRECEPTORY ENTERTAINS

The Sir Knights of King Baldwin Preceptory A. F. & A. M. entertained a visiting delegation of eighteen officers and members of Moore Preceptory from Peterborough and Campbellford last night, at the Masonic Hall. After the conferring of Degrees by the visitors a banquet was enjoyed by all, presided over by Right Eminent Sir Knight Colonel S. S. Lazier, with Right Eminent Sir Knight Hall, another veteran, by his side. Speeches by Fratres Goodwill and Cotton, Major Medd, Colonel Ponton, Dr. Free and Dr. Bonnycastle, and songs by Frater Stocker filled a delightful and profitable evening.

EXCEPTIONAL BARGAINS at Ritchie's to-morrow night between 7 and 9.30. See to-morrow's paper for further details.

DEATH ROLL

CADMAN—In Belleville on Thursday, October 15th, 1912, Sarah S. Cadman, aged 74 years.

The funeral will take place from her late residence, No. 12 Everett Street, on Saturday, 17th inst., at 2 o'clock. Interment, Belleville cemetery.

Read Hyman's Special Price Advertisement on Page 7.

It takes a woman to jolly a man into a condition that will enable her to work him.

---

After a young man rings a girl's doorbell about so often it's up to him to ring her finger.

German Troops Improperly Fed

Compelled to Subsist on Raw Vegetables for Days--Sickness is Increasing

BERLIN, via Rome, Oct. 16.—Special—The highways of Belgium are impassable owing to the effects of the heavy war traffic, combined with frequent rains. All local resources of the German troops have been exhausted, and for this reason supplies from the bases are reaching the front irregularly, and after great delay. Occasionally the troops are without food for two days, and are compelled to subsist on raw vegetables. Sickness is increasing, and there is also an increase in the mortality among the troops from this cause. The organization of the commissariat, which was originally admirable, is now inefficient. The problem of feeding two million men is most difficult, especially as the horses and automobiles necessary for the supply columns are lacking.

CANADA'S UNREADINESS WARNING FOR FUTURE

General Sir William Otter Uneasy Over Military Situation

TORONTO, Oct. 16.—(Special.)—Speaking on "The Duty of Canadians to Home and Motherland," at the Riverdale Business Men's Association meeting last night, General Sir William Otter said that the recent mobilization of the Canadian contingent was an example of the unreadiness of Canada for military defence. It took twelve weeks before a contingent of 30,000 men could be made fit to be entrusted with even the elementary work of a campaign, while the British army was struggling to hold its own. There had been the reflection cast upon the contingent that had just arrived in England that only 30 per cent. were British-born.

"If Canada does not rouse herself and her young men do not prepare themselves there is trouble in the future," said Sir William. "I cannot see how any Canadian can stand idle and not be roused to a spirit of pugnacity, if only in defence, at the sight of the intense struggle that the motherland is maintaining for liberty in Europe. In Britain we are not aiding an ally, we are aiding ourselves, for we are one in blood and ideals with the motherland."

Second Contingent Will be Welcomed

Militia Department Ready With a Complete Plan of Mobilization--Message From Wemyss

OTTAWA, Oct. 16.—(Special.)—A cond message dealing with the arrival of the Canadian contingent at Plymouth reached the Government to-day in a cable-gram to Hon. J. D. Hazen, Minister of Naval Affairs and Acting Minister of Militia, from Read-Admiral Wemyss, under whose command the fleet of transports crossed the ocean in safety. This message describes the division as having arrived in good condition, but gives no additional details of the trip. The department gathers from the text of Admiral Wemyss' cable that all the transports carrying the Canadians are now at Plymouth, the big fleet liners and warships having kept well together during the journey.

Final arrangements for the organization of the second contingent are now in progress by correspondence between the Government here and the War Office. It is learned that the offer of this contingent was a very welcome one, and that steps will be taken to equip it for every need disclosed by the fighting which has taken place hitherto. Col. Sam Hughes, Minister of Militia, is due in London, where he will discuss with the War Office a number of details of importance in connection with the raising and equipping of the second Canadian division. The Militia Department is ready with a complete plan of mobilization which will go into effect as soon as the details now under considerations are disposed of.

MYSTERY OF A CRIME IN GRAN HAN SOLVED

Girl Brutally Assaulted Indentifies Suicide as Her Assailant

ST. CATHARINES, Oct. [illegible]—Special—While nothing has yet been learned concerning R. Knight, whose body was found in the lock-up at Niagara-on-the-Lake yesterday morning after he had committed suicide, the affair has succeeded in solving the mystery surrounding a brutal criminal assault committed upon a thirteen-year-old girl in Grantham township more than five weeks ago.

The victim of that crime went to Niagara last night and, without any hesitation, identified the body of the suicide as that of her assailant. The county police for several days scoured the vicinity for trace of the man answering the description of the one wanted. An inquest upon Knight's body was opened, and adjourned until Monday. The post-mortem shows that he swallowed a quantity of arsenic.

HEAVY CANNONADING HEARD IN BLACK SEA

More Stories Current Regarding Former Cruisers Goeben and Breslau

LONDON, Oct. 16.—(Special.)—A despatch to the Exchange Telegraph Company from Bucharest, coming by way of Rome says:

"Heavy cannonading has been heard the past day off Kustendje (in Roumania, on the Black Sea). It is believed that the former German cruisers Goeben and Breslau, which now fly the Turkish flag, and which yesterday undertook to escort from Sulina (an arm of the Danube traversing the district of Dobrudja, Roumania) several transports laden with munitions have either attacked or been attacked by the Russian fleet."

Athens newspapers assert that the Russian fleet in the Black Sea has seized two German steamers loaded with cereals, bound from Galatz for Kustendje, Roumania.

CANADIANS ARE LANDED

Contingent Gets an Enthusiastic Reception in Plymouth.

Great Flotilla of Steamers Crowds Harbor at English Port and Strathcona Horse Are First to Land — Advance Guard Have Probably Reached Salisbury Plain By Now.

PLYMOUTH, Oct. 16.—(Via London.)—The Canadians received a debarkation order from the War Office unexpectedly last evening. Despite the rain crowds of people turned out to watch the landing and entraining of the troops, which began with a contingent of Strathcona's Horse.

The various contingents were headed through the streets by their bands and pipes. Owing to the difficulty of berthing the transports, in consequence of the neap tide, the debarkation of the Canadians is expected to be slow.

Extensive preparations have been made for the Canadians on Salisbury Plain. The first contingents are believed to have reached there during last night. The movements of the troops have been conducted during the night time in order to avoid delays to other railway traffic.

Plymouth is agog with excitement over the landing of Canadian troops. Right up in the estuary transports are steadily discharging their cargoes amidst scenes of the keenest enthusiasm. The surprise in this famous port was unbounded when the transports suddenly came into this harbor. From south to north the eye travelled up the Hamoze following what seemed an almost unending line of masts and funnels until it faded away in the dim light of the higher waters before taking a turn for Saltash bridge.

It was an unprecedented sight, one indeed without parallel in the history of the great western port. Never before has there been such an assemblage of this class of ship in these waters, and it was altogether a most inspiring scene. The rigging and decks of the ships were masses of khaki-clad figures and the company of each ship appeared in the happiest of spirits. Little steamboats, dwarfed almost into insignificance beside these great leviathans, passed in every direction, and added to the din of welcome with sirens and hooters.

As the small passenger steamers passed, those on board waved and cheered to the smiling faces high up above them and acknowledged the greeting in true British fashion. One of the ships had on board some of the kiltie regiments, and as each of the ships passed along the skirl of the bagpipes came over the water and was cheered to the echo by the inhabitants of the three towns. Folk only were allowed to see them at a distance, for much to the disappointment of the public, none of the Canadians was allowed freedom ashore.

Military necessities render it impossible to say anything concerning the many matters upon which the Canadian public will be eager for.

The voyage to England was a delightful one, and on every transport there was maintained the same eagerness and fine spirit which were shown on the days before sailing.

It is understood that there is a clean bill of health, but many horses have died on the voyage.

The task of disembarking such immense numbers of men and material is naturally a tremendous one, but the arrangements are working with complete smoothness.

Strathcona's Horse came in for a gratifying reception. They could be distinguished by a special banner displayed on the liner's bridge.

THE DOW ALES AND PORTERS ARE THE BEST

FOR SALE AT YOUR LEADING LIQUOR STORES

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

Mrs. L. C. Smith and Miss Olive, of Oshawa, are the guests of Mrs. Nicholson, 72 Geddes street.

See Ritchie's SATURDAY NIGHT BARGAIN LIST in to-morrow's paper, page 8.

INTELLIGENCER NIGHT LETTER BOX

Our friends will find a letter box in The Intelligencer Front Door for the reception of news items after the office closing hours. The box will be emptied each morning

2,000 Cavalry Swam the Lys

Daring Feat of French Cuirassiers Won Position for Allies--Out-Witted Enemy's Forces

PARIS, Oct. 16.—(Special.)—Infantry and cavalry, after a period of comparative inactivity, have been doing more fighting during the last few days than for several weeks.

Two thousand French cuirassiers have distinguished themselves by a daring feat in swimming the River Lys, where it flows deep and swift. They completely outwitted the Germans, who were awiting them on the other side with machine guns and heavy artillery.

The French horsemen made a long detour during the night. One man swam the river with a rope; then dragged over a cable which he attached to a tree. The others, holding to the rope, crossed singly with their horses through the swirling waters.

Arrived on the opposite bank, the French drew up in line and charged the German flank at Merville, driving the Germans back and opening the way for the passage over the river of a division of allied infantry, who later occupied Estaires.

WAR OFFICE ORDERS COMING TO CANADA

Representations Made to British Government by Hon. G. H. Perley

LONDON, Oct. 16.—Special—Complaints made since the war began that the War Office was placing orders with firms in the United States instead of in Canada will probably be heard no more, for, thanks to the energetic representations made by Hon. G. H. Perley and others, there should be no repetition of this in the case of commodities which Canada is in a position to furnish. Large orders for war material and military supplies are now being placed in Canada by both the British and the French Governments. An officer of the Ontario Government reported today that the Admiralty was expending $500,000 through the Ontario Government for a supply of evaporated apples for the use of the fleet.

ACCIDENTALLY SHOT BUT BODY MISSING

Boys Say They Heard the Shot but Have Been Unable to Find Spot

NORTH BAY, Oct. 16.—Special—Frank Flannagan, aged about 21 years, son of Richard Flannagan, of Sturgeon Falls, accidentally shot himself yesterday while hunting in the vicinity of Sandy Falls. Two lads were out with him and heard him cry out in alarm following the report of the gun shot, but when they reached him life was extinct. The lads at once left to give the alarm, but when the people of the neighborhood went with the boys to find the body they were unable to do so. Parties of friends are still out looking for the remains. He was an exemplary young man and deep regret is expressed over the sad ending of his life. He was an employe of the Spanish Pulp and Paper Co.

THE WEATHER.

Strong, easterly winds, showery today and on Saturday, with fair intervals.

Try Our
DOUGHNUTS
FRIED CAKE
and
ALL KINDS OF PASTRY
Jas. Wallace & Co.

It Will Pay You To Buy The Best In Jewelry

You will always find here prices which are exceptionally fair and moderate. The new original designs constantly being added to our stock enable purchasers to choose from a practically unlimited field.

When looking for a gift, it would be best simply to come in, walk through the store and let the various articles tell their own stories.

Angus McFee
Jeweler. Optician.
The Store with the Big Clock.

Wallbridge & Clarke's Delicious Coffee
Best in Quality
Best in Value

Neilson's Chocolates
Fresh Supplies
"Aristocratic", "Demonstrator", "Classic", "Empress", "Every Piece Different", "Cream Dipped Brazils", "De Lux,", etc, etc.

Wallbridge & Clarke
Established 1871

We Serve

This is the Season of the year you need Electricity to pass the long evenings in comfort.

If Your House
Isn't Wired
DO IT NOW

The Trenton Electric and Water Company
Limited
Oswald H. Scott. Local Mgr.

One day's pay is being contributed to the Patriotic Fund by all Edmonton's policemen

---

Men of strong character make enemies, but it doesn't follow that all men who make enemies are of strong character.

THE NEW STORE
SATURDAY SPECIALS

20 pieces Taffeta Ribbon, regular price 20c. yard. On sale at .......... 15c. yard
3 dozen Sateen Underskirts, all new shades, worth 90c. On sale at .......... 59c. each
4 dozen Overall Aprons, regular price 65c.; On sale at .......... 50c.
2 dozen Tailored Blouses, regular price $1.25; on sale at .......... 69c.
5 dozen Ribbed Cashmere Hose, double knee, heel and toe, pair .......... 25c.
25 pairs Flannelette Blankets .......... $1.25 pair
3 dozen Pillow Shams and Runners, hemstitched, worth 40c.; on sale at .......... 25c. each
10 dozen Men's Sox, regular price 20c. pair; on sale 2 pairs for .......... 25c.
3 dozen sample Handbags, worth $1.25 to $1.75; no two alike; on sale at .......... 59c. each

WIMS & CO.
NEXT DOOR TO GEEN'S. 282 FRONT STREET

J. T. DELANEY
FURRIER
Furs Made To Order
Repairing, Remodelling and Relining.
Also have in stock made up Furs at Reasonable Prices.
236½ Front St. Phone 797
(Over Blackburn's Jewellery Store)

Ruptures Cured

By Chiropractic are permanent cures. The truth of this statement can be proven by the success I have had with others.

Dr. B. G. HAHN
Chiropractor
42½ Bridge St. Phone 758

INTELLIGENCER
NIGHT LETTER BOX

Our friends will find a letter box in The Intelligencer Front Door for the reception of news items after the office closing hours. The box will be emptied each morning.

Don't have too little confidence in yourself or too much in others.

COSTLY ENTERTAINMENT

Enormous Sums Spent to Impress Khedive of Egypt on a Jaunt

The Khedive's tour through the Delta recently showed in a remarkable manner the wealth of the landowner in the provinces of the Nile. In many places private individuals decorated the roads over which the Khedive motored for distances of several miles. Coffee was served in cups worth $3,000; the chair in which the Khedive sat during brief visits to country houses had in many cases cost from $500 to $1,000.

One pasha who entertained the Khedive for half an hour is alleged to have spent $50,000 on the preparations, while another borrowed cannon from the Egyptian army and fired a salute as his Highness arrived. In many places the crowds were so great that the Khedival motor car was unable to proceed. Frequently the peasants kissed the car to demonstrate their loyalty.

Altogether the Delta had not witnessed such celebrations for a generation, since the time of Ismail.

A remarkable story, which excels in dramatic interest at least almost everything published this winter. It is more than a merely thrilling story—it is a deeply pychological study, to which attaches a more than temporary interest.—Book News Monthly.

COMMENCING IN THE INTELLIGENCER, SATURDAY OCT. 17TH.

There is a splendid list of SATURDAY NIGHT BARGAINS at Ritchie's to-morrow night. See to-morrow's paper, page 8.

If ignorance were bliss, most of us would be so happy we would choke.

To Keep Our Workers Busy

For nearly half a century the standard price and the higher character of Gerhard Heintzman Pianos have been rigidly maintained. Nothing would induce us to lower the quality or the reputation that these pianos have earned. But these are strenuous times, and necessitate stern measures.

Profit Sacrificed to Keep Wheels Turning

We are reducing the price of Gerhard Heintzman Pianos to the point where profit vanishes, solely in order that the enormous business that will result will enable us to keep the hundreds of employees in our factories at work. The skilled workmen who build represent an almost unique organization. If work stopped this organization would drift apart; and, aside from the misery and suffering entailed in non-employment, we would be confronted with the enormous task of rebuilding an organization capable of upholding our standards. Rather would we sacrifice all profit now.

GERHARD HEINTZMAN PIANOS

You Reap the Advantage

Never was a better time to purchase a really high-class instrument. Those who found the price of the Gerhard Heintzman Piano the only obstacle to its possession now have that obstacle removed. Buy your Piano now-save money—help hundreds of families.

Gerhard Heintzman, Limited

J. A. Goodsell & Co.,
316-318 FRONT STREET

SPECIAL SHOE VALUES FOR MEN
$5.00 Shoes
For $3.48
Come here for Fall Shoes. The weather is cool, and comfort demands them. We are placing on sale for quick clearance
300 Pairs Men's $5.00 Shoes for $3.48
All sizes, and up to the minute in style, including GUN METAL, TAN, and PATENT BUTTONED or BLUCHERS, while they last, all one price, $3.48
ADAMS, The Shoeman
Next Door to Sinclair's
PHONE 495

Men Fight On Their Stomachs. Napoleon so said. A man with a weak stomach is pretty sure to be a poor fighter. It is difficult—almost impossible—for anyone, man or woman, if digestion is poor, to succeed in business or socially—or to enjoy life. In tablet or liquid form helps weak stomachs to strong, healthy action—helps them to digest the food that makes the good, rich, red blood which nourishes the entire body.

Dr. Pierce's
Golden Medical Discovery

This vegetable remedy, to a great extent, puts the liver into activity—oils the machinery of the human system so that those who spend their working hours at the desk, behind the counter, or in the home are rejuvenated into vigorous health.

Has brought relief to many thousands every year for over forty years. It can relieve you and doubtless restore to you your former health and strength. At least you owe it to yourself to give it a trial. Sold by Medicine Dealers or send 50c for trial box of Tablets—Dr. Pierce's Invalids' Hotel & Surgical Institute, Buffalo, N.Y.

You can have Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser of 1008 Pages for 31c.

ABLE ADDRESS TO THE CANADIAN CLUB

Professor Shortt of Ottawa Holds the Interested Attention of Members in Local Y. M. C. A.--The War Situation as it Affects Commerce and Industry in Canada Discussed

"The War Situation as it Affects Commerce and Industry in Canada," was the subject discussed last evening at the Y.M.C.A. by Prof. Adam Shortt of Ottawa. It was the first of a series of addresses to be given under the auspices of the Canadian Club of this city and the subject was presented in such a manner as only one who had made a study of the same could do. Prof. Shortt is by no means a stranger in Belleville, having previously addressed the members of the Canadian Club. He is a fluent speaker and well versed in the subjects he speaks upon. There was a good turn out of the members last evening. The President, Mr. J. L. Hess, occupied the chair, filling that position in a most acceptable manner. Many prominent citizens were present. Previous to the address supper was partaken of, and the ladies certainly provided a toothsome repast. After being introduced by the President, Prof. Shortt spoke. He prefaced his remarks by stating that the greatest crisis the world had ever known or seen was being enacted at present. A war had been precipitated by Germany and many nations were involved. We were face to face with two ideals of national life, namely, the German ideal and the British ideal—which ideals were far apart in regard to what they meant. Germany was not surprised at Russia or France taking up arms, but apparently much surprised that Great Britain should have taken up arms against her. This is the first time that German and British soldiers have been fighting against each other. England did everything she could to prevent this war, but it was the pig-headed idea of Germany that precipitated the war. He did not believe the Kaiser was altogether responsible for this war, but rather that he was compelled or inspired by others to proceed with it. Man, like certain machinery, must blow off steam at times, and this was a case where Germany desired to blow off steam. It is a struggle for freedom against a dominant power that has a yoke. In fighting against Germany the other nations are fighting not so much for supremacy but a principle. The speaker then showed how the present war is to affect Canada and its trade. That Canada will do its part for the Empire there is no doubt. We have sent a contingent and are prepared to send succeeding contingents until this war is finished. (Applause.) In speaking of food supplies, which certain countries can produce, the learned speaker said his advice to Canada would be to keep on the ground floor in this respect. Canada in the past had produced much food stuff, and it is up to the country to do all it can in this direction. Our imports in the past have been nearly twice as much as our exports, but is it not possible to reverse this to a considerable extent? Increase our exports and in this way make our country even more self-sustaining than it is at present. This he considered was possible. If Germany can export farming implements Canada can manufacture the same more extensively and export them. We must take our place in the markets of the world. Canada at present was in a most favorable light for investors who are looking for some place to invest their capital. Here was an opportunity which should be availed of. The speaker referred to the wage question and stated that high wages might be somewhat disastrous in point of buying, but good for selling purposes. Whatever can be done to increase our trade should now be done and make Canada what it is designed by nature to be—a great country. (Loud applause)."

A hearty vote of thanks, proposed by Mr. T. Ritchie and seconded by Mr. W. B. Deacon, was tendered to the speaker and fittingly acknowledged.

The singing of "O Canada" brought the proceedings to a close.

See Hyman's Advertisement on Page 7 for Special Prices.

Dandelion Salad

When dandelions are plentiful, cover a number of the young plants with large, flat stones or flat pieces of wood, or simply draw over them an inch of sand and leave for a week, then uncover and cut out by the roots. The leaves should then be nicely blanched by this procedure. Where this is not possible, simply select the tiny heart leaves from the quantity you have.

After thorough washing let stand in cold water for an hour; then, if not needed at once, wrap them in a wet cloth and stand on the ice or set aside where it is cold, preventing evaporation by wrapping in a piece of thick paper. When making the salad, pat the leaves dry on a soft cloth and mix with a French dressing or a thin mayonnaise, as may be preferred.

The dressing calls for four tablespoonfuls of olive oil mixed with half a teaspoonful of salt and one-quarter of a teaspoonful of black pepper. Drop slowly into this one tablespoonful of vinegar, stirring vigorously until thoroughly mixed then use at once or the oil and vinegar will separate. Add shredded hard boiled eggs.

If you have light-colored blankets which are too worn to use on your beds, you can make lovely comforts by placing between sateen or pretty silkoline and tacking them together with worsted.

School teachers in Italy receive less than $600 a year salary.

Bricks made of peat are being successfully used in Sweden for small buildings.

Using benzine for fuel, a new cigaret lighter is a close facsimile of a cigaret.

Waterproof knapsacks made of horse hair have been invented by a Japanese army officer.

Names have been given to 727 minor planets and new ones are being discovered all the time.

There are spiders in Java which make webs so strong that it requires a knife to sever them.

A kerosene torch has been invented for thawing frozen ground into which post holes are to be dug.

Sour milk or strong vinegar will remove lime deposit from glassware if soaked for a few hours.

Twenth-Fourth Annual Convention

At Phillipston Methodist Church on Wednesday morning last representatives from all parts of the Belleville District met in their twenty-fourth annual convention, Mrs. J. H. P. Young, of Belleville presiding. The weather being propitious, the church was filled to overflowing for both morning and afternoon sessions.

Because of ill-health Mrs. H. K. Denyes had to retire from the position she has so ably filled, of District Organizer, though the convention wished her to retain her relation to the society in the capacity of Hon. President. In a few well-chosen words, Mrs. Denyes addressed her co-workers, manifesting in this crucial time the same spirit of consecration and submission to her Master's will, as in the past. She will find comfort in the thought that "They also serve who only stand and wait."

Mrs. Moat of Belleville, who has proven a model secretary, was unanimously re-appointed. Devotional exercises were conducted in the morning by Mrs. L. Massey, the life-long standard-bearer of missionary endeavor, and in the afternoon by Mrs. Huffman, of Plainfield, who also led the praise service.

Always one of the most interesting parts of the programme is the reports given by delegates from the twenty-four auxiliaries on the district. Notwithstanding strenuous war conditions and numerous appeals for assistance, the key-note of all these reports was progress, and the several Circles and Bands are not behind the older societies in enterprising work.

Mrs. S. Gay read a paper on the "Ideal Auxiliary Meeting," outlining a system of procedure, a method for enlisting all the membership, the necessity of giving thought and time in planning, and early arrangement of the programmes.

Mrs. Reddick introduced us to some of the Indian missions in B.C., where she and her husband served in connection with the Methodist Missionary Society. This side of the Rockies the Indians' rights are better protected by treaties and reserves than beyond the Rockies. The gradual encroachment by whites on the territory occupied by Indians—difficulty of securing employment after they have gained an education, or business training make them suspicious of the whites so that missionaries have to live among them, win their confidence, and convince them of the unselfish purpose of missions. A missionary who is one or two hundred miles from a medical station will find opportunity for the exercise of all his gifts and graces. He is called on to prescribe for their ailments, to adjust their family disturbances, to act as postaster and to be counsel in all emergencies.

Miss Scantlebury gave a synopsis of mission work as carried on by the Fred Victor, the Deaconess Fresh Air, and other kindred organizations, all working for the uplift, physically, mentally and morally, of society.

Miss Bradley, Weaconess, of Belleville, portrayed life among the foreigners of Winnipeg, where she served for five years. One need not leave our Dominion to engage in Foreign Mission work. Thirty nationalities must be considered in Winnipeg. According to Miss Bradley's experience social service, not creed for sermonizing, is their first great need. Love them, in spite of their strange ways, improve conditions in their homes, relieve their physical sufferings, prove a friend in their loneliness, and the way opens for leading them to the higher plane of spiritual teaching.

Mrs. M. E. Wilson, delegate from the Bay Quinte Branch to the Executive Board in Sept., reported an increase in membership and finances. A strong note of patriotism rang through the Board proceedings, representing over forty-three thousand members of the W. M. S. twenty-seven year old organization.

Solos by Mrs. A. R. Sanderson and Mr. Phillips enlived the proceedings.

The bounteous dinner provided by the Phillipston women had ample justice done it by the visitors. Proceeds of the dinner and the offering, after expenses were deducted, goes to the Treasury of the local auxiliary. The amount was nearly $70.00.

Rev. Messrs. Huffman and Jones spoke a few words to the convention which was brought to a close at 4.30 p.m.

To Mrs. Young and Mrs. Moat is due credit for the well-prepared and interesting programme.

The convention arranged for a public meeting in Bridge Street Church Nov. 19 at three o'clock, to be addressed by Miss Campbell, returned missinary from Japan.

Too much learning is also a dangerous thing.

When the oldest daughter marries, the rest of the family manage to get along comfortably without any boss.

Nine times out of a possible ten it costs the man who is elected to office a lot of money to convince his opponent that he was the people's choice.

Our Men's
$4.00 Fall Weight Shoes
Cannot be Equaled
Heavy Wet Proof Soles
Leather Lined in
Tan, Black and
White Elk Leathers
We expect to offer these great values
$4.00
during this season when price will advance
SEE OUR WINDOW
The J. J. HAINES SHOE HOUSES
Belleville Napanee Trenton Smith's Falls

Special Values
On Sale All Day Saturday

Great bargains in Women's and Children's Tan Hose, made of extra strong Canadian yarn, 20c. per pair; on sale for .......... 10c.
Cashmere on sale in shades of cardinal, brown and grey, double fold, 30c. yard, on sale .......... 15c.
Ginghams in good plaid patterns, fast colors, 15c. yard. Saturday special, per yard .......... 7½c.
Extra special values in women's winter weight underwear, natural or white, 50c. value, on sale .......... 35c. and 25c. per garment
Big value in Women's fine Cashmere Hose, splendid wearing quality, on sale per pair .......... 25c.
Men's Nova Scotia wool underwear, guaranteed unshrinkable, 2 big specials on sale, shirts or drawers .......... 75c. and $1 per garment
50c. Men's fall weight Undershirts, on sale for .......... 35c.
First quality Canadian Floor Oilcloth, wide range of pretty designs, on sale, square yard .......... 35c.
Cork Linoleum, splendid wearing quality, new pattern. On sale one day, Saturday only .......... 43c. yard
Books on sale, 25c. The latest fiction and old novels, cloth bound, clear type, good paper. Bargain price .......... 25c.
Beautifully decorated Berry Sets; your choice of five pretty designs on sale, set .......... 50c.
China Bargains — see our special tables of china and glassware, piled high with bargains .......... 5c., 10c., and 15c.
Coal Scuttles on sale, 15c. Others at .......... 35c. and 50c.
Preserve Kettles on sale, grey granite, large size, each .......... 15c.
Granite Pie Plates, Jelly Tins and Mugs, on special sale .. 5c. each
Toilet Soaps and Laundry Soaps on sale at Special Cut Prices.

McINTOSH BROS.

Our October Sale
IS NOW IN FULL SWING
The following goods are on sale at SPECIAL PRICES:
Enamelware, Flannelettes, Cottons, Soaps, Brooms, Starches, Hair Brushes, Gas Mantles, Table Oilcloth, Pictures, Stamped Linen Goods, and hundreds of lines of Smallwares.
Be sure and get your share of the good things while they last.
THE BEEHIVE CHAS. N. SULMAN

Ladies' Muskrat Coats

There's no Fur Coat sold today that will wear as long and look well all the time as MUSKRAT.

We are showing a very handsome coat with Deep Shawl Collar and Cuffs lined with a rich shade of brown satin, for .......... $50.00
Thih coat has pleased many. We believe it would please you.

G. T. WOODLEY
PRACTICAL FURRIERS.
273 Front St. Phone 421

IF YOU LEAVE IT TO OUR JUDGMENT we will supply the kind of canned goods you will thoroughly appreciate when you come to eat them. In fact you can do the same with any groceries you may need. You can send your little girl or boy with a list of the things you want and we will select them even more carefully than you would if you came in person.
H. E. FAIRFIELD

ADVERTISE IN THE INTELLIGENCER

Daily Intelligencer.

Printed and published every afternoon except Sundays, for The Intelligencer Printing and Publishing House (Limited), in the City of Belleville, County of Hastings, Province of Ontario, at their offices, No. 237 Front Street.

CHARLES JAMES BOWELL, Publisher.

RATES OF ADVERTISING.

Measurement, Agate—14 lines to the inch.
Display Advertisements, 10c. per line.
Reading Advertisements, 15c. per line.
Legal Advertisements, 10c. per line first insertion, 5c. per line subsequent insertions.
Preferred position, 20 per cent. advance upon usual contract rates.
Minimum space, 10 lines.
Births, 25c. each insertion. Marriages, 50c. each insertion. Deaths or funeral notices, either singly or combined, $1.00.
Rates for condensed advertisements will be found elsewhere.
Business cards by the year at low rates.
Further information may be obtained at The Intelligencer business office.
Weekly Intelligencer to the United States, $1.50, strictly in advance.

AN ARMY TO GROW GRAIN

The correspondent of a Montreal newspaper suggests that the Canadian government should call for ten, twenty, a hundred or two hundred thousand volunteers to swear to serve their country on the wheat fields of the Northwest; the government to quarter them, as seems most advisable in the different centres, to train them during the coming winter months in grain growing, etc., and in the spring to place this army of men on government lands with experienced farmers in charge over every section of so many farms who would be at the call of the men as required.

This proposition is systematising the "back to the land" campaign in earnest and the belief of the writer that wonderful results would be accomplished is deserving of consideration. Some of the probable results of such a movement he thus enumerates:

It would solve to a large extent the question of unemployment. The "back to the land" movement would be powerfully aided and, so far as Canada was concerned, accomplished. Every man so placed would have the effect of lowering the cost of living. The Dominion would reap immense material benefits and the designation "farmer" would come into just recognition at last as the proudest calling in which man can engage.

All these are good arguments and are commended to the consideration of the government in the intervals of dispatching armed contingents to the fighting front of war.

The undertaking is an enormous one, not to be brought about without much work and planning. It would at once involve the temporary expenditure of many millions of dollars. The lands dealt with, however, would be greatly increased in value and more readily taken up for permanent settlement after the war when the tide of immigration once more sets in this direct direction. Then the sale of crops, cattle and horses and other live stock would go far toward paying the total cost if it did not actually leave a profit on even one year's transaction.

Whether the war be long or short there must be a great shortage in the world's supply of provisions and other farm products. Millions of men are consumers who were producers. Standing crops are destroyed or cannot be harvested in what were great producing centres.

No country is in a better position than Canada to make an enormous increase in her production. It may seem like a dream to make a national effort to double or quadruple our wheat, oats, eggs, butter, meats, horses and cattle, to make of Canada for the time being one vast imperial farm, but it is not at all certain that it cannot be realized. There is danger of want and unemployment. Could not the situation be dealt with nationally?

SUGAR IN WAR TIMES

That producers and refiners of sugar will realize liberal profits, through the war is a foregone conclusion. The Government of Great Britain has taken over the sugar refineries with a view to preventing exorbitant prices. In the Dominion of Canada, and in the United States a material increase has been noted; while nothing has been done as yet in either country to regulate the sale price of this article.

In the spring of 1914 refined sugar sold in New York City at less than 4c. per pound, and raw sugar at less than 3c. per pound, duty paid, being the lowest price for over a decade. This was partly due to the fact that the Cuban crop, amounting to 2,500,000 tons, was the largest on record, while the domestic beet sugar crop amounting to 650,000 tons, was also a record crop. In addition the sugar from Porto Rico, the Philippines, Hawaii and other places brought the total up to considerably over 4,000,000 tons, which is the annual consumption of the United States.

The outbreak of was changed the situation. Germany and Austria-Hungary are the two most important sugar beet producers in the world. As soon as war commenced, they were unable to export sugar and Great Britain France and other countries turned to Cuba and the United States for their supplies of raw sugar. In August, 36,879,000 pounds of refined sugar were shipped from New York to Europe, while 15,400,000 pounds of Cuban raw were trans-shipped at New York to Europe. The result of these shipments was to advance the price of raw sugar 3c a pound in New York. The price of refined sugar advanced to $7.50 per cwt., and raw sugar to $6.50. The prospects are bright for another heavy crop in Cuba, while the high prices prevailing this year will stimulate the growing of sugar beets in the United States and Canada. The present price is a trifle below the recent high, but it is doubtful if it will go much lower until there is some change in the European situation.

PRIVATE HOBBS' OUTFIT

Private Hobbs at Salisbury Plain was writing a letter home; haversack for a desk, candle and pencil. He had just been going over the contents of his haversack and knapsack and his war equipment.

Here is a cheerful and pointed extract from his epistle to Dad:

"Just been reading about the way they found those German corpses on the battlefield. Cheerful? Not exactly. But it set me thinking. Was there a single iota in one of those outfits not made in Germany? I guess not. Those German-born Jacobs were outfitted by German labor; and if one of them found he had a toothbrush made anywhere else, well I guess he would have written a letter to the Kaiser to say something was wrong with the Fatherland.

"Well: I've been going over my tout ensemble, Dad, and I rejoice to remind you that whenever they lug me off with a hole in my leg, if they do, it will not only be a hole in a good all-Canadian leg but also a good Canadian boot that the bullet went through. And if I wing a German it will be with a rifle made in Canada and a good Canadian bullet. So I rejoice to itemize, as Hashimura Togo would say:

"Made in my own country, whose regimental badge I have on my shoulder, to wit:

"Khaki, rifle, cartridge belt, boots, service cap, socks, underwear, blankets, overcoat, handkerchiefs, brush and comb, tooth brush, etc.

"Sorry to relate—razor made in Germany, but shall swap as soon as possible for a Sheffield; pipe made in Austria—won't do. Also a few other knickknacks not Canadian. So, my dear Dad, reassured that your one and only is going towards the Rhine with as far as possible a Canadian-made outfit, see to it that you and the rest of them do likewise. Buy Canadian things made in Canada, pater. That's the way you and the rest can keep up your end. For I guess if "Made in Germany" had not been as much a slogan along the Rhine as "Gott Mit Uns"—well, Germany never could have started her machine against the world as she has been doing.

"Finally, Dad—three cheers for the Maple Leaf, which I would like to have stamped on every bally thing I wear and carry when I get to the spot where everything matters or nothing.

"Your Canadian-born son,

"HARVEY."

(What's good for the soldier is good for the civilian.)

WAR NOTES

Journal of Commerce: "Those Russian Allies of ours seem to be slow-moving, but it is to be hoped that once they get going they will make a thorough job of the Germans."

Russia's very size may be a factor in making her mobilization a slow process. She has a population of 170,000,000 scattered over an area three times as large as that of Canada, or the United States. The Russian Empire has 45,000 miles of railway, but this mileage is insufficient to make for speedy mobilization. Russia undoubtedly can put three times the number of men into the field that Germany can, but it will take much longer to get her forces at the front than it has taken Germany. Russia's full force will probably not be felt for another month or two.

New York Evening Post: "When the Germans captured Brussels, there was much question as to what would become of the $79,000,000 gold and silver coin in the Bank of Belgium. It was then declared to have been removed to Antwerp. That leaves the question open, what is being done with the treasury now? It may possibly already have been shipped to London. One is reminded of the arrival of the French army at Amsterdam in 1795. They made for the famous gold reserve of the Bank of the Netherlands; but the vaults were empty. No one has ever discovered what became of their contents."

The Germans are resorting to the old bogie man method of frightening the Allies. They state that they have new and terrible guns which they are about to use against the British; that they have a wonderful fleet of Zeppelins which will work havoc in London; while other mysterious plans hinted at from time to time threaten the total annihilation of the British Empire. It should be remembered that the Germans boasted that they would be in Paris in two weeks, and announced for years that the day war was declared they would wipe out the British fleet. The truth is that the much vaunted German war machine possesses feet of clay.

Motor-Plows Cut German Trenches

Engines Used by Kaiser's Troops in Preparing Trenches

LONDON, Oct. 15.—The Germans do their trench-cutting with motor plows, says the automobile expert of The Daily Chronicle in an article describing types of motor vehicles now in use in the war.

"Where variety is concerned," he says, "it must be conceded that the Germans can claim the greatest degree of forethought, for they have two types of machines at least which are not to be found elsewhere.

"Entrenchments, it need hardly be said, play a leading part in the campaign. Now it is not generally known, but it is none the less a fact, that the Germans do a good deal of their trench-cutting by machinery. Before the war broke out they provided themselves with a number of mechanical plows, driven by 200-horse power petrol motors.

"It does not need much imagination to realize that engines of that power can scoop out trenches much more rapidly than men with spades; and though it is improbable that the number of these machines is so large that they are likely to be available at a moment's notice at every single point at which entrenchement might become desirable, it cannot be doubted but that the machines which have been constructed have proved highly useful, and for aught we know may actually have been employed at the outset of the present battle of the Aisne.

"Inasmuch, however, as wire is commonly used for obstructive purposes, it is noteworthy that the cars which the Germans use for field work are fitted with curved steel rods on the forefront. One of these has a cutting edge, and whenever wire is encountered it is caught up by the plain rod and passed on to the cutting edge, by which it is automatically severed."

BRANTFORD ARREST MAKES SENSATION

BRANTFORD, Ont., Oct. 15.—Sensation was caused here by the arrest of A. S. Westrum, manager of the Westrumite Paving Company, by the police, acting under instructions from Col. Elliott, of Toronto.

The cause of the detention is a mystery here. In the Patriotic Fund campaign Van Westrum acted as captain of a team.

THE NEW HUN.

You speak of God, mad Kaiser, you should cow'r
In fear; for God took note what time you sent
Your shard and shell, with hell-inspired intent,
The glory of the ages to deflow'r.
Woe 'twas for Man, that dark, ecliptic hour
When you were born to be the instrument
That should destroy the sacred increment
Of patient Art, the world's divinest dow'r.

Alas, for all the trusting hands that wrought
Through all the centuries, those songs in stone,
Those wonder-works, those miracles of thought
Which nevermore the sons of men shall own!
You speak of God! The marvel is that He Can patient be with such base infamy.

Belleville. —JOSEPH NEVIN DOYLE.

Stopped on Road Robbed of $100

Man Held up Cab, and at Point of Gun Relieved Visitor of Cash

KINGSTON, Oct. 15.—Last night a farmer was relieved of about $100 at the point of a gun on the Montreal road just past the lower depot. He was going for a drive in a cab, when a stranger jumped out from the side of the road and flourishing a gun under his nose fleeced him of his roll. The police are investigating the matter.

The gentlemen from the country was enjoying himself about town yesterday and in the evening he made the acquaintance of a girl, who suggested that they take a ride in a cab. The guileless youth, with the big wallet, in for a good time, readily consented and the girl called a cab. They drove around the city for a short time and then turned out the Montreal road.

When about opposite McAdoo's bush a man jumped out from the side of the road brandishing a revolver and flashing a small electric torch. With the torch blazing in the victim's face and revolver shoved under his nose, the highwayman went through his pockets, taking watch, stick pin, and money.

It is thought that the whole thing was a frame up on the unfortunate victim. It is said that he was seen spending money freely in the afternoon and that the girl and the hold-up artist laid for him.

Pitiful Plight of English Scholar

He Had to Flee From Germany Leaving all His Prized Library

A correspondent of The New York Evening Post, writing from Lausanne, France, says:

Blown in with me at the door as I entered the cafe, came a stranger looking about him uncertainly. He was very English and a gentleman, and, when he began to speak, showed himself a scholar. He seemed not yet to have recovered the impassive poise of his class from some recent shock. In hasty fragments he told his story.

When a young man and fresh from the University, more than a quarter of a century ago, he settled down in a German city frequented by English and Americans, and prepared their sons for examinations. Mildly prosperity came and he took a mathematical master to eke out his own Latin and Greek. So he remained on, liking the town and the people and becoming one of them; and his earliest pupils wandered back to entrust their own boys to his hands. He was winding up this year's affairs and planning his modest vacation tour when a German friend broke in on him.

"War is on with England and there are only two more trains by which you can leave the country. The way train will bring you to Munich in thirteen hours, and from there you may reach Switzerland unnoticed. The express train takes only four hours, but our people are getting excited and may be waiting to mob it. You have no time to lose."

So the English schoolmaster packed hastily his handbag with whatever he could think of as most important, gave a last look at the library which was his chief acquisition of all these years, and fled out of the country. "Yet I loved Germany", he said, slowly shaking his head over his tea; "and now I can never go back and must begin life over again at my age." He is but one more waif in the multitudinous flotsam and jetsam of hate which this war will leave behind it.

Thrilling Fight In the Clouds

LONDON, Oct. 15.—The Official War Information Bureau issues the narrative of an eye-witness from the headquarters of the British army in France, supplementing his story of October 11, of the movements of the British forces and the French armies in immediate touch with them.

The narrative is dated October 13, and follows:—

"From Friday, the 9th of October, until Monday, the 12th, so little occurred that a narrative of the events can be given in a few words.

"Details have now been received of an exciting encounter in mid air. One of our aviators on a fast scouting monoplane sighted a hostile machine. He had two rifles fixed, one on either side of his engine, and at once gave chase, but lost sight of his opponent amongst the clouds. Soon, however, another machine hove into view, which turned out to be a German Otto machine, a make which is not nearly so fast as our scout's.

"Our officer again started a pursuit. He knew that owing to the position of the propellor of the machine he could not be fired at when astern of his opponent. At sixty yards he fired one rifle without apparent result. Then, as his pace was carrying him ahead of his quarry, he turned round and again coming to about the same distance behind, emptied his magazine at the German.

"The latter began at once to descend as if either he or his machine were hit, and shutting off his engine and volplaining to free his hands, the pursuer recharged his magazine. Unfortunately it jammed but he managed to insert four cartridges and to fire them at his descending opponent, who disappeared into a cloud-bank with dramatic suddenness.

When the British officer emerged below the clouds, he could see no sign of the other. He, therefore, climbed to an altitude of some 7,000 feet, and came to the conclusion that the German must have come to earth in the French lines.

RUSSIAN FLEET IN ACTION WITH TURKS

LONDON, Oct. 15.—A despatch to the Exchange Telegraph from Bucharest, coming by way of Rome, says:

Heavy cannonading has been heard the past day off Kustendje (in Rumania, on the Black Sea.)

It is believed that the former German cruisers Goeben and Breslau, which now fly the Turkish flag, and which yesterday undertook to escort from Sulina (an arm of the Danube, Rumania) several transports laden with munitions, have either attacked or been attacked by the Russian fleet.

No war prices here

Fit-Reform

Model 429

TO the honor of the big tailoring houses be it said, that they have not taken advantage of the war to increase their prices.

So — our prices for the new fall Fit-Reform Overcoats and Suits are exactly the same as last year—$15 up.

10

When are you coming in to pick out your new fall Suit and Overcoat?

FIT-REFORM

Chas. J. Symons

"The Store With The Electric Man"

Begin Hamilton Road Wednesday

Work to Start Next Week is Announcement of Mr. Gooderham --Wage Scale Will Vary

TORONTO, Oct. 15.—Work on the Toronto-Hamilton roadway will commence on Wednesday next, according to Mr. Geo. H. Gooderham, M.P.P., the chairman of the commission. The question of the wage to be paid for the work is still to be settled but it is not thought that this will prove an insurmountable object. One thing the commission is not prepared to do. It will not accept the scale suggested by Toronto, which was 25 cents an hour. The rate of wages varies all the way from 15 cents to 25 cents on the route of the new highway. It is probable that a fair average will be struck. If laborers in Toronto are prepared to starve and become a burden on the public rather than accept a lower rate of wage, says the commission, men can be found not resident here to do the work.

The scheme was adopted with the primary object of providing work for those out of employment, owing to the war, and the commission feel that the workers should co-operate as it is practically a patriotic undertaking, and with a higher rate of wages fewer would be benefitted.

There are some other minor difficulties, such as the question of jurisdiction between the York County Highways Commission and the Toronto to Hamilton Commission. The question of whether or not the proposed highway should follow the Lake Shore route or take the midde road has been raised by the township of Toronto in county of Peel, but as they agreed in the first place to the Lake Shore plan they will probably accept that route.

THE SHIRKER

Oh, don't say I have to go forward,
When cannon are thundering round,
And bullets are flashing like hail stones,
And bombshells are tearing the ground.

I've had quite enough of this fighting,
My nerves cannot stand such a strain,
I'm hungry and footsore and weary,
My limbs are all aching with pain.

In peace I'm a very fine soldier,
I keep all my buttons so bright,
I like the reviews and the field days,
I never expected to fight.

I've fought quite a long time already,
Oh, send me to some quite spot;
I'll do what I can in the rear guard,
If the fighting is not very hot.

I've been in one little engagement,
And stood by my [illegible] the night,
And seen a man fall close beside me,
How can a man bear such a sight?

Reply

Go! Poltroon and coward and shirker!
Shun suffering, danger and strife;
'Tis only the generous hearted
Make something worth living of life.

You shirk from your share in life's battle—
Unworthy to call yourself man!
Go! Herd with the maimed and the useless,
And live out your ignoble span.

But leave us the hardships and dangers,
The fierce charge of horses, and then—
The joy and the glory of conquest,
When men come to death-grips with men.

A. C. SPILLER
R. R. No. 8, Peterboro'

Advertise in The Intelligencer.

The Endless Chain.

Mr. Retail Merchant; your business depends entirely on the prosperity of your customers. Canadian factories running at top-speed mean top-notch business for Canadian merchants.

The merchant himself can be a big help in bringing this about. Consumption of goods "Made in Canada" means employment for every Canadian workman.

Mr. Merchant, urge your customers to buy Canadian goods for their sake, for your own sake. Every Canadian faces the responsibility of keeping Canada prosperous-----this is the way you can do your share—and it is to your own advantage.

Push Them Because They're "Made in Canada."

84

Bible is Proving a Great Educator

HANDSOMELY ILLUSTRATED EDITION GIVEN TO READERS IS PARTICULARLY VALUABLE

In these days of honoring the memory of illustrious men who have gone before by celebrating the anniversaries of their natal day, or by setting aside special holidays in their honor, one is likely to overlook other important anniversaries.

Last year marked the three hundredth anniversary of the authorized version of the Bible. This event is now most fittingly celebrated by presenting the New Illustrated Bible to our readers. This The Intelligener is doing in its great educational distribution, and today's certificate is printed on another page of to-day's issue. The plan is fully explained thereunder. Turn to the certificate; clip it at once, and you had better present it as soon as possible, for this edition will not last long at the rate they are going.

This Bible is actually needed in every family, no matter how many Bibles may be already possessed. By its use children will learn the habit of Bible reading, being attracted by the wealth of graphic illustrations, so full of meaning to the child mind. Young men and young women will find inspiration in the subjects which are illumined by this superb gallery of art. Even the best remembered texts shine with renewed radiance in the light of these eye teaching pictures.

One does not need to belong to church to acquire knowledge and fully enjoy this magnificent volume. In itself it is an educational work of rare value, for the illustrations portray scenes and clearly set forth historical facts that are interesting as well as instructive to all.

Present your certificates today and be among the favored ones.

BRAVO

Kitchener sat in his London den,
Silent and grim and grey,
Making his plans with an iron pen,
Just in Kitchener's way.
And he saw where the clouds rose dark and dun,
And all that it meant, he knew;
We shall want every man who can shoulder a gun
To carry this thing right through!"
Bravo Kitchener, say what you want
No one shall say you nay!
And the world shall know where our bugles blow,
We're a man at the head today!

Jellicoe rides on the grey North Seas
Watching the enemy's lines,
Where their Lord High Admirals skulk at ease
Inside of their hellish mines.
They have drunk too deep in the boasted fight,
They have vowed too mad a vow!
What do they think—on the watch—tonight?
What toast are they drinking now?
Brave, Jellicoe Call them again!
And whenever they take the call,
Show them the way, give them the "Day"!
And settle it once for all!

And French is facing the enemy's front,
Stubbornly day by day,
Taking the odds and bearing the brunt
Just in the Britisher's way.
And he hears the message, that makes him glad,
Ring through the smoke and flame:
"Fight on, Tommy! stick to them lad!
Jack's at the same old game!"
Brave, Tommy, stand as you've stood,
And, whether you win or fail,
Show them you fight as gentlemen should,
And die like gentlemen all!

So Kitchener plans in London Town,
French is standing at bay,
Jellicoe's ships ride up and down,
Holding the seas' highway.
And you that loaf where the skies are blue,
And play by a petticoat hem,
These are the men who are fighting for you
What are you doing for them?
Bravo, then, for the men who fight!
To Hell with the men who play!
It's a fight to the end for honor and friend,
It's a fight for our lives today!

A PROPHECY MADE IN 1849

During the reign of Emperor William I. of Germany, and while on a visit to Paris in the year 1849, he visited from curiosity a well-known fortune teller, or clairvoyante, and talking with her of the future, she said to him: "Sire, what year is this?" and the Emperor said to her 1849, she said: "Add together 1-8-4-9 and you will have 22, add 22 to 1849 and you will have 1871, and in these 22 years you will rise to the height of your power and Germany will be world famous by reason of its conquests."

In the year 1871 she triumphed over France and acquired the two provinces of Alsace and Lorraine from France, so the first part of this prophecy was fulfilled.

Again the woman said: "Add together 1-8-7-1 and you have 17, which added to 1871 gives us 1888, in which year you will die, and your son who will succeed you will literally starve to death."

In the year 1888 the aged Emperor died, and the Crown Prince who succeeded him as Emperor Frederick after a reign of nine years died of cancer in the throat, having actually starved to death, so the second of this prophecy was fulfilled.

Again the woman said: "Add together 1-8-8-8 and with one more thrown in for good measure, you will have 26, which added to 1888 will give you 1914, in which year, Sire, the German Empire will be destroyed." In view of the actual fulfilment of the first two of these prophecies it will be interesting to note whether the third will come true.

It is well known that Emperor William I. always feared to think of the year 1914.

MARRIAGE LICENSES

Marriage Licenses issued by P. Harrison at The Intelligencer Office, or at residence, Lewis Street.

A man imagines he is a philanthropist every time he gives away a penny's worth of advice.

Sometimes a bit of flippant slang may have a real respectable meaning.

DRS. SOPER & WHITE
SPECIALISTS
Piles, Eczema, Asthma, Catarrh, Pimples, Dyspepsia, Epilepsy, Rheumatism, Skin, Kidney, Blood, Nerve and Bladder Diseases.
Call or send history for free advice. Medicine furnished in tablet form. Hours—10 a.m. to 1 p.m. and 2 to 6 p.m. Sundays—10 a.m. to 1 p.m.
Consultation Free
DRS. SOPER & WHITE
25 Toronto St., Toronto, Ont.

THE VICTROLA AND THE FAMILY—No. 1
Grandpa
and the Victrola are great friends. "I like to sit back and dream of the days gone by, while the Victrola, through its magic, recalls the old songs and singers to me.
"There's Tamagno and Plançon, Patti and Melba who still sing for me just as I used to hear them, at thei. best, although two are now dead and one has permanently retired from the stage. And the younger generation of singers, although I have never had an opportunity of hearing them personally, seem like old friends to me, so familiar have their voices become through their wonderfully beautiful Victor Records.
"All the rest of the family enjoy the Victrola just as much as I do. They all have their favorite music and their favorite singers and musicians. It don't seem to me as though there could be anything that could give so much pleasure to everybody as the Victrola does."
VICTROLA IV $20
With 15 double-sided, ten-inch Victor Records, $33.50
Other Victrolas from $32.50 to $300 (on easy payments, if desired), and ten-inch, double-sided Victor Records at 90c for the two selections at any "His Master's Voice" dealer in any town or city in Canada.
Write for free copy of our 300-page Musical Encyclopedia listing over 5000 Victor Records. Ask to hear "It's a Long Way to Tipperary" the famous British Marching Song, on Victor Record No. 17639
Berliner Gram-o-phone Co.
Limited
102 Lenoir Street
MONTREAL
Victor Records---Made in Canada
Patronize Home Products
452-478

A GREAT SERVICE

Harry Beale and Jennie MacArthur had the same advantages as to education. Harry was a poor pupil and Jenny was a god one. She wrote his compositions for him, indeed filled the gap of his deficiencies so far as those deficiencies could be filled by another.

In this way she dragged her boy lover through the grammar school.

By this time both he and his sweetheart had outgrown childhood, and something of formality had come between them. On dropping out of school Harry considered that it behooved him to thank his coach for the assistance she had given him, but how to do this was a question. He was neither apt as a speaker nor as a writer. He chose the latter course. This is the letter Harry wrote:

Dear Jennie—Permit me to express my thanks for the valuable assistance you have so long given me in my studies. I am confident that had all the work been written exercizes you could have pulled me threw. I am going to work. If you could have got me a diploma I mite have been a lawyer or a doctor. Eny way, I shall try to make monny so I may some day be of benefit to you. Yours cinserely.

HENRY BEALE.

Jennie's eyes moistened on reading this letter. She placed it in a little Japanese box some one had given her for Christmas and went about her own work with her usual steadiness of purpose.

Having graduated at the high school, Jennie, being expected to make her own living, entered upon a career of teaching. She could not afford to go to college, but while she taught the lower grades prepared herself by home study for the higher ones. Being naturally bright, she made good progress and, being gifted in imparting knowledge, advanced steadily. Nevertheless the pay of mose teachers is not great, and $800 is as high a salray as Jennie ever received.

Harry obtained a position in a feed store. He soon left the feed store and bought out with a handful of cash a business for himself.

But he did not forget the sweetheart of his school days. It seemed to him that one of such inferior intellectual capacity as himself should not aspire to a woman so far above him in brain power. Or rather it occurred to him that, he and Jennie having pasesd out of childhood, this difference would separate them.

Miss MacArthur continued to teach on a salary that was no more than she required to live on. She had no especial faculty for making a dollar serve for two—indeed, it was all she could do to make it serve for one.

One day Beale met a friend of his old sweetheart, who told him that Jennie was wearing herself out teaching. Harry wondered if she would not in her poverty consider such a stupid man as himself for a husband.

Miss MacArthur received a beautifully printed document from her school-boy lover declaring that his love was as strong as ever; that he was aware he was her inferior and if she married him she would look down upon him; that he wished to serve her, and the only condition under which he could do so was as her husband. Would she marry him?

The day after this letter was sent Mr. Beale called his typist into his office. On entering she saw at once that her chief had received a setback of some sort. He handed her a letter from Jennie MacArthur addressed to him stating that she had no reply to offer to a typewritten letter on such a subject as a proposition of marriage.

"What do you think of that?" he said woefully.

"I think that it is a very proper statement of the case."

"What am I to do?"

"If I were you, Mr. Beale, I would send the letter you gave me to put in type."

Corrected by you?"

"Corrected by no one."

Mr. Beale groaned. "And that is your advice" he said.

"It is. If this lady will accept you she will accept you as you are."

"But her reply shows how she regards me. She will decline my proposition."

"She will not."

"Why do you say that so confidently?"

"Because her reply indicates that what is between you and her is too sacred to be transmitted by a third person. Had she intended to decline your proposition she would doubtless have not been particular about who wrote it."

"Very well, Miss Morton; please send her the original letter."

The letter was sent and a reply was received written on the back of the letter Beale had written his sweetheart when he left school. Miss MacArthur began by saying that she had treasured his letter for a dozen years as the nearest to her heart of anything she possessed. His proposition was accepted and it was evident from the tone of her reply that the hand bestowed was accompanied by the heart.

On the receipt of this epistle Mr. Beale called his typist into his office and handed her a check for $1000. Astonished, the lady asked what it was for.

"For the greatest service you have ever done me," was the reply.—By F. A. Mitchell, in the Lock Haven Daily Democrat.

SPECIALS For Saturday Shoppers
AT
The Belleville Pharmacy

| | |
|---|---|
| $1 Scotts' Emulsion | 73c. |
| 50c. Scott's Emulsion | 38c. |
| $1 Pinkham's Veg. Comp. | 73c |
| $1 Nature's Remedy | 70c. |
| 50c. Nature's Remedy | 35c. |
| 25c. Nature's Remedy | 15c. |
| $1 Kola Tonic Wine | 75c. |
| 25c. Carter's Liver Pills | 15c. |
| 25c. Lazy Liver Pills | 15c. |
| 25c. Brandreth's Pills | 15c. |
| 25c. Baby's Own Tablets | 17c. |
| 25c. Chase's Pills | 16c. |
| 25c. Miller's Worm Powders | 17c. |
| 50c. Electric Balm | 35c. |
| 50c. Electric Beans | 35c. |
| 25c. Putnam's Corn Cure | 17c. |
| 25c. Fluid Magnesia | 17c. |
| 15c. Sweet Castor Oil | 10c. |
| 35c. Castoria | 25c. |
| 25c. Nerviline | 15c. |
| 25c. Thomas' E. Oil | 15c. |
| 25c. Mustard Oil Liniment | 15c. |

EXTRA SPECIAL
25c. Menthol Cough Balsam. Saturday only 2 for . . . . 25c.

$1 Kellogg's Asthma Cure . . . . 75c.
25c. Hamilton's Pills . . 17c.

EXTRA SPECIAL
Williams' Tooth Paste (with nickel-plated Tooth Brush Holder) Regular 25c. Saturday only . . . . . . 19c.

TOILET ARTICLES

| | |
|---|---|
| $1 Shaving Brushes | 69c. |
| 75c. Shaving Brushes | 48c. |
| 25c. Williams' Shaving Soap (stick) | 19c. |
| 25c. Shaving Lotion | 17c. |
| 15c. Camphor Ice Tubes | 10c. |
| 15c. Vaseline Cold Cream | 10c. |
| 25c. Liquid Shampoo | 17c. |
| 35c. Palmer's Cold Cream | 23c. |
| 25c. Vanishing Cream | 17c. |
| 50c. Florida Water | 33c. |
| 25c. Florida Water | 15c. |
| 75c. Palmer's Toilet Water | 64c. |
| 25c. Sanitol Talc Powder | 10c. |
| 25c. Sanitol Cold Cream | 10c. |
| 25c. Williams' Talc Powder | 19c. |
| 25c. Tooth Paste | 15c. |
| 35c. Tooth Brushes | 24c. |
| 35c. Face Powder | 25c. |

GET THIS
We want YOU as a regular user of our Calypso Toilet Articles.
THEREFORE:—On Saturday only we will give with every bottle of Calypso Cream at 25c. one jar Calypso Talcum FREE. Don't miss this for you can't get 2 for the price of 1 every day.

10c. — BIG BAR CASTILE SOAP — 10c.

Don't forget to take home a tin of our STOVEPIPE BLACK ENAMEL. It's the real thing and we guarantee it. 10c. and 15c. the tin.

CLEARING SPECIALS
Orangeade and Lemonade Powder. Regular 10c. Saturday . . . . 7c.

STRENGTHENING PLASTERS
Regular 25c. Saturday, 15c. 2 for . . . . 25c.

FLY COILS
Regular 5c. Saturday, 3 for . . . . 5c.

FLY PADS.
Regular 5c. Saturday, 2 for . . . . 5c.

ARE YOU SATISFIED with your printing and developing? Give us a trial anyway. And say, Mr. Amateur (or Miss A.) if your picture-taking experience isn't all that you could desire, bring your Camera or Kodak and a few of your "snaps" and we'll be glad to help you over your difficulty. We have been of service to others; let us assist you. It's a real pleasure.

HAVE YOU SEEN the new Autographic Kodaks? This is the newest thing in Kodakery and is to be had on KODAKS ONLY. Drop in and let us show you this new feature of the "all by daylight way.
Cameras and Kodaks from $1.00 to $125.00.

EVERYTHING IN FILMS AND SUPPLIES
AT
The Belleville Pharmacy
THE KODAK STORE . . . . . . . BRIDGE STREET

CLIP $5.00 THIS
ILLUSTRATED BIBLE
EDUCATIONAL
CERTIFICATE
HISTORICAL DESCRIPTIVE PRESENTED BY THE
INTELLIGENCER OCTOBER 16
ABRAHAM LINCOLN SAID: "NO LIBRARY IS COMPLETE WITHOUT TWO CERTAIN BOOKS—THE BIBLE AND SHAKESPEARE; HARDLY A QUOTATION USED IN LITERATURE THAT IS NOT TAKEN FROM ONE OF THESE WORKS."
The above Certificate with 5 others of consecutive dates
Entitles bearer to this $5.00 Illustrated Bible
If presented at the office of this newspaper, together with the stated amount that covers the necessary EXPENSE items of this great distribution—including clerk hire, cost of packing, checking, express from factory, etc., etc.
MAGNIFICENT ILLUSTRATED $5 Edition of the BIBLE (like illustration in announcements from day to day) is bound in full flexible limp leather, with overlapping covers and title stamped in gold, with numerous full-page plates in color from the world famous Tissot collection, together with six hundred superb pictures graphically illustrating and making plain the verse in the light of modern Biblical knowledge and research. The text conforms to the authorized edition, is self-pronouncing, with copious marginal references, maps and helps; printed on thin bible paper, flat opening at all pages; beautiful, readable type. 6 Consecutive Free Certificates and the $1.18 Amount EXPENSE Items
The $3 ILLUSTRATED BIBLE is exactly the same as the $5 book, except in the style of binding, which is in silk cloth; contains all of the illustrations and maps. 6 consecutive free certificates and the 81c Amount EXPENSE Items
Also an Edition for Catholics
Through an exclusive arrangement, we have been most fortunate in securing the Catholic Bible, Douay Version, endorsed by Cardinal Gibbons and Archbishop (now Cardinal) Farley, as well as by the various Archbishops of the country. The illustrations consist of the full-page plates and maps approved by the Church, without the Tissot and text pictures. It will be distributed in the same bindings as the Protestant books and at the same Amount Expense Items, with the necessary Free Certificates.
Any Book by Mail, 23 Cents Extra for Postage.

What Australia is Accomplishing

WELLINGTON, N.Z., Oct. 15.—On the morning of August 14, several troopships left Wellington, under sealed orders. Steaming north, they were met by a flotilla of warships off the eastern coast, and proceeded to Noumea, New Caledonia. From there they went to Suva, and then on to Samoa.

At 10 a.m. on the morning of August 29, the garrison of German Samoa surrendered to the British. When the troopships arrived at Apia the Psyche entered under a white flag. The captain was unable to find the Governor, who had fled from the official residence, but the representative in charge refused to surrender the town. Eventually the Governor was found hiding in the wireless station out of the town.

The New Zealand troops landed under cover of the warship's guns, and formally annexed the town. The Governor was taken prisoner and conveyed to Suva, and the British flag was hoisted over Apia. The natives seemed favorable to the British, but trouble arose with the Chinese coolies to the number of 2,000, who had swarmed into the town from the plantations. They refused to leave the official buildings, and the officer in charge ordered them to disperse. They still refused, and the native police, were instructed to clear them out. This they did with a free use of the batons. A strong garrison is to be maintained at Samoa for some time, and meanwhile the administration will be under Imperial control. The men are entrenching and making their position stronger. The wireless plan was found to be intact, and should prove useful, as it is one of the strongest plants in the Pacific at the present time.

The Prime Minister of Australia, in speaking of the matter said:

"It must be satisfactory to the whole of the people of New Zealand that we have been able to take possession of the island with so very little trouble. Apart altogether from the area, which is about 1,000 square miles and the fertility of the islands, Samoa is of great strategical importance to both New Zealand and Australia. We will have to hold the place. A strong force will be kept there as a garrison for some time to come. A further reason for gratification is that not only was the New Zealand force the first contingent of British troops to proceed overseas to its allotted task, but it was also the first to secure German territory for the Imperial Crown."

The capture of the German colony of Samoa by the Australian fleet and the New Zealand troops, sets at rest any anxiety the United States might have had as to the possibility of the possession falling into the hands of a Power whose presence in the mid-Pacific would have been unwelcome. The United States will apparently be content if Samoa remains British. Indeed, America should rejoice over such a capture, after the alarm expressed when it was known that Japan had decided to take part in the hostilities.

The determination that the Australian-Commonwealth should have a navy of its own was reached in the nick of time. The fleet was not long idle before it had important duties to perform. In addition to being helpful in the defence of the Empire at a time of the greatest anxiety, it has an opportunity of extending Australian influence in the Pacific.

Australia's first experience in warfare has so far not been unpleasant, and promises to be profitable. By securing such valuable possessions as those held by Germany in this part of the world, Australia will soon pay for her warships, and make her shores more secure by the expulsion of a treacherous Power from these waters. The usefulness of the Australian fleet in protecting the new possessions will give rise to a desire to strengthen her defences on the water.

FIELD GUNS COPE WITH AIR SCOUTS

OSTEND, Oct. 15.—Soldiers returning to Ostend from the action about Ghent say that the allies are becoming skilled in winging aeroplanes. A German aviator who was observing the allies' movements near Ghent last week was brought to the ground a shapeless mass by skilled firing from the field guns.

IN THE RACE FOR BUSINESS
The gentleman on the tortoise represents the man who does not advertise—the one who tries to do business as it was done in the days of the tallow candle or the oil lamp.
Are you in the glare of the electric light—in the automobile of Modern Methods?
Our Want Ads are high voltage batteries, whether you want light or power—business publicity or competent help

GILLETT'S LYE

FOR MAKING SOAP, SOFTENING WATER, CLEANING AND DISINFECTING SINKS, CLOSETS, DRAINS, AND FOR MANY OTHER PURPOSES.

THE STANDARD ARTICLE

SOLD EVERYWHERE.

REFUSE SUBSTITUTES

GILLETT'S
LYE

RUSS ADVANCES AGAIN

German Force Near Warsaw Has Been Cut in Two.

Army Has Been Driven Back After Two Days of Desperate Fighting and 10,000 Prisoners Have Been Taken—Villagers Have Fled Into Warsaw to Escape Conflict—German Aviators Over City.

LONDON, Oct. 16. — A despatch from Petrograd to The Evening Courier, says that reports from the Russian field army indicate that the German force which penetrated the Warsaw district has been cut in two and driven back on the Lodz-Pietrokow-Kielce line, after two days of desperate fighting. The Russian advance is being pushed forward. It is believed that 10,000 Germans have been taken prisoners in these operations.

The streets of Warsaw are now filled with villagers, who, for protection, have fled into the city from the surrounding districts, bringing with them their horses and cattle.

The sound of distant cannonading is distinctly heard, and it is believed that a general engagement is in progress. If this is the case, it is expected that it will last for days, possibly weeks.

The Germans have been allowed to advance as far as the Polish river Vistula for strategic reasons. They are thus drawn away from, and will be unable to use, the network of railways on the German side of the frontier.

It is hoped that the enemy will be decimated by the blow, and will be compelled to accept defeat.

The military governor of Warsaw has informed the population that they may remain calm and reassured, as the defence of Warsaw is to be carried to the highest degree of tension.

Advices from the Russian indicate that the main German effort in Poland has been directed at Ivangorod, the tip of an end of the main fighting line. Several days were spent in repeated assaults on this fortress, but the Russians finally checked the German avalanche. The entire front is said to extend from Warsaw to Przemysl and southward to the Dneister.

German aerial attacks on Warsaw were a feature of the combat around that city. But the German air craft were received by a well directed fire, and on Tuesday morning one of the forts brought down a Zeppelin. An airship which dropped several missiles was subsequently captured. Some idea of the fierceness of the conflict raging in this region may be gathered from the announcement of the Russian general staff that for the next "few weeks" the strictest censorship will be manifested.

The announcement from Vienna that the Russian siege of Przemysl, which has been in progress for some time, had been raised, is now passed over hastily by despatches from Berlin. It is believed certain, however, that the advance on Cracow has been withdrawn in order to allow full concentration of forces on the Vistula, where the major operations of the fighting in the east are now transpiring.

The first line of Russian troops who are now under fire is estimated 26 army corps, or about 1,500,000 men; the Austro-Germans approximate 1,000,000 men composed of probably 12 German and 10 Austrian corps.

The purpose of the Russians in giving battle along the Vistula, on their own soil and within easy reach of Warsaw, is believed here to be patterned on the strategy of Gen. Joffre, who made his supreme effort when the Germans were in a hostile country far from their bases of supplies, and when the army was in a more or less disconnected shape because of rapid movements. There can be no question that the Czar's generals are picking their own ground and going about their task leisurely.

Portugal Reinforces Garrisons.

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—Two expeditionary forces of Portuguese troops sailed from Lisbon on Sept. 10 to reinforce garrisons in Portuguese possessions in Africa, which adjoin those of Germany. This was made known yesterday by C. Rangel Do Sampaio, Portuguese consul-general at New York, and is the first news to reach this country of any actual military preparations by Portugal for the eventuality of that country's participation in the war.

Information Office For Canadians.

LONDON, Oct. 16.—The War Office, with the co-operation of Hon. George H. Perley, are establishing a record office where all information relating to the Canadian troops at the front will readily be at the disposal of relatives and next of kin.

Belgian Fugitives Will Return.

LONDON, Oct. 16. — A despatch from Rotterdam to Reuter's Telegram Co. says that the Belgian fugitives in Holland elected a committee which went to Antwerp yesterday to study the possibilities of repatriation for the refugees. If the report of the committee is favorable, it is likely that there will be a general return of the Belgians to their homes.

SENDING A WEDGE INTO GERMAN RIGHT WING

German Sweep of the North Sea Coast Has Evidently Been Circumvented By the Anglo-French Forces—Von Kluk and Von Boehm Are In Danger of Being Cut Off From Von Beseler's Army.

PARIS, Oct. 16. — Although the fall of Ostend appears to have become a certainty, the German sweep of the North Sea coast to the west evidently has been circumvented by the success of the allies in driving a wedge between the army of Gen. Von Beseler and the forces of Generals Von Kluk and Von Boehm, which compose the German right of the main line of the invaders in France.

Definite information from official sources regarding the movements and the strength of the armies engaged is lacking because of the excessive stringency of the censorship inaugurated with the development of the movement in the Department Du Nord in France and in West Flanders in Belgium, where the two big armies are reported to have met in a great pitched battle—the greatest of the war—in which the fighting already is reported severe.

Evidence that the German assaults are being delivered with less force is conveyed in the intimation that between the Somme and the Oise their artillery attacks are not being followed up with infantry charges. It is possible that they have withdrawn some of their troops from this position to strengthen their advance toward the coast, but this, it is considered, would be risky, as it might permit the allies to break through and interrupt the communications of their armies which are fighting north of the Aisne.

In the centre the allies have also advanced, particularly towards Craonne, and to the northeast of the road from Berry-au-Bac to Rheims and to the north of Prunay, in the direction of Beine, which is slightly to the southeast of Rheims, several German trenches have been carried.

An official statement from Berlin received in London is interpreted as giving the information that a French attack is being directed against Metz, for it denies reports that several of the forts there have been captured by the French.

In Paris it is officially reported that an army is marching between the Meuse and Moselle rivers (Metz is on the Moselle), and that Wednesday this army had reached the highway between Verdun and Metz.

The official communique issued at Bordeaux at midnight last night reports, among other gains along the whole front, the capture of Estaires, 13 miles west of Lille and on the north bank of the Lys.

This, taken in connection with the previous reported occupation of Ypres and yesterday's unofficial announcement that the allies have retaken Lille, indicates remarkable advantage gained by the allies during the two days' fighting.

The official communication issued by the French War Office last night says: "The news of the day indicates gains at several points along the front.

"On the left wing, to the north of the Lys, we have taken Estaires. On the centre to the north and east of Rheims, we have made an advance of nearly two kilometres (about a mile and a quarter).

"On the heights of the Meuse, and in the Woevre region, we have made gains to the south of St. Mihiel, and near Marcheville."

The French War Office made public the following communication yesterday afternoon: "In Belgium, German troops coming from Antwerp are marching toward the west, and on the evening of Oct. 14 they reached the region of Bruges and Thielt (15 miles southeast of Bruges).

"On our left wing the enemy has evacuated the left bank of the Lys. Between the Lys and the canal of La Bassee the situation shows no change.

"In the region of Lens and between Arras and Albert our progress has been marked.

"Between the Somme and the Oise there has been no change. The Germans have cannonaded our line without, however, delivering any infantry attacks.

"On the centre, between the Oise and the Meuse, we have advanced in the direction of Craonne. To the northeast of the highway from Berry-au-Bac to Rheims, and to the north of Prunay, in the direction of Beine, several German trenches have been taken.

"Between the Meuse and the Moselle, after having repulsed on the night of Oct. 13-14 certain attacks to the southeast of Verdun, our troops advanced on Oct. 14 to the south of the highway from Verdun to Metz.

"On our right wing the partial offensive movement undertaken by the Germans in the Ban-de-Sapt, to the north of St. Die, has been definitely checked."

Chance For Christmas Gifts.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16. — American railroads may transport free of charge, if they decide to do so, gifts made by the children of the United States for presentation on Christmas Day to the children made orphans by the European war.

This ruling was announced by the Interstate Commerce Commission yesterday in connection with the plans of American newspapers to send a "Christmas ship" abroad.

The commission said that the transportation of such articles would fall within the terms of charity and that such transportation was entirely discretionary with the railroads.

Population of Galt.

GALT, Oct. 16. — The assessment roll made public yesterday shows that Galt's increase in population during the past year has only been 84, but it brings the total now up to 12,016. The outstanding feature of the returns is the gain in the total actual value of real property of $309,208. The increase in assessment this year is $216,436.

In time of peace prepare for a war tax.

Will Switzerland come to blows with Bolivia?

Happiness is mostly a matter of the imagination.

One of the war needs is a self pronouncing geography.

The geographer is having his troubles mapped out for him.

An exchange of compliments is equal to trading green goods

MARKET REPORTS

CHICAGO, Oct. 15.—Selling pressure from a number of leading firms acted as an offset today in wheat. There was an unsettled close at ¼c to ⅜c net decline. Corn finished ⅝c to ¾c down, oats off ⅜c to ½c, and provisions varying from the same as last night to a loss of 32½c.

TORONTO GRAIN MARKET.

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| Wheat, fall, bushel | $1 18 to $.... | |
| Goose wheat, bushel | 1 10 | .... |
| Barley, bushel | 0 67 | 0 68 |
| Peas, bushel | 1 25 | .... |
| Oats, bushel | 0 54 | 0 55 |
| Rye, bushel | 0 85 | .... |
| Buckwheat, bushel | 0 75 | .... |

TORONTO DAIRY MARKET.

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| Butter, creamery, lb. sq. | 0 29 | 0 31 |
| Butter, creamery, solids | 0 28 | 0 29 |
| Butter, separator, dairy | 0 27 | 0 29 |
| Cheese, new, lb. | 0 16 | .... |
| Eggs, new-laid | 0 27 | 0 28 |
| Honey, new, lb. | 0 11 | 0 12 |
| Honey, comb, dozen | 2 50 | 3 00 |

WINNIPEG GRAIN MARKET.

WINNIPEG, Oct. 5.—Trading was active in futures on the grain market today and values comparatively steady following the gradual advance of the last few days. The undertone continues bullish, influenced by rapidly dwindling receipts here and good buying of futures by exporters. Wheat opened ⅛c lower to ⅛c higher and closed ⅛c to ⅛c down. Oats were ⅛c to ⅛c lower and flax advanced ⅛c to ⅞c.

The demand for all grades of cash wheat was brisk, exporters being principal buyers. Oats and barley were also in demand.

Inspections Wednesday, 355 cars, against 1663 last year, and in sight 275 cars.

Cash: Wheat—No. 1 northern, $1.12; No. 2 do., $1.03; No. 3 do., $1.03; No. 4 do., 96¾c; No. 5 do., 92⅝c; No. 6 do., 88c; feed, 81c.

Oats—No. 2 C.W., 53¼c; No. 3 C.W., 49¾c; extra No. 1 feed, 49⅝c; No. 1 feed, 48¾c; No. 2 feed, 47¼c.

Barley—No. 4, 61c; rejected, 53½c; feed, 57c.

Flax—No. 1 C.W., $1.12½; No. 2 C.W., $1.05½.

MONTREAL GRAIN MARKET.

MONTREAL, Oct. 15.—The foreign demand for Manitoba wheat was better today at another advance in prices of 1½d to 2d per quarter, and some business resulted with Glasgow and Dublin, but even at the advance bids from other ports were still out of line. The local market for coarse grains was firm with only a small volume of business passing. There was some enquiry from over the cable for spring wheat flour, but as the prices bid for export patent were 3s 6d to 2s 9d below millers' prices no business resulted. The local trade is quiet but firm. There is some cutting in prices going on for millfeed, but no actual decline has taken place. Some sales of bran have been made for export. Cheese was quiet today, but prices in the country were slightly higher. Demand for butter continues fair.

MINNEAPOLIS GRAIN MARKET.

MINNEAPOLIS, Oct. 15.—Wheat—No. 1 hard, $1.14¼; No. 1 northern, $1.03⅜ to $1.11¼; No. 2 do., $1.05⅜ to $1.07⅜; Dec., $1.09⅜.

Corn—No. 3 yellow, 68c to 69c.

Oats—No. 3 white, 43¼c to 43½c.

Flour—Fancy patents, $5.70; first clears, $4.60; second clears, $3.15.

Bran—$20.

DULUTH GRAIN MARKET.

DULUTH, Oct. 15.—Wheat—No. 1 hard, $1.12; No. 1 northern, $1.11; No. 2 do., $1.06; Dec., $1.11.

CHEESE MARKETS.

KINGSTON, Oct. 15.—At the Frontenac cheese board today 423 boxes of colored cheese were sold at 15¼c, the highest price ever paid for cheese on the local board.

VANKLEEK HILL, Oct. 15.—There were 807 boxes of cheese boarded and sold on the Vankleek Hill Cheese Board today. The price paid was 15¼c. The patrons of each factory represented on the board were asked to donate one day's make of cheese for the Canadian patriotic fund. D. McInnes, manager of the Banque de Hochelaga, secretary-treasurer of the fund, reported today that he had received over $1800 with several factories to hear from.

CATTLE MARKETS

UNION STOCK YARDS.

TORONTO, Oct. 15.—Receipts of live stock at the Union Yards were 44 cattle, 1757 hogs, 610 sheep and lambs and 129 calves.

Butchers' Cattle.

Choice cattle sold at $8 to $8.25; good butchers' sold at $7.75 to $8; medium at $7.25 to $7.60; common at $6.50 to $7; choice cows at $6.75 to $7; good cows at $6.25 to $6.50; medium cows at $5.75 to $6; canners and cutters at $3.50 to $4.50; bulls at $5 to $7.25.

Stockers and Feeders.

Choice feeding steers, 950 to 1000 lbs., sold at $7 to $7.12½; good steers, $6.50 to $6.75; medium steers, $6 to $6.25; good stockers sold at $5.50 to $6; rough eastern stockers, $4 to $5.25.

Milkers and Springers.

Receipts of milkers and springers were moderate, with prices firm at $60 to $105 each, the bulk selling at $70 to $85.

Veal Calves.

Choice veal calves sold at $10 to $11; good at $8.50 to $9.50; medium, $7.25 to $8; common, $6.50 to $7; rough grass calves, $4 to $5.75.

Sheep and Lambs.

Receipts were fairly large, and good lambs were firm, but heavy, coarse lambs were slow sale. Sheep, ewes, sold at $5 to $6.25; heavy ewes at $3.50 to $4.50; culls and rams at $2.50 to $4; lambs at $7.50 to $8.25; culls at $6 to $6.50.

Hogs.

Selects fed and watered sold at $8.25, and $8.50 weighed off cars, and $7.8 f.o.b. cars at country points.

Smart Coat Styles

For Young Ladies

In our Ladies' Wear Department we are showing a variety of Coat Styles specially designed for young ladies of 14 to 20 years of age. These Coats are shown in all this season's most fashionable cloths, and are priced

From $5 00 to $18.50 each

Ladies' Satin Underskirts

From $1 to $4 each

Here's a range of Ladies' Underskirts that represent the Best Values we have ever offered.

These Underskirts are all made of Extra Quality of English Satins, in Black and all the New Fall Colors, including Blues, Greens, Tans, Browns, Slates, Cerise, Purples, Mauves, Tango, etc., to sell at

$1.00, $2.50, $3.00, $3.50 and $4.00 each

NEW STYLES IN DRESS SKIRTS.

The shorter coat styles as worn this season, has at once created a demand for Ladies' Dress Skirts, and here again the New Dress Skirt Styles appeal to every woman.

The New Tunic Styles and Combination Dress Materials are shown in great variety in our Skirt Department, to sell at every price from $5.00 to $11.50.

NEW WOOL PLAIDS and WOOL CHECKS

For Ladies' Early Autumn Wear.

For Ladies' and Misses' Suits, Coats, Dresses, Skirts and Waists, there is nothing newer or more stylish than the pretty Wool Goods we are showing in a great variety of weaves, including Serges, Zebilines, Broad Cloths, Tweeds, Blanket Cloths, etc., to sell at every price from 50c to $3 per yd.

Sinclair's

Have you seen our LADIES' SUITS, "NORTHWAY MAKE," at $17.50.

Sinclair's

HUGE GRAIN THEFTS.

Montreal Harbor Commission Robbed In Mysterious Manner.

MONTREAL, Oct. 16. — A large quantity of grain, said by some to be more than would fill two of the biggest "tramps" plying out of Montreal, has been stolen from elevators owned by the Montreal Harbor Commissioners. The figure is set by some at 750,000 bushels.

The Harbor Commissioners state, however, that only a few hundred bushels have disappeared.

The first intimation of the thefts was received from England, where a cargo was reported about 10,000 bushels short. An investigation followed and the deeper those conducting it go, the more they are amazed.

Dutch Troops Killed Germans.

LONDON, Oct. 16—An Amsterdam correspondent of The Daily News says that last Friday, when some German soldiers entered Holland, near Roosendaal, and through their commanding officer refused to be interned by the Dutch soldiers, a fight ensued, in which the Dutch troops killed or wounded a dozen Germans. The Germans were interned.

BRITISH ENVOYS SHOT.

Noel Buxton, M.P., and His Brother Wounded By Young Turk.

LONDON, Oct. 16.—A despatch to Reuter's Telegram Co. from Bucharest says:

"Noel Buxton (member of the British Parliament for North Norfolk), and his brother, Charles Roden Buxton, sons of Sir Thomas Powell Buxton, former governor of South Australia, who had been in Bulgaria to confer with Bulgarian politicians regarding Bulgarian attitude toward the European war, were both shot yesterday by a young Turk, Pachel Hassan.

"The Buxtons were traveling in an automobile with a son of M. Guechoff, former Bulgarian Premier, to attend the funeral of the King of Roumania when Pachel fired four shots at the party from a revolver. One of the Buxtons was shot through the lung. The other was only slightly wounded.

"The assassin was arrested. It appears that he had just arrived here from Salonica. He had a passport which was vised at Constantinople, Sept. 26."

Noel Buxton has traveled extensively in the near east. He is chairman of the London Balkan committee and has actively interested himself in Macedonia. He served with the Bulgarian staff during the war in the Balkans.

Charles Roden Buxton was private secretary to his father in South Australia. He has been interested for a long time in welfare work. Mr. Buxton lived for a time in Texas, where he studied ranching.

The correspondent says it is believed that the wound of neither man is dangerous. He does not say which one of the brothers was shot through the lung.

MARITZ LOSES FIRST.

Eighty of His Army Are Captured by South African Force.

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa, Oct. 16.—Eighty of Lt.-Col. Maritz's Boer rebels have been captured after a brief fight by the union forces.

As a result of Col. Maritz's rebellion in the northwest of the Cape provinces, Gen. Botha, Premier of the Union of South Africa, and commander of the troops of the union, is taking the field earlier than he originally intended to do. Gen. Botha is placing himself at the head of several strong Dutch commands, organized on the old burgher line, which are affiliated with regiments trained by the union defence force.

Commandants, field cornets and burghers who served under Gen. Botha in the South African war, are rallying to his call, irrespective of their political feeling to fight alongside of the British in defence of the Empire, against which, twelve years ago, they were in arms. This fact has had a marked effect on waverers, who are now flocking to Gen. Botha's standard.

The other rebels within the union, having openly declared themselves, the Government considers itself not obliged to deal gently with them out of consideration for certain Dutch people, who, even though they are not strong supporters of the Government, are said to have drawn the line at rebellion.

Gen. Hertzog, who has been one of Gen. Botha's most bitter opponents, has placed his services at the disposal of the Premier.

HAS PORTUGAL TAKEN JUMP?

Spanish Newspapers Say War on Germany Was Declared Yesterday.

MADRID, Oct. 16—While the Minister of State remains silent on the authenticity of the report that Portugal has declared war against Germany, the Spanish newspapers say the declaration was made yesterday.

Liberal organs discuss at length the new situation created by Portugal's attitude and declare that the moment has arrived for Spain to abandon her state of passive observation and prepare for eventualities. With Portugal in the field, they go on to say, the operations will not remain confined to France, and in order to strike at Portugal the Germans will not hesitate to invade Spain, just as they invaded Belgium.

GERMANY WANTS MONEY.

Government Will Ask For a War Credit of $2,500,000,000.

AMSTERDAM, Oct. 16—(Via London.)—The Telegraaf yesterday publishes the following despatch from Berlin:

"The Prussian Government will ask the Diet for a war credit of more than $2,500,000,000.

"The Government work on the railways and highways will be proposed in order to cope with the unemployment situation and to give relief to small communities. At a joint sitting of the party leaders it was decided unanimously to support the Government's program. The sitting of the Diet will partake of the character of a war session and will last only a few days."

Germany Tries To Get Trade.

MONTREAL, Oct. 16.—That Germany is making desperate efforts to recapture some of her lost trade is evident from a communication received by the Montreal Chamber de Commerce from one of its correspondents in New York. This correspondent says that he has been approached by a German manufacturer's agent, who had unfolded a scheme for selling German-made goods in Canada. Since it was impossible to do business in the ordinary way, his proposal was to ship as American products goods that had been made in Germany, but on which "Made in Germany" did not appear. This offer was rejected.

Earl Bags German.

LONDON, Oct. 16.—The Earl of Kingston, who is serving with the Irish, writes: "I have bagged one German already. I only wish I had my Ross rifle and telescopic sight and I'd get a few more."

RHEIMS AGAIN SHELLED.

German Projectile Destroys Gallery of an Apse of Great Cathedral.

PARIS, Oct. 16.—The Temps says that a German shell fell in the Rheims cathedral on Tuesday and destroyed the gallery of an apse. Three other shells, according to the newspaper, demolished a part of the law court. The Public Attorney was buried in the ruins of the court building. He was extricated, suffering greatly from shock.

German Version.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16. — Count Von Bernstorff, the German Ambassador, announced that he had received the following wireless telegram from the Berlin Foreign Office:

"Close to Rheims Cathedral two French heavy batteries have been located. Light signals from one tower of cathedral observed. Of course, all hostile measures detrimental to our troops will be fought down. With regard to sparing cathedrals, France now, as formerly, responsible if venerable building becomes victim of war."

Spies as Red Cross Aides.

PARIS, Oct. 16. — Five German spies masquerading as Red Cross aides were captured in Paris yesterday. For some weeks the party had been automobiling in the rear of the French lines furnished with forged papers, but when they attempted to enter Paris they were arrested because unprovided with a pass signed by Gen. Gallieni. Two bombs, several rifles, cortridges, maps and sketches were found hidden in the automobile.

The purchaser who has neither time nor inclination for economies is the one on whom the price booster depends for support and encouragement when protest arises.

This is what one would like to know: Were the fanciful novelists prophetic in describing the way wars would be waged, or did the war wagers adopt the suggestions of the fanciful novelists?

EAST BUFFALO LIVE STOCK.

EAST BUFFALO, N.Y., Oct. 15.—Cattle—Receipts, 1000; dull.

Veals—Receipts, 250; active; $5 to $12.

Hogs—Receipts, 2200; active; heavy, $8.50; mixed, $8.40 to $8.50; yorkers, $8.15 to $8.45; pigs, $7.90 to $8; roughs, $7.25 to $7.40; stags, $6.50 to $7.

Sheep and lambs—Receipts, 3000; active; unchanged.

CHICAGO LIVE STOCK.

CHICAGO, Oct. 15.—Cattle—Receipts, 4000; market, steady; beeves, $6.50 to $10.90; Texas steers, $6.10 to $9.10; stockers and feeders, $5.30 to $8.10; cows and heifers, $3.40 to $9; calves, $7.50 to $11.25.

Hogs—Receipts, 18,000; market, lower; light, $7.50 to $8.05; mixed, $7.15 to $8.15; heavy, $8.05; rough, $7 to $7.15; pigs, $4.50 to $7.50; bulk of sales, $7.30 to $7.80.

Sheep—Receipts, 45,000; market, weak; native, $4.75 to $6; yearlings, $5.50 to $6.40; lambs, native, $6 to $7.85.

WILL BECOME A BRIGADE.

French-Canadian Contingent Idea Has Taken Hold.

MONTREAL, Oct. 16.—Why 2,000 French-Canadians have already volunteered for active service with the new regiment, Royal Canadien-Francais, and why thousands more should and will volunteer, was made plain at a monster assemblee patriotique in Sohmer Park last night.

The movement started some three weeks ago by Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux, Mr. L. T. Marechal, Dr. Arthur Mignault and other prominent French-speaking Canadians of this province, back by the Government and Sir Wilfrid Laurier and Sir Lomer Gouin, has already outgrown the original plan for a special French-Canadian regiment. It is now to be a brigade, and there is no doubt but that at least 4,000 volunteers will have offered for service by the end of this month, in addition to the 2,600 French-Canadians now with the first Canadian expeditionary force.

Last night's meeting was for the purpose of stimulating recruiting, although apparently little stumulus is needed, now that the French-Canadians are getting what they have asked for from the first—namely, a chance to serve under the officers they know and understand, in order to preserve the unity of their individual corps. The immense crowd which turned out last night and the response to the appeal showed that the heart of Montreal is in the right place. The fight of Britain, France and Belgium for justice and liberty, for the common cause of humanity as against brute force and the spirit of militarism, has a natural appeal to Canadians who speak the language of France, who know and are jealous of all the principles of British liberty, and who appreciate the heroism of the Belgians.

TELEGRAPH BRIEFS.

William Abbott, aged 82, one of the pioneers of North Dorchester Township, was fatally injured yesterday in a fall from a wagon.

Athens newspapers assert that the Russian fleet in the Black Sea has seized two German steamers loaded with cereals bound from Galatz for Kustendje, Roumania.

A despatch to London from Gibraltar says that the Hamburg-American Line steamer Graecia, New York for Cadiz, was brought into Gibraltar yesterday as a prize.

Four carloads of grain, produce, clothing and supplies are being forwarded to the Belgians from Hastings County. The first carload was shipped yesterday from Stirling Village.

Russia has more than ten million men less than 45 years old who have served under the colors, and who are available for military service, according to the Berliner Taegliche Rundschau.

The newspaper France du Nord declares that when the Germans were defeated at Arras they lost from 12,000 to 15,000 men, who were surrounded by the French in some marshes.

Austria Busy Fortifying.

VENICE, Oct. 16.—(Via Paris.)—It is reported from Trieste, Austria, that all able-bodied men in Austria are being forcibly compelled to assist in constructing fortifications. Any man refusing to do this work is arrested. The people are expressing indignation because of this.

GOOD CLOTHES NEWS

This House of Better Clothes is at your service with Fall and Winter Garments.

Our Suits and Overcoats will bring us crowds of Buyers, not because of what we say about them, but because of what they are. An Army of Men and Boys comes back to us season after season for their Outfitting.

Suits and Overcoats
$6, $8, $10, $12 to $25

They are our Every Day Values at Every Day Prices, and are guaranteed to be the lowest at which Good Clothes can be sold by anybody anywhere.

Quick & Robertson
THE BETTER VALUE STORE

Don't Think Your Eyesight

is good because you read the paper a yard from your eyes!

This is a sure sign that you have Presbyopia, and need Glasses to see clearly for close work.

Decide to-day to have me examine your eyes and prepare just the Lenses your eyes need to enable you to see without effort.

Alex. Ray
Eye Specialist

ARTHUR McGIE
Merchant Tailor

Our New Fall Stock of imported Suitings and Overcoatings now in stock in all latest designs.

You are invited to inspect our stock.

ARTHUR McGIE
208 Front Street

Coffee Ice Cream

COFFEE ICE CREAM makes a nice change, and we will have it on our menus for the balance of the week, or have a brick delivered to you.

Coffee and Walnut Bricks, 25c and 50c

Ed. F. Dickens & Son
Phone 170

A SAVING PROBLEM

GET THE
F. SANDERSON CO'S
GENUINE
SCRANTON
COAL
BELLEVILLE

Pure Clinkerless, Well Screened Coal.
"The coal of perfect satisfaction."
Office, 42 Bridge St. Phone 231a
Yard Office, S. Front St. Phone 231b

The country now faces the gloomy prospect of having to buy new school geographies and histories.

Cupid usually hits the mark, but he selects some mighty poor targets.

S. A. HYMAN & CO.

HYMAN'S
Saturday Specials
Means Money Saved To You

Men's Suspenders, good quality elastic web. Regular value 25c; Saturday, ....... 19c

Men's Finest Quality Cashmere Sox, medium weight. Regular price 50c per pair; Saturday, 3 pairs for ....... $1.00

Men's Finest Grade Coat Shirts, neat Hairline Stripes. Regular price $2.00 and $2.50; Saturday, ....... $1.50

Men's Hose Supporters, best Lisle Web. Regular price 25c; Saturday, ....... 15c

See our Men's Fine Quality Fleece-lined Underwear, best quality, per garment, 50c

Men's Knit Silk Ties, the newest colors. Regular 50c value; Saturday, ....... 35c

S. A. Hyman & Co.
242 FRONT STREET

At our Window.

The little ones enjoying the

BARLER "IDEAL" HEATER

$4.00, $5.00, $6.50

THE SMITH HARDWARE CO.
PLUMBING—HEATING
MOTOR CYCLES
314 FRONT ST. —— PHONE 204

HAVE THE INTELLIGENCER
SENT TO YOUR HOME ADDRESS

IN AND ABOUT THE CITY

Condensed News Items for Busy Readers.

SCHOOL BOARD

A regular meeting of the Board of Education will be held this evening.

ON PARADE

The Fifteenth Regiment of this city will this evening assemble at the Armouries and have a parade.

CALL FOR POLICE

Last evening the police were called to a house in the western part of the city, where it was alleged some trouble was in progress. All was quiet when the officer arrived and no arrest was made.

BODY OF VICTIM INTERRED

Yesterday afternoon the funeral of the late Mr. Smith Burd, the G.T.R. brakesman, who died as the result of injuries inflicted whilst in the discharge of his duties, took place and was largely attended. Services were conducted at St. Michael's church by the Rev. Father Kileen. The remains were interred in St. James' cemetery. Members of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Brotherhood of Trainmen were in attendance. The bearers were members of the railway brotherhood of which deceased was a member.

A SERIOUS CHARGE

A few days ago William Merritt and Mary A. McDonald, wife of Mr. A. McDonald of this city, were placed under arrest. The charge preferred against them was that they did in the Township of Rawdon conduct a bawdy house. Before the magistrate this morning the couple were brought up, and in answer to the charge preferred against them pleaded not guilty. The investigation resulted in the accused being discharged, but Mr. McDonald was given charge of his three children. Mr. Anderson, County Attorney, appeared on behalf of the Crown and Mr. D. W. M. Shorey for the accused.

KEEP RITCHIE'S SATURDAY NIGHT BARGAINS in mind, and read about them in to-morrow's papers, page 8.

NOTES FROM MADOC

(From the Review)

Miss Rae Farrell of St. Agnes College, Belleville, spent Thanksgiving Day the guest of Mrs. C. Harris.

Mrs. Sam McGuire of Belleville, spent Thanksgiving Day with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John McDonald.

Mrs. Scriver and Mrs. Gulliver and daughter, all of Belleville, spent Thanksgiving Day the guests of Mrs. Jarvis, at the home Mr. Jas. English.

Lieut. W. L. Smith, O. C. "D" Co. 49th Reg. last week received orders from Regimental Headquarters to make preliminary arrangements and commence recruiting for the Second Canadian Contingent for Overseas service.

Many a married man would starve to death if his wife didn't know how to manipulate a can opener.

When a woman gets old enough to forget that she has a complexion she begins to worry about her rights.

Kindness and politeness would be appreciated more if they were not used so often as gold brick substitutes.

THINK HARD

It Pays to Think About Food.

The unthinkable life some people lead, often causes trouble and sickness illustrated in the experience of this lady.

'About four years ago I suffered dreadfully from indigestion, always having whatever I liked, not thinking of the digestible qualities. This indigestion caused palpitation of the heart so badly I could scarcely walk up a fight of stairs without stopping to regain breath and strength.

"I became alarmed and tried dieting, wore my clothes very loose, and used other remedies, but found no relief.

"Hearing of the virtues of Grape Nuts and Postum, I commenced using them in place of my usual breakfast of coffee, cakes or hot biscuit, and in one week's time I was relieved of sour stomach and other ills attending indigestion. In a month's time my heart was performing its functions naturally and I could climb stairs and hills and walk long distances.

"I gained ten pounds in this short time, and my skin became clear and I completely regained my health and strength. I continue to use Grape Nuts and Postum for I feel that I owe my good health entirely to their use.

"I like the delicious flavor of Grape Nuts and by making Postum according to directions, it tastes similar to mild high grade coffee." Name given by Canadian Postum Co., Windsor, Ont.

The most perfect food in the world. Trial of Grape-Nuts and cream 10 days proves. "There's a Reason."

Look in pkgs for the little book, "The Road to Wellville."

Ever read the above letter? A new one appears from time to time. They are genuine, true, and full of human interest.

Belleville Ladies in Rifle Shoot

The above club met at the Armouries on Thursday afternoon for their weekly shoot.

The following new members were enrolled: Mesdames Sneyd, Chisholm and Springer, and the Misses Rathbun, Thompson, Campbell, McQuaig, Masson, McCarthy, Walton and Hurley.

The scores were as follows:—

| | |
|---|---|
| Miss Faulkner | 95 |
| Miss Herrington | 93 |
| Mrs. Wheatley | 87 |
| Miss McCarthy | 85 |
| Miss Andrews | 84 |
| Miss McLean | 82 |
| Miss Thompson | 79 |
| Miss Hurley | 72 |
| Miss Masson | 59 |
| Mrs. Sneyd | 58 |
| Miss McQuaig | 57 |
| Miss S. Walton | 49 |
| Miss Phillips | 42 |
| Miss McDonnell | 40 |

ORRINE FOR DRINK HABIT

TRY IT AT OUR EXPENSE

We are in earnest when we ask you to give ORRINE a trial. You have nothing to risk and everything to gain, for your money will be returned if after a trial you fail to get results from ORRINE. This offer gives the wives and mothers of those who drink to excess an opportunity to try the ORRINE treatment. It is a very simple treatment, can be given in the home without publicity or loss of time from business, and at a small price.

ORRINE is prepared in two forms: No. 1, secret treatment, a powder; ORRINE No. 2, in pill form, for those who desire to take voluntarily treatment. Come in and talk over the matter with us. Ask for booklet—J. S. McKeown, Front Street.

IS PRAISED BY REVIEWERS

Our New Serial Enthusiastically Indorsed by Critics of Prominent Newspapers.

"The Lapse of Enoch Wentworth," by Isabel Gordon Curtis, one of the most gifted of American fiction writers, will be published serially in these columns, and will prove a rare treat for every reader. The following are but a few of the hundreds of enthusiastic comments on the story from the reviewers:

It holds the interest to the end.—Dallas New.

This novel, which has a well-thought-out plot, is strikingly dramatic in its developments. The story is a strong one, the action rapid, the characters exceptionally well portrayed. Tense to the end, it holds the reader's interest.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

A dramatic and exciting romance.—Hartford Courant.

A story well worth reading.—Boston Times.

It is a story written solely for the diversion of the reader and it achieves its purpose; no one is likely to go to bed and leave its perusal half completed.—Toronto Mail.

The story has a high moral purpose. Montreal Star.

A vital, lively story of the drama and the stage. Of high purpose and of skilful, enthusiastic inspiration. It is a bright, fascinating story, told with a thoroughly admirable skill and dash. —Salt Lake City Tribune.

A story which does not let interest lag for one moment.—Savannah News.

Originality of conception is the strongest characteristic in this novel. —Des Moines Capital.

It is an extraordinarily unreal sort of plot, which works itself out into very real situations.—Chicago Evening Post.

Has a Romantic Plot.

This is what the Chicago Record-Herald says of our new serial story, "The Lapse of Enoch Wentworth": "This gripping story of a strange poker game, a stranger bond between two men, a stolen drama and the double regeneration out of which springs unexpected happiness for the wronged sinner, is not the best kind of a story to take up late in the evening, but it is a jolly good tale by aid of which to shake off 'the blues.' It reads rather like a play itself, being full of action, and abounds in dramatic situations and human interest."

COMMENCING IN THE INTELLIGENCER, SATURDAY, OCT. 17TH.

Wonders of the Soundograph

A veritable box of tricks is a new instrument called a soundograph, which furnishes all the sound effects used in conjunction with the operation of moving picture machines. Producing the sounds which take place in real life, it adds to the realism of the scenes depicted on the screen.

By operating twenty-seven different devices, fifty-four effects can be produced with it, among them the tramping or running of horses, a thunderstorm, the wash of the surf, rain, wind, locomotive exhaust, train whistle, automobile, fire apparatus in action, running water, crash of glass or dishes, fall of heavy articles, the firing of arms from a single shot to a fusilade, and many others. The instrument is 3 feet 6 inches in height.

The Wizard Triangle
POLISH MOP
Saturday
Only 98c
Gets in the corners

NOTE THE ADJUSTABLE HANDLE
It Lightens House Work, Removes Dust and Renews the Finish.

The John Lewis Co.
Limited

NOTICE

To my Customers and the Public in General: Everybody knows that all kinds of Fat Stock are bringing record prices at the present time; but I have not raised my prices. I buy direct from the farmer for cash so as to give my customers the middleman's profits. Read these prices:—

| | |
|---|---|
| Best Sirloin or Porter House Roasts or Steaks | 20c. lb. |
| Legs of Lamb | 20c. lb. |
| Lamb Chops | 20c. lb |
| Fore Quarters Lamb | 15c. lb. |
| Best Round Steak | 18c. lb. |
| Home made All Pork Sausages | 15c. lb. |
| Mixed Sausages | 10c. lb.; 3 lbs. for 25c. |
| Pure Home Rendered Lard | 18c. |

Choice Western Beef kept the year round.

GEO. I. THOMAS
377 Front Street. Phone 305.

Farewell Gathering

In spite of the very disagreeable weather which prevailed on Saturday night, September 26th, some hundred or more of the people of Plainfield and community assembled in the home of Mrs. J. W. Lloyd and family to bid them God-speed ere taking their departure to the Limestone city. The night was well spent in singing by both old and young, with special mention of Messrs. Gowe and Dafoe; Misses Pitman, Parks and Clapp, and Miss Keitha and Mr. Wilson Lloyd.

As a church, League, Sunday School and community the house was indeed well represented.

The crowd having assembled and seated themselves comfortably, partook of a repast which was simply unforgetably delectable.

About eleven o'clock Rev. A. C. Huffman called the crowd to order and asked Mrs. Lloyd and family to come forward, after which followed the address and presentation below. Addresses were made by the Rev. gentleman, Alex. and William Moore, Jas. Patterson, C. E. Outwater, Matthew Tummon, the Sunday School Superintendent and Mr. Harry Dafoe, Asst. Supt.

Addresses were also given by many others and after the presentation and address, Mrs. Lloyd, in a very few words endeavored to express her appreciation of the kindness and tokens of Christian friendship which had been so recently shown to them. Mr. Wilson Lloyd then made a lengthy reply to the addresses given by those preceding him. He extended a very hearty invitation to all to visit them in their new home in Kingston.

Miss Keitha Lloyd is still at home, while Mr. Wilson Lloyd is a senior medical student of Queen's University. The following address was read by the pastor:—

Plainfield, Sept. 26, 1914.

Mrs. J. W. Lloyd and Family:

It was with very deep regret as a church and community that we learned some time ago of your contemplated removal from amongst us. After so many years of happy association and Christian fellowship we can hardly realize that you are going away from us. We recognize the hand of our loving Heavenly Father in making it possible for you to go where the advantages are much greater and are thankful with you for this very evident token of His favor.

We have gathered here on the eve of your departure for your new home in Kingston to bid you God-speed and to give you our assurance that you carry with you our earnest prayers and best wishes.

As a practical expression of our appreciation of your loyal Christian friendship in the years that are gone during which you with us have had your joys and sorrows, we ask that you accept this purse. We trust that it together with the fact of our presence here, will convey to you something of the place you hold in our hearts.

We shall watch with appreciative interest the future of the family and wish for them a bright and successful career. We shall also live in the blessed hope that we all will be united "Some Sweet Day" in the home of the All-Father.

Signed on behalf of the Church and community,—

C. E. Outwater,
Wm. Patterson,
Wm. Moore.

On behalf of the League and Sunday School,—

Ida Pitman
Leona VanAllen
Earl Outwater
A. C. Huffman, Pastor.

How a busy man does enjoy setting two chornic bores to boring each other.

Cooling Beverages

Roy's Ale and Porter. O'Keeke's Special Mild Ale, Gold Label Ale, Lager and Stout; Carling's Ale and Porter, and Half and Half and Half; Dow's Ale and Porter; Dawe's Black Horse Ale; Molsons Ale — Porter; Regal Lager; Basses Ale; Guinness Stout; Budweiser's Lager; Kegs of Ale, Lager and Porter.

W. A. RODBOURNE
Up-town Liquor Store.
307 Front St. Phone
Orders delivered promptly to any part of the city

All That's New
In Fall And Winter . . .
MILLINERY
Will be found at our store.
HATS for
Ladies, Girls and Children.
Moderate Prices
Miss M. Campbell

We are now showing our first importations, indicating the true trend of fashions for the approaching season in both Tailored and Dress Hats from the famous contouries of Paris.

McCrodan & Sills

BRIGHTEN UP
YOUR STOVES, STOVE PIPES, RADIATORS, Etc., with
The SHERWIN-WILLIAMS
Aluminum
Paint
Looks better, lasts longest, goes farthest
25c tin
WATERS DRUG STORE

WHENEVER WHEREVER
YOU SEE THIS SIGN

SCRANTON COAL.
THE SCHUSTER CO.
LTD.

IT IS A SIGN OF GOOD COAL

We Never Sleep
The Hogan Burial Co.
Leading Undertakers
Our exclusive lines of caskets and several new additions in the line of funeral equipment make our parlors one of the most up-to-date in Canada. Open night and day.
Phone 774.
189 Front Street
Belleville

NOTICE

All accounts due the Hogan Burial Co. must be paid to their account in the Standard Bank, Belleville, on or before Monday, Oct. 26th, and accounts owed by them mailed to the undersigned with statement of account on or before that date when they will be paid in full.

Hogan Burial Co.
Mrs. F. L. Hogan,
15,d3t Atty.

CLASSIFIED ADVERTISEMENTS

Advertisements under this head, 25 words or less, 25 cents for each insertion, and one cent for each additional word; 4 insertions 75 cents; 6 insertions, $1.00, invariably in advance. This rate applies to all except advertisements for Auction Sales, which will be published at two cents per word. Count 3 marks and (123) figures as one word each.

BUSINESS CHANCES

DO YOU NEED ADDITIONAL CAPITAL to commence or enlarge a business? If so, we will organise a Limited Company and procure such capital as required. Write or call. A. G. Robertson & Co., 155 King Street east, Toronto. dif

WANTED

GENTLEMAN DESIRES BOARD & ROOM in refined home; vicinity West Bridge or Commercial streets preferred. Apply Box H. Intelligencer. o1012td

YOUR ORDERS FOR SILVER PLATING. Write for price list. Belleville Plating Works, 267 1-2 Front Street. o14-dim

TO RENT

TWO SIX ROOMED DWELLINGS, CORNER Bridge and Dufferin Streets, and two five roomed flats and a two roomed flat. Apply Dr. Caldwell. o1.dtf

TWO FLATS, ONE THREE ROOMED AND one five roomed, all conveniences. Price moderate. Apply Miss Corbett, Front Street. o7-dtf

EIGHT ROOMED HOUSE WITH MODERN conveniences. Situated on Gordon St. Apply E. B. Sprague, 78 N Front St. 14-4td

ROOMS TO LET WITH OR WITHOUT board. Good locality. Modern conveniences. Apply Box K, Intelligencer Office. o14-4td

AGENTS WANTED

AGENTS WANTED — MONEY EASILY earned selling our Peerless Series of Personal Greeting Cards during your spare time. $10 to $20 per week easily earned in half an hour each evening. Our cards are the cheapest on the market. Book free. Write Toronto Greeting Card Co., 529 Pape Avenue, Toronto. o7-12td

FOR SALE

SECOND HAND NO. 3 DAISY HOT WATER boiler, 293 Front St., W. McGie. o15-5td

SMALL BLACK DRIVING HORSE; QUIET and sound in every way, also his buggy and harness, or will sell separately. Box O, Intelligencer. 15-2td

J. L. R. GORMAN
REAL ESTATE AND INSURANCE
Office over Dominion Bank
Phones:
Office 603 Residence 534
We Specialize in City Property

More Fresh Confectionery

OUR OWN MAKE

Butter Scotch, - - 20c lb.
Humbugs, - - - 20c „
Horehound Tablets, 20c „
Lemon Acid Drops, 30c „
Vanilla Cream Caramels, - - - 40c „
Salted Peanuts, - 5c pkg.

Chas. S. Clapp

BANK OF MONTREAL

Established 1817
Capital, all paid up . . . $16,000,000
Rest . . . . . . . . . . $16,000,000

SAVINGS BANK DEPARTMENT
Interest allowed on sums of $1.00 and upwards at current rates.
Banking hours, 10 to 3. Saturdays, 10 to 3.

R. TANNAHILL,
Manager Belleville Branch

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTHWEST LAND REGULATIONS.

The sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years old, may homestead a quarter-section of available Dominion land in Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta. Applicant must appear in person at the Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-Agency for the District. Entry by proxy may be made at any Dominion Lands Agency (but not Sub-Agency) on certain conditions.

Duties—Six months residence upon and cultivation of the land in each of three years. A homesteader may live within nine miles of his homestead on a farm of at least 80 acres, on certain conditions. A habitable house is required except where residence is performed in the vicinity.

In certain districts a homesteader in good standing may pre-empt a quarter-section alongside his homestead. Price $3.00 per acre.

Duties—Six months residence in each of three years after earning homestead patent; also 50 acres extra cultivation. Pre-emption patent may be obtained as soon as homestead patent, on certain conditions.

A settler who has exhausted his homestead right may take a purchased homestead in certain districts. Price $3.00 per acre. Duties—Must reside six months in each of three years, cultivate 50 acres and erect a house worth $300.

The area of cultivation is subject to reduction in case of rough, scrubby or stony land. Live-stock may be substituted for cultivation under certain conditions.

W. W. CORY, C.M.G.,
Deputy of the Minister of the Interior.

N.B.—Unauthorised publication of this advertisement will not be paid for.—64388

LOST

BROWN FUR ROBE, GREEN LINING BEtween Belleville and Deseronto, on Sunday, Oct. 11th. Finder leave at Police Station, Belleville, and receive reward. o11-9td

PERSONAL

DR. MARSHALL'S OFFICE REMOVED TO Angus McFee's Block, 216½ Front Street. o11:d&wfm

SYNOPSIS OF COAL MINING REGULATIONS

Coal mining rights of the Dominion, in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, the Yukon Territory, the North-West Territories and in a portion of the Province of British Columbia, may be leased for a term of twenty-one years at an annual rental of $1 an acre. Not more than 2,560 acres will be leased to one applicant.

Application for a lease must be made by the applicant in person to the Agent or Sub-Agent of the district in which the rights applied for are situated.

In surveyed territory the land must be described by sections, or legal sub-divisions of sections, and in unsurveyed territory the tract applied for shall be staked by the applicant himself.

Each application must be accompanied by a fee of $5 which will be refunded if the rights applied for are not available, but not otherwise. A royalty shall be paid on the merchantable output of the mine at the rate of five cents per ton.

The person operating the mine shall furnish the Agent with sworn returns accounting for the full quantity of merchantable coal mined and pay the royalty thereon. If the coal mining rights are not being operated, such returns should be furnished at least once a year.

The lease will include the coal mining rights only, but the lessee may be permitted to purchase whatever available surface rights may be considered necessary for the working of the mine at the rate of $10.00 an acre.

For full information application should be made to the Secretary of the Department of the Interior, Ottawa, or to any Agent or Sub-Agent of Dominion Lands.

W. W. CORY,
Deputy Minister of the Interior.

N. B.—Unauthorized publication of this advertisement will not be paid for.—30690 dtf

Let us Develope and Finish Your Films. We Know How.
The Belleville Pharmacy
The Kodak Store. Bridge St.

THE BOARD OF RAILWAY COMMISSIONERS FOR CANADA.

PUBLIC NOTICE is hereby given that the Campbellford, Lake Ontario and Western Railway Company will, after the expiration of four weeks from the date hereof or so soon thereafter as the Application can be heard, apply to the Board of Railway Commissioners for Canada, under the supervisions of Sections 221 and 225 of the Railway Act, for authority to construct, maintain and operate the Passing Sidings and Freight Sheds in the City of Belleville, in the County of Hastings and Province of Ontario, lying between the Westerly limit of the Moira River and the Easterly limit of the Bay Bridge Road in the said City of Belleville, as is shown in Red on the Plan, Profile and Book of Reference deposited in the Registry Office for the County of Hastings, in the City of Belleville, this 15th day of October, 1914

E. W. BEATTY,
General Counsel.
Montreal. o15-3td

Prison Reform Needed

In a recent speech Mr. Reginald McKenna said he had been impressed with the large number of persons who are committed to prison in default of payment of a fine. He said that out of 151,000 people imprisoned in one year, 80,000 were persons unable to pay a fine. The London Daily Mail commenting on this, said:

"Instances have been known of boys spending a fortnight in prison through inability to find the half-guinea imposed for neglecting to carry a light on the carts they were driving. No small proportion, indeed, of the persons thus committed are lads of between fifteen and twenty-one, who have been summoned for trivial offences. In such cases the State is a loser twice over. It loses by having to maintain the offender in prison instead of pocketing his fine, and it loses again and still more heavily by the debilitating influence of prison life upon character."

Mr. McKenna proposed that a person sentenced to a fine shall be allowed to pay it in instalments. If a money debt is due to the State, the State has ample means of collecting it.

Five Barreled Megapone

A five barreled megaphone, with tubes radiating in as many directions, has been invented by a Maine woman to save a person turning around and repeating his words when making an announcement.

Internal Combustion Locomotive

After many tests an internal combustion locomotive, using crude oil fuel, is proving satisfactory in Germany, frequently attaining a speed of 60 miles an hour.

Celluloid Wings for Aeroplanes.

Celluloid wings for aeroplanes that are said to be so transparent as to be invisibe 300 feet in the air have been invented by a German engineer.

Rondeau Made While Heated.

If I had time this sweltering day
To write a wondrous roundelay
To waft the reader to a clime
More temperate, more free from grime
And change, then we might all away

To where the trees with breezes sway,
To where the skies are cool and gray,
Where squirts the seltzer, grows the lime—
If I had time!

If I had time I might display
A bit of energy—but, nay;
You're weary, reader dear, while I'm
Just bluffing with machine made rime.
(But couldn't we be awf'ly gay
If I had time?)

—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Would Go Without Help.

A rising composer wrote an anthem for a celebration in a certain colonial capital.

Toward the end of the ceremonies, when the people were going out a few at a time, the author rushed to the conductor and said:

"Is it over?"

"Practically."

"But, great Scott, man, they have not sung my anthem?"

"Well," said the conductor, "so long as the people are going out peacefully and quietly why sing it at all?"—Stray Stories.

Considerate Beasts and Birds.

The rhino is a funny beast,
As sure as you are born.
It never seems to have the least
Desire to blow its horn.
—Youngstown Telegram.

The elephant's another one.
It has an awful hunk
Of weight to carry, but it lets
Nobody tote its trunk.
—Houston Post.

The pelican's an honest bird.
It loves to eat its fill,
But never asks its friends, I've heard,
To help it pay its bill.
—New York Sun.

Eloquence Unchecked.

"Our friend makes exceedingly entertaining speeches," said the cautious campaigner.

"I know it," replied Senator Sorghum.

"Aren't you afraid he'll prove a rival for leadership in our party?"

"No. Just let him go ahead making speeches while I devote my attention to the real business."—Washington Star.

Difficult Children.

Said his father to Jonathan Sinjin:
"My lad, you're as wild as an Injun.
Really, you ain't, John,
What I'd call a saint, John,
And I think that you're in for a swingein'!"

Said her mother to Little Miss Chumley:
"You color your hair rather bumly.
Do it more blondily,
Daughter Cholmondeley,
Don't streak it and freak it so rumly!"
—New York Sun.

She Was Surprised.

"I've got something I want to tell you. You haven't heard about the shocking Billinger tragedy, have you?"

"Yes. I've heard about it at least four times. You're late."

"That's funny. It was told at the club for the first time, and everybody there promised not to repeat it."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Of Course.

"You know that people feather nests,"
Said Tommy Smith.
"But here's a question for you, kid,
What with?"

"That question is a simple one,"
Quoth Jimmy Brown.
"What do folks use to feather nests?
Cash down."
—Kansas City Journal.

His Busy Trade.

"Idleness, I suppose, brings most of these men to jail. See the fellow yonder? He looks the picture of laziness."

"On the contrary, he had work to burn."

"Indeed? What was it?"

"He's a firebug."—Baltimore American.

Made Preparations.

The king was in his counting house,
counting up his money,
The queen was in the kitchen, eating bread and honey.
"It isn't very queenly fare," said she with resignation,
"But if you're going anywhere you must save for vacation."
—Seattle Post-Intelligencer.

The Trousers-like Fit.

"The women are appropriating our privileges," said Hobson sourly. "I hope they'll find attached some of our troubles."

"They will," Jimpson assured him. "My wife was complaining today that her skirt was getting baggy at the knees."—Puck.

It Wasn't Broke.

Said the doc to the maiden from Hocking:
"You have broken your leg. This is shocking."
Said the girl, "That's a joke,
And that leg isn't broke,
For you'll find a dime down in the stocking."
—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Primeval Reproaches.

Adam and Eve were leaving the Garden of Eden.

"It's all your fault," said Adam.

"It isn't, either," replied Eve. "It's your fault. You ought to have had us put under civil service so we couldn't be turned out."—Philadelphia Ledger.

A Scratch Affair.

You may scratch the back of a kindly man,
Who scratches your back; but, say,
You can't scratch the back of a match,
by heck,
Because it ain't built that way!
—Lippincott's.

Suits Herself.

"My wife is always asking me what I would like to eat."

"That's kind of her."

"Oh, I don't know. When I tell her she says, 'The idea!' and orders something else."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

When you see a spinster making a fuss over a widower's children it's a sign that if she doesn't soon acquire the right to correct them it won't be her fault.

THE RITCHIE COMPANY, LIMITED THE RITCHIE COMPANY LIMITED

29-in. Corduroy Velvets

That Would Sell In The Regular Way At 65c yd. But We Have Secured a Special Lot to Sell At 39c

We were indeed fortunate in having secured this fine lot of Corduroy Velvets, especially at this season when they have been decreed by Dame Fashion as one of the leading materials for this and the coming Winter season. The latest and most popular shades are represented, such as Green, Light and Dark Browns, Alice, Copenhagen, White, Terra Cotta, Navy, Scarlet and Purple, every piece 29 inches wide and would be considered splendid value at 65c. a yard, but we have marked them at this extremely low figure in order that you as well as ourselves may benefit by this special purchase. They are now displayed in our show windows and at the Dress Goods Counter, plainly ticketed at . . . . . . . . . . 39c

SEE THEM IN THE CENTRE WINDOW.

New Arrivals in Ladies' and Misses' Novelty Neckwear

Many pretty pieces of neckwear are now on display at the neckwear counter, just in from the large style centres. The selection includes Collars and sets in Organdies, Embroidered Soft Linen, Organdie Vests and Lace Collars all in the latest styles now being worn. Priced at—

25c to $1.00

Ladies' and Misses' Serge Dresses, $5.00

Splendid ladies' and misses' serge dresses in navy and Copenhagen, made of extra good material in attractive styles, plain skirt, and trimmed on cuffs and around collar with fancy braid. Sizes 14, 16, 18 and 36. All this season's, to sell at . . . . . . . . . . $5.00

Ladies' and Misses Corset Covers, 25c

Made of good quality white cotton, trimmed with wide lace and insertion, with pink baby ribbon running through beading at neck. Sizes 34 to 44, on sale at . . . . . . . . . . 25c

Ladies' Print Wrappers, $1.19

With high neck and long sleeves, made of good quality fast color dark grey prints in attractive styles. Sizes 34 to 44. On sale at . . . . . . . . . . $1.19

Splendid Value in Black Moire Underskirts At $1.35

Made of good soft Moire in large roomy sizes with wide tucked frill at bottom; skirt buttoned at side and good tape tie string. Sizes 38, 40 and 42. Excellent value at . . . . . . . . . . $1.35

Same skirts made in O. S. sizes at . . . $1.50

Ladies' and Misses' Raincoats, $4.95

They are a splendid garment, made of rubberized poplin with belt and storm cuffs, reinforced buttons and two pockets. They close well up under the neck and come in black, fawn, grey and navy shades. Sizes 14 to 44. Special . . . . . . . $4.95

Heptonnette Rain Coats.

We are also showing a large stock of these celebrated raincoats in the new styles and latest materials at—

$5.00 to $15.00

Children's Fall and Winter Dresses

AT $1.25—Made of good quality wrapperette, in black and white check, neat French styles with belt and two box pleats down front and back, piped nicely with cardinal shades; sizes 2, 3 and 4 years. Special garment at . . . . . . . . . . $1.25

AT $2.25—SERGE DRESSES in French styles, extra good quality materials, neatly piped with contrasting colors. They are in shades of navy piped with cardinal and cardinal piped with black and white check. Ages 2, 3, 4 and 5 years, priced at . . . . . . . . . . $2.25

AT $3.00. BEAUTIFUL SERGE DRESSES in very attractive styles, for ages 4, 5, 6 and 8 years. They are neatly piped and trimmed with black and white check, the shades being navy, cardinal and Copenhagen. Priced at . . . . . . . . . . $3.00

Others up to . . . . . . . . . . $5.75

FURNITURE UPHOLSTERING

We make a specialty of furniture upholstering, and if you will call phone 451a we will send a man and give you an estimate on your needs.

The Ritchie Company Limited

While machine guns are melting their bearings in Europe, there is talk of reviving archery in this country.

If only the supply of habit forming drugs were shut off the war might prove a blessing to this country.

There may be as much wisdom in preparing for peace in time of war as in preparing for war in time of peace.

Switzerland's bid to become the international hospital camp is due to the fact that the tourist business is ruined.

Food speculation is an ancient and dishonorable pastime that has failed to be reformed in the course of centuries.

The newspapers are finding as much trouble in naming the present war as a young couple finds in naming the baby.

After this the Belgians will probably want to move their country to some place out of the track of other people's wars.

The transatlantic steamer passenger may now feel the excitements and awes of the blockade runners of half a century past.

No wonder Greece is irritated. She paid full price for a pair of second-hand ships and then Turkey got two at a forced sale.

Usually "decisive" battles do not occur until late in the war. And seldom has it been possible to tell one until after it was over.

One railroad company plans noiseless cars for the sleepless. Have they actually perfected a device to insure noiseless sleeping?

As the shortage is chiefly of textile dyestuffs, there is no reason for fearing as yet that complexions will be appreciably affected by the war.

Influential Americans have become acquainted with ocean travel in a way that may eventually lead to some improvement of steerage conditions.

If the capture of guns by all the armies continues at the recent rate none of them will have any artillery left by the time the war is half over.

Austrians Using Dum-dums.

PETROGRAD, Oct. 16.—The general staff of Kiev has given out a statement alleging that dum-dum bullets are being used by Austrian troops. Eight cases of those bullets have been secured in the theatre of war. The packages in which they are put up bear this inscription: "Uebungspatronen M. T. Weif S. 1914."

According to advices received here many Roumanian deserters are presenting themselves before the Roumanian consul at Odessa and demanding that they be sent home.

Just now one man's guess as to how long the war will last is as good as another's.

The shoe that pinches looks just as well as the one that does not irritate your corns.

How some of those war poems get by the censor is something that ought to be explained.

About the blackest touch on the night side of warfare is what calls itself "reprisal."

Add to the list of the horrors of war: A Canadian firm is advertising a military wrist watch.

Consistent neutrality must be as hard an ideal as the frictionless pulley and the invisible lens.

It yet may become necessary to land marines to protect Mr. Carnegie's peace palace at The Hague.

Anybody who knows anything about a family fight should know enough to remain strictly neutral.

Contribution Is Acknowledged.

TORONTO, Oct. 9.—Mrs. Gooderham, the president of the Canadian Women's Hospital Ship Fund, has received the following telegram from Ottawa:

"Her Royal Highness the Duchess of Connaught has received cable from the Army Council, who gratefully accept $100,000 from the women of Canada, and will spend the whole sum in purchase of 40 motor ambulance cars, 20 to be used in France and 20 in England. Each car will be inscribed, 'Canadian Women's Motor Ambulance'."

CITY AND VICINITY

The Raymond Sewing Machines made in Canada sold at Goodsell's Music Store. 16-17

Keep date open for the Fowl Supper, and Dr. James L. Hughes' lecture, in Holloway St. Methodist Church on Monday, Oct. 26. Tea from 5.30 p.m to 8 p.m. 14,31

Upright Piano in good condition at $150.00; $10.00 cash and $6.00 per month at Goodsell's Music Store.

Special Sale

Saturday Oct. 17th., and until further notice, finest quality Spring Lamb: Fore Quarters, 13c. per lb.; Hind Quarter, 17c. per lb.; Fresh Pork, 15 to 17c. per lb. Geo. I. Thomas, 377 Front St., Phone 305.

It's a Long Way to Tipperary, Double disc records, 85c. at Goodsell's Music Store. 16-17

The tea-rooms at the Hotel Quinte will re-open to-morrow, Saturday, for the season. 1t

The Sons of Scotland are giving a Concert in aid of The Patriotic Fund on St. Andrew's Night, the latter part of November.

AUCTION SALE

The adjourned sale at 246 West Ann Street, will be held 19th October, at one o'clock. Many bargains given. 16,2t

Love doesn't thrive on absent treatment.

Many a man walks around and runs a risk at the same time.

The Main Thing.

You may not be so brilliant,
So dazzling as to dim
Electric light exhibits
That blazing store fronts trim;
Fame from its heights immortal
You may not proudly tear,
But you can be a winner
If you are on the square.

It isn't doubtful scheming
That you may get ahead
That brings you satisfaction
When in your trundle bed.
What looks like easy money
May not turn out so cheap
If after you have spent it
It robs you of your sleep.

In giving and in taking
You know what's right or wrong
Without the legal papers
To put it clear and strong.
If in your private ledger,
Where truth you cannot bluff,
It isn't marked as meanness
That's doing well enough.

It doesn't take a genius,
A marvel strong and great,
Upon a bit of paper
To mark a line that's straight.
The plodder is more likely
The person who will wear
And be at last the winner
If he is on the square.

Later Information.

"Jugby is inclined to let his daughter have her own way in love affairs. He says she shall marry whom she likes."

"She won't, though."

"Why not?"

"She will marry whoever she can get."

A Confession.

"I hear you called me a grafter."

"You are."

"What proof have you got?"

"Circumstantial evidence."

"What it is?"

"That you didn't knock me down when I called you one."

It Made Her Grieve.

Respectable Deacon—I wish that young Cubon Mayberry wasn't obliged to preach to such a small congregation.

Frivolous Widow—So do I. Every time he said "dearly beloved" this morning I felt as if I had received a [illegible]

Twelve Pages

The Daily Intelligencer

Pages 9 To 12

LET THERE BE HARMONY IN THINGS ESSENTIAL—LIBERTY IN THINGS NOT ESSENTIAL—CHARITY IN ALL.

Vol. 48 BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO, FRIDAY, OCTOBER 16, 1914. No. 136

A SOLDIER'S EXPERIENCE AT THE BATTLE OF MONS

Calgary Man Who Was With Cameron Highlanders is Going Back as Soon as Big Wound Heals--German Officers Shot Down Men Who Looked to Rear When Battle Was in Progress

MONTREAL, Oct. 15.—"We Camerons give no quarter and ask none. That is one reason why we had only 158 men out of 850 left after four-day fighting near Mons; another is that we were facing an entire army corps." Private Joseph Hay, of the Cameron Highlanders, one of the eight men who have arrived in Canada from the front, was the speaker. Private Hay left Montreal on Saturday night, for his home in Calgary, after a bullet wound in his lung had been treated in the Royal Victoria hospital.

Private Hay was a reservist of the Cameron Highlanders, and has been a resident of Calgary. Last July he went to Perth Scotland, to visit his grandfather. When the declaration of war came on August 4th, he went to Edinburgh Castle to report. "I had hardly got my uniform on," he said "before we were entrained. A few days later we arrived at Ostend and from there went to Mons.

"On the 21st of August we were given orders to prepare for fighting, and the next day, about noon, the enemy attacked Mons. We were told that the Turcos were going to support us on the right and the Belgians on the left. Whether another body of Germans was holding them or not, I don't know, but we didn't see anything of them for the next four days. I don't remember much about what happened. After the first hand-to-hand fight, none of us were in our right senses. We fought by instinct and never took the time to think what we were doing. All day long we fought and at night we dug trenches. At first, the officers directed us, but pretty soon it was every man for himself. We eight hundred odd men were facing the attack of the entire fifteenth German army corps, made up of almost 100,000 men. We lost two-thirds of our regiment and all but two of our officers, but we gave them all they were looking for.

"For four days we never slept a wink, and hardly ate a bite. The entire regiment was spread out in open order, under cover of hillocks or bushes, if possible, with two regiments of German field artillery keeping up a continuous fire over our heads. We got so that we didn't mind that, though. After the first day I didn't hear the shells any more than I heard the ticking of my watch. Anyway, we soon found that the German artillery weren't very dangerous. It takes about one hundred of their shells to kill one of our men. Most of their shrapnel would go tearing over over our heads and explode in the fields half a mile away. I found hundreds of shells which didn't burst at all. They usually had their infantry spread out in a half circle in front of us, and then attacking columns would start out from a number of points from their lines.

"After the first few hand-to-hand fights those Germans didnt enjoy coming at us at all. I have seen, at the rear of squads of German infantry attacking us, two German officers, with revolvers in their hands, who shot every one of their men who even looked toward the rear. It is a grand sensation to be fighting with a bayonet. You feel mad all over; it isn't like shooting, when you can never see the effect of your work. Those Germans didn't like our bayonets at all. We would fight as long as we could, and then gradually retire, carrying back all of our wounded. We never took a German prisoner; we shot them all. When any of our men were surrounded, they fought until they were all killed.

"Finally, the fourth day, we were fighting in trenches, and although only 230 of us were able to hold our rifles, we seemed to have brought the 15th army corps to a halt. I learned later that it was on that day that the turning movement started, and that the enemy began to retreat. I only had a few rounds of shot, and was using ammunition as carefully as possible, when it seemed as if someone hit me an awful one in the chest, and I fell on my back in the trench. When I woke up, I was in a Belgian Red Cross ambulance, and two men were pummelling my chest. I asked them what they were doing and they said they were looking for the bullet in my lung. I swore there was no bullet, and I was right. The lead had passed right through my left lung and came out at the back. I didn't see much of the fighting after that.

"I was shipped back to England, and then here. But just as soon as I can get my wind right again, I will go back. They need every man they can get, and one of our Highlanders is worth any three Germans. The Gordons, the Black Watch and the Cameronians Borderers suffered heavily; as to us, at the last parade, 158 men turned up, and most of them were slightly wounded. Only two officers were not wounded, Lieutenant Erquart and Captain Jamieson. But you see, these four regiments had the name of being the best fighters in the world and we had to live up to the name. It was a good fight, anyhow."

Speaking of France, Private Hay answered: "It's a grand country to fight in." The Camerons paid high tribute to the Belgian troops. Most of those he saw were civilians, unused to any hardships, and with no equipment except a uniform and a rifle and a few rounds of shot. Most of them were sick or wounded, but were fighting with a courage and endurance that could not be surpassed. The Turcos, he said, fought like devils, but they could not stand the long waits in the trenches or exposure in the wet fields. "The French can shoot well, but their drill and formations are below ours. They are fine fellows, though."

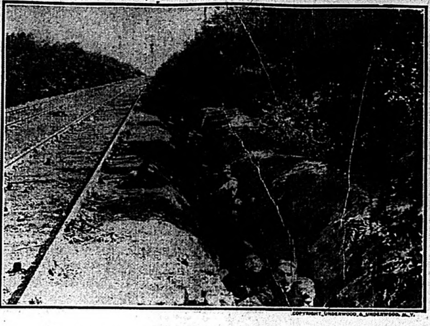
Private Hay had not seen any of the alleged atrocities of the German soldiers, but he said that he would have no hesitation in believing them after what he had seen of them. "They do not enjoy the fighting like we do. They are driven forward by their officers and fight like machines. When separated from their central corps they are like sheep, and don't seem able to use their common sense. Man to man, either the English or the French are away ahead of them, but they seem to have endless regiments. We would clear the field of them, and cover the ground with great heaps of their dead and wounded, and still they would come on."

"Heroism evidently went unnoticed among that regiment of Scots. Asked if any of their men fell within the German lines, Private Hay answered "Oh, yes, quite a few, but some of us would go back and carry them in."

In spite of his wound the soldier protested against letting anyone carry his heavy kit bag. As the train was pulling out of the Windsor station on Saturday night his last words were—"I hope that this hope heals up mighty quick, so I will have a chance to get another crack at them."

Teachers of elocution can't do anything for the voice of conscience in most of us.

The older a girl is the easier it is for her to forget her birthday anniversaries.



COPYRIGHT, UNDERWOOD & UNDERWOOD, N.Y.

THE BATTLE OF HOFSTADE.

Belgian soldiers in the deep trenches along the railway which they Battle of Hofstade. The soldiers on guarded against the Germans at the for the continuous rain has filled the field are enduring much hardship the trenches with water.

AUTHOR OF A GREAT STORY

Isabel Gordon Curtis.

Isabel Gordon Curtis, author of "The Lapse of Enoch Wentworth," is one of the best-known literary women of America and for years her name has been familiar to readers of household and farm periodicals and of fiction. She was born fifty years ago in Huntley, Aberdeenshire, Scotland, and after receiving an academic education in that country, came to the United States in 1886. For several years she did general literary work, and then she was successively literary editor of the New England Homestead and Farm and Home, dramatic editor of the Springfield Homestead, associated with her husband, Francis Curtis, as editor of the Binghampton Chronicle; associate editor of Good Housekeeping, and editor of the woman's department of Success Magazine. In addition to all these activities, she has found time since 1903 to do a great deal of general magazine work and juvenile story writing, and in recent years has written several novels that proved highly successful and popular. Some of these deal with official and social life in Washington, with which Mrs. Curtis is thoroughly familiar and which she portrays with vivid reality.

The greatest work Mrs. Curtis has produced, "The Lapse of Enoch Wentworth," is a story of the New York stage and New York newspaper life. It is a story with a high moral purpose, and one which holds the interest of the reader to the end. The reviewers generally have pronounced it one of the greatest of American novels.

It is with considerable pleasure that we are able to announce that we have arranged for the serial publication rights on this story, the first installment of which will appear soon. We earnestly advise all readers to watch for it.

COMMENCING IN THE INTELLIGENCER, SATURDAY, OCT. 17TH.

WITH DOG, CAT AND MOVING PICTURE MAN IN WAR ZONE

Cannie Dodged Bursting Shells but Feline Never Turned a Hair--How to Recognize Fakes--Photographer Says Men Killed by Bullets and Sharpnel do Not Fling Rifles in Air or Pose

The Antwerp correspondent in the Daily News of a recent date details an interview with Cherry Kearton, describing some of the latter's experiences in photographing war scenes. Mr. Kearton was in Alost during the German bombardment.

"I tried to get pictures of shells exploding," he said, "but it was next to useless, for they hardly show on the film. In the trenches, too, it is useless—and rather brutal, it seems to me to try and get pictures. For instance, we who have seen men die from bullets and shrapnel know quite well they simply slip forward a little and the whole thing is finished. They do not fling their rifles in the air and die in a posture, and pictures that show that may be known as fakes.

"By the time I had finshed trying to get pictures of shells exploding among the houses I thought it was time to get out. So I started off down the street with a Belgian. One thing was interesting, a dog and a cat following us down the street, and as the shells burst the dog went dodging about from one side street to other but cat never turned a hair. It walked along behind us as if we were cat's meat men. The dog made me nervous but the cat was reassuring.

"Further down the whistle of shells came following us along again, trying to pick up the Belgian retreat, but bebefore the "boom" came that time I managed to break into a door of a shop and get inside. It is surprising what one will do in emergencies like that.

"Fortunately for the cat and dog it was a butcher shop, and I thought they might as well have some meat as the Germans, so I handed them down a leg of veal and left them to it. Then I came out.

"When the war is over, I know a nice quiet place in Central Africa and I am going back. This job is too difficult, and it is not very satisfactory working a moving picture machine when you would rather work a mitrailleuse."

HEROIC DEED OF CYCLIST WON A QUICK REWARD

LONDON, Oct. 15.—The Daily Chronicle publishes the following from its correspondent at Angers:—

"In the British Expeditionary Force there is an English soldier, a member of a cyclist corps, who is proud to wear upon his breast the 'Medaille Militaire' of the French Army.

"The story of the stirring incident has been told to me by Henri Roger, a young soldier of the Fifth Infantry, who saw it from the trenches and who is now lying wounded in a hospital here.

"During one of the engagements last week on the Aisne the Fifth was holding an entrenched position and was faced in the distance by a strong force of the enemy. To the right and left of the opposing forces were large clumps of trees, in one of which a force of English troops had taken up a position, a fact regarding which the Germans were unaware. In the other wood, it was soon discovered, lay a considerable body of German infantry with several machine gun sections.

"A road ran beside the wood in which the enemy lay hidden, and along it a force of French infantry was seen to be advancing. How were they to be saved from the ambush into which they were marching? That was the problem, and it was a difficult one.

"Every time the French troops in the trenches endeavored to signal to their oncoming comrades hidden German sharpshooters picked off the signallers. Soon the position seemed to be almost desperate; Every moment the entrenched French soldiers expected to hear the hideous swish of the Maxims mowing down their unsuspecting comrades.

"Suddenly, however, something happened which attracted the attention of the French and German trenches. From the wood where the English lay hidden a cyclist dashed—the English, too, had seen the danger, and a cyclist had been ordered to carry a message of warning to the advancing French column, several hundred strong.

"The cyclist bent low in his saddle and darted forward; he had not gone a hundred yards before he fell, killed by a well-aimed German bullet. A minute later another cyclist appeared only, in a second or two, to share his comrade's rate.

"Then a third—the thing had to be done The bullets whizzed around him, but on he went over the fire-swept zone. The Frenchmen held their breath as they watched the gallant cyclist speeding towards the French column; puffs of smoke from the wood where the Germans were showed that the sharpshooters were redoubling their efforts. But the cyclist held on and soon passed beyond high ground where he was sheltered from the Germans, but could still be seen by the entrenched French.

"The Frenchmen could not resist a loud 'Hurrah!' when they saw the daring cyclist dismount on reaching the officer in command of the troops which he had dared death to save.

"The officer heard the message and took in th position at a glance. He gave an order or two instantly, and turned to the Englishman.

"Then was there a fine but simple battle picture which should live.

"The deed which had saved hundreds of lives was one of those which bring glory as of old back to the horror of modern warfare. Courage, and courage alone, had triumphed, unsupported by any of the murderous machinery of the armies of to-day.

"That was what the French officer recognized. He saluted the gallant fellow standing by the cycle. Then with a simple movement, took the "medaille militaire"—the Victoria Cross of France—from his own tunic and pinned it on the coat of the Englishman.

"'I am glad,' young Roger told me when he had finished relating the story, 'to have lived to see that deed. It was glorious!'"

BIOGRAPHY OF KING CHARLES WAS FRIENDLY TO THE KAISER

Death of Monarch Recalls Recent Intrigues With the German Empire; His Brother Was a Man Who Precipitated Another Great War--Carmen Sylvia is Now Bereaved

LONDON, Oct. 15.—Last Saturday evening reports came from both Petrograd and Vienna that King Charles of Roumania had died on Saturday.

King Charles had recently been under suspicion of accepting overtures to join Germany, but his Cabinet dissented. He was perhaps best known in Canada as the husband of "Carmen Sylva," that being the pen-name of Princess Elizabeth of Weid, whom he married on November 15, 1869. She was born in 1843 and, survives him.

Prince Leopold of Hohenzollern, brother of the late King Charles, and father of the new King Ferdinand, was three times offered the crown of Spain during the time the provisional Government ruled that country, and three times declined the offer. In July, 1870, it was offered to him a fourth time, and he accepted. The French Government protested against a Prussian prince occupying the throne of Spain, and Prince Ledpold withdrew his acceptance. The French were not content with this, and demanded that the King of Prussia (grandfather of the present Kaiser) undertake that no Prussian prince ever consent to become King of Spain, Count Benedette, French ambassador, made this demand on King William on the promenade at Ems. The King declined to make the promise. His message to Bismarck was altered in such a way by him for the press that public opinion both in France and Prussia was inflamed to such an extent that war became inevitable, and a few days later France issued a declaration of war.

Dead King Had Striking Career

Charles I. was Roumania's first king. The story of his career, spanning 75 years, is that of a German Prince elected to govern a Latin people, out of which experience Roumanians or those who have followed the fortunes of that buffer state will recall much that is stirring if not romantic.

Prince Charles was born at Hohenzollern, an elder branch of the family than that of Emperor William of Germany, but none the less proud of its blood. He was the son of Prince Charles Anthony of Hohenzollern-Sigmaringen, who voluntarily resigned the Hohenzollern regentship in favor of the Prussian crown and subsequently became prime minister of Prussia.

It was while Charles was serving, at the age of 27 years, as an officer of high rank in the Prussian guard, that the Turkish provinces of Wallachia and Moldavia united to call themselves Roumania and, casting their eyes about Europe for a foreign Prince to govern them—since no native Prince had been successful—took the advice of Napoleon III., and invited young Charles to be their Prince.

A Perilous Undertaking

With Austria at that time preparing to fight Prussia, young Charles' departrue for Roumania was such a perilous undertaking that he made it secretly. He disguised himself as a Russian merchant bound for Odessa and sailed down the Danube, jumping ashore on Roumanian territory on May 20, 1866, and made his way to the palace at Bucharest, where he was proclaimed Prince three days later. Napoleon III. had told him that nothing was more difficult than to govern a Latin race. The young Prince soon found that he had been well advised in this respect. He was homesick and beset with innumerable difficulties, growing out of the fact that the country was struggling with a new constitution that gave the people an unaccustomed liberty and that he made no secret of his purpose to plant among them the civilization of Germany, though he sincerely desired to become the best Roumanian of them all. His great confidence in the virtue of Hohenzollern blood, brought him energy and patience which later won the hearts of his people.

Queen Beloved Among the People

In the meantime, at the age of 30, the young Prince paid court to Princess Elizabeth of Wied, with whom he fell in love at first sight when he met her in Cologne, and the marriage was celebrated on the banks of the Rhine in the fall of 1869. The Queen has since become beloved among her people for her devotion to good works and famous throughout the world as a poet, with the pseudonym of "Carman Sylva."

A boy was born to the couple, but he died at the age of six, and they had no further children. In 1878 when there arose the question of participating in the Turko-Russian war, Prince Charles stood firm for neutrality, but when the Russians were on the point of being crushed at Plevna and Grand Duke Nicholas sent his famous call for help, the Roumanian forces were led to battle and with Charles at their head decisively defeated the great Turkish army.

King Charles of Wide Renown

The renown of Prince Charles spread and four years later, out of a cannon he had captured act Plevna, the Roumanian people cast him an iron crown. With consent of the Powers they placed it on his head in 1881. From this time on King Charles was universally acknowledged the leader of his adopted people and the Kingdom of Roumania became a factor in international politics. She held aloof from the common Balkan war against the Turks, but was stirred in her own behalf by Bulgarian greed for territory, and after the wars King Charles pressed his country's claim for 2,500 miles of territory as compensation for the neutrality Roumania had preserved, and started an invasion of Bulgaria. The Bulgars soon sued for peace and handed over the coveted strip, extending about 100 miles onward.

"By ourselves alone", are the words which ornament the iron crown King Charles has worn. He was never a party to international alliances, although groups represented in both the Triple Alliance and the Triple Entente have been said to be courting Roumanian support.

The Successor is Ferdinand

The successor of King Charles on the Roumanian throne, according to a decree of March 18th, 1889, is his nephew, Prince Ferdinand, whose wife is a granddaughter of Queen Victoria, being a daughter of her son, the Duke of Edinburgh. The original heir to the throne was Prince Leopold of Hohenzollern-Sigmaringen, a brother of King Charles. It has been confidently expected by the Roumanians that Leopold would take the reins of Government, and they were content, but Leopold had no inclinations in the direction of governing. He declined the place of heir, and appointed in his stead his son, Prince Wilhelm. But Wilhelm, following the example of his father, also declined the throne, which went begging until it reached Prince Ferdinand, a younger brother of Wilhelm. Prince Ferdinand is, and always was, somewhat unpopular with the Roumanian people. His wife, now Queen Marie, is said to be the most beautiful princess of Europe.

Ferdinand and Marie have been bountifully blessed with children. They have six now—Carol, the heir-ess apparent; Elizabeth, Marie, Nicholas, Ileano and Mircia.

REPULSED ON VISTULA

Russian Official Bulletin Reports a Victory Near Warsaw.

Vienna Claims That the Russians Have Evacuated Lemberg and Military Experts Believe Galicia May Now Be Left by the Russian Forces In Order to Meet Huge German Army In Poland.

LONDON, Oct. 15. — An official statement issued from the Russian War Office last night says:

"The Germans were successfully repulsed yesterday on the River Vistula between Warsaw and Ivangorod. One Russian regiment captured two German companies.

"It is also reported that fighting is proceeding north of Przemysl. It is estimated that the Russians in the Province of Suwalki took 10,000 prisoners and 40 German guns, besides several maxim guns.

"There are no important changes on the other fronts."

Vienna makes the claim that the Russians have evacuated Lemberg, while the Russians yesterday denied a similar report that they had given up the siege of Przemysl. It would not surprise military men if the Russians withdrew from Galicia to concentrate all their forces for the supreme struggle which, with the advance of the Austro-German armies into Poland, is now upon them along the Vistula river from south of Warsaw to their southern boundary.

Nothing new has come through concerning the battles on the East Prussian frontier, but the activity of the German fleet in the Baltic and Gulf of Finland may presage the arrival of German reinforcements, which it was reported some days ago were being embarked at German Baltic ports.

A despatch from The Hague to a news agency here, says that the Austrian legation there has announced that the Russians have evacuated Lemberg after a fierce fight with the re-formed Austrian army. Lemberg was captured by the Russians early in the Galician campaign.

A despatch to The Times from Petrograd says:

"On a conservative estimate, the German forces known to be on the eastern frontier number about a million and a half effective men, not counting the Austrian troops, of whom there are about 270,000 on the Silesian front."

TURMOIL IN SARAYEVO.

Trial of Assassin and Accomplices Produces Reign of Terror.

ROME, Oct. 15. — (Via Paris.)— Despatches received here by way of the frontier from Sarayevo, Bosnia, say that the town is virtually in a state of siege owing to the circumstances surrounding the trial of Gavrio Prinzip, the assassin of Archduke Francis Ferdinand and his wife, and Prinzip's twenty-one accomplices. The men are being tried on a charge of high treason in connection with the assassination.

Terror reigns everywhere in Sarayevo, it is said. The police have taken extraordinary precautions and the whole garrison is being kept in readiness for any emergency. According to the laws the trial is open to the public, but in reality the space reserved for the public is being entirely occupied by police agents in civilian clothes. Telegraphic reports of the trial are prohibited, except those of the official agency.

CHARTER IS GRANTED.

W. K. McNaught's Municipal Aid Association Is Launched.

TORONTO, Oct. 15.—The second piece of special legislation authorized by the Ontario Government because of the industrial conditions prevailing in the province, was passed through the Cabinet yesterday when the charter of the Municipal Aid Association was formally approved. This measure with that which allows appeal to courts in case of mortgage foreclosure, will come before the Legislature when next it convenes, appearing as a private bill and will require merely the formality of adoption.

The movement, which was begun by W. K. McNaught, C.M.G., was designed from the first to provide some means of relief to worthy people who are in danger of being crowded to the wall by heavy financial demands during the winter. Small amounts will be loaned to applicants on the best security which they can offer.

The intention is to extend the idea to all the larger centres in the province and to enlist the co-operation of leading men in industrial life.

ENEMY PRESSED BACK.

British Force Operating Towards Left of Allies' Line.

LONDON, Oct. 15.—The grip of the censor was tighter yesterday than ever before and only the most meagre news was given out in London.

The official press bureau last night issued the following statement:

"British troops have been engaged with the enemy towards the left of the allied line, in France, with the result that the Germans have been pressed back slightly on their flank. The nature of the country in which the fighting has been conducted, being a mining centre, makes rapid progress difficult."

The official communication issued last night by the French War Office says: "The reports received last night, which are in very general terms, indicate no important modifications in the situation."

The French War Office yesterday afternoon issued a long communique which covers operations very comprehensively, and at the same time emphatically denies reports current in the German press and propagated from German sources:

"In Belgium several engagements took place on the nights of the 12th and 13th, in the vicinity of Ghent. On the 13th some Anglo-French troops occupied Ypres.

"On our left wing, as far as the Oise, the military operations continue without incident. In the centre the progress of our troops in the region of Berry-au-Bac is confirmed.

"On our right wing there is nothing new."

It's easier to purchase a flying machine than to sprout wings.

Father Time probably hands a woman a new wrinkle occasionally as a reminder that she hasn't been forgotten.

SERVIANS VICTORIOUS.

They Have Repulsed Two Austrian Attacks With Heavy Loss.

LONDON, Oct. 15.—The following Servian official statement, given out in Nish, has been received by Reuter's Telegram Co.:

"On Sunday night the enemy attempted two attacks on the extreme right wing of the front between Svornik (Bosnia) and Losnitza (Servia). The attacks were repulsed with heavy losses to the Austrians.

"On Monday morning they attempted to attack the Servians twice on the left bank of the Save river, but were repulsed on each occasion with great loss. Our artillery, by its accurate fire, spread panic in the ranks of the enemy."

A despatch received here from Nish, Servia, relates that, acting on the instructions of the German general staff, Austria has concentrated on the banks of the Drina the greatest army yet sent against Servia in a final and supreme effort to crush that country.

PORTUGAL READY.

The Congress of the Republic Will Meet To Provide For Army.

LISBON, Portugal, Oct. 15.—(Delayed.)—As a result of Cabinet meetings and conferences of party leaders with President Manuel D'Arriaga, it has been resolved to convoke congress on Friday to pass a vote for the mobilization of troops. It is reported that the German Minister to Portugal and other German residents of the city are about to leave for Madrid.

Portugal's peace army numbers 30,000 men at home and 10,000 in her colonies. Conscription prevails in the republic, and Portugal might be able to offer England 250,000 trained men for overseas operations.

Asked Passage For Wounded.

AMSTERDAM, Oct. 10. — (Via London.)—The British Minister at The Hague has asked the Government to permit the free passage of a hospital ship to convey wounded from Antwerp to England. This, it is explained, was the only foundation for the report that Great Britain had asked the Dutch to allow British warships passage to Antwerp.

Three More Prisoners.

SARNIA, Oct. 15. — Three more Austrian prisoners of war were removed from here to old Fort Henry, Kingston, yesterday.

Fell 22 Storeys to Death.

NEW YORK, Oct. 15. — Gustav Baumann, president of the Bilmore Hotel, went to the roof of the hotel yesterday to inspect the carpenter shops there. While looking over the ledge he lost his balance and fell 22 storeys to the ground below. When his body was found it was first thought that his death was caused by apoplexy.

ADMITTED SHOOTING.

Pte. Hartley Said He "Got the Wrong One," Say Witnesses.

ST. CATHARINES, Oct. 9.—That Pte. Frank Hartley, after the tragedy on the Welland Canal Wednesday night, admitted killing Pte. Burgoyne, and stated afterwards that he "got the wrong one," was evidence given by Chief of Police Greene at the inquest last night. The "other one" apparently was Sergt. Burgoyne, brother of the victim, who a few moments previous to the shooting had sent Hartley to his tent because he answered the roll call late and was improperly dressed.

According to the evidence of several eye-witnesses last night, Hartley later left the tent, complaining of Sergt. Burgoyne's treatment of him, and saying that the non-com. was not treating him right. The deceased, "Teddy" Burgoyne, overhearing the remarks of Hartley, denied that his brother had a pick on him. Next came a boast from the prisoner that he was an Englishman and he could lick anybody on the canal. "Teddy" replied that he was a Canadian and that he was proud of it. "I'll shoot you," remarked Hartley to the deceased, to which Burgoyne, drawing himself up to "attention," with his hands in the pockets of the sweater coat which he wore, said: "Shoot."

This dialogue was corroborated by five members of the guard who were standing near, and at least three could have knocked the rifle aside had they known it was loaded. There proved to be cartridges in the magazine contrary to order.

After forty-five minutes' consideration of the evidence the jury returned a direct verdict against Hartley of wilfully murdering Burgoyne.

TELEGRAPH BRIEFS.

Hon. W. J. Roche, Minister of the Interior, arrived in Winnipeg yesterday morning after a lengthy sojourn at the Mayo Hospital in Minnesota.

The barn and contents of Ross McLennan, of Bruce Township, were entirely destroyed by fire, caused by lightning. The building was filled with the season's crop.

Rev. E. E. Sayles resigned the pastorate of the Oshawa Baptist Church. He went to Oshawa two and a half years ago, after graduating from McMaster University.

The electrification of the London and Port Stanley Railway, London's road to Lake Erie, will not be delayed on account of the war, and rehabilitation work is being rushed ahead.

Many a successful business man can remember when he was a country boy and his old-fashioned mother pinned her apron on him and made him churn.

SIRES AND SONS.

Senator Weeks of Massachusetts weighs 275 pounds.

The famous French lawyer, Maitre Labori, who became an international figure at the time of the Dreyfus case, is now fifty-five years old.

Dr. Doyen, the French surgeon, is generally considered to be the wealthiest medical man in the world. He is also one of the busiest, and it is proverbial in Paris that no healthy man can ever get a talk with him.

Dr. Hideyo Noguchi, who has been made a member of the Rockefeller institute, has for the past ten years done important medical research work for the institute. Dr. Noguchi is a Japanese and has spent a large part of his life in this country.

Dr. Emanuel Lasker, the world's chess champion, won the title from W. Steinitz, who had successfully defended it for twenty-eight years. It almost looks as if his successor, like Steinitz, would reign supreme for a long number of years, as he has never been beaten in any match and has won a great number of first prizes in international tournaments.

Pert Personals.

Richard Harding Davis says the English people were calm and silent when he reached London. Maybe they did not know he was coming.—Indianapolis Star.

Naturally, Lillian Russell is peeved over her daughter's latest marriage. Competition even from one's daughter is not pleasurable.—Richmond Times-Dispatch.

Has everybody heard the story about how Brand Whitlock accepted the Belgian post for the purpose of "gaining peace and quiet for the leisurely writing of his next book?"—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

G. Bernard Shaw says he is a cosmopolitan, an antivivisectionist, a vegetarian, a teetotaler, a nonsmoker, an atheist and a liar. This will be a surprise to those who thought that he smoked.—Washington Post.

Town Topics.

A few executions might discourage the common practice of highwaymen killing men in St. Louis.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Judging from the quiet times prevailing in New York, that city has been suffering from a shortage of Black Hand importations.—Washington Post.

Classes for the study of civics are being organized among Chicago women. As yet, however, it has not become necessary to organize classes in domestic economy among the men.—Chicago News.

It is now possible to go from Boston to New York or from New York to Boston by trolley without change of cars if you care to go from Boston to New York or from New York to Boston.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

Flippant Flings.

The Frenchman who got that $2,000 for capturing the first German flag was some pennant winner.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

However, there's no chance of anybody "bottling" the American fleet, as it's against Bos'n Daniels' rules.—Washington Post.

A subway train approaching a citizen who leaned too far over the platform removed his teeth. The economical might also try this with warts and moles.—New York Sun.

The kaiser is reported determined to hold Kiauchau. If you have ever experienced the difficulty of holding a sneeze, you can sympathize with the kaiser.—Manchester Union.

High Prices.

Uncle Sam has declared war on the price boosters, and it's a mighty popular declaration.—Milwaukee Sentinel.

The way in which the country mobilized against inflated prices for food seems to have had some effect.—Philadelphia Press.

While the dogs of war are loose in Europe some of the hogs of war are busy in this country raising food prices.—Chicago News.

Americans are not in the mood to take the boosting of prices on food products as a matter of course just because a war is in progress in Europe.—Sioux City Tribune.

German Gleanings.

Germany has 50,000 boy scouts.

Every German regiment has a chiropodist in its ranks.

The present German empire has an area of 208,780 square miles.

The postal department of Germany employs over 8,000 girls, whose wages range from $12.50 to $17.50 a month.

Prussia requires that lightning rods on government buildings shall be inspected by an expert electrician at least once a year.

Facts From France.

In France last year 14,500 divorces were granted.

The wealth of France is estimated at about $50,000,000,000.

Before the war France made nearly 26,000,000 pairs of gloves yearly, and of these 18,000,000 pairs were exported.

The walls of all the rooms of a new building at the University of Paris are lined with lead to make them impervious to emanations of radium, with which experiments are conducted.

A poor author is like a cheap printing press; he wastes a lot of ink, but never succeeds in making a good impression.

Advertise in The Intelligencer.

FLEEING FROM OSTEND

Pitiful Scenes Mark Approach of Germans on City.

Refugees Crowd Around Docks Pouring Into Steamers as Fast as They Can Be Provided—German Aeroplane Hovering Over Harbor Throws Terror Into Crowds—Firing Heard In Direction of Ghent.

OSTEND, Oct. 15.—(Via London.)—Ostend's fate hangs in the balance. The Government has left. King Albert and the main military headquarters left Tuesday, and 60,000 panic-stricken people await the action of the Germans, who are known to have a large force within twenty miles of the city.

The inhabitants are fleeing as fast as ships can be provided to carry them to England; hospitals were emptied yesterday and the docks were lined with injured soldiers. Hundreds were carried on litters, while those less severely wounded hobbled on canes and crutches, supported by Red Cross nurses, doctors, nuns and priests.

The wounded were given preference on the transports provided for the beleaguered city, while 25,000 struggling people were massed upon the docks and terminals in an effort to find a place on the refugee ships.

A German taube flew over the harbor and struck terror to those below, many of whom had made their way here from Antwerp in the fear that the aeroplane might attempt to drop bombs on the docks and the great glass sheds which cover the joint terminals of the railways and steamships.

Last night was a horrible nightmare to the residents of Ostend and the thousands of refugees fleeing before the German invasion. Wounded soldiers were brought here by the score from Ghent. It is reported that they were engaged Monday near Ghent in a serious battle with the Germans. The allies are said to have had a small force against a large German force and were obliged to withdraw toward the west. Consequently there is virtually no obstacle to the German advance on Ostend.

Firing in the direction of Ghent was heard plainly in Ostend on Monday and Tuesday. The terrified refugees who were at the siege of Antwerp blanched as they listened to the bombardment and increased the fear among the residents of Ostend by describing the horrors of that fallen fortress.

The failure of the Germnas to arrive at daybreak on Wednesday afforded only a slight relief to the anxious crowds. Rumors were current that German cavalry was less than 30 miles away, and the appearance of the taube in the sky was taken as an indication that the Germans were perfecting their plan for entering the city.

Practically no government of any sort remains at Ostend; the departure of King Albert and military headquarters left only the civil guard and policemen, who are attempting to preserve order, but there is lack of direction as the burgomaster, head of the municipal government has left also.

The crowds mass about the gangways of the vessels, making the work of embarking the refugees more difficult. Women and children are trampled in the stampede, as of frightened animals, at every rumor. Bundles of clothes, trunks and bags are stacked everywhere in confusion, preventing the free movement of the crowds.

TO KEEP MUENSTERBERG.

Harvard Will Forego Ten Million Dollars If Necessary.

BOSTON, Oct. 15. — That Prof. Hugo Muensterberg formally presented his resignation to the corporation of Harvard University after Major Clarence Weiner of Surrey, England, a member of the Harvard class of 1900, had threatened to cancel a $10,000,000 bequest to Harvard, and that the corporation of the university declined to accept it, was officially admitted at the university yesterday.

The situation now is this: That Prof. Muensterberg will not be allowed to resign, but that Harvard hopes Major Weiner will reconsider his decision to withdraw his bequest. No matter what happens, Harvard will not yield to the demand that Muensterberg go. The trustees feel, in the first place, that he is a man whose place could not be filled, and they feel, in the second place, that he has a right to make the statements in Germany's defence to which Major Weiner took offence.

Christobel Pankhurst In America.

NEW YORK, Oct. 15.—Christobel Pankhurst, daughter of the militant suffragette leader in England, came unannounced yesterday to New York aboard the Red Star steamer Finland. Miss Pankhurst made the voyage under the name of Elizabeth McDonald and did not announce her identity until the Finland was within sight of shore.

"I do not come to America to advocate militant methods," she said, as she stepped down the gang-plank into the midst of a dozen reporters awaiting her.

She expected to remain in the United States for a few months, she said.

San Guiliano Worse.

ROME, Oct. 15.—(Via Paris.)—After a slight improvement the condition of Marquis Di San Giuliano, Minister of Foreign Affairs, has again grown grave, with marked weakness of the heart. The Minister retains consciousness, however, and understands perfectly the seriousness of his condition.

Although Premier Salandra has taken charge of the Foreign Office, to this has not been officially announced. He will deal with international questions, having previously reached an agreement with Marquis Di San Giuliano regarding the Italian policy.

Wisdom is merely common sense in an uncommon degree.

It's easier to purchase a flying machine than to sprout wings.

OUR PRESENTATION

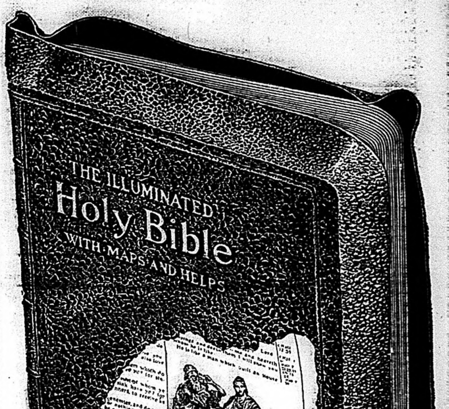
OF THIS $5.00 ILLUSTRATED BIBLE

No book ever printed holds such a place in LITERATURE as the Bible. As an EDUCATIONAL work it demands a place in every home. One need not hold religious beliefs to appreciate the educational and literary value of this great work. Even though one may have many others, this ILLUSTRATED Bible is THE ONE you will USE for it BRINGS OUT in PICTURES the very POINTS that have seemed obsecure and throws a new light on them.

TO EVERY READER OF THE INTELLIGENCER Requires that You Cut Out and

PRESENT 6 FREE CERTIFICATES

Printed daily on another page, clipped on consecutive days, together with the stated amount set opposite style selected, that covers the necessary EXPENSE items of this wonderful distribution, including clerk hire, cost of packing, checking express from factory, etc.



YOUR CHOICE OF THESE BOOKS

Magnificent Illustrated $5 Edition of the BIBLE (like illustration) is bound in full flexible limp leather, with overlapping covers and title stamped in gold, with numerous full-page plates in color from the world famous Tissot collection, together with 600 superb pictures graphically illustrating and making plain the verse in the light of modern Biblical knowledge and research. The text conforms to the authorized edition, is self-pronouncing, with copious marginal references, maps and helps; printed on thin Bible paper; flat opening at all pages; beautiful readable type. 6 consecutive free certificates and the $1.18 Amount Expense Items

The $3 Illustrated BIBLE is exactly the same as the $5 book, except in the style of binding, which is in silk cloth, contains all of the illustrations and maps. Six consecutive free certificates and the 81c. Amount Expense Items

Also an Edition for Catholics. Through an exclusive arrangement we have been most fortunate in securing the Catholic Bible, Douay Version, endorsed by Cardinal Gibbons and Archbishop (now Cardinal) Farley, as well as by the various archbishops of the country. Illustrations consist of the full-page plates and maps approved by the Church, without the Tissot and text pictures. It will be distributed in the same binding as the Protestant books, and at the same Amount Expense Items, with the necessary Free Certificates.

For Mail Orders See Coupon.

This is the only REALLY ILLUSTRATED BIBLE, for the picture of each particular verse illustrated is inserted with THE TYPE so that every illustration corresponds with the accompanying text matter, and makes it plain.

Cost $50 000to Prepare the Illustrations Aside From The Magnificent Tissot Color Plates

MAIL ORDERS

Enclose Six Consecutive Certificates with amount, mention and INCLUDE 23c additional for postage.

The INTELLIGENCER
Belleville, Ont., Can.

A Page Of Interest To Women

Woman's World

Mrs. Catt, Noted Suffrage Leader and Orator.

MRS. CARRIE CHAPMAN CATT.

Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt is one of the most interesting and magnetic of the suffrage leaders. She began life as a teacher in Iowa, was superintendent of public schools at twenty-two years of age, went into the suffrage ranks as an active worker in 1883. Since then she has studied law and medicine and has the equipped mind of the woman who has traveled the world over studying conditions of women in all foreign lands. She is the president of the International Suffrage alliance and has addressed audiences in England, Sweden, Norway, Denmark, Holland, Saxony, Bohemia, Prussia, Hungary and in Africa and the far east. Everywhere the charm of her womanhood won her admiration, and when the alliance met in Stockholm three years ago she was called all over Scandinavia "America's uncrowned queen."

Mrs. Catt is an orator as well as organizer and a teacher of the suffrage school. Her written words bristle with oratory. She has spoken for the suffrage in every state in the Union save Florida, carrying her message before legislatures and constitutional conventions. On her return from Europe, where she has been attending a meeting of the International Suffrage alliance, she expects to take part in suffrage work in New York.

The Empire State campaign committee is making many plans for fall. After election representatives from every state in the Union where women vote will assemble in New York. These women will be actual voters, women who have attained the standing of citizenship in their states and who have learned from actual experience what the privilege of the vote in their hands means. What they have learned they will endeavor to impress upon the doubting Thomases of the state.

Art and science go together,
Hitched up by the shortest tether.
Dress is art in each appliance;
How to buy it is a science.
—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

"Yes, he is wealthy, but he writes silly love letters."

"A girl don't marry a man to have him write her love letters."—Houston Post.

Let bards compose a triolet
About the lovely violet.

Let poets write a villanelle
About a daisy in the dell.

Mine is a more prosaic saga;
I celebrate the rutabaga.
—Kansas City Journal.

FASHIONABLY dressed women in London, Paris and New York, as well as in the cities of Canada, look to Priestleys' famous looms at Bradford, England, for dress goods in keeping with the latest styles.

Priestleys' DRESS GOODS

have for years enjoyed a world-wide reputation for high quality. Only the finest grades of silk and wool are used in them. In addition to the staple fabrics (Serges, Poplins, Mohairs, Taffetas, Cravenettes, Etc.), there is a wide range of the new weaves and colors called for by this fall's fashions.

The genuine always has PRIESTLEYS LIMITED stamped on the selvedge

At the Best Stores

14

Thirteenth Century Fire Prevention.

One wonders what fate would have overtaken the captured starter of fires in thirteenth century London, for after the blaze of 1212, which lasted ten days, swallowed up part of London bridge and was the cause of over 1,000 deaths, every precaution was taken against fires. For instance, all builders of houses were ordered to roof them with tiles, shingle boards or lead, and to stop an outbreak any house could be pulled down. Thus, Mr. H. B. Wheatley on the safeguards: "For the speedy removal of burning houses each ward was to provide a strong iron hook with a wooden handle, two chains and two strong cords, which were to be left with the bedel of the ward, who was also provided with a good horn 'loudly sounding.'" And, moreover, every householder was ordered to keep a barrel of water before his door.—London Standard.

Ancient Armies.

Italy a little before Hannibal's time was able to send into the field nearly 1,000,000 men.

The army of Terah, king of Ethiopia, consisted of 1,000,000 men and 300 chariots of war.

Sesostris, king of Egypt, led against his enemies 600,000 men, 24,000 cavalry and twenty-seven scythe armed chariots in 1491 B. C.

The city of Thebes had a hundred gates and could send out at each gate 10,000 fighting men and 200 chariots—in all, 1,000,000 men and 2,000 chariots. Hamilcar went from Carthage and landed near Palermo. He had a fleet of 2,000 ships and 3,000 small vessels and a land force of 300,000 men. At the battle in which he was defeated 150,000 were slain.

AFTERNOON GOWNS.

Crapes Are Used With Net For Garden Party and Casino.

CRAPE AND NET GOWN.

It is long since we have had anything more charming than the crape gowns that are being worn for summer afternoon functions. The dainty frock pictured here was donned recently by a fascinating debutante to wear at the garden party given by a Newport society leader. White net was combined with the pink and white figured crape. Net formed the much frilled skirt, the vest and finished sleeves and neck. The wide girdle was of white satin ribbon. Worn with it was a wide rimmed hat trimmed with flowers in small nodding sprays. The silk parasol was in a shade to harmonize with the figure in the gown. White suede shoes and long white silk gloves completed this much admired toilet.

Explained.

I wonder why she's sitting there
So pensive in the sun
And all unbound her golden hair,
A thread of gold each one.

She shakes it out and throws it high—
Ah, now I understand!
I now perceive the reason why
She brushes out each strand.

Peroxide's hard to handle, so
Attention, skill and care
She must, when using it, bestow
And sun her doctored hair.

Full Credit.

Maude—That long faced Mr. Blank is either a philosopher or a fool, and I couldn't make out which. What do you think?

Babette—He talked to me for an hour at the reception last night, and I decided that he is both.

Good Form

Serving Dinner a la Anglaise.

There are three recognized methods of serving a formal dinner, each of which has its advantages—the Russian, the English and the "compromise" service. Naturally this last is an adapting of the best of the most available from the other two. The English is selected where help is rather limited, because in its use all belonging to one course is placed upon the table at one time, the host and hostess serving meats and vegetables placed before them in platters.

For this service the number of plates to be served may be set in a pile before the person who is to carve, or, if preferred, on a side table, from where they are handed to him one at a time. As each plate is served by the carver a maid presents it for a helping of some vegetable and then sets it down before a guest or member of the family for whom it is intended. It is understood, of course, in serving in this way that ladies are always helped first, men next, with hostess and host last.

Each course as finished is removed by a man or maid waiter or waitress; platters with the next course are placed, plates are served as before, and so until dessert is reached. The last is the placing of finger bowls, each in its small plate, with doily beneath, directly in front of each guest. Where less formality is observed help is often dismissed when fruit and coffee are on the table, with the finger bowls already in place, and so the genial conversation of congenial people may go on until time to adjourn to piazza or lawn.

MORE STRENGTH FOR OLD PEOPLE

Mrs. Hutchison—Eighty-One Years Old—Uses No Other Tonic but Vinol and Recommends It to Friends.

Greenville, S.C.—"It is with pleasure I tell others of the great benefit I have derived from Vinol, for the past several years. I am 81 years old and I find Vinol gives me strength, a healthy appetite and overcomes nervous disorders. Vinol is the only tonic reconstructor I have used for several years. I have recommended it to a great many of my friends and it has always proved satisfactory." — Mrs. M. A. HUTCHISON, Greenville, S. C.

Such cases as the above are constantly coming to our attention. If people in this vicinity only realized how Vinol invigorates old people we would not be able to supply the demand.

It is the tissue building, curative elements of the cod's livers, aided by the blood making strengthening properties of tonic iron contained in Vinol, that makes it so successful in building up strength for old people, delicate children and for all run-down conditions. Vinol is also a most successful remedy for chronic coughs, colds and bronchitis. If it fails to benefit any one who tries it we return your money.

Red Cross Drug Store, J. S. McKeown, Proprietor, Belleville, Ont.

Woman's World

Titled Daughters of Society Leaders Make Newport Season Gay.

DUCHESS OF MARLBOROUGH.

Newport is congratulating itself on the brilliancy of its social season. There are many distinguished guests present and expected. The beautiful and clever young Duchess Consuelo of Marlborough is the guest of her mother, Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont, at Marble House. Other titled daughters of American families who may take part in the social festivities of Newport during the season are Lady Granard, the daughter of Mrs. Ogden Mills; Lady Camoys, daughter of Mrs. William Watts Sherman; Countess Szechenyi, daughter of Mrs. Vanderbilt, and Countess Guy de Lasteyrie.

The rank, beauty and public spirit of the Duchess of Marlborough have made her exceedingly popular in London society. Even Queen Mary has shown her liking for the young American woman who has been so generous with her wealth in relieving the London poor and devoting time and money to many movements for public betterment.

Her entertainments at Sunderland House are brilliant affairs, often graced by the presence of some member of the royal family.

Like her mother, Mrs. Belmont, the duchess is a suffragist, though not a militant one.

Her two boys, the elder of whom, the Marquis of Blandford, is heir to the dukedom, are in England in the care of their tutors.

CAPE CAPRICES.

All Sorts of Novel Touches Used to Make the New Wraps Attractive.

Capes are doubly blessed by the traveler and by fashion for the need of an auxiliary traveling wrap is great, and the cape aptly supplies it. Capes are being interpreted in many and various ways, some of which are charming.

Photo by American Press Association.

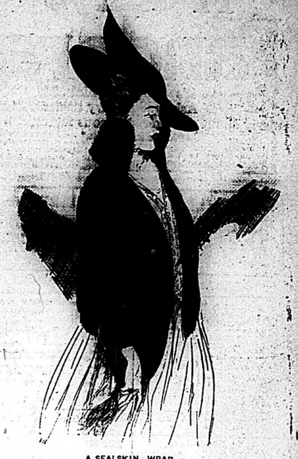
SMART CAPE COAT.

The coat cape combines the characteristics of the cap and the coat. The model shown here was designed by a famous French couturiere for an Englishwoman of rank. The crossed over shoulder bands, which pass under the arms, are novel features of the wrap.

It takes a young man with good judgment these days to be certain that he can tell the difference between a peach and a lemon at first sight.

Don't worry over the situation of other people; they can get along without you.

Plenty of confidence in your own ability gives you satisfaction in the exercising of it, whether you make good or not.



A SEALSKIN WRAP

A beautiful wrap of seal noted for its shortness in the back and the higness of the collar.

Good Form

The Traveling Bore.

The really well bred traveler is quiet. She does not move about in a restless fashion. She does not complain of her fellow passengers. She remembers that she is only one of many thousands who are spending their days speeding over the surface of the earth.

There is a type of traveler who is a public nuisance. She boards the train with half a dozen small bags and packages in her arms and spends perhaps the first half hour of the journey getting them settled. When she gets herself settled she finds she needs find some infinitesimal object in the particular package or box that is in the most inaccessible position. When it is disinterred she settles herself again. Then she pulls down the shade to keep the sun out of her eyes and immediately thereafter runs it to the top of the window because the train is too dark. She fidgets and fumes because of the heat and worries because of the draft and scowls at the mother of a crying baby. And she makes her fellow travelers as unhappy as she herself is unless they are endowed with an active sense of humor.

Another unpopular type is the traveler who talks in a loud tone. Fellow travelers are treated to unwelcome details of some unknown relative's toothache or forced to hear a recount of the romance of second cousin somebody's young life.

The well bred traveler speaks in a low tone and refrains from recounting any bit of news that might not well be considered public property.

Then there is the traveler who is careless of the comfort of the other travelers.

Stung.

Oh, I like to shirk,
And I like to loaf,
And I like to take my ease,
But I have to work—
I'm a blooming oaf—
For I have to raise the breeze.

Food Supplies During War-time

Rumors are in circulation that we are unable to supply orders owing to war demand. This statement is absolutely incorrect. We are filling our orders as usual. Insist on getting what you ask for—CLARK'S.

W. CLARK, Limited,
MONTREAL

She—Why don't you marry?

He—I haven't yet found a girl who can support me in the luxury I am accustomed to.—Life.

Where'er you go, from west to east,
You'll find from coast to coast
It is the lad who knows the least
Who tries to tell the most.
—Atlanta Constitution.

Inquisitive Blind Man—How do you manage to call your dog in the dark when he can't see your fingers moving?

Ingenious Mute—I drum on a dog biscuit with a bone.—Puck.

The bees go toiling all the day,
At night they do not sit up.
But the firefly treads the Great White
[illegible]

A True Tonic is one that assists Nature. Regular and natural action of the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels will keep you well and fit, and this action is promoted by

BEECHAM'S PILLS

The Largest Sale of Any Medicine in the World. Sold everywhere. In boxes, 25 cents

5 POUNDS 5
Redpath
EXTRA
GRANULATED
SUGAR
THE CANADA SUGAR REFINING CO.
MONTREAL

Redpath PACKAGE SUGAR

2 & 5 lb. CARTONS

A Risky Purchase:
"A Dollar's Worth of Sugar." How much? How clean? How good?

A Prudent Purchase:
An Original Package of "Redpath" Full weight, absolutely pure—Canada's finest sugar at its best.

Redpath Extra Granulated Sugar is put up in 2 lb. and 5 lb. Sealed Cartons and in 10, 20, 50 and 100 lb. Cloth Bags.

75

REGAL TABLE SALT FREE RUNNING

Isn't this the Salt you have always wanted—a Salt that stays dry and free running, all the year round—and especially in damp, rainy weather?

"Regal" Salt is the finest grain of Windsor Salt prepared by a new process under perfectly hygienic methods making a pure and perfect free running Table Salt. 126

IS CLEAN SANITARY AND FREE RUNNING
THE CANADIAN SALT CO. WINDSOR ONT.

Oven is washable---always clean and bright, rustproof and sanitary because in

McClary's Pandora Range it's built of nickelled steel. Ask the McClary dealer particularly about this advantageous feature.

"Made in Canada"

Sold by The Smith Hardware Co.

BELLEVILLE BUSINESS DIRECTORY

The Professional Fraternity of our city will find an advertisement under this head an exceptionally advantageous investment, the returns hitherto obtained making the extremely moderate rates but normal. By consulting our price list in another column, or calling at The Intelligencer business office, full information may be obtained.

LEGAL.

WILLS & WRIGHT

Barristers, Solicitors, Notaries Public, etc Office: 15 Campbell Street, Belleville Money to loan at lowest rates.

J. FRANKLIN WILLS, K.C.
MALCOLM WRIGHT.

NORTHRUP & PONTON

Barristers, Solicitors, Notaries Public Commissioners. Offices: North Bridge Street. Solicitors for the Merchant Bank of Canada and the Bank of Montreal. Money to loan on mortgages.

W. B. NORTHRUP, K.C., M.P
W. N. PONTON K.C.
R. D. PONTON.

CLUTE & SHOREY

Barristers, Solicitors, Notaries, etc. Office North side of Campbell Street, Belleville Solicitors for the Dominion Bank. Money to loan on mortgages on easy terms

A. K. CLUTE, LL.B.
W. D. M. SHOREY.

PORTER & CARNEW

Barristers and Notaries Public, etc. Office Robertson Block, East Front St., Belleville, Ont.

E. GUSS PORTER, K.C., M.P
WM. CARNEW.
Solicitors for Union Bank.

W. C. MIKEL, B.C.L., K.C.

Barristers, &c., 28 Bridge St., over G N.W. Telegraph office.
Solicitor for Molsons Bank.
Phone: 77.

MUSICAL.

Mrs. Wilmot

VOCAL INSTRUCTOR

Tone Production a speciality. Pupils conscientiously trained for Concert Work and Church Positions. Voices tested free of charge.

"THE STUDIO,"
BRIDGE ST.

S10,dtf

HIGGS Miss Joy.

Violin Instruction.
Terms Moderate
"THE STUDIO," Bridge

WHEATLEY Professor. Piano. Theory. Vocal.

Modern Methods. Best Results
THE "STUDIO." Tel. 594

MEDICAL.

JOHN J. FARLEY, M.D., C.M.,

M.R.C.S., England.

Office and Residence: Corner of Bridge and George Streets; three streets east of the Post Office.

DR. J. CHANT

Specialist in Diseases of Eye, Ear, Nose and Throat, and Fitting of Glasses.

Office: Corner Queen and John Streets.
Phone 718.

MONEY.

Private money to loan on mortgages on farms and other real estate, at lowest rate of interest, on terms to suit borrowers.

Apply to
S. MASSON
Barrister, etc.
Over Wallbridge & Clarke's Bridge St., Belleville.

MINING

BELLEVILLE ASSAY OFFICE

Ores and minerals of all kinds tested and assayed. Samples sent by mail or express will receive prompt attention. All results guaranteed. Office and Laboratory, 185 Pinnacle St., opposite market. Telephone 386.

Advertise in The Intelligencer.

INSURANCE.

Liverpool & London & Globe Ins. Co. North British & Mercantile Ins. Co., Sun Fire; Waterloo Mutual; Lloyd's Plate Glass; Dominion of Canada Guarantee and Accident Insurance Co., and other companies.

Farm and City property insured in first class and reliable companies and at lowest current rates. Land valuator and agent for selling, purchasing, or renting property. Rents collected.

W. H. HUDSON

Office: No. 17 Campbell St. Belleville. Phone 161

FARM INSURANCE

I have made arrangements with English Companies to insure Farm Dwellings and Barns and contents at from 75c. to $1.00 per $100.

Call and see me before renewing your insurance.

CHANCEY ASHLEY

Opposite Post Office. Belleville, Ont

THOS. STEWART

Bridge Street, Belleville.

Fire, Accident and Plate Glass Insurance effected in the oldest and most reliable companies.

REAL ESTATE AGENT.
Stocks and bonds bought and sold.

R. H. KETCHESON

Agent for
Queen Fire Insurance Co.; York Fire Insurance Co.; Inter-State Live Stock Insurance.
Canadian Railway Accident Insurance Co.

ROBERT BOGLE

MERCANTILE AGENCY.
Insurance, Real Estate, Loans Negotiated Accountant, Auditor, Estates Managed Office: 28 Bridge Street.

LAUNDRY.

QUINTE LAUNDRY

Work done by the Quinte Laundry is guaranteed to be satisfactory in every way.

Shirts, Collars and Cuffs our specialty Family work done by the dozen.

W. R. VALLANCE .. .. .. .. .. Manager
Phone 330

BUS, AUTO AND CABS

ASELSTINE'S

BUS, CAB AND TRANSFER LINE.

Special cabs, broughams and carriages, all rubber tired; for weddings, private driving or funerals. The finest turnouts in town.

Office and stables, cor. Moira and Centre Streets. Tweed Stage in connection. Phone 229.

ENGINEERING.

J. D. EVANS, C.E. & O.L.S.
J. W. EVANS, C.E & M.E.

EVANS & EVANS

Civil and Mining Engineers,
and
Ontario Land Surveyors.
Belleville and Trenton.

Belleville Office: 185 Pinnacle Street, opposite market. Telephone 386.

AUCTIONEER.

J. L. PALMER

We specialize on City sales.

Terms Reasonable

Belleville Box 1832 Ontario

LICENSED AUCTIONEER.
for counties of Hastings, Prince Edward, Northumberland, Lennox and Addington Office: over Bell Telephone, opposite Post Office, Bridge St. Prompt attention.

"COLLIP"

FLORIST

Night Phone 175. Day Phone 208.
All kinds of Cut Flowers and Plants in Season.
Wedding and Funeral designs specialty, shipped to all parts.
Front Street.

What has become of the old time statistician who used to figure out how far the wheat chop would reach into space if the grains were placed end to end?

The Needs of Life

DR. RICHARD C. CABOT

Work and play and love—these are the triple keys to the secret of life. This is the conclusion of Professor Cabot of Harvard in his book, "What Men Live By." "With these any life is happy, despite sorrow and pain, successful despite bitter failure," is his creed.

Freaks of Lightning

The antics played by lightning are sometimes almost beyond belief. A comparatively common trick is that of undressing its victims. In 1898 two girls and an elderly woman were standing by a reaping machine during a storm. A lightning flash struck the woman and killed her on the spot, while the two girls were stripped to the skin, even their boots being torn from their feet. Otherwise they were safe and sound—and astonished.

In 1855 a man was struck by lightning near Vallerois, in France, and stripped naked. All that could be found of his clothes was a shirt sleeve, a few other shreds, and some pieces of his hob-nailed boots. Ten minutes after he was struck he regained consciousness, opened his eyes, complained of the cold, and inquired how he happened to be naked.

Such instances have been recorded again and again. In one case a man and two oxen were struck simultaneously and all three killed. The man was found stripped to the skin, and his boots had been carried thirty yards away. "In other cases," says Camille Flammarion, the astronomer, "lightning has been known to split men in half, almost as with a huge axe. On June 20, 1868, this happened to a miller's assistant at a windmill near Croix. The lightning struck him and split him from his head downwards in two."

Women as Inventors

A man with an invention is generally looked upon more or less as a crank until his idea has proved valuable, when, as is the way of the world, all are ready to acclaim his greatness.

Women, however, as in all other branches, have come greatly to the fore in the inventive line. The number of applications for patents made by women during the past 10 years has increased several hundred per cent.

Inventions in connection with aeronautics have come to the fore very prominently, five hundred patents having been filed, whilst more than 2,000 applications have been received for inventions in connection with motor, railway, and other vehicles.

A striking patent, and one with great possibilities, is an automatic collapsible escape ladder for use at sea as a means of transferring passengers from a sinking vessel to other boats or rafts.

The Onion

What is the reason that so few people eat onions nowadays. The onion used to be a stand-by in this country, but it is getting to be about as popular as a divorced husband at the wedding feast. There is nothing that will bring tears of repentance to a hardened sinner's eyes quicker than a stout, wide-hipped Bermuda onion with teeth like a rip-saw and a grip like an entered apprentice. One of these onions, sprinkled with tasco sauce and inhaled slowly before each meal, will cause a man to perspire at high speed when the thermometer is 40 degrees below zero. Physicians tell us that if people would eat more onions they would have fewer microbes roosting about in their systems, as onions are death to germs of all kinds. The onion is also death to the course of true love—after marriage, but not before.

Cheap Gas Invention

A young Kansas man announces the invention of a process for solving the fuel problem. By means of a special motor and generator he claims his ability to produce pure hydrogen gas from a decomposition of water at the low cost of 2 cents per 1,000 cubic feet. His generators and motors, he declares, will be available for use on motor cars, launches, stationary and marine engines, and heating and lighting plants.

People are unnecessarily active when they stir up trouble.

With the male milliners of Paris off women are mysteries to most men.

USES DOG AS CADDY

Scarcity of Boys Causes Innovation on English Links

An innovation was made by a player on the Tyneside golf course at Rytown, England, which is likely to be adopted on other courses. At Rytown, in order to overcome the difficulties created by a scarcity of caddies, the player in question trained his dog, a Labrador retriever, to carry his clubs and hunt for lost balls. The experiment was so successful that it may not be long before the professional caddies on most of the golf courses will find their occupation gone. The inventor of the idea first taught his dog to hunt for balls. After a few days this proved so successful that the retriever not only brought in the ball he had been bidden to find, but others which had been missing for months.

The dog's next lesson consisted in learning to carry the clubs. A strap four inches long with a hook in the end was sewn to the mouth of the club bag. The hook was then attached to the dog's collar, and the bag was hung in place by a girdle encircling the dog's body and the bag. In speaking of his dog caddy, the golfer said:

"It is curious that the idea has never been developed before. There is no question that my dog's caddy work is much superior to that performed by any human caddy I have ever used. The dog being used to shooting, keeps well in "at heel," so that I can snatch the various clubs from him without any difficulty. When I lose a ball I merely have to order him to "find dead bird." If he has to range a good deal I unhook the golf bag so as to give him more freedom in his movements. Since I have been using my retriever as a caddy I have never lost a ball, and my game has been much swifter.

"From every point of view the dog is so much the superior of the boy as a caddy that I expect to see dogs used universally in the future. With a dog as your caddy there is no one to hear you swear, and no one to make fun of your play."

CECIL M'VILLY

of Tasmania, sculling champion of Australia. He defeated L. Davis (Victoria) and E. Thomas (South Australia) at the last big Melbourne regatta.

The Homing Instinct

The story of an Airedale terrier that tramped back home 125 miles is only one of many such instances. It did the journey in twenty days. Another dog was taken a hundred miles by train, and arrived back home in three weeks. A fox terrier was taken a distance of 180 miles, but within a few days it found its way to its old home.

A farmer took a horse from an island to the mainland three miles by boat, worked it all day, and let it loose. The next morning he was surprised to find the horse grazing near his stable, though still very wet.

A tame pigeon used to accompany a boy to school, a distance of one and a half miles, remain during lessons, and return with the boy.

A grey cat was taken by train over sixty miles, and yet returned home in a few days; one walked a distance less than 282½ miles in four weeks.

Wireless Waves and Birds

Observations made in sections of world where there are many wireless stations indicate that birds are disturbed in a singular way by the wireless waves. It is stated that gulls are particularly the principal sufferers, but that also large numbers of doves are in some way prevented from finding their way home when there are wireless stations in the line of flight. This strange phenomenon is attributed to some effect of the ether waves not yet understood.

Accommodating Lights

Many apartment houses in Europe are equipped with electric lights which may be switched on when a person enters and which automatically extinguish themselves a few minutes later, when he has had time to reach his room.

to the war, American women will have man complain because the german

Some men attract no more attention than a thermometer on a pleasant day.

THE PROPER CARE OF A HORSE'S FEET

Defects Can be Remedied by Proper Shoeing—Some Ailments and How to Cure Them.

In buying a horse for any purpose it is important to know that the animal's feet are sound. The horse is a native of the grassy plains of the world, and the things we have been doing with him under conditions of civilization have resulted in some strange diseases and weakness of the feet. Hard roads, continual shoeings, etc., have combined to produce cracked hoof walls, side bones, ring bones, coffin joints, contracted heels, lameness and other common and uncommon troubles in the hoof of the modern horse.

Shoeing is almost as necessary for the modern work horse as his daily ration, but a great many of the foot defects so discouragingly common may be traced back through the generations of shoeing. Careless and ignorant shoers continue to ruin the feet of horses.

The foot of the horse is not all a block of horn. On the upper side is a different kind of horn from that of the bottom side, with a spongy triangle called a frog. Inside this box of horn is a bone of a shape much like that of the foot in which the bones of the lower part of the leg terminate. The back side or rear end of this triangular bone terminates in the point or ring.

Now when a shoe is too wide at the heel it presses the shell of the foot in against these wings, and when the shoe is allowed to remain on too long and the shell of the foot grows over the shoe, or the shoe bears on the sole of the foot, it brings direct pressure in the parts over the ends or wings of the coffin bone. So in either case it is the shoe which, being improperly adjusted, pressing unduly upon the wing of this bone that produces an injury. Sometimes it will be manifest in a little red spot in the sole of the foot when it is pared to level the shoe in shoeing, at other times there is no red spot. One is called a red corn and the other, when the horse is lame from this cause, a blind corn. When an ill-fitted shoe has remained on for a long period, an ulceration sometimes takes place in the sensitive parts of the foot, when we have what is known as a suppurating corn. Sometimes, too, there will be sprouting of the bone or a fungous bone will grow on the very tip of the coffin bone. This is more properly speaking a blind corn. As previously stated, the cause is bad fitting shoes.

The remedy should be to correct it by taking the pressure off the affected parts. This may be done in two ways. First, set the shoe so that it will not cause the shell of the foot to be pressed inward against the wings of the coffin bone. Make the shoe narrow at the heel and bevel it outwardly a little so as to spread the heel of the foot, instead of contracting it by pressing it inward against the coffin bone. Second, pare the sole of the foot over the wings of the coffin bone so that no weight will be brought to bear on the shoe at that point. Keep the red spot pared out all that can safely be done and not expose the sensitive sole of the foot. A rubber pad shoe will sometimes afford relief to the horse with corns, as it will bring a frog pressure to help bear the weight of the animal.

How the Ant Salutes

Ants have long been known for their excessive industry, says The Family Herald and Weekly Star of Montreal, but from a curious communication which has just appeared they seem to have surpassed all other insects by organising an elaborate system of signalling. Professor Bugnion, who has recently investigated the habits of the white ant, reports that the "soldiers" of that species give warnings or encouraging signals by knocking with their jaws upon dry leaves, thereby emitting a crackling sound. Placing some of these ants on a big plate and covering it with paper, he found that the "soldiers" among the ants responded to his taps with a rustling crackling sound.

Moreover, apart from this audible signalling, there appears to be some inaudible form of signal, for the professor asserts that the "soldier" ants salute the worker ants. To do this, "the insect stands firmly on its legs with the head raised and the body slightly oblique, and shakes itself for an instant with a convulsive shudder. This seems to mean something."

Machine Writes Cipher Codes

Electrically operated machines for writing messages in cipher codes and for translating such messages have been invented by a Russian naval officer.

By the way, did you ever hear of a and cool.

Thursday, continues cool with easterly winds.

RAILROAD TRANSPORTATION

GRAND TRUNK RAILWAY SYSTEM

TORONTO - CHICAGO
TORONTO - MONTREAL

The International Limited

Canada's Train of Superior Service

Leaves Toronto 4.40 p.m. daily, arrives Detroit 9.55 p.m. and Chicago 8.00 a.m.

MORNING SERVICE

Leaves Toronto 8 a.m., arrives Detroit 1.45 p.m. and Chicago 8.40 p.m. daily.

LAST TRAIN OUT OF TORONTO AT NIGHT

Leaves 11.35 p.m., arrives Detroit 8 a.m. and Chicago 3.00 p.m. daily, assuring important connection with principal trains for Western States and Canada.

FOR MONTREAL

Leaves Toronto 9 a.m., 8.30 p.m., and 11 p.m. daily.

Berth reservations, etc., at G. T. R. ticket offices.

H. C. Thompson, City Passenger and Ticket Agent. Phone 403.
T. H. Coppin, Station Ticket Agent. Phone 8a.

CANADIAN PACIFIC

WINTER TOURS

To The Land of Sunshine and Summer Days.
CALIFORNIA, FLORIDA, LOUISIANA, ETC.

Limited trains leave Toronto daily, making direct connection at Detroit and Buffalo for the Southern States, and at Chicago for California, etc.

Those contemplating a trip of any nature should consult Canadian Pacific Agents, who will be pleased to quote rates, arrange reservations and attend to all details in connection with your trip, or write M. G. Murphy, District Passenger Agent, corner King and Yonge Streets, Toronto.

S. BURROWS, Gen. Agent, Belleville.

CANADIAN GOVERNMENT RAILWAYS
INTERCOLONIAL
PRINCE EDWARD ISLAND RY

2 Through Trains 2

From Bonaventure Union Depot, Montreal.

OCEAN LIMITED

Leaves 7.30 p.m. daily for Quebec, Riviere du Loup, Campbellton, Moncton, St. John, Truro and Halifax. Connections for Glasgow, etc., and the Sydneys (except Saturdays).

Maritime Express

Leaves 8.40 a.m. daily except Saturday, for Quebec, Campbellton, Moncton, Truro, Halifax, St. John. On Saturdays will run Montreal to St. Flavie only.

For further information concerning rates, reservations, etc., apply to local Grank Trunk Railway Ticket or Freight Agent, or to E. Tiffin, General Western Agent, 51 King St. East, (King Edward Hotel Block), Toronto, Ontario.

RAILWAY TIME TABLE.

GRAND TRUNK RAILWAY

Time of departure from Belleville station.
Going East.

No. 18—12.30 a.m. Mail train, daily.
No. 16— 2.08 a.m. Fast train, Flyer, daily.
No. 32—Local for Brockville, 7 a.m.; arrives back from Brockville, 8.50 p.m.; daily except Sunday.
No. 6—11.10 a.m.—Mail and Express, daily.
No. 14—12.16 p.m. Express, daily.
No. 28— 5.45 p.m. Local passenger, daily except Sunday.
No. 30— 9.30 p.m.—Local passenger, daily except Sunday.

Going West.

No. 19— 2.15 a.m.—Mail and Express, daily.
No. 13— 4.35 a.m. Limited Express, daily.
No. 29— 7.50 a.m. Local Passenger, daily except Sunday, leaving Toronto 6.00 p.m., arrives in Belleville at 9.25 p.m., arrives in Kingston at 11.05 p.m.
No. 27—11.15 a.m. Passenger, daily except Sunday.
No. 1— 1.50 p.m. International Limited, daily.
No. 7— 4.56 p.m. Mail and Express, daily.

BELLEVILLE AND PETERBORO'

Going West.

| | Leave. | Ar. Peterboro' |
|---|---|---|
| Mail .. .. .. .. | 5.20 a.m. | 8.00 a.m. |
| Passenger .. .. | 6.00 p.m. | 8.50 p.m. |

Going East.

| | Arrive | Lv. Peterboro' |
|---|---|---|
| Mixed .. .. .. .. | 10.55 a.m. | 8.21 a.m. |
| Mail .. .. .. .. | 4.15 p.m. | 1.30 p.m. |

BELLEVILLE AND MADOC.

Going North.

| | Leave | Ar. Madoc |
|---|---|---|
| Mixed .. .. .. | 12.11 p.m. | 1.50 p.m. |
| Mixed .. .. .. | 6.30 p.m. | 7.50 p.m. |

Going South.

| | Arrive | Lv. Madoc |
|---|---|---|
| Mixed .. .. .. | 4.30 p.m. | 3.27 p.m. |
| Mixed .. .. .. | 9.15 a.m. | 7.15 a.m. |

None of the above trains run on Sunday.

RAILWAY TIME TABLE.

CANADIAN NORTHERN ONTARIO RAILWAY

EFFECTIVE SEPT. 16TH.

For Toronto and intermediate points—6.40 a.m., 5.15 p.m.

Trenton, Wellington, Picton and intermediate points—6.40 a.m., 12.40 noon.

Marmora, Bannockburn and Coe Hill—12.40 noon.

Marmora, Bannockburn, Bancroft and Maynooth, and intermediate stations—6.40 a.m.

Deseronto, Napanee and B. Q. stations—10.35 a.m., 1.00 p.m., 9.40 p.m.

For Kingston, Brockville, Smith's Falls, Ottawa and intermediate stations—1.00 p.m.

Trains arrive from Toronto and intermediate points—1.00 p.m., 9.40 p.m.

From Picton, Wellington, Trenton, and intermediate stations—10.35 a.m., 6.05 p.m., 9.40 p.m.

From Napanee, Deseronto and intermediate stations—6.40 a.m., 12.40 p.m., 5.15 p.m.

From Maynooth and intermediate stations—6.22 p.m.

From Coe Hill and intermediate stations—10.35 a.m.

From Tamworth and intermediate stations—5.15 p.m.

From Kingston, Brockville, Smith's Falls, Ottawa and intermediate stations—5.15 p.m.

AT-HOME BALL, BANQUET, and Private Invitation Cards—new lines—at The Intelligencer Job Dept. See those. Prices right.

THE STANDARD BANK OF CANADA

QUARTERLY DIVIDEND NOTICE No. 96.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that a Dividend at the rate of Thirteen Per Cent Per Annum upon the Capital Stock of this Bank has been declared for the quarter ending the 31st October, 1914, and that the same will be payable at the Head Office in this City and its Branches on and after Monday, the 2nd day of November, 1914, to shareholders of record of the 23rd of October, 1914.

By order of the Board,
G. P. SCHOLFIELD,
General Manager.
Toronto, 29th September, 1914.

JOHN ELLIOTT, Manager, Belleville Branch

| | |
|---|---|
| Shannonville Branch open | Mondays and Thursdays |
| Foxboro " " | Tuesdays and Fridays |
| Rednersville " " | Wednesdays |

The Merchants Bank Of Canada

Capital ........ ........ .. ........... $7,000,000
Reserve ........ ........ .. ........... $7,000,000

YOUR SAVINGS ACCOUNT INVITED
Interest added every six months. Small or large amounts deposited. Banking may be done by mail. Drafts on any parts of the world sold or bought.
A General Banking Business conducted.

Belleville Branch H. SNEYD, Manager

"NO goods purchased abroad are cheap that take the place of our own labor and our own raw material."

Following the barring from the mails by Canada of the publication Fatherland, issued by pro-German sources in New York, the Canadian ban has also been put on the New Yorker Staats Zeitung, according to an announcement in the evening edition of that newspaper recently.

Advertise in The Intelligencer.

STORM SASH AND DOORS
Made to your order, any Shape or Size
SAVE YOUR COAL BILLS
The Holton Lumber Co. Limited
EVERYTHING IN LUMBER
Phones 112-1197
Offices
1 Bride St. W; Water St.

The Daily Intelligencer.

Established 1868
FURNITURE & UNDERTAKING
TICKELL & SONS CO
SPECIAL — AT COST
49 VERANDAH CHAIRS

LET THERE BE HARMONY IN THINGS ESSENTIAL—LIBERALTY IN THINGS NOT ESSENTIAL—CHARITY IN ALL.

Vol. 48 BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO, SATURDAY, OCTOBER 17, 1914. No. 137

BOARD OF EDUCATION IN REGULAR SESSION

Routine Business Taken up and Disposed of--Many Accounts Passed--Satisfactory Statement Regarding High School Receipts

At a regular meeting of the Board of Education held last evening the business transacted was chiefly of a routine nature.

The members present were: Messrs. W. N. Ponton, Chairman; A. E. Bailey, F. S. Deacon, J. Elliott, P. Harrison, B. Mallory, A. McGie, F. E. O'Flynn, L. C. Pascoe, C. M. Reid, W. C. Reid and L. R. Terwilligar.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and confirmed.

After the reading of reports, etc., the Board went into Committee of the Whole on reports, etc., Mr. Terwilligar in the chair.

The Finance Committee recommended the payment of the following accounts, which were passed:—

| | |
|---|---|
| J. W. Walker | $ 3 25 |
| D. Stroud | 46 |
| Tickell & Sons | 233 30 |
| Cherry Press | 16 90 |
| Ritchie Co. | 1 30 |
| F. S. Anderson Co. | 8 80 |
| Ellis & Conroy | 618 40 |
| F. D. Ford | 1 50 |
| G. E. Madden | 8 55 |
| A. L. Geen | 84 65 |
| C. N. Sulman | 161 51 |
| Wm. McGie | 111 93 |
| Wm. McGie | 38 05 |
| Wm. McGie | 90 15 |
| Trenton Electric Co. | 6 55 |
| G. A. Bennett | 400 00 |
| J. S. McKeown | 20 15 |
| W. S. Clarke | 3 50 |
| Stafford Hardware Co. | 7 70 |
| W. H. Lattimer | 6 00 |
| Bell Telephone Co. | 15 00 |
| Jennings & Sherry | 11 95 |
| G. A. Bennett | 10269 50 |
| G. A. Bennett | 1739 75 |
| J. H. Moon | 156 84 |
| E. A. Ridley | 1 28 |
| A. Wallace | 40 |

A statement from the Secretary-Treasurer in reference to receipts for the High School for the past year was presented, being as follows:—

HIGH SCHOOL.

| | |
|---|---|
| 1913—From Principal McLaurin, fees Domestic Science | $ 75 00 |
| Govt. grant Cadet Corps | 50 00 |
| County of Hastings | 2951 95 |
| Govt. grant Household Science | 307 06 |
| County Prince Edward | 240 21 |
| Fees from Principal McLaurin, P. E. County | 29 30 |
| Government grant | 1211 14 |
| Uniforms for Cadet Corps | 76 00 |
| | $4870 86 |

Inspector H. J. Clarke presented a report in reference to the attendance at the schools for the past month, as follows:—

| | Registered | Average Attendance |
|---|---|---|
| Queen Victoria | 480 | 427 |
| Queen Alexandra | 360 | 352 |
| Queen Mary | 366 | 330 |
| Grier Street | 211 | 188 |
| | 1417 | 1277 |

During the month 125 cases of lateness were reported.

The report referred to the fact that some rooms at Grier Street School were overcrowded.

This matter was referred to the School Management Committee.

SALE OF PROPERTY.

A recommendation from the Sites, Building and Repairs Committee that the Canifton Road School building, the Octavia Street School building, and a lot on Albion street, be sold was referred for further consideration.

It was decided to have a storm porch erected over the boys' entrance at Queen Victoria School and some storm windows placed in position.

The committee rose and reported. The report was received and adopted. Board adjourned.

Tugboat Sinks and Life Lost

Fatal Collision Occurred Early this Morning off Madame Island

QUEBEC, Oct. 16.—One life was lost and a tugboat sunk as the result of a collision between the collier "Batiscan" under charter to the Dominion Coal Company, bound for Montreal with a cargo of coal, and the tug "Muriel," belonging to the Price Brothers and Company, Limited, lumber merchants of Quebec, off Madame Island, some twenty miles below here about 3 o'clock this morning.

The drowned man is the second mate of the tug Elezear Levesque, and the man at first thought missing is Captain Xavier Levesque, of the tug, who was on the barge which the luckless tug had in tow.

The collier, which is owned by the Montreal and Sydney Company, and is under the command of Captain Graham, is uninjured, and is on her way up stream, bound for her destination, Montreal. She has four survivors on board, having pulled them up over the bows when the tug was struck.

The "Muriel" left here yesterday noon with a tow for Rimouski. The barge which she was hauling is still at Madame Island.

AIRMAN'S BOMB MISSES JOFFRE AND POINCARE

German Flier Brought Down by a French Aviator Who is Decorated on the Spot

LONDON, Oct. 16.—The Paris correspondent of the Exchange Telegraph Company, in a dispatch dated Wednesday says:

"Now that the headquarters of the French staff has been changed, it has become possible to announce that when President Poincare visited Gen. Joffre last week at Domilly-sur-Seine a German aviator dropped a bomb into the town, doing no damage.

"The news of the approaching visit of President Poincare had been communicated to the enemy by a spy. One of their best pilots was sent out with a bomb which he was ordered to drop on the quarters occupied by the President and Gen. Joffre.

"A French aviator, named Framnz, immediately pursued and brought down the raider. Framnz was rewarded by M. Poincare, who pinned the cross of the Legion of Honor on the aviator's tunic"

GERMAN SPIES WERE TAKEN IN LAUNCH

Had Nine Months' Provisions and Wireless Apparatus on Board

NANAIMO, B.C., Oct. 16.—The ninety-ton gasoline launch Empress Ninth was captured by Canadian authorities on Wednesday at Comox Spit in Union Bay. The crey, two men and a woman, all giving the name of Kohfe, were taken into custody.

The launch had about nine months' provisions and supplies aboard, carried three auxiliary engines and was equipped with wireless apparatus. It is supposed that the crew were intercepting messages from the wireless station at Cape Lazo.

Two other men, also named Kohfe, were arrested at Campbell River. They are charged with being German spies. Both parties were sent to Nanaimo to wait further instructions.

The launch left Victoria a few days ago without clearance papers.

Father and Son Died in Week

Family of Late Thos. B. Cook Lose Husband and Father and Son and Brother

KINGSTON, Oct. 16.—A telegram received at Harrowsmith yesterday by friends announcing the death in Regina of Thomas F. Cooke, a former resident of Portland, and a son of the late Thomas B. Cooke and Mrs. Cooke, of Harrowsmith.

The death of Mr. Cooke is particularly sad, as it was only yesterday that the remains of his father, one of the most respected residents of the townships were placed in their last resting place. Scarcely had the friends returned from the funeral when the sad news of the death of a son and brother in the far west was brought to them. The double bereavement was a heavy blow to the relatives and was received with regret by many friends of the family.

The late Thomas Cooke was born in Harrowsmith and lived there for many years. Later he caught the western fever and moved west, where he has since resided. At the time of his death he occupied a responsible position with the Electric Railway Company of Regina. He is survived by his widow, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Walker, Holleford, and three small children. Also his mother, four brothers and one sister, who now suffer the loss of husband and father, as well as a beloved son and brother in less than a week. The sympathy of the entire neighborhood goes out to this much respected family in their double bereavement. The remains of the deceased will be brought to his boyhood home and will be interred beside those of his father in the family plot in Harrowsmith Cemetery.

AUSTRIAN MURDERED AT LACHINE, QUEBEC

Stabbed and Died in Hospital--Alleged Assailant Held

MONTREAL, Oct. 16.—A drinking bout in Fortin's Hotel, St. Joseph St. East, Lachine, last night, followed by a melee and stabbing affray between two Austrians resulted in one being so severely stabbed that he died in the Lachine General Hospital at an early hour this morning while the second is held by Chief of Police Robert on a charge of murder.

The dead man is Dumitrie Cimbra, 27 years old of 150 East First Avenue, Lachine, and his assailant, whose name the Chief of Police will not yet divulge, is also a resident of the same place, is married and has a wife and family in the old country.

Last night's tragedy was the repetition of the old, old story, a few drinks, a quarrel, the inevitable knife. The two men on their way home started to quarrel on second Avenue. Here Cimbra was stabbed in the head and left unconscious and dying on the pavement. His assailant fled. The unconscious man was removed to the Lachine Hospital and died at an early hour today.

Chief Robert was early on the case, and from information received was able to effect the arrest of the man whom he is certain was the assailant. The arrest was made in a Roumanian boarding house on Fourth avenue at noon.

HAVE NOTHING BUT LOSS TO SHOW FOR MILLIONS

LONDON, Oct. 16.—The military correspondent of the Times this morning says:

"The triumphal march of the Germans in Antwerp was somewhat expensive, and while it was taking place the Belgian field army, which ought to have been intercepted, slipped away. The fighting reported at Ghent is doubtless connected with this retirement, which succeeded beyond all reasonable hope.

"For what we are told was an expenditure by Germany of 100,000 lives and 200,000,000 sterling (1,000,000,000), the result can scarcely be described by Germany as gaudy.

"The 'contemptible little British army' has turned up again stronger than ever, with its valiant Allies, and the Germans will now have to fight with us over their Belgian prey to keep, if they can, what they have so discreditably won.

"The main armies of Russia on the one side and the Austro-German on the other side are in close touch over an immense front, although the actions reported appear to indicate combats of cavalry and advanced guards. This will gradually merge into a general action, which will extend from the Baltic to the Carpathians and beyond them, and will place in conflict numbers which stun the imagination.

"The Kaiser has found a stout fighter in General Von Hindenburg, and has apparently confided to him the conduct of the allied masses. Judging by the situation as it is revealed by the map, General Von Hindenburg apparently is hoping to carry out a double enveloping movement combined with an advance of the central mass toward the line Warsaw-Ivangorod.

"The double enveloping movement so dear to Von der Goltz, served General Von Hindenburg well at Osterburg, but in the large theatre it should be less successful. Marshes, fortresses, and General Rennenkampf's army in the north should make it difficult for the Germans left to become dangerous in advancing from East Prussia, while the Russia armies in Galicia should prevent the Austrians from doing much harm.

"In this event, the central masses will collide with a formidable shock and clamor which will reverberate throughout the ages and perhaps decide the issue of the campaign."

Pays Tribute to Canada's Devotion

London Journals Praise Imperial Self-Sacrifice of People in Dominion

LONDON, Oct. 16.—In a leading article on the arrival of the Canadian troops, the Daily Mail pays Canada a splendid tribute. "What Plymouth was privileged to witness," it says, "was something more than the arrival of so many thousands of hardy natural soldiers. It was a living picture of the Empire in action; the scattering of all illusions of imperial disintegration with which the Germans have amused themselves. This was a spectacle hardly to be paralleled since the Crusades.

"For all that Canada has done in this war, for her splendid troops, her gifts, her instinctive comperhension of the stake that is on the table, and above all for the spirit in, which she has asserted her right to take a hand in the game, the British people are proudly grateful.

"Never was the assistance she has so lavishly offered more welcome, never was it more needed."

"The presence of this splendid body of men," says the Daily Mail, "is an inspiration and an assurance that, however long the war lasts, there can be but one end to the struggle. These Canadian troops are the practical embodiment of Empire devotion."

Struck By Car Instantly Killed

Michael O'Hara, Walked in Front of Trolley on Bathurst Street --On His Way Home

TORONTO, Oct. 17.—(Special.)—Walking in front of a southbound Bathurst car at the corner of Wellington and Bathurst Streets shortly before 8 o'clock last night, Michael O'Hara, of 554 Front Street west, aged 65, was instantly killed. The man was thrown some considerable distance and besides a fracture of the skull received many other injuries. He was taken to the office of Dr. Hawkins, but was pronounced dead and the body was taken to the Morgue.

O'Hara was on his way home, and his view of the street car was apparently hidden by an umbrella, as he walked immediately in front of the car. It was some time before the body was identified, and when deceased did not turn up at his home friends informed the police and found that he was dead.

An inquest will be opened to-day by Coroner Dr. W. G. Russell.

While crossing Yonge Street at the corner of Gould Street last evening about 6 o'clock, Lynn Llewelyn, whose address is thought to be 40 Gloucester Street, was struck by a northbound Yonge Street car and received injuries from which it is feared he may not recover.

He is suffering from a fracture of the skull and other injuries, and at an early hour this morning had not regained consciousness. The man is 32 years of age and single, and is at the General Hospital.

DELIBERATE SUICIDE AT NIAGARA BRIDGE

Young Man Enquired Way to the Bridge, Then Hurried to Death --Seen by Two women

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y., Oct. 17.—(Special.)—An unidentified man, probably 30 years old, committed suicide late yesterday afternoon by leaping off the upper steel-arch bridge into the river. The man left no clue behind as to his identity.

He was seen by Charles Hartzman, ticket agent at the upper bridge. It was about 5.30 o'clock, and Hartzman was on his way to work when a man came running up to him and asked the way to the "bridge over the falls." Hartzman directed him, and the man ran on. He stopped several others on his way, and finally cut through the state park and ran on the bridge. He ran along the upper side for a distance of a hundred feet or so and started to vault the railing, when he looked down and apparently discovered that if he made the leap from there he would strike the ground. He climbed back and and ran farther out, brushing two women off the footpath on his way. He had only passed them a short distance when he again climbed the rail and was over in an instant. The women returned to the American side and at the Customs office told the story. In the meantime Hartzman had reached the office and the description given by the woman tallied with that of Hartzman. The man is said to have apparently 30 years old, five feet ten inches tall, and dressed in dark clothes.

ALLIED FORCES PUSHING THE BATTLE FROM YPRES TO THE OCEAN

Strenuous Fighting all Along the Battle Front—Attempt by Germans to Turn the Oncoming Tide of No Avail—Ostend Said to be Occupied by Kaiser's Troops

(Canadian Press Specials Exclusively to the Intelligencer)

CONDEMNATION OF ZEPPELIN RAIDS

NEW YORK, Oct. 17.—Passengers on the steamer Olympic, which arrived last night, met on board ship and passed resolutions condemning the contemplated wholesale raids by Zeppelins on Paris and London as being contrary to the instincts of self-respecting nations, certain to alienate every particle of sympathy from the German cause, and as being not only brutal and cruel but without military object. These resolutions were entrusted to Hopkinson Smith, the well known author, who forwarded them to President Wilson, accompanied by a personal letter urging the President to intervent to prevent these raids before it is too late.

Mr. Smith told the Press Germany had gone into a fight against civilization, that they are rushing work on an enormous fleet of Zeppelins and aeroplanes, that they are boasting that they do not need to capture Paris but will burn it and London so that Berlin shall have no rival, and that the menace threatening London is very real and imminent.

ITALY AND AUSTRIA REACH AGREEMENT

LONDON, Oct. 17.—The Daily Telegraph publishes a report wired from Stockholm which it suggests should be received with the greatest reserve, that Austria and Italy have reached an agreement whereby in return for Italy's neutrality Austria will cede to her Trentina, and the permanent occupation of Avlona.

NO LET-UP IN FIGHTING

VIENNA, Oct. 17.—It is officially announced that fighting continues along the entire battle front southeast of Przemysl and that the Russians are retreating from Hungary, pursued by the Austrians.

TRAWLER SENT TO BOTTOM BY MINE

LONDON, Oct. 17.—The steam trawler Ajay, out of Grimsby, has been blown up in the North Sea by a German mine. Nine members of the crew lost their lives.

HOW TO ADDRESS CANADIAN TROOPS

LONDON, Oct. 17.—(Special.)—The Canadian soldiers, or such of them as have already arrived at Salisbury Plains, are immensely pleased with the look of their place of encampment, and one and all vote the place a huge improvement on Valcartier, to put it mildly.

The Army Service Corps, the Highlanders, and a small portion of the infantry already have reached Salisbury, but it probably will be well on in next week before the camp is complete.

The correct address for letters to members is, "Headquarters Canadian Contingent, Bustard Camp, Salisbury plains," with the member's full name, rank and regiment.

GERMANS RUSH GUNS TO WESTERN FRONT

LONDON, Oct. 16.—"Important German reinforcements, especially artillery have been sent to the west front," cables the Copenhagen correspondent of Reuter's Telegram Company.

REPORTS OF GERMANS OCCUPYING OSTEND

LONDON, Oct. 17. — Despatches from Paris report no news from the front last night. Reports from various sources that Ostend has been occupied by the Germans are unconfirmed. A despatch from Cettinje says the Anglo-French fleet of forty ships, supported by heavy French naval guns on Mount Loven has resumed the bombardment of the port of Cattaro. A late despatch from Rome says it is reported there that Cattara has surrendered to the allied fleet.

A despatch from Chiasso, Switzerlandd, says that the Germans are working day and night erecting new and stronger fortifications around Strassburg. Shells fired across the Swiss frontier have started great forest fires.

SAW CRUISERS AND TRANSPORTS

LONDON, Oct. 17—The Daily Mail's Copenhagen correspondent wires the story of a Norwegian captain who, while crossing the North Sea, saw about twenty cruisers with a number of transports steaming slowly as if rehearsing for an expedition.

PLANTING MINES IN GULF OF FINLAND

PETROGRAD, Oct. 17.—The Russian Government announces that it has been compelled to place mines in the Gulf of Finland and Riga as defensive measures and these waters are now closed to non-combatants.

FRANCE AND RUSSIA BUY SADDLES HERE

OTTAWA, Oct. 17.—Special—A representative of the French and Russian Governments is in the capital to-day, and met the saddlery manufacturers of Canada, among others, Messrs. Hutchings and Adams of Winnipeg. There will be placed orders for 20,000 saddlers for these Governments to-morrow. The price has been fixed, and the order will be divided according to the capacity of the factories. The Canadian order will be 5,000 saddles.

MEMBERS OF RELIEF COMMITTEE ARRESTED

LONDON, Oct. 17.—The Exchange Telegraph Co. says that German forces have arrested every member of the British relief committee in the British consulate at Berlin and will hold them prisoners until the end of the war. No explaination is given.

Choked to Death While Eating Ham

Miles Martin of Yarker Meets Death in an Unusual Manner

KINGSTON, Oct. 16.—Shortly before six o'clock last night, Myles Martin, a farmer from Yarker, choked to death on a piece of ham that he was eating. The man entered Beefsteak Jack's restaurant on Brock street, to partake of some ham and eggs for his evening repast, and a piece of the meat became lodged in his throat, with the result that in a few minutes he was dead.

He was seen to topple over from his chair by one of the attendant at the eating house, and first aid was rendered him but he had passed away before anything could be done for him. The police and Dr. Mundell, corner, were summoned and the latter deemd it expedient that a postmortem should be held over the remains to ascertain the cause of death. The remains wer removed to R J. Reid's undertaking parlors and this morning Dr. W. T. Connell of Queen's University performed the post-mortem. The result of the examination was the finding that the deceased came to his death by a piece of ham becoming lodged in his throat, causing almost instant death.

The deceased was a man of about fifty years of age and was well-known in this vicinity. He was a frequent visitor to the city and had many friends. Until about a year ago he had a farm in the Wilton district but sold it and went to Yarker where he had taken another. His death came as a great shock to his wife and family, who have the sympathy of many in their bereavement.

SERVIANS CAPTURE POSITION DOMINATING BOSNIA CAPITAL

Nish Announces a Complete Victory for Balkan Allies After a Desperate Assault on Reinforced Austrians

LONDON, Oct. 17.—(Special.)—The following Servian official statement been received from the Nish War Office by Reuter:

"The Serbo-Montenegrin troops commanded by General Bojanovic on Wednesday made a desperate attempt on the Austrians in Glasinatz, in Bosnia. The battle ended in a complete victory for our troops over a division of the enemy which was reinforced by other units. This victory is particularly important because the plateau of Glasinatz dominates the fortifications of Sarajevo (capital of Bosnia).

"At midday Wednesday the enemy attacked our positions at Blutchevo. The result was satisfactory to us. On the Drina River fighting satisfactory to the Servians took place towards Kuriatcheza.

"There is nothing important to report for the remainder of the front."

SIXTEEN MEN ARRESTED FOR SELLING TO INDIANS

The Culprits Consisted Chiefly of Farmers in Chatham County

CHATHAM, Oct. 17.—Special—High County Constable George Peters made an important raid at Moraviantown Fair yesterday afternoon, when he arrested sixteen men charged with selling liquor to Indians For several years the authorities have been on the lookout for the people engaged in this business, but it was not until yesterday that they made a round-up. The men arrested were chiefly farmers of Chatham Township and one woman from Chatham. Each of the offenders was fined $16 and costs when tried before the Indian Agent at Moraviantown yesterday afternoon, with the exception of Arthur Hill, of this city, who was given the option of a $70 fine or sixty days in jail. He will take the time.

The Indian Fair at Moraviantown is one of the chief events of the district and is attended by large numbers of visitors.

SPY WITH CANADIAN TROOPS ASKED TOO MANY QUESTIONS

TORONTO, Oct. 16.—The Star publishes a special cable, dated Plymouth, from a "representative with the first Canadian contingent," who says:—

"The most exciting incidents of the voyage were the arrest of a supposed German spy, and two burials overboard at sea, one a man who died of exposure after a rescue. The names have been unascertainable as yet.

"It is supposed the spy was a private in a regiment from Montreal, said to be of Dutch nationality. He spoke several languages. The brigade commander's suspicions were aroused by persistent questions about the disposition of various Canadian troops, and he ordered the man's arrest, which was very smartly done.

"A state letter and code were found in the man's clothes. A secret officers' inquiry was held, with the result that the man will be kept in custody till further orders."

WM. McINTOSH & CO.

Saturday Night Specials

75 Ladies' Sweaters, pure wool, colors, Royal, Navy, Black, White and Cardinal; right up to date, worth $3.00. Rush sale tonight; each .......... $1.49
25 dozen Ladies' all wool Cashmere Hose; rush sale, pair .. 19c.
36 Men's Sweaters, all wool in several colors, up to $2.00. Sale .......... $1.00
12 dozen Ladies fleece lined Vests, reg. 50c.; Rush sale, 35c. 3 for .......... $1.00
Ladies' Wool Vests; sale .......... 19c.
72 American Alarm Clocks; first class; regular $1.00. To-night .......... 49c.
Ladies' Purses, nickel plated, folding, with chain; regular 50c., Sale .......... 25c.

TONIGHT ONLY.

WM. McINTOSH & CO.

Library Tables

A Library Table for your living room will show up well with the other furnishings, besides being a very convenient and necessary article in your home.

Tables in Golden and Fumed Oak, etc., in Period and other designs to match the furniture you already have, or a complete suit if you are furnishing all your living room or den.

THE THOMPSON FURNITURE Co.
UNDERTAKERS Phones: Day. 62; Night, 295.

Children Cry for Fletcher's

CASTORIA

The Kind You Have Always Bought, and which has been in use for over 30 years, has borne the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher and has been made under his personal supervision since its infancy. Allow no one to deceive you in this. All Counterfeits, Imitations and "Just-as-good" are but Experiments that trifle with and endanger the health of Infants and Children—Experience against Experiment.

What is CASTORIA

Castoria is a harmless substitute for Castor Oil, Paregoric, Drops and Soothing Syrups. It is pleasant. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other Narcotic substance. Its age is its guarantee. It destroys Worms and allays Feverishness. For more than thirty years it has been in constant use for the relief of Constipation, Flatulency, Wind Colic, all Teething Troubles and Diarrhoea. It regulates the Stomach and Bowels, assimilates the Food, giving healthy and natural sleep. The Children's Panacea—The Mother's Friend.

GENUINE CASTORIA ALWAYS
Bears the Signature of
Chas. H. Fletcher.

In Use For Over 30 Years
The Kind You Have Always Bought
THE CENTAUR COMPANY, NEW YORK CITY.

Quaker
REGISTERED
MOLASSES CANDY

Let the children eat all they want because it's so pure and wholesome that it cannot hurt them.

And its velvety smoothness is perfectly delicious.

Each one is machine-wrapped and untouched by human hands. 4

"THE FAMILY CANDY"

INTELLIGENCER
NIGHT LETTER BOX

Our friends will find a letter box in The Intelligencer Front Door for the reception of news items after the office closing hours. The box will be emptied each morning

See Hyman's Advertisement on Page 7 for Special Prices.

Read Hyman's Special Price Advertisement on Page 7.

MUSIC AND DRAMA

THE COURTSHIP OF CANADA

When you attend this excellent entertainment at the City Hall on Thursday and Friday evenings, Oct. 22 and 23, you are assisting the Patriotic Fund. The larger the receipts, the greater the benefit.

Kindness and politeness would be appreciated more if they were not used so often as gold brick substitutes.

ENEMY ON OFFENSIVE

Austro-German Army Is Active Along the Vistula.

Fighting Has Taken Place Within Eight Miles of Warsaw and Germans Seem to Have Retrieved Some of the Austrian Disasters—Preliminary Fighting Has Little Bearing Until Main Armies Meet.

LONDON, Oct. 17.—The following official communication from the chief of the Russian General Staff was given out in St. Petersburg last night:

"Small engagements have taken place on the front in East Prussia.

"The Austro-German troops on Oct. 15 assumed the offensive all along the front between the Vistula river and Galicia.

"South of Przemysl we captured three Austrian companies and six officers."

The Germans are before Warsaw—in fact fighting has taken place only eight miles from that city—and while their advance to the Niemen was a failure, the forces of Emperor William apparently have retrieved some defeats of the Austrians in Galicia, and advanced as far as Jaroslau, 17 miles northwest of Przemysl.

The German plan seems to be to have two armies advance within the course formed by the Vistula river on the left bank of the river, while two other armies advance round on the right bank to take the defenders of Warsaw on the flank. This, according to Russian accounts, suits the Russian General Staff, who are said purposely to have withdrawn to the Vistula so that they would have the railways at their back, while the roads which at this time of the year are little more than quagmires.

Both sides claim to have gained advantages in the preliminary fighting, but these victories and defeats can have little effect on the general result of the battle in which it is estimated nearly 5,000,000 men are engaged. The Russians, it is said, have 2,500,000 men and the Austro-German force is declared to total nearly 2,000,000. The armies cover a front of nearly 300 miles.

Battle Will Last Weeks.

PARIS, Oct. 17.—The Austro-German army which is moving against the Russian army in Poland consists of nearly 1,200,000 men, according to the following Petrograd despatch to The Matin to-day:

"Four columns, including one of Austrian troops, are marching against the Russians. The first is moving via Lodz against Warsaw, the second toward Sandomir, the third against Ivangorod and the fourth (made up of Austrian troops) along the Vistula.

"There are twenty German army corps and eight Austrian army corps in the advancing host. Against these forces more than one million Russians are under arms.

"The battle is expected to last for several weeks, but furious fighting is already under way. The Germans have suffered one reverse."

Girls Dug Trenches.

LONDON, Oct. 17.—A despatch to the Reuter's Telegram Co. from Petrograd, says:

"To the local peasantry, among them many girls, is attributed, in part, the failure of the German attempts to cross the Vistula during the recent fighting. The girls aided the Russian soldiers by digging trenches."

READY FOR "THE DAY."

But London Police Raided German's Fortress In London.

LONDON, Oct. 17.—The police have found at Willesden, a suburb to the northwest of London, a building occupied by Germans, with foundations and roof of heavy concrete. They arrested 22 Germans on the premises. The premises were being used by C. G. Roeber, a German music publisher, as a factory. The police laid their plans and conducted a successful raid. In large force they surrounded the building and then entered. The factory is of one storey.

Within they found very thick concrete foundations, and it was discovered that the roof also was of concrete and between three and four feet thick. The site of this factory at Willesden commands several important railroad junctions.

The Paris premises of this same firm were blown up recently on orders issued by the French Government.

German Demands on Antwerp.

LONDON, Oct. 17.—The Amsterdam correspondent of Reuter's sends a despatch in which he quotes Councillor Langnor of Antwerp as describing the situation in Antwerp as follows:

"Antwerp now has a garrison of 17,000 marines and 200 officers commanded by an admiral. As a war contribution the Germans demanded 300 hundredweight of potatoes daily, 2,000 bottles of wine, bread for the whole garrison, 85,000 cigars, 8,500 kilograms of meat, and pay for the officers and soldiers estimated at $10,000 daily."

Hungarian Clergy Flee.

VENICE, Oct. 17.—(Via Paris.)—At the first approach of the Russians into Hungary, many bishops and members of the clergy fled from the threatened districts to Budapest. The prince primate of Hungary, Johan Czernoch, has now addressed a circular to the clergy strictly forbidding them under any circumstance to leave their posts.

Tried To Wreck Train.

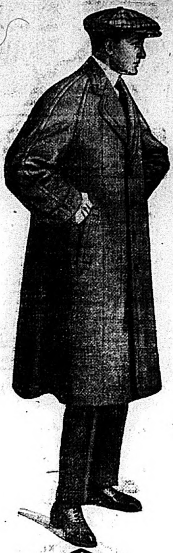
BROCKVILLE, Oct. 17.—An attempt was made to wreck the evening train leaving Ogdensburg in the south on the N. Y. C. R., a short distance out of the city, when a tie braced with planking, was placed across the rails. An employe noticed the obstruction in time to clear it before the arrival of the train.

It takes a woman to jolly a man into a condition that will enable her to work him.

There are times when every man is a deep-dyed villian in his thoughts.

The Fine Art of Dress



THE famous Balmacaan with lapels, split sleeves and flowing skirt. Also made with collar buttoning close up. A grand "knock-about" coat. : : :

20th CENTURY BRAND
TAILORED BY Lowndes TORONTO

WE ARE EXCLUSIVE AGENTS
QUICK & ROBERTSON

IN AND ABOUT THE CITY

Condensed News Items For Busy Readers.

TRAMP LOOKED AFTER

A tramp was last night the only occupant of the police cells. This morning the knight of the road was allowed his liberty upon promising to leave the city.

DIED IN THE WEST

Word has been received here that Mrs. John Hay, a middle aged lady, died at Wolsley, Sask., and that the remains were enroute here for interment. Deceased formerly resided in this vicinity.

GOOD PRICE FOR CHEESE

At the Cheese Board here to-day 1,160 boxes of white and 30 boxes of colored cheese were offered for sale. With the exception of 180 boxes all were sold at 15 5-16c.

NIPPERS PICKED UP

A pair of wire nippers are at the police station awaiting an owner. They were picked up on the street by a citizen, who gave them in charge of the police.

ALLEGED DISORDERLY CONDUCT

At a few minutes after 11 o'clock last night the police were called to Coleman street, it being alleged some parties were acting in a disorderly manner. The parties had made themselves scarce before the officer arrived, but in all probability they will be called to answer for their conduct.

THE MARKET

There was a good attendance upon the market this morning, and prices were good for all produce offered for sale. Butter sold at from 32c. to 35c. per pound, the former price being for basket lots. Fresh eggs sold at from 28c. to 30c. per dozen; dressed chickens form 75c. to $1.40 per pair, according to size and quality; ducks at $1.40 to $1.75 per pair, and geese $1.25 to $1.50 each. Wild ducks sold at $1.25 per pair. Potatoes sold at 80 and 85c. per bag.

A SUCCESSFUL SALE

The rummage sale at the City Hall under the auspices of the Woman's Temperance Union of this city, which has been in progress for the past two days, has proved to be profitable.

A NARROW ESCAPE

Yesterday a lady who was walking along Catherine street, near Murney street, had a narrow escape from a serious accident. A line of poles had recently been erected on Catherine street, and workmen were engaged at the top of the pole arrainging wire, and were using a soldering pot. The latter fell, just as the lady passed, and the molten solder was scattered about the sidewalk, a small portion adhering to the lady's skirt. Had she been struck with the pot there is no doubt she would have been injured, or severely burned.

A GOOD PARADE

The Fifteenth Regiment, under command of Col. Marsh, had a march out last night headed by the Regimental Band. The turnout was a most creditable one, over 200 being in line. After a march up Front street the Regiment returned to the Armouries, where the commanding officer addressed the men, congratulating them upon the turnout. He advised all to turn out and be ready in case of emergency, which might arise at any time. A number of the members of the Regiment then participated in a practice shoot at the Armouries' range, whilst the balance were drilled for some time. Another parade will take place on Friday next. In the meantime recruiting in the various companies will take place.

THE WOMAN'S INSTITUTE

A meeting of the Women's Institute of Queen Alexandra School will be held in the Assembly Room of the above school on Monday, Oct. 19th, at 4 p.m. Mr. McLaurin, B.A. Principal of Belleville High School will deliver an address. All members and any other interested persons are cordially invited to be present.

A Message To Thin, Weak, Scrawny Folks

AN EASY WAY TO GAIN 10 TO 30 lbs. OF SOLID, HEALTHY, PERMANENT FLESH.

Thin, nervous, undeveloped men and women everywhere are heard to say, "I can't understand why I do not get fat. I eat plenty of good, nourishing food." The reason is just this. You cannot get fat, no matter how much you eat, unless your digestive organs assimilate the fat-making elements of your food instead of passing them out through the body as waste.

What is needed is a means of gently urging the assimilative functions of the stomach and intestines to absorb the oils and fats and hand them over to the blood, where they may reach the starved shrunken, run-down, tissues and build them up. The thin person's body is like a sponge—eager and hungry for the fatty materials of which it is being deprived by the failure of the alimentary canal to take them from the food. The best way to overcome this sinful waste of flesh building elements and to stop the leekage of fats is to use Sargol, the recently discovered regenerative force that is recommended so highly by physicians here and abroad. Take a little Sargol tablet with every meal and notice how quickly your cheeks fill out and rolls of firm, healthy flesh are deposited over your body, covering each bony angle, and projecting point. J. S. McKeown Drug store and other good druggists have Sargol, or can get it from their wholesaler, and will refund your money if you are not satisfied with the gain in weight it produces as stated on the guarantee in each package. It is inexpensive, easy to take and highly efficent.

Caution:—While Sargol has produced remarkable results in overcoming nervous dyspepsia and general stomach troubles, it should not be taken unless you are willing to gain ten pounds or more, for it is a wonderful flesh-builder.

THE WEATHER.

Moderate winds and local showers, but for the most part fair and warm to-day and on Sunday.

Try Our
DOUGHNUTS
FRIED CAKE
and
ALL KINDS OF PASTRY
Jas. Wallace & Co.

It Will Pay You To Buy The Best In Jewelry

You will always find here prices which are exceptionally fair and moderate. The new original designs constantly being added to our stock enable purchasers to choose from a practically unlimited field.

When looking for a gift, it would be best simply to come in, walk through the store and let the various articles tell their own stories.

Angus McFee
Jeweler. Optician.
The Store with the Big Clock.

Wallbridge
&
Clarke's
Delicious
Coffee
Best in Quality
Best in Value

Neilson's
Chocolates
Fresh Supplies
"Aristocratic", "Demonstrator", "Classic", "Empress", "Every Piece Different", "Cream Dipped Brazils", "De Lux,", etc, etc.

Wallbridge & Clarke
Established 1874

We Serve

This is the Season of the year you need Electricity to pass the long evenings in comfort.

If Your House
Isn't Wired
DO IT NOW

The Trenton Electric and Water Company
Limited
Oswald H. Scott. Local Mgr.

Following the barring from the mails by Canada of the publication Fatherland, issued by pro-German sources in New York, the Canadian ban has also been put on the New Yorker Staats Zeitung, according to an announcement in the evening edition of that newspaper recently.

THE NEW STORE

SATURDAY SPECIALS

20 pcs Taffeta Ribbon, regular price 20c. yard. On sale ........ 15c. yard
3 doz Sateen Underskirts, all new shades, worth 90c. On sale ........ 59c. each
4 doz Overall Aprons, regular price 65c.; On sale at ...... 50c.
2 doz Tailored Blouses, regular price $1.25; on sale at .... 69c.
5 doz Ribbed Cashmere Hose, double knee, heel and toe, pair ........ 25c.
25 prs Flannelette Blankets ........ $1.25 pair
3 doz Pillow Shams and Runners, hemstitched, worth 40c.; on sale at ........ 25c. each
10 dozen Men's Sox, regular price 20c. pair; on sale 2 pairs for ........ 25c.
3 doz sample Handbags, worth $1.25 to $1.75; no two alike; on sale at ........ 59c. each

VIMS & CO.

NEXT DOOR TO GEEN'S. 282 FRONT STREET

J.T. DELANEY
FURRIER
Furs Made To Order
epairing, Remodelling and Relining.
lso have in stock made p Furs at Reasonable Prices.
23½ Front St. Phone 797
(Or Blackburn's Jewellery Store)

RUPTURE
(SEE DATES AT BOTTOM)
COMING

J. Y. Egan, Specialist of Toronto
Wonderful Method Retains Rupture Without Knife, Danger or Pain.

Old style truss torture is no longer necessary. Galling, slipping trusses, barbarous methods of treating rupture done away with by the wonderful invention of a specialist who has devoted fifty years to this one study. The marvelous EGAN "CURATRUS" is intended to give instant relief, rest and security without operation. It stops all irritation, restores rupture to natural position, and old trusses are thrown away.

Multitudes of cured men, women and children testify. Greatest success where others fail.

Nothing complicated, no pain—just a natural retentive method at small cost.

Immediate relief guaranteed. No foreign mail order lies. Safer to patronize a Canadian personally. Do not delay; tear off coupon now.

Free Rupture Coupon.
This coupon, upon presentation to J. Y. Egan, specialist, 14 East King St., Toronto, who will visit the towns below, entitles bearer to free consultation and examination of samples. Ask at hotel office. Note dates.

Campbellford, Windsor Hotel, Oct. 19th
Belleville—Anglo-American Hotel, Tuesday (afternoon and night); Wednesday (all day and night. 1 1-2 days only—October 20th and 21st.
Picton—Globe Hotel, Oct. 22nd

Ruptures Cured

y Chiropractic are permanent cures. The truth of tis statement can be proven b the success I have had vth others.

Dr. B. G. HAHN
Chiropractor
4½ Bridge St. Phone 758

NTELLIGENCER NIGHT LETTER BOX

Our friends will find a letter box in The Intelligencer Front Door for the reception of news items after the office closing hours. The box will be emptied each morning.

The country now faces the gloomy prospect of having to buy new school geographies and histories.

When the oldest daughter marries, the rest of the family manage to get along comfortably without any boss.

etter one boil on the stove than tw on the neck.

To Keep Our Workers Busy

For nearly half a century the standard price and the higher character of Gerhard Heintzman Pianos have been rigidly maintained. Nothing would induce us to lower the quality or the reputation that these pianos have earned. But these are strenuous times, and necessitate stern measures.

Profit Sacrificed to Keep Wheels Turning

We are reducing the price of Gerhard Heintzman Pianos to the point where profit vanishes, solely in order that the enormous business that will result will enable us to keep the hundreds of employees in our factories at work. The skilled workmen who build represent an almost unique organization. If work stopped this organization would drift apart; and, aside from the misery and suffering entailed in non-employment, we would be confronted with the enormous task of rebuilding an organization capable of upholding our standards. Rather would we sacrifice all profit now.

GERHARD HEINTZMAN PIANOS

You Reap the Advantage

Never was a better time to purchase a really high-class instrument. Those who found the price of the Gerhard Heintzman Piano the only obstacle to its possession now have that obstacle removed. Buy your Piano now-save money—help hundreds of families.

Gerhard Heintzman, Limited

J. A. Goodsell & Co.,
316-318 FRONT STREET

SPECIAL SHOE VALUES FOR MEN

$5.00 Shoes For $3.48

Come here for Fall Shoes. The weather is cool, and comfort demands them. We are placing on sale for quick clearance

300 Pairs Men's $5.00 Shoes for $3.48

All sizes, and up to the minute in style, including GUN METAL, TAN, and PATENT BUTTONED or BLUCHERS, while they last, all one price.................. $3.48

ADAMS, The Shoeman
Next Door to Sinclair's
PHONE 495

Y.M.C.A. Boys Have Big Night

Last night some 80 boys of the Junior Dept. of the Y.M.C.A. sat down to a bountiful supper which was provided by the boys parents. The auditorium was tastily decorated with the Union Jack and the National colors, giving the place an atmosphere in keeping with the present war crisis. After supper Mr. McBride, Chairman of the Boys' Work Committee, took the chair and a program of short speeches and music was carried out. Mr. Baldwin sang "It's a long way to Tipperary" and the boys all joined heartily in the chorus. Mr. Bailey, President of the Y.M.C.A. spoke of the Association as a Christian Organization and was listened to with keen attention. Mr. Hess had some good things to say to the working or employed boy along educational lines. Mr. Faulkner, the new Physical Director spoke about Leadership and inspired in the boys a desire to become leaders. Mr Allison spoke on different activities in the Boys' Dept. dwelling especially upon the necessity of a strong clean body, and a right relationship with God. Dr. Kimmell, as an ex-Physical Director in the Y.M.C.A and in a large Normal School in Indianna encouraged boys not only to be athletes, but above all to be Christian athletes.

The Juniors have been organized. Four groups, with ten boys in a group and three membes of the Junion Leaders Corps are in each group. These groups will meet for Bible Study once a week, and will also compete against each other in athletics and aquatics for badges, which will be awarded each month. Great enthusiasm is being shown among these groups. The Junior Leaders Corps is composed of the following:

S. Modeland, H. Ferguson, T. Lazier, J. Barlow, L. Deeton, G. Chute, B. Colling, A. Duesberry, H. Holland, E. Kember, E. Taylor, A. Boyd, K. Van Allan.

The Intermediates will meet for supper each Wednesday night and will take up a course of studies applicable to the intermediate boy. The Intermediate Leaders are at present meeting with the Senior Leaders for their special work. Prospects are good for a great season's work.

Notice To Shareholders

The Sun And Hastings Savings And Loan Company Of Ontario

TAKE NOTICE that a special general meeting of the shareholders of the Sun and Hastings Savings and Loan Company of Ontario will be held at the head office of the Company, Confederation Life Building, Toronto, on Monday, the thirtieth day of November, 1914, at the hour of 12 o'clock noon, for the purpose of taking into consideration and, if approved, of ratifying and accepting an agreement as passed and approved by the Registrar of Loan and Trust Corporations of Ontario provisionally entered into by the Directors of the Sun and Hastings Saving and Loan Company of Ontario and the Directors of the Standard Reliance Mortgage Corporation for the sale by the Sun and Hastings Savings and Loan Company of Ontario of its assets and undertaking to the Standard Reliance Mortgage Corporation upon the terms and conditions prescribed in the said agreement.

AND TAKE NOTICE that the original of the said agreement may be inspected by any shareholder at the Head Office of the Company above mentioned.

Dated this Fifteenth day of October, 1914.

(Signed) JOHN P. MARTIN,
Secretary.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

W. C. Mikel, K.C., is in Chicago for a few days.

Rev. M. E. Sexsmith, L.L.D., of Whitby, Ont., will spend Sunday at Bridge Street Methodist parsonage.

Mrs. P. A. Tripp arrived home on Monday after spending two months in Saskatoon with her son Charlie, and her daughter, Mrs. S. L. May.

Miss Dennis of this city, is visiting her aunt, Mrs. George Dennis of Marmora Village.

Miss Gertrude Close of Croydon, is spending a few days with her cousin, Mrs. C. J. Bell, Front street.

Mrs. R. L. Welsh of Detroit and Mrs. W. J. Slack of Brockville, were in the city today attending the obsequies of their mother, the late Mrs. George Backus.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Stewart of Menie, Seymour Township, Mr. W. C. Todd, Sr., and Mr. [illegible] C. Todd, Jr., of Campbellford, today attended the funeral of the late Mrs. Geo. Backus.

NO ALUM

ALL INGREDIENTS ARE PLAINLY PRINTED ON THE LABEL
MAKES THE WHITEST, LIGHTEST
MAGIC BAKING POWDER
CONTAINS NO ALUM

Ritchie's Saturday Night Bargain List. See page 8.

Last Saturday night many were disappointed owing to the storm during the sale hours, so we have decided to offer the same splendid list of bargains for to-night, in order that every man and woman may have an opportunity of sharing in the special money-saving chances which this sale affords. When in the store to-night watch for the Blue Price Cards; they indicate the Saturday Night Specials.

The Ritchie Company Limited.

Keep This Date Open

Thursday & Friday Evenings
October 22 and 23
At City Hall

Courtship of Canada

The Most Spectacular Patriotic Entertainment of the Season.

TICKETS 25c
Reserved Seats 35c

Reserved Plan opens at Goodsell's Music Store, Front Street, Wednesday morning at 9 o'clock.
Half Proceeds in aid of Patriotic fund.

Russians To play A Waiting Game

Have Allowed the Enemy to Entrench for Winter in Poland--Guerillas are Active

LONDON, Oct. 17.—(Special.)—Telegraphing from Petrograd regarding the situation in the Russian field of operations, the correspondent of the Times says:

"It looked as if those high in Russian command had decided to play a waiting game. Otherwise they would not give the Germans time to entrench and thereby prolonging the whole course of operations.

"Reliable information shows that the Germans seriously contemplate Wintering in Poland. Peasants have risen at many places, notably Kielce and Miechow. Regardless of the most terrible reprisals, they are forming guerrilla bands and attacking the invaders. The railroad near Nowo Radomsk has been wrecked and trainloads of German soldiers killed.

"All roads from the Vistula to the frontier are encumbered with the German transport wagons and dead horses. he roads are impassable owing to rains."

A despatch from Venice says that reports received in Vienna from the headquarters of the German army on the Russian frontier are said to admit that the soldiers are suffering intense hardships in the cold, rainy weather owing to lack of proper warm clothing. The Russian prisoners, on the other hand, are all said to have been found to be well provided for the winter and are wearing fur caps covering both their heads and their necks.

SAW CAVALRY CHARGE THROUGH INFANTRY

Airman Describes the Cutting to Pieces of a German Column in France

PARIS, Oct. 16.—A young English aviator, who was injured in a landing accident, tells how he saw what he described as a real "old-fashioned cavalry charge."

"A considerable body of German infantry advancing across a wide valley lost the support of their guns through the destructive fire of French seventy-fives.

"They were attacked on one side by the French dragoons and on the other by English cavalry. Both arrived almost simultaneously and rode right through the German column. Then they wheeled and charged again, cutting the German force to pieces.

The infantrymen, caught unawares, were unable to resist effectively, and after the second attack they broke and ran for cover, pursued to the edge of a wood by the horsemen whose sabres were flashing in the sunlight.

The airman concluded:

"A regular picture it was, I tell you. We airmen are the only ones who are seeing this war properly.

DANCING.

Mr. and Mrs. Johnstone's Select and Refined Classes meet every Monday and Thursday evening. Private instruction daily; private lessons at any hour by appointment. Phone 750.

On Thursday evening, Oct. 22nd, a Special Dance will be given in aid of Red Cross Fund. Dancing, 8.30 till 12. Usual admission.

An Easy Way To Stop Head Noises

GOOD ADVICE FOR THOSE WHO FEAR DEAFNESS

Men and women who are growing hard of hearing and who experience stuffy feeling of pressure against their ear drums, accompanied by buzzing rumbling sounds in their head like water falling or steam escaping should take prompt and effective measures to stop this trouble. Head-noises are almost invariably the forerunners of complete or partial deafness and most people suffer from them constantly. Sometimes these head noises become so distracting and nerve racking, with their never ceasing "hum" they drive the sufferer almost frantic and complete nervous breakdown and even violent insanity have been known to result.

Thanks to a remarkable scientific discovery made recently in England it is now possible to almost instantly lessen the severity of these headnoises and in a very short time to completely and permanently overcome them. With the disappearing of the head noises, the hearing also greatly improves and very frequently can be restored to normal. This English treatment is known as Parmint and can be easily and safely self administered at home. Leading druggists in Belleville and vicinity now have it in stock. Get from your druggst 1 oz. Parmint (Double Strength) and mix it at home with ¼ pint of hot water and 4 oz. of granulated sugar. Stir until dissolved and hearing improves. Parmint is used double strength in this way not only to reduce, by tonic action, the inflammation and swelling in the Eustachian tube and thus to equalize the air pressure on the drum but to correct any excess of secretion in the middle ear and the result it gives are both remarkably quick and effective.

3RD LINE THURLOW

Mrs. Robert Finnigan and granddaughter, Margaret Finnigan, of Kingston, are visiting Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Reed.

GIN PILLS FOR THE KIDNEYS

This is the Box to get if you have any Kidney or Bladder Trouble

There's nothing else like it—nothing just as good, that will do you as much good. There is only this one prescription known as Gin Pills. You can get it at all dealers in the box shown above.

Be sure to ask for "GIN PILLS" and see that the box you are offered bears the legend "GIN PILLS", together with the name, National Drug and Chemical Co. of Canada, Limited, on band around the box.

At all dealers—50c. a box, 6 for $2.50—Gin Pills may also be had in the United States under the name 'GINO' Pills—trial treatment sent free if you write National Drug and Chemical Co. of Canada, Limited, Toronto. 258

Gin Pills FOR THE KIDNEYS

Our Men's $4.00 Fall Weight Shoes

Cannot be Equaled

Heavy Wet Proof Soles
Leather Lined in
Tan, Black and
White Elk Leathers

We expect to offer these great values
$4.00
during this season when price will advance

SEE OUR WINDOW

The J. J. HAINES SHOE HOUSES
Belleville Napanee Trenton Smith's Falls

Special Values On Sale All Day Saturday

Great bargains in Women's and Children's Tan Hose, made of extra strong Canadian yarn, 20c. per pair; on sale for ......... 10c.
Cashmere on sale in shades of cardinal, brown and grey, double fold, 30c. yard, on sale ........ 15c.
Ginghams in good plaid patterns, fast colors, 15c. yard. Saturday special, per yard ........ 7½c.
Extra special values in women's winter weight underwear, natural or white, 50c. value, on sale .............. 35c. and 25c. per garment
Big value in Women's fine Cashmere Hose, splendid wearing quality, on sale per pair ........ 25c.
Men's Nova Scotia wool underwear, guaranteed unshrinkable, 2 big specials on sale, shirts or drawers ....... 75c. and $1 per garment
50c. Men's fall weight Undershirts, on sale for ........ 35c.
First quality Canadian Floor Oilcloth, wide range of pretty designs, on sale, square yard ........ 35c.
Cork Linoleum, splendid wearing quality, new pattern. On sale one day, Saturday only ........ 43c. yard
Books on sale, 25c. The latest fiction and old novels, cloth bound, clear type, good paper. Bargain price ........ 25c.
Beautifully decorated Berry Sets; your choice of five pretty designs on sale, set ........ 50c.
China Bargains — see our special tables of china and glassware, piled high with bargains ........ 5c., 10c., and 15c.
Coal Scuttles on sale, 15c. Others at ........ 35c. and 50c.
Preserve Kettles on sale, grey granite, large size, each ...... 15c.
Granite Pie Plates, Jelly Tins and Mugs, on special sale .. 5c. each
Toilet Soaps and Laundry Soaps on sale at Special Cut Prices.

McINTOSH BROS.

Our October Sale

IS NOW IN FULL SWING

The following goods are on sale at SPECIAL PRICES:
Enamelware, Flannelettes, Cottons, Soaps, Brooms, Starches, Hair Brushes, Gas Mantles, Table Oilcloth, Pictures, Stamped Linen Goods, and hundreds of lines of Smallwares.
Be sure and get your share of the good things while they last.

THE BEEHIVE CHAS. N. SULMAN

One of the many New Style Hats for Men, only - $2.00

At G. T. WOODLEY'S
Belleville's only Exclusive Hatter and Furrier.

IF YOU LEAVE IT TO OUR JUDGMENT
we will supply the kind of canned goods you will thoroughly appreciate when you come to eat them. In fact you can do the same with any groceries you may need. You can send your little girl or boy with a list of the things you want and we will select them even more carefully than you would if you came in person.

H. E. FAIRFIELD

ADVERTISE IN THE INTELLIGENCER

Daily Intelligencer.

Printed and published every afternoon except Sundays, for The Intelligencer Printing and Publishing House (Limited), in the City of Belleville, County of Hastings, Province of Ontario, at their offices, No. 287 Front Street.
CHARLES JAMES BOWELL, Publisher.

RATES OF ADVERTISING.
Measurement, Agate—14 lines to the inch.
Display Advertisements, 10c. per line.
Reading Advertisements, 15c. per line.
Legal Advertisements, 10c. per line first insertion, 5c. per line subsequent insertions.
Preferred position, 20 per cent. advance upon usual contract rates.
Minimum space, 10 lines.
Births, 25c. each insertion. Marriages, 50c. each insertion. Deaths or funeral notices, either singly or combined, $1.00.
Rates for condensed advertisements will be found elsewhere.
Business cards by the year at low rates.
Further information may be obtained at The Intelligencer business office.
Weekly Intelligencer to the United States, $1.50, strictly in advance.

A BRITISH PLOT

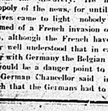
The Belgian General Staff, finding it necessary to get out of Brussels with some haste, carelessly left behind its archives, including a secret portfolio which the Germans, having examined at their leisure, now publish to the world. It contains, according to the wireless message to the German Embassy in Washington, "a military plan for British intervention in Belgium in the event of a war between Germany and France." This plan was agreed upon between the Chief of the Belgian General Staff and the British Military Attache at Brussels. There was to be an expeditionary force of 100,000 men from England, landing places were agreed upon, the Belgian General Staff was to provide accommodation, sustenance, and interpreters.

So it was not an invasion of Belgium, not a violation of her neutrality against her will, says the New York Times. The English troops were to land at her invitation, for her protection. Even a German jurist or a German Professor of International Law would admit that this is something quite different from the invasion of Belgium by the German troops in the early part of August. The Germans have overrun Belgium, laid waste her fields, destroyed her fortifications, rained shells upon her fair cities, and driven her Government to foreign parts. It was to prevent just these calamities that the Belgian General Staff arranged for the landing of British forces upon the soil of the kingdom. "The relation of the English arrangement to Belgium's neutrality is so very different from that of the actual German invasion that prodigious intellectual agility is needed to make of the secret portfolio an argument proving that England was guilty of false pretenses when two months ago she made her treaty engagements with Belgium the reason for her going to war.

But the documents show that there was a Belgian Minister to Berlin who in December, 1911, discovered that there was danger of a French attack upon Belgium along the whole frontier. "This assertion is no guesswork, but founded upon positive facts," he is quoted as saying. That is a find, indeed. The Minister in Berlin had a keener nose for danger than his own Government at Brussels. For the Germans have repeatedly pointed out out that all of Belgium's guns were pointing at Germany's frontier, that her fortifications, her defences of all kinds, had been planned with reference to a German invasion, and that she had made no provision against the Gallic peril. The secret archives and the facts, as pointed out by the Germans, are in manifest conflict. It is very strange that Brussels should have been so completely blind to the danger of a French invasion that she should have left it to her Minister in Berlin to make the discovery. He had a monopoly of the news, for until these archives came to light nobody ever dreamed of a French invasion of Belgium, although the French have perfectly well understood that in case of a war with Germany the Belgian frontier would be a danger point to them. The German Chancellor said in his speech that the Germans had to disregard that the Germans had to disregard their treaty guaranteeing the neutrality of Belgium, for their shortest and easiest way to France lay through that Kingdom.

Arguments like that based on the Brussels military archives are employed only in desperate cases. When Germany invaded Belgium she made a desperate case for herself.



Ginger & Vim
Follow the use of
Abbey's Effervescent Salt
25 and 60c. at all Druggists.
(Take Abbey's VITA Tablets for Sick Nerves)

"FOR SALE IN BELLEVILLE BY J. S. McKEOWN."

THE TERRIBLE MACHINE GUN

The news is announced that the second contingent of Canadian troops for the front is to be equipped with a number of machine-gun batteries, says the Montreal News. This little weapon has proved its usefulness during the present campaign, even if any remained to doubt it. It is tremendously effective, grinding out as many as six hundred rounds in one minute, and its mobility may be gauged by the fact that it can be lifted by one man and can be carried easily in an automobile.

It is sometimes counfounded with the French mitrailleuse, but it is really a much superior weapon. The mitrailleuse, first used in the war of 1870, has thirty-seven barrels, enclosed in an outer case. All these barrels are loaded simultaneously at the breach and the bullets are discharged singly or all at once, by turning a crank handle. The principal objections to the mitrailleuse are that its bullets have little or no spread in a lateral direction, and that its effective range is limited to about a thousand yards.

The machine gun invented by Hiram Maxim in 1884, has only one barrel with an outer case, the intermediate space being filled with water to prevent over-heating. Like its rival, the machine-gun can be adjusted to fire single shots, or to continue firing at any desired interval of time. The first shot is fired by hand, and the recoil is utilized to reload and fire the next and so on. It can be aimed accurately at a distance of three thousand yards from the enemy.

The veteran inventor, now seventy-four years of age, seems to have specialized on equipment of war. While Edison has given us the phonograph, the megaphone, the kinetoscope, improvements in electric lighting, and incidentally about five hundred other peaceful inventions, the world owes to Hiram Maxim the machine-gun, smokeless powder and searchlights—a trinity of war.

THE MARITZ UPRISING IN SOUTH AFRICA

The action of Colonel Maritz and his commando in joining forces with the Germans in the North West Cape Province of South Africa has naturally created surprise among the Boers. Doubtless Colonel Maritz's action was stimulated by the resignation of General Beyers of his position as Commandant General of the Union Defence Forces. General Botha has taken supreme command of the South African Expeditionary Force and, as an overwhelming majority of the Boers are loyal to Great Britain, Colonel Maritz will receive a short shrift. In tendering his resignation to General Smuts, Minister of Defence, ex-General Beyers stated that to his utmost surprise, parliament confirmed the resolution adopted by the Government, namely, to conquer German Southwest Africa without any provocation towards the Union from the Germans. The Government must be aware that by far the great majority of the Dutch-speaking people of the Union decidedly disapproved of their crossing the frontier. The fact that three Ministers of the British Cabinet had resigned showed that, even in England, there was a strong minority who could not be convinced of the righteousness of a war with Germany. It was said that war was being waged against the barbarity of the Germans. He had forgiven but not forgotten all the barbarities perpetrated during the South African war. With very few exceptions all farms — not to mention many towns — were so many "Louvains."

The allegations made in Parliament — namely, that the Germans have already violated their frontier, were ungrounded. Apparently the Government longed for some transgression by the Germans of German Southwest Africa, but had been disappointed in this, for so far not a single German soldier had crossed our frontier.

The reply of the Minister of Defence emphasizes in the most complete and unquestionable manner the crushing contempt of the South African Government for the insignificant number of malcontents, represented by men of the Beyers and Maritz type.

Penned by a man who, fifteen years ago, was one of the most active of the Boer Generals against British forces it is all the more remarkable in its vindication of the fairness of British rule. General Smuts wrote as follows under date of Pretoria, September 19th:—

Sir,—

It was with regret that I received your letter of the 15th instant tendering your resignation as the Commandant General, Union Defence Forces, and as an officer of the Union.

The circumstances under which that resignation took place and the terms in which you endeavor to justify your action tend to leave a very painful impression. It is true that it was known to me that you entertained objections against the war operations in German Southwest Africa, but I never received the impression that you would resign. On the contrary all the information in the possession of the Government was communicated to you, all plans were discussed with you, and your advice was followed to a large extent.

The principal officers were appointed on your recommendation and with your concurrence, and the plan of operations which is now being followed is largely the one recommended by yourself at a conference of officers. My last instructions to you before I left for Cape Town to attend the special session of Parliament were that in my absence you should visit certain regiments on the German border, and it was well understood between us that immediately the war operations were somewhat further advanced and co-operation among the various divisions would be practicable, you should yourself undertake the chief command in German Southwest Africa. The attitude of the Government after this remained unchanged, and was approved by Parliament after full discussion. One would have expected that that approval would have made the matter easier for you, but now I find that you anticipated that Parliament would disapprove of the policy of the Government, and that your disappointment in this became the reason for your unexpected action.

In order to make your motives clearer, the reasons for your resignation were explained in a long political argument which was immediately communicated to the Press and came into the hands of the Government long after publication. I need not tell you that all these circumstances in connection with your resignation have made a most unpleasant impression on my colleagues and myself. But this unpleasant impression has been aggravated by the allegations contained in your letter. Your bitter attack on Great Britain is not entirely baseless, but is the more unjustifiable, coming as it does in the midst of a great war from the Commandant General of one of the British Dominions. Your reference to barbarous acts during the South African War cannot justify the criminal devastation of Belgium and can only be calculated to sow hatred and even division among the people of South Africa.

As regards your other statements, South African War the British people gave South Africa her entire freedom under a Constitution which makes it possible for us to realize our national ideals along our own lines, and which, for instance, allows you to write with impunity a letter for which you would without a doubt be liable in the German Empire to the extreme penalty.

As regards you other statements, they have been answered and disposed of in Parliament. From these discussions it will be apparent that neither the British Empire nor South Africa was the aggressor in this struggle. War was in the first instance declared by Austria-Hungary, and thereafter by Germany, under circumstances in which the British Government employed its utmost powers to maintain the peace of Europe and to safeguard the neutrality of Belgium.

So far as we ourselves are concerned, our coast is threatened, our mail boats are arrested, and our borders are invaded by the enemy. This latter does not occur, as you say, in an involuntary manner, and with an apology which latter, at any rate, was never tendered to the Government. Under these circumstances it is absurd to speak about the aggressive action on the part of the Union, seeing that altogether with the British Empire we have been drawn against our wish and will and entirely in self-defence into this war.

As regards your insinuation concerning the loan of $35,000,000 which the British Government was kind enough to grant us and for which the public of the Union, as evidenced recently in Parliament, are most grateful, it was of such a despicable nature that there was no necessity to make any comment thereon. It only shows to what extent your mind has been obscured by political bias.

You speak about duty and honor; my conviction is that the people of South Africa will in these dark days when the Government as well as the people of South Africa are put to the supreme test, have a clearer conception of duty and honor than is to be deduced from your letter and action. For the Dutch-speaking section in particular, I cannot conceive anything more fatal and humiliating than a policy of lip loyalty in fair weather and of a policy of neutrality and pro-German sentiment in days of storm and stress. It may be that our peculiar internal circumstances and our backward condition after the great war will place a limit on what we can do, but nevertheless I am convinced that the people will support the Government in carrying out the mandate of Parliament and in this manner, which is the only legitimate one, fulfill their duty to South Africa and to the Empire, and maintain their dearly-won honor unblemished for the future.

Your resignation is hereby accepted.

(Sgd.) J. C. SMUTS.

CURRENT COMMENT

A New York clergyman blames the churches for the war, which he says they could have prevented if they had fulfilled their function. It is to be feared that he is mistaken. War makers pay no attention to churches or their teachings when engaged in their bad business.

There is a rush in London for insurance against loss through the dropping of bombs from hostile air craft on the buildings of the city. The movement began early in the war, and has been augmented as the German army moved toward the North Sea coast. As high as 1¼ per cent. is reported to have been paid as premiums.

Edmonton Journal: "The Wainwright Star cites the case of a grain-grower near that town who secured $18.00 per acre from his wheat field. This doesn't leave much room for argument as to whether it pays to cultivate Alberta farm land at the prices that prevail at present and are likely to be maintained for another year at least."

Clubs, hotels and restaurants in England, it is ordered, may only sell liquor between 10 a.m. and 10 p.m. and in some places the hour of closing is 9 p.m. The war will generally be hard on the licensed victuallers. In Russia, because of it, they have been forbidden to deal in vodka. In Great Britain they have shut their doors before the regular absorbers have their full load on.

Montreal Gazette: "The estimates of public expenditure submitted in the Legislature of Alberta provide for an outlay by the province next year of $7,775,000. Alberta's population in 1911 was 375,000 and now can hardly exceed half a million. In the spending of public money the western provinces could put a Montreal commissioner in the "also ran" class."

One day's pay is being contributed to the Patriotic Fund by all Edmonton's policemen

CONSUMPTION AND BRONCHITIS

For the past three years COPELAND'S CURE FOR CONSUMPTION has been steadily winning confidence by its splendid record of results. Consumptives in all stages of this dread disease have been restored to the full vigor of life by the use of this medicine.

HUNDREDS
of testimonials on file at our offices testify to the remarkable results obtained even after noted doctors had given up all hope of recovery.

ARE YOU A SUFFERER?
If so Copeland's Cure for Consumption and Bronchitis will benefit you.

SOLD BY ALL DRUGGISTS
or a trial bottle will be sent prepaid on receipt of the regular price, $1.00.

Copeland Medicine Company, Limited,
Toronto, Ont.
Registered under Proprietary and Patent Medicine Act, No. 2211.

PAINTED WALLS
Cleaned Like Magic
Old Dutch Cleanser
Chases Dirt

WAR NOTES

Hamilton Herald: "It is understood that the Ottawa Citizen is considering the advisability of sending an ultimatum to the British war office on account of the decision to inoculate the troops with anti-lockjaw serum."

Kitchener's appointment of a special sanitary commission to look after the health of the British army in the field is a prudent move. In almost every great war of the past disease claimed more victims than the shot and shell of the enemy.

A Windermere despatch states that Sir Edward Ward, "the greatest transport officer since Moses," is in charge of the transportation arrangements of the Canadian contingent. But Kaiser Bill needn't infer from this that Moses' successor will take any forty years to bring those in his charge to the promised land.

It should be noted that the London papers, which are referring enthusiastically to the arrival of the Canadian troops, have not forgotten to mention the services to the Empire of those Canadians who are staying at home and keeping the production of the country going. They also serve who only feed cattle and grow wheat.

Edmonton Bulletin: "It is estimated that if the war lasts a year it will cost Britain a billion and a quarter dollars. This is just about the sum which in an ordinary year the people of Britain save from their earnings and put into the banks or into investments. If the processes of industry and trade can be kept going at something like the ordinary pace, therefore, John Bull will be no worse off financially at the end of a year's war than he was at the beginning."

Montreal Herald-Telegraph: "Mr. Winston Churchill has created what will probably become an historic phrase by suggesting that Britain oppose Germany's policy of "Blood and iron" with one of "Soul and fire." Bismarck, who created the first-mentioned, was not altogether proud of it, and tried in later life to explain it away. In 1886 he expounded its meaning thus:—"Put the strongest possible military forces, in other words, as much blood and iron as you can, into the hands of the King of Prussia, then he will be able to carry out the policy you wish; it cannot be done with speeches and celebrations and songs, it can only be done by blood and iron."

Bright, Healthy, Attractive Girls

This Condition Can Only Be Maintained Through Rich, Red Blood.

It makes all the difference in the world to a girl whether she develops into a bright, healthy attractive woman or sinks into a sickly, unhappy, suffering semi-invalid.

The girl whose blood is poor and scanty—who is anaemic as the doctor terms it—starts life under too great a handicap. She is weaker and more frail than her companions who have rich, red blood. She is more easily fatigued in body and mind, and work of any kind exhausts her. In time her health breaks down. She becomes pale, looks worn out, is languid, irritable and nervous. Her heart palpitates violently at the least exertion, and she falls behind other girls in looks, health and a capacity for enjoying life. Abundant rich, red blood is the only thing that can restore good health to the many thousands of such girls. This rich, red blood can only be obtained through the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. They have given thousands of weak, white-faced, bloodless girls, robust, vigorous health and high spirits. Here is a bit of proof. Miss Olive Gauvreau, St. Jerome, Que., says: "I have reason to be more than thankful to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, for they restored me to health after more than one doctor and many medicines had failed. I suffered as so many girls do from anaemia. I was all run down, tortured with headaches, could not stand any exertion, and had no appetite, though of course I had to force myself to eat. I was in this condition for nearly two years, and although doctoring continually, seemed to be steadily growing worse, and I was very much discouraged and dispondent. Finally a friend urged me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and I discontinued all other medicines and did so. In the course of a few weeks there was no room to doubt that I had at last found the right medicine. My appetite returned, the headaches began to come less frequently, and color was returning to my face. The continued use of the Pills for a little longer fully restored my health, and I have since been as healthy and active as anyone could wish. I cannot too strongly recommend Dr. Williams' Pink Pills to other weak and ailing girls."

You can get these Pills through your medicine dealer or by mail post paid at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

KILLED BY LIGHTNING WIFE SUES C .P. R.

MONTREAL, Oct. 16.—An action, unique in the history of the Montreal Superior Court, and also in the Province of Quebec, has been taken by Dame Annie Lajoie, widow of Wilfred Martel, for $2,025 damages against the Canadian Pacific Railway Company, Mr. Justice Bruneau having granted the plantiff's request to sue under the Workman's Compensation Act.

The plaintiff, through her attorneys, Messrs. Laflamme, Mitchell, Chenevert and Callaghan, claims that on September 7, 1914, her husband, while working for the defendant company on their tracks at Drummondville, Athabaska County, was struck by lightning and instantly killed. The result of the action is awaited with the greatest interest.

Words are merely the blossoms, but deeds the fruits.

Diamonds for Grand Opera Stars

BASE metal is no fit setting for the golden voice of a great singer. So—in the new Edison Phonograph, the Reproducing Point is a Diamond.

This gem is a permanent part of the instrument—doing away with metal needles which must be changed with every record. With the liquid, melting thrilling tones of the glorious grand opera voices come to you in all their ravishing richness and clarity. To hear Martinelli and Bonci—Lucrezia Bori and Anna Case—Polese and Caronna—is a treat indeed; and they are heard at their best with the new Edison Phonograph.

The new EDISON PHONOGRAPH

The new Edison Phonograph has the diamond reproducing point, unbreakable and long playing records, superior motors and construction, concealed horns, and the Cabinets are made in true Period styles, in perfect harmony with the finest furniture.

Remember, you have a standing invitation to call and let us play for you any Record, or any number of Records, that you care to hear.

Whether you have an EDISON—or intend to get one—come and see the new instruments and hear the new records.

131

TRADE MARK
Thomas A. Edison

EDISON DEALERS IN BELLEVILLE
J. A. GOODSELL & CO. W. B. RIGGS.

AN APPRECIATION

Gentlemen,—
We can assure you that we appreciate and esteem the promptness in paying the policy held by your company on the late Freddie Clayton Gerow, and we esteem the promptness and dispatch with which you have dealt with the matter so far as the mother is concerned.
Thanking you, we remain,
Yours truly,
PORTER & CARNEW.

This is a letter from the solicitors of the mother of a late policy-holder in this company. The case is an example of the promptness with which we pay our death claims.

THE
POLICY-HOLDERS MUTUAL LIFE
Local Agent, A. C. TUMMON, 19 Cedar St., Belleville.
Asst. Supt. of Agencies, J. E. PARKS, Belleville.

CLIP $5.00 THIS
ILLUSTRATED BIBLE
EDUCATIONAL
CERTIFICATE
PRESENTED TO YOU BY THE INTELLIGENCER OCTOBER 17
HISTORICAL
ABRAHAM LINCOLN SAID: "NO LIBRARY IS COMPLETE WITHOUT TWO CERTAIN BOOKS—THE BIBLE AND SHAKESPEARE; HARDLY A QUOTATION USED IN LITERATURE THAT IS NOT TAKEN FROM ONE OF THESE WORKS."

The above Certificate with 5 others of consecutive dates
Entitles bearer to this $5.00 Illustrated Bible
If presented at the office of this newspaper, together with the stated amount that covers the necessary EXPENSE items of this great distribution—including clerk hire, cost of packing, checking, express from factory, etc., etc.

MAGNIFICENT ILLUSTRATED $5 Edition of the BIBLE (like illustration in announcements from day to day) is bound in full flexible limp leather, with overlapping covers and title stamped in gold, with numerous full-page plates in color from the world famous Tissot collection, together with six hundred superb pictures graphically illustrating and making plain the verse in the light of modern Biblical knowledge and research. The text conforms to the authorized edition, is self-pronouncing, with copious marginal references, maps and helps; printed on thin bible paper, flat opening at all pages; beautiful, readable type. 6 Consecutive Free Certificates and the $1.18 Amount EXPENSE Items

The $3 ILLUSTRATED BIBLE is exactly the same as the $5 book, except in the style of binding, which is in silk cloth; contains all of the illustrations and maps. 6 consecutive free certificates and the 81c Amount EXPENSE Items

Also an Edition for Catholics
Through an exclusive arrangement, we have been most fortunate in securing the Catholic Bible, Douay Version, endorsed by Cardinal Gibbons and Archbishop (now Cardinal) Farley, as well as by the various Archbishops of the country. The illustrations consist of the full-page plates and maps approved by the Church, without the Tissot and text pictures. It will be distributed in the same bindings as the Protestant books and at the same Amount Expense Items, with the necessary Free Certificates.

Any Book by Mail, 23 Cents Extra for Postage.

A WISE MOVE

(By J. Werner)

The first home of the Paxtons was near a mining camp, overlooking the blue dancing waters of a small lake. It was a most romantic spot, and Catherine Paxton felt that the fears of her young mining engineer husband of the dearth of congenial companions proving depressing were groundless.

"It's perfect!" she exclaimed frequently.

Philip's smile was always rather evasive.

Before the marriage he had very candidly dwelt upon the loneliness of his mining home but she had reminded him of her deep interest in his work, her pride in his achievements, her love which would bridge loneliness, and his doubts and fears had been quieted. He let them go thankfully when the passing days saw no lessening of enthusiasm in her new home.

But honeymoon days passed swiftly. Philip found Catherine clutching avidly at news from home and silences which were awkward grew between them.

"I'm going to send you on a visit home next week."

Of course, she would not listen for a time, but when the first intense cold hit them she went back to her bachelor brother in the town where she was born, where everything was bright and comfortable.

Brother Bob had treated her adorably.

She passed through the Thanksgiving season very bravely, so everybody told her, and she was enjoying the festivities attendant on the season when two people jarred her serenity. One was an old friend of her mother, the other an old chum of her own.

She met the former at a crowded reception. She had only a moment with her, and after Phillip was asked for most kindly there came a crisp—"I hear you are having a particularly lively winter, my dear!"

"Perfectly lovely!" beamed Catherine.

"And that young husband of yours?"

"Oh—I" fumbled Catherine.

"Rather lonely, eh?" cut in the elder woman. "Poor fellow!"

She walked away, leaving Catherine frowning. She felt out of sorts with the gay scene about her. She decided to go home.

When she entered the dressing room her frown evolved into a cry of delight. Leisurely laying aside wraps was her old chum Gwen, who suddenly asked, "How's Philip?"

"Oh, fine!"

"And the romantic home you wrote me pages and pages about?"

"Well, it is romantic in the summer but rather lonely in the winter."

"I see. But Phil told you that before he married you, I'm sure, because he's too big to mislead you."

Gwen's tone was challenging. Catherine looked at her sharply. Once people had said Gwen was fond of Philip!

"Of course he told me!" Catherine replied coldly. "He insisted on my visiting Bob."

"Didn't have to be urged very much, did you? "Really, you have a beautifully unselfished husband, Catherine. Coming down?"

"I think not," shortly. She had had enough of the reception, and of old family friends and candid young ones. She would go home to Bob and have a quiet twilight hour with him.

She told him about her mother's friend and Gwen. He listened silently, his hand shading his face from the glare of the fire. Finally he said: "Certainly Gwen was presumptious and in my estimation away off in her opinion of your husband." Suddenly he faced her squarely. "Do you know, Catherine, I'm beginning to believe you have an abominably selfish husband," he said. "Beastly trick taking you up to that forsaken hole!"

Catherine was on her feet in front of him. "Stop, Bob! But you would not understand!" She threw out her hands expressively and left the room.

Bob did not look crestfallen. His eyes held a glint of humor. When they met at dinner from all appearances he had forgotten the tempest of their twilight hour. Catherine was very quiet and begged to be excused from a theatre engagement.

After that she rarely mentioned Philip. She seemed afraid of Bob's harsh criticism. She was very quiet until time drew near Christmas, which was to bring Philip. Then she was bright and happy. But in the week before the holiday she met Bob on his return from the office with a letter in her hand. She was the picture of dejection. "Philip is not coming," she said dully.

"No?" Bob's tone was indifferent. He looked through some letters leisurely. Then, as though it was quite an afterthought, "Why?"

"Mrs. Brant, wife of the foreman, is very ill. Mr. Brant has to take her away to a hospital. Philip can't leave."

"Well," he smiled cheerfully. "We can probably manage very comfortably without your wonderfully busy husband. He hasn't suggested, selfishly, that you go to him, has he?" he asked quietly.

Her figure straightened. "Asked—me—to go to—him!" she whispered. No, no—he hasn't; but—he doesn't have to—I'm going."

She did not wait for Bob's objections, but hurried from the room. Ten minutes later he followed her and, in his own apartment, hunted up a suitcase, all the while whistling cheerfully.

Three days later they arrived at the little station five miles from the mines.

As they drove rapidly over the snow crusted road the dusk of the winter afternoon had fallen. It was cold, but Catherine did not seem to mind. Her eyes, her lips, her whole person breathed eagerness.

They left the sleigh on the edge of the little village. She went ahead of Bob on a run until she came to their cottage. Bob's head came close to hers. He saw his old pal sitting before a fireplace holding a little chap on either knee.

"The Brent children," Catherine whispered. "He is caring for them."

She was very pale, and her eyes were beautiful. Looking at that quiet home picture, she saw visions. Bob stole away quietly. He would not mar that meeting. He would tramp up and down until he was thought of.

"Phil," he murmured once, "it was a wise move sending the little girl away from you!"

High up in the snow capped pines something seemed to answer: "And you followed it up with another equally as wise, Bob old man."

DRS. SOPER & WHITE

SPECIALISTS

Piles, Eczema, Asthma, Catarrh, Pimples, Dyspepsia, Epilepsy, Rheumatism, Skin, Kidney, Blood, Nerve and Bladder Diseases.

Call or send history for free advice. Medicine furnished in tablet form. Hours—10 a.m. to 1 p.m. and 2 to 6 p.m. Sundays—10 a.m. to 1 p.m.

Consultation Free

DRS. SOPER & WHITE

25 Toronto St., Toronto, Ont.

WORLD'S GREATEST KIDNEY REMEDY

"Fruit-a-tives" Have Proved Their Value In Thousands of Cases

WONDERFUL RECORD OF A WONDERFUL CURE

Only Remedy That Acts On All Three Of The Organs Responsible For The Formation Of Uric Acid In The Blood.

Many people do not realize that the Skin is one of the three great eliminators of waste matter from the body. As a matter of fact, the Skin rids the system of more Urea (or waste matter) than the Kidneys. When there is Kidney Trouble, Pain In The Back and Acrid Urine, it may not be the fault of the kidneys at all, but be due to faulty Skin Action, or Constipation of the bowels.

"Fruit-a-tives" cures weak, sore, aching Kidneys, not only because it strengthens these organs but also because "Fruit-a-tives" opens the bowels, sweetens the stomach and stimulates the action of the skin.

"Fruit-a-tives" is sold by all dealers at 50c. a box, 6 for $2.50, trial size, 25c. or will be sent postpaid on receipt of price by Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

The LAPSE of ENOCH WENTWORTH

By ISABEL GORDON CURTIS

Author of "The Woman from Wolvertons"

ILLUSTRATIONS by ELLSWORTH YOUNG

COPYRIGHT, 1914 BY F. G. BROWNE & CO.

Into a fairly decent career there comes occasionally a moral lesion. Temptation comes, and the man, heretofore honorable and honest, falls as though his backbone were of gristle.

CHAPTER I.

The Bond.

Of course the game ended with a consolation pot. Merry and Wentworth, each with his last chip in the middle of the table, called for a showdown. All but Singleton dropped out, and he, the big winner of the evening, took the pot. Wentworth and Merry were broke.

The game had been played in Wentworth's library. Before its close the gray light of the morning began to steal past the curtains and the glow of each electric lamp took on a murky haze. Enoch Wentworth, acting as banker, cashed in the chips of the winners. Three of the men put on their hats, said "Good morning," and went out. Andrew Merry sat beside the baize-covered table with its litter of chips, pulling slowly at a cigar and staring into vacancy.

"Do you mind if I open this window?" asked Wentworth. "There's a chill in the air outdoors that will feel good. I've swallowed so much smoke my throat feels raw."

"Open every window in the room if you like, old man. I'm going home."

"Hold on a minute," cried Wentworth unexpectedly. "I'll go you just one more hand. Let's play one big stake and then swear off forever."

"I tell you, Enoch, I haven't a cent. Heaven knows how I can tide over these months until the season opens. It's a good thing I'm not a married man." Merry laughed mirthlessly.

"One last hand!" pleaded Wentworth.

"What do you want to play for?" Merry turned up a coat sleeve and stared at his cuff buttons thoughtfully. "I have nothing left but these. I don't think I'll put them up."

"We've thrown away enough money and collateral tonight," Wentworth replied. "Let's make this stake something unique—sentimental, not financial. Why not make it your future against mine?"

"That's a great stake! Sha'n't I throw in my past!"

"No, let each of us play for the other's future. It is a mere fancy of mine, but it appeals to me."

"Are you serious? What in God's name would you do with my future if you won it—what should I do with yours?"

"I tell you, it's a mere fancy of mine."

"All right. Carry out your fancy, if it amuses you. I ought to be willing to stake my life against yours on any hand, if you say so."

"Do you mean that?"

"Yes, if you want to call me."

Andrew Merry smiled and blew a flurry of smoke rings into the marble face of the Shakespeare, while he watched Wentworth's pen hurry across a sheet of paper. The newspaper man handed it to him with the ink still wet.

"There," he said, "we'll play for that document, the winner's name to be written at the top, the loser to write his name at the bottom."

Andrew Merry read it aloud:

To ——

I hereby pledge myself until death—to do your every bidding—to obey your every demand—to the extent of my physical and mental ability—you to furnish me with support.

"Will that hold good in law?"

"Just so long as the loser is a man of honor—no longer. Are you going to weaken?"

"I'll be damned if I am. I'll put this bit of paper in my scrapbook."

"The man who wins, keeps that bit of paper," Wentworth answered with a whimsical smile.

He tossed the unsigned bond into the center of the table and shuffled the cards with grave deliberation. Merry lit a fresh cigar and puffed it meditatively. Upon each listless brain began to dawn the realization that this was a stake of greater import than the rolls of bills which had grown lighter and lighter till the last greenback vanished.

"Who'll deal?" asked Wentworth.

"We'll cut." Merry spoke quietly. "Low deals, ace low."

Enoch Wentworth cut a tray, Merry a seven spot. Wentworth shuffled the cards again and held them out to his opponent.

"Does one hand decide it?"

"Yes, one hand. Each man to discard, draw, and show down."

Wentworth dealt with noticeable deliberation. They picked up their hands.

"Give me four cards," said Merry.

"I'll take three." Wentworth's face was as solemn as his voice.

For a moment each man sat staring at his hand. Then Merry spoke.

"There's no use in showing down," he said. "I haven't even one little pair."

"Hold on," expostulated Wentworth, scarcely concealing the relief which his friend's admission gave him. "I'm only ace high. Does that beat you?"

Merry's face also told its story of reaction. "Same here," he said, laying the card on the table face up, "and a jolly king to follow it."

"King for me, too." Wentworth's face flushed and his voice grew impatient. "What's your next card?"

"A ten," Merry replied tranquilly, too tense to wonder why Enoch awaited his declaration.

"Ten here. My God! are they all alike?"

"Seven next."

"And mine's a seven!"

Both men paused, each with his eyes on the other's card.

"And a four," cried Wentworth irritably. He passed his hand across his forehead; it was moist and cold.

"You win." When Merry tossed down his hand a tray turned over—it was the same tray which gave Wentworth the deal.

Wentworth had drawn to an ace and ten. Merry held up a king. The younger man lifted a pen, dipped it in the ink, and scrawled Enoch Wentworth across the slip of paper. At the bottom he wrote with grave deliberation, Andrew Merry, and handed the paper to Wentworth. The newspaper man stared at it for a moment, then dropped it on the table, laid his cheek on the palm of his hand, and, looking straight in the face of the actor, asked: "Merry, do you realize what this means?"

"Not yet, perhaps; still I wish you more luck of my life than I've had. Now, since I'm to look to you for support, could you scare up a nickel? I've got to ride home, you know."

Before Wentworth could reply, the curtains parted, and a girl's figure showed itself for a brief moment.

"I beg your pardon, Enoch, I thought you were alone," she said, and the figure vanished as suddenly as it had appeared.

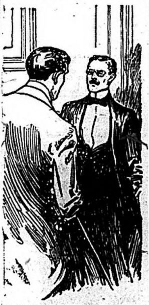
"Who's that?" Merry demanded.

Wentworth's only answer was to pull out the lining of his pockets. From one he produced a quarter and handed it to the actor. Merry pocketed it without further questioning, and pulled on his gloves.

"Good night," he said, "or good morning, whichever you choose."

"Say, old man." Wentworth held the door for a moment half closed while he spoke. "Say, if you don't mind, let's keep this transaction to ourselves."

"I'm willing." Merry paused to strike a light for his last cigar, then



"Let's Keep This Transaction to Ourselves."

he laid his hands solemnly across his breast. "Cross my heart," he added in a sepulchral tone.

Wentworth started at the sound of an opening door. A girl entered.

"For heaven's sake, Dorry! What are you doing up at this unearthly hour?"

"I've had my sleep, you haven't," she answered with a laugh.

"Dorcas, sit down," said her brother. "Do you see that fellow on the bench under a tree?"

The girl leaned a hand on Wentworth's shoulder while she turned her eyes in the direction his finger pointed.

"Yes! What's the matter with him? Is he anybody you know? Is he in trouble?"

"He's an old friend of mine. It's Andrew Merry, the comedian."

Wentworth sat for a moment gazing into his sister's beautiful face. She was a child in spite of her eighteen years. He felt like an ancient, sin-battered, soiled, city-worn hulk of humanity as he returned the straightforward gaze of her gray eyes.

"Tell me about him, Enoch."

(To Be Continued)

Another Shipment To Supply Demand

GREAT DISTRIBUTION RAPIDLY TAKING UP FIRST ALLOTMENT, BUT MORE ON THE WAY.

Somebody asked, "When is it going to end?"

"Why, it's just begun," is the answer.

Referring of course, to The Intelligencer's distribution of the greatest Bible ever published. It did look for a while as though some of our readers would have to be disappointed, but additional shipments are now on the way and everybody will be supplied in time.

The Intelligencer recognizes the fact that there are numerous "Illustrated" Bibles offered to the public. But they contain merely pictures of Biblical scenes taken at random from various sources and inserted without regard to subjects or chapters. Some New Testment scenes are inserted in the Old Testment and vice versa. Thus they entirely lose their educational value. In this Bible there are more than 600 illustrations printed with the type, so that they make plain the verse which they accompany. Those who are not familiar with the Bible will catch many a new meaning aided by these illustrations. Then this Bible also contains full page color plates from the wonderful Tissot collection, each of which has been selected with the same object of explaining the accompanying test matter. So with all respect to other Bibles, the fact remains that this is the only really illustrated Bible.

No difference how many other Bibles you may now have, this one explains and makes clear the many subjects illustrated; and even though you may have no religious beliefs, such a work will be found an invaluable aid to education.

In addition to the educational helps, the copious marginal references and the beautiful colored maps, every proper name in this Illustrated Bible is separated into syllables and marked for pronunciation, being treated the same as in a dictionary, so that mispronunciation is impossible. This is one of the most important features of this great work and is of immense value to both young and old who find it difficult to pronounce Bible names.

Don't want, but bring in your certificates and get your Bible. Today's certificate is printed on another page.

If ignorance were bliss, most of us would be so happy we would choke.

PACIFIC
CHEWING TOBACCO
EACH FOIL WRAPPED PLUG
PACIFIC
CONTAINS A
SATIN INSERT
WHICH IS PACKED
BETWEEN THE
FOIL AND PAPER

A GOOD CHEW —IN A CLEAN WRAPPER

No dust or soiled hands have ever touched

PACIFIC

BRIGHT CHEWING

from the time it is manufactured until it reaches you. Each plug comes separately wrapped and is consequently always in perfect condition.

AND THE CHEW, ITSELF, IS "DELICIOUSLY GOOD"

A satin insert so much prized by collectors, on account of the many beautiful things that can be made from them, is packed with each plug. See window displays around town.

10c -- AT ALL DEALERS.

The Heel With Nine Lives
The Heel With Nine Lives
The Heel With Nine Lives
1914 and still growing
1913
1912
1911
1910
1909

MAIL THIS COUPON

to Walpole Rubber Co. Limited, 8 McGill College Avenue, Montreal, with 15c. in silver or stamps and receive a CAT'S PAW Self-closing Tobacco Pouch, made from Para Rubber.

They Won't Slip

Tell Your Shoeman to put Cat's Paw Rubber Heels on your new boots—and on your old ones.

Then you will walk safely with a sure footed tread.

Don't ask merely for 'Rubber Heels' Insist on having "CAT'S PAW".

50c. attached

"Safety First"

"CAT'S PAW" Heels will help you to stand up straight for Canada. They are made in Canada by a Canadian company, to make walking easy—slipping impossible—and life more comfortable for all who wear them. They cost no more—ask your dealer. Walpole Rubber Co. Limited, Montreal.

CAT'S PAW

CUSHION RUBBER HEELS

MADE IN CANADA

158

UNION BANK OF CANADA

The Union Bank of Canada gives a Modern Banking Service

There is a growing tendency, which we have always fostered, toward closer relations between business men and their bankers, with a broader and more valuable service from bank to customer. Open an account with the Union Bank of Canada and take advantage of the exceptional facilities which our 310 Branches enable us to offer.

Belleville Branch J. G. MOFFAT, Manager

LONDON, ENG., BRANCH, 51 Threadneedle St., E.C. { F. W. ASHE, - - - Manager. G. M. C. HART SMITH, Assistant Manager.

The older a girl is the easier it is for her to forget her birthday anniversaries.

Nine times out of a possible ten it costs the man who is elected to office a lot of money to convince his opponent that he was the people's choice.

A man imagines he is a philanthropist every time he gives away a penny's worth of advice.

Don't have too little confidence in yourself or too much in others.

Sometimes a bit of flippant slang may have a real respectable meaning.

THE DOW
ALES
AND PORTERS
ARE THE BEST

FOR SALE AT YOUR LEADING LIQUOR STORES

ITALIAN STATESMAN DEAD.

Foreign Minister Passes Away After Month's Illness of Heart Failure.

ROME, Oct. 17.—The Italian Foreign Minister, Marquis Antonio di San Guiliano, died at 2.20 o'clock yesterday afternoon after a long illness.

The marquis was taken ill a month ago with an affection of the heart. His illness attracted international attention, because of its possible bearing on the attitude of the Italian Government toward the war. The marquis is understood to have been friendly to Germany and opposed to the demonstrations that occurred in several parts of Italy some time ago in sympathy with the allies, but more particularly in a spirit of hostility toward Austria.

The Italian Premier Signor Salandra will assume temporarily the portfolio of Minister of Foreign Affairs, made vacant by the death yesterday of Marquis Antonio di San Giuliano. This was decided upon at a council of the Ministers this afternoon. Nothing is known as to the intentions of the King or the Premier regarding a permanent successor to the office. It is stated from an authoritative source that the death of the marquis will not affect the foreign policy of the Government.

It is reported that the German ambassador to Italy when he heard of the death of the marquis, said:

"This is perhaps the greatest misfortune for the central empires since the war began."

The doctors say that the war did not cause the death of the Foreign Minister, but say that the end certainly was hastened by the strenuous work to which he submitted his already weakened constitution.

TELEGRAPH BRIEFS.

The C. P. R. is applying to the Dominion Railway Commission to sanction a 999 lease of the Lake Erie & Northern Railway.

Rome advices say that Prince William of Wied, former ruler of Albania, has joined the German army, and is on his way to the French frontier.

It was learned yesterday that an arrangement has been made by the Canadian Government for advances by the Bank of England of all war funds needed this year.

The Austrian Government is imposing serious penalties for overcharging of foodstuffs. Fines of $1,000 and sentences of six months will be imposed for violations of the decree.

The Provincial License Department have effected another round-up in Porcupine, and batches of cases are being run off daily before the local magistrate. Sixty charges have been laid.

It was announced yesterday that the Bank of England on Oct. 21 would receive tenders for treasury bills amounting to $75,000,000. This will be the fifth loan for a similar amount.

President Poincare has accepted an invitation extended by the students of Glasgow University to be their next lord rector. This is the first time this honor has been conferred upon a foreign statesman.

The executive committee of the French Society of Authors and Dramatists has decided to recommend to the general meeting the expulsion of the German members Humperdinck, Hauptman, Sudermann, Siegfrid and Wagner.

AUSTRIANS ROUTED.

Servians Report Another Victory at Glasinatz In Bosnia.

LONDON, Oct. 17.—The following Servian official statement has been received from Nish by Reuter's Telegram Co.:

"The Serbo-Montenegrin troops, commanded by Gen. Bojanovic, on Wednesday made a desperate attack on the Austrians in Glasinatz, in Bosnia. The battle ended in a complete victory for our troops over a division of the enemy, which was reinforced by other units. This victory is particularly important because the plateau of Glasinatz dominates the fortifications of Sarajevo (capital of Bosnia).

"At midday Wednesday the enemy attacked our positions at Blutchevo. The result was satisfactory for us. On the Drina river fighting satisfactory to the Servians took place towards Kurlatcheza.

"There is nothing important to report for the remainder of the front."

NORMAN
2 for 25 cents

"NORMAN"
The NEWEST
ARROW
COLLAR
Cluett, Peabody & Co., Inc. Makers, Sales Dept. Montreal

CROWN PRINCE CUT OFF HE MUST FALL BACK

Allies Are Operating Right at Gates of Powerful German Base and Kaiser's Eldest Son Is In Serious Danger—Allies Have a Line From Ypres to the Coast and Have Checked Advance.

LONDON, Oct. 17. — In distinct contrast to the tragedy of the sea comes most encouraging news from France. All troops of the Kaiser that had penetrated beyond Ypres toward the sea have been driven out of that district, which is now held by strong allied armies. A late report, however, says that a German advance squadron has arrived at Blankenberg, eleven miles north of Ostend.

It is stated positively that the allied line in Belgium extends from Ypres to the coast, thus blocking all attempts at Dunkirk and Calais, over the French border.

On the east of the French line distinct successes are reported. One of these claims tha. the army of the republic operating in Lorraine, is almost within cannon shot of Metz, the great German base.

The position of Crown Prince Frederick William's army is described as extremely perilous. His tenacity in refusing to evacuate St. Mihiel, following his stubbornness before Vitry-le-Francois, has given the French commanders an opportunity to isolate him on at least two sides. On his left flank a huge mass of French troops threatens his line of communications in a grave way. In fact, it is not improbable that he is no longer in touch with Metz.

Being unable to form a juncture with the forces of the Duke of Wurtemburg after the position at Vitry-le-Francois became absolutely untenable, he has occupied a most unfavorable position east of the Argonne since the battle of the Aisne began. Each of his attempts to retrieve the situation has been beaten off, and it now seems that the French have turned their attention to the proud heir of the German throne with a vengeance.

With his front resting on St. Mihiel, on both sides of which the German line is bent backward, the French hold all of the roads from Nancy to Bagny, on the Lorraine frontier, the direct route to Metz. The capture of these roads has been progressing several days, and it would appear that a crisis impends in that region. The town of Etain remains in the crown prince's hands and it is believed that an attack on that point is even now under way. Its loss to the French would force him to a hurried retreat on his advanced front. He could do nothing but fall back towards Luxemburg.

The following French official communication was issued here last night:

"On our left wing the action continues vigorously. Everywhere we have held our own. At certain points we have gained ground and have occupied Laventie, at the east of Estaires, in the direction of Lille.

"There is no important incident to mention on the other parts of the front, except an unsuccessful attack by the Germans in the region of Malancourt, northwest of Verdun."

The French official announcement of yesterday afternoon follows: "The progress indicated in the communication of yesterday has been confirmed.

"On our left wing the field of action [illegible] forces extends [illegible] the present line from the region of Ypres to the sea.

"In Russia, on the left bank of the Vistula river, the Russian troops during the day of Oct. 13 repulsed the German attacks on Warsaw and Ivangorod.

"A battle is going on south of Przemysl."

A despatch to the Exchange Telegraph Co. from Basle says that fierce fighting has taken place in the Vosges passes, in which a German column was hurled back with heavy losses.

The French army is ringing with the stories of their 149th Regiment of Infantry, which has won imperishable glory. After capturing a village at the point of the bayonet, they were driven out by a devastating artillery fire. The regiment retook the village on the following day and maintained themselves, despite a steady cannonade. Finally, German infantry came forward to dislodge them. They were thrown back after a sanguinary conflict and 160 of the attackers taken prisoners.

Not satisfied with this achievement, the same regiment a few days afterward took another village whose defenders had baffled several attacks by other contingents. It was a vital point in the French advance, and only fell after the gallant 149th advanced by yards, digging themselves in as they came, and then pushing on a few more rods. The regiment, particularly deft with the bayonet, finally made a rush for the German trenches, and with their long, wicked bayonets threw the Germans back in a rout. The regiment has been named in orders.

A cable from Copenhagen conveys the information that 300,000 fresh troops are being rushed to the western line of the Germans, the same being new levies which have been raised and trained from material not included in the regular mobilization.

The despatch says that these troops are en route in twenty-eight trains, and that they consist of infantry and artillery, including many horses.

It is stated that the trains bearing these troops were seen at Brandenburg.

WOULD CURB PRESS.

Western Canadian Germans Resent the Tone of the Papers.

OTTAWA, Oct. 17.—A petition to the Government which will hardly be acted upon has been received from the German-Canadian Alliance of Saskatchewan, requesting that certain restrictions be placed on the English press of Canada. The petition sets forth that the press "is not doing justice to German civilization, but is bound to do harm in this country by stirring up race hatred and ill-feeling.

"The work of upbuilding must be endangered if the press should without restriction continue unnecessarily to hurt the feelings of a considerable section of the Canadian people."

It Pays To Advertise.

OTTAWA, Oct. 17. — The Department of Trade and Commerce finds that it pays to advertise. Recently in the Canadian press advertisements were published urging each Canadian home to buy a barrel of apples, in view of the domestic market being glutted for lack of foreign markets. A booklet giving recipes for the use of apples is being issued by the Department, and over 20,000 applicants for copies of it have been received.

MARKET REPORTS

CHICAGO, Oct. 16.—Renewed export activity, that stretched to all North American centres, put decided strength today into the price of wheat. As a result the market closed steady at 1c to 1⅛c above last night. Corn gained ⅛c to ¼c net, and oats ⅛c to ¼c. In provisions, the outcome varied from 20c decline to a rise of 22½c.

TORONTO GRAIN MARKET.

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| Wheat, fall, bushel | $1 15 to | $.... |
| Goose wheat, bushel | 1 10 | .... |
| Barley, bushel | 0 67 | 0 68 |
| Peas, bushel | 1 25 | .... |
| Oats, bushel | 0 54 | 0 55 |
| Rye, bushel | 0 85 | .... |
| Buckwheat, bushel | 0 75 | .... |

TORONTO DAIRY MARKET.

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| Butter, creamery, lb. sq. | 0 29 | 0 31 |
| Butter, creamery, solids | 0 28 | 0 29 |
| Butter, separator, dairy | 0 27 | 0 28 |
| Cheese, new, lb. | 0 16 | .... |
| Eggs, new-laid | 0 27 | 0 28 |
| Honey, new, lb. | 0 11 | 0 12 |
| Honey, comb, dozen | 2 50 | 3 00 |

WINNIPEG GRAIN MARKET.

WINNIPEG, Oct. 16.—Wheat opened ⅛c to ⅜c higher, oats ⅜c to ½c up, and flax ½c higher for October and December. Further advances occurred in wheat on strong Liverpool cables. Selling in Chicago by a big grain company caused a slight easing off later.

Oats and barley in good demand, with light offerings. A gain of ⅝c to 1⅛c was shown in wheat for the day.

Inspections Thursday were 350 cars, as against 1158 last year, and in sight are 200 cars.

Cash grain: Wheat—No. 1 northern, $1.13¾; No. 2 do., $1.09¾; No. 3 do., $1.04¾; No. 4, 98¼c; No. 5, 94¾c; No. 6, 89¾c; feed, 85½c.

Oats—No. 2 C.W., 54¼c; No. 3 C.W., 50½c; extra No. 1 feed, 50½c; No. 1 feed, 48½c; No. 2 feed, 47½c.

Barley—No. 3, 68c; No. 4, 61c; rejected, 58½c; feed, 57c.

Flax—No. 1 N.W.C., $1.12¾; No. 2 C. W., $1.09¾.

MONTREAL GRAIN MARKET.

MONTREAL, Oct. 16.—There was a fair demand from foreign buyers for Manitoba spring wheat today at a further advance of 3d per quarter and sales of several loads were made for November shipment, but exporters state that there is no demand for nearby shipment, and that the prices bid are fully 1s per quarter below those for November. The local market for oats is firm. There was some demand for Chicago No. 3 corn and a sale of 75,000 bushels was made on the basis of 77¼c per bushel Kingston. The demand for Ontario malting barley is increasing, with sales of 15,000 bushels at 77c ex-track.

Cheese is quiet and firm. Butter is fair demands. Eggs unchanged.

MINNEAPOLIS GRAIN MARKET.

MINNEAPOLIS, Oct. 16.—Wheat—No. 1 hard, $1.13¾; No. 1 northern, $1.09¾ to [illegible]; No. 2 do., $1.10¾ to [illegible]; December, $1.10⅝.

Corn—No. 3 yellow, 69c to 70c.

Oats—No. 3 white, 43¾c to 44c.

Flour and bran unchanged.

DULUTH GRAIN MARKET.

DULUTH, Oct. 16.—Wheat, No. 1 hard $1.12 7-8, No. 1 northern $1.11 7-8, No. 2 northern $1.08 7-8, Dec $1.11 7-8.

CHEESE MARKETS.

MONTREAL, Oct. 16.—Butter sold today at 26c, and boxes of cheese at 14¼c.

PICTON, Ont., Oct. 16.—On the Picton Cheese Board today, 885 boxes of colored cheese were offered, and 840 sold at 15¼c.

CATTLE MARKETS

EAST BUFFALO LIVE STOCK.

EAST BUFFALO, Oct. 16.—Cattle—Receipts 1150; slow.

Veals—Receipts 825; active; $5 to $12.50.

Hogs—Receipts 9000; active; heavy and mixed, $8.30 to $8.35; yorkers, $8 to $8.30; pigs, $7.50 to $7.75; roughs, $7 to $7.25; stags, $6.50 to $7.

Sheep and lambs—Receipts 7000; slow, lambs, $5.50 to $8; yearlings, $4.50 to $6.75; wethers, $5.75 to $6; ewes, $2.50 to $5.50; sheep, mixed, $5.50 to $5.75.

CHICAGO LIVE STOCK.

CHICAGO, Oct. 16.—Cattle—Receipts 1000; market steady. Beeves, $6.50 to $10.90; Texas steers, $6.10 to $9.10; stockers and feeders, $5.15 to $8; cows and heifers, $3.40 to $9; calves, $7.50 to $11.25.

Hogs—Receipts, 12,000; market steady. Light, $7.40 to $8; mixed, $7.15 to $8.10; heavy, $7 to $8.05; rough, $7 to $7.15; pigs, $4.50 to $7.35; bulk of sales, $7.30 to $7.80.

Sheep and Lambs—Receipts, 10,000; market steady; native, $4.85 to $6; yearlings, $5.50 to $6.40; lambs, native, $6 to $7.85.

How's This?

We offer One Hundred Dollars Reward for any case of Catarrh that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure.

F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O.

We, the undersigned, have known F. J. Cheney for the last 15 years, and believe him perfectly honorable in all business transactions and financially able to carry out any obligations made by his firm.

NATIONAL BANK OF COMMERCE, Toledo, O.

Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. Testimonials sent free. Price 75 cents per bottle. Sold by all Druggists.

Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

McCall Patterns
6127, Redingote Polonaise 6117, Skirt
Price, 15 cents each

WORRELL'S ENGLISH MADE VELVETEENS

Fast Pile Twilled Back Fast Dye
65c 75c $1.00

When Buying Velveteens, Why Not Buy The Best?

Every woman knows how thoroughly unsatisfactory a good Velveteen is—how disappointing it is to have the pile worn off, or the color go bad so we say, BUY THE BEST VELVETEEN, the kind we guarantee fast pile and fast color.

We are now showing these beautiful Velveteens in the following colors: Black, Cardinal, Crimson, Ruby, Tabac, and Brown, Dark Brown, Saxe, Electric, Sky, Navy, Peacock, Purple, Old Rose, Terra, Light Green, Myrtle, Hunters' Green, to sell at

65c, 75c, and $1.00 yard, 23 to 28 inches wide

LADIES' MISSES' AND CHILDREN'S RAIN COATS AND RAIN CAPES $1.25 to $12.50

For the Rainy Fall Season we show exceptional values in Ladies', Misses' and Children's Rain Coats and Capes.

These are made of the best English Rubberized Cloths, made doubly strong with sewn and cemented seams, are shown in Fawns, Greens, Greys, Navy and Black, to sell from $1.25 to $12.50 each.

FALL COATS, SUITS, DRESSES.

Here's where we specialize. It makes no difference what your requirements may be, whether it's a New Coat, New Suit, or a New Dress, our Ladies' Wear Department stands prepared to supply your needs.

Then we show you Garments that are not shown elsewhere in Belleville, and we know this feature is one you will highly appreciate. No trouble to show goods.

65 Black Silk Dresses To Sell At $1.15

It's because we believe that this special Dress Silk is, quality and price considered, unsurpassed in Canada, that we advertise as we do now. This is a heavy Pailette Dress Silk, 39 inches wide, one of the richest Black Dress Silks we have ever offered for sale, and allowing 6 yards for a dress we have sufficient yardage to make 65 dresses. This may sound like a lot of silk to some people, but we have in the past sold a greater yardage than this in four days' sale, and the quality did not equal the silk we now offer. If you want a Black Silk Dress, ask to see this special 39 inch Paillette at yd. $1.15

Sinclair's McCall's Patterns and Magazines, November Issue, are now ready. Sinclair's

MONTREAL BOY MASCOT.

Newsboy Who Stowed Away on Transport Seeks To Be Bugler.

SALISBURY, Eng., Oct. 17.—When the supply convoy first hove into view here yesterday a tiny wisp of a lad was discovered on one of the caissons. He was blowing lustily on a battered bugle, the cracked notes flaring up in a strange crescendo. Around his shoulders was a big overcoat loaned him by a grizzled sergeant. The youngster is a Montreal newsboy who stowed away on one of the ships and who has become the pet of the contingent. He put in every spare moment on shipboard practicing the bugle and hoped to qualify as a performer on that instrument in order that he may follow the troops to France.

Ten Thousand Cholera Cases.

ROME, Oct. 17.—A despatch to the Giornale d'Italia from the Austrian frontier says that cholera has assumed frightful proportions in Galicia and Hungary.

"Wednesday in a large town and district in northern Hungary," the despatch says, "there were 10,000 cases among the soldiers and persons having been in contact with them. The epidemic is extraordinary violent and a large percentage of the stricken persons die after a few hours."

It is asserted that the withdrawal of the Russians from Hungary was due to a desire not to expose themselves to the contagion.

Neutrality Violated Says Britain.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17.—Sir Cecil Spring-Rice, the British Ambassador, called the attention of Acting Secretary of State Lansing yesterday to alleged violations of neutrality in the Philippines, where, he said, the British Government believed various German ships had been coaled at sea from Manila. Enquiry was directed immediately by the State Department to the authorities at Manila.

PLEASED TO BE ASHORE.

Canadian Troops at Plymouth Give Vent To Their Delight.

PLYMOUTH, Oct. 17.—Residents round the railway stations at Plymouth, who sought their beds before the small hours, had a strange lullaby in the uproarious demonstrations of the Canadian contingent, who were being packed into troop trains and sent inland. The men were half frantic with delight at release from the troop ship.

The work of entraining went on right into the small hours. None of the men were aware of their destination.

In a leading article on the arrival of the Canadian troops, The Daily Mail pays Canada a splendid tribute. "What Plymouth was privileged to witness was something more than the arrival of so many thousands of hardy natural soldiers." The paper says it was a living picture of the Empire in action, the scattering of all illusions of imperial disintegration with which the Germans have amused themselves. This was a spectacle hardly to be paralleled since the Crusades.

"The presence of this splendid body of men," says The Daily News, "is an inspiration and assurance that however long the war lasts there can be but one end to the struggle. These Canadian troops are the practical embodiment of Empire devotion."

An Opportunity

Anyone with a very small capital may build up a remunerative business for themselves by acting as our local representative. Exclusive territory. No experience required. You handle your own money. For particulars, address

Post Office Box 31, Toronto.

CANADIAN NORTHERN Trough Service To TORONTO and OTTAWA
(Daily except Sunday)

THE BEST WAY TO
PORT HOPE, COBOURG, TRENTON, PICTON, BELLEVILLE, NAPANEE, SMITHS FALLS, HAWKESBURY, JOILETTE, AND ALL INTERMEDIATE POINTS.

For rail and steamship tickets and all information apply to J. H. Patterson, Town Agent, or L. W. Buller, Station Agent.

WOUNDED IN ENGLAND.

Thirteen Thousand Belgians Are Being Cared For.

LONDON, Oct. 17.—The directors of the Belgian Red Cross arrived in London yesterday with 600 wounded soldiers, the last of 13,000 who have been brought to England.

They left Ostend Wednesday morning, at which time 25,000 refugees, besides townspeople, were hoping to get away.

As the Red Cross steamer left a Taube aeroplane dropped two bombs, which fell in the water a few yards from the vessel.

No satisfactory arrangement has been made for the return to their homes of those Belgians who crossed the frontier into Holland, although the Germans continue to try to induce them to do so.

There are many Antwerp refugees among the crowds at Dover. When some of these were asked if they would be willing to return to Antwerp in case arrangements for their repatriation can be completed with the German Government, they declared emphatically that they never would return so long as the Germans were in possession.

The captains of ships which already have docked declare they saw hundreds of persons leaving Ostend in small rowboats, hoping to reach some point on the French coast. Hundreds of others boarded little trawlers and sailboats, which are still straggling into Dover. Their passengers often have been without food for 36 hours. Many small boats from Belgium are also putting into Lowestoft and Folkestone. These craft are maned mostly by volunteers, who know nothing of the British ports, and head in wherever they can see docking facilities.

CHURCH DIRECTORY

ST. ANDREW'S PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

Rev. A. S. Kerr, M.A., Pastor.

The pastor will preach at both services tomorrow.

11 a.m.—The Brevity of Jesus' Life.

3 p.m.—Sunday School and Adult Bible Classes.

7 p.m.—The Significance of War.

Guild Monday eve at eight o'clock.

Mid-week service Wednesday eve at 8 o'clock.

A cordial welcome to all.

VICTORIA AVENUE BAPTIST CHURCH.

Corner of Victoria Ave. and Pinnacle St.
Rev. Chas. Geo. Smith, B.D., Pastor.
Residence: Turnbull St. Phone 214.

The pastor has returned from the Baptist Convention and will preach at both services.

11 a.m.—Faith and Works.

3 p.m.—Bible School and Organized Classes.

7 p.m.—Do you Believe in Angels?

Monday, 8 p.m.—Young People's Meeting.

Wed., 8 p.m.—Prayer Meeting.

All welcome.

THE BELLEVILLE BUSINESS MEN'S BIBLE CLASS

Will meet in the Bridge Street Methodist Church auditorium tomorrow at 2.45 p.m. J. J. B. Flint, Esq., will give a 5-minute talk on the war.

Lesson: "Gethsemane"—Mark xiv:32-42.

We see not, know not; all our way
Is night,—with Thee alone is day.
From out the torrent's troubled drift,
Above the storm our prayers we lift.
Thy will be done!

Soloist—Mr. H. W. Wrightmeyer.

Every man in the city, young and old, not attending another class is invited.

A. M. CHAPMAN, President.
F. E. O'FLYNN, Teacher.

BRIDGE STREET METHODIST CHURCH.

Organized in 1812.
Pastor, Rev. H. S. Osborne, B.A., B.D.

10 a.m.—Rev. Mr. Adams' Class and Junior Epworth League.

11 a.m.—Public service. Preacher, Rev. M. E. Sexsmith, LL.B., Whitby. Subject—"The Distinguishing Feature of Christianity."

2.30 p.m.—Sunday School with seven adult Bible Classes.

7 p.m.—Public Service. Sermon by Mr. Sexsmith. Subject: "Building."

Music under the direction of Prof. D. A. Cameron.

Monday, 8 p.m.—Epworth League Literary Night. Paper by Miss Ina McCauley, B.A., "Browning and His Message."

Wednesday, 8 p.m.—Prayer and Praise Service.

A cordial invitation is extended to all these services.

BETHEL HALL

Over Lattimer's Drug Store.

Christians gather to the name of the Lord Jesus Christ.

11 a.m.—The Lord's Supper.

3 p.m.—Sunday School.

7 p.m.—Gospel Preaching.

WEDNESDAY.

8 p.m.—Meeting for Prayer and Bible Study.

SUNDAY EVENING.

Subject—The Three Judgments to Come.

EMMANUEL REFORMED EPISCOPAL

Victoria Ave. between Church and Pinnacle Streets.
Rev. A. M. Hubly, Pastor.

11 a.m.—Pulpit theme: Polished Stones for the Soul's Temple.

3 p.m.—Sunday School and Bible Classes.

7 p.m.—Meditation: Antecedence and Sequence of True Thanksgiving.

Monday evening: Y.P.S.C.E. Prayer Service.

Wednesday evening: Prayer, Praise and Bible Reading.

THE TABERNACLE METHODIST CHURCH

(Church St.)
Rev. W. G. Clarke, B.A., Pastor.

10 a.m.—Four Classes and Junior E. League.

11 a.m.—Dr. Endicott's Ottawa sermon: "What do the Heathen think of Us Now?"

2.30 p.m.—Sunday School, Alpha Club, Good Orchestra.

7 p.m.—"Is the World Coming to an end today, Oct. 18?" A sermon on religious delusions.

Splendid music by the full chorus; solos, and quartettes, etc.

Students, Strangers and Non-Church goers are cordially invited.

Mrs. M. P. Duff, organist.
Mrs. J. Grant, leader.

WEST BELLEVILLE METHODIST CHURCH

Rev. A. R. Sanderson, Pastor.
Parsonage: Hillside Street.

10 a.m.—Regular Classes and Junior League.

11 a.m.—"Judgment After Death"

7 p.m.—"The Great Question."

2.30 p.m.—Bible School and Bible Classes for all.

8 p.m. Wednesday—Praise, Prayer and Bible Study.

8 p.m. Friday—The League.

Mrs. A. E. MacColl, organist and Choir directress.

Students, Strangers and all Welcome.

CHRIST CHURCH.

(Anglican)
Rev. R. C. Blagrave, D.D., Rector
Residence: 25 Turnbull S.

19th Sunday after Trinity.

Holy Communion .................. 8 a.m.
Conseeration Service and Choral Communion ........................ 11 a.m.
Special Children's Service in the Church ........................ 3 p.m.
Evensong and Sermon ............. 7 p.m.

The Right Rev. Dr. Bidwell, Lord Bishop of Kingston, will consecrate the Church at 11 a.m. and preach at both services. Seats free. Visitors and strangers welcome.

JOHN STREET PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

Corner Victoria Ave. and John St.
Rev. E. C. Currie, Pastor

Sunday, October 18th, 1914.—

11 a.m.—Curing the Fever.

3 p.m.—Sunday School and Bible Classes.

7 p.m.—A Word Refused and the Sequel.

Tues., 8 p.m.—Meeting of Guild.

Wed., 8 p.m.—Prayer and Praise Meeting.

Strangers and Visitors welcome

OSTEND NOW CAPITAL.

Belgian Government Moves From Antwerp to Avoid Assault.

AMSTERDAM, Oct. 8.—(Via London.)—The Nieuws Van Der Dag says that the Belgian Government yesterday was moved from Antwerp to Ostend.

The paper says that the German commander of the forces besieging Antwerp sent an officer carrying a white flag into the city yesterday morning to announce that the bombardment of the temporary capital would commence at 9.30 o'clock yesterday morning. Many refugees left for Holland, and at noon the Government was transferred to Ostend.

A despatch to the Exchange Telegraph Co. from Ostend says: "Several Ministers with the personnel of the Ministers have just arrived here."

An Amsterdam despatch to Reuter's Telegram Co. says: "Among the refugees who left Antwerp yesterday morning were Cardinal Mercier and the Minister of Justice and other high officials. They traveled by automobile to Flushing, from which point they proceeded to Ostend.

"More than 10,000 fugitives have arrived at Rosendaal, at which place the bombardment of Antwerp can clearly be heard."

You Should Take
Zutoo

When you think a headache is coming on.

When you have eaten too heartily.

When you have drank more than is good for your digestion.

When you feel you have a coming on cold—feel feverish or chilly.

These are times Zutoo tablets will ward off the coming disorder—nip it in the bud, and insure you against pain and suffering.

HIGH GRADE FURNISHINGS

Travel the Country over and you'll not find a better line of Men's Toggery than you'll find right here.

The best Shirt makers, Underwear makers, Scarf makers, Sweater Coat makers and Coat and Glove makers send us their productions.

The Best In Every Line Is Here!

Then again we are not high priced.

All the Patrons of the Store know this to be a fact. Test us and see.

See our New $1 Shirts;
Look at our $1 Gloves;
See our 25c and 50c Neckwear;
Look at our Sweater Coats from 75c up;
If You Doubt Our Splendid Value Giving.

Quick & Robertson
CLOTHING AND FURNISHING

Don't Think Your Eyesight

is good because you read the paper a yard from your eyes!

This is a sure sign that you have Presbyopia, and need Glasses to see clearly for close work.

Decide to-day to have me examine your eyes and prepare just the Lenses your eyes need to enable you to see without effort.

Alex. Ray
Eye Specialist

ARTHUR McGIE
Merchant Tailor

Our New Fall Stock of imported Suitings and Overcoatings now in stock in all latest designs.

You are invited to inspect our stock.

ARTHUR McGIE
208 Front Street

Coffee Ice Cream

COFFEE ICE CREAM makes a nice change, and we will have it on our menus for the balance of the week, or have a brick delivered to you.

Coffee and Walnut Bricks, 25c and 50c

Ed. F. Dickens & Son
Phone 170

A SAVING PROBLEM

GET THE
F. SANDERSON CO'S
GENUINE
SCRANTON
COAL
BELLEVILLE

Pure Clinkerless, Well Screened Coal.
"The coal of perfect satisfaction."
Office, 42 Bridge St. Phone 231a
Yard Office, S. Front St. Phone 231b

Many a married man would starve to death if his wife didn't know how to manipulate a can opener.

When a woman gets old enough to forget that she has a complexion she begins to worry about her rights.

S. A. HYMAN & CO.

HYMANS' Saturday Specials
Means Money Saved To You

| | |
|---|---|
| Men's Suspenders, good quality elastic web. Regular value 25c; Saturday, | 19c |
| Men's Finest Quality Cashmere Sox, medium weight. Regular price 50c per pair; Saturday, 3 pairs for | $1.00 |
| Men's Finest Grade Coat Shirts, neat Hair-line Stripes. Regular price $2.00 and $2,50; Saturday, | $1.50 |
| Men's Hose Supporters, best Lisle Web. Regular price 25c; Saturday, | 15c |
| See our Men's Fine Quality Fleece-lined Underwear, best quality, per garment, | 50c |
| Men's Knit Silk Ties, the newest colors. Regalar 50c values; Saturday, | 35c |

S. A. Hyman & Co.
242 FRONT STREET

At our Window.

The little ones enjoying the

BARLER "IDEAL" HEATER

$4.00, $5.00, $6.50

THE SMITH HARDWARE CO
PLUMBING—HEATING
MOTOR CYCLES
314 FRONT ST. — PHONE 204

HAVE THE INTELLIGENCER SENT TO YOUR HOME ADDRESS

IN AND ABOUT THE CITY

Condensed News Items for Busy Readers.

FORTNIGHTLY MEETING

The fortnightly meeting of the Red Cross and Supply Committee of the Belleville Patriotic Association, will be held in the old Y.M.C.A. rooms on Monday evening, Oct. 19th., at 8 o'clock.

COMMITTED FOR TRIAL

A young man named Lindsay McMurray, was placed in the lockup at Bancroft on Thursday last on a charge of sending threatening letters. He was given a preliminary hearing before Police Magistrate Jarnam on Friday, and committed for trial at Belleville. Mr. P. J. M. Anderson appeared for the Crown.

A FURTHER CONTRIBUTION

Mr. E. Guss Porter, K.C., M.P., has been successful in securing from the Dominion Government, for the County of Hastings, an additional $2,540.00, being a further contribution towards the construction of the county bridge over the Trent River at Frankford. This makes a total contribution towards this bridge from the Dominion Government of $22,540.00.

HOLLOWAY ST. LEAGUE

The League room was well filled last evening and a very pleasant time was spent. Mr. Lawson read the lesson. The topic was taken by Mr. Frederick. He gave a talk on Literature. Miss Helen Stocker favored the attendance with a piano solo, and Mrs. Sanderson a solo, which were much appreciated. The meeting was closed with the National Anthem, and a social hour was spent in games and a spelling match.

The Fall Weather Hard on Little Ones

Canadian fall weather is extremely hard on little ones. One day it is warm and bright and the next wet and cold. These sudden changes bring on colds, cramps and colic, and unless baby's little stomach is kept right the result may be serious. There is nothing to equal Baby's Own Tablets in keeping the little ones well. They sweaten the stomach, regulate the bowels, break up colds and make baby thrive. The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

BURGLARY AT MAYNOOTH

On Monday night of last week both hotels at Maynooth were entered by a burglar, who secured a considerable sum of money and succeeded in making good his escape without being detected. At Green's hotel the till was rifled and the sum of $33 taken. Mr. Smith had removed the day's proceeds from the cash register when the bar was closed and placed it in the keys, where it was fortunately overlooked by the burglar in making his search.—Bancroft Times.

To Grow Hair On A Bald Head

BY A SPECIALIST

Thousands of people suffer from baldness and falling hair who, having tried nearly every advertised hair tonic and hair-grower without results, have resigned themselves to baldness and its attendant discomfort. Yet their case is not hopeless; the following simple home prescription has made hair grow after years of baldness, and is also unequalled for restoring gray hair to its orginal color, stopping hair from falling out, and destroying the dandruff germ. It will not make the hair greasy, and can be put up by any druggist: Bay Rum, 6 ounces; Lavona de Composee, 2 ounces; Menthol Crystals, one-half drachm. If you wish it perfumed, add 1 drachm of your favorite perfume. This preparation is highly recommended by physicians and specialists, and is absolutely harmless, as it contains none of the poisonous wood alcohol so frequently found in hair tonics.

WILL AID THE BELGIANS

(From Stirling Leader)

The Ontario Government, knowing the terrible conditions existing in Belgium, have decided to rush repplies to that country as rapidly as possible. Each representative of the Agricultural Department has received a letter describing the conditions in Belgium and asking for immediate assistance.

Stirling and district have made a grand response to this appeal for aid, from the Belgian nation.

The letter, asking for help, was received on Monday and a mass meeting was called at once. At the meeting canvassers were appointed at once.

As the result of one day's work the following articles have been already received and packed for shipment:—2 loads of clothing, practically all of which is new; 1 load of canned goods; 2 loads of potatoes; 1 load of apples and vegetables; 1 load of flour, rolled oats and rice; 1 load of wheat and $270 in cash.

The goods for shipment are valued at $650. The merchants of Stirling all deserve special praise for the way they have given from their stock to this fund.

In the short time at their disposal it was impossible for the canvassers to see everybody, but the response shows that every person has realized the urgency of this appeal and have helped not only by giving, but by helping in the canvass.

After the meeting here, R. P. Coulter took Messrs. Montgomery, Allen and McIntosh to Springbrook and they made their appeal to the people during the programme of the festival in Bethel Church. The people responded in fine shape.

On Tuesday they went to Mormora and spoke in the Opera House. Marmora gave $250 cash and five 300-lb. cases of clothing.

GREAT DIFFERENCE IN CORN CURES

Many are destructive to the flesh and dangerous to use, but the old reliable Putnam's Corn Extractor removed Corns, Warts and Bunions, without pain in 24 hours. No pain no failure, "Putnam's" cures.

BELLEVILLE PATRIOTIC ASSOCIATION

The Treasurer begs to acknowledge with thanks the following subscriptions since added to the lists published up to the 10th October.

The total cash received up to 16th October amounted to $2,981.70. In all, 151 weekly cheques have been issued to date, to the wives or mothers of volunteers—there having been altogether thirty households and a total (including children) of 73 in the various families.

Additions to subscription list not heretofore acknowledged:—

| | |
|---|---|
| Belleville Lodge No. 251 A. O. U. W. | $25 00 |
| Dr. J. F. Mather | 10 00 |
| J. C. Wills | 5 00 |
| Employees of McIntosh Bros. (First monthly contribution | 10 00 |
| Mrs. Curtis Bogart | 10 00 |
| L. P. Hughes | 10 00 |
| Col. Lazier (second monthly contribution | 10 00 |

H. B. Stock—$1.00 a month for the duration of the war.

Rifle Shooting At the Armouries

At the shooting competition of B. Company, 15th Regiment, held in the armouries last night, the following scores were made. Possible 35.

| | |
|---|---|
| *Corp. Crump | 31 |
| *Pte. Brasher | 30 |
| *Col.-Sergt. Powell | 27 |
| Pte. Fixzon | 21 |
| Pte. Follwell | 20 |
| Pte. Weese | 20 |
| Corp. McGlashon | 18 |
| Pte. Smallhorn | 18 |
| Pte. Cook | 14 |
| Pte. Ferguson | 14 |
| Pte. Evans | 12 |
| Pte. Shea | 11 |
| Pte. Sturdy | 10 |
| Pte. Vest | 8 |
| Pte. Hinds | 7 |

* Prize winners.

Next Friday night there will be competition for A. Company.

After a young man rings a girl's doorbell about so often it's up to him to ring her finger.

Cupid usually hits the mark, but he selects some mighty poor targets.

WAR AND DRINK EQUALLY DISASTROUS!

Both Bring Uncounted Miseries In Their Train.

Many drunkards are sent to jail when what they need is medicine. Drink has undermined their constitutions, inflamed their stomachs and nerves, until the craving must be satisfied.

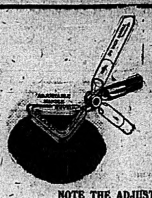
Samaria Prescription stops the craving, restores the shaking nerves, builds up the health and appetite, and renders drink distasteful, even nauseous. It is odorless and tasteless, and dissolves instantly in tea, coffee or food. It can be given with or without the patient's knowledge. Read what Mrs. G——, of Vancouver, says:

"I was so anxious to get my husband cured that I went up to Harrison's Drug Store and got your Remedy there. I had no trouble giving it without his knowledge. I greatly thank you for all the peace and happiness that it has brought already into my home. The cost was nothing according to what he would spend in drinking. The curse of drink was putting me into my grave, but now I feel happy. May the Lord be with you and help you in curing the evil. I don't want my name published."

Now, if you know of any unfortunate needing Samaria Treatment, tell him or his family or friends about it. If you have any friend or relative who is forming the drink habit, help him to release himself from its clutches. Write to-day.

A FREE TRIAL PACKAGE of Samaria Prescription, with booklet giving full particulars, testimonials, price, etc., will be sent absolutely Free and postpaid, in plain sealed package, to anyone asking for it. Correspondence sacredly confidential. Write to-day. The Samaria Remedy Co., Dept. 142 Mutual Street, Toronto, Canada.

Also for Sale by Albert L. Geen, Druggist, Belleville.



The Wizard Triangle
POLISH MOP

Saturday Only 98c

Gets in the corners

NOTE THE ADJUSTABLE HANDLE
It Lightens House Work, Removes Dust and Renews the Finish.

The John Lewis Co.
Limited

NOTICE

To my Customers and the Public in General: Everybody knows that all kinds of Fat Stock are bringing record prices at the present time; but I have not raised my prices. I buy direct from the farmer for cash so as to give my customers the middleman's profits. Read these prices:—

| | |
|---|---|
| Best Sirloin or Porter House Roasts or Steaks | 20c. lb. |
| Legs of Lamb | 20c. lb |
| Lamb Chops | 20c. lb |
| Fore Quarters Lamb | 15c. lb. |
| Best Round Steak | 15c. lb. |
| Home made All Pork Sausages | 15c. lb. |
| Mixed Sausages ..... 10c. lb.; 3 lbs. for | 25c. |
| Pure Home Rendered Lard | 15c |

Choice Western Beef kept the year round.

GEO. I. THOMAS
377 Front Street. Phone 305.

MODERN DIPLOMACY, OR HOW THE WAR STARTED

Said Austria—"You murderous Serb.
You, the peace of all Europe disturb
Get down on your knees, and Apologize, please,
Or I'll kick you right off my front curb."

Said Servia—"Don't venture too far,
Or I'll call in my uncle, the Czar;
He won't see me licked,
Nor insulted not kicked.
So you better leave things as they are."

Said the Kaiser—"Push in that Serb's face,
It will teach him to stay in his place;
If Russia says boo,
I'm in the game too,
And right quickly we'll settle the case."

The Czar said—"My cousin the Kaiser,
Was always a good advertiser;
He's determined to fight,
And insists he is right,
But soon he'll be older and wiser."

"For forty-four summers," said France,
"I have waited and watched for a chance
To wrest Alsace-Lorraine
From the German again
And now is the time to advance."

Said Belgium—"When armies immense
Pour over my boundary fence,
I'll awake from my nap,
And put up a scrap
They'll remember a hundred peace hence."

Said John Bull—"This 'ere Kaiser's a slob
And 'is word isn't worth 'arf a bog.
(If I let Belgium suffer,
I'm a blank blommin' duffer)
So 'ere goes for a crack at 'is nob."

Said Italy—"I think I'll stay out
Till I know what the row is about;
Its a far better plan
Just to sell my banan',
Till the issue is plain beyond doubt."

Said our good uncle Samuel—"I swaow
I had better keep aout of this raow,
For with Mormons and Niggers,
And Greasers, I figgers
I have all I kin handle just now."

Don't Suffer With Stiff Aching Limbs

Don't be inconvenienced and annoyed by tired, inflamed muscles. Massage the parts with Absorbine, Jr., and roat out the trouble. Athletes do. They know that Absorbine, Jr. penetrates quickly and reduces soreness and inflammation—that it is powerful and efficacious in cases of serious sprains, wrenches, torn ligaments and painful affections.

Absorbine, Jr. is a different kind of liniment. It is a non-poisonous Antiseptic and Germicide. Applied to an open sore or wound, it kills the germs, makes the part aseptic and promotes rapid and healthy healing. That is why it is so good for cuts, wounds, and sores.

Absorbine Jr. is a discutient and resolvent, effective in reducing Bursal Enlargements, Fatty Tumors, Swollen and Enlarged Glands or Veins. Use Absorbine, Jr. where you want relief quickly and permanently.

$1.00 and $2.00 per bottle at druggists or delivered. Manufactured only by W. F. Young, P.D.F., 457 Lymans Bldg., Montreal, Can.

A man [illegible] identified as William Burbridge, Malton, committed suicide at Crewson's Corners, between Acton and Rockwood, by throwing himself in front of a Grand Trunk passenger train.

Wilfrid Laverdure, a long-term prisoner at the St. Vincent de Paul Penitentiary, was instantly killed yesterday morning by falling from a pile of lumber to the ground, a distance of 20 feet.

P. Corkey's barn, near Harwood, with the season's crop, implements, calves, chickens and hogs, was burned, entailing a severe loss, for he had only a small insurance. It is supposed that children playing around a straw stack started the fire.

Cooling Beverages

Rey's Ale and Porter; O'Keefe's Special Mild Ale, Gold Label Ale, Lager and Stout; Carling's Ale and Porter, and Half and Half and Half; Dow's Ale and Porter; Dawe's Black Horse Ale; Molsons Ale and Porter; Regal Lager; Basses Ale; Guinness' Stout; Budweiser's Lager; Kegs of Ale, Lager and Porter.

W. A. RODBOURNE
Up-town Liquor Store.
307 Front St. Phone 85.
Orders delivered promptly to any part of the city.

All That's New
In Fall And
Winter . . .
MILLINERY
Will be found at our store.
HATS for
Ladies, Girls and Children.
Moderate Prices
Miss M. Campbell

We are now showing our first importations, indicating the true trend of fashions for the approaching season in both Tailored and Dress Hats from the famous contouries of Paris.

McCrodan & Sills

BRIGHTEN UP
YOUR STOVES, STOVE PIPES, RADIATORS, Etc., with
The SHERWIN-WILLIAMS
Aluminum Paint
Looks better, lasts longest, goes farthest
25c tin
WATERS DRUG STORE

WHENEVER WHEREVER
YOU SEE THIS SIGN

SCRANTON COAL.
THE SCHUSTER CO.
LTD.

IT IS A SIGN OF GOOD COAL

We Never Sleep
The Hogan Burial Co.
Leading Undertakers
Our exclusive lines of caskets and several new additions in the line of funeral equipment make our parlors one of the most up-to-date in Canada. Open night and day.
Phone 774.
189 Front Street
Belleville

NOTICE

All accounts due the Hogan Burial Co. must be paid to their account in the Standard Bank, Belleville, on or before Monday, Oct. 26th, and accounts owed by them mailed to the undersigned with statement of account, on or before that date when they will be paid in full.

Hogan Burial Co.
Mrs. F. L. Hogan,
15,d3t Atty.

CLASSIFIED ADVERTISEMENTS

Advertisements under this head, 25 words or less, 25 cents for each insertion, and one cent for each additional word; 4 insertions 75 cents; 6 insertions, $1.00, invariably in advance. This rate applies to all a xept advertisements for Auction Sales, which will be published at two cents per word. Count 8 marks and (182) figure as one word each.

HELP WANTED—FEMALE

MAID FOR GENERAL HOUSEWORK. Apply Mrs. W. B. Deacon, 220 William Street. 1t

WANTED

YOUR ORDERS FOR SILVER PLATING. Write for price list. Belleville Plating Works, 267 1-2 Front Street. o14-dim

LADIES TO DO PLAIN AND LIGHT SEWing at home, whole or spare time; good pay, work sent any distance, charges paid; stamp for particulars. National Manufacturing Co., Montreal, Que.

TO-RENT

TWO SIX-ROOMED DWELLINGS, CORNER Bridge and Dufferin Streets, and two five roomed flats and a two roomed flat. Apply Dr. Caldwell. o1-dtf

TWO FLATS, ONE THREE ROOMED AND one five roomed, all conveniences. Price moderate. Apply Miss Corbett, Front Street. o7-dtf

EIGHT ROOMED HOUSE WITH MODERN conveniences. Situated on Gordon St. Apply E. B. Sprague, 78 N Front St. 14-4td

ROOMS TO LET WITH OR WITHOUT board. Good locality. Modern conveniences. Apply Box E. Intelligencer Office. o14-4td

FLAT, WELL LIGHTED, ALL CONVENiences, Moira Street. Apply Don Bleecker. 17-4td

AGENTS WANTED

AGENTS WANTED — MONEY EASILY earned selling our Peerless Series of Personal Greeting Cards during your spare time. $10 to $20 per week easily earned in half an hour each evening. Our cards are the cheapest on the market. Book free. Write Toronto Greeting Card Co., 529 Pape Avenue, Toronto. o7-12td

AGENTS — UP-TO-MINUTE WAR BOOK combination Christmas Gift. Is sure money-maker. Handsome Samples Free: Liberal Terms; Order Now; Send postage twenty-five cents. Nichols Limited, Publishers, Toronto. 4td:o7,10,14,17

FOR SALE

SECOND HAND NO. 3 DAISY HOT WATER boiler, 292 Front St., W. McGie. o15-6td

180 ACRES, EAST HALF LOT 18, FOURTH concession, Thurlow. Good buildings, well watered, firewood, 6 miles from Belleville, convenient to church and school, good locality. For particulars apply to Mrs. Fred Hawley, Crawford Street, Troy, Ohio, or to F. S. Wallbridge, Barrister, Belleville. j16;wtf:stl

MEDIUM COAL STOVE CHEAP. NEARLY new; Duplex grate, also oak wardrobe and varandah. Apply 243 Charles St. 1t

J. L. R. GORMAN
REAL ESTATE AND INSURANCE
Office over Dominion Bank
Phones:
Office 603 Residence 534
We Specialize in City Property

Two New Cakes

Apple Cake 12c each
Antwerps 20c each

Try them, you'll find them fine.

Chas. S. Clapp

Tenders

TENDERS are asked for the construction and laying of a Creosote Floor in No. 1 Fire Hall. Plans and specifications can be seen at the office of the City Engineer, Pinnacle Street.

All tenders to be in the hands of the undersigned on Monday evening at 8 p.m.

The lowest or any tender not necessarily accepted.

JAS. O. ST. CHARLES,
1t Chairman of Fire Committee.

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTHWEST LAND REGULATIONS

The sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years old, may homestead a quarter-section of available Dominion land in Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta. Applicant must appear in person at the Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-Agency for the District. Entry by proxy may be made at any Dominion Lands Agency (but not Sub-Agency) on certain conditions.

Duties—Six months residence upon and cultivation of the land in each of three years. A homesteader may live within nine miles of his homestead on a farm of at least 80 acres, on certain conditions. A habitable house is required except where residence is performed in the vicinity.

In certain districts a homesteader in good standing may pre-empt a quarter-section alongside his homestead. Price $3.00 per acre.

Duties—Six months residence in each of three years after earning homestead patent; also 50 acres extra cultivation. Pre-emption patent may be obtained as soon as homestead patent, on certain conditions.

A settler who has exhausted his homestead right may take a purchased homestead in certain districts. Price $3.00 per acre. Duties—Must reside six months in each of three years, cultivate 50 acres and erect a house worth $300.

The area of cultivation is subject to reduction in case of rough, scrubby or stony land. Live stock may be substituted for cultivation under certain conditions.

W. W. CORY, C.M.G.,
Deputy of the Minister of the Interior.
N.B.—Unauthorized publication of this advertisement will not be paid for.—64388.

BUSINESS CHANCES

DO YOU NEED ADDITIONAL CAPITAL to commence or enlarge a business? If so, we will organize a Limited Company and procure such capital as required. Write or call. A. G. Robertson & Co., 155 King Street east, Toronto. dtf

PERSONAL

DR. MARSHALL'S OFFICE REMOVED TO Angus McFee's Block, 216½ Front Street. a11:d&w2m

WANTED—HELP MALE

MEN WANTED IN EVERY TOWN AND village in Canada to show samples in their spare time; position will pay $15 weekly; sample case free. Experience unnecessary. The Co-Operative Union, Windsor, Ont. 1t

SYNOPSIS OF COAL MINING REGULATIONS

Coal mining rights of the Dominion, in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, the Yukon Territory, the North-West Territories and in a portion of the Province of British Columbia, may be leased for a term of twenty-one years at an annual rental of $1 an acre. Not more than 2,560 acres will be leased to one applicant.

Application for a lease must be made by the applicant in person to the Agent or Sub-Agent of the district in which the rights applied for are situated.

In surveyed territory the land must be described by sections, or legal sub-divisions of sections, and in unsurveyed territory the tract applied for shall be staked by the applicant himself.

Each application must be accompanied by a fee of $5 which will be refunded if the rights applied for are not available, but not otherwise. A royalty shall be paid on the merchantable output of the mine at the rate of five cents per ton.

The person operating the mine shall furnish the Agent with sworn returns accounting for the full quantity of merchantable coal mined and pay the royalty thereon. If the coal mining rights are not being operated, such returns should be furnished at least once a year.

The lease will include the coal mining rights only, but the lessee may be permitted to purchase whatever available surface rights may be considered necessary for the working of the mine at the rate of $10.00 an acre.

For full information application should be made to the Secretary of the Department of the Interior, Ottawa, or to any Agent or Sub-Agent of Dominion Lands.

W. W. CORY,
Deputy Minister of the Interior.
N. B.—Unauthorized publication of this advertisement will not be paid for.—30690 dtf

Let us Develope and Finish Your Films. We Know How.
The Belleville Pharmacy
The Kodak Store, Bridge St.

THE BOARD OF RAILWAY COMMISSIONERS FOR CANADA.

PUBLIC NOTICE is hereby given that the Campbellford, Lake Ontario and Western Railway Company will, after the expiration of four weeks from the date hereof or so soon thereafter as the Application can be heard, apply to the Board of Railway Commissioners for Canada, under the supervisions of Sections 221 and 225 of the Railway Act, for authority to construct, maintain and operate the Passing Sidings and Freight Sheds in the City of Belleville, in the County of Hastings and Province of Ontario, lying between the Westerly limit of the Moira River and the Easterly limit of the Bay Bridge Road in the said City of Belleville, as is shown in Red on the Plan, Profile and Book of Reference deposited in the Registry Office for the County of Hastings, in the City of Belleville, this 15th day of October, 1914

E. W. BEATTY,
Montreal. General Counsel.
o15-3td

PILES.

You will find relief in Zam-Buk! It eases the burning, stinging pain, stops bleeding and brings ease. Perseverance, with Zam-Buk, means cure. Why not prove this? All Druggists and Stores.—50c box.

Zam-Buk

OUR LINES

Automobile Storage and Car Repairing
Supplies
Bicycle Repairing
Motor Cycle Repairing
Gas Engine Work
Electrical Contracting
Electrical Supplies
Oxy-Acetyline Welding
Locksmithing
Machine Work
Storage Battery Care and Charging
General and Steel Repairing

Call and see us, whether you do business or not, at

The Garage
GREENLEAF & SON
Phone 83. 268 Pinnacle St.

TENDERS FOR SUPPLIES, 1914-15.

The undersigned will receive sealed tenders, marked on outside of envelope, "Tenders for Supplies," up to noon of Monday, the 19th of October, 1914, for butchers' meat, creamery or dairy butter, flour, meal, etc., etc., required for the School for the Deaf, Belleville, and the School for the Blind, Brantford, for the year from November, 1st, 1914, to October 31st, 1915. All supplies must be of first-class quality or they will be rejected.

A marked cheque for 5 per cent. of the estimated amount of the contract, payable to the order of the Minister of Education, must be furnished by each tenderer as a guarantee of his bona fides. Two sufficient sureties will be required for the due fulfillment of each contract, and should any tender be withdrawn before the contract is awarded, or should the tenderer fail to furnish security, the amount of the deposit will be forfeited.

Specifications and forms of tender may be had on application to the Bursars of the respective Schools.

The lowest or any tender not necessarily accepted.

(Sgd.) R. A. PYNE,
Minister of Education.
Toronto, Oct. 5th, 1914. 1t

BANK OF MONTREAL

Established 1817

| | |
|---|---|
| Capital, all paid up . . . | $16,000,000 |
| Rest . . . . . . . . . | $16,000,000 |

SAVINGS BANK DEPARTMENT

Interest allowed on sums of $1.00 and upwards at current rates.

Banking hours, 10 to 3. Saturdays, 10 to 3.

R. TANNAHILL,
Manager Belleville Branch

MARRIAGE LICENSES

Marriage Licenses issued by P. Harrison at The Intelligencer Office, or at residence, Lewis Street.

I've something in the cellar for the evening

CARLING'S ALE AND "CANADA CLUB" LAGER

You'll never be lonely in the evening with a supply of Carling's in the cellar, because you'll find it really good company. And when friends drop in and surprise you, Carling's provides the most fitting tribute to offer.

Noted for high quality, purity and downright goodness.

Sold by the Best Dealers Everywhere.

Carling, - London

181

RITCHIE'S
SATURDAY NIGHT BARGAINS
For To-night Between The Hours Of 7 and 9.30

These Saturday Night Sales are becoming more popular every week, but last Saturday night many were disappointed owing to the storm coming during the sale hours, 7 and 9.30. So we have decided to offer THE SAME SPLENDID LIST OF BARGAINS FOR TO-NIGHT, in order that every man and woman in Belleville may have an opportunity of sharing in the Special Money-Saving Chances which this list offers. When in the store to-night, watch for the Blue Price Cards; they indicate the Saturday Night Specials.

Ladies' Black Embroidered Hose, 25c pair.

Black cashmere embroidered hose, all wool, English made. Regularly sold as high as 65c. pair; sizes 8½ to 10, a leader for tonight at . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . 25c. pair

REGULAR 15c. LADIES' HEAVY BLACK COTTON HOSE, in good fast black, sizes 8½ to 10; your choice tonight for . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . 10c. pair

(Hosiery Counter)

LADIES' HANDKERCHIEFS, 2 for 25c.

Several odd but good lines in plain linen and embroidered qualities, worth up to 35c. each. Your choice tonight at 12½c., 2 for 25c.

36" NAINSOOK AND LAWNS 9c. yard.

In nice fine quality with soft finish, free from dressing. Regular price 12½c. yard. On sale tonight only at . . . . . . . . . . . . . . 9c. yard

Regular 25c Pillow Cases, 19c each.

Made of splendid quality English cotton, round thread and nicely hemmed, sizes 40" 44" and 46". Regularly 25c. each; tonight only . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . 19c. each

10c. GREY COTTON, 8c. YARD.

A good fine cotton, free of specks, 1 yard wide. Regular 10c.; for tonight . . 8c. yard

COLORED RATINE SILKS 50c. yard.

This is a bargain you cannot afford to overlook. Ratine silks in popular shades, including taupe, pink, mauve, grey and tan, 27" wide and regular $1.00 and $1.25; for tonight . . . . . . . . 50c. yard

HAT PINS, 2c. EACH.

Some with colored and others plain black beads, in various lengths. Regular up to 25c. each. Tonight for 2c. each.

CORSET COVER EMBROIDERY, 19c. YARD

Excellent quality fine Swiss corset cover embroidery, 18" wide, that sold regularly up to 45c. yard; on sale tonight at . . . . . . . . . . . . 19c. yard

TORCHON AND VALENCIENNES INSERTION 2c. yard.

Splendid quality cotton insertions, ½ to 1 inch wide. They sold in the regular way as high as 12½c. yard. On sale tonight at . . . . 2c. yard

BEADED CHIFFON, Tucked Nets, and Allover Laces, suitable for evening gowns, etc. Regular up to $1.50 yard. On sale tonight at . . . . . . . . . . . . 19c. yard

Exceptional Bargains

FANCY COLLARS 19c. each.

In lace, lawn and organdies, Swiss collars, hemstitched and embroidered. Some of the very newest styles represented. Regular 50c. For tonight, each . . . . . . . . 19c.

HAIR BARRETTES 10c. each.

Shell and amber barrettes, in plain and bar styles; always sold at 25c. each. Tonight for—
10c. each.

VEILINGS, 10c. yard.

In grey, black, blue, green and white net, dotted and figured designs are represented. Regular price 25c. and 35c. yard. Tonight . . 10c. yard

Three Big Coat Bargains For the Ladies and Misses To-night

Ladies' Winter Coats, $3.95

15 only Ladies' long cloth coats, not this season's but all good warm garments, in splendid styles and fashionable cloths. Sizes 34, 36 and 38. Regularly up to $18.00. On sale tonight at . . $3.95

Girls' and Misses' Sample Coats, $5.00

About 15 garments, all new styles, in sizes to fit girls 8 to 14 years, only one of a kind. Worth in the regular way from $6.00 to $10.00. Tonight, sale price only . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . $5.00

Regular $60.00 Fur Lined Coats, $40.00

Four only Ladies' fur lined coats, with best quality all wool black broadcloth shell, and extra good natural muskrat linings; natural sable collars, 50 inches long, latest styles, for sizes 34, 36 and 38. Regular $60. On sale tonight at . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . $40

Ladies' Winter-Weight Vests and Drawers

Regular 50c On Sale at 39c
Regular 25c On Sale at 19c

Here is a Saturday night snap worthy of every woman's attention. This underwear is manufacturer's seconds, but they are slightly damaged, and some not at all. They are in white or natural and in good heavy winter weight, specially priced for tonight's quick selling at—

Reg. 50c. for . . . . . . . . 39c.
Reg. 25c. for . . . . . . . . 19c.

LADIES' SWEATER COATS, $1.50

They are all good warm winter garments, with or without collars, white only are represented, and worth up to $4.00; mostly all manufacturer's samples. On sale tonight at . . . . . . . . . $1.50

To-Night's Bargains For Men And Boys

MEN'S STIFF HATS ON SALE TONIGHT AT 69c.

About twenty-five fine black and colored stiff hats, odd lines, that we have not a full assortment of sizes. If we can fit you they are a genuine bargain. Regularly $1.50 and $2.00. Tonight only . . . . . . . . 69c.

BOYS' KNICKER PANTS ON SALE TONIGHT AT 98c. PAIR.

50 pairs of Boys' Bloomer Knickers, in brown and grey tweed effects. They include the best makes and are in all sizes fro 24 to 34; regularly sold at $1.25 and $1.50, but your choice tonight at 98c. each.

MEN'S LINEN COLLARS ON SALE TONIGHT ONLY AT 10c. EACH.

This is a splendid chance for the men to replenish their collar wardrobe. They are in stand up turn down, stand up with wing, and plain stand up styles; all sizes. Regular 15c. each; on sale tonight . . 10c. each

Four Genuine Bargains From The Third Floor

Regular $1.50 Flannelette Blankets, $1.25

11/4 "Dragon" Blankets with pink or blue borders, and all pearfect goods (not seconds). They are excellent qualities and sold in the regular way at $1.50. A leader tonight at only, per pair . . . . . . . . . $1.25

(Third Floor)

$1.50 BED COMFORTERS, $1.25

12 only chintz covered Bed Comforters, size 60x72, good cotton filling and regular $1.25; on sale tonight at . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . $1.25

WILTON HEARTH RUGS, $2.25

About a dozen odd rugs in Oriental designs and excellent colors, size 27x54 inches. Regularly sold up to $4.00; clearing tonight at . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . $2.25

150 Yards of Curtain Chintz at 19c yard.

The lot includes short ends of printed chintz with only a few yards in a piece, ten patterns to choose from that sold regularly at 25c., 30c., and 35c. yard; but tonight we will clear the entire lot out at, per yard . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . 19c.

WATCH FOR THE "BLUE PRICE TICKETS. THEY INDICATE SPECIAL SATURDAY NIGHT BARGAINS

The Ritchie Company Limited

CITY AND VICINITY

The Raymond Sewing Machines made in Canada sold at Goodsell's Music Store. 16-17

Upright Piano in good condition at $150.00; $10.00 cash and $6.00 per month at Goodsell's Music Store.

It's a Long Way to Tipperary. Double disc records, 85c. at Goodsell's Music Store. 16-17

CHRIST CHURCH REOPENING AND CONSECRATION SERVICES WILL BE HELD TO-MORROW AT 11 AND 7. THE BISHOP OF KINGSTON WILL OFFICIATE AND PREACH. REOPENING AND THANKSGIVING BANQUET IN PARISH HALL, TUESDAY, 6.30 P.M.

Don't forget the Hallowe'en Festival in aid of the Red Cross in the Armouries, Oct. 30th and 31st.

The 3 judgments to come, and the 2 resurrections, will be subject at Bethel Hall Sunday evening.

Come to the Armouries, Oct. 30th, and 31st. and see the Gallery of Living Pictures and Tableaux in aid of the Red Cross.

COMING

Prof. Pember, Hair Dresser, Hair Dealer and Scalp Specialist, will be at Hotel Quinte, Friday, Oct. 23. 1914. See large advt. on another page of this issue for particulars. O10-14-17-22

COAL

The FOUR best to buy. D. L. & W. Scranton Coal; C. B. B. Pocahontas Coal; Butts Channel Coal; Beaver Charcoal. You can get them from Downey Coal Co

Feed Pratt's Regulator to your hens to help them through moulting and start them laying quickly. Geo. Perry, Bridge St. 1t

Poultry Supplies, all kinds. Perry.

Re-opening of Chirst Church. A Supper in the Parish Hall under the auspices of the Parish Guild. Proceeds toward lighting church. Supper served from 6 to 8 and short programme. Tickets: single, 40c., double 75c. 17-19

Choir Concert in St. Andrew's Sunday School rooms, Tuesday evening, Oct. 20, assisted by the following ladies and gentlemen: Mrs. Jas. Grant, Mrs. Connell, Misses Ponton, Stork, Price, Messrs. Cameron, Connell, Bennett, Booth, Kenneth Ross and Excelsior Male Quartette. Choir leader, Mrs. A. P. Allen; organist Miss Edith Fenn. 17,3t

Get your costume ready for the grand Hallowe'en parade at the Armouries, Saturday evening, Oct. 31st., in aid of the Red Cross. Prizes for the best costumes.

Don't miss the Midway at the Armouries, Oct. 30th and 31st., in aid of the Red Cross.

AUCTION SALE

The adjourned sale at 246 West Ann Street, will be held 19th October, at one o'clock. Many bargains given. 16,2t

AUCTION SALE

Of Household Effects including metal refrigerator with revolving shelves, extension teable, chairs, gas range, etc., Tuesday, Oct. 20th at 1 p.m., at 174 Dundas street, opposite Reid's Nursery. D. J. Fairfield, Auctioneer. 17,2t

AUCTION SALE

Of Household Goods at the residence of Mrs. Lambton Sewell, 45 North Front St., on Tuesday, Oct. 20th, 1914. Sale begins at 9.30 a.m. sharp, and will be continued until goods are all sold. John L. Palmer, Auctioneer. 17-19

Twelve Pages The Daily Intelligencer Pages 9 To 12

LET THERE BE HARMONY IN THINGS ESSENTIAL—LIBERTY IN THINGS NOT ESSENTIAL—CHARITY IN ALL.

Vol. 48 BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO, SATURDAY, OCTOBER 17, 1914. No. 137

AUTHOR OF A GREAT STORY

Isabel Gordon Curtis.

Isabel Gordon Curtis, author of "The Lapse of Enoch Wentworth," is one of the best-known literary women of America and for years her name has been familiar to readers of household and farm periodicals and of fiction. She was born fifty years ago in Huntley, Aberdeenshire, Scotland, and after receiving an academic education in that country, came to the United States in 1886. For several years she did general literary work, and then she was successively literary editor of the New England Homestead and Farm and Home, dramatic editor of the Springfield Homestead, associated with her husband, Francis Curtis, as editor of the Binghampton Chronicle; associate editor of Good Housekeeping, and editor of the woman's department of Success Magazine. In addition to all these activities, she has found time since 1903 to do a great deal of general magazine work and juvenile story writing, and in recent years has written several novels that proved highly successful and popular. Some of these deal with official and social life in Washington, with which Mrs. Curtis is thoroughly familiar and which she portrays with vivid reality.

The greatest work Mrs. Curtis has produced, "The Lapse of Enoch Wentworth," is a story of the New York stage and New York newspaper life. It is a story with a high moral purpose, and one which holds the interest of the reader to the end. The reviewers generally have pronounced it one of the greatest of American novels.

It is with considerable pleasure that we are able to announce that we have arranged for the serial publication rights on this story, the first installment of which will appear soon. We earnestly advise all readers to watch for it.

COMMENCING IN THE INTELLIGENCER, SATURDAY, OCT. 17TH.

LONESOME LONDON

Colonial Official Says It Chills the Visitor From Overseas

Colonials, according to Sir George Reid, High Commissioner for Australia, have their admiration for the Motherland chilled by their loneliness when they get to London.

"You can't make 7,000,000 people think over the arrival of one Australian," said Sir George. "I make that allowance. But there is a film over the British character. When it is scratched as fine a man is struck as can be found anywhere—but it has to be scratched.

"When an Englishman visits Australia he finds himself in the midst of friends anxious to take him by the hand. I want a little more of that in London, not only for High Commissioners but for the ordinary colonial."

Among men from the Overseas Dominions who do not entirely agree with Sir George is Mr. W. L. Griffith, Charge d'Affaires at the Canadian Office in London. Mr. Griffith admits that London is lonely, for the English provincial as well as the Colonial. "But," he said, "I cannot follow—perhaps I do not understand—Sir George Reid when he speaks of a 'film' over the English character.

"It is perfectly true that an Englishman visiting one of the Dominions is taken by the hand, but I apprehend that when the Australian and Canadian centres approach London in size the same inherent obstacles in the way of good fellowship will present themselves. I don't believe it is from any lack of warm-heartedness that visitors are neglected in London. The difficulty is how to get into touch with visitors. As a matter of fact, the appreciation of the people of the Motherland for the people of Dominions has grown astonishingly during the past twenty years."

Alligator Veal

The average man, asked if he ever ate reptiles, would reply, with a shudder: "Certainly not!"

Suggest to him that it was possible that he might have tasted green turtle soup, and he would admit that, after all, there were reptiles fit to grace a table.

Dr. Livingstone wrote enthusiastically of the great African frog known as the "mattarneto." It is six inches long, tastes like chicken, and is caught during the dry season, when it can be dug out of the mud at the bottom of dried-up pools.

African natives eat many specimens of reptiles. The common green lizard, either baked or fried, is considered a dainty by most of the inland tribes. In the market of Sennaar and many other towns crocodile meat is always on sale.

A large number of travellers have compared the flesh of the crocodile and of the alligator to veal, but its peculiar, musky odor makes it unpleasant to the average white person. If the musk glands are not cut out before cooking the meat is quite uneatable. Physicians of the Middle Ages prescribed boiled crocodile meat for coughs and sciatica, croodile blood for ophthalmia, and crocodile fat in fever.

Food For Fowls

Those who experience any difficulty in providing the necessary greenstuff for their fowls—as many do in winter—can provide an excellent substitute by sprouting barley or oats. The method is as follows. Place a layer of the grain in a shallow box and over the top, instead of the lid, place a piece of canvas, keeping it constantly moistened. Place in a warm place for a week, when the grain will swell and throw out long, succulent shoots. It is a food that is eagerly devoured, and greatly assists egg production.

VALUE OF BIRDS BEYOND TELLING

Without Them Insects Would Very Soon Destroy Everything That Grows For Man's Use

Ontario's recent experience with the army worm brought to the fore the "greatest friend of man"—the bird. Scientists say that if birds were to be wiped from the earth man would be unable to survive more than twenty-five years, the entire food supply in the meantime being destroyed by insects.

It is probable that no species of insect is so completely protected by its habits of life that it is not found and preyed upon by some bird. There are some insects that smell and taste badly. Certain beetles have a strnog caustic secretion giving off a choking odor and cause a burning sensation on the tongue of man. Some draw in their limbs and antennæ and look like pieces of earth; others play possum. There are so-called blister beetles, used medicinally to blister one's skin; many caterpillars are covered with hair, others having stinging rays. Yet some birds eat all of these, in egg, larval state, or adult form and do not suffer thereby.

This continent is greatly favored in the number and character of its birds which not only include some of the gems of the bird world such as the warblers and humming birds, but on the whole possess few destructive species. No other creatures are so well fitted to capture flying insects as swallows, swifts, and night hawks. The wren also, trim of body and agile of movement, creeps in and out of holes and crevices and explores rubbish heaps for hidden insects. The woodpecker, whose whole body exhibits wonderful adaptation of means to an end, is provided with strong claws to hold him firmly when at work, a chisel-like bill driven by powerful muscles to dig out insects and a long extensile tongue to still further explore the hidden retreats of insects and drag forth concealed larvæ safe from other foes.

Fifty thousand birds of different species have been examined in 25 years. One man fed a young robin 70 cut worms a day for fifteen days. A young crow in a day eats twice its weight of almost anything. Two parent grossbeaks have been known in eleven hours to make 450 trips to their nest with one or more larvae at a time. Sparrows, chickadees, viroes, martoms and warblers have been known to make forty or sixty trips an hour with their beaks filled with all manner of insects. More than fifty kinds of birds feed upon different varieties of caterpillars, including the army worm; 38 varieties upon the devastating plant lice; 50 kinds feed upon the most destructive species of scale insects.

The hawks work by day, the owls chiefly by night; so that for the twenty-four hours activities are continued. As many as a hundred grasshoppers have been found in the stomach of a swinson's hawk representing a single meal, and in the retreat of a pair of barn owls have been found more than 3,000 skulls, 97 per cent. of which were field mice, house mice and common rats. A ringneck pheasant's crop contained 800 seeds of chickweed and dandelion's head, more than 12,000 seeds have been found in a duck's stomach.

Of the woodpeckers there are 45 species in Canada some remaining throughout the year; two-thirds to three-quarters of their food consists of insects, chiefly noxious. Of two specimens of flickers' stomachs one showed 3,000 ground ants, the other 5,000.

Of the yellow bill cuckoo, a Canadian bird, one stomach contained 250 tent caterpillars and another 217 web worms. The night hawk or bull bat is one of the most useful birds. There have been identified more than 600 kinds of insects taken from the stomachs of this bird, some birds having thirty to fifty different kinds. They eat the ant and the malaria-bearing mosquito.

Of two hundred and eighty-five stomachs of the meadow lark examined, seventy-three per cent. of the food found was insects. The vegetable food consisted of grain and weed and other seeds. Farmer and town dweller therefore have every reason to protect the birds as their best friends.

Radium Helps Surgery.

According to a Paris surgeon radium emanations are valuable after operations to destroy stray diseased cells that the knife may have missed. bers, [illegible]

CANADIAN SILHOUETTES

The Gateway of the Rockies

THIRTEEN years had passed since last I saw the gateway of the Rockies, and I was prepared to discover that my memory exaggerated its majesty. Always I had been chary about describing the place to those who had not in their travels passed that way; because, in describing it, it seemed to my own ears that surely I must be carried away somewhat. the extreme dark before dawn, like a long luminous snake, to startle any nocturnal wolf that prowled along the buttes back from the track. Slowly, with an excessive pallor, the day began outside the dew-drenched train that twined through the wild country of the foothills. That country stretches north and south for hundreds of miles, a broad ribband of wilderness along the eastern flank of the Rockies, where creeks gurgle and shout, day and night, through rolling hills among which it is one of the easiest things imaginable for a man to be lost; a wild country, where cattle still graze; where coyotes howl, and the lone wolf bays; where bear delight in multitudinous berries or ravage the honeycombs of the wild bee; where deer step dainty-footed and shy, less often seen than the fresh prints of their cloven hoofs in the mud by the creek side; where rattlesnakes and ground owls and gophers lead their lives—whether of communalism, or of bickering, observers are not yet certain; the camp of the watching naturalists is divided.

Into this wild country we rolled from the kaleidoscopic town of Calgary, where civilization has come so quickly upon paganism that, despite granite houses and concrete side walks, the air of a frontier town still clings to it, and the sight-seer in his motor car running into the environs may see a cow-man in sheepskin chaps and hear him "ki-yi-ing," or may encounter the descendants of the older inhabitants, riding lean ponies, looking broken and dirty, or clean and wild, according as to how they have taken the sudden smack of change.

The new day coming on the benchlands of Alberta seemed wistful, or pathetic. It was a young Canadian poet who found the spring so, and commented:

> The old, eternal Spring again
> Comes back the sad, eternal way.

It was light enough at Cochrane just to see the place as a wan arrangement of grey tones, the grass showing a suspicion of green, more imagined than visible. Cochrane, in that early light, looked more like a mirage than a "place." Its scattered handful of frame houses, hotels, livery stables, and the rolling bush-dotted hills enfolding it, all wet with dew, seemed like a faint-colored picture in a book seen through the tissue paper originally inserted to protect the page. The train stopped, and slid out again immediately with the advancing morning. But the day was far speedier. A creek, with which we kept erratic company for some miles now, was laughing and glowing, showing rich, subdued purples and blues. The tufts of sage brush assumed their own hue of green. The tree-stems by the creek banks and in the hollows glowed on their eastern sides more as if the morning drew a golden aura out of them than as if the sun was lighting them.

At Morley it was not bright enough to take a snapshot photograph while the train stopped, paused a minute, slid out again; but the view there was photographed mentally—a strip of platform with a frame house on it; the name "Morley" painted on the gable; the station agent on the platform; a section gang standing by the track side, beside their pump car, waiting for the train to pass on and give them the track. They were armed with picks and shovels, and wore the disgusted look of people going forth, in clothes not yet warmed comfortably, to manual labor. A member of the Force, a young man in a red coat, striped blue trousers, jack boots, regulation cap, with a carbine on his arm, spurred and smart as a dragoon, stood upon the platform. On the other side of the track a large canvas tent was pitched in a green meadow, with other policemen around it, moving here, there, about a fire, the smoke of which rose ne and thick, now hiding them, now revealing them—young men in military trousers and boots, flannel-shirt sleeves rolled up, braces looped about their hips in the manner of cavalrymen or grooms at work all the world over. They were camped in the broad end of a triangular tree-surrounded wedge of meadows. In the far corner several Indian tipis showed, with their blackened tops and protruding poles, some in the grass, some peeping between the trees. From the tipis rose up columns of smoke, grey smoke; for it was still early, and though the higher firs showed thin golden spires above their lower kindred, the deeps of the wood and the wood-whelmed meadow still held some of the uncertainty of night, like sleep heavy in the eyes of a new-wakened sluggard.

On we went, anu I looked out to behold again the great gateway of the mountains. There were the rolling hills, the dingles, the twisting and leaping streams. Long scarfs of mist swept athwart the mountains, hiding the summits. I looked at the mists, and wished they would dissolve before the day that had followed the train from Calgary, leapt upon it suddenly, rushed ahead, and would even now be stepping into the Pacific away beyond this balsam-scented province of ridges and valleys into which we were entering.

Then a brightness overhead, as of a flashing mirror, very high, made me look up, look deliberately up, as one looks for a soaring lark rather than for a crest of mountains.

"Look!" I cried.

"Oh!" said my fellow traveller, "Look!" and then was silent.

The mists did not hide the peaks. They were coiled merely along the beginning of the mountains; and high overhead, in dizzy space, as if hanging in that glittering blue cavity in which all the worlds tumble, was the ridge of the Rockies. The train dwindled to nothing—was like an ant in long grass. There, high, ever so high, quiet, stern, august, were the Rockies, hanging in space, and glittering as a chunk of galena, held in the hand, glitters in the sun. But that was like a tremendous wall of galena, a precipice of it. It was as if these clouds that coiled before us had been solidified in their higher parts, and had then been painted upon to represent the scene.

Memory had not exaggerated; I had under-rated, foolishly made sceptical of the rightness of the gift of God. The Rocky Mountains at dawn do not soar; they hang across the sky, glittering out at the plains. It is easy to understand how at this hour (even to-day when the white man is "rubber-necking" around) some old Indian may be seen to step out of his tipi and, drawing erect, hold up his two palms, raising his head, in salutation to the sun as once again it lights up the miracle of the world.—By Frederick Niven, author of "Hands Up."

TOWN CHANGED NAME

Benefactor of Old Quebec Municipality Honored After Years

To travellers between Montreal and Levis, Stanfold has been for half a century a well known point on the Grand Trunk railway, being almost midway between Quebec and Richmond. Clustering around the station there grew up a thriving community of nearly 3,000 people. But while the station has been called Stanfold since the line was built, and the Post Office has also been known as Stanfold, the township took the name of Princeville, being incorporated in the list of municipalities under that title and transacting all its business under that guise. One of the first settlers in the district bore the name of Prince and by his donations of land for public purposes and other acts, did much towards the upbuilding of the township. When incorporation was sought it was decided to honor this benefactor and the municipality took the name of Princeville, although the postal and railway address was Stanfold, but in accordance with the wishes of the people in the community, the railway authorities decided to change the name of the station to Princeville.

Bearded or Shaven Face

We need not go so far back as the 18th century to find Englishmen who held that shaving was "agen God and Nature." In the 19th, James Ward, Royal Academy, in a "Defense of the beard," set forth 18 reasons for retaining it, mainly Scriptural reinforced by artistic considerations. "What would a Jupiter be without a beard? Who would countenance the idea of a shaved Christ?" As late as 1860 Theologos published a treatise entitled "Shaving; a breach of the Sabbath and a hindrance to the spread of the Gospel." One of his points was that Providence had manifestly designed the beard as a protection for the throat and chest. But what about the woman's throat?

Nowhere was there more prejudice centuries ago against beards than at Inns of the Court. The "black books" of the Inns tell us how offenders were fined for wearing beards, and sometimes were even compulsorily shaved by order of court. And the prejudice against the bearded barrister still lingers. Vice-Chancellor Bacon carried his dislike to bearded or moustached barristers so far that he always refused to hear them. Even now there are very few leading counsel with beards, and I can remember only one unshaved barrister of the greatest eminence, the late Judah Philip Benjamin, Queen's counsel—Silver-tongued Benjamin, who wore a moustache and a goatee.—London Chronicle.

Lightning Struck 42 People

A single stroke of lightning in the Belgian Congo killed nine men a woman and severely injured 32 other persons, two of whom died later.

Improved Coal Oil Lamp

An essential feature of the new kerosene vapor lamps adopted by the United States lighthouse service is a carbureter for vaporizing the oil before it reaches the burner.

Artificial Wood

Sawdust and chloride of magnesium are used in Germany to form an extremely hard artificial wood.

New Head of Forest Laboratories

Mr. John S. Bates recently appointed Superintendent of the Dominion Forest Products Laboratories in connection with McGill University, was born at Woodstock, Ont., and is a graduate of Acadia University in arts and science. After leaving Acadia he went to Columbia University, New York, and graduated in chemical engineering, specialising in pulp and paper. He made a study of the utilization of Southern pine waste while at Columbia, and after the conclusion of a brilliant course there had practical experience with several big paper and chemical companies.

Strength of Hickory

Hickory is the strongest Canadian wood. When properly seasoned a hickory column will support a weight of twelve tons per square inch cross section, which is considerably more than what could be borne by a pillar of cast iron or steel of the same length and weight.

Life of Wire

A telegraph wire in the open country lasts four times as long as one in a city. [illegible]

WATCH COST OF MILK

Dairy Farmer Should Know Each Cow's Production

The manufacturer perhaps more than the retailer looks closely after the matter of cost knowing that his principal hope of making a good profit lies in attaining economy in the actual production of the article, for no profit can be expected if the selling price is below the cost price. Is not the dairy farmer a manufacturer? So it would seem to be wisdom to look the more closely after cost especially as he does not expect the selling price of milk to soar. Assuming that the farm is in good condition and carefully handled, what does milk cost per hundred pounds? That can be ascertained only by keeping records of each individual cow. Cows may appear to be good heavy producers, but their value as economical producers can only be determined when their yield of milk and fat is checked up by the scales and test. Of what use is it when the factory pays 95 cents per 100 pounds to keep cows whose milk costs $1.25 per 100 pounds just for feed alone? This is what often happens till cow testing is taken up. It is quite possible to have one dollar's worth of feed return two dollars' worth of milk through good cows, that is cows selected by the test. This is both economical and profitable milk production. The average cow is not an economical producer because she has not been selected, but, like Topsy, "just growed." A dairy farmer will prove his business ability as a manufacturer when the herd is composed of economical producers. Make each cow pay a good profit.

TOOTHACHE A BLESSING

To endeavor to console a person suffering from the torments of toothache by assuring him that it is really a blessing in disguise might result in a demonstration of a not particularly amiable character. Nevertheless, scientists assure us that it is so. In many cases the only thing that prevents a general poisoning of the system is the decaying of the teeth, sooner or later leaving the nerves exposed. Then the teeth begin to ache, and the pain serves as a timely warning that there is trouble on foot. The dentist is visited in haste, and either the tooth is pulled out or the decay is removed. Thus toothache, a blessing very much in disguise, warns us in time to prevent serious illness.

Doctors are continually pointing out that if the teeth are not looked after properly germs collect in them and on the gums, and there are statistics available showing that quite a large percentage of sufferers from blood-poisoning and other troubles became ill in the first place through harmful microbes in the mouth.

Not only toothache, however, but any form of pain, serves a highly useful purpose. An aching head is often a signal that we need more rest, recreation, and sleep; a pain in the stomach is Nature's way of calling attention to the fact that we have been eating or drinking unwisely. Most of us, undoubtedly, would have died long before our time were it not for these timely warnings which Nature gives now and then in the shape of little aches and pains in various parts of the body.

The Mysterious Egg

The hen's egg, although weighing but 2 to 2½ ounces, is a very mysterious little thing. Whilst the sex of an egg before the latter has been incubated, cannot be ascertained, it is quite simple, on the other hand, to discover the quality of the contents before breaking the egg.

If the egg rattles when gently shaken it may be considered a stale one, more or less, in which the contents have become decomposed. The best method for a wife to adopt to ascertain the freshness of purchased eggs is the salt test. Dissolve six ounces of ordinary salt in a tumbler of water and place the egg therein. If a genuine new laid article, the egg will sink just below the surface. After seven days it will float, and the more it protrudes from the surface of the water the older the egg.

An egg that is even good only in parts will, singularly enough, lose much of its staleness during its swim

Vibrating Safety-razor

A safety razor in which the blade and frames are vibrated rapidly from side to side by an electric motor taking current from an incandescent light socket has been patented.

Will Burn Nine Years.

In a Long Island factory there recently was made a candle for religious purposes, which, if burned continuously, would last for about nine years.

If it were not for your memory you would be unable to forget.

A man who drinks from the cup of sorrow has no siphon on the side.

GRAVEST PERILS OF MOTORDROME RIDERS

Cyclists on the Saucer Track Forced to Undergo Tremendous Neck and Heart Strain

Centrifugal force is one of the most important natural laws governing high-speed saucer track racing. This force, which prevents water from spilling out of a pail when the latter is rapidly revolved, also holds the speeding motorcycles on the steep-inclined track. The following rather astonishing facts reveal perhaps the gravest peril which besets motordrome riders—the stress exerted on body and machine through the operation of this law of centrifugal force.

Pressure on Saucer Track

Taking as a basis the four lap, steeply-banked saucer, the centrifugal force which holds the rider down on his machine, and maintains the latter on the track, is really unbelievable. Traveling at an 80-mile clip, the rider is held down on his machine with a force equivalent to approximately three times his normal weight. In other words, a 150-pound rider would in effect weigh 450 pounds. His head would weigh just three times as much as when walking around on terra firma, and in the long-distance contests all the riders will attest to the frightful neck strain from supporting the head. It is possible to pad the top of the tank and recline the body, distributing some of the weight. In designing and constructing man, however, Nature took into consideration no such strains on the internal organism.

When riding as above, the heart is forced sideways, and the strain on its supporting muscles is three times as great as normal. The stomach, lungs, brain, and other important internal organs suffer from this terrific side thrust.

Undoubtedly it is this terrible strain on the vital organs which produces nausea and dizziness so common among motordrome riders. In all probability many a fatal swerve has resulted from a sudden fainting of a body, unable to longer bear the strain. In the long-distance contests, which are becoming so popular, the punishment is frightful.

Traveling at 85 miles an hour, the weight of the body becomes approximately 3.4 times as great as normal, and at 90 miles the figure increases to 3.7 times.

The Weight on the Tires

These same figures apply to the machine, and will give some idea of the terrific stress exerted on the tires. With a 150-pound rider and a 200-pound machine traveling 80 miles an hour, the weight due to centrifugal force imposed on the tires is equivalent to about 1,050 pounds. This disregards the stresses induced by sudden swerves and turns, which are really beyond anything but conjecture. At 85 miles an hour, the weight on the tires of the outfit just mentioned would be almost 1,200 pounds and at 90 miles 1,300 pounds. These figures show how the weight increases with a slight increase in speed. A tire may hold at a certain figure, but be unable to withstand more than a slight increase in speed.

The air pressure due to the terrific speed is also very astonishing. At as 80-mile clip, the force exerted on the face alone is equivalent to about 20 pounds. Imagine hanging your head over the edge of the bed, supporting a 20-pound weight.

Fat Men's Petition

The French Society of Fat Persons has addressed to the Prefect of Police a remarkable petition, in which is set forth that the doors of motor buses and trains, and also those on the underground, are constructed solely with a view to the requirements of thin people, and that stout men have the greatest trouble in getting through them. The petitioners demand that these doors should be enlarged, adding that fat people are at least as good electors and citizens as thin ones.

Increase Its Usefulness

To increase the usefulness of refrigerators there have been invented shelves made of tubing to catch and circulate the water flowing from the melting ice.

Electric Glass Furnace

In France there has been invented an electric furnace in which all the operations of making and refining glass are carried on continuously with the same source of heat.

A Modern Ambulance

Swiss railways use an ambulance car completely equipped with electrical appliances that are supplied with current by a generator mounted on one axle.

Paper overshoes have been patented by their New York inventor.

How a busy man does enjoy setting two chornic bores to boring each other. [illegible]

LUCKY CHARMS FROM EVERY AGE

Historical Medical Museum in London Has Remarkable Collection

The modern woman who delights to jingle a bunch of miscellaneous charms at her wrist and who is on the lookout for fresh ideas will learn with satisfaction of a collection which includes every form of luck charm the world has known. This collection illustrates how little human nature has really changed. The collection is included in the Historical Medical Museum, founded by Henry S. Wellcome, and comprises Roman, Egyptian, Arabic, African, Chinese, Japanese and European pieces, ancient and moder.

The Egyptian charms include several small examples of that most famous and potent of all, the "Ankh," or key of life, which in Egyptian pictures is often seen in the hands of divine personages. But by far the commonest is that known as the "uatchat." To ward off the prevalent ophthalmia and other eye affections the ancient Egyptians used to trace on the lower eyelid a magical scroll-shaped pattern with powdered antimony, and the model of an eye so decorated (uatchat), was also worn as a charm.

There are also found ear-shaped charms against deafness, human teeth carved like Sphinxes. Another very rare figure represents a man holding his hand to his face as if in pain. It is believed that this charm is the only one of its kind in existence.

Roman Collection

The Roman collection dates back to about the time of Christ. The exhibits are made of copper bronze and are of the usual shapes. A very interesting figure, concerning the nature of which little is known, represents a small horse, while another shows a shark's tooth embedded in a clasp of metal. These are rather bigger and more clumsy than the Egyptian ones and much less desirable as ornaments.

Besides the Roman exhibits are early and late pieces from West and Central Africa, the Congo and Arabia. Among these is a necklace labelled "Kubil," or "Kill Sixty," which was no doubt worn by a warrior. There are also several wood crocodiles with flat, smooth backs. It is said that these were used by doctors when puzzling out a difficult case. The doctor rubbed the crocodile's back and the animal told him what was wrong.

Remedies For Many Ills

The first piece is a small stone, like a human foot, carried about by a Frenchman who believed that i cured his gout and who parted with it very reluctantly. In the next case is a piece of amber shaped like a heart and used to ward off rheumatism until three years ago. A "rheumatism potato" from Norfolk lies beside it.

Near these are two cards each bearing a pair of mole's feet, which in Norfolk are still carried about as a toothache cure.

Other curious items of the same character are a small bone from the ankle used to ward off cramp by the East country people, a piece of vervain root, which is supposed to be a protection against witchcraft and is still in request in country districts for this purpose; a roll of eelskin obtained from a Suffolk woman, who carried it to prevent cramp; and a fossil sea urchin from a cottage which it had protected against the devil for many years.

The sheep's heart stuck full of pins

Split Pea Soup

Put one cup of split peas into saucepan with three pints of cold water. Heat slowly. When boiling point has been reached draw away from hot fire and allow to simmer for one hour. Add one even teaspoon of salt, one tablespoon of minced onion, two tablespoons of minced carrots or celery. Boil slowly one hour longer. Press all through coarse sieve. Serve hot with squares of fried bread.

Celery Cream Soup

Use all the tops and leaves and stalks of coarse celery. Wash and put into granite stewpan with just enough water to cover. If a slice of onion is at hand add it. Boil until tender. Put in colander and mash with potato masher. To every cup of the celery stock add two cups of milk, a little butter and half a teaspoon of cornstarch. Boil in double boiler for ten minutes. Serve with cheese toast.

Borax For the Mouth

Used in water as a daily gargle, borax keeps the throat healthy. Used in water for cleansing the teeth, it "disinfects" them and prevents their decaying.

Radishes and watercress are purifying in their effect, and as they are cheap they should be served very often.

Adam had his faults, but he was ever sued for breach of promise.

A man is seldom worth as much or as little as people think he is.

COWAN'S MAPLE BUDS
MAPLE BUDS
COWAN'S

Be Sure They're Cowan's

COWANS SOLID CHOCOLATE MAPLE BUDS

People who insist on getting the genuine Cowan's Maple Buds do so because they believe that no others are quite so good-----and they have, very probably, learned by experience.

277

Being patient is a condition greatly prized—by others than the patient one.

An impossibility—to deprive a hobo of his wealth.

A new hat is to a woman what a new dog is to a man.

In this war against rats the cat is only a high private.

There are men who never admit failure, though they do sometimes confess that they made a wrong guess as to their ability.

The way to win is simple and straight. All you have to do is to beat everybody else.

Not being able to mind one's own business might possibly argue nonpossession.

Having what we desire doesn't insure desiring what we have.

Don't build air castles until you are certain that you have a tenant for them.

It is easy enough to have all the virtues of the saints and also the beauties of the pagan gods if you have money enough to pay for them.

Any man who would jilt a girl doesn't deserve to be jilted by her successor.

When a man is in love all of the rules are suspended.

We know a lot of men who would be in the steenth heaven of delight if they could be judged and awarded according to their intentions and ambitions.

SIRES AND SONS.

John D. Rockefeller, Sr., has an automatic time safe in his Pocantico Hills home.

Albert Richards, a New York chemist, badly burned in an explosion, must wear a mask for the rest of his life.

H. H. Alkeman of St. Louis, his second wife being deceased, recently married the woman he divorced seven years ago.

The oldest peer in the house of lords is the Duke of Grafton, who just recently entered his ninety-fourth year. The Earl of Courtown comes next at ninety-one, while Lord Armistead will be ninety this year.

Nelson O'Shaughnessy was born in New York Feb. 12, 1876. He graduated from Georgetown college in 1892 and took his A. B. degree at Oxford, England, 1899. Studied international law at Inner Temple, London, 1899-1901, and foreign languages in various countries in Europe.

Arthur Lamb, who, having successfully passed the entrance examinations, will enter Harvard university in October, is but fourteen years old. He is one of the most accomplished and youngest pipe organists in the country. Last year he served as assistant organist at Old St. Paul's church, Boston.

Current Comment.

Well, the canal is open, anyhow.—New York World.

Meanwhile our own hosts go merrily on, piling up forces for the great battle in November.—Milwaukee Journal.

The dictograph is another of those things that make up in reputation what they lack in character.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

It must be admitted that in its brief career as a mediation center Niagara Falls has made as good a practical record as The Hague.—Washington Star.

If some genius can invent a noiseless device that will take the place of the automatic riveter he will not only deserve the thanks of mankind, but he will get them.—Indianapolis News.

COMING

PROF. PEMBER, of the well Hair Goods Store, Toronto, will be in Belleville, at the Quinte Hotel, on Friday, Oct. 23, 1914, with the finest display of Hair Goods on the American Continent. For Ladies—our Transformations, Pompadours, Bangs, Waves, Switches, etc., are perfection, made from the finest of European Hair.

FOR BALD MEN.

The Pember Light Weight ventilated Toupee or Wig is the most natural substitute for your own hair that has ever been produced. If you have any scalp troubles call and see Prof. Pember, who will give you advice free of charge.

REMEMBER THE DATE.

QUINTE HOTEL,
FRIDAY, OCT. 23, 1914

Mrs Newlywed says—
"I can't imagine how you manage to be dressed by the time your husband comes home on a wash day."

Mrs Wise Neighbour says—
"I use an Eddy Globe Washboard and an Eddy Indurated Fibreware Tub, which keeps the water hot for a long time. No fear of rust. But be sure they are Eddy's.

A Page Of Interest To Women

A GREEN GROSGRAIN

A lovely model of the basque variety is of green grosgrain made on extremely plain lines and trimmed with pink roses. The wrap is of Kaiser blue moire chiffon velvet trimmed with seal.

Cooking the Corn.

Cut the corn from the cob with a sharp, thin bladed knife. Pack well in glass jar or tin can; add hot water and a level teaspoonful of salt to the quart or No. 3 can. Place rubber and glass jar top in place, not tight. If using tin, solder cap in place and fill vent hole or seal completely. Process the corn from 180 to 240 minutes in the homemade or hot water commercial bath outfits; for one and one-half hours in the water seal outfits; for one hour when using from five to ten pounds of steam pressure, with the steam pressure canning devices and forty minutes when using the aluminium steam pressure cooker outfit. After processing remove the jars, tighten covers, invert to test the joints and cool.

If using tin inspect the soldered end caps for pinhole leaks. Repair all leaks, allow to stand for twenty-four hours. If cans are still bulging at ends at the end of this time one of two things is true—the pack is too full, or some live spores are still left in the can. If the latter replace in sterilizer and process the second time from thirty minutes to one hour.

Canning Sweet Corn on the Cob,

Blanch in boiling water five to ten minutes, according to ripeness, size and freshness; plunge quickly in cold water. Pack, alternating butts and tips; add just a little boiling water and one level teaspoonful of salt to each quart. Place rubber and top and partially tighten. (Cap and tip tins.) Process 180 to 240 minutes in hot water bath; one and one-half hours water seal outfit; one hour under five or more pounds of steam; forty minutes in aluminium pressure cooker. Remove jars, tighten covers, invert and cool. (Heat up for table use in steamer, not in water. If corn seems flat or waterlogged, it has been overcooked or allowed to stand in too much water.)

Use one or two quart glass jars, if not needed for other products. Quart jars will hold two ears; two quart jars will hold from three to five ears, according to size of ear. Do not can large ears. Half gallon or gallon tin cans with large openings should be used in the canning of ear corn when idle glass jars are not available. Gallon tin cans will hold from six to twelve ears. They should be graded to uniform size.

In high altitudes, 4,000 feet and over, it will be necessary to increase the time requirements in the canning of sweet corn about 25 per cent, if water boils at about 202 degrees F. and even less.

---

Both Mad.

"He is mad as a hatter."
"What about?"
"He sued him."
"Who sued him?"
"The hatter."

Flippant Flings.

The real world's series started this year before the end of the baseball pennant race.—Binghamton Press.

Moreover, if we were in Mr. Carnegie's place we would sue The Hague for obtaining money under false pretenses.—Galveston News.

The National Housewives' league is going to keep a sharp eye on prices and mobilize to drive down any jump. Even the bread will be afraid to rise.—New York Sun.

The Macon Telegraph tells a story of lightning killing a Georgia mule. The Georgia mule must have become a mollycoddle. A Texas mule would resent a lightning stroke by trying to kick a lung out of the sky.—Houston Post.

---

Couldn't Interfere Then.

Helen—And you say he kissed you?

Grace—Yes, but I couldn't really help it. He did it when I couldn't help myself.

Helen—How is that?

Grace—I was putting my hat on!

To Run Up a Bill.

"The doctor prescribed a trip to Europe for him."

"But he can't afford it."

"No; if he could the doctor would have kept him at home."

For the Children

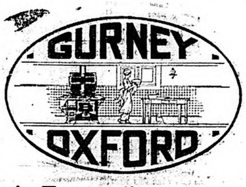
Master John R. Fell, Jr., Is Quite a Happy Lad.

© by American Press Association.

Master John R. Fell, Jr., during the summer season is a resident of Newport, the very fashionable resort of America's richest folks. In winter he lives in New York city, so he sees society in both seasons. That is, John R., Jr., might see it if he chose to bother about it, which he does not. He is too young and full of the carelessness of youth to bother about anything that isn't fun. John is a real boy of the American kind, who is mainly interested in things common to boys of his years. For instance, John met a photographer down at Newport, and he wasn't a bit uppish. He posed gleefully for the man with the camera and held his dog Buster by the tail, so that the little animal could be in the picture. Unfortunately the column of the paper is not wide enough to show Buster, but in the photograph he may be seen, his tail firmly grasped in John's right fist. John is a real boy—no mistake about that.



An Extraordinary Stove for Three Reasons

APART from its splendid workmanship and material—there are three points to a Gurney-Oxford that make it an extraordinary stove. The first is a point in fuel economy.

The fire rests on specially designed grates. The air gets at the fire and the fire burns the air. The fire gets lots to breathe. The coal burns with a snap—gives off abundance of heat and leaves no wasteful clinkers.

The second is a point in economy and comfort. The Gurney-Oxford Economizer (not to be had on any other stove) is a simple handle that regulates the fire. When the fire is not in use, turn the handle to notch No. 6 and it goes down to a spark but never goes out. Turn to notch No. 1 and almost immediately the fire is bright and hot again.

The third point is one of vital importance, because it means "results." Running from the fire box to the oven, and over and around it, is a system of divided flues. The Gurney-Oxford oven is as hot at the front as at the back. Everything entrusted to the Gurney-Oxford oven is properly, thoroughly cooked—and this point, perhaps more than any other, has made the Gurney-Oxford famous.

We not only want you to read of these features—we want to show you the stove itself and explain its simplicity, its construction, its advantages. It is its own best advertisement. We are anxious that you should see it.

GURNEY-OXFORD

JOHN LEWIS CO. LIMITED

GS

For the Children

Marie Danaher, Prize Baby of Brooklyn.

© 1914, by American Press Association.

There was a great parade of babies in the borough of Brooklyn, New York city, a short time ago. It all came about through the advent of baby week, which was celebrated throughout the city. The parade was made in automobiles, and hundreds of little folks were in line, accompanied by their mothers and admirers. The president of the borough and other high officials reviewed the parade, together with thousands of people who are interested in the welfare of children. The winner of the prize given for the best baby in Brooklyn was little Miss Marie Danaher. Marie is twenty-seven months old, and she won with a percentage of 98.07. That means that she come pretty near being a perfect baby—that is, so far as health is concerned.

Beheadings.

Whole, I am something you travel in. Behead me and you carry an umbrella to avoid me.

Whole, I am a vessel that sails the sea. Behead me and I am a part of you.

Whole, I am a useful piece of furniture. Behead me and I am found on the head.

Whole, I am a worthless person. Behead me and I am a place to live in outdoors.

Whole, I am a mark left from a wound. Behead me and I am a vehicle.

Whole, I am a monster fish. Behead me and I am well and robust.

Whole, I am a bright color. Behead me and I am a writing fluid.

Whole, I am a wintry element. Behead me and I am the present time.

Whole, I am something that grows. Behead me and I am not higher.

Answers.—Train, ship, chair, scamp, scar, whale, pink, snow, flower.

THE TRAVELER'S VEIL.

Many Styles Shown For the Vacationist Who Likes to Be Neat.

Veils are well nigh indispensable to the traveler, and the wise woman has a fresh veil in her dressing bag to supplement the one she is wearing. The new fine veilings might have been specially designed for the traveler, so admirably do they suit her purpose. They keep her neat, preserve the complexion and hair from dust and grime yet do not unduly obstruct the sight.

These fine veilings are sometimes woven with a single tiny lace motif at one side, and very pretty this looks when the veil is adroitly arranged over the face.

Very attractive veils for motoring of chiffon, with squares or circles of shadow lace set in to cover the face, are sold in the shops at varying prices. These are infinitely more comfortable than the all chiffon veil, which clings uncomfortably to the face in warm weather, and they are infinitely more useful than an all lace veil for country drives, when the lace veil is hardly adequate in case of wind or dust.

HEADGEAR FOR KIDDIES.

Tennis Luncheon.

An appropriate luncheon can be given as a sequel or introduction to a tennis match. One of the most attractive was given around a table decorated in this way:

In the center of the table there was an oblong of green felt—a tennis lawn, of course. This was properly marked off with white chalk, and across the center was drawn a little net. Four small dolls dressed in white flannel were fastened to the green, and in their hands were tiny tennis rackets. To be sure, their pose was rather stolid for tennis players, but they were effective nevertheless.

The color scheme of the luncheon was green and white—with a cream of spinach puree, olives and celery, boiled halibut with white sauce and new potatoes with parsley, chicken breasts in aspic, creamed asparagus, pepper salad with cream cheese balls and wafers and tennis balls of ice cream. Of course the same balls when they are served at Christmas are dubbed snowballs, but they answered their purpose.

The place cards showed little water color sketches of tennis playing, and the favors were bunches of white roses and ferns.

Public Manners.

The actions of some women in public conveyances and in public places at times invite severe criticism. Some women push and shove others in a way that suggests a state of savagery. It is a common habit of women deliberately to take another's place in line. The rule of "first come, first served" is ignored by the thoughtless majority.

Do not wrangle over paying the fare of a woman companion. Either pay it or let her pay it and then stop talking about the thing.

Women thus make themselves conspicuous in a foolish way, men laughing in a superior scorn at the weak, vacillating feminine mind. Decide to correct this error.

The action of a woman in public is the best test of her manners. After all, the behavior when there is no one looking is a fine criterion by which an individual should be rated. So be careful in public.

Courtesy For Sisters.

A large, round table at a certain famous summer hotel accommodated a family the parents of which say they never intend to grow old. Handsome themselves, they were surrounded by four beautiful children, two sons and two daughters. The mother remarked with pride that each boy had a sister to care for until he or she married.

The effect of the arrangement was plainly evident to those who noted the attention the girls received. The boys had been taught to place their sisters' chairs at the table, to help them with their wraps, to see that they had all the necessary attention at the informal hotel parties—in short, to do all those pretty things that many boys never dream of doing until they have met the "one girl," who probably is some one else's sister.

[illegible] not wait for opportunity to knock at his door. He meets it half a mile down the road.

If the man who goes around complaining that his friends do not sympathize with him would honestly examine his own mind he might be forced to the conclusion that it is a mighty good thing for them that they don't.

Some people cannot see far because the disk of the dollar is so close to their eyes that it shuts off their view.

The Joy of It.

You bet I'd hate to like to work
Like some folks seem to do
Who rush at every job and feel
Put out when they are through!
Work in its place, I do not doubt,
Is possibly all right,
But I can get along, I find,
Without an awful sight.

The Beauty of "Sunlight"

is that it dispels the shadow that once hung over wash day. Your work is done in half the time with half the effort.

Your finest linens, your fleeciest blankets, your daintiest whitewear—all call for Sunlight Soap. The purest of materials, the most careful manufacture and a $5,000 guarantee of purity make this the soap that you should always use.

Sunlight Soap At all grocers 5c.

137

Russia's very size may be a factor in making her mobilization a slow process. She has a population of 170,000,000 scattered over an area three times as large as that of Canada, or the United States. The Russian Empire has 45,000 miles of railway, but this mileage is insufficient to make for speedy mobilization. Russia undoubtedly can put three times the number of men into the field that Germany can, but it will take much longer to get her forces at the front than it has taken Germany. Russia's full force will probably not be felt for another month or two.

New York Evening Post: "When the Germans captured Brussels, there was much question as to what would become of the $79,900,000 gold and silver coin in the Bank of Belgium. It was then declared to have been removed to Antwerp. That leaves the question open, what is being done with the treasury now? It may possibly already have been shipped to London. One is reminded of the arrival of the French army at Amsterdam in 1795. They made for the famous gold reserve of the Bank of the Netherlands; but the vaults were empty. No one has ever discovered what became of their contents."

Love doesn't thrive on absent treatment.

When you see a spinster making a fuss over a widower's children it's a sign that if she doesn't soon acquire the right to correct them it won't be her fault.

Too much learning is also a dangerous thing.

PERRIN'S
BISCUITS

ARROWROOT, MALTO CREAM SANDWICH, OPERA FINGERS, WATER ICE WAFERS, LEMON NECTAR

These and other Perrin's Sweet Biscuits are the very acme of deliciousness. We put them in our

SPECIAL "SAMPLER" PACKAGE

so that you can sample them readily. We will send this delightful assortment of our fancy biscuits to you for 10 cents in coin or stamps and your grocer's name. Some of them may be entirely new to you—you will probably like them all.

Write for the sampler package to-day.

D. S. Perrin & Company
LIMITED
LONDON - CANADA

No trouble with ashes. Flanges at each end of firebox guide all ashes direct into ashpan.

McClary's Pandora Range has extra large ashpan, holding over a day's accumulation. Allow the McClary dealer to demonstrate.

"Made in Canada"

Sold by The Smith Hardware Co.

BELLEVILLE BUSINESS DIRECTORY

The Professional Fraternity of our city will find an advertisement under this head an exceptionally advantageous investment, the returns hitherto obtained making the extremely moderate rates but normal. By consulting our price list in another column, or calling at The Intelligencer business office, full information may be obtained.

LEGAL.

WILLS & WRIGHT

Barristers, Solicitors, Notaries Public, etc. Office: 15 Campbell Street, Belleville. Money to loan at lowest rates.

J. FRANKLIN WILLS, K.C.
MALCOLM WRIGHT.

NORTHRUP & PONTON

Barristers, Solicitors, Notaries Public, Commissioners. Offices: North Bridge Street. Solicitors for the Merchants Bank of Canada and the Bank of Montreal. Money to loan on mortgages.

W. B. NORTHRUP, K.C., M.P.
W. N. PONTON K.C.
R. D. PONTON.

CLUTE & SHOREY

Barristers, Solicitors, Notaries, etc. Office: North side of Campbell Street, Belleville. Solicitors for the Dominion Bank. Money to loan on mortgages on easy terms

A. K. CLUTE, LL.B.
W. D. M. SHOREY.

PORTER & CARNEW

Barristers and Notaries Public, etc. Office: Robertson Block, East Front St., Belleville, Ont.

E. GUSS PORTER, K.C., M.P.
WM. CARNEW.

Solicitors for Union Bank.

W. C. MIKEL, B.C.L., K.C.

Barristers, &c., 23 Bridge St., over G.N.W. Telegraph office.
Solicitor for Molsons Bank.
Phone 77.

MUSICAL.

Mrs. Wilmot
VOCAL INSTRUCTOR

Tone Production a speciality. Pupils conscientiously trained for Concert Work and Church Positions. Voices tested free of charge.

"THE STUDIO,"
BRIDGE ST.

S16,dtf

HIGGS Miss Joy.
Violin Instruction.
Tēms Moderate
"THE STUDIO," Bridge

WHEATLEY Professor.
Piano. Theory.
Vocal.
Modern Methods. Best Results
"THE "STUDIO." Tel. 594

MEDICAL.

JOHN J. FARLEY, M.D., C.M.,
M.R.C.S., England.

Office and Residence: Corner of Bridge and George Streets; three streets east of the Post Office.

DR. J. CHANT

Specialist in Diseases of Eye, Ear, Nose and Throat, and Fitting of Glasses:
Office: Corner Queen and John Streets.
Phone 715.

MONEY.

Private money to loan on mortgages on farms and other real estate, at lowest rate of interest, on terms to suit borrowers.
Apply to

S. MASSON
Barrister, etc.
Over Wallbridge & Clarke's, Bridge St., Belleville.

MINING

BELLEVILLE ASSAY OFFICE

Ores and minerals of all kinds tested and assayed. Samples sent by mail or express will receive prompt attention. All results guaranteed. Office and Laboratory, 185 Pinnacle St., opposite market. Telephone 386.

INSURANCE.

Liverpool & London & Globe Ins. Co.; North British & Mercantile Ins. Co.; Sun Fire; Waterloo Mutual; Lloyd's Plate Glass; Dominion of Canada Guarantee and Accident Insurance Co., and other companies.

Farm and City property insured in first class and reliable companies and at lowest current rates. Land valuator and agent for selling, purchasing, or renting property. Rents collected.

W. H. HUDSON

Office: No. 17 Campbell St. Belleville. Phone 161.

FARM INSURANCE

I have made arrangements with English Companies to insure Farm Dwellings and Barns and contents at from 75c. to $1.00 per $100.
Call and see me before renewing your insurance.

CHANCEY ASHLEY

Opposite Post Office. Belleville, Ont.

THOS. STEWART

Bridge Street, Belleville.
Fire, Accident and Plate Glass Insurance effected in the oldest and most reliable companies.
REAL ESTATE AGENT.
Stocks and bonds bought and sold.

R. H. KETCHESON

Agent for
Queen Fire Insurance Co.; York Fire Insurance Co.; Inter-State Live Stock Insurance.
Canadian Railway Accident Insurance Co.

ROBERT BOGLE

MERCANTILE AGENCY.
Insurance, Real Estate, Loans Negotiated, Accountant, Auditor, Estates Managed.
Office: 23 Bridge Street.

LAUNDRY.

QUINTE LAUNDRY

Work done by the Quinte Laundry is guaranteed to be satisfactory in every way.
Shirts, Collars and Cuffs our specialty. Family work done by the dozen.
W. R. VALLANCE .. .. .. .. .. Manager
Phone 330

BUS, AUTO AND CABS.

ASELSTINE'S
BUS, CAB AND TRANSFER LINE.

Special cabs, broughams and carriages, all rubber tired; for weddings, private driving or funerals. The finest turnouts in town.

Office and stables, cor. Moira and Centre Streets. Tweed Stage in connection.
Phone 229.

ENGINEERING.

J. D. EVANS, C.E. & O.L.S.
J. W. EVANS, C.E. & M.E.

EVANS & EVANS

Civil and Mining Engineers,
and
Ontario Land Surveyors.
Belleville and Trenton
Belleville Office: 185 Pinnacle Street, opposite market. Telephone 356.

AUCTIONEER.

J. L. PALMER

We specialize on City sales.
Terms Reasonable
Belleville Box 182 Ontario

LICENSED AUCTIONEER.
for counties of Hastings, Prince Edward, Northumberland, Lennox and Addington.
Office: over Bell Telephone, opposite Post Office, Bridge St. Prompt attention.

"COLLIP"
FLORIST

Night Phone 175. Day Phone 206.
All kinds of Cut Flowers and Plants in Season.
Wedding and Funeral designs specialty, shipped to all parts.
Front Street.

Advertise in The Intelligencer.

What has become of the old timestatistician who used to figure out how far the wheat chop would reach into space if the grains were placed end to end?

WINGS FOR AEROPLANES

Linen the Best Material; Silk Lighter But Not so Durable

Although to the lay mind the suggestion that aeroplanes should be fitted with silk wings may seem an unnecessarily extravagant idea, there are certain advantages to be gained by such an innovation which would warrant the extra expense. Not that the latter would be very great. The cost of using silk on a modern biplane would not increase the expense by more than $100 per machine, while it is estimated that it would reduce the weight by about 20 pounds. Such a saving in weight, of course, is highly important, and when it is mentioned that from $5,000 to $6,000 is usually spent on a biplane, the item of cost seems in no way considerable.

In the opinion of experts there are certain objections to using silk for aeroplane wings. It is pointed out that while it is superior to linen, which is now used, in regard to strength, it does not stand exposure to sun and rain so well. Furthermore silk does not lend itself so well to dressing with tautening liquids, which is essential in order that the wings may not suffer unduly from the vagaries of the climate.

Various experiments have been made not only with silk, but with every kind of material in making aeroplane wings—catgut, cotton, transparent celluloid films (in the hope of invisibility), fine aluminium foil (for fireproofness), wooden slats, and feathers. None of them, however, equal linen, which when dressed with the tautening liquids seems impervious to everything except accidents.

The dressings, which consist of solutions of casein, are applied after the linen has been stretched over the framework. Three or four thin coats are applied, and the effect of the dressing is to pull the whole fabric together in every direction. When the coats are dry the linen rings like a drum to the flick of the finger, and affords a fairly smooth surface, which is sometimes further improved and rendered water-resisting by a coach-builders' flexible varnish. It is estimated that the dressing increases the strength of the linen by some five per cent.

HAND WASHING EXTRAORDINARY

Cleanliness Given More Credit Than Skill For Saving Lives

Most people attribute the immensely decreased rate of mortality in cases of severe surgical operations to the increased skill of the profession, to their greatly improved instruments, and the more skilful nursing which is obtained in these days. But the surgeon himself would tell you that it is almost all a matter of absolute cleanliness, the fact that nothing is left undone to insure absolute freedom from infection of any kind. This fact is emphasized by the extraordinary hand-washing regulations which are in force at the various hospitals. Everybody who is even remotely connected with an approaching operation is supposed to spend twenty minutes in the all-important process of washing his hands. For five minutes the surgeon washes his hands with soap and water, and then cleans his finger nails. When he has done this, he spends another five minutes doing it all over again. But this is but a preparation for a third and far more drastic ablution, for this time he must wash his hands in alcohol. Not content with this cleansing process, however, he must now put his hands through a process of sterilization by soaking them for at least five minutes in a wash of corrosive sublimate. By that time he may commence his duties, which mean life or death to some patient, with the satisfactory feeling that he has done his best to approach his task with clean hands.

An Aeroplane of 1899

Mr. Glenn Curtiss, famous aeronaut, made a successful flight on an aeroplane which was built years ago by Mr. S. P. Langley, the secretary of the Smithsonian Institution. The machine was brought from the institution for experiments, which completely vindicated Mr. Langley, who, it will be recalled, died while ridicule was being heaped upon him in connection with his attempts to fly.

Iceless Refrigerator

Iceless refrigerators for household use in which ammonia, circulated by electric motors, is used, have been invented which are said to be more economical than those requiring ice.

Photographs on Stone

Time defying photographs are made by a French scientist upon fine grained stone, first given a coating of enamel and baked at a high temperature after the photographs are printed.

People are unnecessarily active when they stir up trouble.

With the male milliners of Paris off women are mysteries to most men.

PAINTING UNDER THE SEA

Artist Uses Oil-soaked Paper and Waterproof Paint

What are undoubtedly the most unique pictures in the world were exhibited in a special salon in Chicago. These pictures were painted literally at the bottom of the sea by Mr. Z. H. Pritchard, an Irishman by birth. Mr. Pritchard learned the delights of deep-sea bathing and diving and the beauties of sea-life and vegetation which he noticed while remaining for a few seconds under water. He ultimately decided to devote himself to art and with this object in view devised an extraordinary set of apparatus in order to paint picture of the ocean's bed and the creatures which inhabit the water, while actually at the bottom of the sea. Sometimes he goes down in an ordinary diving suit, furnished with a pair of pearl diver's goggles. At other times he wears a diver's helmet, which is connected with the upper air by means of a rubber tube. He uses a drawing board made of glass, and paper which has been soaked in cocoanut oil to make it waterproof. French waterproof paints and a heavy weight to keep him at the bottom complete his outfit. Of course, Mr. Pritchard does not finish his paintings beneath the water. He makes sketches in crayons for them there, and then ascends to fix the scene permanently in his studio. This he does on leather. On leather alone, says the artist, can be reproduced anything like the tone of the sea.

CHINA AND ATHLETICS

Wonderful Interest Being Taken in Sports in the Celestial Kingdom

Evidences are displayed of a great awakening of interest in athletics throughout China. Enthusiasm is at a high pitch in some quarters and it is said to be only a matter of a few years when Peking shall be the scene of the world's Olympic. It was a striking instance of the new order of things when the historic Temple of Heaven grounds, for centuries past dedicated to the exclusive use of the Emperor, were thrown open for a national athletic meet at Peking. The competitors, for the most part from mission colleges, government schools and the Young Men's Christian Association.

The honors showered upon the students who led the field in the mile runs or did the 100-yard dash in ten seconds, recall the fact that it was only a few years ago that the scholastic ideal in China was altogether that of the long-gowned youth with hands in sleeves and philosophic countenance bent to the ground.

Government officials, from the President down expressed their hearty interest in the games.

Floating on the Dead Sea

The wonderful buoyancy of the Dead Sea, that strange inland sheet of water in Palestine, is proverbial. It is some 47 miles long by 9 miles wide, and lies no less than 1,200 feet below the surface of the Mediterranean, the lowest-lying lake on the face of the globe. Its waters are so bitter that fish cannot live in them. We get an idea of its density when it is stated that in a ton of water from the Atlantic there is 31 pounds of salt against 187 pounds from a like quantity in the Dead Sea. The result is that it is impossible for a human being to sink in these waters.

An Oil Burner Record

The freighter Santa Cruz arrived at San Francisco with a new record for the passage by way of the Straits of Magellan. From the time the vessel left Sandy Hook till she slowed down off Loss Angeles harbor, the engines run at full speed without a stop, and the distance of about 13,000 miles was made in 47 days and 4 hours. The Santa Cruz is an oil burner, and therefore did not need to put in any port for fuel.

Beware of the Canary

Medical men are warning those who have feathered pets to take measures for their disinfection. It is pointed out that even the dainty canary, the last thing held by its owner to be the subject of suspicion, is unable, without help to free its down from unwelcome animal life. Therefore plenty of water for its morning bath, with a disinfecting solution for germicide carefully added, is necessary.

Face Shield for Motorists

As an improvement on the usual types of motorists' goggles an Oregon inventor has patented a face shield to be attached to a cap and with one large opening for the eyes instead of two.

Paddle Wheel on Row boats

A patent has been granted for paddle wheels to be attached to row boats and operated by cranks.

Men of strong character make enemies, but it doesn't follow that all men who make enemies are of strong character.

GOLF LOOKS EASY UNTIL YOU TRY IT

Fascination of the Game and Its Effect on the Player

What is the secret of its fascination? Probably at bottom that it looks so easy and is so hard. Nothing can well seem simpler than hitting a stationary ball with a club. But in actual fact the human body proves to be curiously ill-adapted for any such task. The problem of dispatching that insolent ball in the desired direction becomes suddenly terrifying. Weak little men with hardly an effort send it flying a sixth of a mile. Huge burly fellows, with a blow that would shake St. Paul's, hit it 30 yards. It is the most baffling, tantalizing, vexatious of games.

But if the sorrows of golf are great, so also are its rewards. There is a feel and a glow about a clean-hit drive, or an approach that dribbles up to the hole, that very few strokes at polo, cricket, lawn tennis, or billiards are able to evoke. In the course of a two hours' round a player has every variety of chance to cover himself with glory or disgrace. It depends altogether on his own skill and nerve and self-control. One suffers for one's own shortcomings; one profits by one's own prowess—with just enough luck and chance thrown in to remind one of the mutability of life. And to many people this sense of standing on one's own merits or defects, and of being solely responsible for victory or defeat, is part of the attraction of golf. It comforts the diffident, it inspires the self-reliant; and the essential companionableness of the game saves it from egotism. Judgment and concentration and the courage never to submit or yield, and evenness of temper; these are all tested and disciplined by golf; while as a physical exercise it has the supreme virtue of being equally good for the young, middle-aged, and the old of both sexes. A veteran of fifty-five with a touch of lumbago defeats a champion of twenty-seven; a boy of twenty disposes of famous and seasoned masters of the game who have been playing it longer than he has been alive. People may point at the golfer as a but too typical product of our soft and leisurely age; but golf itself, so long as it remains a game and does not grow into a disease, needs no excuse.

USES CATS AS HOUNDS

Big Felines Trail, Point and Retrieve Like Hunting Dogs

T. G. Nimmo, of Missouri, probably has the strangest "pack of hounds" in the world. It consists of two huge domestic cats, which he has been training for more than three years, until they trail, point, and retrieve small games as well as any dogs ever seen in his district. The cats are named Tom and Jerry, and are used principally in hunting rabbits, tree squirrels and quail, though they have tracked and helped kill opossums and raccoons, both of which are plentiful in that part of the South.

According to their owner, who began training the cats when they were kittens, on sight of a rabbit, squirrel or quail they assume rigid positions, like that of a pointer, except that they move their tails slightly, and wait for him to come up and shoot the game they have found. They have never, since he finished their training, rushed forward to kill the game themselves, or to attempt to stalk it. When the shot is fired they retrieve the fallen animal or bird, and if it is not quite dead give it a quietus by biting it in the neck.

The especial value of these cats, Mr. Nimmo says, is in their ability to trail, capture, and kill wounded squirrels which flee to the tree tops after being shot.

Yacht Fortunes

Few men have spent so much money on racing yachts as Sir Thomas Lipton, and few have won so many races as he has. The cost of racing yacht construction varies considerably, depending a great deal upon the kind of material used in the hull.

Racers are built up nowadays of wood, composite, bronze, aluminium, and steel. A racing yacht of composite construction—steel frames planked with wood and sheathed with copper—will, if of 20 tons measurement, cost, roughly, $10,000; of 40 tons, $17,500; of 90 tons, $35,000.

The suits of canvas required for racing yachts generally need renewing every season, and the cost often runs into big figures. The cost of a racing season, inclusive of fitting out, etc., would be: for a 20-ton boat, $3,000; 40-ton boat, $6,000; 90-ton boat, $10,000.

A 30,000 acre vanilla plantation is planned for the island of Tahiti.

By the way, did you ever hear of a and cool.

Thursday, continues cool with easterly winds.

RAILROAD TRANSPRFATION

GRAND TRUNK RAILWAY SYSTEM

TORONTO - CHICAGO
TORONTO - MONTREAL

The International Limited
Canada's Train of Superior Service
Leaves Toronto 4.40 p.m. daily, arrives Detroit 9.55 p.m. and Chicago 8.00 a.m.

MORNING SERVICE
Leaves Toronto 8 a.m., arrives Detroit 1.45 p.m. and Chicago 8.40 p.m. daily.

LAST TRAIN OUT OF TORONTO AT NIGHT
Leaves 11.35 p.m., arrives Detroit 8 a.m. and Chicago 3.00 p.m. daily, assuring important connection with principal trains for Western States and Canada.

FOR MONTREAL
Leaves Toronto 9 a.m., 8.30 p.m., and 11 p.m. daily.
Berth reservations, etc., at G. T. R. ticket offices.
H. C. Thompson, City Passenger and Ticket Agent. Phone 403.
T. H. Coppin, Station Ticket Agent, Phone 3o.

CANADIAN PACIFIC

WINTER TOURS
To The Land of
Sunshine and Summer Days.
CALIFORNIA, FLORIDA,
LOUISIANA, ETC.

Limited trains eave Toronto daily, making direct connection at Detroit and Buffalo for the Southern States, and at Chicago for California, etc.

Those contemplating a trip of any nature should consult Canadian Pacific Agents, who will be pleased to quote rates, arrange reservations and attend to all details in connection with your trip, or write M. G. Murphy, District Passenger Agent, corner King and Yonge Streets, Toronto.

S. BURROWS, Gen. Agent, Belleville.

CANADIAN GOVERNMENT RAILWAYS
INTERCOLONIAL
PRINCE EDWARD ISLAND RY

2 Through Trains 2

From Bonaventure Union Depot, Montreal.

OCEAN LIMITED

Leaves 7.30 p.m. daily for Quebec, Riviere du Loup, Campbellton, Moncton, St. John, Truro and Halifax. Connections for Glasgow, etc., and the Sydneys (except Saturdays).

Maritime Express

Leaves 8.10 a.m. daily except Saturday, for Quebec, Campbellton, Moncton, Truro, Halifax, St. John. On Saturdays will run Montreal to St. Flavie only.

For further information concerning rates, reservations, etc., apply to local Grank Trunk Railway Ticket or Freight Agent, or to E. Tiffin, General Western Agent, 51 King St. East, (King Edward Hotel Block), Toronto, Ontario.

RAILWAY TIME TABLE,

GRAND TRUNK RAILWAY

Time of departure from Belleville station.

Going East.

No. 18—12.30 a.m. Mail train, daily.
No. 16—2.08 a.m. Fast train, Flyer, daily.
No. 32—Local for Brockville, 7 a.m.; arrives back from Brockville, 8.50 p.m.; daily except Sunday.
No. 6—11.10 a.m.—Mail and Express, daily.
No. 14—12.16 p.m. Express, daily.
No. 28—5.45 p.m. Local passenger, daily except Sunday.
No. 30—9.30 p.m.—Local passenger, daily except Sunday.

Going West.

No. 19—2.15 a.m.—Mail and Express, daily.
No. 15—4.35 a.m. Limited Express, daily.
No. 29—7.50 a.m. Local Passenger, daily except Sunday, leaving Toronto 6.00 p.m., arrives in Belleville at 9.25 p.m., arrives in Kingston at 11.05 p.m.
No. 27—11.15 a.m. Passenger, daily except Sunday.
No. 1—1.50 p.m. International Limited, daily.
No. 7—4.55 p.m. Mail and Express, daily.

BELLEVILLE AND PETERBORO'

Going West.

| | Leave. | Ar. Peterboro' |
|---|---|---|
| Mail .. .. .. | 5.20 a.m. | 8.00 a.m. |
| Passenger .. .. | 6.00 p.m. | 8.50 p.m. |

Going East.

| | Arrive | Lv. Peterboro' |
|---|---|---|
| Mixed .. .. .. .. | 10.55 a.m. | 8.20 a.m. |
| Mail .. .. .. .. | 4.15 p.m. | 1.30 p.m. |

BELLEVILLE AND MADOC.

Going North.

| | Leave | Ar. Madoc |
|---|---|---|
| Mixed .. .. .. | 12.11 p.m. | 1.50 p.m. |
| Mixed .. .. .. | 6.30 p.m. | 7.50 p.m. |

Going South.

| | Arrive | Lv. Madoc |
|---|---|---|
| Mixed .. .. .. | 4.60 p.m. | 3.27 p.m. |
| Mixed .. .. .. | 9.15 a.m. | 7.15 a.m. |

None of the above trains run on Sunday.

RAILWAY TIME TABLE.

CANADIAN NORTHERN ONTARIO RAILWAY

EFFECTIVE SEPT. 16TH.

For Toronto and intermediate points—6.40 a.m., 5.15 p.m.

Trenton, Wellington, Picton and intermediate points—6.40 a.m., 12.40 noon.

Marmora, Bannockburn and Coe Hill—12.40 noon.

Marmora, Bannockburn, Bancroft and Maynooth, and intermediate stations—4.40 a.m.

Deseronto, Napanee and B. Q. stations—10.35 a.m., 1.00 p.m., 9.40 p.m.

For Kingston, Brockville, Smith's Falls, Ottawa and intermediate stations—1.00 p.m.

Trains arrive from Toronto and intermediate points—1.00 p.m., 9.40 p.m.

From Picton, Wellington, Trenton and intermediate stations—10.35 a.m., 6.05 p.m., 9.40 p.m.

From Napanee, Deseronto and intermediate stations—6.40 a.m., 12.40 p.m., 5.15 p.m.

From Maynooth and intermediate stations—6.22 p.m.

From Coe Hill and intermediate stations—10.35 a.m.

From Tamworth and intermediate stations—5.15 p.m.

From Kingston, Brockville, Smith's Falls, Ottawa and intermediate stations—5.15 p.m.

AT-HOME BALL, BANQUET, and Private Invitation Cards—new line—at The Intelligencer Job Dept. See these. Prices right.

THE STANDARD BANK OF CANADA

QUARTERLY DIVIDEND NOTICE No. 96.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that a Dividend at the rate of Thirteen Per Cent Per Annum upon the Capital Stock of this Bank has been declared for the quarter ending the 31st October, 1914, and that the same will be payable at the Head Office in this City and its Branches on and after Monday, the 2nd day of November, 1914, to shareholders of record of the 23rd of October, 1914.

By order of the Board.
G. P. SCHOLFIELD,
General Manager.

Toronto, 29th September, 1914.

JOHN ELLIOTT, Manager, Belleville Branch

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| Shannonville Branch | open | Mondays and Thursdays |
| Foxboro | ,, ,, | Tuesdays and Fridays |
| Rednersville | ,, ,, | Wednesdays |

The Merchants Bank
Of Canada

Capital.............................$7,000,000
Reserve.............................$7,000,000

YOUR SAVINGS ACCOUNT INVITED
Interest added every six months. Small or large amounts deposited. Banking may be done by mail. Drafts on any parts of the world sold or bought.
A General Banking Business conducted.

Belleville Branch H. SHEYD, Manager

"NO goods purchased abroad are cheap that take the place of our own labor and our own raw material."

Following the barring from the mails by Canada of the publication Fatherland, issued by pro-German sources in New York, the Canadian ban has also been put on the New Yorker Staats Zeitung, according to an announcement in the evening edition of that newspaper recently.

Advertise in The Intelligencer.

STORM SASH AND DOORS
Made to your order, any Shape or Size
SAVE YOUR COAL BILLS
The Holton Lumber Co. Limited
EVERYTHING IN LUMBER
Phones 112-1197 Offices 1 Bride St. W; Water St.

The Daily Intelligencer.

Established 1858
FURNITURE & UNDERTAKING
TICKELL & SONS CO.
SPECIAL — AT COST
49 VERANDAH CHAIRS

LET THERE BE HARMONY IN THINGS ESSENTIAL—LIBERALTY IN THINGS NOT ESSENTIAL—CHARITY IN ALL.

Vol. 48 BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO, MONDAY, OCTOBER 19, 1914. No. 138

Finds 'Dumdums' Not Factory Made

Verdict of Swiss Champion Rifleman Invited to View Germany's Exhibit

BERNE, Oct. 17.—(Dispatch to The London Morning Post.)—The German Legation here, having invited the public to come and see dumdum bullets alleged to have been taken from French and British soldiers, the Journal de Geneve sent the Swiss champion rifleman, Herr Meyer von Stadelhofen, who, after a careful examination of the bullets, remarks that they have all been roughly and recently altered by means of a file, saw, or puncheon, and that they all quite differently cut so that they could not have come from any factory. As proof, Herr Stadelhofen says that the lead was still very bright. His conclusion is that this bullet exhibition has been specially prepared by the German Government.

It has been decided to put the Swiss Army into new uniforms of gray-green without any touch of bright color as at present.

Building Zeppelins

Inventor Himself Superintends the Construction of Machines

GENEVA, Switzerland, Oct. 17.—Despatch to the London Standard—For the past fortnight Count Zeppelin has been paying flying visits to Friedrichshafen, sometimes remaining a day or two, supervising the construction of two new Zeppelins, which will be ready shortly. Work on them is continuing night and day, and the staff of men has been doubled.

Yesterday the Count acted as guide to a number of German wounded soldiers, who are numerous in all towns around Lake Constance, and showed them the works in detail. Any foreigners approaching the sheds are promptly arrested.

Engineers and workmen are openly boasting of a more powerful new Zeppelin, which "can remain in the air indifferently."

The count is also supervising the construction of other vessels at Dusseldorf, to replace those destroyed, and there have been many since war was declared.

Hospitality Abused

German Spies Published Papers in Switzerland

GENEVA Oct. 17.—(Despatch to the London Standard)—From the beginning of the war, the Swiss authorities knew that a small army of German spies had entered the country. Recently these spies began to abuse Swiss neutrality. Under Swiss names, they started publishing one page newspapers in different towns, printed in German, giving only Wolff reports, receiving all news by special wires at great expense from Berlin, and offering the news forthcoming to Swiss papers. The Swiss measures declined unanimously.

Several measures have been taken during the last few days against these spies. Many have been simply escorted across the German frontier and firmly requested not to return. Others received notice to leave within three days, while their papers have been suppressed.

Switzerland is determined to remain neutral.

TRY TO RAISE RANSOM

Bilsen Must Pay $20,000 or be Destroyed.

LONDON, Oct. 17.—The Standard publishes the following from its correspondent at Maestricht, dated Wednesday:

"M. Houbert, Burgomaster of Bilsen, in Belgian Limburg, who was arrested by the Germans has arrived here. He was liberated on condition that he would return before October 15. He has to pay the Germans £4,000 ($20,000) in coin, the amount which Bilsen has been ordered to furnish as a war contribution. If the Burgomaster does not return, his house is to be the first destroyed. Nearly all the members of the Bilsen council are fugitives at Maestricht. M. Houbert called them to gether to discuss the situation. They were of the opinion that it would utterly impossible to collect more than one-fifth of the required sum in gold and silver, but the remainder might be collected in paper. They were unanimous that it would be better to try and collect the amount than to have Bilsen plundered and destroyed."

CHRIST CHURCH IS CONSECRATED BY BISHOP

Interior Of Sacred Edifice Beautifully And Tastefully Decorated --Appopriate Service and Sermon by His Lordship Bishop Bidwell

For some time past Christ Church has been closed up for services, owing to the fact that the interior was being decorated and other changes and improvements made. Yesterday it was re-opened and the church was consecrated by the Right Rev. Dr. Bidwell, Lord Bishop of Kingston. The interior of this sacred edifice is certainly beautiful, and reflects great credit upon the Toronto firm which did the decorating. At the morning service the consecration ceremony took place by His Lordship, who, previous to the ceremony, was met at the vestibule of the Church by the Rector, Rev. R. C. Blagrave, and the Church Wardens. Prayers of a special nature were read by the Bishop, who also preached an appropriate discourse. The Rector assisted in the services, as did also the Rev. A. L. Geen.

His Lordship's discourse was in keeping with the occasion. His text was from 1st Chron. xxix:9—"Then the people rejoiced for that they offered willingly, because with perfect hearts they offered willingly to the Lord; and David the King also rejoiced with great joy."

The occasion on which these words were written was the gathering together of King David and his people to consult in the erection of a temple to the glory of God. King David spared no pains in his effort to have a temple built which would be one of beauty. He called his people into his confidence and the result was, when he was called away everything was in readiness for the building of the Lord's temple. He rejoiced with his people with great joy. What produced this great joy was the fact that it was a free and spontaneous offering of the people for the erection of the temple. Every stone or other article of which the temple was built was a token of the people's love. The temple was their pride. It was built upon a great foundation—the people's self-sacrifice. Even when far away from their country they did not forget their temple. The teaching of the Bible was exemplified by them. Nothing can be too good to offer to God; no effort too great and no self-sacrifice too hard to bear when we give of our means for the beautifying of God's temple. God has made us susceptible to beauty. All beauty of architecture appeals to humanity. It is not the richness alone, but the sacrifice and self-denial it represents. It is a token of our love for God. By this means we are only recognizing our love for home. In our homes we love beauty and sometimes money is spent lavishly. This is an instinct of nature. If we love the home in which we dwell and love to beautify it, should we not love to see the Church of God beautified. Here we are in our home, and should feel that it is such to us. Some times we are homeless and orphaned, but in the church we are not homeless or orphaned—it is our home. All churches should be open at all times so that any person may enter and offer up a prayer at any time, as in their home. We should and do love our church as our home. It was a happiness for him (the speaker) to be present on such an occasion. You are now in possession of a perfect and finished work, and it is the free-will offering of the people. It represents your self-denial, and all should rejoice in the sents more than itemfwyp emfwyp cmt beautifying of the church. We may rejoice that God has brought this work to a satisfactory conclusion. Give God of our best. Nothing is too good to offer to Him because He gave Himself for us. No greater love has man than that he will lay down his life for another. As we offer our gifts so we should offer our lives to Him and for His service.

The choir at both services rendered special music, as follows:—

In the morning—Stuart's Communion Service in E flat.

EVENING.

Turner's Evening Services in F.

Anthem—"O Clap Your Hands"—by Turner.

Solo by Mr. Cameron during offeratory—"The Ninety and Nine"—by Campion.

CALL LANDSTRUM 'DADDIES'

Russians Amused by their Jovial-Looking Prisoners.

PETROGRAD, Oct. 17.—Dispatch to The London Standard—"The Russian soldiers have discovered a nickname for the German Landsturm. They call them daddies," writes the special correspondent of the Outro Rossii of Moscow. The Landsturm consists mostly of fat, middle-aged burghers of very good-natured appearance, yet it is this same class of troops who have so much distinguished themselves during the numerous incursions of the Germans into Russian territory in the earliest days of the war. The daddies, however, are not especially noted for their brutality. They commit few atrocities but are keen on food and drink. They treat the local population mercilessly in the matter of victuals.

"On the other hand it is enough to set going a rumor of the approach of Russian troops in order to get rid of them. For the daddies develop extraordinary speed in retreat. They are often caught by our reconnoitring Cossacks. When they stand among the crowd of prisoners of war they seem to lose all the warlike appearance which they display when invading undefending villages. They appear a peaceful group of good-natured family men.

"So inoffensive do they look that the Russian soldiers cannot feel any hatred for them. They shower upon them good-natured remarks, saying, 'Oh, you, Daddy, fancy you going to war with such a fat stomach. Hadn't you better have stayed home and eat your sausages and sauerkraut?'

'The prisoners, on their part, seem to feel the absence of all hatred in the voice of their captors and confidently smile back at them."

TYPHOON AT KAIO CHOW

(Canadian Press Despatch)

TOKIO, Oct. 19.—A typhoon has struck Kaio Chow, destroying one landing pier. Twenty Japanese sailors were drowned.

Forbids Insurance To Benefit Enemy

New Royal Proclamations Issued by the Government--May Not Accept Risks

OTTAWA, Oct. 19.—(Special.)—Amendments to the two Royal proclamations issued respecting trade with the enemy have been made and are published this week by the Government. They relate chiefly to the making of insurance or reinsurance contracts with the enemy for his benefit.

It is forbidden to make or enter any new marine, life or other policy or contract of insurance or reinsurance, with or for the benefit of an enemy; to accept from or give effect to any insurance of any risk arising under any policy entered into for the benefit of the enemy before the outbreak of war; and in particular as regards contracts or reinsurance current at the outbreak of war in which an enemy is interested, to cede or to accept from him any risk arising from the policy of insursance entered into after the outbreak of war.

When an enemy has a branch locally situated in British, allied or neutral territory carrying on an insurance or reinsurance business, transactions with such branch will be considered transactions with the enemy.

NIGHT LIFE IN BERLIN

Spurious Gayety Goes on Despite the War

LONDON, Oct. 17.—The London Times prints a description by a neutral of life in Berlin, in the course of which it says:

"Berlin keeps open many places of amusement until the early hours of the morning, and the war has not made any difference in this respect. What is known as night life in Berlin continues. For years past the fast element in Berlin has been one of its most notorious features."

AMERICANS IN LONDON AFRAID OF INVASION

But Ambassador Refuses to Issue Passports--Appeal to Washington Talked of

LONDON, Oct. 17.—While some Americans here entertain fears of a German invasion, that is not considered by the United States Embassy as a valid reason at present for departing from a new rule regarding passports which has been issued by Ambassador Page.

This rule was posted at the headquarters of the American Relief Committee a few days ago, and reads:

The American Ambassador has been informed by the British Government that his Majesty's authorities do not require passports from American citizens for residence or travel in or exit from the United Kingdom.

The Ambassador will therefore no longer issue passports except in cases where it can be clearly established that they are necessary.

While this was stated to be the attitude of the Embassy to-day, there was an intimation that it might be changed should Americans' fear be based on more than is now the case.

A number of resident Americans have been insisting that the Ambassador has no right to refuse to give passports to them as long as they can establish their right of citizenship, whether by birth or naturalization. They believe it is playing safe to have a passport, no matter whether there is a demand for it or not, and they are considering an appeal to Washington on the question whether Mr. Page has the right to refuse a passport to a citizen.

Shot At Police In Night Raid

MONTREAL, Oct. 17.—Constable Dowd of the Chenneville street police station was shot through the left lung and Detective Norman Tierney had his foot crushed in a fight in the dark at 29 St. George street about 2.30 o'clock this morning. The shooting was done by Richard Nelson, alias "Dick the Devil," alias Richard Wilson colored, who is now under arrest with Alice Wilson, also colored, who claims to be his wife. Dowd is at the General Hospital and it is believed that he will recover.

With Detectives Tierney, Forget and Tribault, Constable Dowd went to the St. George street house early this morning to make a search for money, which had been stolen and which they were led to believe might be in the house. Upon entering Wilson invited Detective Tierney into a rear hall. The constable followed thinking the negro was going to assist him. In the hall the colored man drew a revolver and began to shoot. Other officers rushed to Tierney's assistance and someone turned out the lights. Detective Tierney was unhurt but one shot struck Dowd.

WILL HAVE GOOD EFFECT

Sir F. Williams-Taylor's View on New Financing

MONTREAL, Oct. 17.—Commenting on the announcement made by the Finance Minister at Ottawa last night, Sir Frederick Williams-Taylor general manager of the Bank of Montreal, remarked:

"The highly disadvantageous financial feature of the war, so far as Canada is concerned, has been the sudden deprivation of British capital to which we had become accustomed.

"The announcement by the Government that they have been offered opportunities of financing their extraordinary requirements will oviously have an off-setting and highly beneficial effect on the whole Canadian situation."

CANADA CEMENT DIVIDEND

Regular Declaration for Quarter on Preferred Stock

MONTREAL, Oct. 17—Directors of the Canada Cement Co. met yesterday and declared the regular quarterly dividend of 1 3-4 per cent. on the preferred stock, payable November 16th to the shareholders of record November 1st.

After the board meeting Mr. F. P. Jones, general manager of the company, said that the Canada Cement Company in common with other companies was feeling the effects of curtailment in business, but he saw no reason way the preferred dividend should be continued.

ALLIES VICTORIOUS ON THE LAND AND SEA

Check the German Advances--Hard Fighting on Battle-Front With Every Point Favorable to Allied Forces.-Eastern Battlefield Shows Advance of Russian Troops

(Canadian Press Special Exclusively to The Intelligencer)

ALLIED FORCES MAKING ADVANCES

PARIS, Oct. 19.—The following official announcement was issued this afternoon:

Belgium and German heavy artillery has cannonaded without result on the front from Nieuport to Vladsloo. The Allies, notably the Belgian forces, have repulsed all recent attacks and advanced as far as Roulers.

On the left wing we have advanced in the direction of Lille. Between La Bassee Ablain and St. Nazaire we are fighting our advance from house to house. North and south of Arras our troops have been fighting more than ten days without respite.

In the region of Chaulnes we have repulsed a strong counter attack and gained some ground.

In Alsace our advance posts are on a line between Bon Homme, Paris and Sulszern, and we still occupy Thann.

FRENCH CRUISER SINKS AUSTRIAN SUBMARINE

CETTINJE, Montenegro, Oct. 19—An Austrian submarine was sunk in the Adriatic today by a French cruiser. Two submarines went out from the Bay of Cattaro to attack the French fleet which was making its way along the Dalmatian coast. They were quickly sighted, however, by French lookouts and a well directed shot sent the leader to the bottom. The other submarine escaped.

GERMAN COMMANDER CLOSED DARDANELLES

Turkish Destroyer Said to Have Been Turned Back by the British

CONSTANTINOPLE, Oct. 19—Special—Sir Louis Mallet, the British Ambassador here, has sent a circular to all British Consuls, in which he refers to the massing of Turkish troops on the frontier. He points out that the Dardanelles were closed by a German commander because a Turkish destroyer with German officers aboard had been turned back by the British fleet.

The British Government, Sir Louis says, had previously informed the Ottoman Govrenment that so long as an Ottoman fleet was officered and manned by Germans it must be regarded as part of the German fleet.

BODY OF MAN FOUND LYING IN SMALL POND

TORONTO, Oct. 19.—Special—The body of Stephen Diplock, aged fifty-nine, 41 Castle avenue, was found lying in a pond of water at Glenmount Park, a subdivision on the easterly limits, by a citizen on Saturday afternoon. The police were notified and removed the body to the Morguee.

Diplock was not identified until Sunday morning, when his son, who had read of the finding of the body, visited the Morgue. Diplock was last seen on Friday morning. He has not been working for some time.

The unfortunate man's friends are unable to give any reason for his death. The police believe he must have fallen, as he was making his way home on Friday evening, into the pond, which was about twenty feet square.

An inquest will likely be held today.

LARGEST CHURCH IN NORTH COUNTRY

NORTH BAY, Oct. 19.—Yesterday was a red-letter day in the history of the French-Canadians of this town, when his Lordship Bishop Scollard blessed the basement of the new French Roman Catholic church which is in course of erection. It will be a number of years before the main body is finished, and in the meantime the basement will be used for divine service. When finished the edifice will cost one hundred thousand dollars, and will be the largest in the north country.

CRUISER UNDAUNTED CAPTURES MINE LAYER

LONDON, Oct. 19.—The Central News says the cruiser Undaunted, accompanied by two destroyers, has captured in the North Sea a mine layer disguised as a hospital ship, and is bringing her into Harwich. The official bureau cannot confirm this.

MORE TROOPS ARRIVE

AVONMOUTH, Eng., Oct. 19.—A well known Atlantic liner arrived here today bringing a large number of Canadian troops to augment those already encamped in England. The first news the townspeople had of their arrival was the sound of the fire and drum in the streets. The men entrained immediately for a destination not announced.

JAPANESE CRUISER SUNK

TOKIO, Oct. 19.—It is officially announced that the Japanese cruiser Takachiho was sunk by a mine in Kiao Chow Bay, on the night of October 17th. One officer and nine members of the crew are known to have been saved. She was an old, small and slow craft.

A TELEGRAM FROM LIEUTENANT PONTON

Col. W. N. Ponton received a despatch from his son, Lieut. R. D. Ponton, to the effect that the Second Battalion, First Brigade, left Plymouth yesterday (Sunday) for Bustard Camp, Salisbury. All well.

OSTEND FINED A MILLION DOLLARS

LONDON, Oct. 19.—(Special.)—According to the correspondent of the Weekly Dispatch at Flushing, Holland the Germans have levied a fine on Ostend of $1,000,000. Early on Sunday, the correspondent says, great forces of Germans began to pour through Ostend. The artillery consisted of about 400 guns and there were 40,000 infantry and some cavalry.

ONE HUNDRED PERSONS BURIED UNDER RUINS

(Canadian Press Despatch)

LONDON, Oct. 19.—The Exchange Telegraph received a despatched from Athens, Greece, which says that one hundred persons were buried under ruins at Thebes, where the greater portion of the houses were destroyed by earthquakes.

STEFANSSON EXPEDITION PARTY HEARD FROM

Dr. Anderson Says They are all Well --Have Done Much Good Work

OTTAWA, Oct. 19.—Special—A report from Dr. Anderson, in charge of the southern wing of the Stefansson expedition, was received to-day by the Naval Service Department. The report came from Baillie Island under date of Augst 21. It was brought down from the Arctic Ocean by the trading schooner Teddy Bear of Seattle, which has spent two years trading with the Eskimos.

Dr. Anderson writes that the southern party were all in good health and spirits, and had accomplished much valuable exploratory and scientific work during the past summer. The steamer Marie Sachs left Herschel Island on August 11 for the west coast of Banks Land, where depots will be placed for the use of Stefansson, who planned to land there during the coming winter. Dr. Anderson will establish winter quarters in the vicinity of Cockburn Point.

AMONG THE MISSIONARIES

TORONTO, Oct. 17—Expropriations amounting to $610,636, were passed last night by the General Board of Missions of the Methodist Church for the coming year.

The money was divided as follows: Home department, $284,220; foreign department, $269,050, and administration and miscellaneous, $87,416.

A Merger Of Loan Companies

Sun and Hastings and the Standard Reliance Have Merged

The following telegram from Toronto of the 15th inst., will be of interest to many of our readers as many of them are shareholders in the Sun & Hastings Company.

Negotiations have just been brought to a conclusion whereby the Sun & Hastings Savings & Loan Company of Ontario is to be taken over by the Standard Reliance Mortgage Corporation. Both are Toronto companies doing considerable business throughout the country, chiefly in farm mortgages.

The Sun & Hastings has a paid-up capital of $573,989, and holders of this are to be paid with shares of equal amount in the absorbing company, at par in both cases The Sun & Hastings shareholders will under this merger, receive 7 per cent. on their stock while they received but 6 per cent. on their Sun and Hastings holdings, and two of their directors are to hold seats on the Standard Reliance Board.

Directors of both companies held concluding conferences yesterday and today, and all the details of the transactions have been arranged. Letters asking the confirmation of the shareholders are being sent out.

The total assets of the Standard Reliance Mortgage Corporation will under this merger be brought up to $6,296,210, and its paid-up capital to $2,559,093. The joint reserve will now be $620,000.

BRAZILIAN DIVIDENDS

Regular Declaration For Quarter Made Yesterday

TORONTO, Oct. 17.—The regular quarterly dividend of 1 1-2 per cent. on the shares of the Brazilian Traction, Light & Power Company, was declared at a meeting of the board here to-day, which was attended by practically all the local directors and by Dr. F. S. Pearson and Mr. H. M. Hubbard, of London. The dividend is payable on December 1 to shareholders of record, October 31. A full month is allowed because of the greater difficulty in reaching foreign shareholders.

The gathering of the Brazalian directors re-awakened interest yesterday in the August statment of the Brazilian earnings, which surprised the financial community by showing a decrease of $158,060 in net earnings. The statement for that month and for the year to date was calculated upon the exchange rate of 13 17-32 pence per milreis, although no remittances were made at this level. The actual statement in Brazilian currency was obtained at the company's office yesterday and it showed an increase in net as follows:

August, 1914, gross earnings 6,166,083, decrease 85,953; operating expenses 2,599,104, decrease 165,230; net earnings 3,566,979, increase 79,277; aggregate gross 48,950, 281, increase 1,154,674; aggregate net 28,081,727, increase 2,484,525.

It will be seen that the results from the operations of the company for the month of August resulted in an increase in net earnings of 79,277 milreis, which, computed at the rate of exchange of fourteen pence, gives an increase of $22,506 in Canadian currency. Through its coffee transactions the company has been getting its funds into New York on the basis of about 14 1-2d per milreis. The decrease in gross earnings shown in the August report was due almost entirely to the falling off in tramway traffic, which in Brazilian cities has always fluctuated considerably according to the weather. The decrease in operating costs was principally obtained through the substitution of electric for steam power.

Other than the tramways, the departments of the company's business showed fair increases.

AN OFFICER ON HAWKE

Mr. Frank Gray of Toronto Had a Brother on Destroyed Cruiser

TORONTO, Oct. 19.—Special.—Mr. Frank Gray, 117 St. Patrick street, of this city, had a brother who was a petty officer on the Hawke, and Mr. Gray hopes that he may be one of the seventy-three survivors. Three of Mr. Gray's brothers are in the service, one with the 2nd Dorsetshire Infantry and another with the Canadian contingent from Manitoba. The naval officer has seen twenty years' service.

WM. McINTOSH & CO.

HORSE BLANKETS.

Linen Jute unlined blankets at ................ 75c. each.
Linen Jute wool lined blankets, special at $3.00, $2.75, $2.50 and $1.50 each
Dutch Kersey Blankets, on sale at ............ $1.50 each
Plaid Shawl Automobile Rugs at ............. $2.25 each.

BEDDING.

White Wool Blankets in great variety at $5.50, $5.00, $4.00 and $3.35 per pair
Heavy dark and ligh grey wool blankets, on sale at $2.75, $2.50 and $2 25 per pair
Flannelette Blankets, white and grey, 12/4 size, at $1.75 and $1.60 per pair
Flannelette Blankets, white and grey, 11/4 size, at $1.50 and $1.40 per pair
Flannelette Blankets, white and grey, 10/4 size at $1.25 per pair.
Bed Comforters, large variety, filled with the best Puritan batting at ............ $4.00, $3.50, $3.00, $2.50, $2.00 each

WM. McINTOSH & CO.

Library Tables

A Library Table for your living room will show up well with the other furnishings, besides being a very convenient and necessary article in your home.

Tables in Golden and Fumed Oak, etc., in Period and other designs to match the furniture you already have, or a complete suit if you are furnishing all your living room or den.

THE THOMPSON FURNITURE Co.
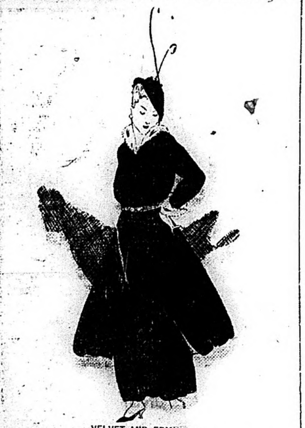
UNDERTAKERS Phones: Day, 82; Night, 295.



VELVET AND ERMINE

The beautiful combinations of velvet and fur are being viewed with delight by Madame as they enhance her beauty hundredfold by their softness and from the depths of which her face emerges like a fair flower.

Chose a Name To Fit The Case

WITH A FAMILY OF ELEVEN HE WOULD SOON RUN SHORT OF NAMES FOR THEM.

Shakespeare, (or was it Bacon) said "What's in a name?" The correct answer is said to be "more or less."

One is reminded of the story told by Judge———— It seems one time that he was travelling in a strange part of the country and stopped at an old negro's cabin to inquire the direction to a certain village. It so haphapened that there were eight of ten colored children playing in the yard, all resembling one another and bearing unmistakable likeness to the old man. When the desired information was sought the colored patriarch turned to one of the piccaninnies and said: "Here, you Judas Iscariot, come and see what this gemmen' done want."

He was asked why he had given such a name to his son.

"Case it's a Bible name," replied the old man.

"But," suggested the judge, "you could have found lots of names in the Bible that would be better and more appropriate for your son."

"Deed, I couldn't boss," responded the darkey. "I already had eleven children when he comes, so I goes lookin' frew de Bible to fin' him a name, an' I come to where it says 'it 'ud been better for Judas Iscariot if he had never been born.'"

The old colored father at least had the advantage on most of us in the fact that he read the Bible, although he did get the purport somewhat twisted.

In the new illustrated Bible now being presented by The Intelligencer on the educational certificate plan, the various passages are made plain by accompanying illustrations that portray the actual meaning of the text. Such a Bible has never before been issued. It gives to the reader an entirely new and correct conception which is at once interesting and instructive. The Bible thus becomes an educational work of rare value to young and old alike. It is just the book for the family—father, mother, brother and sister—everybody that would have a desire to enlighten himself on everyday topics of conversation.

The Intelligencer is now presenting these Bible for six certificates with the amount of expense items to defray the cost of distribution, as explained elsewhere.

Clip the certificate from another page of this issue.

Donations To "Our Boys"

| | |
|---|---|
| Mrs. S. Masson | $1.00 |
| Mrs. S. W. and Miss Vermilyea | 1.00 |
| Mrs. McKeown | .50 |
| Mrs. John Williams—2 pretty crocheted collars. | |
| Mrs. Schuster | .50 |
| Mrs. Donald, of Montreal—2 pairs of knitted wristlets and a Balaclava Cap. | |

List Of Names

Of People Who Sent Clothing For the Belgians

The members of the Quinte Chapter, I. O. D. E., wish to thank the citizens of Belleville for their splendid response to the appeal for clothing for the Belgians. The clothing was all sorted and packed in bales and cases comprising seven large packing cases, six bales and two trunks and sent to the Belgian Consul at Halifax by express. Below is a list of those who contributed:—

Miss Bodle
Mrs. Bowell
Mrs. W. A. Esmond
Quick & Robertson
Miss Kelso
Mrs. Chapman
Ladies of School for Deaf
Wims' Store
Miss Jessie Sutherland
Mrs. S. H. Phippen
Parcel without name from Victoria Avenue.
Mrs. H. J. Clarke
Mrs. Fletcher
Mrs. F. D. Diamond
Mrs. Sprague
Miss Sutherland
Mrs. A. F. White
Mrs. F. H. Chester
Mrs. Alfred Hunter
Mrs. Wilmot
Mrs. H. P. Cook
Mrs. Grant
Mrs. Minns
Rev. C. G. Smith
Mrs. Caldwell
Mrs. J. Denyes
Mrs. Rose
Dr. and Mrs. Farley
Mrs. J. W. Johnson
Mrs. T. Moore
Mrs. Ben Burton
Mrs. H. Corby
Mrs. Docter
Mrs. S. S. Lazier
The Misses Hate
Mrs. I. L. Moore
Mrs. C. Coombe
Mrs. F. C. Clarke
Mrs. J. F. Mather
Mr. and Mrs. J. Neate
Mrs. M. L. Douglas
Mrs. W. B. Northrup
Mrs. A. Bird
Mrs. Ketcheson
Mr. Carlaw
Mrs. Farrow
Mrs. Templeton
Mrs. Crossland
Mrs. C. Bogart
Mrs. G. B. Smith
Mrs. D. V. Sinclair
D. V. Sinclair & Co.
Mrs. Kelso
Mr. Collip
Ritchie Co.
Mrs. Day
Vermilyea & Son
Gorman Shoe Store
Haines' Shoe Store
Mrs. Robertson
Miss Hurley
Mr. J. Roy
Mrs. London
Mr. Robinson
Mr. Gerow
Mr. Gael
Mrs. Fraleck
Mrs. W. A. Drury
Mr. J. McKeown
Mr. R. G. Adams
Mrs. F. B. Smith
Mr. Tannahill
Mrs. Young
Mrs. Symons
Mrs. Mark Sprague
Mrs. B. L. Hyman
Mrs. E. Bonnett
Mrs. A. D. Watts
Mrs. H. Graham
Mrs. Modeland
Mrs. Barlowe
Mrs. Earle
Mrs. Gillen
Mrs. MacColl
Mrs. G. A. Morton
Mr. R. Bogle
Mrs. Boyle
Mrs. E. A. James
Mrs. Bryant
Mrs. McGinnis
Mrs. Jenkins
Mrs. Doyle
Mrs. P. J. M. Anderson
Miss Pitceathy
Miss Sisson
Rev. and Mrs. Sanderson
Mrs. Irwin
Queen Mary School
Mr. C. Capp
Mr. John McIntosh
Mrs. McFarlane, Foxboro.
Miss Miller, Foxboro.
Mrs. McCuaig
Miss Craig
Mr. Knight
Miss Helen Wallbridge
Mrs. Fred Wallbridge

MONEY FOR BELGIANS

| | |
|---|---|
| Mrs. F. S. Deacon | $ 5 00 |
| Mr. F. S. Wallbridge | 5 00 |
| Mr. W. B. Northrup | 5 00 |
| Mrs. W. B. Northrup | 5 00 |
| Mr. Tannahill | 10 00 |
| Miss Pierson | 5 00 |
| F. W. Rathman | 5 00 |
| Miss Corby | 5 00 |
| Miss Anning | 5 00 |
| Mrs. S. D. Lazier | 2 00 |
| Miss McRae | 2 00 |
| Mrs. Langford | 2 00 |
| Mrs. Templeton | 2 00 |
| Mrs. Coughlin | 1 00 |
| Mrs. Tower | 1 00 |
| Mrs. Sneyd | 1 00 |
| Miss McMillan | 1 00 |
| D. & D. Institute | 90 |
| | $62 90 |

LIST OF CLOTHING FOR THE BELGIANS.

57 pairs boots and rubbers, men's women's and children's (Haines' store); 50 pairs boots and shoes (Vermilyea & Son); 33 full men's suits; 50 pieces men's underwear; 18 pairs men's trousers; 7 men's vests; 13 boys' coats; 5 boys' suits; 12 pairs boys' knickers; 12 men's coats and vests; 2 fur caps; 1 pair fur gauntlets; 2 fur muffs; 4 fur collars; 4 waterproofs; 48 women's suits; 23 women's dresses; 37 women's skirts; 10 women's cotton dresses; 2 bags dried apples; 2 packages malted milk; 143 caps and hats; 107 pairs stockings; 11 pairs gloves; 3 pairs cuffs; 9 blankets; 1 pillow; 77 miscellaneous (shawls, sweaters, etc.); 16 women's petticoats; 36 men's overcoats; 106 women's coats; 83 pieces children's underwear; 50 pieces children's clothing; 69 women's blouses; 26 men's shirts; 2 wool bands; 3 women's dressing gowns; 18 women's nightgowns; 45 pieces women's underwear; 65 pairs women's boots; 30 pairs men's boots; 42 pairs children's boots and shoes.

Oxford Lodge, No. 17, Sons of England—3 coats, 5 vests, 5 pairs pants, 1 shirt, 2 summer coats, 2 dust coat, 1 white vest, 1 frock coat, 1 overcoat, 1 raincoat, 1 sheepskin, 2 nightshirts, 1 muffler, 1 duster, 2 sheets, 1 blanket, 1 pair mitts, 2 curtains, 1 blind, 1 towel, 1 cushion, 5 pairs socks, 5 collars, 2 pairs house shoes, 12 suits men's underwear.

15th Regiment

A Provisional School lasting 6 weeks will be started at the Armouries here on Wednesday, the 31st instant, for qualification of Officiers and N. C. O.'s Officers and N. C. O.'s interested will govern themselvee accordingly.
By order of the O.C. W. H. Hudson Capt., Adjutant

LESSON TO BOYS

Two boys from Canifton, were charged by the trustees of the school with trespassing upon the school property, entering the school house and damaging books. The case was up for trial before Magistrate Masson this morning, but Mr. W. D. M. Shorey who appeared for the trustees, stated that the parents of the boys had apologized and paid all costs. As the trustees only desired to put a stop to these disdemeanors, the charge was not pressed. Mr. P. J. M. Anderson representing the Crown, consented to the withdrawal of the charge. It is to be hoped that this will be a lesson that will not be forgotten by the boys of that village.

GRAND PRIX AWARDED THE AUTOPIANO

Distinction Conferred on This Instrument at the Anglo-American Exposition, London.

The latest link in the long chain of Autopiano international awards and international successes is the Grand Prix that has just awarded The Autopiano exhibit at the Anglo-American Exposition, London, England. The Autopiano Co. had a very brilliant and most comprehensive display of its latest instruments and its exhibit was under the auspices of Messrs. Kastner & Co., Ltd., their London representatives.

The Grand Prix is the highest honor that can be given at the Anglo-American Exposition, and the officials of the Autopiano Co. are naturally extremely gratified because of this latest stamp of international approval. A handsome diploma will be issued in the near future emphasizing the remarkable combination of Autopiano qualities and eumerating the detailed reasons why the Grand Prix was awarded.

No playerpiano manufacturer has a larger or more impressive list of international awards and trophies than the Autopiano and endorsements from such exalted sources are the best proof positive of the Autopiano's artistic properties, extraordinary versatility staunch durability.

W. B. RIGGS, SOLE REPRESENTATIVE.

What Happened To the Cats?

Not long ago the U. S. Gov't. made some experiments to determine the poisoning qualities of caffeine (the drug in tea and coffee).

Twenty-seven healthy cats were given an average dose of 5 4/5 grains of caffeine — about as much of the drug as is contained in 2 or 3 cups of tea or coffee.

What do you suppose happened?

The Cats all Died!

See Gov't. Bulletin No. 148, Bureau of Chemistry.

Of course they were only cats.

But there are plenty of people who dose themselves with enough caffeine every day to kill a cat and Cripple a Man, not at one blow, but by little blows repeated daily.

Of course some systems are strong enough to stand all kinds of abuse, but most systems are not. And when a man or woman observes a growing nervousness or sleeplessness, heart trouble, stomach, bowel or eye disturbance, it is time to quit both tea and coffee and turn to a real food-drink, free from the drug, "caffeine."

It is easy to shift from tea or coffee to for in POSTUM one gets a delicious drink with the true nourishment of whole wheat from which it is made. Postum is roasted with a bit of wholesome molasses, has a delightful snappy flavour and is entirely free from the drug, caffeine, or any harmful substance.

POSTUM

Postum comes in two forms: Regular Postum which must be boiled. Instant Postum—soluble form—made in the cup instantly with hot water. Grocers sell both kinds and the cost per cup is about the same.

"There's a Reason" For POSTUM

Canadian Postum Cereal Co., Ltd., Windsor, Ont.

TO ENLIST NEW FORCE

Canada Will Organize a Second Contingent at Once

Ten Thousand Men Will Be Despatched to Europe In December and Thirty Thousand Will Be Kept Constantly In Training for Service — Ten Thousand for Home Defence—Premier's Statement.

OTTAWA, Oct. 19. — An official statement given out last night by the Prime Minister, Sir Robert Borden, announces that the Government will proceed at once with the organization of Canada's second expeditionary force, the first installment of which consisting of 10,000 men, is to be despatched in December. Sixteen to twenty thousand men are to be immediately enlisted, under the supervision of the commanding officers of the various military divisions throughout Canada, and as soon as equipment, rifles, etc., are available the Government will keep continuously under arms and in training a total force of 40,000 men, including some 10,000 needed for garrison and outpost duty in Canada. The Prime Minister states that this force will be maintained as long as the war lasts, or as long as the War Office wants them, and a continuous stream of reinforcements will thus be available for service at the front.

The Prime Minister's announcement which follows extensive conferences with Col. Gwatkin, chief of staff, and Col. Denison, adjutant-general, says:

"The first concern of the Canadian Government is the defence of our own territory, including our ports and harbors. For this purpose about 8,000 men are now under arms in Canada, and are serving on garrison or outpost duty from the Atlantic to the Pacific. At important points on both coasts the defences have been strengthened and guns have been mounted. Other coast and harbor defences, the nature of which it is not desirable to publish, have also been prepared. Expert military advisers of the Government advise that this force could be very rapidly increased from the active militia at a few hours' notice, and they consider that every reasonable safeguard against successful attack has been provided.

"As to the organization and despatch of further contingents the following conclusions have been reached:

"(1) From the present time until the end of the war, so long as the War Office shall deem it advisable, Canada will keep continuously in training and under arms (in addition to the eight thousand men above mentioned) 30,000 men.

"(2) As soon as arms, guns and equipment can be provided for a force of ten thousand men that force will be despatched to Great Britain as the first instalment of a second expeditionary force. Thereupon additional men will be enlisted, so as to keep the number under training continuously at 30,000. This process will continue from time to time. That is to say, as soon as each force of 10,000 men is armed, equipped and despatched another force of 10,000 will be enlisted to take its place, and to bring the number in training up to 30,000.

"(3) It is anticipated that the first force of 10,000 men will be despatched in December, and thereafter at regular intervals similar forces will be continuously sent forward as rapidly as they can be armed and equipped.

"(4) Including the forces on garrison and outpost duty, we shall thus have under arms or in training about 40,000 men in Canada, and, until the end of the war, or until the War Office advises that further expeditionary forces are not needed, a steady stream of reinforcements will go forward from our shores to the seat of the war.

"(5) If the expected communication from the War Office should make any modification in the above arrangements necessary, that modification will be announced at a later date.

"(6) The Government is informed by its military advisers that it would be impossible to supply arms, guns and equipment on a larger scale than that laid down in these proposals.

"(7) Pending advices from the War Office as to the composition of the second contingent, which have not yet been received, infantry to the number of 16,000 or 20,000 will be immediately enlisted, and the organization and training of infantry units will be proceeded with throughout the Dominion from Halifax to Victoria.

"(8) As soon as the expected instructions arrive from the War Office immediately arrangements will be made for enlisting such cavalry, artillery, engineers and administrative units as the War Office may advise."

More Stringent With Spies.

LONDON, Oct. 19—The authorities are taking more stringent measures against alien enemies who remain undetained in England. Yesterday afternoon the police raided a large restaurant owned and managed by Germans and Austrians. These were taken to a detention camp.

The agitation against permitting natives of hostile countries to continue their vocations here is growing as reports come in of alleged operations of German spies in Antwerp before that city fell.

Earthquake In Greece.

LONDON, Oct. 19.—A despatch to the Exchange Telegraph Co. from Athens says that at eight o'clock on Saturday morning and again at noon there were continuous seismic shocks in the Grecian provinces of Attica, Boeotia and Peloponnesus. At Thebes hundreds of cottages were overthrown and many persons injured. The shocks are continuing, and have been felt in Athens.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

Mrs. G. F. Barnewall left for her home in Prinve Rupert, B.C., after spending several months with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Johnson, 217 Charles street.

Mrs. Gordensmith, Belleville, is spending a few weeks in Montreal, the guest of C. Gordensmith.

Kindness and politeness would be appreciated more if they were not used so often as gold brick substitutes.

THE WEATHER.

Light to moderate winds, fair Tuesday, moderate winds, fine and a little warmer.

Try Our
DOUGHNUTS
FRIED CAKE
and
ALL KINDS OF PASTRY
Jas. Wallace & Co.

It Will Pay You To Buy The Best In Jewelry

You will always find here prices which are exceptionally fair and moderate. The new original designs constantly being added to our stock enable purchasers to choose from a practically unlimited field.

When looking for a gift, it would be best simply to come in, walk through the store and let the various articles tell their own stories.

Angus McFee
Jeweler. Optician.
The Store with the Big Clock.

Wallbridge & Clarke's Delicious Coffee
Best in Quality
Best in Value

Neilson's Chocolates
Fresh Supplies
"Aristocratic", "Demonstrator", "Classic", "Empress", "Every Piece Different", "Cream Dipped Brazils", "De Lux,", etc, etc.

Wallbridge & Clarke
Established 1871

Clean Your House With Electricity

Just at this time, house sweeping is being given serious thought. Why not clean your house with A VACUUM CLEANER? Cleans thoroughly, quickly, and takes the dirt out, minus dust flying.

The Trenton Electric and Water Company Limited
Oswald H. Scott. Local Mgr.

THE NEW STORE

New Goods Arriving Daily

New Neckwear
New Blouses
New Gloves
New Hosiery
New Corsets
New Unkerskirts
Hoalth Brand Underwear from 25c to $2.00 each.
New Sweaters from 50c to $7.00 each.

New Linens
Flannels
Blankets
Staples

Serges Meltons
Cashmeres

Men's and Boys' Underwear, Ties, Shirts, Sox, Braces.

Just placed in stock 100 pairs Blankets, prices from $1.25 to $7.00 pair.

PATRONAGE SOLICITED. SATISFACTION ASSURED.

WIMS & CO.

NEXT DOOR TO GEEN'S. 282 FRONT STREET

J. T. DELANEY
FURRIER
Furs Made To Order
Repairing, Remodelling and Relining.
Also have in stock made up Furs at Reasonable Prices.
236½ Front St. Phone 797
(Over Blackburn's Jewellery Store)

RUPTURE
(SEE DATES AT BOTTOM)

COMING

J. Y. Egan, Specialist of Toronto
Wonderful Method Retains Rupture Without Knife, Danger or Pain.

Old style truss torture is no longer necessary. Galling, slipping trusses, barbarous methods of treating rupture done away with by the wonderful invention of a specialist who has devoted fifty years to this one study. The marvelous EGAN "CURATRUS" is intended to give instant relief, rest and security without operation. It stops all irritation, restores rupture to natural position, and old trusses are thrown away. Multitudes of cured men, women and children testify. Greatest success where others fail. Nothing complicated, no pain—just a natural retentive method at small cost. Immediate relief guaranteed. No foreign mail order lies. Safer to patronize a Canadian personally. Do not delay; tear off coupon now.

Free Rupture Coupon.
This coupon, upon presentation to J. Y. Egan, specialist, 14 East King St., Toronto, who will visit the towns below, entitles bearer to free consultation and examination of samples. Ask at hotel office. Note dates.

Campbellford, Windsor Hotel, Oct. 19th
Belleville—Anglo-American Hotel, Tuesday (afternoon and night); Wednesday (all day and night, 1½ days only—October 20th and 21st.
Picton—Globe Hotel, Oct. 22nd

Ruptures Cured

By Chiropractic are permanent cures. The truth of this statement can be proven by the success I have had with others.

Dr. B. G. HAHN
Chiropractor
42½ Bridge St. Phone 758

INTELLIGENCER
NIGHT LETTER BOX

Our friends will find a letter box in The Intelligencer Front Door for the reception of news items after the office closing hours. The box will be emptied each morning.

Don't have too little confidence in yourself or too much in others.

MARRIAGE LICENSES

Marriage Licenses issued by P. Harrison at The Intelligencer Office, or at residence, Lewis Street.

Advertise in The Intelligencer.

LITERARY NOTES.

THE WAR AND CANADA
(The Canadian Courier.)

Canada was first officially declared to be at war on the fifth day of August when the Governor-General-in-Council issued a document concerning enemy merchant ships which began thus:

> "Whereas a state of war now exists between this country and Germany."

On the following day another such order was issued with regard to the militia. The wording was somewhat different:

> "Whereas in view of the state of war existing between the United Kingdom and the Dominions, Colonies and Dependencies of the Empire, on the one side, and Germany on the other side; and in view of the fact that thereby the Dominion of Canada is liable to invasion and other assaults of a hostile nature, such an emergency has arisen as calls for the placing of the militia on 'active service.'"

Canada therefore has been in a state of war for more than two months, although many of our citizens seem to have small appreciation of the fact. Canada is liable to invasion, her steamers are open to seizure on the high seas, every citizen between 21 and 60 years of age may be called to bear arms. Canadian goods may be shipped only to certain countries and certain goods not at all, aliens within our borders may be made prisoners of war, and other consequences may follow. Nevertheless our citizens go about their work much as usual. Only the closed stock exchanges and the idle ocean docks bear testimony that a new and historical period in our history has begun.

Nevertheless it would be well for Canadians to realize that this is "our" war. The fact that the fighting so far has been in Erope should not blind us to a clear perception of the fact that we share the losses of the Belgians and the French, and that we share the cost of maintaining the allied armies in the field. The sacrifice that Canada has made in sending an army of 30,000 men to Britain is but the beginning. If the war is at all prolonged, and this seems more and more certain the sacrifices Canada has made have but begun. It might possibly be that before the war is ended Canada will be called upon to contribute five times as many men as have already gone, and to spend vast sums in maintaining them."

Canadians therefore must prepare themselves for every emergency. Another army division must be equipped and held ready for the call which may come. Further measures are required to put our coast defences in better condition. More artillery, rifles and ammunition must be manufactured. Trade conditions must be adjusted to altered circumstances. The finances of this country should be adjusted to meet the strain of even a succession of defeats. It will certainly be several years before capital will again be flowing freely between London and Canada, as it did in years gone by. An equally long period must elapse before we can call on the factories in Europe for much that had to be thought common necessaries. It behoves us to think and ponder and plan and execute! The task which lies before this new, small nation must not be underestimated. It will require all our courage and all our resource to perform it in a manner worthy of the Empire of which we are a considerable part.

ROYAL YEAST
MAKES PERFECT BREAD

DANCING.

Mr. and Mrs. Johnstone's Select and Refined Classes meet every Monday and Thursday evening. Private instruction daily; private lessons at any hour by appointment. Phone 750.

On Thursday evening, Oct. 22nd, a Special Dance will be given in aid of Red Cross Fund. Dancing, 8.30 till 12. Usual admission.

Patriotic Pledge By Manufacturers

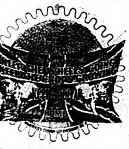
Walkerville, Ont., Business Men Start Campaign to "Keep Dollar at Home."

"Keep the Dollar at Home" is the keynote of a patriotic campaign instituted by the Board of Trade, Walkerville, Ontario, which in its practical results, bids fair to be of considerable importance.

The Walkerville Board has entered on this campaign in a thoroughly business-like manner, adopting a pictorial trademark, also a patriotic slogan, which they invite other Boards of Trade throughout Canada to adopt.



Walkerville's Patriotic Trade Mark

The secretary of the local Board of Trade has received from the Walkerville Board of Trade a copy of their trade-mark, a cut of which appears herewith, also copies of the patriotic Proclamation, which has been sent broadcast through Canada by the Walkerville manufacturers and wholesaler.

Their proclamation is very handsomely printed in four colors and is headed as follows:

> "The Dominion of Canada has a clear duty and well defined course in defending the Mother Country: What is your patriotism worth?
>
> Remember that Canada's best contribution to defence of the Empire is to keep hard at work providing food and other necessities of life. Let's forget our little quarrels and show our patriotism by hard work."

Such well known firms as the Ford Motor Company of Canada, Ltd., Hiram Walker & Sons distillers, Parke Davis & Company Peabodys Company Limited, and others have sent these Proclamations at their own expense to their dealers throughout the Dominion with the request that they be posted simultaneously in the windows of retail stores and elsewhere.

This campaign is a purely unselfish one and is based on the theory that it is the patriotic duty of the manufacturers to keep their employees at work, full time if possible, during war time.

Also, that the manufacturer can do this only if the consumer in Canada will spend his money for Canadian made goods

O.S.D. TOO MANY FOR ROLLING MILLS.

Back of the Rolling Mills is a level stretch of ground that was once the Belleville cricket course but now serves the dual purpose of a cow pasture and a football field. Here, on Saturday afternoon was played a splendid game of football, between the nifty lads from the O.S.D. and a husky eleven from the Rolling Mills. During the course of the game, just to show that she and sister-kind had not given up their claims to the ground, a frisky bovine tripped across the field of play when chased, kicked up her heels in derision as she scampered off.

The Rolling Mills boys proved to be good players but, being unfamiliar with one another's play they lacked combination and the game proved to me a match between a well-practised football team and an eleven composed of good individual players, who made little attempt at team play, and with the usual result, combination won—the Deaf boys coming victors by 2 to 1. There is no getting away from the fact that the Deaf lads are a splendid team, fleet-footed, sharp as needles, after the ball like hawks, and playing the game for all that is in them. Each boy on the team knows his position position and plays it well, and seems to know almost intuitively, for he doesn't seem to look, just where there is a teammate to whom to pass the ball.

The city boys also put up a good gabe. Eves and Johnson, at full back, did great work, while A. Knott and G. Green getting the first one on a kick forwards. Among the Deaf boys where all did so well, it is hard to particularize. One goal was scored in each half, Green geeting teh first one on a kick from out near centre field and Martin the second as a result of a nice rush goal. The teams were:

O.S.D.—Goal, Nurse; backs, Ford, Hughes; half backs, Payne, Green, A. Forrester; forwards, W. McAdam, McDougall, Martin, Brown, Dorchner.

Rolling Molls—Goal J. Knott; backs, Johnson, Eves; half backs, Gozeley, London, Sullivan; forwards A. Knott, A. Knott, E. Miller, W. Grant, W. Hogan.

Referee—G. Grant.

ATTACKS REPULSED.

Austro-German Army Tries In Vain to Cross the Vistula.

PETROGRAD, Oct. 19.—The London Telegraph's special correspondent says: "So far the battle of the Vistula has gone in favor of Russia. The Austro-Germanic armies at all points have failed to force the passage of the River Vistula. Everywhere the enemy has been compelled to assume the defensive. There is nothing to justify the assumption that anything like a finally decisive result has been attained. The enemy retired in god order, without forfeiting any integral portion of his strength. The Germans made a very determined and pertinacious fight to get a footing on the right bank of the Vistula. With an enormous mass of artillery they kept up a terrific bombardment day and night. Under cover of an incessant rain of projectiles attempts were made to throw pontoons across the river at no fewer than eighteen separate points. However, all efforts were in vain. The Germans were repulsed everywhere. Large quantities of bridging material were destroyed. The enemy's losses must be very heavy.

"The attempts of the Germans to cross the Niemen, near Druskeniki, cost them about 20,000 men. On the East Prussian front the operations have taken the character of a siege, the Germans offering a stubborn resistance along a carefully prepared line of retrenchment. They had been reinforced from East Prussian garrisons. The recent fighting in this region has been of a most determined and sanguinary nature. The difficulties of the troops had been rendered much more severe by the torrential rains which fell during several days and nights almost without intermission. Many bogs, in which the region abounds, have been transformed into lakes. Those portions of Suwalki government which were occupied by the Germans were completely denuded of all means of subsistence, so it is impossible to rely on local supplies."

TELEGRAPH BRIEFS.

The steam trawler Ajax, out of Grimsby, has been blown up in the North Sea by a German mine. Nine members of the crew lost their lives.

The Westmount Rifles, a new regiment for Montreal, was authorized by the Militia Department Saturday. It will have eight companies of 57 men.

Five men—a civilian and four soldiers of the United States cavalry—were wounded yesterday at Naco, Ariz., by Mexican bullets that flew far over the International boundary.

The French Government, pursuing the campaign against German-owned business, Saturday seized six concerns. One was a department store and the others wine establishments.

The British steamer Kwarra, from Montreal, before reported as arrived at Sierra Leone with bunker coal on fire, and was beached, has been floated. Cargo in No. 2 hold, is destroyed.

Sixty-four Germans, between the ages of 18 and 25 years, were arrested in Paris Saturday. Two more groups of Germans, Austrians and Hungarians were sent to the provinces.

An amendment to the proclamation prohibiting trade with the enemy forbids doing any insurance business with the enemy through a branch established in British, allied or neutral territory.

Murray Hendrie, of Valley Ranch, near High River, Alta., brother of Lieut.-Governor Hendrie of Ontario, is dead, following fatal injuries sustained in a runaway accident near his home Thursday evening.

In one of the most daring outbreaks ever attempted at California state penitentiary, Capt. J. B. Drury of the night watch, and George Phelps, a convict, were killed, two guards wounded, and a life termer escaped.

SOME SHARPSHOOTER!

Senegalese Soldier Met German Patrol and Bagged Party.

FROM THE BATTLEFRONT, Oct. 19.—(Via Paris.)—As an instance of individual courage among the native troops, a French Senegalese sharpshooter, acting as the servant of a French general, was ordered to proceed to a certain place near the front at a certain time within the general's automobile. He arrived at the stated time with the machine piled with lances, swords, accoutrements, saddles and helmets.

The native had encountered a German patrol in the road, stopped his machine, jumped out with his rifle and killed the entire party.

Opening For Canadians.

OTTAWA, Oct. 19.—Imports from Germany to South Africa amounting to $17,000,000 per annum are cut off by the war, according to the Canadian Trade Commissioner at Cape Town, and some of the things Canada could now supply South Africa are asbestos manufactures, brushware, clothing, cotton manufactures, hosiery and underwear, condensed milk and fencing wire.

Our Men's
$4.00 Fall Wieght Shoes
Cannot be Equaled

Heavy Wet Proof Soles
Leather Lined in
Tan, Black and
White Elk Leathers

We expect to offer these great values
$4.00
during this season when price will advance

SEE OUR WINDOW

The J. J. HAINES SHOE HOUSES
Belleville Napanee Trenton Smith's Falls

Special Underwear Sale

Men's, Women's and Children's underwear, reliable and popular makes in Fall and Winter Weights, at special value giving prices.

MEN'S UNDERWEAR.

Two great specials in Nova Scotia unshrinkable wool underwear, all sizes, shirts and drawers. Extra value per garment, 75c. and $1 each.

Blue and red label all wool shirts, reg. $1.25 and $1.50 each. Bargain price .......... $1.00

Natural wool underwear, fine quality wool in all sizes, on sale per garment .......... $1.00

Fall weight undershirts for men, reg. 50c.; sale price .......... 35c.

WOMEN'S UNDERWEAR.

Unusual values in women's underwear, white or natural, high necks, long sleeves, button fronts, 50c. vest and drawers; sale price 25c.

Other great specials on sale, per garment .......... 35c. and 50c.

Women's white vests, 25c. each, on sale .......... 15c.

White woven corset covers, 25c. each. Sale price .......... 15c.

Great values in Women's Turnbull's natural wool vest and drawers, on sale, garment .......... $1.00

CHILDREN'S UNDERWEAR.

Great bargain price on boys' natural wool shirt and drawers, double fronts and backs, fine soft wool on sale, 20 per cent. less than regular prices.

All sizes in Children's underwear on sale, 15c., 25c., and 50c. per garment.

McINTOSH BROS.

Our October Sale
IS NOW IN FULL SWING

The following goods are on sale at SPECIAL PRICES:
Enamelware, Flannelettes, Cottons, Soaps, Brooms, Starches, Hair Brushes, Gas Mantles, Table Oilcloth, Pictures, Stamped Linen Goods, and hundreds of lines of Smallwares.
Be sure and get your share of the good things while they last.

THE BEEHIVE CHAS. N. SULMAN

One of the many New Style Hats for Men, only - $2.00

At G. T. WOODLEY'S
Belleville's only Exclusive Hatter and Furrier.

IF YOU LEAVE IT TO OUR JUDGMENT
we will supply the kind of canned goods you will thoroughly appreciate when you come to eat them. In fact you can do the same with any groceries you may need. You can send your little girl or boy with a list of the things you want and we will select them even more carefully than you would if you came in person.

H. E. FAIRFIELD

ADVERTISE IN THE INTELLIGENCER

To Keep Our Workers Busy

For nearly half a century the standard price and the higher character of Gerhard Heintzman Pianos have been rigidly maintained. Nothing would induce us to lower the quality or the reputation that these pianos have earned. But these are strenuous times, and necessitate stern measures.

Profit Sacrificed to Keep Wheels Turning

We are reducing the price of Gerhard Heintzman Pianos to the point where profit vanishes, solely in order that the enormous business that will result will enable us to keep the hundreds of employees in our factories at work. The skilled workmen who build represent an almost unique organization. If work stopped this organization would drift apart; and, aside from the misery and suffering entailed in non-employment, we would be confronted with the enormous task of rebuilding an organization capable of upholding our standards. Rather would we sacrifice all profit now.

GERHARD HEINTZMAN PIANOS

You Reap the Advantage

Never was a better time to purchase a really high-class instrument. Those who found the price of the Gerhard Heintzman Piano the only obstacle to its possession now have that obstacle removed. Buy your Piano now-save money—help hundreds of families.

Gerhard Heintzman, Limited

J. A. Goodsell & Co.,
316-318 FRONT STREET

Keep This Date Open

Thursday & Friday Evenings
October 22 and 23
At City Hall

Courtship of Canada

The Most Spectacular Patriotic Entertainment of the Season.

TICKETS 25c
Reserved Seats 35c
Reserved Plan opens at Goodsell's Music Store, Front Street, Wednesday morning at 9 o'clock.
Half Proceeds in aid of Patriotic fund.

SPECIAL SHOE VALUES FOR MEN
$5.00 Shoes
For $3.48

Come here for Fall Shoes. The weather is cool, and comfort demands them. We are placing on sale for quick clearance

300 Pairs Men's $5.00 Shoes for $3.48

All sizes, and up to the minute in style, including GUN METAL, TAN, and PATENT BUTTONED or BLUCHERS, while they last, all one price,.................... $3.48

ADAMS, The Shoeman
Next Door to Sinclair's
PHONE 495

Daily Intelligencer.

Printed and published every afternoon except Sundays, for The Intelligencer Printing and Publishing House (Limited), in the City of Belleville, County of Hastings, Province of Ontario, at their offices, No. 287 Front Street.

CHARLES JAMES BOWELL, Publisher.

RATES OF ADVERTISING.

Measurement, Agate—14 lines to the inch.
Display Advertisements, 10c. per line.
Reading Advertisements, 15c. per line.
Legal Advertisements, 10c. per line first insertion, 5c. per line subsequent insertions.
Preferred position, 20 per cent. advance upon usual contract rates.
Minimum space, 10 lines.
Births, 25c. each insertion. Marriages, 50c. each insertion. Deaths or funeral notices, either singly or combined, $1.00.
Rates for condensed advertisements will be found elsewhere.
Business cards by the year at low rates.
Further information may be obtained at The Intelligencer business office.
Weekly Intelligencer to the United States, $1.50, strictly in advance.

THE HOPE OF THE POLES

A Petrograd despatch declares that the work of the Poles on the battlefield is beyond praise. The Poles have ever been a brave race, and now that their country is again a battleground they are a most important factor in the determining events of this war.

A better condition for the Poles is predicted as a result of the war. For more than a century and a half the Polish question has been one of great importance and since the present struggle for liberty and justice began there has been considerable open discussion of many matters which hitherto have been dealt with only in secret. Dr. J. H. Retinger, a writer who has made a careful study of Polish conditions, declares that Poland during her long history has done more for the defence of European civilization than any other nation. She was the rear guard of occidental culture against the Asiatic invasion, and in the same way she fought against, and impeded for many years, the growth of German militarism as evidenced in Prussia.

In attempting to perform her double duty Poland has for centuries been one gigantic battlefield. The fight with German militarism, which began with the history of Poland, has never finished, in spite of the fact that the Germans have always been defeated in an open military operation. It was through Prussian diplomacy, generally of a kind that could not bear investigation, that the partition of Poland was ultimately brought about in collaboration with Austria and Russia.

In England, Dr. Retinger was delighted with the feeling he found in favor of the Poles, and he was equally pleased with the attitude of France towards the Polish cause. He looks for a new era for Poland, now that the time has come for Europe to lend a helping hand. The Poles, he has found, trust in the honesty of the English and French. They admire their gallantry and love their past history, as well as their present institutions. If the artificial lines which divide Poland were removed, she would be the seventh state in Europe, in population and territory being larger than Spain, and a little smaller than Italy. The Poles outnumber the united population of the Balkan peninsula. Their chief city, Warsaw, is the seventh city in Europe, and the population of their five other largest towns exceeds 100,000 each.

Poland's exports to other countries are large, her productions being far more than enough to satisfy her own demands. The coal fields of Silesia and Western Galicia are considered amongst the richest in Europe, while Galicia is the greatest oil producing country on the continent. Salt, copper, zinc, iron and sulphur are also found in large quantities. Her oak is renowned throughout the world.

As the present war is a fight for the freedom of nationalities, Dr. Retinger concludes that it ought to help Poland; for, he asks, what other nation has ever been so unjustly oppressed as the Polish nation? He does not argue the question with those who say that Poland fell through her own fault and through the dissensions which occurred in the time of her partitions. Whether his assertions are wholly correct or not, it is generally believed that a united Poland would be a fine bulwark in future against any uncivilized invaders.

DRS. SOPER & WHITE

SPECIALISTS

Piles, Eczema, Asthma, Catarrh, Pimples, Dyspepsia, Epilepsy, Rheumatism, Skin, Kidney, Blood, Nerve and Bladder Diseases.

Call or send history for free advice. Medicine furnished in tablet form. Hours—10 a.m. to 1 p.m. and 2 to 6 p.m. Sundays—10 a.m. to 1 p.m.

Consultation Free

DRS. SOPER & WHITE

25 Toronto St., Toronto, Ont.

GLOBE AND ELECTION

(Montreal Daily Mail)

Why is the Toronto Globe so mortally afraid of an election that it has been thrown in a frenzy at the rumor of it? The cause is not hard to run to earth.

The Globe, more than any other agency in Canada, contributed to the blocking of Sir Robert Borden's naval policy. The plan to-day is justified in every detail. The grim line of super-Dreadnoughts ranged up, as it has been proved, out of range of submarines and torpedo boats in the North Sea, is the essential of Britain's sea power. They are the compelling force that keeps the German battleships and battle cruisers behind the land fortifications at Wilhelmshaven and Kiel. They and not cruisers, are what the Admiralty asked of the Borden administration.

It was the Globe, with its fatuous ignorance, now so strikingly silhouetted against the blaze of a world-war, that opposed this tooth and nail. Its editor sat in the gallery of the House of Commons loudly applauding the anti-Dreadnought speeches of the debate. Its editorial espousal of the Senate's rejection of the grant of $35,000,000 was vigorous and jubilant in tone as to the merits of the question; and as a partisan triumph of the moment tortured into the appearance of a national duty. The Globe regarded the Senate's action as something about which there could be no possible question.

The Globe was short-sighted. It was positively myopic when it refused to admit the emergency that gave rise to the present war as the same one which Mr. Borden urged. In its own columns since, the "bolt from the blue" utterance has been vindicated by a recital of the plans centering about General von Bernhardi, his book, and his American mission. The Globe has admitted the great German conspiracy which constituted the emergency foretold by Sir Robert Borden.

But never since the war began has the Globe eschewed politics. It sought to make an issue out of the selection of Valcartier as a camp. It has preached silly peace sermons, whose only practical effect could be to discourage recruiting and retard military preparation in this country on a scale in keeping with our resources and patriotic ambition. It has not scrupled to insinuate in the most oblique and globular manner that there have been and now is a division in the Cabinet at Ottawa. Its general attitude has been a cross between a smirk and a sneer. It is responsible for the projection of the idea that the affairs of Canada at this juncture were not in the hands of men big enough for the job. And now it lashes about at the mere mention of an election, holding that there is a "war truce" between the parties. A more impudent suggestion—when considered as coming from the Globe—could not be conceived.

We do not know what the Government's intentions are with regard to an election. We are not in the confidence of the Government. But we do know that the Globe has no license to "kick"—to put it vulgarly—if the Government chooses to take advantage of the position in which the Globe has done so much to land its political party. The Globe should takes its medicine when the election comes, no matter whether now or a year hence. The Globe's attitude will take no end of explaining. The paper will be forced to remember that its ideas are not the only factor that enter into public life, especially when the sport, or whatever it may be called, of playing the political game, centres about vital Imperial projects and the life and soul of our own Dominion.

CURRENT COMMENT

The London Financial Times points out that England may be called upon to give financial assistance to other of its allies than Belgium before the war is over. One thing is certain, however, the Times explains, and that is in the case of the two Germanic countries any money that is needed will have to be raised internally.

The Saskatchewan government statistics show that although the wheat crop was not so large as in 1913, the farmers are getting far better prices than in previous years. That is true of the whole West, and it is doing much to dissipate the business scare which swept so many western towns and cities at the outbreak of the war.

St. John Telegraph: "Canada is not suffering as a result of the war. While some of her industries have had their output reduced, others are working day and night. The absence of importations from Europe will make a greater demand at home, and exports to England and the United States go on as usual. Everywhere the farmers are benefitting by better prices. Clearly this is no time to be afraid."

From recent tests made by United States naval officers it appears that battleships have very little chance of surviving a well directed torpedo attack. Steel nets are not sufficient protection. A torpedo with 210 pounds of gun-cotton was fired from a torpedo boat at a steel net that had been moored in a cove. The torpedo exploded and water was sent 100 feet into the air. The surface of the water was covered with dead fish after the experiment. Examination of the net, however, showed that the torpedo had pierced it and damaged it considerably.

Montreal News: "The Toronto Globe emits an anguished yowl—not howl, for that doesn't describe it—at the suggestion of an election. It has fifty-seven varieties of reasons against it. Not one of them, however, is so silly as The Star's Grahamesque fancy that a defeat of the Borden Government would mean that awful thing, namely that the people did not approve of what we have done to aid Britain in the war. That idea is worthy of Sir Hugh when thinking hard—as he himself describes it "lying in bed with my eyes shut."

Broiling or toasting is done better and more easily because the broiler door on a McClary's Pandora Range permits using the largest toaster and placing it close to the fire. Interview the McClary dealer.

"Made in Canada"

Sold by The Smith Hardware Co.

A Model Speech

Premier Hearst addressed the Women's Conservative Club, of Toronto, on the 16th, and delivered the following admiral speech. We quote the Globe's report:

Disciple of Sir James.

Mr. Hearst opened appropriately with a tribute to the personality, worth and achievements of the late Sir James Whitney. "A a young man," said he, "the task of following such a man might well nigh stagger me. But I have received the assurance of loyalty and support from the great Conservative party of the Province of Ontario." He pledged himself to "give the best that is in me, to consecrate myself to the duties before me, and to carry on to some extent the work of my revered and distinguished predecessor, while not being slow to take up new action."

He assured the gathering that "the Government is united, the party is united in the Legislature, and we have all been cheered by the kind words and good wishes received from every section of the party." He declared that "the party whose worth the people had learned to appreciate will continue long to administer the affairs of the Province for the benefit and uplift of its people."

Kaiser and the Dreadnoughts.

Premier Hearst then devoted his attention to resume of the war from its inception. Reviewing its causes he assigned as one, the conviction of the Kaiser that Canada would be indifferent, owing to the action of the Senate in "preventing the gift of three Dreadnoughts." He added, however, a moment later that the war was inevitable and it would have been "much more unfavorable to Britain had it been delayed." He paid glowing tributes to Sir Edward Grey, as the "greatest living diplomat," and to Premier Asquith of Britain for his noble sentiments in which all Canadians concurred.

"This is not aid which Canada is giving to the mother country," declared Premier Hearst referring to the landing of the Canadian contingents in Britain. "It is something she is doing in her own fight. Prussian militarism is dreaming of world conquest, and what greater prize could the Kaiser claim, should he be successful in this war, than Canada as a colonizing field?

"The growl of the Canadian whelp of the old lion has become a roar. Canada is in it to the end. She will not stop stop until 'Rule, Britannia' and 'The Maple Leaf' sound on the streets of Berlin. One contingent has gone, another is in course of preparation, and I am given to understand now that, if the necessity arises they will be followed by another and another and another. And they will all go gladly with the same spirit of patriotic determination. It is Britain's war, and it is Canada's war."

Influence of Women.

The new Premier made gallant reference to the fact that his inaugural public utterance was to the women. "But women's suffrage is too big a subject for me to discuss now," he added. "Let me tell you, however, that if every woman had a dozen votes she could never equal the influence which a Christian women exercises in the community."

Premier Hearst proclaimed his sound Methodist upbringing by declaring that the place of Christianity was first for the State as well as for the individual. Christianity should dominate politics and business, and not be merely a mantle to be discarded at the church door.

STRONG REASON FOR UNION WITH CANADA

Newfoundland's Position Would be Dangerous in Case of Misfortune to Allies

NEW YORK, Oct. 17.—The Herald prints the following from St. John's Nfld.:

The possibility of a union of Newfoundland with Canada is receiving renewed attention from political leaders here as a result of the European war.

Advances of the idea show the danger of this colony of a separate existence if misfortune should come to the Allies in the present struggle, and they emphasize also the strategic advantage to Canada of the possession of Newfoundland at the mouth of the St. Lawrence River.

In this connection the possible fate of the French island of Miquelon in the event of a German victory is being considered on account of the suitability as a naval coaling station.

Six years ago the German cruiser Panther made a lengthy stay in St. John's harbor, and her officers took many trips to the suburbs. They also went down the coast to the fishing settlement at St. Pierre, Miquelon. It is now believed that they made extensive notes during their stay. The harbor of St. Pierre is recognized as one of the best in this region, as it is free of ice during the entire winter.

THE INTELLIGENCER

PART I.

'Twas founded many years ago
By Benjamin, and flourished long,
Under his guiding hands, did grow
'Till ranked with greater papers 'mong.

Then Sir Mackenzie Bowell took
The management—but just plain Mac;
Young and ambitious, all his dreams
Have been fulfilled; do nothing lack.

A city child — I learned to read,
Looked for the serials that appeared,
Wished that my poems it might print,
And would have ventured but—I feared, [illegible]

PART II.

For seven and twenty years 't has come [illegible]
A welcome visitor to our home,
A party paper? Yes —but more,
It sought no fallen foeman's gore.

'T has been a precept and a guide,
It's policy e'er broad and wide,
The Editor—as Sir—long known,
Nor has his genial welcome flown.

He remembers well the friends who fought
His party conflicts, so he ought.
Their friendship he will ne'er forget,
They're dead and gone—those comrades—yet.

The children's children of those friends
Now men and women — upright he wends
His daily way—and may be seen
With courtly manner, genial mien.

At office of the paper, where,
He welcomes all with kindly air.
Of Sir Mackenzie we're all proud,
Praise The Intelligencer—loud.

His son doth now its fortunes guide
The paper that's known — far and wide,
It is our own — loved as a friend,
That we shall prize unto life's end.

—Alice Pyne McDavitt

Advertise in The Intelligencer.

Official Canadian Crop Bulletin

OTTAWA, Oct. 17.—A bulletin issued today by the Census and Statistics Office gives provisional estimates of the yield and quality of the principal Canadian grain crops, and also the condition of root and fodder crops, as compiled from reports of correspondents made on September 30.

In general the reports confirm the statement issued last month, the average yields per acre being about the same as then estimated for wheat, but being somewhat less for oats, barley and flax.

The total yields for Canada of the principal grain crops in bushels are as follows: Wheat 158,223,000, oats 311,426,000, barley 34,491,000, rye 2,258,000, peas 3,537,100, beans 823,400, buckwheat 9,159,000, flaxseed 7,533,000, mixed grains 16,458,000 and corn for husking 14,532,000.

The average quality of the grain crops at harvest time, measured upon a percentage basis — 100 representing grain well headed, well filled, well saved and unaffected to any appreciable extent by frost, rust, smut, etc., —is for the whole of Canada as follows —Wheat 78, oats 79, barley 76, rye 82, peas 75, beans 82, buckwheat 81, mixed grains 90, flax 64, and corn for husking 80. For wheat, barley and oats the figures are considerably below the excellent record of last year, the averages this year being reduced by the prolonged drought in the Northwest provinces. In these provinces the points for the quality of wheat, oats and barley range from 48 for barley in Saskatchewan to 78 for spring wheat in Alberta.

In the Maritime provinces both the yield and the quality of the grain crops are excellent.

The condition of root crops at September 30 is for all Canada about equal to last year, being 75 per cent. of a standard or full crop for potatoes, 78 p.c. for turnips, 80 p.c. for mangolds, carrots, etc., 89 p.c. for sugar beets 90 p.c. for fodder corn and 76 p.c. for alfalfa. In Manitoba and Saskatchewan the condition of the root crops is low owing to the drought. In Northern Alberta, where the season was of more normal character, these crops make a fair showing.

During September conditions have been generally favorable for harvesting and threshing, and in the Northwest provinces a great deal of threshing was completed by October 1. There are indications that the amount of fall ploughing this year will be greater than usual.

FARMERS OF ALBERTA MADE BIG PROFITS

First Fiscal Year of New Company Reviewed at Annual Meeting

CALGARY, Oct. 16.—Four hundred delegates representing six thousand shareholders of the Alberta Farmers' Co-operative Elevator Company an off shoot of the United Farmers' of Alberta, met here and reviewed the business affairs of the Farmers' Company for the first fiscal year. The company handled 3,774,381 bushels of grain in the seventy-eight elevators it is operating; it reduced the spread in the price of wheat, steadied the price and made a profit of $17,000. The live stock department will handle a little less than 50,000 hogs.

AT-HOME BALL, BANQUET, and Private Invitation Cards—new line—at The Intelligencer Job Dept. See these. Prices right.

CLIP $5.00 THIS
ILLUSTRATED BIBLE
HISTORICAL EDUCATIONAL DESCRIPTIVE
CERTIFICATE
PRESENTED TO YOU BY THE INTELLIGENCER, OCT, 19TH.

ABRAHAM LINCOLN SAID: "NO LIBRARY IS COMPLETE WITHOUT TWO CERTAIN BOOKS—THE BIBLE AND SHAKESPEARE; HARDLY A QUOTATION USED IN LITERATURE THAT IS NOT TAKEN FROM ONE OF THESE WORKS."

The above Certificate with 5 others of consecutive dates

Entitles bearer to this $5.00 Illustrated Bible

If presented at the office of this newspaper, together with the stated amount that covers the necessary EXPENSE items of this great distribution—including clerk hire, cost of packing, checking, express from factory, etc., etc.

MAGNIFICENT ILLUSTRATED $5 Edition of the BIBLE (like illustration in announcements from day to day) is bound in full flexible limp leather, with overlapping covers and title stamped in gold, with numerous full-page plates in color from the world famous Tissot collection, together with six hundred superb pictures graphically illustrating and making plain the verse in the light of modern Biblical knowledge and research. The text conforms to the authorized edition, is self-pronouncing, with copious marginal references, maps and helps; printed on thin bible paper, flat opening at all pages; beautiful, readable type. 6 Consecutive Free Certificates and the $1.18 Amount EXPENSE Items

The $3 ILLUSTRATED BIBLE is exactly the same as the $5 book, except in the style of binding, which is in silk cloth; contains all of the illustrations and maps. 6 consecutive free certificates and the 81c Amount EXPENSE Items

Also an Edition for Catholics

Through an exclusive arrangement, we have been most fortunate in securing the Catholic Bible, Douay Version, endorsed by Cardinal Gibbons and Archbishop (now Cardinal) Farley, as well as by the various Archbishops of the country. The illustrations consist of the full-page plates and maps approved by the Church, without the Tissot and text pictures. It will be distributed in the same bindings as the Protestant books and at the same Amount Expense Items, with the necessary Free Certificates.

Any Book by Mail, 23 Cents Extra for Postage.

RAILROAD TRANSPORTATION

GRAND TRUNK RAILWAY SYSTEM

TORONTO - CHICAGO
TORONTO - MONTREAL

The International Limited

Canada's Train of Superior Service

Leaves Toronto 4.40 p.m. daily, arrives Detroit 9.55 p.m. and Chicago 8.00 a.m.

MORNING SERVICE

Leaves Toronto 8 a.m., arrives Detroit 1.45 p.m. and Chicago 8.40 p.m. daily.

LAST TRAIN OUT OF TORONTO AT NIGHT

Leaves 11.35 p.m., arrives Detroit 8 a.m. and Chicago 3.00 p.m. daily, assuring important connection with principal trains for Western States and Canada.

FOR MONTREAL

Leaves Toronto 9 a.m., 8.30 p.m., and 11 p.m. daily.

Berth reservations, etc., at G. T. R. ticket offices.

H. C. Thompson, City Passenger and Ticket Agent, Phone 403.
T. H. Coppin, Station Ticket Agent, Phone [illegible]

CANADIAN PACIFIC

WINTER TOURS

To The Land of Sunshine and Summer Days.
CALIFORNIA, FLORIDA, LOUISIANA, ETC.

Limited trains leave Toronto daily, making direct connection at Detroit and Buffalo for the Southern States, and at Chicago for California, etc.

Those contemplating a trip of any nature should consult Canadian Pacific Agents, who will be pleased to quote rates, arrange reservations and attend to all details in connection with your trip, or write M. G. Murphy, District Passenger Agent, corner King and Yonge Streets, Toronto.

S. BURROWS, Gen. Agent, Belleville.

RETIRED

By Walt Mason.

The man who leads an active life grows weary of the business strife, which long since lost its zest he yearns to quit the beastly grind, to leave all trafficking behind, and have some ease and rest. "Some day, when I have made my pile," he murmurs, with a longing smile, "I'll sell this blamed old store, and put in my declining days at checker games, with other jays, and labor never more." That time arrives; his store he sells, then for a month he's wearing bells, a gladsome soul is he; but when an idle month is spent, you will not find a sadder gent than he, from sea to sea. The time hangs heavy on his hands, and slowly flow the hourglass sands as grease in winter time; each morn he greets with new despair, he finds that leisure is a snare, with idleness a crime. He hangs around the busy mart with weary eyes and aching heart, and envies those who hump; they're finding life serene and glad, as they pursue the festive scad—and he is at the dump. In seven months he ages more than in twice seven years before; the rest that he desired, but makes him wearier, by much: "Oh, what a chump" he sighs, in Dutch, "I was when I retired!" The wise men never means to quit, while he is competent and fit, and standing on his feet: the rest that come 'twixt sun and sun, when all your workday tasks are done—that rest alone is sweet.

Murder at Falls.

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., Oct. 17.—The badly mutilated body of Michael Franco, an Italian resident of this city, was found by John Scott yesterday in a cave near the Maid of the Mist landing on the Canadian side, and near-by was an oar bespattered with blood, indicating murder. On the face are cuts supposedly inflicted by a blunt instrument, the blow having fractured the skull. There are indication by a trail of blood stains that the body had been dragged over the rocks in an attempt to remove it from the cave.

The older a girl is the easier it is for her to forget her birthday anniversaries.

Advertise in The Intelligencer.

CANADIAN GOVERNMENT RAILWAYS
INTERCOLONIAL
PRINCE EDWARD ISLAND RY.

2 Through Trains 2

From Bonaventure Union Depot, Montreal.

OCEAN LIMITED

Leaves 7.30 p.m. daily for Quebec, Riviere du Loup, Campbellton, Moncton, St. John, Truro and Halifax. Connections for Glasgow, etc., and the Sydneys (except Saturdays).

Maritime Express

Leaves 8.40 a.m. daily except Saturday, for Quebec, Campbellton, Moncton, Truro, Halifax, St. John. On Saturdays will run Montreal to St. Flavie only.

For further information concerning rates, reservations, etc., apply to local Grank Trunk Railway Ticket or Freight Agent, or to E. Tiffin, General Western Agent, 51 King St. East, (King Edward Hotel Block), Toronto, Ontario.

RAILWAY TIME TABLE.

GRAND TRUNK RAILWAY

Time of departure from Belleville station.

Going East.

No. 18—12.30 a.m. Mail train, daily.
No. 16— 2.08 a.m. Fast train, Flyer, daily.
No. 32—Local for Brockville, 7 a.m.; arrives back from Brockville, 8.50, p.m.; daily except Sunday.
No. 6—11.10 a.m.—Mail and Express, daily.
No. 14—12.16 p.m. Express, daily.
No. 28— 5.45 p.m. Local passenger, daily except Sunday.
No. 30— 9.30 p.m.—Local passenger, daily except Sunday.

Going West.

No. 19— 2.15 a.m.—Mail and Express, daily.
No. 13— 4.35 a.m. Limited Express, daily.
No. 29— 7.50 a.m. Local Passenger, daily except Sunday, leaving Toronto 6.00 p.m., arrives in Belleville at 9.25 p.m., arrives in Kingston at 11.05 p.m.
No. 27—11.15 a.m. Passenger, daily except Sunday.
No. 1— 1.50 p.m. International Limited, daily.
No. 7— 4.55 p.m. Mail and Express, daily.

BELLEVILLE AND PETERBORO'

Going West.

| | Leave. | Ar. Peterboro' |
|---|---|---|
| Mail | 5.20 a.m. | 8.00 a.m. |
| Passenger | 6.00 p.m. | 8.10 p.m. |

Going East.

| | Arrive | Lv. Peterboro' |
|---|---|---|
| Mixed | 10.55 a.m. | 8.23 a.m. |
| Mail | 4.15 p.m. | 1.30 p.m. |

BELLEVILLE AND MADOC.

Going North.

| | Leave | Ar. Madoc |
|---|---|---|
| Mixed | [illegible].11 p.m. | 1.50 p.m. |
| Mixed | 6.30 p.m. | 7.50 p.m. |

Going South.

| | Arrive | Lv. Madoc |
|---|---|---|
| Mixed | 4.50 p.m. | 3.25 p.m. |
| Mixed | 9.15 a.m. | 7.15 a.m. |

None of the above trains run on Sunday.

RAILWAY TIME TABLE.

CANADIAN NORTHERN ONTARIO RAILWAY

EFFECTIVE SEPT. 14TH.

For Toronto and intermediate points—6.40 a.m., 5.15 p.m.

Trenton, Wellington, Picton and intermediate points—6.40 a.m., 12.40 noon.

Marmora, Bannockburn and Coe Hill—12.40 noon.

Marmora, Bannockburn, Bancroft and Maynooth, and intermediate stations—6.40 a.m.

Deseronto, Napanee and B. Q. stations—10.35 a.m., 1.00 p.m., 9.40 p.m.

For Kingston, Brockville, Smith's Falls, Ottawa and intermediate stations—9.40 p.m.

Trains arrive from Toronto and intermediate points—1.00 p.m., 9.40 p.m.

From Picton, Wellington, Trenton and intermediate stations—10.35 a.m., 6.05 p.m., 9.40 p.m.

From Napanee, Deseronto and intermediate stations—6.40 a.m., 12.40 p.m., 5.15 p.m.

From Maynooth and intermediate stations—6.22 p.m.

From Coe Hill and intermediate stations—10.35 a.m.

From Tamworth and intermediate stations—5.15 p.m.

From Kingston, Brockville, Smith's Falls, Ottawa and intermediate stations—5.15 p.m.

THE STANDARD BANK OF CANADA

QUARTERLY DIVIDEND NOTICE No. 96.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that a Dividend at the rate of Thirteen Per Cent Per Annum upon the Capital Stock of this Bank has been declared for the quarter ending the 31st October, 1914, and that the same will be payable at the Head Office in this City and its Branches on and after Monday, the 2nd day of November, 1914, to shareholders of record of the 23rd of October, 1914.

By order of the Board,
G. P. SCHOLFIELD,
Toronto, 29th September, 1914. General Manager.

JOHN ELLIOTT, Manager, Belleville Branch

Shannonville Branch open Mondays and Thursdays
Foxboro " " Tuesdays and Fridays
Rednersville " " Wednesdays

The Merchants Bank Of Canada

Capital ........................ $7,000,000
Reserve ........................ $7,000,000

YOUR SAVINGS ACCOUNT INVITED

Interest added every six months. Small or large amounts deposited. Banking may be done by mail. Drafts on any parts of the world sold or bought.

A General Banking Business conducted.

Belleville Branch H. SNEYD, Manager

The LAPSE of ENOCH WENTWORTH

By ISABEL GORDON CURTIS

Author of "The Woman from Wolvertons"

ILLUSTRATIONS by ELLSWORTH YOUNG

COPYRIGHT, 1914, BY F. G. BROWNE & CO.

Into a fairly decent career there comes occasionally a moral lesion. Temptation comes, and the man, heretofore honorable and honest, falls as though his backbone were of gristle.

CHAPTER I.

The Bond.

Of course the game ended with a consolation pot. Merry and Wentworth, each with his last chip in the middle of the table, called for a show-down. All but Singleton dropped out, and he, the big winner of the evening, took the pot. Wentworth and Merry were broke.

The game had been played in Wentworth's library. Before its close the gray light of the morning began to steal past the curtains and the glow of each electric lamp took on a murky haze. Enoch Wentworth, acting as banker, cashed in the chips of the winners. Three of the men put on their hats, said "Good morning," and went out. Andrew Merry sat beside the baize-covered table with its litter of chips, pulling slowly at a cigar and staring into vacancy.

"Do you mind if I open this window?" asked Wentworth. "There's a chill in the air outdoors that will feel good. I've swallowed so much smoke my throat feels raw."

"Open every window in the room if you like, old man. I'm going home."

"Hold on a minute," cried Wentworth unexpectedly. "I'll go you just one more hand. Let's play one big stake and then swear off forever."

"I tell you, Enoch, I haven't a cent. Heaven knows how I can tide over these months until the season opens. It's a good thing I'm not a married man." Merry laughed mirthlessly.

"One last hand!" pleaded Wentworth.

"What do you want to play for?" Merry turned up a coat sleeve and stared at his cuff buttons thoughtfully. "I have nothing left but these. I don't think I'll put them up."

"We've thrown away enough money and collateral tonight," Wentworth replied. "Let's make this stake something unique—sentimental, not financial. Why not make it your future against mine?"

"That's a great stake! Sha'n't I throw in my past!"

"No, let each of us play for the other's future. It is a mere fancy of mine, but it appeals to me."

"Are you serious? What in God's name would you do with my future if you won it—what should I do with yours?"

"I tell you, it's a mere fancy of mine."

"All right. Carry out your fancy, if it amuses you. I ought to be willing to stake my life against yours on any hand, if you say so."

"Do you mean that?"

"Yes, if you want to call me."

Andrew Merry smiled and blew a flurry of smoke rings into the marble face of the Shakespeare, while he watched Wentworth's pen hurry across a sheet of paper. The newspaper man handed it to him with the ink still wet.

"There," he said, "we'll play for that document, the winner's name to be written at the top, the loser to write his name at the bottom."

Andrew Merry read it aloud:

To ————

I hereby pledge myself until death—to do your every bidding—to obey your every demand—to the extent of my physical and mental ability—you to furnish me with support.

"Will that hold good in law?"

"Just so long as the loser is a man of honor—no longer. Are you going to weaken?"

"I'll be damned if I am. I'll put this bit of paper in my scrapbook."

"The man who wins, keeps that bit of paper," Wentworth answered with a whimsical smile.

He tossed the unsigned bond into the center of the table and shuffled the cards with grave deliberation. Merry lit a fresh cigar and puffed it meditatively. Upon each listless brain began to dawn the realization that this was a stake of greater import than the rolls of bills which had grown lighter and lighter till the last greenback vanished.

"Who'll deal?" asked Wentworth.

"We'll cut." Merry spoke quietly. "Low deals, ace low."

Enoch Wentworth cut a tray, Merry a seven spot. Wentworth shuffled the cards again and held them out to his opponent.

"Does one hand decide it?"

"Yes, one hand. Each man to discard, draw, and show down."

Wentworth dealt with noticeable deliberation. They picked up their hands.

"Give me four cards," said Merry.

"I'll take three." Wentworth's face was as solemn as his voice.

For a moment each man sat staring at his hand. Then Merry spoke.

"There's no use in showing down," he said. "I haven't even one little pair."

"Hold on," expostulated Wentworth, scarcely concealing the relief which his friend's admission gave him. "I'm only ace high. Does that beat you?"

Merry's face also told its story of reaction. "Same here," he said, laying the card on the table face up, "and a jolly king to follow it."

"King for me, too." Wentworth's face flushed and his voice grew impatient. "What's your next card?"

"A ten," Merry replied tranquilly, too tense to wonder why Enoch awaited his declaration.

"Ten here. My God! are they all alike?"

"Seven next."

"And mine's a seven!"

Both men paused, each with his eyes on the other's card.

"And a four," cried Wentworth irritably. He passed his hand across his forehead; it was moist and cold.

"You win." When Merry tossed down his hand a tray turned over—it was the same tray which gave Wentworth the deal.

Wentworth had drawn to an ace and ten. Merry held up a king. The younger man lifted a pen, dipped it in the ink, and scrawled Enoch Wentworth across the slip of paper. At the bottom he wrote with grave deliberation, Andrew Merry, and handed the paper to Wentworth. The newspaper man stared at it for a moment, then dropped it on the table, laid his cheek on the palm of his hand, and looking straight in the face of the actor, asked: "Merry, do you realize what this means?"

"Not yet, perhaps; still I wish you more luck of my life than I've had. Now, since I'm to look to you for support, could you scare up a nickel? I've got to ride home, you know."

Before Wentworth could reply, the curtains parted, and a girl's figure showed itself for a brief moment.

"I beg your pardon, Enoch, I thought you were alone," she said, and the figure vanished as suddenly as it had appeared.

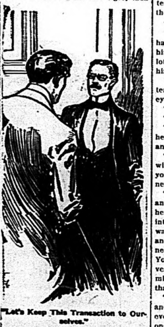
"Who's that?" Merry demanded.

Wentworth's only answer was to pull out the lining of his pockets. From one he produced a quarter and handed it to the actor. Merry pocketed it without further questioning, and pulled on his gloves.

"Good night," he said, "or good morning, whichever you choose."

"Say, old man." Wentworth held the door for a moment half closed while he spoke. "Say, if you don't mind, let's keep this transaction to ourselves."

"I'm willing." Merry paused to strike a light for his last cigar, then he laid his hands solemnly across his breast. "Cross my heart," he added in a sepulchral tone.



"Let's Keep This Transaction to Ourselves."

Wentworth started at the sound of an opening door. A girl entered.

"For heaven's sake, Dorry! What are you doing up at this unearthly hour?"

"I've had my sleep, you haven't," she answered with a laugh.

"Dorcas, sit down," said her brother. "Do you see that fellow on the bench under a tree?"

The girl leaned a hand on Wentworth's shoulder while she turned her eyes in the direction his finger pointed.

"Yes! What's the matter with him? Is he anybody you know? Is he in trouble?"

"He's an old friend of mine. It's Andrew Merry, the comedian."

Wentworth sat for a moment gazing into his sister's beautiful face. She was a child in spite of her eighteen years. He felt like an ancient, sin-battered, soiled, city-worn hulk of humanity as he returned the straightforward gaze of her gray eyes.

"Tell me about him, Enoch."

"I ran across him when I was doing dramatics on the Pittsburgh Union. He was a genial lad, but there wasn't much for him to tell an interviewer. He had been born and raised in a western town and then apprenticed to a country bank. He hated figures and loved the stage. He stuck to the ledgers for a while because he was all his mother had. I guess she worshipped him."

"How did he happen to go on the stage?"

"Came on to New York, as they all do sooner or later, and began with a turn in a vaudeville house. He had reached a salary of fifty a week. He was perfectly happy except for one thing—he couldn't get the mother's loneliness out of his mind. They wrote to each other every day."

"I think I should like him," suggested Dorcas.

"I gave Merry all the space next morning instead of the dancer and he wrote me a grateful letter. I didn't see him again until two years later, when I came to New York. I found his name in the cast of a light opera company on Broadway. He was pretty far down the list, but before the thing had run two weeks he was moved up to second place. His work was unusual. He's the funniest Merry Andrew I ever saw, yet once in a while there's a touch of whimsical, tearful pathos in his antics that makes a man—wink."

"Take me to see him," cried the girl eagerly.

"We'll go tomorrow. It's his closing night in 'The King at Large.' He's a bigger favorite than several of the big stars, yet—it's the queerest thing—in all these years he's never taken the stey that would bring him to the top."

"Why?"

"The Lord knows. One manager died, another went under. It's the uncertainty of stage life."

"And his mother?" asked Dorcas.

"She died suddenly last season. A fool usher gave Merry the telegram in the middle of a performance, when he went off the stage. He dropped as if he'd been shot. They rang down the curtain until the understudy could get into his togs. He didn't act for two months. I thought he would never brace up. I had him here half the winter trying to cheer him. He gave me the dumps."

"Poor fellow," cried Dorcas.

"I roused him through his pride. He hadn't a cent to his name, so I shamed him into going back to work. He earns lots of money, but it gets away from him."

Wentworth's gaze turned to the litter of chips on the table. His sister's eyes followed.

"Is it that?"

"Partly."

The girl rose to her feet. She put her hands on her brother's shoulders and gazed down into his face.

"Enoch," she said hesitatingly, "I wish you wouldn't. You could help your friend if you would turn over a new leaf yourself."

"We both swore off tonight for good and all, little girl." Wentworth took her hands between his own and looked into her eyes with a resolute look. "I want you to help both of us—Merry and me. The evil of the world was never whispered inside covent walls. You've left a quiet, simple life—for a very different world. zThere's more mission work waiting you right here than if you had taken the veil."

"Enoch," the girl's face was grave and earnest. "Enoch, nothing would ever make me take the veil. I have one ambition—I watn to go on the stage."

"Good Lord" cried Wentworth, "I never dreamed of such a future—for you."

"You don't know stage life as I do," he continued seriously. "There are women—and men for that matter—who go into the profession clea-skinned, clean souled. They spend their lives in it and come out clean; but their are experiences they never forget."

"Is life as bad as that?" the girl asked simply.

"life is as bad," her brother answered slowly, "and yet I would as willingly see you go on the stage as into society—I mean fashionable society, as I konw it here in New York. A newspaper man sees the under side of life."

"It would not hurt me." The girl tossed back a heavy braid of hair which fell over her shoulder, and knelt at Wentworth's knee.

"I have you always to turn to, big brother," she whispered. She laid her cheek fondly against his hand. "Don't you remember that used to be the only name I had for you? You were so big, so strong, so wise and so—old. I used to sit on the gatepost, waiting for you to come home. Don't you remember our Saturday tramps, how we used to play 'I spy in the orchard,' and went bird's nesting, picnicking and fishing, or playing Indian camp on the island?"

Enoch clasped her hands tightly. "I remember, little Dorry. They were the happiest days in my life."

"Let us get out of the city," cried the girl. Their eyes turned to the sunlit square below. The morning rush of New York life had begun, with its clang of bells and thunder of vehicles.

"Dorcas, I'm off to bed. I haven't shut an eye for 24 hours."

(To be Continued)

When the oldest daughter marries, the rest of the family manage to get along comfortably without any boss.

Business Conditions In St. John, N. B.

ST. JOHN, N.B., Oct. 16.—Special—A very appreciable increase is shown in the shipment of lumber from this port to the United States during the month of September, as compared with the same month last year. Last month the shipments aggregated $180,069.86, while during September, 1913, they amounted to $79,835.47. The details of last month's shipments were:—lumber, $101,965.86; wood pulp, $22,633.47; pulp wood, $4,567.50; laths, $45,037.67; shingles, $2,672.19; pine boards, $3,173.17.

The official annoucement has been made that the Inercolonial Railway has taken over the Valley Railway. The intention of the Valley road was to provide a line of railway through the centre of the Province that would connect the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway with the port of St. John. The G. T. P. was to be tapped near Grand Falls, and the road was to continue on to centreville, from thence to Gagetown and then on to St. John. The Centreville—Gagetown section is now complete, but the Grand Falls and St. John connections are still unfinished. The Valley Railway now has an entrance to Fredericton.

Work has been begun on the new Tuberculosis Hospital at St. John. It is located near the Municipal Home. Already the foundations have been laid and the construction of the superstructure is proceeding. It has been decided to begin the construction of a large Salvation Army shelter-house on St. James Street, to take the place of the Metropole which was burned last year. The people of St. John have contributed $20,000 by popular subscription toward this undertaking.

About ten days ago the City Council asked the citizens to subscribe to a bond issue of $124,000, for public improvements. When subscriptions were opened it was found that almost double the amount necessary had been subscribed by citizens.

The good news comes from Minto coal region that the output is not equal to the demand, and that it will be necessary to greatly increase operations if the demand is to be met. At present the daily output is about 300 tons; it will be brought up to 400 tons. In view of the valuable by-products which this coal carries, in the way of coke, tar, creosote, aniline dyes, etc., it has been suggested that a distillation plant be provided to manufacture these articles, all of which are in great demand since the war broke out. It is said that Sir Thomas Tait, who is the head of the Minto Coal Company, has been looking into the question of establishing a distillation plant at the mines.

All uncertainty with respect to the utilization of St. John as a remount depot for the British army has been removed. Four hundred horses are now at St. John awaiting shipment. It is said that already 13,000 horses have been bought in Canada for the British army. These will be shipped through Montreal, Halifax and St. John. The Board of Trade has been making enquiries into business and manufactruing conditions since the war, and the replies received are most encouraging. Almost all the manufacturing concerns are running full time, and some are working over-time. This is particularly the case with the wood manufacturers. Murray and Gregory, Ltd., employ 250 hands and are working at night in some of their departments. Campbell Bros., axe and edge-tool makers say they have been working full time for 15 years and they note an increased demand for high-grade goods. The Wilson Box Company, manufacturers of boxes and box shooks, view the outlook most optimistically. They see a great future in their industry. Waterbury and Rising, wholesale shoe dealers, say that the wholesale placing of business for spring is ahead of this season last year. The Mason bedding factory at St. Andrews are doing a growing business and most of the other outside plants are encouraged with the outlook. Though there is some uncertainty as to the ocean mail schedule from this port during the winter, in consequence of the British Government having requisitioned many of the mail steamers, there seems little doubt that there will be large exportations of grain, horses, and food products through the port of St. John.

A British commission, interested in the question of supplying the coal mines of Great Britain with pit-props, visited St. John this week and had a conference at the Board of Trade room with a number of leading timber shippers and steamship agents. They made a thorough enquiry into the possibilities of the trade and received the assurance that there was an abundance of material in New Brunswick to meet all requirements, provided the wood could be cheaply handled. What was wanted was chiefly spruce, fir, red and white pine timber, varying in diameter from 2 1-2 to 7 inches, and in legnth from 4 to 10 feet. The

Continued on Page Eight.

THE DOW ALES AND PORTERS ARE THE BEST

FOR SALE AT YOUR LEADING LIQUOR STORES

FALL SLIP-ON COATS

Right thing for present wear. Made from crisp, snappy, Scotch and Irish Tweeds. Give a prosperous, jaunty look to wearer. Price range varied—workmanship always same. Look for the FASHION-CRAFT Brand and you are sure you are right. Models on view at:

F. W. MILLARD
236 FRONT ST.
BELLEVILLE, ONT.

SHOPS OF "Fashion-Craft"

MADE · IN · CANADA

IN CITY STREETS
ON DUSTY ROADS
IN STUFFY CARS
IN HOT OFFICES

Everywhere You Go-

You can get beneficial pleasure from this delicious, mint-flavored confection—the BIGGEST money's worth of enjoyment possible to buy.

Always carry with you

WRIGLEY'S SPEARMINT

in it's new electrically sealed, dust- and damp-proof package. It's always fresh and clean.

It is beneficial because it sweetens the mouth and breath, soothes tho throat, brightens and preserves the teeth, helps appetite and digestion.

It's five cents well spent for long-lasting enjoyment when you buy this refreshing sweetmeat.

Be SURE it's WRIGLEY'S

WRIGLEY'S SPEARMINT THE PERFECT GUM THE FLAVOR LASTS

MADE IN CANADA
Wm. Wrigley Jr. Co., Ltd.,
7 Scott St., TORONTO

Look for the spear

Chew it after every meal

HAWKE IS TORPEDOED

Sixth British Warship Is Victim of Submarine.

Over Four Hundred and Seventy Men Are Believed to Have Perished In Disaster Off the Coast of Scotland —Trawler Saves Fifty-Two Lives and Twenty-One Are Picked Up on a Raft at Sea.

LONDON, Oct. 17.—Like a bolt out of the blue came the distressing announcement yesterday that another British warship has been sunk by a German torpedo boat. The Hawke, with a complement of 544 men was struck some time Thursday afternoon at a point in the North Sea, thought to be not far distant from the coast of Scotland. Three officers and 49 men were landed at Aberdeen by a fishing trawler. Later, the Admiralty announced that Lieut.-Commander Rosqman and 20 men had been picked up on a raft, making the total number of survivors 73.

Sydney Austin, a boatswain of the Hawke, who was saved, apparently bears a charmed life. He was one of the few survivors of the cruiser Hogue. After the sinking of this vessel he was transferred to the Hawke.

Early yesterday morning the Admiralty issued the following statement, which has followed by two hours a despatch from Aberdeen stating simply that the Hawke was lost:

"His Majesty's ship Theseus, Captain Hugh Edwards, was attacked by a submarine in the northern waters of the North Sea yesterday, but was missed.

"His Majesty's ship Hawke, Captain M. P. Williams, was attacked about the same time and was sunk.

"The following officers, with forty-nine men of the crew have been landed at Aberdeen by a trawler:

"Boatswan Sydney Austin, Gunner James Dennis and Acting Gunner Harry Evit. The remaining officers and men are missing.

"Further particulars will be published as soon as available."

The Hawke, in company with her sister ships, the Theseus and Gibraltar, was on patrol duty. So far as can be learned the first intimation they had of an attack was when a torpedo was launched at the Theseus. The projectile missed its mark, and the submarine immediately dived. In a few minutes it rose again to the surface and fired a second missile at the Hawke, which simply shattered the vessel. Evidently the German was but a short distance away from the doomed ship.

Following the orders of the Admiralty that the safety of vessels be considered before the lives of those on board a distressed craft, the Theseus and Gibraltar steamed away at once. By this action they undoubtedly missed a debacle such as overcame the Cressy, Hogue and Aboukir a few weeks since. But the crew of the Hawke were left to their fate.

It is believed that in the short interim between the torpedoing of the Hawke and the sinking of the boat that the men making up her complement had time to throw tables, spars and other pieces of ship's furniture overboard. It is probable that a good many of the men secured pieces of this floating wreckage and maintained themselves for some time. However several hours must have elapsed before either of the Hawke's sister ships could safely return to the scene of the tragedy. The water being at a freezing temperature, few survived the exposure. Nor can it be stated whether their rescue was effected by the Theseus and Gibraltar or by the fishing trawler which brought them to Aberdeen.

The Hawke is the sixth warship to come to grief in the North Sea as the result of German submarine activity or by the action of floating mines. There is some doubt as to whether the Pathfinder, lost Sept. 5th, was sunk by a mine or submarine, and the same applies to the Amphion, blown up Aug. 6th, off the Dutch coast. The Cressy, Hogue and Aboukir went to the bottom Sept. 22, torpedoed by the German submarine U-9.

German Submarine Sunk?

EDINBURGH, Oct. 17.—It is reported here that a German submarine was sunk off Holland by the guns of a British battleship when it came up for air after being cut off from the shore by British ships.

German Gunboat Captured.

MELBOURNE, Australia, Oct. 17. —The Minister of Defence has received the information of the capture of a German gunboat off New Guinea.

No Details of Contingent.

OTTAWA, Oct. 19.—Details of the composition of the second contingent have not yet been received from the War Office. The Canadian Government is urging that these details be furnished without delay, in order that organization, preparation and training may proceed immediately. It is expected that the War Office will forward these details within a few days.

Relief Fund In U. S.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19. — The Belgian legation announced that the American relief fund for the stricken people of Belgium now on hand totals $13,000, and that new branch relief committees have been formed in San Francisco, St. Louis and New Orleans. They are also about to be established in Portland, Maine, Richmond and Louisville.

Berlin Claims 260,000 Prisoners.

BERLIN, Oct. 19.—The Minister of War publishes the following list of prisoners up to and including Oct. 1: French, 2,050 officers and 123,000 men; Russian, 2,150 officers and 92,000 men; Belgian, 470 officers and 30,850 men; British, 180 officers and 8,600 men—a total of 4,850 officers and 254,450 men, or 259,300 in all.

---

A man imagines he is a philanthropist every time he gives away a penny's worth of advice.

---

Sometimes a bit of flippant slang may have a real respectable meaning.

ACTIVITY IN CAMP CANADIANS WORKING HARD

LONDON, Oct. 19. — Sunday has been anything but a day of rest on Salisbury Plains. The camp begins to wear the aspect of great liveliness. The weather has been rather chilly so far. There has been no rain, thanks to its situation, though even weeks of downpour would not render the camp permanently uncomfortable. The general health among the contingent is excellent. A few minor casualties have been reported, chiefly among the men handling horses. The steeds were all tethered in the open and badly needed grooming.

Every department is working smoothly, the men having an ample supply of wholesome food and comfortable bedding.

The Sunday papers contained many appreciative references to the arrival of the Canadians as well as photographs, though the photographer so far has had a rather lean time among the Canadians where the man with the camera who ventures near the dock approaches has about as short a life as a rat in a crowd of terriers. A small regiment of camera fiends journeyed especially to Plymouth, eager to glorify the first Canadian to step ashore, but all such hopes were dashed by policemen impregnably supported by the inexorable attitude of the superintendent towards press representatives of every kind, despite the official intimation that descriptive accounts of the landing of the Canadians would be welcomed.

The Weekly Despatch cartoonist has a happy effort yesterday depicting Germany and Austria as babes in the woods with the Canadian robin bringing a maple leaf to assist at their burial.

One Sunday paper writer observes: "When the troops were landed, one of the things that struck the onlooker was the freedom of good fellowship among them. On the shore the officers and men fraternized, and some were seen arm in arm, but when on duty the discipline is of the strictest kind."

OFFICERS COMMENDED.

Gen. French Forwards Long List Deserving of Praise.

LONDON, Oct. 19.—Gen. French in his report to the Minister of War gives a long list of officers, non-commissioned officers and men who have been recommended for special mention by army corps commanders and heads of departments.

Gen. French expresses his agreement with these recommendations and draws attention to the valuable service rendered by Generals Sir Horace Smith-Dorren, Sir Douglas Haig and Wm. Pulteney-Pulteney, commanders of the First, Second and Third Corps respectively.

Of Major-Generals E. H. H. Allenby and Hubert de la P. Gough, Gen. French says:

"The undoubted superiority which our cavalry has attained over that of the enemy has been due to the skill with which they have turned to best account the qualities inherent in the splendid troops the command."

Mention is also made of Gen. Sir David Henderson, commander of a flying corps, Gen. Sir Archibald Murray, chief of staff, and other officers.

Capt. Frederick Edward Guest of the East Dorset Regiment; Lt.-Col. H. C. Lowther of the Scots Guards, former secretary to the Duke of Connaught, Capt. T. R. Traill, Lieut. Prince Maurice of Battenburg and Major Prince Arthur of Connaught also came in for honorable mention.

Of Prince Arthur of Connaught he says: "His intimate knowledge of languages has enabled me to employ him with great advantage on confidential missions of importance."

NEW MEDAL APPROVED.

Decoration for Distinguished Service In Lower Ranks of Army and Navy.

LONDON, Oct. 19. — The Official Press Bureau last evening issued the following statement from the Admiralty:

"King George has been pleased to approve the establishment of a medal, to be called the Distinguished Service Medal, to be awarded to chief petty officers, petty officers and men and boys in all branches of the service of the royal army, to non-commissioned officers and men of the Royal Marines and to all other persons holding corresponding positions in his Majesty's service afloat, for distinguished conduct in war, in cases where the award of conspicuous gallantry medals would not be applicable.

"His Majesty has further approved of an award of the Conspicuous Service Cross, to be designated in the future the Distinguished Service Cross, to all officers below the rank of lieutenant-commander, in addition to the officers previously eligible for this decoration."

Col. Grey Captured?

BERLIN, Oct. 19. — (By wireless telegraphy to Sayville, Long Island.) —A British aeroplane has been brought to the ground near Peronne, France, by a well directed shot. Both the airmen were taken prisoner. The aviator acting in the capacity of observer, was later found to be Col. Grey, a brother of the British Secretary for Foreign Affairs.

German Mines In Scheldt.

AMSTERDAM, Oct. 19—(Via London.)—The Germans, according to The Handelsblad, have laid mines in the River Scheldt, near Antwerp. Skippers bound for Antwerp have been requested to ask instructions how to proceed at Hansweert, a port in the Estuary of the Scheldt.

Austria Calls On the Unfit.

VENICE, Oct. 19.—(Via Paris.)—The Austrian and Hungarian Governments have decided to summon to the colors all men between the ages of 24 and 36 liable to service in the Landstrum who hitherto have not served owing to physical disability or other causes.

Belgian Rulers Are Heroic.

HAVRE, Oct. 17.—(Via Paris.)—Queen Elizabeth of Belgium is with her husband at the headquarters of the Belgian army, and is his constant companion except when King Albert approaches the firing line to encourage and direct his troops.

M. Huismans, Belgian Minister of State, in announcing the above fact yesterday, added that King Albert was showing great stoicism, and that Queen Elizabeth was sharing his perils and giving an example of dignity and courage worthy of classic times.

---

Even the high flier has to come down when it comes to footing the bills.

---

Some of the war poetry that is being written is almost as bad as the war itself.

MARKET REPORTS

LIVERPOOL, Oct. 17.—Wheat—Spot steady; No. 1 Manitoba, 8s 4d; No. 2 new, 8s 9½d. Futures steady; October 8s 8½d, December 8s 10½d.

Corn—Spot steady; American mixed, new, 7s 6d. Futures steady; October 5s 6½d, November 5s 0½d.

Bacon—Clear bellies, 14 to 16 lbs., 80s.

Lard—Prime western, in tierces, new, 51s 9d; old, 53s; American refined, in pails, 56s 3d; 56-lb. boxes, 54s 9d.

Rosin—Common, 9s 1½d.

TORONTO GRAIN MARKET.

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| Wheat, fall, bushel | $1 15 to $ | .... |
| Goose wheat, bushel | 1 10 | .... |
| Barley, bushel | 0 67 | 0 68 |
| Peas, bushel | 1 25 | .... |
| Oats, bushel | 0 54 | 0 55 |
| Rye, bushel | 0 85 | .... |
| Buckwheat, bushel | 0 75 | .... |

TORONTO DAIRY MARKET.

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| Butter, creamery, lb. sq. | 0 29 | 0 31 |
| Butter, creamery, solids | 0 28 | 0 29 |
| Butter, separator, dairy | 0 27 | 0 28 |
| Cheese, new, lb. | 0 16 | .... |
| Eggs, new-laid | 0 27 | 0 28 |
| Honey, new, lb. | 0 11 | 0 12 |
| Honey, combs, dozen | 2 50 | 3 00 |

WINNIPEG GRAIN MARKET.

WINNIPEG, Oct. 18.—Trading was active in all lines on the grain market during the early hours of business with prices strong. Later a reaction developed with a considerable decline from the high point recorded. The demand was keen for all grades of nearby wheat, and with farmers selling and millers and exporters buying trading was more active than for some time.

Receipts continue light, the local inspections on Friday being 290 cars and in sight were 200.

Deliveries thru the clearing-house were: Wheat, 299,000 bushels; flax, 8000 bushels.

Cash—No. 1 northern, $1.15¾; No. 2 do., $1.11½; No. 3 do., $1.06½; No. 4, $1.00½; No. 5, 96½c; No. 6, 91½c; feed, 87½c.

Oats—No. 2 C.W., 54c; No. 3 C.W., 50c; extra No. 1 feed, 50c; No. 1 feed, 48½c; No. 2 feed, 47½c.

Barley—No. 3, 68c; No. 4, 61½c; rejected, 58½c; feed, 57c.

Flax—No. 1 N.W.C., $1.13½; No. 2 C.W., $1.10.

MINNEAPOLIS GRAIN MARKET.

MINNEAPOLIS, Oct. 17.—Wheat—No. 1 hard, $1.14½; No. 1 northern, $1.10¾ to $1.13¾; No. 2 do., $1.07¾ to $1.11; December, $1.11¾.

Corn—No. 3 yellow, 70c to 71c.

Oats—No. 3 white, 44½c to 45c.

Flour—Fancy patents, $5.65; first clears, $4.60; second clears, $3.15.

Bran—Unchanged.

CHEESE MARKETS.

CORNWALL, Oct. 18.—On the cheese board here Saturday the offerings were 1291 boxes of colored; all were sold at 15¼c.

LONDON, Oct. 18.—Ten factories offered 1440 boxes of cheese. There were no sales. Bidding ranged from 14¾c to 14⅞c.

ST. HYACINTHE, Que., Oct. 18.—On the dairy board here Saturday 200 packages of butter sold at 27⅝c, and 425 boxes of cheese at 15c.

BELLEVILLE, Oct. 18.—On the cheese board here Saturday there were offered 1160 boxes of white and 30 of colored. The highest bid was 15 5-16c; 1010 boxes were sold at 15 5-16c. The balance was refused.

CATTLE MARKETS

EAST BUFFALO LIVE STOCK.

EAST BUFFALO, Oct. 17.—Cattle—Receipts, 1250 head; slow.

Veals—Receipts, 300 head; active; $5 to $12.

Hogs—Receipts, 4400 head; slow; heavy and mixed, $8.15 to $8.25; yorkers, $7.50 to $8; pigs, $7.25; roughs, $6.90 to $7; stags, $6.25 to $6.75.

Sheep and lambs—Receipts, 1600 head; steady; unchanged.

CHICAGO LIVE STOCK.

CHICAGO, Oct. 17.—Cattle—Receipts, 800; market steady; beeves, $8.50 to $10.90; Texas steers, $6.10 to $8.10; stockers and feeders, $5.15 to $8; cows and heifers, $3.40 to $9; calves, $7.50 to $11.25.

Hogs—Receipts, 11,000; market steady; light, $7.25 to $7.85; mixed, $7.15 to $8; heavy, $7 to $8; rough, $7 to $7.15; pigs, $4.50 to $7.20; bulk of sales, $7.30 to $7.70.

Sheep—Receipts, 1000; market weak; native $4.85 to $6; yearlings, $5.50 to $6.40; lambs, native, $6 to $7.85.

GEN. HAMILTON KILLED.

Distinguished British Soldier Heads Latest List of Casualties.

LONDON, Oct. 19.—The name of Major-Gen. Hubert I. W. Hamilton appears at the head of the latest casualty list, as killed in action. The names of ten other officers come under this category, and twenty-five others are listed as wounded.

Gen. Hamilton was 53 years of age, and had been mentioned in despatches by Field Marshal French during the fighting around Mons. He served in the Egyptian and South African campaigns, and was military secretary to Lord Kitchener when the latter was commander-in-chief of the forces in South Africa. He held the same post when Lord Kitchener was commanding in India.

Gen. Hamilton was in command of the North Midland Division since 1911. He was 53 and a son of Lieut.-Gen. Henry Mead Hamilton.

Acclamation Is Assured.

ST. THOMAS, Ont., Oct. 19. — It has been definitely decided by the local Liberal executive committee that there will be no contest to oppose the election of Hon. Finley G. Macdiarmid, Minister of Public Works, who will on Wednesday next, Oct. 21, be nominated in his new capacity of Cabinet Minister. On that evening a public reception will be given him here. It is expected the following will be present: Hon. T. W. Crothers, Minister of Labor; Hon. I. B. Lucas, Provincial Treasurer; Sir Adam Beck, David Marshall, M.P.P., and Andrew Brower, M.P.P.

Winter Tents For Soldiers.

CORNWALL, Ont., Oct. 19.—Acting under instructions of the officer commanding the third division at Kingston, Col. MacDonald, Cornwall Canal, has purchased twelve large tents, ninety-three double-decked iron cots and fourteen Quebec heaters, which will be utilized in housing and making comfortable the troops now protecting the Cornwall Canal during the winter.

Hospital at Dinard.

OTTAWA, Oct. 19.—The Government has received a cablegram from Hon. Geo. H. Perley, stating that the French Government has decided to establish at Dinard, on the west coast of France, the hospice Canadian, which is to be provided and maintained by Canada.

WILL SUPPORT UNION.

Boer Commandants Say Maritz' Revolt Is a Blot on the Transvaal.

LONDON, Oct. 17.—A despatch to Reuter's Telegram Co. from Petoria says:

At a meeting of commandants representing all the free state north of Bloemfontein held at Kroonstad, a resolution was unanimously adopted denouncing the rebellion started in the northwest of the Cape provinces by Col. Maritz as a blot on the honor of the free state. The resolution pledged the fullest support of the commandants to the Government and requested a mobilization of the burghers to crush the rebellion.

"Gen. Jan Christian Smutz, Minister of Defence, thanked the commandants for their tender of support. He explained, however, that a mobilization was unnecessary as it would put more men in the field than would be needed.

"The action taken by the Kroonstad meeting is considered significant in view of the fact that hitherto the people of the Congo Free State were lukewarm regarding the campaign against the Germans."

FIGHTING WITH VIGOR.

Assurance of Success Shows Itself In Work of Allies.

ON THE BATTLE FRONT, Oct. 17.—Belief in their final success appears to have taken a firm hold on the allies. All the men display confidence in their commanders, who are doing everything possible to spare their troops. The allied soldiers are fighting with vigor. They often perform marches which seem beyond human power, while on the battlefield their ardor is unrestrainable.

This is made evident often when small detachments act apart from the main bodies. French dragoons recently were entrusted with the task of covering the passage of a river by artillery. They met a party of German Hussars in a clash. Both sides charged simultaneously and the melee lasted ten minutes, during which the men slashed and pierced each other with swords and lances amid the crack of the officers' revolvers.

McCall Patterns
6127, Redingote Polonaise 6117, Skirt
Price, 15 cents each

WORRELL'S ENGLISH MADE VELVETEENS

Fast Pile Twilled Back Fast Dye
65c 75c $1.00

When Buying Velveteens, Why Not Buy The Best?

Every woman knows how thoroughly unsatisfactory a good Velveteen is—how disappointing it is to have the pile worn off, or the color go bad, so we say, BUY THE BEST VELVETEEN, the kind we guarantee fast pile and fast color.

We are now showing these beautiful Velveteens in the following colors: Black, Cardinal, Crimson, Ruby, Tabac, and Brown, Dark Brown, Saxe, Electric, Sky, Navy, Peacock, Purple, Old Rose, Terra, Light Green, Myrtle, Hunters' Green, to sell at

65c, 75c, and $1.00 yard, 23 to 28 inches wide

LADIES' MISSES' AND CHILDREN'S RAIN COATS AND RAIN CAPES $1.25 to $12.50

For the Rainy Fall Season we show exceptional values in Ladies', Misses' and Children's Rain Coats and Capes.

These are made of the best English Rubberized Cloths, made doubly strong with sewn and cemented seams, are shown in Fawns, Greens, Greys, Navy and Black, to sell from $1.25 to $12.50 each.

FALL COATS, SUITS, DRESSES.

Here's where we specialize. It makes no difference what your requirements may be, whether it's a New Coat, New Suit, or a New Dress, our Ladies' Wear Department stands prepared to supply your needs.

Then we show you Garments that are not shown elsewhere in Belleville, and we know this feature is one you will highly appreciate. No trouble to show goods.

65 Black Silk Dresses To Sell At $1.15

It's because we believe that this special Dress Silk is, quality and price considered, unsurpassed in Canada, that we advertise as we do now. This is a heavy Pailette Dress Silk, 39 inches wide, one of the richest Black Dress Silks we have ever offered for sale, and allowing 6 yards for a dress we have sufficient yardage to make 65 dresses. This may sound like a lot of silk to some people, but we have in the past sold a greater yardage than this in four days' sale, and the quality did not equal the silk we now offer. If you want a Black Silk Dress, ask to see this special 39 inch Paillette at yd. $1.15

Sinclair's McCall's Patterns and Magazines, November Issue, are now ready. Sinclair's

BELLEVILLE BUSINESS DIRECTORY

The Professional Fraternity of our city will find an advertisement under this head an exceptionally advantageous investment, the returns hitherto obtained making the extremely moderate rates but normal. By consulting our price list in another column, or calling at The Intelligencer business office, full information may be obtained.

LEGAL.

WILLS & WRIGHT
Barristers, Solicitors, Notaries Public, etc. Office: 15 Campbell Street. Belleville. Money to loan at lowest rates.
J. FRANKLIN WILLS, K.C.
MALCOLM WRIGHT.

NORTHRUP & PONTON
Barristers, Solicitors, Notaries Public, Commissioners. Offices: North Bridge Street. Solicitors for the Merchants Bank of Canada and the Bank of Montreal. Money to loan on mortgages.
W. B. NORTHRUP, K.C., M.P.
W. N. PONTON K.C.
R. D. PONTON.

CLUTE & SHOREY
Barristers, Solicitors, Notaries, etc. Office: North side of Campbell Street, Belleville. Solicitors for the Dominion Bank. Money to loan on mortgages on easy terms
A. X. CLUTE, LL.B.
W. D. M. SHOREY.

PORTER & CARNEW
Barristers and Notaries Public, etc. Office: Robertson Block, East Front St., Belleville, Ont.
E. GUSS PORTER, K.C., M.P.
WM. CARNEW.
Solicitors for Union Bank.

W. C. MIKEL, B.C.L., K.C.
Barristers, &c., 28 Bridge St., over G.N.W. Telegraph office.
Solicitor for Molsons Bank.
Phone 77.

MUSICAL.

Mrs. Wilmot
VOCAL INSTRUCTOR
Tone Production a speciality. Pupils conscientiously trained for Concert Work and Church Positions. Voices tested free of charge.
"THE STUDIO," BRIDGE ST.
S16,dtf

HIGGS Miss Joy.
Violin Instruction.
Tems Moderate
"THE STUDIO," Bridge

WHEATLEY Professor. Piano, Theory, Vocal.
Modern Methods. Best Results
THE "STUDIO." Tel. 594

INSURANCE.

Liverpool & London & Globe Ins. Co.; North British & Mercantile Ins. Co.; Sun Fire; Waterloo Mutual; Lloyd's Plate Glass; Dominion of Canada Guarantee and Accident Insurance Co., and other companies.
Farm and City property insured in first class and reliable companies and at lowest current rates. Land valuator and agent for selling, purchasing, or renting property. Rents collected.
W. H. HUDSON
Office: No. 17 Campbell St. Belleville. Phone 161.

FARM INSURANCE
I have made arrangements with English Companies to insure Farm Dwellings and Barns and contents at from 75c. to $1.00 per $100.
Call and see me before renewing your insurance.
CHANCEY ASHLEY
Opposite Post Office. Belleville, Ont.

THOS. STEWART
Bridge Street, Belleville.
Fire, Accident and Plate Glass Insurance effected in the oldest and most reliable companies.
REAL ESTATE AGENT.
Stocks and bonds bought and sold.

R. H. KETCHESON
Agent for
Queen Fire Insurance Co.; York Fire Insurance Co.; Inter-State Live Stock Insurance.
Canadian Railway Accident Insurance Co.

ROBERT BOGLE
MERCANTILE AGENCY.
Insurance, Real Estate, Loans Negotiated. Accountant, Auditor, Estates Managed. Office: 28 Bridge Street.

LAUNDRY.

QUINTE LAUNDRY
Work done by the Quinte Laundry is guaranteed to be satisfactory in every way.
Shirts, Collars and Cuffs our specialty. Family work done by the dozen.
W. R. VALLANCE .. .. .. .. .. Manager
Phone 330

BUS, AUTO AND CABS

ASELSTINE'S
BUS, CAB AND TRANSFER LINE.
Special cabs, broughams and carriages, all rubber tired; for weddings, private driving or funerals. The finest turnouts in town.
Office and stables, cor. Moira and Centre Streets. Tweed Stage in connection. Phone 229.

MEDICAL.

JOHN J. FARLEY, M.D., C.M.,
M.R.C.S., England.
Office and Residence: Corner of Bridge and George Streets; three streets east of the Post Office.

DR. J. CHANT
Specialist in Diseases of Eye, Ear, Nose and Throat, and Fitting of Glasses.
Office: Corner Queen and John Streets. Phone 715.

MONEY.

Private money to loan on mortgages on farms and other real estate, at lowest rate of interest, on terms to suit borrowers.
Apply to
S. MASSON
Barrister, etc.
Over Wallbridge & Clarke's Bridge St., Belleville.

MINING
BELLEVILLE ASSAY OFFICE
Ores and minerals of all kinds tested and assayed. Samples sent by mail or express will receive prompt attention. All results guaranteed. Office and Laboratory, 185 Pinnacle St., opposite market. Telephone 386.

ENGINEERING.

J. D. EVANS, C.E. & O.L.S.
J. W. EVANS, C.E & M.E.
EVANS & EVANS
Civil and Mining Engineers, and Ontario Land Surveyors.
Belleville and Trenton.
Belleville Office: 185 Pinnacle Street, opposite market. Telephone 36.

AUCTIONEER.

J. L. PALMER
We specialize on City sales.
Terms Reasonable
Belleville Box 182 Ontario
LICENSED AUCTIONEER.
for counties of Hastings, Prince Edward, Northumberland, Lennox and Addington. Office: over Bell Telephone, opposite Post Office, Bridge St. Prompt attention.

"COLLIP" FLORIST
Night Phone 175. Day Phone 26.
All kinds of Cut Flowers and Plants in Season.
Wedding and Funeral designs specialty, shipped to all parts. Front Street.

After a young man rings a girl's doorbell about so often it's up to him to ring her finger.

Advertise in the Intelligencer.

Advertise in The Intelligencer

STANFIELD'S UNDERWEAR

HIGH GRADE FURNISHINGS

Travel the Country over and you'll not find a better line of Men's Toggery than you'll find right here.

The best Shirt makers, Underwear makers, Scarf makers, Sweater Coat makers and Coat and Glove makers send us their productions.

The Best In Every Line Is Here!

Then again we are not high priced.

All the Patrons of the Store know this to be a fact. Test us and see.

See our New $1 Shirts;
Look at our $1 Gloves;
See our 25c and 50c Neckwear;
Look at our Sweater Coats from 75c up;
If You Doubt Our Splendid Value Giving.

Quick & Robertson
CLOTHING AND FURNISHING

Don't Think Your Eyesight is good because you read the paper a yard from your eyes!

This is a sure sign that you have Presbyopia, and need Glasses to see clearly for close work.

Decide to-day to have me examine your eyes and prepare just the Lenses your eyes need to enable you to see without effort.

Alex. Ray
Eye Specialist

ARTHUR McGIE
Merchant Tailor

Our New Fall Stock of imported Suitings and Overcoatings now in stock in all latest designs.

You are invited to inspect our stock.

ARTHUR McGIE
208 Front Street

Coffee Ice Cream

COFFEE ICE CREAM makes a nice change, and we will have it on our menus for the balance of the week, or have a brick delivered to you.

Coffee and Walnut Bricks, 25c and 50c

Ed. F. Dickens & Son
Phone 170

A SAVING PROBLEM

GET THE
E. SANDERSON CO'S
GENUINE
SCRANTON
COAL
BELLEVILLE

Pure Clinkerless, Well Screened Coal.
"The coal of perfect satisfaction."
Office, 42 Bridge St. Phone 231a
Yard Office, S. Front St. Phone 231b

Many a married man would starve to death if his wife didn't know how to manipulate a can opener.

When a woman gets old enough to forget that she has a complexion she begins to worry about her rights.

S. A. HYMAN & CO.

Established 1870. Maker of Fine Furs

Now Is The Time To Buy Furs

The economy of wise purchasing of Furs never presented to better advantage than this season.

The prices of all our Furs are Much the Lowest in Several Years.

Our Furs are made in our own Factory, thoroughly dependable and fully guaranteed.

We want prospective buyers to form their own opinion of our Furs. Comparison is the only saft test of value in every purchase a customer makes.

We can demonstrate to your entire satisfaction that it will pay you to BUY YOUR FURS HERE.

Ladies' Musk Rat Coats, finest quality skins, 52 inches long, with large double striped shawl collar, double striped cuffs and best satin lining. Regular price $95, now .......... $75

Fine quality Black Russian Wolf sets, Stole and Muff. Regular price $40 per set, now per set, .......... $27

S. A. Hyman & Co.
242 FRONT STREET

N.B.—Get our prices for Fur Repairs and Alterations, which are the Lowest.

At our Window.

The little ones enjoying the

BARLER "IDEAL" HEATER

$4.00, $5.00, $6.50

THE SMITH HARDWARE CO.
PLUMBING—HEATING
MOTOR CYCLES
314 FRONT ST. — PHONE 204

HAVE THE INTELLIGENCER SENT TO YOUR HOME ADDRESS

IN AND ABOUT THE CITY

Condensed News Items for Busy Readers.

DRUNKS ARRESTED

Since Saturday the police made three arrests, all being for drunkenness.

VIOLATING A BYLAW

A citizen was yesterday afternoon detected by the police in the act of riding a bicycle upon the sidewalk. He will have to answer to his action before the police magistrate.

DRUNKS DISPOSED OF

Alexander McKiser, a stranger, was taxed $5 or in default 10 days. He paid his fine. Joseph Sullivan went up for 30 days in default of a fine of $10 and costs. Hiram Barnum contributed $5 to the city treasury.

AUTOS WITHOUT LIGHTS

Last night the police detected two automobiles which were being driven on Front street without the back lights lit. The owners will have to contribute a fine to the city treasury. The law in this respect is clear, stating emphatically that between dusk and dawn a light in the rear of a motor vehicle must be displayed in a conspicuous manner so that the number of the machine can be discerned.

SUNDAY EVENING BLAZE

At a few minutes before 7 o'clock last evening, the fire brigade was called out to extinguish a blaze which originated in a frame building on Pinnacle street, owned by Mr. B. Sanford. The fire was soon subdued after the fire brigade arrived upon the scene, and the loss was not of a serious nature. How the blaze originated is not known. In the building were considerable articles and utensils, the property of Mr. Sandford. The latter's loss is covered by insurance.

REMAINS INTERRED HERE

The remains of Mrs. John Hay, who died in Saskatchewan, arrived here yesterday, and were taken to Tickell & Sons undertaking establishment, where a funeral service was held this morning by Rev. A. S. Kerr, pastor of St. Andrew's church, after which the remains were taken to the Belleville cemetery for interment. Deceased was 61 years of age, and resided on the Front of Sidney for years. She was born in Seymour Township, and resided in this vicinity for years, being a lady who was well and favorably known. A husband and family, who accompanied the remains here, survive.

Motor Boat Burned On Bay

Yesterday afternoon, about 4.30 o'clock, a motor boat caught fire on the bay at a point opposite the hospital, and had it not been for the timely assistance rendered by parties who saw the affair, a drowning accident might have occurred. The boat was the property of Mr. Robert Sills of this city, who was operating it, and in the boat was another young man. They were enjoying the sail about the bay when the engine backed fire, with the result that the crfat was soon in flames.

Some parties, who were in a motor boat some distance away, saw the predicament the occupants were in, rushed to their assistance and rescued them. In a few minutes the burning boat sank in a considerable depth of water, after being badly burned.

THIRD NOTICE
THE CHRISTMAS THOUGHT

Ideas on Christmas giving are rapidly changing among the sensible. Those who think as they give are looking for a year-round service as the important thing.

In a week of shopping, with all its strain, you will not find a better gift than a year's subscription to The Youth's Companion. It offers its service, its clean entertainment, its fine suggestiveness week after week; and the end of the year, which finds many a gift in the attic, dust-covered and forgotten, brings The Companion again, with all the charm of last Christmastide.

No American monthly at any price offers the some amount of reading, and none can offer better quality. Less than five cents a week provides this best of Christmas gifts—2.25 a year. If you subscribe now, all the remaining issues of the year will be sent free, and The Companion Home Calender. A copy of the Calender is also sent to those who make a gift subscription. Send for sample copies and the forecast for 1915.

THE YOUTH'S COMPANION
144 Berkeley Street, Boston, Mass.

BRITISH OFFICIAL WHITE BOOK DESPATCHES

Sir Gilbert Parker has sent to the Public Library, through Colonel Ponton, an official copy of the British White Book of despatches, regarding the war, and also of the Declaration issued by British authors, and the pamphlet issued by the English bishops and educationists in answer to the claims of the German theologians.

DUNKIRK RAID FAILS

Kaiser's Coast Move Checked by Powerful Force of Allies.

British Troops Have Driven Enemy Back For a Distance of Thirty Miles In Northern Area—News of Crown Prince's Plight Is Scanty But He Was Seriously Threatened on Saturday—Advance at Arras.

LONDON, Oct. 19.—Sunday was an eventful day along the fighting line in France. With the allied front resting on Nieuport, a Belgian town near the coast, and thence southeastward to Ypres, the effort of the Kaiser to swoop down on Dunkirk has missed fire. Between the German hosts and Dunkirk is a formidable army composed of French, British and Belgians. Up to the present the fighting in this zone has been between cavalry for the most part, but both infantry and artillery have come up on both sides, and a stubborn contest is under way.

Ostend in the last point to fall into German hands, and it is not believed that their advance along the coast can continue further until a major operation takes place. It is probable that British warships will participate in the coming engagements near the shore line, the powerful guns of the fleet being able to command a radius of several miles.

The British official press bureau issued the following announcement last night: "The British troops have made good progress during the last few days. In the northern area the allies have driven the enemy back more than thirty miles."

The official communication issued by the French War Office last night says: "During the course of last night (Saturday) two violent attacks were attempted by the Germans to the north and east of St. Die. These were repulsed with serious losses to the enemy.

"No other report of any importance has yet been received on the operations of the day."

The French official statement issued yesterday afternoon says: "The Belgian army in Belgium has vigorously repulsed several attacks by Germans at crossings of the River Yser.

"On our left wing, north of the Canal La Basse, the allies occupy a front on Givenchy. Allies from Fromelles have retaken Armentieres.

"To the north of Arras Saturday was marked by a notable advance on our part.

"Between the region of Arras and the Oise we have progressed slightly at certain points.

"In the centre and on our right wing the situation remains stationary."

Arras is again the centre of a great contest. The French have made important advances in the neighborhood of that town, pushing the German line eastward, and taking a number of strong positions. They have taken Fleurbaix and the approaches to Armentieres.

From Rheims to Soissons the situation remains comparatively quiet, the Germans holding only forces sufficient to maintain their lines along the centre. Considerable numbers of troops have been taken from this region to bolster up the assault on the allied front further west and in Belgium. Snow is falling around Ardennes, which will add to the difficulties of the German centre.

Little information came through yesterday concerning the French movement against the crown prince's army, and practically none at all of the operations toward Metz. It is stated that desultory fighting has occurred in Alsace, two recent reports from Basle, Switzerland, telling of German reverses in that province. From Berlin it is stated that the French fortress of Belfort, on the eastern frontier of the republic, is now on fire from German mortars.

The crown prince's army was beaten Saturday in the vicinity of St. Mihiel, following an attempt to check the French advance. The armies of the republic have captured several positions within ten miles of Metz and an attack on that fortress seems imminent. A considerable force is engaged in an assault on Etain, the key to the crown prince's line of communications. The Kaiser's heir is almost isolated on his eastern front and it is thought that he must quickly retire from St. Mihiel, his most advanced position. Otherwise, huge reinforcements will be required to hold that town, where stubborn fighting is in progress.

The fighting in the region of Laventie is extremely sanguinary and it can be positively stated that all efforts of the Germans to advance have met with repulses. In fact, along the entire 360 mile front of the allies, extending from the sea coast to the Swiss border, the situation is satisfactory.

Von Kluk Deposed?

LONDON, Oct. 19.—That the leader who has baffled every effort of the allies to get around the German right is not Gen. Von Kluk but Gen. Sixt Von Arnin, is the statement made by German officers now prisoners in England. It is asserted that Von Kluk was deposed two days after the battle of the Marne, when he was thrown back from Paris. One of the German officers, who vouches for this story is Lieut. Von Arnin, said to be a nephew of Gen. Von Arnin, and now in the hospital at Netley.

To Get Even.

"I hear you have quit smoking."

"Yes."

"What for?"

"The doctor ordered it."

"Maybe you haven't paid him."

Later.

The auto is a tireless steed,
As you have often heard.
But it is not the biggest smoke,
For it is not a bird.

ADJUSTABLE HANDLE

The Wizard Triangle
POLISH MOP

Saturday Only 98c

Gets in the corners

NOTE THE ADJUSTABLE HANDLE
It Lightens House Work, Removes Dust and Renews the Finish.

The John Lewis Co.
Limited

NOTICE

To my Customers and the Public in General: Everybody knows that all kinds of Fat Stock are bringing record prices at the present time; but I have not raised my prices. I buy direct from the farmer for cash so as to give my customers the middleman's profits. Read these prices:—

| | |
|---|---|
| Best Sirloin or Porter House Roasts or Steaks | 20c. lb. |
| Legs of Lamb | 20c. lb |
| Lamb Chops | 20c. lb |
| Fore Quarters Lamb | 15c. lb. |
| Best Round Steak | 18c. lb |
| Home made All Pork Sausages | 15c. lb. |
| Mixed Sausages | 10c. lb.; 3 lbs. for 25c. |
| Pure Home Rendered Lard | 15c |

Choice Western Beef kept the year round

GEO. I. THOMAS
377 Front Street. Phone 305.

INTELLIGENCER
NIGHT LETTER BOX

Our friends will find a letter box in The Intelligencer Front Door for the reception of news items after the office closing hours. The box will be emptied each morning

The Wonderful Rifle Ranges Of Valcartier

Valcartier is undoubtedly a marvelous place for a large military encampment, says the Canadian Military Gazette. With a splendid level plain of large extent, for drill and exercises, with a beautiful river for bathing, with natural scenery unsurpassed in Canada, with plenty of hill, dale and broken ground for manoeuvre, it possesses qualities unsurpassed and unsurpassable, to which must be added a light soil which quickly absorbs a rainfall. Eden itself had at least one drawback, and the dust at Valcartier is somewhat trying, but, after all, this is a small demerit in comparison with its many advantages.

What nature so lavishly granted, the hand of man has already greatly improved. Railway sidings, electric lights, a water system, side-walks, roads, all these have been added, but the great marvel of all is the rifle range.

Just fancy a range three and a half miles long, equipped with fourteen hundred and twenty-seven targets, all of them of the simple wind-mill type, with a splendid dry, safe trench for the markers and a thousand yards of distance available at some points.

We think we are correct in saying that this is the largest and best range in the world. Thousands of men have used it in a single day, without confusion, without accident, and to the satisfaction of all.

Lord Kitchener is reported to have said of his new levies, "Never mind whether they know the right foot from the left, but teach them to shoot straight." Colonel Hughes, whether he agreed with the first injunction or not, has certainly whole-heartedly adopted the latter, and the Expeditionary Force has had a wonderful opportunity for practice, considering its lareg number, and the shortness of the time to be utilized. Up to September 20th, more than two million rounds had been fired, a good proof of the activity displayed. Of all the good work done in connection with Valcartier, and its sum total is enormous, nothing ranks higher than the performance in musketry.

Even given so wonderful a range, this marvel in rifle practice could not have been accomplished without excellent work on the part of those officers in charge, and it is only fair to acknowledge that the work of Lt.-Col. Helmer, Director of Musketry, ably assisted as he has been by Major Butcher and others, is worthy of the very highest praise. Colonel Helmer is one of the quiet type of soldier dear to the heart of organizers like Kitchener, the man who says little, but, without furs and feathers, does things.

The writer recently visited Camp Valcartier, and conversations with many officers and men all bore testimony to the very general satisfaction felt for the work of the musketry staff.

Following the barring from the mails by Canada of the publication Fatherland, issued by pro-German sources in New York, the Canadian ban has also been put on the New Yorker Staats Zeitung, according to an announcement in the evening edition of that newspaper recently.

Cooling Beverages

Roy's Ale and Porter, O'Keeke's Special Mild Ale, Gold Label Ale, Lager and Stout; Carling's Ale and Porter, and Half and Half and Half; Dow's Ale and Porter; Dawe's Black Horse Ale; Molsons Ale and Porter; Regal Lager; Basses Ale; Guinness Stout; Budweiser's Lager; Kegs of Ale, Lager and Porter.

W. A. RODBOURNE
Up-town Liquor Store.
281 Front St. Phone 8
Orders delivered promptly to any part of the city.

All That's New
In Fall And Winter . . .
MILLINERY
Will be found at our store.
HATS for
Ladies, Girls and Children.
Moderate Prices
Miss M. Campbell

We are now showing our first importations, indicating the true trend of fashions for the approaching season in both Tailored and Dress Hats from the famous contouries of Paris.

McCrodan & Sills

BRIGHTEN UP
YOUR STOVES, STOVE PIPES, RADIATORS, Etc., with
The SHERWIN-WILLIAMS
Aluminum Paint
Looks better, lasts longest, goes farthest
25c tin
WATERS DRUG STORE

WHENEVER WHEREVER YOU SEE THIS SIGN

SCRANTON COAL.
THE SCHUSTER Co.
LTD.

IT IS A SIGN OF GOOD COAL

We Never Sleep
The Hogan Burial Co.
Leading Undertakers
Our exclusive lines of caskets and several new additions in the line of funeral equipment make our parlors one of the most up-to-date in Canada. Open night and day.
Phone 774.
189, Front Street
Belleville

CLASSIFIED ADVERTISEMENTS

Advertisements under this head, 25 words or less, 25 cents for each insertion, and one cent for each additional word; 4 insertions 75 cents; 6 insertions, $1.00, invariably in advance. This rate applies to all except advertisements for Auction Sales, which will be published at two cents per word. Count $ marks and (123) figures as one word each.

SITUATION WANTED

CAPABLE DOMESTICS — GOOD REFERences. Scotch, Irish and English, arriving almost weekly. Apply 183 Gerrard Street East, Toronto, and 71 Drummond Street, Montreal.

WANTED

YOUR ORDERS FOR SILVER PLATING. Write for price list. Belleville Plating Works, 267 1-2 Front Street. o14-d1m

TO-RENT

TWO SIX ROOMED DWELLINGS, CORNER Bridge and Dufferin Streets, and two five roomed flats and a two roomed flat. Apply Dr. Caldwell. o1.dtf

FLAT, WELL LIGHTED, ALL CONVENiences, Moira Street. Apply Don Bleecker. 17-4td

HOUSE; ALL MODERN IMPROVEMENTS; rent reasonable; apply Mrs. J. Doyle, 23 Alexander St. Doyle's Drug Store. 19.6td

AGENTS WANTED

AGENTS WANTED — MONEY EASILY earned selling our Peerless Series of Personal Greeting Cards during your spare time. $10 to $20 per week easily earned in half an hour each evening. Our cards are the cheapest on the market. Book free. Write Toronto Greeting Card Co., 529 Pape Avenue, Toronto. o7-12td

J. L. R. GORMAN
REAL ESTATE AND INSURANCE
Office over Dominion Bank
Phones:
Office 603 Residence 534
We Specialize in City Property

Two New Cakes

Apple Cake 12c each

Antwerps 20c each

Try them, you'll find them fine.

Chas. S. Clapp

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTHWEST LAND REGULATIONS.

The sole head of a family, or an male over 18 years old, may homestead a quarter-section of available Dominion land in Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta. Applicant must appear in person at the Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-Agency for the District. Entry by proxy may be made at any Dominion Lands Agency (but not Sub-Agency) on certain conditions.

Duties—Six months residence upon and cultivation of the land in each of three years. A homesteader may live within nine miles of his homestead on a farm of at least 80 acres, on certain conditions. A habitable house is required except where residence is performed in the vicinity.

In certain districts a homesteader in good standing may pre-empt a quarter-section alongside his homestead. Price $3.00 per acre.

Duties—Six months residence in each of three years after earning homestead patent; also 50 acres extra cultivation. Preemption patent may be obtained as soon as homestead patent, on certain conditions.

A settler who has exhausted his homestead right may take a purchased homestead in certain districts. Price $3.00 per acre. Duties—Must reside six months in each of three years, cultivate 50 acres and erect a house worth $300.

The area of cultivation is subject to reduction in case of rough, scrubby or stony land. Live stock may be substituted for cultivation under certain conditions.

W. W. CORY, C.M.G.,
Deputy of the Minister of the Interior.

N.B.—Unauthorized publication of this advertisement will not be paid for.—64388

FOR SALE

SECOND HAND NO. 3 DAISY HOT WATER boiler, 292 Front-St., W. McGie. o15-6td

HOUSE FOR SALE OR TO LET ON COLEman street; bath, gas, electric light. Immediate possession. Apply to E. T. Cherry. 19-4td

PERSONAL

DR. MARSHALL'S OFFICE REMOVED TO Angus McFee's Block, 216½ Front Street. a11:d&w2m

SYNOPSIS OF COAL MINING REGULATIONS

Coal mining rights of the Dominion, in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, the Yukon Territory, the North-West Territories and in a portion of the Province of British Columbia, may be leased for a term of twenty-one years at an annual rental of $1 an acre. Not more than 2,560 acres will be leased to one applicant.

Application for a lease must be made by the applicant in person to the Agent or Sub-Agent of the district in which the rights applied for are situated.

In surveyed territory the land must be described by sections, or legal sub-divisions of sections, and in unsurveyed territory the tract applied for shall be staked by the applicant himself.

Each application must be accompanied by a fee of $5 which will be refunded if the rights applied for are not available, but not otherwise. A royalty shall be paid on the merchantable output of the mine at the rate of five cents per ton.

The person operating the mine shall furnish the Agent with sworn returns accounting for the full quantity of merchantable coal mined and pay the royalty thereon. If the coal mining rights are not being operated, such returns should be furnished at least once a year.

The lease will include the coal mining rights only, but the lessee may be permitted to purchase whatever available surface rights may be considered necessary for the working of the mine at the rate of $10.00 an acre.

For full information application should be made to the Secretary of the Department of the Interior, Ottawa, or to any Agent or Sub-Agent of Dominion Lands.

W. W. CORY,
Deputy Minister of the Interior.

N. B.—Unauthorized publication of this advertisement will not be paid for.—30690 dtf

Let us Develope and Finish Your Films. We Know How.
The Belleville Pharmacy
The Kodak Store, Bridge St.

BANK OF MONTREAL
Established 1817
Capital, all paid up . . $16,000,000
Rest . . . . . . . . . . $16,000,000

SAVINGS BANK DEPARTMENT
Interest allowed on sums of $1.00 and upwards at current rates.
Banking hours, 10 to 3. Saturdays, 10 to 3.

R. TANNAHILL,
Manager Belleville Branch

Business Conditions In St. John N. B.

Continued from Page Five.

wood must be round reasonably straight, and must be squared at each end. Wood without bark is preferred. The St. John lumber shipers are looking into the matter closely, and it is possible that some business may be done here, after the commission of enquiry returns to England. They expect to sail about October 20th. One of the business demands that has arisen out of the war is for fine rye straw for the manufacture of horse collars. Hitherto this demand has been supplied by Holland and Germany, and as the source of supply is cut off in Europe the English manufacturers are turning to Canada. The matter has been brought to the attention of the St. John Board of Trade by a Manchester, England, harness manufacturer.

CITY AND VICINITY

Re-opening of Chirst Church. A Supper in the Parish Hall under the auspices of the Parish Guild. Proceeds toward lighting church. Supper served from 6 to 8 and short programme. Tickets: single, 40c., double 75c. Tuesday, Oct. 20.

AUCTION SALE

Of Household Goods at the residence of Mrs. Lambton Sewell, 45 North Front St., on Tuesday, Oct. 20th, 1914. Sale begins at 9.30 a.m. sharp, and will be continued until goods are all sold. John L. Palmer, Auctioneer. 17-19

BIRTHS.

At Belleville, Oct. 17th, Born to Mr. and Mrs. Wesley A. Merritt, 32 Harriett St., a daughter.

AUCTION SALE

Of Household Effects including metal refrigerator with revolving shelves, extension teable, chairs, gas range, etc., Tuesday, Oct. 20th at 1 p.m., at 171 Dundas street, opposite Reid's Nursery. D. J. Fairfield, Auctioneer. 17,2t

Choir Concert in St. Andrew's Sunday School rooms, Tuesday evening, Oct. 20, assisted by the following ladies and gentlemen: Mrs. Jas. Grant, Mrs. Connell, Misses Ponton, Stork, Price, Messrs. Cameron, Connell, Bennett, Booth, Kenneth Ross and Excelsior Male Quartette. Choir leader, Mrs. A. P. Allen; organist Miss Edith Fenn. Tickets 25 cents. 17,3t

THE RITCHIE COMPANY LIMITED THE RITCHIE COMPANY LIMITED THE RITCHIE COMPANY, LIMITED

Great Clearing Sale
Of All Our
Ladies' And Misses' Suits

Here is the most astounding Clearance Sale of Ladies' and Misses' High Grade Autumn and Winter Suits that we have ever offered at any former season. We have gone through our entire stock of season's suits and placed them in four lots at four reduced prices, prices that in some instances are less than half their former values; and you will readily realize the advisability of our doing this as well as yourself taking advantage of this sale, when we tell you that in the four lots there are over 100 up to the minute suits in the most fashionable materials, colors and styles, that must be carried over until another season unless cleared out now. Hence the drastic reductions. A representative showing of these garments will be on display in all three show windows to-night, each one plainly marked at the sale price. See them.

LADIES' AND MISSES' HIGH GRADE SUITS, REGULAR UP TO $15.00 ON SALE AT ONLY $7.50

$7.50 $7.50

What more reasonable price could one expect to pay for a Fall and Winter Suit than this remarkably low price? especially when they are in such fashionable materials as Serges, Cheviots, and Fancy Tweeds, in shades of Blue, Tan, Grey and Black. About fourteen suits in the lot that are mostly plain tailored, and very suitable for present or future wear. The sizes run from 34 to 40, and if there is a garment in the lot that will fit you, it will be an exceptional bargain. At any rate come in and see them and have a trial fitting; you will indeed be surprised at the remarkable price reductions. Regularly to $15.00, for $7.50.

$10.00

40 Ladies' and Misses' SUITS
That sold in the regular way as high as $22 50
Clearing at - - $10.00

The garments in this lot are exceedingly smart. and being mostly plain tailored with three-quarter length coats, you are assured of a suit strictly up to the minute in style, while the materials are all new, such as plain Serges, Cheviots, Boucle, Tweeds, Ratines, and one Corduroy Velvet, in shades of Grey, Brown, Tan, Taupe. Navy, Black, Black Stripes, and Black and White Checks. Very few of them are fancy suits, although a few of them have pleated skirts and coats trimmed with braid.

Ladies' and Misses' sizes are represented, from 34 to 40, and they sold in the regular way as high ar $22.50, but we have reduced them to clear quickly at

$10.00

Every Ladics' Suit in the Store at Reduced Prices

Besides the four prices mentioned here there are several other higher priced garments that sold as high as $40.00, that we have marked at such reduced prices as $22.50, $25.00, $27.50

See them in the Windows.

$14.50

This Lot at - - $14.50
Includes about
20 Ladies' and Misses' HANDSOME SUITS
Regularly Sold as high as $30.00

Even if you had not thought of a new suit this fall, these remarkable bargains will undoubtedly prompt you to quick action, as these Suits are in very fashionable styles, the Suit Coats three-quarter cut-away effect, some trimmed with moire and velvet collars, and all lined with "Skinner's Satin," while the skirts are mostly all plain tailored.

The materials represented are Bedford Cords, Cheviots, Diagonal Serges, Plain Serges, and Poplins, in shades of Black, Navy, Copenhagen, Tan, Grey, Purple and Black and White Stripe. The sizes of these garments range from 36 to 40 inches, and sold regularly as high as $30.00, but for quick clearance we have reduced them to only

$14.50

18 VERY FASHIONABLE LADIES' AND MISSES' SUITS REGULARLY UP TO $35.00 REDUCED TO $18.50

$18.50 $18.50

Every suit is a this season's garment, which means that the Suit Coats are cut in the very latest style, and Skirts in plain tailored and tunic style, while others are in the pleated effects; made up in such popular materials as Bedford Cords, Brocades, Plain Serges, Diagonol Serges, Worsteds, and Cheviots, in shades of Tan, Navy, Copenhagen, Mahogany, Brown, Dark Navy, Black and White and Brown and White Checks, Black, Greys and Colored Tweed Mixtures. Sizes from 16 to 42, and about 18 in the lot that sold regularly at as high as $35.00, clearing at $18.50.

CORSET COVERS, 25c.

With high neck and long sleeves, made of good quality fast color dark grey prints in attractive styles. Sizes 34 to 44. On sale at . . . . . . . . . . $1.19

The Ritchie Company Limited

PRINT WRAPPERS, $1.19.

Made of good quality white cotton, trimmed with wide lace and insertion, with pink baby ribbon running through beading at neck. Sizes 34 to 44, on sale at . . . . 25c.

COL. HUGHES ARRIVES

The Canadian Minister of Militia Reaches Liverpool

LIVERPOOL, Oct. 17.—Special—"Nothing finer ever left the shores of Canada," was the remark applied to the Canadian troops by Colonel Sam Hughes on his arrival last night at Liverpool. "There is no need to say anything about their wonderful enthusiasm and capabilities," he continued. "The men speak for themselves. They are going to fight, not against the Germans as individuals, but against the system of government and Royal representatives who claim divine right to rule. These Canadians are fighting for liberty and the British Empire.'

Laid at Rest

On Saturday afternoon the remains of two well known and much respected aged ladies of the city, were laid away in the tomb.

MRS. G. BACKUS

The funeral of Mrs. G. Backus took place from the residence of her daughter, Mrs. E. T. Austin, Cedar street, and many relatives and friends were present. At Christ church the burial services of the Anglican church were conducted by the rector, Rev. R. C Blagrave, who also officiated at the interment. The floral tributes were many and beautiful in design. The bearers were Messrs. T. Nightingale, J. Black, J. B. Harker, F. Ford, J. Hicks and J. Cordon.

MISS CADMAN

At Belleville cemetery the remains of the late Miss Cadman were interred, after services had been conducted at her late residence, Everett street, and at the grave by Rev. R. C. Blagrave, rector of Christ church. A number of floral tributes were placed on the casket by relatives and friends. The bearers were Messrs. Hiram Ashley, J. H. Murdoff, N. Shorey, T. F. McCready, A., and Geo. Sills.

When some men think, they make a noise like a boiler shop.

Where rigid censorship is needed is in the case of fish stories.

Who was it that was inquiring about the "blessings of civilization?"

To the naval vessels coal is as much a munition of war as powder.

Anyhow, those European standing armies aren't standing any longer.

CLERK'S NOTICE OF FIRST POSTING OF VOTERS' LIST

Voters' List, 1914, Municipality of the City of Belleville, County of Hastings.

Notice is hereby given that I have transmitted or delivered to the persons mentioned in section 9 of The Ontario Voters' Lists Act, the copies required by said sections to be so transmitted or delivered of the List, made pursuant to said Act, of all persons appearing by the last revised Assessment Roll of the said Municipality to be entitled to vote in the said Municipality at elections for members of the Legislative Assembly and at Municipal Elections; and that the said List was first posted up at my office at the City Hall on the 17th day of October, 1914, and remains there for inspection.

And I hereby call upon all voters to take immediate proceedings to have any errors or omissions corrected according to law.

Dated this 19th day of October, 1914.

J. WILFRED HOLMES,
Clerk of the Municipality of the City of Belleville. 19-2td

STORM SASH AND DOORS
Made to your order, any Shape or Size
SAVE YOUR COAL BILLS
The Holton Lumber Co. Limited
EVERYTHING IN LUMBER
Phones 112-1197
Offices 1 Bride St. W; Water St.

The Daily Intelligencer.

Established 1858
FURNITURE & UNDERTAKING
TICKELL & SONS CO
SPECIAL—AT COST
49 VERANDAH CHAIRS

LET THERE BE HARMONY IN THINGS ESSENTIAL—LIBERALTY IN THINGS NOT ESSENTIAL—CHARITY IN ALL.

Vol. 46 BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO, TUESDAY, OCTOBER 20, 1914. No. 139

Montreal Newsie Head of Convoy

Little Stowaway Who Went With Contingent Taken Under Highlander's 'Wing'

MONTREAL, Oct. 19.—A correspondent telling of the arrival of our Canadian troops at Salisbury Plain, says—

"Those who listened heard a strange medley. The notes of "It's a Long Way to Tipperary," mingled with the Spanish-American war favorite. "There'll be a Hot Time in the Old Town Tonight." The latest American ragtime, among the chief tunes being "This is the Life," also resounded in the quiet English dales.

"Riding at the head of the supply convoy was a small Montreal newsboy who had stowed away on a transport. This little chap, in spite of the fact that he was almost lost in the folds of an army coat loaned to him by a good-hearted sergeant of Highlanders was nearly frozen, but he insisted on practicing the bugle, proficiency in which, he hopes, will give him a chance to go to the front.

"There is a surprising number of naturalized Americans among these Canadian forces. A sergeant of a Montreal regiment, asked concerning his previous war experiences, replied in an American drawl. Incidentally he mentioned that he was a veteran of Admiral Dewey's flagship in the Battle of Manila Bay. In many regiments social distinctions have been obliterated and men of fortune, with degrees from American and Canadian colleges are serving as privates.

"Several English territorial regiments have been engaged in preparing the Canadian camps and acting as convoy corps. The greatest between these forces and the Canadians is the difference in physique, the Canadians being on an average much larger men and stronger looking than their English comrades."

Portugal Starts Arming Colonies

NEW YORK, Oct. 19.—Two expeditionary forces of Portuguese troops, for one of which English transports were used, sailed from Lisbon Sept. 10 to reinforce garrisons in Portuguese possessions in Africa which adjoin of Germany.

This was made known by C. Rangel De Sampaio, Portuguese consul general at New York, and is the first news to reach this country of any actual military preparations by Portugal for the eventuality of that country's participation in the war.

Mr. Sampaio said he had received no official confirmation of the reports that Portugal had declared war with Germany "in conformity with its alliance with England," but that he would not be surprised to hear that it was true at any moment. Portugal has an army of eight corps in active service, he said, but with the calling out of its first and second reserves, would be able to put 500,000 men in the field.

There had been as yet no call for the reserve in this country, he added, but many of his fellow countrymen here had volunteered and returned home with the expectation of fighting.

One of the expeditionary forces, about 5,000 men, commanded by Col. Rossades, a veteran in warfare against African tribes, has sailed, he said, for Angola (Portuguese Kongo); the other—6,000 commanded by Col. Massano —for Mozambique, Portuguese East Africa. Angola is bounded on the south by German Damarand. Portguese East Africa is bounded on the north by German East Africa.

These forces were sent to protect our colonies in the event of war with Germany," said the consul.

"TELL MY SISTER," SAID YOUNG SUICIDE

MONTREAL, Oct. 19.—A note left with a pathetic little pile of clothing on the river bank, where the water runs wickedly deep, is the explanation of Arthur Bourhet's disappearance.

Arthur was nineteen years of age, and lived on a farm at Pierre aux Liens. It is claimed that he was unhappy, that he looked upon himself as the ugly duckling, and became very despondent. He and his stepfather are reported not to have been in sympathy with each other; and it was to his little sister that Arthur always turned for consolation and companionship.

Yesterday a farmer found Arthur's clothes on the bank of the river. With them was a note, asking the finder to send the garments to Arthur's sister. That was all, but that is considered enough to establish the young man's suicide. The body has not been found.

WOOL EMBARGO HAS NOW BEEN REMOVED

Canadian Manufacturers Must Reship Goods Back to England

OTTAWA, Oct. 19.—Sir George Foster, Minister of Trade and Commerce, announced to-day that arrangements had been made with the British Government that the export of raw wool, woollen tops, nails and yarn cloth suitable for military clothing, flannels or woollen underclothing will be permitted to Canada under regulations which will make it certain that there shall be no export of these articles to a destination other than Kingdom.

When war broke out the United Kingdom placed an embargo on the exportation of sheep and lambs' wool raw from the United Kingdom. Canadian wool manufacturers were placed in an awkward situation, as they had depended largely on the British supply. Wool from the United States proved difficult to get as prices rose to an almost prohibitive height. There have been negotiations in progress between the two Governments and an arrangement has been reached raising the embargo on wool coming to Canada provided the goods manufactured are reshipped to England.

DIDN'T KNOW WAR WAS ON

German Skipper on Lake Nyassa Amazed When British Fired on Ship

LONDON, Oct. 19.—A letter to The Daily Chronicle from Zomba, headquarters of the Government in Nyassaland, dated Sept. 5, says:

'Germans have crossed our northern border and are intrenched four miles on our side of the Songwe River. British troops are in a strong position to the north of Karonga. All the Britishers in the colony have joined the Nyasaland volunteer reserves, and some have already been sent to the front.

'There has been a sort of naval action, the best that we can put up in this part of the world. It happened in this way: The German steamer Von Pismann was reported to be on the east coast of Nyassa, beached and under repair in the small harbor, so the British Government steamer Guendolen was armed and sent up to take possession of her. The Guendolen approached the narrow entrance to the harbor and steamed slowly in, expecting to be fired upon every moment. Nothing happened, however, and her commander brought her broadside on and cleared for action. Her marksmanship was not very good. A gun was fired, and missed; again, and 'missed; and yet again, and missed.

"A fourth shot scored an outer on the gangway. Then the German skipper appeared and shook his fist at the Guendolen and shouted: 'Vot you mean, you Gott dam fool? If you fire again you will hit the ship.' He was then informed that war had been declared. His own Government had not informed him.

"Resistance was useless. The ship was partly dismantled and her engines were rendered useless, while the skipper and engineer, both Germans, and three British Indians, who formed the crew were taken prisoners.

"On land the campaign has been more exciting. Our outposts came in contact on Sept. 2 with a German detachment, with the result that thirteen Germans Askari were killed and one German officer was wounded. There were no casualties on our side."

SUBMARINE THAT WILL STARTLE THE WORLD

WEST ORANGE, N.J., Oct. 19.—Edison is studying the habits of fish in a tank in his laboratories at Llewellyn Park, to aid him in his experiments for the making of a new type of submarine. In company with the Secretary of the Navy, Mr. Daniels, the noted inventor recently inspected a submarine at the New York navy yard. Later he declared he would build a submarine that would startle the world because of its ability to stay beneath water indefinitely.

Good Start for Second Contingent

ST. JOHN, N.B., Oct. 19.—On the Ottawa announcement of the second contingent plans, Lieut.-Col. J. L. McAvity to-day formed the nucleus of an infantry regiment here by enlisting for foreign service the home defence company of fifty-nine men who have been on duty here. It is said there is reason to believe that the second body to go from New Brunswick will be a regiment of one thousand, under Col. McAvity's command.

ARMY OF GERMAN CHANNEL DOOMED TERRIBLE BATTLING ON BOTH SIDES

The Kaiser's Forces Must go Forward, in Which Move Certain Destruction is Before Them--Correspondent at the Front Depicts Situation, Which Favors Allied Forces

(Canadian Press Specials Exclusively to the Intelligencer)

LONDON, Oct. 20.—Special—The correspondent of the Daily Mail in the north of France sends this despatch regarding the situation there:

"A big battle is in progress along the front extending from Ostend to Lille. In competent quarters the position of the allies is regarded as eminently satisfactory.

"The enemy's attempt to brush their way past our left wing to the Straits of Dover is rapidly coming to ignominious failure. Their line of attack was intended to extend from Ostend through Lille to Douai, but the steady succession of defeats of the past fortnight has broken the power of the southern half of the line, and, instead of a united army marching in an unbroken line across Pas-de-Calairs and the north departments, there is left merely a series of detachments. They are still large, but wherever they give battle they have been soundly beaten.

"The Emperor's Channel expeditionary force, as it is called here, has received to the last man and rifle what help it could hope for from the withdrawal of troops in Alsace. The German garrisons in Brussels, Antwerp and Bruges cannot spare another regiment. As it exists now it must go forward, and it goes to certain destruction.

"It faced the prospect of an advance in the worst of conditions, tropical rains having turned the country into a quagmire, in which it is impossible to move heavy artillery. The country is absolutely flat, intersected with canals, and offers no natural cover, while the force defending it can make death-traps of wire entanglements. However, the issue turns, the Emperor's Channel army is doomed."

NAVAL BATTLE ON THE BLACK SEA

LONDON, Oct. 20.—A Central News Copenhagen despatch says:

"The Berliner Tageblatt publishes a telegram from Bucharest saying that evidently a big Russian-Turkish naval battle has taken place in the Black Sea. Exceedingly heavy firing, lasting a considerable time is reported."

HAD GERMAN SURVIVORS

A despatch from Lowestoft reports the arrival there of the trawler United with two German survivors of Saturday's naval engagement, one of them a warrant officer.

ARTILLREY FIRE ON SERVIAN POSITION

PARIS, Oct. 20.—A Nish despatch to the Havas Agency says: "In the region of the Save near Mitrovitza, the enemy after a brisk artillery fire, attempted unsuccessfully to capture the Servian position at Prekiet. From the heights of Dejamia the Austrians bombarded Topzider and the Banks of the Save and Danube, and also sought to cannonade the vicinity of Semlin, but were forced to retire before the Servian fire."

BELGIAN FORCES HOLD POSITIONS

PARIS, Oct. 20.—The French War Office issued the following official announcement this afternoon:

"In Belgium, in spite of violent attacks on the part of the enemy, the Belgian army has held its position on the line of the Yser River.

"There have been other actions in the region of Ypres between the allied forces operating in this territory and forces of the enemy. On our left wing the Germans continue to hold strongly their advance posts around Lille.

PASSENGERS WERE KILLED OR INJURED

LONDON, Oct. 20.—A Chronicle despatch from Pas-de-Calais, dated Monday, says between forty and fifty passengers were killed and eighty injured in a train wreck on Saturday between Calais and Boulogne. Two trains carrying soldiers and refugess, collided when a broken signal wire released the danger signal.

ENEMY FAILS TO DRIVE BACK ADVANCE

On the River Meuse the enemy has endeavored vainly to drive back the advance posts of our troops who have moved out along the right bank of this stream in the Peninsula of Camp des Romains. To sum up: During the day, October 19th, we have made progress at various points on the front.

SITUATION SATISFACTORY

LONDON, Oct. 20.—A despatch from Paris says the official announcement last night reported: "The situation satisfactory at all points."

A Brussels despatch states that the famine there is assuming serious proportions. Many deaths, said to be from starvation, are reported.

UNREST IN INDIA

A Berlin despatch says it is announced there that England has been forced to send several battalions of troops from Malta to India, owing to unrest in that part of the Empire.

BRITISH FLEET NOW FORMS PART OF ALLIED LINES

New Developement of War--Kaiser's Plan to Seize French Sea Coast Met With Decided Check--English Squadron Composes Extreme Left Wing of Forces

LONDON, Oct. 20.—(Special.)—British warships off the coast of Belgium shelled the German line near Nieuport Monday and aided the gallant Belgians in driving the Germans northward from Roulers back towards Ostend and Bruges.

The Kaiser's plan to seize the French seacoast has met with a decided check, and the guns of British cruisers, supporting the Belgian army and the French marines, have compelled the Germans to retreat from eight to ten miles.

The official news that a British squadron now composes the extreme left wing of the allied force and has already made itself powerfully felt, is a totally new development of the war. The long range guns of the cruisers are holding the Germans back from the seacoast, nullifying the occupation of Ostend and forcing the Germans to give battle on ground chosen by Gen. Joffre.

A Morning Post special correspondent in the North of France says that he is informed on excellent authority that the allies have retaken Ostend. There is no confirmation here of this report.

The French commander-in-chief reported last night that the Belgian army splendidly distinguished itself in the day's fighting, moving northward from the River Yser, despite cannonading by the heavy guns of the Germans, capturing Roulers and standing impregnably on a greatly advanced battle line. There is credible reports that the British have sent light draught torpedo boats and gunboats into the canals of the region of Nieuport and that these are cooperating usefully with the land forces.

In Northern France the left wing of the allies is advancing toward Lille, the Germans giving way, but fighting desperately. Gen. Joffre describes the fighting in this region as a house to house advance. There is an unofficial report that the Germans have evacuated Lille, unable to hold the city after Armentieres was retaken by the allies.

GOING TO WOUNDED LOVER

Chicago Girl Runs Away from Home to Visit Austrian Count

CHICAGO, Oct. 19.—Frederick Henkel, whose sister Marie, fled from home here yesterday with borrowed money to go to the bedside of her wounded lover in Austria, caught a fast train in pursuit to-day.

"Are you going to bring her back?" he was asked.

"No; I'm going to help her," he replied.

Miss Henkel, who is 22 years of age, met Count Willie Feodor Hinez von Zagred while touring Europe with her mother last summer. A few days ago she received a letter mentioning that the writer had been seriously wounded in a bush with a regiment of Cossacks.

"Send me something to remind me of you" the young Count, who is an Austrian officer, concluded his letter.

Miss Henkel determined to appear in person as a reply, but her parents would not supply the funds. Yesterday she pawned some trinkets, and with contributions made by her girl friends, she found herself with money enough for pasage to New York, a steerage ticket to Genoa, $25 for passage from Genoa to Trieste, and $5 for meals and incidentials.

She boarded a train for New York last night. She was seen at Ashtabula, Ohio, to-day, in the day coach, where she said that nothing could stop her from going to her sweetheart.

Her brother carries with him plenty of money so that his sister will be able to travel first-class.

WAR TO COST CANADA $100,000,000 FIRST YEAR

OTTAWA, Oct. 19.—The war will cost Canada a hundred million dollars in the first year, according to a conservative estimate.

This amount includes not only the cost of the equipment of the expeditions, but their pay when on active serive at home or abroad. At the emergency session the appropriation was 50 million but it is apparent this will be inadequate. It covered seven months supply for the first division along with the Naval outlays. When Parliament meets there will be a further budget bringing the total up to the hundred million mark. A great deal of money will be spent at home.

As announced on Saturday, an arrangement has been made whereby advance will be secured for the current year from the Bank of England, and subsequently a general war fund loan will be floated.

It will not be surprising if next session there are more tariff adjustments, suited to the conditions of the war. The action taken in August was in the nature of a start. There is no official intimation that further changes are coming but if there are it will be a natural development, in view of prevailing or anticipated conditions.

To Co-Operate With Canada

OTTAWA, Oct. 19.—A Government memorandum directs public attention to the fact that the Canadian War Contingent Association in London has completed its organization and is ready to co-operate with Canadian committees intending aid to the Canadian forces, medical or otherwise, or by acting as representatives of the Red Cross Societies, Daughters of the Empire or other patriotic bodies. These are urged to correspond with the association as to the assistance they wish to render in the emergency.

W. H. BIGGAR PROMOTED

Made Vice-President and General Counsel of G. T. P.

MONTREAL, Oct. 19.—A circular issued on Saturday from the office of Mr. Henry Phillips, Secretary of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway, announces that Mr. W. H. Biggar, K. C., has been appointed Vice-President and General Counsel of the company, with charge of all legal matters connected with the same.

Mr. Biggar has been for many years connected with the legal department of the company, carrying out large legislative matters at Ottawa. His headquarters will continue to be at Montreal.

The Intelligencer, with thousands of the Bay Quinte District, who have known Mr. Biggar from childhood heartily congratulate him upon his promotion.

Northern Ontario Asking for Apples

No Need of Fruit and Potatoes to be Wasted; Good Prices

The following letter to the Toronto News may prove of interest to apple growers throughout the counties of Hastings and Prince Edward:

"That apples are a drug on the markets of Old Ontario and potatoes to be had almost for the picking, seems strange to New Ontario people. With a Government-owned railway running right through this country, why don't you send a few carloads up this way and get a paying price for them?

"I know of a man who, only the other day, paid a dealer here $1.75 a bushel for two small pail-fulls. I am enclosing the bill I received. You will see by it that milk, too, is dearer than in Toronto and in my case I have to paddle a mile to get it.

"Some call whiskey and tobacco 'luxuries' in Old Ontario and so do we up here, but we can add to the list milk and potatoes.

W. W. FOX.

"Zeta, Long Lake, New Ontario, Oct. 15."

ANOTHER BANK CLERK LIVING TOO FAST

The Ottawt Free Press of the 19th says:

Emile St. Martin paying teller of the Hull branch of La Banque Nationale, who was arrested at the home of his parents, 301 Champlain avenue, Hull, on Saturday, 17th inst., by Bailiff de Coeli, was arraigned this morning before Recorder Desjardins in the Hull magistrate's court charged with falsifying his books to an unknown extent and the hearing of the case was adjourned until Friday in order that the bank manager, N. Lavoie, may ascertain the exact amount of the alleged defalcation.

St. Martin is about 21 years of age and was to have been married shortly. When arrested he is alleged to have admitted that he was $800 short in his accounts, but did not explain the reason for the shortage.

KINGSTON GRADUATES GET SPECIAL MENTION

LONDON, Oct. 19.—Among the officers mentioned in Field-Marshall Sir John French's despatch are the following graduates of the Royal Military College, Kingston, on the General Headquarters Staff:—Major D. N. Cory, D.S.O., 1st Battalion Northamptonshire Regiment; Lieutenant-Colonel E. O. Smith, Loyal North Lancashires; and Lieutenant E. J. W. Shread, who was previously reported wounded, also the following:—

Lieutenant-Colonel E. J. Duffus Eighth Brigade Royal Field Artillery; Lieutenant A. E. Grasset, Royal Engineers, and Captain O. B. R. Dickey, Army Service Corps.

ISSUES DENIAL OF VALCARTIER STORY

OTTAWA, Oct. 19.—An official denial is given by the Militia Department to a story that when the troops left Valcartier Camp, valuable stores were wantonly destroyed by fire.

"Inquiries have been made," the Department says, "and it has been discovered that nothing of the kind occurred. A certain quantity of worn-out clothing and damaged camp equipment of no further use to the volunteers was, by order and under proper supervision, destroyed. It is satisfactory to know that rumors to the contrary are without foundation in fact."

Boy Escaped Death Twice

Nearly Run Down by Auto, and Had Close Call When Car Struck Hydrant

TORONTO, Oct. 19.—To be almost run over by a motor car, and, when the driver avoided killing him outright to be almost drowned as the result of said avoidance, was the unique experience of one small boy named McCleary, of 41 Peter street, who tried to cross the road at the corner of Peter and Adelaide today.

Dr. Cuthbertson, of Madison avenue was the driver of the car concerned. The boy tried to run across in front of his car, but tripped and fell. The doctor swerved sharply and struck a hydrant. The hydrant, not having been built to withstand shocks of this nature, snapped off short, and a stream of water ascended fifty feet into the air. Much of it came down where the boy was lying, and in such quantities that he was half drowned before aid came.

He was carried to the University Settlement where Dr. Cuthbertson quickly revived him.

The automobile was badly smashed.

CABINET CHANGES

Postmaster-General Pelletier Resigns, and Hon. T. Chase Casgrain Appointed

(Canadian Press Despatch)

OTTAWA, Oct., Oct. 20.—The Cabinet changes foreshadowed some days ago are announced this afternoon. Pelletier has resigned as Postmaster General, and is succeeded by Hon. T. Chase Casgrain of Montreal, Hon. Bruno Nantel, Minister of Inland Revenue, is appointed to the Railway Commission in succession to Hon. M. E. Bernier, whose term expires, and P. E. Blondin, Deputy Speaker of the Commons, succeeds to the portfolio. Casgrain and Blondin were sworn in at 1:30 this afternoon.

CANADIAN EVAPORATED APPLES IN BRITAIN

Little Chance For Profitable Trade Owing to the Glut From United States

OTTAWA, Oct. 20.—Special—A report received by the Department of Trade and Commerce from the Canadian Trade Commissioner at London, Mr. Harrison Watson, indicates that there is not much opportunity this year for the hope for market for Canadian evaporated apples in Great Britain. Before the war Germany placed in the United States large orders for evaporated apples, doubtless having in view their use as a necessary and convenient fruit food supply for the army. But the American shippers found it impossible to fulfil the contracts before the outbreak of the war, and now delivery to Germany is found impossible owing to the prevailing conditions. The stock in hand is now being offered at low prices in Great Britain, where the market is already flooded.

Mr. Watson reports that in view of the low prices now ruling for evaporated apples there is little chance for a profitable trade being worked up this year by Canadian shippers.

CANADIAN NURSES IN LONDON

Have Been Welcomed and Given Good Accommodation

LONDON, Oct. 19.—Canadian nurses, of whom 99 are quartered at St. Thomas' Hospital, and the hundredth is in London, state that nothing could exceed the kindness of officials, which was much appreciated. The authorities placed plenty of rooms at the nurses' disposal, giving free theatre tickets, etc. At the hospital system they are doing everything possible to make the stay pleasant.

BOY ACCIDENTLY KILLED

Received Full Charge in Face from Brother's Gun

KINGSTON, Oct. 20.—Special—The seven-year-old son of Burton Burtch, Jenes' Falls, met instant death on Friday when he received in the face and chest the full discharge of a gun in the hands of his older brother. The shooting was accidental, and the Coroner, Dr. Young of Seeley's Bay, deemed an inquest unnecessary.

WM. McINTOSH & CO.

HORSE BLANKETS.

Linen Jute unlined blankets at ................ 75c. each.
Linen Jute wool lined blankets, special at
$3.00, $2.75, $2.50 and $1.50 each
Dutch Kersey Blankets, on sale at ............ $1.50 each
Plaid Shawl Automobile Rugs at .............. $2.25 each.

BEDDING.

White Wool Blankets in great variety at
$5.50, $5.00, $4.00 and $3.35 per pair
Heavy dark and ligh grey wool blankets, on sale at
$2.75, $2.50 and $2.25 per pair
Flannelette Blankets, white and grey, 12/4 size, at
$1.75 and $1.60 per pair
Flannelette Blankets, white and grey, 11/4 size, at
$1.50 and $1.40 per pair
Flannelette Blankets, white and grey, 10/4 size
at $1.25 per pair.
Bed Comforters, large variety, filled with the best Puritan batting at .............. $4.00, $3.50, $3.00, $2.50, $2.00 each

WM. McINTOSH & CO.

House Furnishing

Some new Curtains and Shades will brighten up your room and give a softened effect.

We have dainty designs at reasonable prices, in Nottingham, Swiss Net, Bungalow Net, Madras, Voile, etc. Shades in Green and White, Cream, etc., plain or insertion.

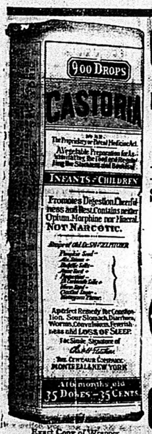
We can fit any window.

Small Rugs, Hall Runners, etc.

Wire and Cocoa Door Mats will keep the mud out and and save the rugs.

Stoves, Comforters, Pillows, Spreads.

THE THOMPSON FURNITURE Co.
UNDERTAKERS Phones: Day, 62; Night, 295.



900 DROPS
CASTORIA
INFANTS & CHILDREN
Promotes Digestion Cheerfulness and Rest. Contains neither Opium, Morphine nor Mineral. NOT NARCOTIC.
A perfect Remedy for Constipation, Sour Stomach, Diarrhoea, Worms, Convulsions, Feverishness and LOSS OF SLEEP.
THE CENTAUR COMPANY, MONTREAL & NEW YORK
At 6 months old
35 DOSES — 35 CENTS

Exact Copy of Wrapper.

CASTORIA
For Infants and Children.
Mothers Know That Genuine Castoria
Always Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher
In Use For Over Thirty Years
CASTORIA
THE CENTAUR COMPANY, NEW YORK CITY.

"Regal" Salt is the finest grain of the famous Windsor Salt — especially prepared for table use by the most modern Salt Plant on the Continent.

"Regal" Salt never "cakes" — never clogs up the shaker — never gets damp and sticky.

REGAL TABLE SALT FREE RUNNING

Ask your Grocer. 127

Local Legal

Appellate Division—Before Mulock C.J., Hodgin, J.A., Clute J, and Riddell J.

MacCauley v. G.T. Ry. Co.—D. L. MacCarthy, K. C., for defendants. E. G. Porter, K. C., for plaintiff. Appeal by defendants from judgment of Lennox J., of May 8, 1914. Action by brakesman of defendant company to recover $5,000 damages for injuries received by being run over by a "drop car," causing loss of his right leg below the knee, alleged to have been caused by defendants neglecting to furnish proper equipment. At trial judgment was entered for plaintiff for $2,000 and costs. Appeal argued. Judgment reserved.

HYDRO RADIALS CARRY

Sir Adam Beck Sweeps Eleven of Thirteen Municipalities.

Co-operation In York County Project Is Assured by Heavy Majorities Polled For Initial Publicly-Owned Road—Newmarket and Uxbridge Township Are Against—Returns to Come Do Not Affect Result.

TORONTO, Oct. 20.—With the exception of the town of Newmarket and the Township of Uxbridge all the municipalities along the route of the proposed Toronto and northeastern district Hydro-radial gavo substantial majorities for the bylaw submitted yesterday, which empowers their municipal councils to enter into an agreement with the provincial commission for the construction and operation of the road. According to the terms of the bylaw each municipality will issue debentures covering the proportion of cost for which it will be responsible, and these debentures will be deposited with the commission as security in financing the undertaking.

Sir Adam Beck does not anticipate that it will be necessary for the municipalities to make any actual payments, as interest and sinking fund charges will be amply covered by revenue received from the railway and the sale of power along the route of the radial.

Now that the electors have endorsed the bylaw it only remains for the municipal councils to give it the third reading and the commission will then be free to start the construction of the line.

Some subdivisions had not been heard from at a late hour last night, but these are not likely to make any serious alteration in the result.

BIG ORDERS FOR SUPPLIES.

Contracts Awarded For Saddles and Bridles For the Allies.

OTTAWA, Oct. 20.—Further orders were received yesterday from the British and French Governments for saddles and bridles, and the orders which are now being divided among all the saddlery and harness firms of the Dominion, call for a total of 50,000 saddles. Of these 15,000 are for the French Government, 10,000 for the British, 20,000 for the Russian and 5,000 or 6,000 for the Canadian troops. The contracts were awarded by the sub-committee of the Cabinet, the only requirement from any firm being that it could fill the order.

Fred Stobart, purchasing agent for the British Government, who is here to see what can be supplied most economically in Canada, is interested in such articles as sweaters, shirts, socks, gloves, etc., but he says that no boots will be required as England and France can supply their own boots, the standard of quality and price being much higher here than over there.

SHAFER REFUSED BAIL.

Alleged Traitor Is In Danger of Sentence of Death.

MONTREAL, Oct. 20. — Israel Shafer, ticket agent, charged with high treason against the King in connection with the sale of steamship transportation to Austrian reservists, who tried to pass themselves off as Roumanians, was yesterday morning ordered to be held without bail by Judge St. Cyr. He will come up for examination on Thursday.

The charge was laid by Maj. Date on behalf of the military authorities. Should Shafer be found guilty of this offence, there will be no alternative for the court but to condemn him to death, just as in a murder conviction according to legal experts here. It will then remain for the crown to exercise its clemency in such manner as may be thought fit if clemency is considered at all.

SWIMMING COLLARS FOR MEN.

Admiralty Provides Device To Save Lives In Naval Disasters.

LONDON, Oct. 20.—That the Admiralty is fully alive to the necessity of providing a means for the crews of warships that strike mines or are torpedoed by submarines to escape drowning, since other warships are prohibited from going to their assistance, is shown by the announcement yesterday that the Admiralty is arranging for a general supply of swimming collars to be distributed to the officers and men of the fleet. The men are instructed that the collar shall be carried on their person when they are awake and kept inflated and near each individual when he is asleep.

General Hit By Shrapnel.

LONDON, Oct. 20. — A letter received in London yesterday from an officer friend of Maj.-Gen. Hubert Hamilton, whose body has been brought to England, tells how the British general met his end on the French battlefield.

"He was standing with a group in a covered place," the officer writes, "when a shrapnel shell burst 100 yards away. A bullet pierced Gen. Hamilton's temple and he was killed on the spot. No other member of the group was scratched."

Many Austrians Arrested.

SAULT STE. MARIE, Oct. 20.—Two hundred and eighty-six Austrians, who have not signed naturalization papers, were rounded up here by the local militia.

Most of these have come to the Soo within the past few weeks. Of this number twelve men emphatically expressed their intentions of going back to Austria to fight for their country. They are now being held prisoners at the canal camp.

---

ban has also been put on the New Yorker Staats Zeitung, according to an announcement in the evening edition of that newspaper recently.

IT is poor economy to buy anything but the best in dress goods, because the making of a garment often costs as much or more than the material. And poor cloth soon looks badly—no matter how stylishly it's cut and tailored.

Priestleys' DRESS GOODS

are known as the best the world over. Pure wool, pure silk, or silk-and-wool mixture, every piece of goods bearing Priestleys' name is of premier quality.

Thanks to the low tariff on British products, Canadian women can buy Priestleys' for much less than other countries have to pay.

The genuine always has PRIESTLEYS' LIMITED stamped on the selvedge.

There is a truly wonderful assortment of Priestleys' Goods this fall, Serges, Taffetas, Mohairs, Silvan and Baroda Crepes, Poplins, Cravenettes, Barbicans, Etc., in all weights and colors.

At the Best Stores

15

75 VOLUNTEERS Wanted for Second Contingent Canadian Expeditionary Force.
For particulars apply to any officer of the 15th Regiment, or at the Armouries any evening.
W. H. HUDSON, Capt., Adjutant 15th Regt.

15th Regiment

A Provisional School lasting 6 weeks will be started at the Armouries here on Wednesday, the 21st instant, for qualification of Officiers and N. C. O.'s Officers and N. C. O.'s interested will govern themselves accordingly.
By order of the O. C. W. H. Hudson Capt., Adjutant

IN AND ABOUT THE CITY

Condensed News Items For Busy Readers.

DOUBLY BEREAVED

Some three weeks ago Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Argent of this city, had the misfortune to lost a child, and yesterday their little daughter, May Agnes, passed away.

APPEAL DISMISSED

The Supreme Court of Canada in session yesterday gave judgment in several cases, one being of local importance, as follows. Canadian Northern Railway Company v. Ketcheson, appeal dismissed with costs, Anglin J., dissenting in part.

A PAINFUL ACCIDENT

Irene Woolley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. T. Woolley of this city, was yesterday the victim of a painful accident. She with other girls was skipping on the walk about Queen Mary School, when she was tripped and fell in such a manner as to fracture her right arm. The young sufferer, who is but nine years of age, had twice previously broken the same arm.

A Better Remedy Than Nasty Saults

Few people like to take physic, especially salts, because they are so disagreeable to take and because of the griping and pains they cause. Rexall Orderlies enable you to take less physic, and all without griping, purging or excessive looseness. Salts and harsh physics usually give only temporary relief and often leave the bowels worse off than before.

Rexall Orderlies move the bowels promptly, and soothe, tone and strengthen the intestinal muscles, leaving them healthy and regular in action. They taste like candy, and the movement they cause is as easy and natural as though your bowels were in perfect health and you never had to take any physic at all. We have so much faith in Rexall Orderlies that we urge you to try them with the understanding that, if they do not satisfy you in every way, all you have to do to get your money back is to tell us. We honestly believe them to be the best bowel remedy made. In vest pocket tin boxes; 10c, 25c, 50.

You can buy Rexall Orderlies only at The Rexall Stores, and in this town only of us—The Rexall Store, J. S. McKeown.

BRITISH SUBMARINE SUNK BY GERMANS

(Canadian Press Despatch)

BERLIN, (wireless via Sayville) Oct. 20.—It is officially announced that the new British submarine E3, was sunk in the North Sea by a German warship.

CANADIAN NORTHERN RAILWAY
TORONTO-OTTAWA
New NIGHT SERVICE

(Daily)

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| Lv. Toronto (Union Station) | 11.00 P.M. | Lv. Ottawa (Central Station) | 10.50 P.M. |
| Lv. Belleville | 2.40 A.M. | Lv. Belleville | 3.40 A.M. |
| Ar. Ottawa | 7.40 A.M. | Ar. Toronto | 7.30 A.M. |

INTERMEDIATE STOPS

Orono, Port Hope, Cobourg, Trenton, Deseronto, Napanee, Yarker, Harrowsmith, Sydenham, Brockville Junction, and Smith's Falls.

NEW EQUIPMEN

Standard Sleeping Cars — Electric Lighted Coaches

| | |
|---|---|
| Lv. Toronto | 3.20 A.M. |
| Lv. Belleville | 11.55 A.M. |
| Ar. Ottawa | 5.20 P.M. |
| Lv. Ottawa | 12 15 Noon |
| Lv. Belleville | 5.10 P.M. |
| Ar. Toronto | 9.15 P.M. |

(Daily except Sunday)

GENERAL CHANGE OF TIME ONTARIO LINES EFFECTIVE MON. OCT. 19TH.
For full particulars, see latest Time Table Folder.

For Rail and Steamship Tickets, Parlor and Sleeping Car Reservations, and all information, apply to J. A. Patterson, Town Agent, or L. W. Buller, Station Agent.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

Mr. Robert Cook of Rawdon and M. P. P. for North Hastings, was in the city to-day.

Mr. William A. Lazier, who has been in the Northwest for some time, has returned to the city, where he intends to remain.

Mrs. M. E. Churchill of Toronto, has returned home after spending the past week with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. Lyng, Murney street.

Mrs. George H. Pope, a former well known resident who is connected with the marine and fisheries department of the Dominion Government, was in the city to-day.

DON'T LET CORNS TORMENT YOU

Use Putnam's Corn Extractor, which cures Corns in one night, without pain. For 30 years Putnam's has been the standard cure of Great Britain and America. Try it.

JOHN STREET JOTS

Sunday, Nov. 8th, is announced as the anniversary date with Rev. Principal Gaudier of Knox College, Toronto, as preacher.

Miss Maysel Stork, who has been choir instructor and soprano soloist in the congregation for some years, terminates her engagement next Sunday, much to the regret of her many friends in John street. There are few who combine distinct musical ability with pronounced gifts of leadership in the measure in which Miss Stork has combined them.

A new department of the Sunday School has been begun, namely a "Cradle Roll" which already bids fair to become the largest class in the school.

HOW TO STOP STOMACH TORMENT

Sound Advice From A Well-Known Physician

Men and women who suffer from what they call Dyspepsia, Indigestion or just plain "stomach-trouble" usually seek regular relief in the form of some pepsia pill or tablet, or other artificial digestant. This, experience teaches me, is a serious error. In nine cases out of ten the distress is caused by the development of acids in the stomach—formed by the fermenting of the food. Instead of a digestant being required, something should be taken to dissolve or neutralize this acidity, when normal digestion will follow as a matter of course. This acid matter is distinctly poisonous and unless it is dissolved, digestion merely carries the mass of fermenting food from the stomach to the intestines, where the poison is absorbed by the blood and carried all over the body.

If all the great army of people who suffer after nearly every meal would make it a point to take a teaspoonful of Bisurated in a quarter glass of water after each meal, there would be no formation of acidity and consequently no distress or discomfort. Sour, acid, glassy stomach, heartburn, belching, bloating, etc., would then be a thing of the past. "Bisurated Magnesia" is a physician's prescription. It is inexpensive and can be obtained at any drug store. It is prepared for just such trouble and the best proof of its efficiency is that it will stop the sharpest biting stomach distress in five minutes from the time it enters the stomach, simply by dissolving the acids that have been formed there. Its action is absolutely harmless.

THE WEATHER.

Moderate to fresh westerly winds, fine.

Wednesday, westerly winds, fair and moderately warm.

Try Our
DOUGHNUTS
FRIED CAKE
and
ALL KINDS OF PASTRY
Jas. Wallace & Co.

It Will Pay You To Buy The Best In Jewelry

You will always find here prices which are exceptionally fair and moderate. The new original designs constantly being added to our stock enable purchasers to choose from a practically unlimited field.

When looking for a gift, it would be best simply to come in, walk through the store and let the various articles tell their own stories.

Angus McFee
Jeweler. Optician.
The Store with the Big Clock.

Wallbridge & Clarke's Delicious Coffee
Best in Quality
Best in Value

Neilson's Chocolates
Fresh Supplies
"Aristocratic", "Demonstrator", "Classic", "Empress", "Every Piece Different", "Cream Dipped Brazils", "De Lux,", etc, etc.

Wallbridge & Clarke
Established 1871

Clean Your House
Electricity
Just at this time, house sweeping is being given serious thought. Why not clean your house with A VACUUM CLEANER? Cleans thoroughly, quickly, and takes the dirt out, flying.

The Trenton Electric and Water Company
Limited
Oswald H. Scott. Local Mgr.

PLAYS SECOND FIDDLE

Two men who had been old schoolfellows met the other day in a restaurant.

After exchanging greetings, one said:

"By the way old chap, when at school you used to be rather fond of music. Do you play an instrument.

"Yes," was the reply; "second fiddle at home."

THE NEW STORE

New Goods Arriving Daily

New Neckwear
New Blouses
New Gloves
New Hosiery
New Corsets
New Unkerskirts
Health Brand Underwear from 25c to $2.00 each.
New Sweaters from 50c to $7.00 each.

New Linens
Flannels
Blankets
Staples

Serges Meltons
Cashmeres

Men's and Boys' Underwear, Ties, Shirts, Sox, Braces.

Just placed in stock 100 pairs Blankets, prices from $1.25 to $7.00 pair.

PATRONAGE SOLICITED. SATISFACTION ASSURED.

WIMS & CO.

NEXT DOOR TO GEEN'S. 282 FRONT STREET

Ruptures Cured

By Chiropractic are permanent cures. The truth of this statement can be proven by the success I have had with others.

Dr. B. G. HAHN
Chiropractor
42½ Bridge St. Phone 758

INTELLIGENCER
NIGHT LETTER BOX

Our friends will find a letter box in The Intelligencer Front Door for the reception of news items after the office closing hours. The box will be emptied each morning.

Keep This Date Open

Thursday & Friday Evenings
October 22 and 23
At City Hall

Courtship of Canada

The Most Spectacular Patriotic Entertainment of the Season.

TICKETS 25c
Reserved Seats 35c

Reserved Plan opens at Goodseil's Music Store, Front Street, Wednesday morning at 9 o'clock.
Half Proceeds in aid of Patriotic fund.

Scholarly and Striking Sermon

The Lord Bishop of Kingston preached Sunday evening in Christ Church, to a large congregation, his text being Luke 21-19. "In your patience possess ye your souls". In that purest and simplest English language of which Bishop Bidwell is master, the meaning of this then mysterious verse was unfolded. By patience in the true sense men and nations find their souls. In times of trial and crisis men realize themselves and only the highest issues count. Patience does not mean the inactivity of the fatalist or the mere waiting of the idle. Patience is steadfastness, fortitude, unwavering service, undeterred by disaster, preserving equanimity in triumph. Patience involves the sacrifice of service men and women are called to action. We appeal to the God of Battles to aid us, then we must redouble our efforts in the struggle, it we simply transfer our benefactions from God's church to the patriotic funds, then we do not possess our souls. Patience in this great tragedy of war will be needed more and more, especially by those who have their dear one at the front. For them comes the comforting thought that they are serving in the cause of honor and right. The bishop paid a hearty and well merited tribute to the earnest zeal and the conspicuous success of the rector of Christ Church, Rev. R. C. Blagrave, during the past nine years. The service was fully choral, Miss Anna Ponton taking the solo in the anthem, and Mr. D. A. Cameron singing "The Ninety and Nine" with fine effect. The annual Harvest Festival will be held next Sunday as part of the reopening special services.

MAGAZINE SOLICITORS WHO ARE FRAUDS

October 19, 1914.

Editor Belleville Intelligencer.

Dear Sir,—The first week in September saw some young men in the city representing the Canadian Sub. Co., 303 Stevenson Bldg., Toronto.

They had three magazines you could subscribe to, namely Everybody's, Good Housekeeping, and Cosmopolitan magazines; their price being one dollar ($1.00) a year for any one.

My agent had the story that he was trying to put himself through college and his lot was harder than most fellows as he had a wife and child to support. The low price and story no doubt extracted a dollar or fifty-five cents (55c.) for six months, from Belleville.

After I had mailed my subscription cards and notified the company of the fact that I had not received magazine (it being printed on stubs that one should do so if they failed to receive magazine) it comes to pass there is no such company. Kindly print above or let public know as I am sure there are a number who would like to know about this company and their coin.

This same company is no doubt active through all the country.

Yours truly,
G. MILLAR.

NOTE.—About the same time a bright young lady, purporting to represent the same company, and handling the same magazines, who appealed to her subjects with the story that she was working for a prize scholarship, blew into The Intelligencer office and captured the sympathies of several of the staff to the extent of fifty-five cents each. The transaction, on its face, was above question, but the magazines have not yet appeared. If that erring daughter of Eve shows up at The "Intell" office again there will be something doing.

SENDS CONGRATULATIONS

Mr. W. Bert Roadhouse, Deputy Minister of Agriculture, Parliament Buildings, Toronto, in reference to our efforts on behalf of the Belgian Relief Fund, says:

"I beg to congratulate you on the enterprise and enthusiasm which you have shown in this matter, which is very much appreciated both by the Department and I am sure also by the Belgians. The assortment which goes into the Stirling car seems to me to be a very well arranged and practical contribution, and it is an evidence of the gnerosity of the people of Hastings as well as your hard work. The notice, we recognize, was short, but the response has been very generous."

In response to an appeal from the Ontario Department of Agriculture, sent through Mr. A. D. McIntosh, District Representative, to the people of Hastings County, there was shipped from Stirling on Thursday last a full car of clothing and provisions, also a full car from the C. O. R. junction and a part of a car from Ivanhoe, on only three days' notice.

GILLETT'S LYE EATS DIRT

GILLETT'S
100%
PERFUMED
POWDERED
LYE
E.W. GILLETT COMPANY LIMITED
TORONTO, ONT.

What Thin Folks Should Do To Gain Weight

PHYSICIANS' ADVICE FOR THIN, UNDEVELOPED MEN AND WOMEN.

Thousands of people suffer from excessive thinness, weak nerves and feeble stomachs who, having tried advertised flesh-makers, food-fads, physical culture stunts and rub-on creams, resign themselves to life-long skinniness and think nothing will make them fat, but their case is not hopeless. A recently discovered regenerative force makes fat grow after years of thinness, and is also unequalled for repairing the waste of sickness or faulty digestion and for strengthening the nerves. This remarkable discovery is called Sargol. Six strength-giving, fat-producing elements of acknowledged merit have been combined in this peerless preparation, which is endorsed by eminent physicians and used by prominent people everywhere. It is absolutely harmless, inexpensive and efficient.

A month's systematic use of Sargol should produce flesh and strength by correcting faults of digestion and by supplying highly concentrated fats to the blood. Increased nourishment is obtained from the food eaten, and the additional fats that thin people need are provided. J. S. McKeown, Drug Store and other leading druggists supply Sargol and say there is a large demand for it.

While this new preparation has given splendid results as a nerve-tonic and vitalizer, it should not be used by nervous people unless they wish to gain at least ten pounds of flesh.

Rifle Practice

At the Armouries last night a number of the members of the Belleville Rifle Association participated in a shoot. Great improvement is being made in the score. Conditions were: 10 shots at 25 yards, half-inch invisible bull's eye; highest possible score 100.

| | |
|---|---|
| J. Douch | 98 |
| A. J. Stewart | 94 |
| R. Tannahill | 93 |
| Charles Thompson | 91 |
| H. Sneyd | 91 |
| A. Harman | 90 |
| M. Callaghan | 90 |
| B. Parks | 90 |
| H. C. Thompson | 90 |
| E. T. Austin | 90 |
| Jas. Thompson | 89 |
| L. F. Evans | 89 |
| J. N. Thickson (Oshawa) | 88 |
| A. D. Harper | 87 |
| Alf. Symons | 85 |
| G. Ellis | 85 |
| L. McMullen | 85 |
| P. McL. Forin | 82 |
| L. Weese | 82 |
| E. Deshane | 81 |
| W. Harte | 81 |
| D. Asselstine | 80 |
| W. Moore | 76 |
| E. Stapley | 73 |
| C. J. Symons | 69 |
| A. I. Bird | 68 |
| Walter Alford | 66 |
| W. Barlow | 60 |
| J. Woodley | 59 |
| W. R. Vallance | 58 |

At the conclusion of the practice a match was shot off to decide the winner of the prize at a competition held at the butts last Wednesday between P. McL. Forin and Sergt. Harman. The latter won by a small margin.

The last spoon shoot of the season will take place at the butts tomorrow.

After a young man rings a girl's doorbell about so often it's up to him to ring her finger.

How's This?

We offer One Hundred Dollars Reward for any case of Catarrh that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure.

F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O.

We, the undersigned, have known F. J. Cheney for the last 15 years, and believe him perfectly honorable in all business transactions and financially able to carry out any obligations made by his firm.

NATIONAL BANK OF COMMERCE,
Toledo, O.

Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. Testimonials sent free. Price 75 cents per bottle. Sold by all Druggists.

Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

NAMES OMMITTED

The following names were unavoidably missed in the list of those who contributed to the Belgian Fund:

CLOTHING.

Mrs. O'Flynn, Mrs. H. Pringle, Mrs. Sine, Mrs. Ackerill, Mrs. K. Thompson, Miss S. T. Thompson, Miss A. Wills.

MONEY.

| | |
|---|---|
| A Friend | $2.00 |
| Mr. Geo. Perry | 2.00 |

Presented to Every Reader

BIBLE CONTAINING FAMOUS TISSOT PICTURES IN COLORS AND TEXT ILLUSTRATIONS BOUND IN LIMP LEATHER

This Paper is Pleased to Announce Offer That Should Interest Every Reader

It is with no small sense of pride that The Intelligncer makes the announcement that it will present to its readers a new and magnificent volume of the Bible, the first and only fully illustrated edition ever published. It is not to be understood that this presentation is prompted by religious motives so much as a desire to provide an educational feature that is not generally considered in that light. Admitting that all editions of this book are good, it follows that one containing some six hundred illustrations that bear directly on the reading matter which they accompany must necessarily be a superior volume.

Believing that its readers are deserving of none but the best, The Intelligencer has adopted this New Illustrated Bible as a means of furthering its educational activities.

This Bible is known as the King James Version, which was originally published in 1611, and is the only authorized version. The Revised Version is not generally accepted by the public although it may be preferred by some students.

Every book of any importance, every magazine, literary, scientific, household or otherwise, is illustrated to a greater or less extent. Even the daily newspapers make a strong feature of illustration. Schools throughout the land teach the public by means of pictures. Why not, then, illustrate and popularize the Bible, as has been done in this instance?

For convenience, the titles of the 600 text pictures in this Illustrated Bible are printed immediately underneath the pictures, and refer to the book, chapter and verse illustrated.

This is the only similarly illustrated Bible ever published in this or any other country. It is bound in full limp leather with overlapping covers, printed on a superior grade of Bible paper and sold regularly at $5 a volume.

It matters not how many Bibles one may have, this illustrated Bible should be in every home because of the importance and education value of these eye-teaching pictures.

There are many editions of other Bibles; all good in a way. The regulation small size meets a demand for a hand Bible, but it is lacking in the feature of text illustrations, which is so important and so necessary.

The large family Bible, which weighs from 15 to 20 pounds, is no longer used to any extent, and but few are now sold. They are too large and cumbersome; seldom are they referred to, and as a rule are stowed away or used as an ornament in the parlor, while this illustrated edition is emphatically a home Bible, easy to handle, always full of interest to young and old and just the thing to interest the children.

In addition to these wonderful pictures printed with the type, there are also numerous full-page colored plates from the famous Tissot collection. These, together with marginal references, educational helps, selfpronouncing text and colored maps, make it in reality a book of rare educational value which all will appreciate.

The type is large, clear and distinct and easily read by young and old. The book is of convenient size, easy to hold or handle and it can be rolled up and carried anywhere. It is hoped that everyone will place this book on a table in a room that is used constantly where it may be seen and used daily as a work of reference.

While the $5 volume is by far the most magnificent work of the kind, there is also a $3 volume bound in silk cloth. Both of these bindings are furnished in the Catholic edition also, in which the illustrations consist of the full-page plates and maps approved by the Church, without the Tissot and text pictures.

For a short time the Intelligencer will distribute these books on the popular educational plan as explained yesterday. Don't fail to clip the certificate to-day.

The Truth.

"Men are getting more sensible," said the moralist. "I see very few of them congregating on the street corners on rainy days to stare at the ladies."

"That's right," agreed his observing friend. "With the present styles they don't have to wait for rainy days."—Puck.

To Keep Our Workers Busy

For nearly half a century the standard price and the higher character of Gerhard Heintzman Pianos have been rigidly maintained. Nothing would induce us to lower the quality or the reputation that these pianos have earned. But these are strenuous times, and necessitate stern measures.

Profit Sacrificed to Keep Wheels Turning

We are reducing the price of Gerhard Heintzman Pianos to the point where profit vanishes, solely in order that the enormous business that will result will enable us to keep the hundreds of employees in our factories at work. The skilled workmen who build represent an almost unique organization. If work stopped this organization would drift apart; and, aside from the misery and suffering entailed in nonemployment, we would be confronted with the enormous task of rebuilding an organization capable of upholding our standards. Rather would we sacrifice all profit now.

GERHARD HEINTZMAN PIANOS

You Reap the Advantage

Never was a better time to purchase a really high-class instrument. Those who found the price of the Gerhard Heintzman Piano the only obstacle to its possession now have that obstacle removed. Buy your Piano now-save money—help hundreds of families.

Gerhard Heintzman, Limited

J. A. Goodsell & Co.,
316-318 FRONT STREET

OUR LINES

Automobile Storage and Car Repairing
Supplies
Bicycle Repairing
Motor Cycle Repairing
Gas Engine Work
Electrical Contracting
Electrical Supplies
Oxy-Acetyline Welding
Locksmithing
Machine Work
Storage Battery Care and Charging
General and Steel Repairing

Call and see us, whether you do business or not, at

The Garage
GREENLEAF & SON
Phone 83. 288 Pinnacle St.

SPECIAL SHOE VALUES FOR MEN

$5.00 Shoes For $3.48

Come here for Fall Shoes. The weather is cool, and comfort demands them. We are placing on sale for quick clearance

300 Pairs Men's $5.00 Shoes for $3.48

All sizes, and up to the minute in style, including GUN METAL, TAN, and PATENT BUTTONED or BLUCHERS, while they last, all one price, ........ $3.48

ADAMS, The Shoeman
Next Door to Sinclair's
PHONE 495

Our Men's
$4.00 Fall Wieght Shoes

Cannot be Equaled
Heavy Wet Proof Soles
Leather Lined in
Tan, Black and
White Elk Leathers

We expect to offer these great values
$4.00
during this season when price will advance

SEE OUR WINDOW

The J. J. HAINES SHOE HOUSES
Belleville Napanee Trenton Smith's Falls

Special Underwear Sale

Men's, Women's and Children's underwear, reliable and popular makes in Fall and Winter Weights, at special value giving prices.

MEN'S UNDERWEAR.

Two great specials in Nova Scotia unshrinkable wool underwear, all sizes, shirts and drawers. Extra value per garment, 75c. and $1 each.

Blue and red label all wool shirts, reg. $1.25 and $1.50 each. Bargain price ........ $1.00

Natural wool underwear, fine quality wool in all sizes, on sale per garment ........ $1.00

Fall weight undershirts for men, reg. 50c.; sale price ........ 35c.

WOMEN'S UNDERWEAR.

Unusual values in women's underwear, white or natural, high necks, long sleeves, button fronts, 50c. vest and drawers; sale price 25c.

Other great specials on sale, per garment ........ 35c. and 50c.

Women's white vests, 25c. each, on sale ........ 15c.

White woven corset covers, 25c. each. Sale price ........ 15c.

Great values in Women's Turnbull's natural wool vest and drawers, on sale, garment ........ $1.00

CHILDREN'S UNDERWEAR.

Great bargain price on boys' natural wool shirt and drawers, double fronts and backs, fine soft wool on sale, 20 per cent. less than regular prices.

All sizes in Children's underwear on sale, 15c., 25c., and 50c. per garment.

McINTOSH BROS.

Our October Sale
IS NOW IN FULL SWING

The following goods are on sale at SPECIAL PRICES:
Enamelware, Flannelettes, Cottons, Soaps, Brooms, Starches, Hair Brushes, Gas Mantles, Table Oilcloth, Pictures, Stamped Linen Goods, and hundreds of lines of Smallwares.

Be sure and get your share of the good things while they last.

THE BEEHIVE CHAS. N. SULMAN

One of the many New Style Hats for Men, only - $2.00

At G. T. WOODLEY'S
Belleville's only Exclusive Hatter and Furrier.

IF YOU LEAVE IT TO OUR JUDGMENT we will supply the kind of canned goods you will thoroughly appreciate when you come to eat them. In fact you can do the same with any groceries you may need. You can send your little girl or boy with a list of the things you want and we will select them even more carefully than you would if you came in person.

H. E. FAIRFIELD

ADVERTISE IN THE INTELLIGENCER

Daily Intelligencer.

Printed and published every afternoon except Sundays, for The Intelligencer Printing and Publishing House (Limited), in the City of Belleville, County of Hastings, Province of Ontario, at their offices, No. 227 Front Street.
CHARLES JAMES BOWELL, Publisher.

RATES OF ADVERTISING.
Measurement, Agate—14 lines to the inch.
Display Advertisements, 10c. per line.
Reading Advertisements, 15c. per line.
Legal Advertisements, 10c. per line first insertion, 5c. per line subsequent insertions.
Preferred position, 20 per cent. advance upon usual contract rates.
Minimum space, 10 lines.
Births, 25c. each insertion. Marriages, 50c. each insertion. Deaths or funeral notices, either singly or combined, $1.00.
Rates for condensed advertisements will be found elsewhere.
Business cards by the year at low rates.
Further information may be obtained at The Intelligencer business office.
Weekly Intelligencer to the United States, $1.50, strictly in advance.

SWITCHING INTO LINE

So far as eloquence and tactfulness was concerned, Sir Wilfrid Laurier succeeded in placing himself very much in evidence at the mass meeting held in Montreal last week, with a view to completing the organization of a French-Canadian regiment for service across the sea. The Plumed Knight very truthfully intimated that the occasion was not the time or place for the discussion of political issues as to the aiding of the Empire in the present crisis, but for the strengthening of the allied forces in the cause of humanity.

"This sort of talk is timely and fitting," says the Hamilton Herald. "But even at the risk of being considered captious and ungenerous we are constrained to compare this recent utterance of the Liberal leader with the utterances in the House of Commons not so very long ago when the subject of naval aid to the Empire was under discussion. Sir Wilfrid said then that the British Empire was in no danger from Germany—that those who represented Germany as preparing for war against Britain with the mastery of the seas as the victor's prize were mere scare mongers. He said that there was every reason to believe that Germany desired peace in order to develop her commerce, and that she had no animosity toward Britain, and that there was no cause for apprehension.

"There is no doubt whatever but that when he said these things Sir Wilfrid spoke sincerely. Like so many others he closed his mind to evidence which ought to have convinced minds far less intelligent than his. For several years the whole trend of German foreign policy, Germany's feverish naval and military preparations, the drastic special war taxes levied in the last two years, the frankly bellicose spirit of the German press, not to mention such books as General Bernhardi's Germany and the Next War—all should have convinced anyone, except any who was obstinately determined not to be convinced, that Germany was preparing to fight and that she would arrange to fight soon. And even a slight acquaintance with recent German literature and the utterances of the German press should have made clear to anyone that Germany's chief ambition was to attain to world-supremacy by obtaining the mastery of the seas—that is to say, by smashing Britain's naval power.

"Sir Wilfrid would not see these things. He would not even suspect Germany of harboring any such ambitious designs. There were many other good people whose attitude was the same. Perhaps their blindness ought to be attributed to their goodness. Peace-loving and generous-hearted and philanthropic themselves, they could not believe that any set of men could be guilty of such criminal ambition, such cynical disregard for honor and for humanity, as the German war-lord and his advisers have proved themselves to be. Nevertheless Sir Wilfrid Laurier, as a statesman with more than a provincial outlook, should have known better. That he could not see facts and conditions in their true perspective, that he failed to interpret the signs of the times correctly, is not creditable to his sagacity.

"However, his Montreal speech shows that although his sagacity may have been at fault a year or two ago, his heart beats nearer in accord with truth now. Let us hope he will not again fall from grace."

PACIFIC
CHEWING TOBACCO
EACH FOIL WRAPPED PLUG
PACIFIC
CONTAINS A
SATIN INSERT
WHICH IS PACKED
BETWEEN THE
FOIL AND PAPER

NO SOILED HANDS OR POCKETS

When you chew

PACIFIC

BRIGHT CHEWING

because each plug is separately wrapped in foil, which not only ensures your getting it in perfect condition, but keeps it from becoming dry in your pocket. Cleanliness all the way through, from the time it is manufactured until you take your last bite, is the great feature with this

"DELICIOUSLY GOOD" CHEWING PLUG

A satin insert highly prized by collectors because of the many beautiful things that can be made from them, is packed with each plug. See window displays around town.

10c -- AT ALL DEALERS.

COWAN'S
SOLID CHOCOLATE
MAPLE BUDS
The wholesome Confection.
Sold Everywhere

CANADA'S SPLENDID GIFT

The arrival in England of the Canadian contingent was the theme of many tributes by the British press. The Motherland is unquestionably deeply moved by Canada's magnificent support in the struggle.

The Ministerial Westminster Gazette says:—

"This, indeed, is a magnificent contribution to the Imperial army now at work in Europe. We in the Motherland, are deeply conscious of the splendid loyalty which Canadians, like all kinds of people overseas, have displayed at this critical time. A good many Canadian farmers find it difficult to leave their farms for the front. They may rest assured that by staying in Canada and growing wheat for us for 1915, they will perform a very real service to the Empire."

The Evening Standard says:—

"They are a fine body of men. They represent the best manhood of Canada. They are well fitted to uphold the honor and dignity of the Empire, and they are enthusiastic in their desire to participate in a great world fight for the liberty and sanctity of treaties, and determined to do whatever the British military authorities ask in the thorough business-like way characteristic of them."

The London Star recalls that the troops have had no severe training, but will now get it soon, and be equal to the hardships of actual warfare. "Many are either athletes or have followed pursuits which harden the muscles and make them at the outset as fit as seasoned soldiers," it says. "They expect to be in the field themselves, and they would consider it would hardly be fair to be sent 3,000 miles just to do garrison for the British."

THE DESTROYING SUBMARINE

The terrible submarine has scored again, and another British cruiser has been destroyed with about 350 of her crew. The disaster is vaguely located in the northern waters of the North Sea. The last previous submarine exploit was the sinking of the Russian cruiser Pallada near the entrance to the Gulf of Finland. Both this point and the supposed location of the attack on the Hawke are far from any German naval base. It would apepar, therefore, that the German submarines have a longer cruising radius than is generally credited to this type of vessel.

The British navy at present it at a great disadvantage in submarine warfare, since it is obliged to keep the sea n order to maintain a constant watch for the German fleet. Its ships, therefore, are continually exposed to submarine attack, from which there is no adequate defense. The Germans, on the other hand, by keeping their ships in fortified harbors and the Kiel canal are fairly safe from submarine attack. It has only been by running into the dangerous waters between Helgoland and the mainland that the British have been able to get at the German navy either with sumbarines or surface ships.

CURRENT COMMENT

Journal of Commerce: "Ontario apparently dislikes reciprocity in any form." And why should it not? Reciprocity never did anything but harm to Ontario.

---

Warsaw, where the Russians are battling for supremacy, is 320 miles east of Berlin, is the capital of Russian Poland, and was formerly the capital of the Kingdom of Poland. It is situated on the Vistula River, and has a population of over 775,000. It is the chief manufacturing city of Western Russia, and is also an important railway centre.

---

Four employees of the Montreal Harbor Commission have been suspended as a result of the investigation by the board into the reported disappearance of grain from the elevators. The board has practically completed the investigation begun last week, and, according to reports, the members are satisfied that the total theft amounts to eight thousand bushels of oats.

---

The kingdom of Belgium, which has suffered so terribly during the war, is the most densely populated country in Europe, and next to Egypt proper, the most densely populated country in the world. Belgium has 652 people to the square mile, as against 372 in the United Kingdom, 311 in Germany, 216 in Austria, 191 in France, and 55 in Russian Europe.

WAR NOTES

A Montreal man named Harris called at the High Commissioner's office in London, England, and informed Hon. G. H. Perley that his father was a Frenchman who fought the Prussians in 1870. Subsequently he emigrated to Canada, and when dying he made his son promise that he would fight for France in the next war with Germany. Harris is proceeding to France to enlist in the French army.

---

Earl Kingston, a Canadian, who is serving with the Irish corps, writes: "I have bagged one German already. I only wish I had my Ross Rifle and telescopic sight, and I'd get a few more."

---

Corn planted in dynamited land gave an increased yield of from fifty to two hundred per cent., while cotton planted in the same kind of land never showed less than one hundred per cent. increase. If this be true, there should be record crops in Northern France and Belgium after the war is over.

---

Montreal Star: "The Dominion Government are thoroughly seized with Canada's unlimited and imperative responsibilities in the matter of pushing this war through to a successful conclusion. They have announced a policy which promises an "endless chain" of contingents, leaving Canada periodically for the training camps of Britain and then "the front." These continuous contingents are to be ten thousand each; and are to be fed from a permanent reservoir in Canada of thirty thousand recruits, always under training."

---

London Daily Mail: "Disraeli in 1878 gave the world a hint of the extraordinary military resources of the Indian Empire when he moved a division of Indian troops to Malta during a diplomatic crisis. It has been reserved for German policy to strengthen British sympathy with the Indian peoples and to weld the faces of the Empire by that sense of unity and reciprocal affection which comes with common effort and sacrifice in the fighting line against a common foe."

---

London Times "The few notes of discord which have been raised in Ireland are already overwhelmed in the widespread outburst of loyalty to the King. The disidents are obscure and unimportant; they have received no countenance from the leaders of the Irish Nationalist Party, and they will soon be relegated to oblivion. Germany counted on Irish dissensions, and she has counted in vain."

Making Canada The Granary of the Empire

By H. H. Biggert, Hamilton, Ont., Superintendent of the International Harvester Company of Canada, Limited.

The history of all great wars has shown that the man at home behind the plow fought shoulder to shoulder with the man at the front behind the gun. In times past, without the first the latter would have starved, and without the second the former would have been destroyed.

Such a crisis has not yet come in the present conflict, but the silent appeal of the Mother Country to all her colonies has been heard around the world — an appeal for supplies, for bread, for hay, for horses, and for moral support.

Already across the border the American farmer is fortifying himself to meet the increased demand which will be made upon him for his produce. He is increasing his acreage and everywhere is reechoing the appeal to him to improve his methods in order that his acreage yield may be increased. The impulse which is swaying him to answer the emergency call should meet with double response from the tillers of the soil in this country, where not only the dictates of business urge them on, but where there is the added incentive of the higher consideration of patriotism. As a man doubles his strength when tightly pressed, or an engine exceeds its rated capacity when forged ahead, so should the Canadian farmers multiply their energy and strive to excell their past good records as producers of the world's bread.

The recent appeal of the Honorable Martin Burrell, Minister of Agriculture, showed definitely the business advantage of beginning at once to prepare for a greater acreage of wheat "The only way to get more wheat," said he, "is to properly and most carefully handle the stubble land. Let it be the determination of every farmer to make his wheat acres in 1915 yield as never before. It is certain that an increase of many millions of busheds can be insured if every farmer on the prairies will carefully consider the following suggestions and put them into practice immediately:

SUMMER FALLOW.

"The summer fallow — Get the summer fallow into good shape; let it be ready for the seeder the moment the snow goes, and put it into such shape as to be free from weeds, ready to absorb moisture, and as safe as possible from evaporation.

STUBBLE LAND

"Stubble land—Every acre of stubble land in good enough shape to be fairly safe for wheat should be plowed right now less than seven inches deep, and deeper if the character of the soil and moisture content will permit; deep soils should be plowed deeply, shallow or light soils with a more shallow furrow; do the plowing well; every acre should be harrowed within two days after plowing, and pack the land if possible after harrowing.

SPRING WORK

"Spring work—Early seeding is the next consideration; make every preparation now and this coming winter to lose no time when the spring opens; be sure the seed saved is clean, and of high germinating quality; get the best variety possible; do the work well at seeding time, cultivating or disking before seeding always means bigger and better crops, and in districts where the crops were a failure this year, the methods outlined above are particularly necessary.

We would emphasize especially the necessity of frequent disking, and the almost essential use of the land packer as a safeguard against drought. Many thousands of farmers, for the first time, last year staked their crops on the land packer, and owing to the unseasonable dryness which prevailed this season, it is estimated by many authorities that the use of this machine, wherever used, made a difference of 6 to 12 bushels per acre. At the price at which they are disposing of their wheat this year, the packer has proved an investment worth several hundred per cent to them the first year of its use.

PREPARING THE SEED BED

In those parts of the country which do fall plowing and fall seeding, the way the seed bed is made and the way the sowing is done this fall will determine the crop per acre next year more than next year's rainfall, hot winds or frosts. In an experiment not long ago described by F. L. Peterson of the University Farm at Davis, California, he says:

"As the pressure for supplies becomes greater, it becomes more evident that the world cannot afford large farms skimmed over with careless culture. In an actual experiment a gain of 200 per cent which was made in the productiveness of a certain area 100 per cent was found to be due to better plowing and harrowing 70 per cent to better cultivation, and the rest to better seed."

A lesson or two like that in every community would soon work its way into farm operation in such a way that several costly practices sanctioned by time and custom would become in a short time as historical as cradling wheat and threshing it with a flail are now. The great economic law which makes a man's land profitable is not so much the price he gets for his produce as it is the difference between this price and the amount spent in producing this produce. The above experiment was apropos of the tractor — a mechanical way of plowing and of disking — a mechanical way of massaging the land, so to speak, and of drilling — a mechanical way of sowing the seed. In the cost of raising a crop, just the same as in the cost of making carpets, shoes or wagons, hand power and animal power cannot compete with mechanical power. The mechanically prepared seed bed not only costs less in its preparation, but it gives forth more in its harvest.

THE WAR WILL MAKE HORSES TOO COSTLY TO KEEP.

Oats and oil are in the throes of a little war of their own just the same as the human back once combatted with the reaper knife. This strife is fast becoming more acute because the price of horses is being accentuated every day by the number being sold out of the country for cavalry mounts to be used abroad. The drain upon the Canadian horse supply will soon be such that wherever possible mechanical contrivances will be used to do their work. Were we to begin at once, it will require five years to replenish the drain which the war has already made upon the horse supply of the world. The United States Government Department of Agriculture has estimated that it costs $75 to $80 per year to keep a horse, and in the study of horse utility for a period covering six years, it was found that he

Continued on Page Five.

CLIP $5.00 THIS
ILLUSTRATED BIBLE
HISTORICAL EDUCATIONAL DESCRIPTIVE
CERTIFICATE
PRESENTED TO YOU BY THE
INTELLIGENCER, OCT. 23

ABRAHAM LINCOLN SAID: "NO LIBRARY IS COMPLETE WITHOUT TWO CERTAIN BOOKS—THE BIBLE AND SHAKESPEARE; HARDLY A QUOTATION USED IN LITERATURE THAT IS NOT TAKEN FROM ONE OF THESE WORKS."

The above Certificate with 5 others of consecutive dates
Entitles bearer to this $5.00 Illustrated Bible
If presented at the office of this newspaper, together with the stated amount that covers the necessary EXPENSE items of this great distribution—including clerk hire, cost of packing, checking, express from factory, etc., etc.

MAGNIFICENT ILLUSTRATED $5 Edition of the BIBLE (like illustration in announcements from day to day) is bound in full flexible limp leather, with overlapping covers and title stamped in gold, with numerous full-page plates in color from the world famous Tissot collection, together with six hundred superb pictures graphically illustrating and making plain the verse in the light of modern Biblical knowledge and research. The text conforms to the authorized edition, is self-pronouncing, with copious marginal references, maps and helps; printed on thin bible paper, flat opening at all pages; beautiful, readable type. 6 Consecutive Free Certificates and the $1.18 Amount EXPENSE Items

The $3 ILLUSTRATED BIBLE is exactly the same as the $5 book, except in the style of binding, which is in silk cloth; contains all of the illustrations and maps. 6 consecutive free certificates and the 81c Amount EXPENSE Items

Also an Edition for Catholics
Through an exclusive arrangement, we have been most fortunate in securing the Catholic Bible, Douay Version, endorsed by Cardinal Gibbons, and Archbishop (now Cardinal) Farley, as well as by the various Archbishops of the country. The illustrations consist of the full-page plates and maps approved by the Church, without the Tissot and text pictures. It will be distributed in the same bindings as the Protestant books and at the same Amount Expense Items, with the necessary Free Certificates.

Any Book by Mail, 23 Cents Extra for Postage.

RAILROAD TRANSPRTATION

GRAND TRUNK RAILWAY SYSTEM
TORONTO - CHICAGO
TORONTO - MONTREAL

The International Limited
Canada's Train of Superior Service
Leaves Toronto 4.40 p.m. daily, arrives Detroit 9.55 p.m. and Chicago 8.00 a.m.

MORNING SERVICE
Leaves Toronto 8 a.m., arrives Detroit 1.45 p.m. and Chicago 8.40 p.m. daily.

LAST TRAIN OUT OF TORONTO AT NIGHT
Leaves 11.35 p.m., arrives Detroit 8 a.m. and Chicago 3.00 p.m. daily, assuring important connection with principal trains for Western States and Canada.

FOR MONTREAL
Leaves Toronto 9 a.m., 8.30 p.m., and 11 p.m. daily.
Berth reservations, etc., at G. T. R. ticket offices.
H. C. Thompson, City Passenger and Ticket Agent. Phone 405.
T. H. Coppin, Station Ticket Agent. Phone 3m.

CANADIAN PACIFIC
WINTER TOURS
To The Land of Sunshine and Summer Days.
CALIFORNIA, FLORIDA, LOUISIANA, ETC.
Limited trains leave Toronto daily, making direct connection at Detroit and Buffalo for the Southern States, and at Chicago for California, Etc.
Those contemplating a trip of any nature should consult Canadian Pacific Agents, who will be pleased to quote rates, arrange reservations and attend to all details in connection with your trip, or write M. G. Murphy, District Passenger Agent, corner King and Yonge Streets, Toronto.
S. BURROWS, Gen. Agent, Belleville.

CANADIAN NORTHERN
Trough Service To TORONTO and OTTAWA
(Daily except Sunday)
THE BEST WAY TO
PORT HOPE, COBOURG, TRENTON, PICTON, BELLEVILLE, NAPANEE, SMITHS FALLS, HAWKESBURY, JOILETTE, AND ALL INTERMEDIATE POINTS.
For rail and steamship tickets and all information apply to J. H. Patterson, Town Agent, or L. W. Buller, Station Agent.

CLARK'S
CORNED BEEF
Economical and Delicious
All ready to serve
No bone
No gristle
Ask for Clark's
W. CLARK Limited Montreal

CANADIAN GOVERNMENT RAILWAYS
INTERCOLONIAL
PRINCE EDWARD ISLAND RY.

2 Through Trains 2
From Bonaventure Union Depot, Montreal,

OCEAN LIMITED
Leaves 7.30 p.m. daily for Quebec, Riviere du Loup, Campbellton, Moncton, St. John, Truro and Halifax. Connections for Glasgow, etc., and the Sydneys (except Saturdays).

Maritime Express
Leaves 8.40 a.m. daily except Saturday, for Quebec, Campbellton, Moncton, Truro, Halifax, St. John. On Saturdays will run Montreal to St. Flavie only.

For further information concerning rates, reservations, etc., apply to local Grand Trunk Railway Ticket or Freight Agent, or to E. Tiffin, General Western Agent, 51 King St. East, (King Edward Hotel Block), Toronto, Ontario.

RAILWAY TIME TABLE

GRAND TRUNK RAILWAY

Time of departure from Belleville station.

Going East.

No. 18—12.30 a.m. Mail train, daily.
No. 16— 2.08 a.m. Fast train, Flyer, daily.
No. 32—Local for Brockville, 7 a.m.; arrives back from Brockville, 8.50 p.m.; daily except Sunday.
No. 6—11.10 a.m.—Mail and Express, daily.
No. 14—12.16 p.m. Express, daily.
No. 29— 5.45 p.m. Local passenger, daily except Sunday.
No. 30— 9.30 p.m.—Local passenger, daily except Sunday.

Going West.

No. 19— 2.15 a.m.—Mail and Express, daily.
No. 13— 4.35 a.m. Limited Express, daily.
No. 29— 7.50 a.m. Local Passenger, daily except Sunday, leaving Toronto 6.00 p.m., arrives in Belleville at 9.25 p.m., arrives in Kingston at 11.05 p.m.
No. 27—11.15 a.m. Passenger, daily except Sunday.
No. 1— 1.50 p.m. International Limited, daily.
No. 7— 4.55 p.m. Mail and Express, daily.

BELLEVILLE AND PETERBORO'

Going West.

| | Leave. | Ar. Peterboro' |
|---|---|---|
| Mail | 5.20 a.m. | 8.00 a.m. |
| Passenger | 6.00 p.m. | 8.50 p.m. |

Going East.

| | Arrive | Lv. Peterboro' |
|---|---|---|
| Mixed | 10.55 a.m. | 8.20 a.m. |
| Mail | 4.15 p.m. | 1.30 p.m. |

BELLEVILLE AND MADOC.

Going North.

| | Leave | Ar. Madoc |
|---|---|---|
| Mixed | [illegible].11 p.m. | 1.50 p.m. |
| Mixed | 6.30 p.m. | 7.50 p.m. |

Going South.

| | Arrive | Lv. Madoc |
|---|---|---|
| Mixed | 4.50 p.m. | 3.21 p.m. |
| Mixed | 9.15 a.m. | 7.15 a.m. |

None of the above trains run on Sunday.

RAILWAY TIME TABLE

CANADIAN NORTHERN ONTARIO RAILWAY

EFFECTIVE SEPT. 14TH.

For Toronto and intermediate points—6.40 a.m., 5.15 p.m.

Trenton, Wellington, Picton and intermediate points—6.40 a.m., 12.40 noon.

Marmora, Bannockburn and Coe Hill—12.40 noon.

Marmora, Bannockburn, Bancroft and Maynooth, and intermediate stations—6.40 a.m.

Deseronto, Napanee and B. Q. stations—10.35 a.m., 1.00 p.m., 9.40 p.m.

For Kingston, Brockville, Smith's Falls, Ottawa and intermediate stations—1.00 p.m.

Trains arrive from Toronto and intermediate points—1.00 p.m., 9.40 p.m.

From Picton, Wellington, Trenton and intermediate stations—10.35 a.m., 6.05 p.m., 9.40 p.m.

From Napanee, Deseronto and intermediate stations—6.40 a.m., 12.40 p.m., 5.15 p.m.

From Maynooth and intermediate stations—6.22 p.m.

From Coe Hill and intermediate stations—10.36 a.m.

From Tamworth and intermediate stations—5.15 p.m.

From Kingston, Brockville, Smith's Falls, Ottawa and intermediate stations—5.15 p.m.

The Merchants Bank
Of Canada
Capital ........................ $7,000,000
Reserve ........................ $7,000,000
YOUR SAVINGS ACCOUNT INVITED
Interest added every six months. Small or large amounts deposited. Banking may be done by mail. Drafts on any parts of the world sold or bought.
A General Banking Business conducted.
Belleville Branch H. SNEYD, Manager

THE STANDARD BANK OF CANADA
QUARTERLY DIVIDEND NOTICE No. 96.
NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that a Dividend at the rate of Thirteen Per Cent Per Annum upon the Capital Stock of this Bank has been declared for the quarter ending the 31st October, 1914, and that the same will be payable at the Head Office in this City and its Branches on and after Monday, the 2nd day of November, 1914, to shareholders of record of the 23rd of October, 1914.
By order of the Board,
G. P. SCHOLFIELD,
General Manager.
Toronto, 29th September, 1914.
JOHN ELLIOTT, Manager, Belleville Branch
Shannonville Branch open Mondays and Thursdays
Foxboro " Tuesdays and Fridays
Rednersville " Wednesdays

A VETERAN WHO WAS WITH LORD ROBERTS

Laid Low With Rheumatism—But Cured By "Fruit-a-tives".

CHATHAM, ONT., APRIL 3rd, 1913.

"I am a veteran of the Crimean War and the Indian Mutiny, volunteering from the Royal Artillery into the Royal Engineers, and served under Lord Roberts during the Indian Mutiny, and am a pensioneer of the British Government. Fierce hand-to-hand fighting and continual exposure left me a great sufferer from Rheumatism, so much so that my legs swelled up, making it impossible for me to walk. "Fruit-a-tives". They cured me of both the Rheumatism and Constipation. In my regular employment, I walk thirty miles a day, and enjoy perfect health".

GEORGE WALKER.

50c. a box, 6 for $2.50, trial size, 25c. At all dealers or sent on receipt of price by Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

WILL SEND DELEGATION TO STATES CONVENTION

Dominion Bar Association Entertained by Pres. Sir James Aikins

TORONTO, Oct. 19.—Many of the foremost barristers in Canada were gathered in Toronto Saturday at a meeting of the Dominion Bar Association at Osgoode Hall, and later at a luncheon given by Sir J. A. M. Aikins, M.P., at the York Club. The organization of the association was completed and the bylaws giverning the new body were adopted. Delegates from the association will attend the meeting of the American Bar Association at Washington tomorrow. Hon. Sir Charles Fitzpatrick, Chief Justice of Canada, will be a speaker at the meetings. Others from Canada who will attend are: Sir James Aikins, Winnipeg; E. E. Surveyer, Montreal; Hon. C. W. Cross, K.C., M.P.P., Edmonton; T. A. Hunt, K.C., Winnipeg; Matthew Wilson, K.C., Chatham, and H. M. Ludwig, K.C., Toronto. From the Ontario Bar Association James Bicknell, K.C., and F. M. Field, K.C., will go.

At the meeting here Saturday lawyers were present from all over Canada. The west was especially well represented. Premier W. H. Hearst and Sir Allen Aylesworth, K.C., C.M.G., were present.

WELLINGTON

Thanksgiving Day visitors to Wellington included L. Haight of Toronto; G. Titus of Ottawa, and Miss Thomas of Picton.

Mrs. Morrison has arrived back from a visit to Melville.

Mr. Moynes of Belleville spent Sunday here.

Mr. Essery has arrived back from a visit to Toronto and New York.

Miss B. E. Dorland of East Wellington spent a few days at Toronto last week.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Blakeley are down from Toronto. Mr. and Mrs. Wallace have both been in feeble health.

Mrs. Rorabeck will spend the winter at Napanee with her niece.

H. B. Wilson was away on a business trip to Peterborough last week.

Rev. Mr. Archer sold his house to Dr. Ruttan last week.

Mrs. G. Phillips and Kathleen Insley are at Watertown, N.Y., where they will spend the winter.

Dr. and Mrs. Broad have returned home from Brooklyn, Ont.

Mr. and Mrs. Spencer Pierson of Fair Point, N.Y., will spend the winter with Mr. and Mrs. C. Smith.

Rev. and Mrs. Young are home again.

Many a married man would starve to death if his wife didn't know how to manipulate a can opener.

Every Woman Can Use

and ought to use occasionally, a proper remedy for the headache, backache, languor, nervousness and depression to which she may be subject. These troubles and others are symptoms of debility and poor circulation caused by indigestion or constipation are at once safe, certain and convenient. They clear the system and purify the blood. They exert a general tonic effect and insure good health and strength, so that all the bodily organs do their natural work without causing suffering. Every woman of the thousands who have tried them, knows that Beecham's Pills act

BEECHAM'S PILLS

To Certain Advantage

Worth a Guinea a Box

Directions with Every Box of Special Value to Women. Sold everywhere. In boxes, 25 cents.

The LAPSE of ENOCH WENTWORTH

By ISABEL GORDON CURTIS

Author of "The Woman from Wolverton's"

ILLUSTRATIONS by ELLSWORTH YOUNG

COPYRIGHT, 1914 BY F. G. BROWNE & CO.

CHAPTER II.

The Measure of a Man.

A week later Wentworth and his sister left town for a vacation. They had discovered an old-fashioned farmhouse on a quiet stretch of shore, and settled down contentedly to a simple outdoor life. One morning a telegram broke their solitude.

"I have half an hour to catch a train to the city," said Enoch, as he tumbled out of a hammock. "You may drive me to the depot if you wish, Dorcas."

"You're not called back to that hot office," she cried wistfully, "after a vacation of only three days?"

"It isn't the paper, Dorcas; it's Merry. Get into the buggy; I'll tell you about it on our way to the station. You may drive." He leaned back comfortably in the wide seat. "You like driving, I don't.

"What's the matter with Mr. Merry?" Dorcas asked. "Is he ill?"

"Not that, but he's in danger of killing his career. He's going up the state to a little one-horse town to play leading roles in a ten, twenty, thirty stock company."

"Why does he do that?"

"I guess he's broke. I can't tell until I see him. I'll be back tonight, or tomorrow at the latest. I'll wire you what train. You'll meet me won't you?"

"Of course," she promised.

Next morning the two men stood on the platform of the smoker on a shore accommodation train, which sauntered from one small station to the next, skirting the water for miles.

Andrew Merry tossed a half-smoked cigar into a swamp beside the track where the thin, green blades of cattails were whipped by the breeze.

"I don't believe I want to mix odors this morning," he said.

"It is great ozone." Wentworth lifted his hat to let the wind cool his head. "There's the little station now! I-ll bet that speck of white is Dorcas."

"How queer that I've never met your sister," Merry suggested. "Is she grown up?"

Wentworth laughed. "Almost," he admitted. "You did see her once."

Merry followed Wentworth as the train stopped. In a half-dazed fashion he shook hands with a tall, young woman in a white linen gown. Was this the child—long limbed, gawky and shy—he had imagined he might meet? Somewhere back in his mind lay an impression that Enoch had referred to his sister as a young colt. The thought was so absurb that he smiled; any coltish awkwardness must have disappeared with short frocks! Merry stared at the girl with bewildered admiration wondering now why he had never felt the mildest curiosity about Wentworth's sister. He became conscious that he was making a mental analysis; she had black-fringed gray eyes; warmth and dancing blood glowed in her face, for she had the coloring of a Jack rose; a mass of auburn hair was coiled in a loose knot at the back of her head; she wore no hat, a band of dull-blue velvet was tied about her head and fell in a loose bow over her ear, but strands of hair, which glowed like copper in the sunshine had escaped and blew about her face; she had the tender mouth of a child. In the straightforward eyes was sweet womanliness, gentle determination, and a lack of feminine vanity which Merry had seldom seen in the faces of beautiful woman. He even forgot to drop her hand while he gazed into her face, half admiringly, half perplexedly.

"I've brought Mr. Merry down to stay with us till we go home," Wentworth announced.

"I'm delighted," cried Dorcas cordially.

Next morning after breakfast Enoch and his sister rowed out to deep water with their fishing outfit. Merry still was in bed; he was tired, he pleaded, and could not immediately acquire the habit of early rising.

"What do you think of Andrew?" asked Wentworth abruptly. He lifted his head after the task of baiting a hook and looked into his sister's face.

"I think he ought to be waked up."

"To join our fishing trip?"

"I mean waked in his ambitions. He seems to me like a man who has no goal in sight. He needs something to work for. He spoke last night of one ambition he has—"

"Sort of moonlight confidence?" queried her brother.

"No—not that. He's determined to jump straight into a part that will wring the heart out of his listeners."

"That's foolish. The public wants just so much versatility. You can't kill off a beloved comedian to resurrect a new emotional one, no matter how good he may be. People won't stand for it."

"He isn't satisfied." The girl pulled up her line and tossed away a morsel of nibbled bait, covering the hook with a fresh clam.

"Some greedy fish had a square meal off your bait and never got the hook in his gullet. He'll come back for more, then get enough. It's the some with human beings."

"Philosopher " laughed Dorcas. She dropped her line again into deep water and waited for her brother's prediction to come true.

Merry had breakfasted before their return. He sat upon the vine-grown piazza, gazing at the sparkle of the ocean, when the two agile figures stepped across his vision.

"Well, Sir Lazy, so you're up!" cried the girl. "You should have been with us to find an appetite. See our fish! Here's a dinner for you!"

"I'm going to turn over a new leaf," said Merry. His eyes were fixed on the girl's glowing face, and for a moment he shared her intense enjoyment of life.

"Will you turn it over tomorrow morning at sunrise?" she demanded.

"Even so soon, most gracious lady." He swept her a stage bow, his soft hat trailing the ground as if it had been a cavalier's cap loaded with plumes.

Matching his grace, the girl turned to him, laughing, with the mock dignity of a queen.

"I command that at early dawn, when the tide goes out, ye hie three to yon flats and dig clams for our savory meal."

"I shall obey, most royal highness," answered Merry solemnly.

"I believe he is waking up," thought Dorcas as she ran upstairs to dress for the noon dinner. "If he does that, I'll believe he has some backbone."

When Dorcas and her brother came down next morning for breakfast, Merry had disappeared.

"I'm glad I'm not you victim," said Wentworth, with a note of sympathy in his voice.

"Enoch," the girl turned to him gravely, "I told you he needed waking up, and this is a good start. It won't hurt him a bit."

"Poor Merry! What a sight!"

They watched him come tramping over the beach. He wore Farmer Hutchins' overalls rolled up to his knees and a flapping cow-breakfast hat. He carried a clam fork and occasionally shifted a heavy basket of clams from one arm to the other.

CHAPTER III.

Cassiopea's Chair.

Dorcas Wentworth stopped on the crest of a cliff and looked down. A few feet below her, on a ledge like a wide shelf, Merry lay watching the waves as they broke against the jagged walls of a narrow cove.

"Day-dreaming, Mr. Merry?" cried the girl.

He sprang to his feet. "Why, I never heard you. Do you wear velvet shoes? Let me help you down." He began to climb the uneven steps.

"The idea of helping me down, after I have made my way alone over these chasms!". She pointed to the wall behind her. Then resting one hand on his shoulder she leaped past him lightly.

"What a heavenly retreat "

"Yes," answered Merry, dreamily. "I found it several days ago. I've called it Cassiopea's Chair."

"Who was Cassiopea?"

"I've forgotten. Some statellite creature, I believe. Her name has a restful sound, and this place is restful and lonely."

The girl laughed. "Where you day-dreaming?"

"I suppose so. I was watching these waves. Most of them break without a splash; then once in a while, away out as far as your eye can reach, you see one roll up, gathering force from you can't imagine where, and it comes on tempestuously through a calm sea, to crash against the cliffs. Sometimes it throws its sprays up here." He pointed to a wet line on the rock just below them. "Then again, one which promises to be a ripper amounts to nothing when it breaks."

"Yes it is fascinating," she agreed. "Yesterday I spent an hour watching them. It makes me think of people."

"What people?" he demanded, not understanding.

"All sorts. People who never do anything who saunter through life and are the failures, and the few who live after their work is done.

"Merry," in her intensity the girl addressed him as her brother did, they make me think of you. You could make a towering wave of your life. You don't!"

The man turned quickly and looked into her eyes with flushed face. He did not speak.

"I wish—oh, I do wish"—Dorcas' voice was like that of an ardent child. "I wish I could rouse you to make the best of yourself. There is so much you could do!"

"Do you really think so?"

"No, I don't think it, I know it. You are two people; one is lazy and indifferent, with just ambition enough to do the work you have to do. You can't help doing it well—you could not do it badly. Then there is the other—a man with a vivid imagination, feeling, emotion and ability; but it is so hard to wake him up!"

Merry jumped to his feet and stared down into the girl's face. "How did you learn this—about me? Has Enoch laid my soul bare to you?"

"Enoch told me something of your career, that was all. I know you better than he does."

Andrew pulled the soft hat over his eyes and sprawled out on the rock ledge.

Dorcas began with a nervous laugh. "It sounds like—presumption, I know so little of the world, only I have been studying you—"

(To be Continued)

Fry's
FRY'S
PURE
BREAKFAST
COCOA
J. S. FRY & SONS, Ld
BRISTOL ENGLAND

Two Nation Builders—

ANY man can make his day's work a pleasure by drinking FRY'S COCOA regularly. It's like putting in a good foundation to a building. FRY'S is rich in energy and muscle-making properties and supplies the body everything it needs for its daily building operations. It's far more than a mere beverage. It is so pure and so concentrated that it is very economical, a small teaspoonful of FRY'S making a large cup of delicious cocoa. Start on FRY'S today.

Trade Supplied by
J. S. FRY & SONS, Limited
Truro, Montreal, Toronto, Winnipeg, Calgary, Edmonton, Vancouver, Victoria.

80

MAKING CANADA THE GRANARY OF THE EMPIRE

(Continued from Page Four.)

averaged only 3.14 hours of work per day as his contribution to lessening the high cost of living. In contrast with this it was found that he ate up the entire yield of one out of every five acres which he helped to cultivate. It has been shown, too, for every hour he worked it cost about 10 cents; whereas, a full horse-power hour can be delivered by a high-grade oil engine for only two cents per hour, in both cases, interest, fuel, food and depreciation being included. Again, in plowing, a team of two horses can plow only about two acres per day. In doing this they travel sixteen miles, which is a good day's pull for horses with a load. An oil tractor, on the other hand, will plow deeper and keep it up twenty-four hours a day until the work is completed, without feeding, resting or growing thin. While it would not be wise to dispose of brood mares and blooded stock to satisfy the demands of the war, in the end perhaps the increased prices which the present horse purchases will undoubtedly bring about will be beneficial in forcing thousands of farmers to adopt a newer and more economical form of power. Everyone who cultivates 160 acres or more is a candidate for a share in the millions of dollars which the country-wide adoption of this method of plowing will ultimately save.

INSURING CROPS IN ADVANCE

After plowing, the first duty of a man is to guarantee the work by proper cultivation and disking and packing. The disk harrow and packer are two of the leading nature aiders in farming. It is said that rightly used the disk does more to increase crop profits than any other farm implement and should be used on every farm. It is one of the simplest implements made; one of the easiest to obtain; simple to run; will stand much hard work; and lasts a long time. It is

Continued on Page Eight.

$67 GONE

Every Canadian consumed, during 1913, approximately $67.54 worth of imported goods. Every Canadian thereby sent sixty-seven dollars of Canadian money to enrich some other country, to keep foreign workmen employed.

It does not seem so much, but it makes the gigantic total of $675,428,168. The value of all goods "Made in Canada" is less than double this. Of these imports 65% come from the United States, yet by every condition of nature we are just as well equipped to manufacture many of these goods as our neighbour—and we do.

If only 25% of this 675 million dollars' worth of goods were produced in Canada, that production would give employment to 62,500 workmen, sufficient with their families and dependents to support 250,000 people, to populate a city larger than Winnipeg, or to create 16 cities the size of Guelph, Moncton, Brandon, or New Westminster.

By purchasing only goods "Made in Canada" you can help to keep a good share of this 675 million dollars at home, you can bring about a greater prosperity than Canada has ever known.

Keep Your $67 for Canada—Buy "Made in Canada" Goods

6A

DOCTORS SAID MUST CUT OFF!

Mr. J. V. Besnard of 539 Craig St. E., Montreal, writes:—"While at work in the St. Lawrence Sugar Refinery, I had my hand badly crushed by an iron beam. Two fingers particularly were so badly smashed that the doctors said they would have to be cut off. Having heard of the wonderful healing power of Zam-Buk, I decided not to permit this, and I started to give Zam-Buk a trial. I had the fingers dressed with Zam-Buk every day.

The first few applications stopped the bleeding, eased the pain, and it was soon evident that the wounded members were on the road to recovery. Day by day, I persevered and by the time I had used eight boxes of Zam-Buk, the fingers and hand were entirely healed! I certainly feel deeply indebted to Zam-Buk. Just think! Four Dollars' worth of this wonderful ointment saved my two fingers."

I SAID "NO"

If you are suffering from any injury, skin disease or chronic sore, benefit by the experience of Mr. Besnard—give Zam-Buk a fair trial! See Coupon below.

WHY ZAM-BUK IS BEST

As soon as Zam-Buk is applied to a wound or a sore it penetrates right to the seat of the trouble and kills any germs, thus preventing blood poisoning or other serious complications. In the case of skin diseases, it stops the spreading. The soothing herbal essences in Zam-Buk quickly soothe the pain and the healing compounds then commence to build up new healthy tissue. Zam-Buk is healing, soothing, antiseptic at the same time, and is the finest household balm known to modern science.

Use Zam-Buk for:—Eczema, piles, ulcers, varicose veins, abscesses, chronic sores and wounds, cuts, burns, bruises, pimples, boils, cold cracks, chapped hands, and all skin diseases and injuries. Also as an embrocation for rheumatism, sciatica, stiffened muscles, etc.

For sale at all druggists and general stores, or postpaid from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto. 50c per box. Remember there is only one Zam-Buk, see the name on the box and refuse substitutes.

ZAM-BUK SAVED MY FINGERS

FREE Send this coupon, 1c stamp and name of this paper to Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, and receive free.

GERMANS DRIVEN BACK EFFECTIVELY CHECKED

Lille Has Been Recaptured, an Attack of the German Right Wing at Chaulnes Has Been Repulsed and the Germans Forced to Retreat in Panic, and Near Roulers They Evacuated Trenches.

LONDON, Oct. 20. — With Lille again in the hands of the allies, the situation on the French fighting line has assumed a distinctly favorable aspect. At Chaulnes a counter-attack by the German right wing was thrown back decisively, and the Kaiser's forces fled in a state bordering on panic. The Belgians have also held the Germans at a point east of Dixmude. West of Roulers the Germans were compelled to evacuate long lines of trenches, and the town is now occupied by Franco-British troops.

Unless all indications prove futile the German advance along the coast to Dunkirk is effectively checked. Reports from Dunkirk early yesterday morning stated that the sound of heavy fighting from the sea was plainly audible. It is believed certain that British naval forces are co-operating in the movement to stay the Kaiser's forward movement in this zone. Later in the day a despatch from northern France said that British torpedo-boat destroyers had penetrated the canals commanding the district in which the most westerly engagement was being fought, and the British cruisers were also firing on the invaders from the open sea.

The official communique of the French War Office yesterday afternoon said: "In Belgium the heavy artillery of the enemy has cannonaded, but without result, the front from Nieuport to Vladsloe, to the east of Dixmude.

"The forces of the allies, and notably the Belgian army, have not only repulsed further attacks on the part of the Germans, but have advanced as far as Roulers.

"On our left wing, between the River Lys and the canal of La Bassee, we have advanced in the direction of Lille. There has been very stubborn fighting on the front from La Bassee to Albain and St. Nazaire. We are advancing from house to house in these localities.

"To the north and to the south of Arras our troops have been fighting without respite for more than ten days, and with a perseverance and a spirit which never for a moment has been relaxed.

"In the region of Chaulnes we have repulsed a strong counter-attack delivered by the enemy and have won some ground.

"On the centre there is nothing to report.

"On our right wing, in Alsace, to the west of Colmar, our advance posts are on the line between Bonhomme, Paris and Sulzern. To the south we still occupy Thann."

German reinforcements have been brought up at all points along the right wing of the invaders' army, which now stretches from the Belgian coast to the elbow at Roye, where the line turns directly eastward and runs in the general direction of Metz. These reinforcements are variously estimated at 300,000 to 400,000 men. Some reports even place the number of fresh troops at 1,000,000 men of all arms, but the [illegible] are believed exorbitant. It is known that they are drawn from the Landstrum exclusively.

Advices from Belgium declare that Ostend, Bruges and Blankenberghe are held by the smallest of garrisons, and that throughout the conquered kingdom every man that can be spared has been rushed southward. Admiral Von Tirpitz is said to be in Antwerp, which coincides with previous reports that he expected to personally direct naval operations against Britain which are "to be launched the last of this month."

With the capture of Armentieres Sunday and the fall of Lille yesterday to the allied armies there can be no question that operations in northern France have received a new impetus and are inclining steadily to the side of the French and British. It is significant that at every point counter-attacks by the Germans have uniformly failed to accomplish their purpose. That the Kaiser is stubbornly sacrificing many lives to maintain an untenable position a little longer seems apparent.

From La Bassee and Albain to St. Nazaire the allies are waging a terrible hand-to-hand conflict with the Germans, the fighting having resolved into an individual contest for supremacy. Every hedge, house and overturned wagon is a new fortress, and as the Germans fall back they take a heavy toll of their pursuers.

At Chaulnes the allied artillery almost decimated the German columns participating in a frontal counter attack, the advantage being followed up by an infantry charge of French and British troops which completely upset the advance of the foe.

The situation along the centre remains quiet, with both sides content to hold their own, and neither able to gain important advantage over the other. Defensive works in this zone are very complete, and it is improbable that a major operation will be attempted by either French or Germans until the fighting on the east and west becomes better defined.

The French officials are extremely reticent concerning operations against the German crown prince and the new movement which seems to threaten the safety of Metz. It is also apparent that fighting is under way around Belfort, but no information comes through as to the extent of the engagement or the probable outcome. It is said on very good authority that a French army is even now assailing the outer line of Metz trenches, and that artillery will soon be playing on the walls of that renowned stronghold.

St. Mihiel continues in the hands of the German crown prince, but the French have driven his line still further back on both the east and west of that town, and his retreat toward Luxemburg is imminent.

Summing up the entire situation, and taking into account the position of the allies from the Belgian-French coast to the Swiss border, it may be said that the outlook is more favorable than at any time since the Germans crossed into French territory. It is apparent that their first onslaught has come a cropper, that the new drive at Dunkirk and Calais is temporarily checkmated and will most probably be completely frustrated, and that the continued success of the allies at widely-separated points, with the new advance toward Metz and the dangerous quandary of the German crown prince has seriously imperilled the whole German scheme of conquest.

IF YOU AREA DRINKING MAN

You had better stop at once or you'll lose your job. Every line of business is closings its doors to "Drinking" men. It may be your turn next. By the aid of ORRINE thousands of men have been restored to lives of sobriety and industry

We are so sure that ORRINE will benefit you that we say to you that if after a trial you fail to get any benefit from its use, your money will be refunded.

When you stop "Drinking," think of the money you'll save; besides, sober men are worth more to their employers and get higher wages.

Costs only $1.00 a box. We have an interesting booklet about ORRINE that we are giving away free on request. Call at our store and talk it over. J. S. McKEOWN, Front St.

RECRUITING ORDERED.

Canadian Headquarters Instructed To Enlist Men For New Force.

OTTAWA, Oct. 20.—Orders having been sent out last night to the officers commanding the various divisional areas and military districts to begin enlisting men at once for infantry regiments for overseas service, it is announced that the various divisional areas, with headquarters as given, will enlist the following numbers:

Southern Ontario (Toornto), one battalion; Western Ontario (London), two battalions; Eastern Ontario (Kingston), one battalion; Southern Quebec (Montreal), two battalions; Northern Quebec (Quebec), one battalion; Maritime Provinces (Halifax), two battalions.

The military districts of the west will recruit as follows:

Manitoba and Saskatchewan (Winnipeg), two battalions; British Columbia (Victoria), two battalions; Alberta (Calgary), one battalion. This makes a total of 14 battalions with 16,000 men. The Quebec quotas include the French-Canadian battalion already authorized.

Orders for the recruiting of 14,000 more men will go out as soon as the War Office states what is wanted in the way of cavalry, artillery, engineering corps, etc. The 30,000 men thus recruited will begin active training, and as soon as there are arms and equipment for 10,000 men they will be sent to England to finish their training and be sent to the front. This will be in about two months' time, and when the first 10,000 sail a similar number will be recruited in the various districts and will begin active training. Another 10,000 will sail as soon as their equipment is ready, and this method will be kept up as long as the war lasts.

MUST FREE BELGIUM.

Irish Nationalists Vow To Fight Against Prussian Militarism.

LONDON, Oct. 20.—Amid tumultuous cheering, with right hands upraised, the Irish Nationalists, who crowded Central Hall last night, adopted a pledge administered by T. P. O'Connor:

"We will never sheath the sword until Belgium has got back her freedom; until every inch of her soil is clear; until a treaty is made, not on a scrap of paper, but on a foundation behind which stands the millions of the British race."

The meeting was called for the purpose of expressing confidence in the leadership of John Redmond and to endorse the action of the Irish party in supporting "the war of the allies against Prussian militarism."

Mr. O'Connor said that for this fundamental and supreme principle, the British had fought on hundreds of battlefields. What they had claimed and won for themselves they also claimed for other countries and would help other countries win.

MUCH FOOD FOR BELGIUM.

Now on London Docks — Badly Needed, Too.

LONDON, Oct. 20. — Baron Lambert, representing the Belgian Government, arrived in London from Brussels, and yesterday conferred with the Belgian Minister here concerning the movement to send food from London to the Belgian capital.

The shortage of food in Brussels is very serious. The supply of flour has become exhausted, and there is great need that it be replenished immediately. Extensive plans are under way for wholesale shipments of food through the co-operation of the Belgian Minister and the British Foreign Office.

Much food, already in cases, is on the London docks ready for shipment to Belgium when the international tangle concerning its movement is straightened out.

Turkey Retains German Crews.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Oct. 20.—(Via London.)—The Porte has declined to discharge the German crews of the cruisers Goeben and Breslau, which have been in Turkish waters since early in the hostilities, and which are said to have been sold by Germany to the Turkish Government.

This reply was given in answer to the British representations regarding the continued presence of Germans on board these two vessels.

Foundries Are Being Depleted.

LONDON, Oct. 20.—Recruiting is being stopped in some of the Scottish iron and steel centres with the sanction of the Government. The reason is that these iron and steel works are running night and day on Government orders, and it is held unwise to deplete the working forces.

Prisoner Goes To War.

KINGSTON, Oct. 20. — Bombadier Boucher, who was serving a term in the Central for assaulting a little girl, was released yesterday to enlist for overseas duty. He left here for Montreal to enlist.

A man imagines he is a philanthropist every time he gives away a penny's worth of advice.

Sometimes a bit of flippant slang may have a real respectable meaning.

SINCLAIR'S

Pen-Angle Hosiery

We have just placed in stock a complete range of Pen-Angle Ladies' Cashmere Stockings, the only stocking that is Knit to Fit without a seam and made with Shaped Foot and Narrowed Ankle—the best Cashmere Stocking made and sold in Canada at 35c, 45c, 50c, 65c, and 75c a pair.

39-inch Black Dress Silk, $1.15

This week we have on sale about 400 yards of 39-inch Black Pailette Dress Silk and we would like you to pass judgment on this silk. We think it is the best value to be had in a good Black Dress Silk, but we want your opinion of it—39 inches wide and only $1.15 yd.

Corset Comfort

Becomes second nature to wearers of

C/C

à la Grâce Corsets

Come in and look them over; also be sure to see our new style Ready-to-Wear Garments.

These Corsets Sell from 75c to $3.50

SINCLAIR'S

New Wash Silk Waists at $4.00.

Here is a Ladies' Tailored Silk Waist that will interest you. These waists are made of a Heavy Jap Wash Silk in black and ivory, in very smart Tailored Style and are certainly the best value we have ever shown, in all sizes 32 to 42 bust measure.

Price $4.00

Extra Large Coats

we show several styles specially designed for Large Figures in Ladies' Black Curl, Zibeline Cloths, Serges and Kersey Cloths. These coats are sized up to 48 bust measure and sell from

$12.50 to $22.50 each

HAVE YOU JOINED THE "GYM" CLASS IN THE Y. M. C. A.?

If you have you will require a Bathing Suit and also a Gymnasium Suit. For both of these we show Navy Lustres, Navy Wool Serges and Navy Viyella Flannels to sell at 25c., 35c., 40c., 50c. and 60c. per yard.

Sinclair's ASK TO SEE GOLFINE VELVET COAT CORDS AT $1.00 YARD. Sinclair's

TRYING TO MAKE TROUBLE.

Pro-Germans In Russia Are Answered By M. Sazonoff.

PETROGRAD, Oct. 20. — (Via London.)—M. Sazonoff, the Russian Minister of Foreign Affairs, yesterday in a statement to the Associated Press clearly defined Russia's attitude toward the allies, and her stand against German. The statement, M. Sazonoff said, was made because of attempts by the reactionary party in Russia to bring discord and awaken anti-British sentiment.

Recent avowals by this small element, as reflected in a few reactionary journals, M. Sazonoff declared, went so far as to compliment Emperor William and laud the Hohenzollern family. They alluded exultingly, he said, to the fall of Antwerp as the approaching end of the war, adversely criticized England by stating that she was setting other countries to fight her battles, and also plainly forecast an Anglo-Russian rupture.

"This small German element," said M. Sazonoff, "is wholly unrepresentative of Russia, and negligible, as far as Russian policy is concerned."

M. SAZONOFF.

Detroit Pastor Acquitted.

DETROIT, Mich., Oct. 20. — Rev. Joseph A. Cottam, former pastor of the Methodist Episcopal Church in Dearborn, near Detroit charged with arson in connection with the burning of his parsonage there last winter, was acquitted yesterday afternoon after the jury had deliberated on the case twenty minutes. On the night his home burned Rev. Mr. Cottam was to deliver a widely advertised sermon on "Why I am a Protestant." The defendant maintained that persons of contrary religious views were responsible for the fire.

Heroic Boy Saves Girl.

BROCKVILLE, Ont., Oct. 20.—Beatrice Daley, six years old, fell into the St. Lawrence river and was saved from death by Delaine Polow, aged 11, who pluckily jumped into the water, held the small girl with one hand and swam to shore.

BELLEVILLE BUSINESS DIRECTORY

The Professional Fraternity of our city will find an advertisement under this head an exceptionally advantageous investment, the returns hitherto obtained making the extremely moderate rates but normal. By consulting our price list in another column, or calling at The Intelligencer business office, full information may be obtained.

LEGAL.

WILLS & WRIGHT

Barristers, Solicitors, Notaries Public, etc. Office: 15 Campbell Street, Belleville. Money to loan at lowest rates.
J. FRANKLIN WILLS, K.C.
MALCOLM WRIGHT.

NORTHRUP & PONTON

Barristers, Solicitors, Notaries Public, Comissioners. Offices: North Bridge Street. Solicitors for the Merchants Bank of Canada and the Bank of Montreal. Money to loan on mortgages.
W. B. NORTHRUP, K.C., M.P.
W. N. PONTON, K.C.
R. D. PONTON.

CLUTE & SHOREY

Barristers, Solicitors, Notaries, etc. Office: North side of Campbell Street, Belleville. Solicitors for the Dominion Bank. Money to loan on mortgages on easy terms.
A. X. CLUTE, LL.B.
W. D. M. SHOREY.

PORTER & CARNEW

Barristers and Notaries Public, etc. Office: Robertson Block, East Front St., Belleville, Ont.
E. GUSS PORTER, K.C., M.P.
WM. CARNEW.
Solicitors for Union Bank.

W. C. MIKEL, B.C.L., K.C.

Barristers, &c., 28 Bridge St., over G.N.W. Telegraph office.
Solicitor for Molsons Bank.
Phone 77.

W. D. M. SHOREY

Barrister, Solicitor, etc. Solicitor for the Dominion Bank and the Township of Ameliasburg.

Money to loan on mortgages on easy terms.

Office 8 Campbell Street, Belleville.

MUSICAL.

Mrs. Wilmot
VOCAL INSTRUCTOR

Tone Production a speciality. Pupils conscientiously trained for Concert Work and Church Positions. Voices tested free of charge.
"THE STUDIO,"
S16,dtf BRIDGE ST.

HIGGS Miss Joy. Violin Instruction.
Tems Moderate
"THE STUDIO," Bridge

WHEATLEY Professor. Piano. Theory. Vocal.
Modern Methods. Best Results
THE "STUDIO." Tel. 594

INSURANCE.

Liverpool & London & Globe Ins. Co.; North British & Mercantile Ins. Co.; Sun Fire; Waterloo Mutual; Lloyd's Plate Glass; Dominion of Canada Guarantee and Accident Insurance Co., and other companies.

Farm and City property insured in first class and reliable companies and at lowest current rates. Land valuator and agent for selling, purchasing, or renting property. Rents collected.
W. H. HUDSON
Office: No. 17 Campbell St. Belleville. Phone 161.

FARM INSURANCE

I have made arrangements with English Companies to insure Farm Dwellings and Barns and contents at from 75c. to $1.00 per $100.
Call and see me before renewing your insurance.
CHANCEY ASHLEY
Opposite Post Office. Belleville, Ont.

THOS. STEWART

Bridge Street, Belleville.
Fire, Accident and Plate Glass Insurance effected in the oldest and most reliable companies.
REAL ESTATE AGENT.
Stocks and bonds bought and sold.

R. H. KETCHESON

Agent for
Queen Fire Insurance Co.; York Fire Insurance Co.; Inter-State Live Stock Insurance.
Canadian Railway Accident Insurance Co.

ROBERT BOGLE
MERCANTILE AGENCY.
Insurance, Real Estate, Loans Negotiated, Accountant, Auditor, Estates Managed.
Office: 28 Bridge Street.

LAUNDRY.

QUINTE LAUNDRY

Work done by the Quinte Laundry is guaranteed to be satisfactory in every way.
Shirts, Collars and Cuffs our specialty. Family work done by the dozen.
W. R. VALLANCE .. .. .. .. .. Manager
Phone 330

BUS, AUTO AND CABS.

ASELSTINE'S
BUS, CAB AND TRANSFER LINE.
Special cabs, broughams and carriages, all rubber tired; for weddings, private driving or funerals. The finest turnouts in town.
Office and stables, cor. Moira and Centre Streets. Tweed Stage in connection.
Phone 229.

MEDICAL.

JOHN J. FARLEY, M.D., C.M.,
M.R.C.S., England.
Office and Residence: Corner of Bridge and George Streets; three streets east of the Post Office.

DR. J. CHANT
Specialist in Diseases of Eye, Ear, Nose and Throat, and Fitting of Glasses.
Office: Corner Queen and John Streets. Phone 718.

MONEY.

Private money to loan on mortgages on farms and other real estate, at lowest rate of interest, on terms to suit borrowers.
Apply to
S. MASSON
Barrister, etc.
Over Wallbridge & Clarke's, Bridge St. Belleville.

MINING

BELLEVILLE ASSAY OFFICE

Ores and minerals of all kinds tested and assayed. Samples sent by mail or express will receive prompt attention. All results guaranteed. Office and Laboratory, 185 Pinnacle St., opposite market. Telephone 386.

ENGINEERING.

J. D. EVANS, C.E. & O.L.S. J. W. EVANS, C.E. & M.E.
EVANS & EVANS
Civil and Mining Engineers, and Ontario Land Surveyors. Belleville and Trenton.
Belleville Office: 185 Pinnacle Street, opposite market. Telephone 386.

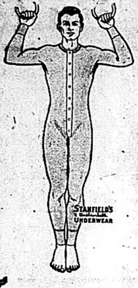
AUCTIONEER.

J. L. PALMER
We specialize on City sales.
Terms Reasonable
Belleville Box 182 Ontario
LICENSED AUCTIONEER.
for counties of Hastings, Prince Edward Northumberland, Lennox and Addington.
Office: over Bell Telephone, opposite Post Office, Bridge St. Prompt attention.

"COLLIP"
FLORIST
Night Phone 175. Day Phone 208.
All kinds of Cut Flowers and Plants in Season.
Wedding and Funeral designs specialty, shipped to all parts.
Front Street.

Kindness and politeness would be appreciated more if they were not used so often as gold brick substitutes.

The older a girl is the easier it is for her to forget her birthday anniversaries.



HIGH GRADE FURNISHINGS

Travel the Country over and you'll not find a better line of Men's Toggery than you'll find right here.

The best Shirt makers, Underwear makers, Scarf makers, Sweater Coat makers and Coat and Glove makers send us their productions.

The Best In Every Line Is Here!

Then again we are not high priced.

All the Patrons of the Store know this to be a fact. Test us and see.

See our New $1 Shirts;
Look at our $1 Gloves;
See our 25c and 50c Neckwear;
Look at our Sweater Coats from 75c up;
If You Doubt Our Splendid Value Giving.

Quick & Robertson
CLOTHING AND FURNISHING

GILEAD

Mrs. E. Carter, who has been seriously ill is slowly recovering.

A number of the ladies from here attended the W.M.S. convention at Phillipston on Wednesday last.

Miss M. Huffman and Mrs. R. Huffman spent the past week at Bethel with Mrs. B. Ketcheson.

Miss Embury, who has been at her home for the past week has so far recovered as to be able to return to school.

Mr. W. Crozier, Mrs. A. Crozier and sond, and Mrs. G. Barr of Westport, are visiting at Mr. E. Yorke's.

Miss Muriel Huffman is feeling much better since her recent operation at Belleville hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. G. Lloyd of Frankford spent Thanksgiving at her father's.

Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Yorke and daughter, Nellie, spent a few days last week with relatives at Verona.

On Thursday Mrs. T. Reynolds and children of Strathroy visited their aunt, Mrs. W. Embury.

THE DOW ALES AND PORTERS ARE THE BEST

FOR SALE AT YOUR LEADING LIQUOR STORES

IN AND ABOUT THE CITY

Condensed News Items for Busy Readers.

CALL FOR INTOXICANT

The police answered a call to Mill street last night, with the result that a drunk was picked up.

ELECTED ORGANIZER

At the recent W.M.S. Convention held at Phillipston, Mrs. S. Gay of Foxboro was elected district organizer for the coming year.

OFF FOR THE WOODS

A hunting party composed of Messrs. R. Goudy, R. Foy, A. C Dafoe, D. Grass, C. A. Gardner and Capt. Bottum left here this morning for the northern part of the county. They will remain in camp until the deer season opens and closes.

TRANSFERRED TO SHAWVILLE

Mr. Reginald W. Weese of the local Merchants Bank, has been transferred to Shawville, Que., which change is in the line of promotion. Mr. Weese, who has always lived in Belleville, and very popular with the young people here, will be greatly missed by many friends. He left for his new post yesterday.

How to Destroy The Dandruff Germ

BY A SPECIALIST

That the dandruff germ is responsible for nearly all the diseases which the scalp is heir, as well as for baldness and premature gray hair, is a well known fact, but when we realize that it is also indirectly responsible for many other diseases as well, we appreciate importance of any agent that will destroy its power. We are therefore, particularly pleased to give herewith the prescription which an eminent scientist states he has found after repeated test to completely destroy the dandruff germ in from one to three applications. It will also almost immediately stop falling hair and it has in numerous cases produced a new hair-growth after years of partial baldness. This prescription can be made up at home, or any druggist will put it up for you: 6 ounces Bay Rum, 2 ounces Lavona de Composee, one-half drachm Menthol Crystals. Mix thoroughly, and after standing an hour it is ready for use. Apply night and morning, rubbing into the scalp with the finger-tips. If you wish it perfumed, add 1 drachm of your favorite perfume. While this preparation is not a dye it is unequalled for restoring gray hair to its original color.

MARRIAGE LICENSES

Marriage Licenses issued by P. Harrison at The Intelligencer Office, or at residence, Lewis Street.

DEATH OF A CHILD

Robert Harold, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Winter, residing on Albion street, died. The little one was ill but a few days.

ALL DISCHARGED

R. Keller, Fred Burns, and Albert Greaves, who were arrested last evening for being intoxicated, were this morning by Magistrate Masson allowed to go without being fined.

SEVENTY-FIVE VOLUNTEERS

An advertisement in another column of this issue refers to the need of men for a second contingent for the Empire's service. Those who are elligible will please note manner of obtaining particulars.

A BAD INDIAN

Andrew Culbertson, an Indian, who is well known in police circles here, is under arrest at Parry Sound, charged with theft. Culbertson is an Indian of no small proportion, and lived in this vicinity for some years.

HOME GUARDS MARCH OUT

The Home Guards of this city paraded last evening and presented a most creditable appearance. It was a very large turnout. Headed by the bugle band of St. Michael's church the guards, under command of Col. Stewart, paraded from the Armouries to Front street. The men marched well and gave evidence that they were fast becoming proficient in marching and drilling.

THIRD LINE THURLOW

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Tweedy of Smithfield, spent one day last week with Mrs. J. Tweedy.

Miss Flossy Lawrence of Canifton, was the guest over Sunday of Miss Pearl Dean.

Mr. and Mrs. George Hamilton were the guests last week of his brother, Mr. Will Hamilton, Sidney.

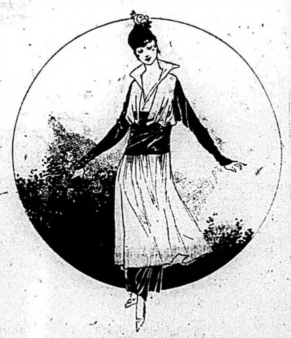
A number of ladies from here attended the W. M. S. Convention at Phillipston on Wednesday last.

Mr. J. L. Palmer, our popular auctioneer, is kept busy these days.

Mr. Marvel Brown spent last week in Belleville, visiting his sister, Mrs. D. Lucas, North Front street.

Miss Annie Campbell, who is engaged as school teacher at Point Ann, spent Sunday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. Campbell.

Miss Myrtle O'Brien spent last week with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. O'Brien, Tyendinaga.



IN THE SCHOOL GIRL'S TRUNK

A practical and modish frock of blue serge has a yoke and collar of fine linen. The long tight-fitting sleeves, high girdle and underskirt are of black silk, giving appearance of one gown covering another.

Stoves! Stoves! Stoves!

Before Buying, See Our Big Line Of Quebec Heaters
Oak Stoves . .
Base Burners, etc.

We have the Stove you want at the right price

SATISFACTION GUARANTEED

The John Lewis Co.
Limited
THE STOVE STORE

NOTICE

To my Customers and the Public in General: Everybody knows that all kinds of Fat Stock are bringing record prices at the present time; but I have not raised my prices. I buy direct from the farmer for cash so as to give my customers the middleman's profits. Read these prices:—

Best Sirloin or Porter House Roasts or Steaks .......... 20c. lb.
Legs of Lamb .......... 20c. lb.
Lamb Chops .......... 20c. lb.
Fore Quarters Lamb .......... 15c. lb.
Best Round Steak .......... 18c. lb.
Home made All Pork Sausages .. 15c. lb.
Mixed Sausages ...... 10c. lb.; 3 lbs. for 25c.
Pure Home Rendered Lard .......... 15c.
Choice Western Beef kept the year round.

GEO. I. THOMAS
377 Front Street. Phone 305.

Cooling Beverages

Rey's Ale and Porter, O'Keeke's Special Mild Ale, Gold Label Ale, Lager and Stout; Carling's Ale and Porter, and Half and Half and Half; Dow's Ale and Porter; Dawe's Black Horse Ale; Molsons Ale and Porter; Regal Lager; Basses Ale; Guinness Stout; Budweiser's Lager; Kegs of Ale, Lager and Porter.

W. A. RODBOURNE
Up-town Liquor Store.
287 Front St. Phone 8
Orders delivered promptly to any part of the city

INTELLIGENCER NIGHT LETTER BOX

Our friends will find a letter box in The Intelligencer Front Door for the reception of news items after the office closing hours. The box will be emptied each morning

All That's New
In Fall And .
Winter . . .
MILLINERY
Will be found at our store.
HATS for
Ladies, Girls and Children.
Moderate Prices
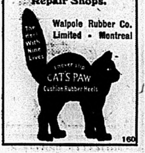
Miss M. Campbell

We are now showing our first importations, indicating the true trend of fashions for the approaching season in both Tailored and Dress Hats from the famous contouries of Paris.

McCrodan & Sills



You are careless

when you simply ask for "rubber heels" on your boots.

ASK FOR CAT'S PAW CUSHION
RUBBER HEELS

and get the world's best. They cost no more—

50c. Attached

At All Shoe Stores and Repair Shops.

Walpole Rubber Co. Limited - Montreal

160

BRIGHTEN UP
YOUR STOVES, STOVE PIPES, RADIATORS, Etc., with
The SHERWIN-WILLIAMS
Aluminum Paint
Looks better, lasts longest, goes farthest
25c tin
WATERS DRUG STORE

WHENEVER WHEREVER
YOU SEE THIS SIGN

SCRANTON COAL.
THE SCHUSTER CO. LTD.

IT IS A SIGN OF GOOD COAL

IN SECOND BATTALION

The official list of the composition of the brigades of the Canadian contingent has been made public, for the assistance of relatives who desire to send letters. Local men are in the second battalion.

Second Battalion

Commander: Lieut.-Col. D. Watson, 8th Regiment.

3rd the Prince of Wales' Canadian Dragoons, 9th Mississauga Horse Governor-General's Foot Guards, 14th Regiment (the Princess of Wales' Own Rifles), 15th Regiment (Argyle Light Infantry), 16th Prince Edward Regiment 34th Ontario Regiment, 40th Northumberland Regiment, 41st Regiment (Brockville Regiment), 42nd Lanark and Renfrew Regiment, 43rd Regiment, (the Duke of Cornwall's Own Rifles), 45th Victoria Regiment, 46th Durham Regiment, 47th Frontenac Regiment, 49th Regiment (Hastings Rifles), 51st Regiment (the Soo Rifles) 56th Grenville Regiment (Lisgar Rifles), 57th Regiment (Peterorough Rangers), 59th Stormont and Glengarry Regiment.

We Never Sleep
The Hogan Burial Co.
Leading Undertakers
Our exclusive lines of caskets and several new additions in the line of funeral equipment make our parlors one of the most up-to-date in Canada. Open night and day.
Phone 774.
189 Front Street
Belleville

Austrian Fleet Driven to Cover.

LONDON, Oct. 20.—A despatch to the Exchange Telegraph from Rome says advices received in the that city from Cettinje, Montenegro, state that the Austrian fleet in the harbor of Cattaro, Dalmatia, attempted to escape Sunday and break through the French fleet blockading the port. The despatch adds that the Austrians were promptly driven back into the harbor.

Don't Think Your Eyesight

is good because you read the paper a yard from your eyes! This is a sure sign that you have Presbyopia, and need Glasses to see clearly for close work.

Decide to-day to have me examine your eyes and prepare just the Lenses your eyes need to enable you to see without effort.

Alex. Ray
Eye Specialist

S. A. HYMAN & CO.

Established 1870. Maker of Fine Furs

Now Is The Time To Buy Furs

The economy of wise purchasing of Furs never presented to better advantage than this season.

The prices of all our Furs are Much the Lowest in Several Years.

Our Furs are made in our own Factory, thoroughly dependable and fully guaranteed.

We want prospective buyers to form their own opinion of our Furs. Comparison is the only saft test of value in every purchase a customer makes.

We can demonstrate to your entire satisfaction that it will pay you to BUY YOUR FURS HERE.

Ladies' Musk Rat Coats, finest quality skins, 52 inches long, with large double striped shawl collar, double striped cuffs and best satin lining. Regular price $95, now .............. $75

Fine quality Black Russian Wolf sets, Stole and Muff. Regular price $40 per set, now per set, .............. $27

S. A. Hyman & Co.
242 FRONT STREET
N.B.—Get our prices for Fur Repairs and Alterations, which are the Lowest.

ARTHUR McGIE
Merchant Tailor

Our New Fall Stock of Imported Suitings and Overcoatings now in stock in all latest designs.

You are invited to inspect our stock.

ARTHUR McGIE
208 Front Street

Coffee Ice Cream

COFFEE ICE CREAM makes a nice change, and we will have it on our menus for the balance of the week, or have a brick delivered to you.

Coffee and Walnut Bricks, 25c and 50c

Ed. F. Dickens & Son
Phone 170

GET THE
E. SANDERSON CO'S
GENUINE
SCRANTON
COAL
BELLEVILLE

A SAVING PROBLEM

Pure Clinkerless, Well Screened Coal.
"The coal of perfect satisfaction."
Office, 42 Bridge St. Phone 231a
Yard Office, S. Front St. Phone 231b

At our Window.

The little ones enjoying the

BARLER "IDEAL" HEATER

$4.00, $5.00, $6.50

THE SMITH HARDWARE CO.
PLUMBING—HEATING
MOTOR CYCLES
314 FRONT ST. —— PHONE 204

"I ran across him when I was doing dramatics on the Pittsburgh Union. He was a genial lad, but there wasn't much for him to tell an interviewer. He had been born and raised in a western town and then apprenticed to a

Advertise in The Intelligencer

HAVE THE INTELLIGENCER
SENT TO YOUR HOME ADDRESS

CLASSIFIED ADVERTISEMENTS

Advertisements under this head, 25 words or less, 25 cents for each insertion, and one cent for each additional word; 4 insertions 75 cents; 6 insertions, $1.00, invariably in advance. This rate applies to all except advertisements for Auction Sales, which will be published at two cents per word. Count 8 marks and (12) figures as one word each.

TO-RENT

TWO SIX ROOMED DWELLINGS, CORNER Bridge and Dufferin Streets, and two five roomed flats and a two roomed flat. Apply Dr. Caldwell. o1-dtf

FLAT, WELL LIGHTED, ALL CONVENiences, Moira Street. Apply Don Bleeck. 17-4td

AGENTS WANTED

AGENTS WANTED — MONEY EASILY earned selling our Peerless Series of Personal Greeting Cards during your spare time. $10 to $20 per week easily earned in half an hour each evening. Our cards are the cheapest on the market. Book free. Write Toronto Greeting Card Co., 529 Pape Avenue, Toronto. o7-12td

THREE ROOMS, GOOD CELLAR, GAS, electric light, private entrance, 23 Charlotte Street. 1td

A FURNISHED SITTING ROOM AND bed room with hot-water heating and electric light, with or without meals. Will rent bed room separately if desired. Apply to Box L. Intelligencer. 20-6td

ROOMS TO LET OVER UNION BANK; Hot water heated, suitable for offices, workrooms or light housekeeping. Burrows of Belleville. 20-6td

TWO ROOMS TO LET; CONVENIENCES; low rent. 47 Charlotte Street. 20-4td

J. L. R. GORMAN
REAL ESTATE AND INSURANCE
Office over Dominion Bank
Phones:
Office 603 Residence 534
We Specialize in City Property

Two New Cakes

Apple Cake 12c each
Antwerps 20c each

Try them, you'll find them fine.

Chas. S. Clapp

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTHWEST LAND REGULATIONS.

The sole head of a family, or an male over 18 years old, may homestead a quarter-section of available Dominion land in Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta. Applicant must appear in person at the Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-Agency for the District. Entry by proxy may be made at any Dominion Lands Agency (but not Sub-Agency) on certain conditions.

Duties—Six months residence upon and cultivation of the land in each of three years. A homesteader may live within nine miles of his homestead on a farm of at least 80 acres, on certain conditions. A habitable house is required except where residence is performed in the vicinity.

In certain districts a homesteader in good standing may pre-empt a quarter-section alongside his homestead. Price $3.00 per acre.

Duties—Six months residence in each of three years after earning homestead patent; also 50 acres extra cultivation. Pre-emption patent may be obtained as soon as homestead patent, on certain conditions.

A settler who has exhausted his homestead right may take a purchased homestead in certain districts. Price $3.00 per acre. Duties—Must reside six months in each of three years, cultivate 50 acres and erect a house worth $300.

The area of cultivation is subject to reduction in case of rough, scrubby or stony land. Live stock may be substituted for cultivation under certain conditions.

W. W. CORY, C.M.G.,
Deputy of the Minister of the Interior.

N.B.—Unauthorised publication of this advertisement will not be paid for.—64388

SITUATIONS WANTED—FEMALE

CAPABLE DOMESTICS — GOOD REFERences—Scotch, Irish and English, arriving almost weekly. Apply 185 Gerrard Street East, Toronto, and 71 Drummond Street, Montreal.

FOR SALE

SECOND HAND NO. 3 DAISY HOT WATER boiler, 292 Front St., W. McGie. o15-6td

HOUSE FOR SALE OR TO LET ON COLEman street; bath, gas, electric light. Immediate possession. Apply to E. T. Cherry. 19-4td

PERSONAL

DR. MARSHALL'S OFFICE REMOVED TO Angus McFee's Block, 216½ Front Street. s11:d&w1m

WANTED

YOUR ORDERS FOR SILVER PLATING. Write for price list. Belleville Plating Works, 267 1-2 Front Street. o14-dlm

SYNOPSIS OF COAL MINING REGULATIONS

Coal mining rights of the Dominion, in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, the Yukon Territory, the North-West Territories and in a portion of the Province of British Columbia, may be leased for a term of twenty-one years at an annual rental of $1 an acre. Not more than 2,560 acres will be leased to one applicant.

Application for a lease must be made by the applicant in person to the Agent or Sub-Agent of the district in which the rights applied for are situated.

In surveyed territory the land must be described by sections, or legal sub-divisions of sections, and in unsurveyed territory the tract applied for shall be staked by the applicant himself.

Each application must be accompanied by a fee of $5 which will be refunded if the rights applied for are not available, but not otherwise. A royalty shall be paid on the merchantable output of the mine at the rate of five cents per ton.

The person operating the mine shall furnish the Agent with sworn returns accounting for the full quantity of merchantable coal mined and pay the royalty thereon. If the coal mining rights are not being operated, such returns should be furnished at least once a year.

The lease will include the coal mining rights only, but the lessee may be permitted to purchase whatever available surface rights may be considered necessary for the working of the mine at the rate of $10.00 an acre.

For full information application should be made to the Secretary of the Department of the Interior, Ottawa, or to any Agent or Sub-Agent of Dominion Lands.

W. W. CORY,
Deputy Minister of the Interior.

N. B.—Unauthorized publication of this advertisement will not be paid for.—tf

Let us Develope and Finish Your Films. We Know How,
The Belleville Pharmacy
The Kodak Store, Bridge St.

BANK OF MONTREAL

Established 1817

| | |
|---|---|
| Capital, all paid up . . | $16,000,000 |
| Rest . . . . . . . . . . | $16,000,000 |

SAVINGS BANK DEPARTMENT
Interest allowed on sums of $1.00 and upwards at current rates.

Banking hours, 10 to 3. Saturdays, 10 to 3.

R. TANNAHILL,
Manager Belleville Branch

Ladies' Genuine
Persian Lamb Sets
$47
Large Pillow Muffs and Stoles
AT
J. T. DELANEY
236½ Front St. Phone 797
(Over Blackburn's Jewellery Store)

Advertise in the Intelligencer.

THE RITCHIE COMPANY LIMITED THE RITCHIE COMPANY LIMITED THE RITCHIE COMPANY, LIMITED

Great Clearing Sale
Of All Our
Ladies' And Misses' Suits

Here is the most astounding Clearance Sale of Ladies' and Misses' High Grade Autumn and Winter Suits that we have ever offered at any former season. We have gone through our entire stock of season's suits and placed them in four lots at four reduced prices, prices that in some instances are less than half their former values; and you will readily realize the advisability of our doing this as well as yourself taking advantage of this sale, when we tell you that in the four lots there are over 100 up to the minute suits in the most fashionable materials, colors and styles, that must be carried over until another season unless cleared out now. Hence the drastic reductions. A representative showing of these garments will be on display in all three show windows to-night, each one plainly marked at the sale price. See them.

LADIES' AND MISSES' HIGH GRADE SUITS, REGULAR UP TO $15.00 ON SALE AT ONLY $7.50

$7.50 $7.50

What more reasonable price could one expect to pay for a Fall and Winter Suit than this remarkably low price? especially when they are in such fashionable materials as Serges, Cheviots, and Fancy Tweeds, in shades of Blue, Tan, Grey and Black. About fourteen suits in the lot that are mostly plain tailored, and very suitable for present or future wear. The sizes run from 34 to 40, and if there is a garment in the lot that will fit you, it will be an exceptional bargain. At any rate come in and see them and have a trial fitting; you will indeed be surprised at the remarkable price reductions. Regularly to $15.00, for $7.50.

$10.00

40 Ladies' and Misses' SUITS

That sold in the regular way as high as $22 50

Clearing at - - $10.00

The garments in this lot are exceedingly smart, and being mostly plain tailored with three-quarter length coats, you are assured of a suit strictly up to the minute in style, while the materials are all new, such as plain Serges, Cheviots, Boucle, Tweeds, Ratines, and one Corduroy Velvet, in shades of Grey, Brown, Tan, Taupe, Navy, Black, Black Stripes, and Black and White Checks. Very few of them are fancy suits, although a few of them have pleated skirts and coats trimmed with braid.

Ladies' and Misses' sizes are represented, from 34 to 40, and they sold in the regular way as high as $22.50, but we have reduced them to clear quickly at

$10.00

Every Ladies' Suit in the Store at Reduced Prices

Besides the four prices mentioned here there are several other higher priced garments that sold as high as $40.00, that we have marked at such reduced prices as $22.50, $25.00, $27.50

See them in the Windows.

$14.50

This Lot at - - $14.50

Includes about

20 Ladies' and Misses' HANDSOME SUITS

Regularly Sold as high as $30.00

Even if you had not thought of a new suit this fall, these remarkable bargains will undoubtedly prompt you to quick action, as these Suits are in very fashionable styles, the Suit Coats three-quarter cut-away effect, some trimmed with moire and velvet collars, and all lined with "Skinner's Satin," while the skirts are mostly all plain tailored.

The materials represented are Bedford Cords, Cheviots, Diagonal Serges, Plain Serges, and Poplins, in shades of Black, Navy, Copenhagen, Tan, Grey, Purple and Black and White Stripe. The sizes of these garments range from 36 to 40 inches, and sold regularly as high as $30.00, but for quick clearance we have reduced them to only

$14.50

18 VERY FASHIONABLE LADIES' AND MISSES' SUITS REGULARLY UP TO $35.00 REDUCED TO $18 50

$18.50 $18.50

Every suit is a this season's garment, which means that the Suit Coats are cut in the very latest style, and Skirts in plain tailored and tunic style, while others are in the pleated effects; made up in such popular materials as Bedford Cords, Brocades, Plain Serges, Diagonol Serges, Worsteds, and Cheviots, in shades of Tan, Navy, Copenhagen, Mahogany, Brown, Dark Navy, Black and White and Brown and White Checks, Black, Greys and Colored Tweed Mixtures. Sizes from 16 to 42, and about 18 in the lot that sold regularly at as high as $35.00, clearing at $18.50.

PRINT WRAPPERS,, $1.19.

With high neck and long sleeves, made of good quality fast color dark grey prints in attractive styles. Sizes 34 to 44. On sale at . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . $1.19

The Ritchie Company Limited

CORSET COVERS, 25c.

Made of good quality white cotton, trimmed with wide lace and insertion, with pink baby ribbon running through beading at neck. Sizes 34 to 44, on sale at . . . . 25c.

CITY AND VICINITY

Choir Concert in St. Andrew's Sunday School rooms, Tuesday evening, Oct. 20, assisted by the following ladies and gentlemen: Mrs. Jas. Grant, Mrs. Connell, Misses Ponton, Stork, Price, Messrs. Cameron, Connell, Bennett, Booth, Kenneth Ross and Excelsior Male Quartette. Choir leader, Mrs. A. P. Allen; organist Miss Edith Fenn. Tickets 25 cents. 17,2t

The first meeting of the Women's Canadian Club will be held in the Armouries at 4 p.m., on Wednesday, October 21st. The annual membership fee will be collected. Members may bring child on payment of ten cents. Eleanor M. Blagrave, Hon. Sec. 1t

COAL

The FOUR best to buy. D. L. & W. Scranton Coal; C. B. B. Pocahontas Coal; Butts Channel Coal; Beaver Charcoal. You can get them from Downey Coal Co

AT-HOME BALL, BANQUET, and Private Invitation Cards—new line—at The Intelligencer Job Dept. See these. Prices right.

The tickets for the Hallowe'en Festivaly, in aid of the Red Cross Society, to be held in the Armouries, Friday and Saturday, October 30th, and 31st., will be sold to-morrow (Wednesday) in a house to house canvas. Have your money ready, and help along this good work. Tickets, 10c. 1t

MAKING CANADA THE GRANARY OF THE EMPIRE

(Continued on Page 5)

so inexpensive that if used on a fair sized field it will so increase the production that it soon pays for itself.

SEEDING HELPS MAKE THE CROPS SECURE.

After the seed bed is in a condition satisfactory for the proper development of the seed, the next important step is to be sure that the seed is sown just right. It is only within recent years that definite, decisive tests have been made between sowing with a drill and sowing broadcast, but so one-sided have been the various tests in regard to these two methods that broadcasting is fast becoming numbered among the many old methods which farmers are now discarding. Broad-casting requires more seed, and yet it produces a smaller crop of lower grade grain. The reason for this is that the seed thus sown is not distributed evenly over the ground. It does not all start from an even depth, nor does it begin germinating uniformly. By the use of an ordinary drill, even without the more modern attachments, the seed is deposited in fine, slightly compact, moist soil, all of it at a uniform depth. It is thus carefully covered by the cover chains or press wheels, it all has an even chance of germinating, and all the grain will tend to ripen at the same time. It requires, furthermore, much less seed to get a good stand with a drill than by broadcasting.

Proper disking and packing and proper sowing are the best ways to help nature give a good crop. There is very little more expense in doing it right than in doing it wrong, and the returns are much greater.

Our work begins this fall in our plowing and seeding, and our opportunity to help will come next year at our harvesting and selling. We have more at stake than our profits. Towering over everything and stifling our selfish hope of gain or our commercial instincts, is our ability and our willingness to meet the call upon us which we know will result from the waste and devastation of the present unfortunate conflict into which the Mother Country has been drawn.

When the oldest daughter marries, the rest of the family manage to get along comfortably without any boss.

DRS. SOPER & WHITE

SPECIALISTS

Piles, Eczema, Asthma, Catarrh, Pimples, Dyspepsia, Epilepsy, Rheumatism, Skin, Kidney, Blood, Nerve and Bladder Diseases.

Call or send history for free advice. Medicine furnished in tablet form. Hours—10 a.m. to 1 p.m. and 2 to 6 p.m. Sundays—10 a.m. to 1 p.m.

Consultation Free

DRS. SOPER & WHITE
25 Toronto St., Toronto, Ont.

CLERK'S NOTICE OF FIRST POSTING OF VOTERS' LIST

Voters' List, 1914, Municipality of the City of Belleville, County of Hastings.

Notice is hereby given that I have transmitted or delivered to the persons mentioned in section 2 of The Ontario Voters' Lists Act, the copies required by said sections to be so transmitted or delivered of the List, made pursuant to said Act, of all persons appearing by the last revised Assessment Roll of the said Municipality to be entitled to vote in the said Municipality at elections for members of the Legislative Assembly and at Municipal Elections; and that the said List was first posted up at my office at the City Hall on the 17th day of October, 1914, and remains there for inspection.

And I hereby call upon all voters to take immediate proceedings to have any errors or omissions corrected according to law.

Dated this 19th day of October, 1914.

J. WILFRED HOLMES,
Clerk of the Municipality of the City of Belleville.
19-2td

STORM SASH AND DOORS
Made to your order, any Shape or Size
SAVE YOUR COAL BILLS
The Holton Lumber Co. Limited
EVERYTHING IN LUMBER
Phones 112-1197
Offices 1 Bride St. W; Water St.

The Daily Intelligencer.

Established 1858
FURNITURE & UNDERTAKING
TICKELL & SONS CO
SPECIAL — AT COST
49 VERANDAH CHAIRS

LET THERE BE HARMONY IN THINGS ESSENTIAL—LIBERALTY IN THINGS NOT ESSENTIAL—CHARITY IN ALL.

Vol. 48 THE DAILY INTELLIGENCER, WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 21, 1914. No. 14

German Shell Killed 50 Men And 100 Horses

A British Artilleryman Tells of the Slaughter Caused by Heavy Artillery

CAN DODGE BIG SHELLS

Germans Had Concrete Bases Nearer Paris Than Von Kluck Got with His Army

LONDON, Oct. 20.—According to several wounded British soldiers in the American Women's Hospital at Paignton, the discovery was made of concrete gun bases nearer Paris than the German army got in. General von Kluck's advance. They explain this in the same way as the finding of concrete bases before Namur and Maubeuge and near Soissons, saying it is believed that the Germans bought or rented certain stretches of land years before the war and then got exact measurements of the ranges, which is the reason their artillery fire was so active.

One soldier who believes the Germans systematically did this is Seth Williams, of the Royal Feld Artillery, who has served in the army at different times for a period of 16 years. He was in the South African war and in recent years was at work on the Hudson River tunnels. He said: "It is possible to dodge German 'Jack Johnsons' when in the open and it sometimes is possible to dodge German 17 inch shells. A good many seconds elapse between the discharge of a 'Jack Johnson' shell and its arrival. Any way the Germans only use them when they want to knock down a house or obstruction. It is the smaller shells that are harder to dodge.

"I was a driver in the first line of supply waggons at Soissons, and we dodged about 20 shells until we were ordered too near a battery. Then two big shells burst among us, killing all but four of fifty-four men and only one horse was saved out of more than a hundred. I think we could have dodged those shells by staying where we were, for the German system of firing seems to be to drop a shell first in one place, the second to the right, a third to the left, and a fourth to the rear, describing a seconds elapse between the discharge half circle, and if you keep track of the way they have been hitting you can often avoid them, but of course you can't always tell."

Williams was severely wounded by the bursting of the shell.

The Duchess of Marlborough and Lady Randolph Churchill returned from an inspection of the hospital today. They visited the American Red Cross contingent at Haesler Hospital at Portsmouth on Saturday.

TURKEY GIVES THE IRON DOUBLE CROSS

Permitted Germany to Give Her the War Materials Then Held Aloof

LONDON, Oct. 20.—Has Turkey awarded the "iron double cross' to the kaiser?

It is reported from Constantinople that Turkey after permitting Germany to increase her navy and increase her fortifications and military power, is not ready to think of making a return to Berlin by joining against the allies.

Berlin has renewed pressure for immediate action, but the Turks prefer to wait and see how the present all important battle in France and Belgium is going to develop.

FRENCH CONSUL TO JOIN THE COLORS

NEW YORK, Oct. 20.—France has summoned to the colors Henry Goiran, French consul here, and Paul Pierre Moraschine, an attache of the consulate. Goiran is a son of General Francois Giron, former minister of war in France, and holds a lieutenancy in the French reserves. Moraschina also has served with the French army. They expect to sail next Saturday on La Tourraine for Havre.

It was stated at the French consulate today that 6,000 French reservists had sailed from New Orleans, Quebec, New York and other ports up to last Saturday night.

QUARTERS FOR VOLUNTEERS

KINGSTON, Oct. 21.—The volunteers for overseas service from the third division will be quartered in the armories and the stables at Artillery Park barracks. The main floor of the armories will be laid out as sleeping quarters, as the two barracks are almost full.

BRITISH TRANSPORTS SAVED BY ITALIANS

Captain Giacapello Warned the Former of the Presence of the German Cruiser Emden—Was Handsomely Rewarded

LONDON, Oct. 21.—Special—The Calcutta Statesman publishes an official statement from the Government of Bengal eulogizing the services rendered by Captain Giacapello of the Italian steamer Loredano in warning British vessels of the presence of the German cruiser Emden in the Bay of Bengal. Four or five vessels, including the City of Rangoon, and two transports were preserved from risk of capture by Captain Giacapello's' efforts, and the Governor, Lord Carmichael, presented him with a gold watch and chain in recognition of these services. Mementoes were also given to the officers of the Loredano and a money reward to the crew.

GERMANS IN BELGIUM PERTURBED BY NEWS

In Antwerp They are Hastily Repairing Forts—Will Try New Guns

AMSTERDAM, Oct. 21.—Special—From all quarters comes the news that the Germans in Belgium are perturbed by the latest tidings from their front in France. Correspondents in nearly all the Dutch frontier towns which are news centres for Belguim agree on this fact. What the news may be is never stated, but the blatant, bullying optimism of recent weeks has given place to anxiety. In Antwerp the Germans are repairing the forts with feverish haste, and trials of the new guns mounted there are to take place soon.

◆ ◆ ◆

GALT TO CONTRIBUTE $400 A MONTH DURING WAR

Galt, Ont., Oct. 21.—Special—The Town Council of Galt has unanimously decided to contribute to the Canadian Patriotic Fund $400 per month as long as the war lasts. Next week will see in progress a campaign to raise at least $30,000 for the Canadian Patriotic Fund. A citizens' meeting is to be held tonight in the Opera House, at which President Falconer of the University of Toronto will be the chief speaker.

◆ ◆ ◆

THEIR TONGUES CUT OUT

Wounded Russian Soldiers Accuse Germans of Doing it

PETROGRAD, Oct. 20—Two stories of atrocities were told to-day by wounded Russians who had just been allowed out of hospital. One, with his wife, who had come to Petrograd to fetch him, was leaving by train for the Province of Pskoff, and comrades were seeing the other off to the same province.

The first man had half his tongue cut away and a bullet in his knee. By signs and interpretations of his wife and comrades of the same regiment, the following account was obtained.

"I was hit on the knee and fainted from pain. When I came to as the result of a kick in the ribs I found a German officer with a couple of men standing over me. When he ordered me to put my tongue out I thought he was a doctor. I did so, and one of the men caught it and cut it off."

The comrade of the man first interviewed had a wound in his arm and his tongue had been cut out by the root. Not only was he minus his tongue altogether, but all his front teeth had been knocked out and his lips mangled. I understood that this had been done by a rifle butt because seeing what had happened to others, he would not show his tongue. The blow made him unconscious, and when he came to his tongue was gone. These men say that seven wounded they personally knew of were so treated.

LET US ORGANIZE FELLOW CANADIANS

Perhaps at no time have the sympathies of the civilized world been so profoundly stirred as at present by the aspect of the multitude of starving destitute refugees being landed in England from poor bleeding Belgium, whose prospects for peace and prosperity have been swept away by the ruthless hand of an ambitious military power. To the people living in this paradise of plenty and who are the benefactors of the efforts put forth by the heroic people of that country, the opportunity has come to show by practical methods our appreciation of the sacrifices they have made.

Calls have been made by individuals and the press for contributions in aid of the needy Belgians (who are being temporarily cared for by England who are already burdened with the needy of their own land, but are willing to share their last loaf with this worthy people), these calls for help have been promptly responded to throughout this land, but only by systematic and continued giving can we hope to prevent distress and suffering to those helpless thousands of fellowmen during the coming winter. The question naturally arises how can we so arrange matters in order that the free gifts of a willing people will pass along in a steady flow, so that the necessities of those in want will be met from day to day. To my mind Thorough Organization in each Province throughout the Dominion is the best way in which this desirable object can be attained.

As food is absolutely necessary, let the Department of Agriculture at Ottawa be the head executive of this organization to which the Provincial departments will be in close touch and thereby learn what is required, then let there be a county executive in each county, who can communicate with the township committees, who can again be subdivided into school sections or larger communities if desired.

The Department at Ottawa being in direct communication with the Motherland can learn or be constantly apprised as to what is required, and in this day of rapid communication can through the Provincial Departments, County Executives and Townships Committees transmit all this information in a few hours to every inhabitant throughout this broad Dominion, and as the Fiery Cross borne aloft from hamlet to hamlet throughout Scotland inspired the people to rally around the standard of their leaders, so we trust that the knowledge (rapidly disseminated by a Dominion-wide organization) of the wants of the starving poor of Belgium would send such a wave of sympathy from ocean to ocean, that from the abundance possessed by our people a steady flow of the necessaries of life will reach those needy ones to who we are so deeply indebted.

I write this as a suggestion and if this principle is approved would ask the gentlemen of Belleville who have already done good work in bringing the needs of Belgium before the people to take the matter up with the Departments forthwith, as winter is coming on and the needs will be great. There are thousands throughout Canada who know nothing of the amounts necessary to carry these destitute ones through the winter who would willingly give weekly or monthly of their substance in order that a steady stream of supplies would be on the way.

The people are ready to give—only show them the way. Organize, organize, organize!".

Sincerely yours,
T. C. McCONNELL.
Springbrook, Oct. 19th, 1914.

Berlin Reports Invasion of England

German Papers Said Britain Was Overrun and Ravaged Like Belgium—People Believed it

MONTREAL, Oct. 20.—The species of "news" which is being given the German people to buoy up their courage during the present war shown by a letter receivew a few days ago by Mr. J. F. Haskell, of Haskell & Elliott, from his sister-in-lay, who has resided in Germany for a number of years past. In her letter the lady stated that she had returned to England, but so alarmed was she when in Berlin at the reports in the German paper that London was threatened and a large part of Great Britain overrun by German troops, just as Belgium had been, that she had decided to leave her luggage and valuables at Berlin, as a safer place than London. On arriving at the British capital, however, she was more than delighted to learn that the German papers had at least somewhat exaggerated the situation.

In her letter to Mr. Haskell, his sister-in-law said that when the war broke she had been living in the country and immediately she went to Berlin, where even then she found a great deal of unemployment and committees had been formed to help the people who had been thrown out of work. Already over two thousand girls who had worked in factories in Berlin has been deprived of their work, and were in such a position that soup kitchens had to be opened for their relief.

Then came word that British women and children might leave Germany and, with 500 others, she went through travelling via Holland, where they were very well treated.

The British men in Germany were not so well treated. Those between 16 and 45 were not allowed to leave, and were herded together in building which Mr. Haskell's correspondent described as a stable, where they had to sleep on loose straw and were given one blanket apiece. Many of these were men of good class, tourists, or people who had been living in Berlin, and they suffered a good deal under this rough treatment. The older men were not sent to these detention camps, but were allowed to live as they pleased, provided they reported to the police three times a week.

A number of the women refused to leave, preferring to stay near their husbands, and these were looked after by a committee through the American consul, who allowed them about $2 apiece a week, just enough to keep from starving.

What alarmed Mr. Haskell's relative the most was the reports in the German papers as to the terrible conditions in England, which was described as overwhelmed by disaster. Imaginary reports of speeches by cabinet ministers and other leaders in English public life were given, saying that no respectable men would join the army and that it had to be filled with the scum of the streets. Other German newspapers published alleged despatches that another mutiny had broken out in India, that Egypt was in revolt, and that the Empire was breaking up, while German troops were ravaging England and London itself was threatened.

All these statements were believed by Mr. Haskell's sister-in-law, since she could get nothing but German newspapers, and in her letter she said she decided to leave all she had in Berlin, for greater safety, and get back to London to see what had happened to her people.

"You can imagine my feelings," she wrote, "when, on finally getting back to England from Rotterdam, I found that everything was all right, business going on as usual, and that all these tremendous reports in the German papers were false.

COUNTRY VILLAGES OF BRITAIN PROSPEROUS

LONDON, Oct. 20.—I observed in a recent visit to the west of England that the country villages are unusually prosperous. Many village industries are being revived. Home employment is brisk and handicrafts in good demand.

Money is abundant owing to the sale of all surplus farm stock to the government at good prices.

Industrially, Lancashire still presents the worst outlook in the United Kingdom. One local expert, summarizing the situation there, writes; "Nearly a third of the spinning mills and weaving sheds are closed; a third are on half time and the remainder fluctuate between full time and four days a week."

When a girl looks miserable, even a wise man can't tell whether it is because of a broken heart or an aching corn.

GERMAN LOSSES HEAVY IN DESPERATE ATTACKS

Allied Forces Prove Themselves Equal to Onslaughts of the Enemy—Germans Forced to Retreat Along the Line

(Canadian Press Special Exclusively to The Intelligencer)

FIERCE BATTLE IS STILL RAGING

LONDON, Oct. 21.— The Daily Mail's Rotterdam correspondent says the Germans report a fierce battle still raging yesterday between Dunkirk and Furness. On the march towards Dunkirk the Germans received the greatest surprise of the war when encountered by a large force of all-arms supported by British ships which forced their retirement on Ostend.

A despatch from Ghent says the result of this fighting has caused much anxiety among officers and one German General has committed suicide.

TORPEDO BOATS ENGAGE IN BATTLE

LONDON, Oct. 21.—An engagement between German torpedo boats and hostile submarines in the Baltic near Rugen Island off the Prussian coast, is reported from Stockholm, according to a Central News despatch from Copenhagen. No details are given.

RUSSIANS TAKING PRISONERS

A Petrograd despatch says there is fierce fighting on the River Zoura in Galicia and in East Prussia. South of Przemysl the Russians continue to take prisoners in large numbers. An entire Austrian battalion with all the officers and machine guns was captured by the Russian forces near Przemysl yesterday.

ANXIETY PREVAILS IN GERMANY

The Berliner Tageblatt hints that a certain amount of anxiety is manifesting itself in Germany about the outcome of the war and Chancellor Bethmann-Hollweg is being attacked in influential quarters as responsible for the war.

BROTHER OF QUEEN DOWAGER KILLED

A despatch from Amsterdam reports that the Prince of Waldeck-Pyrmont, a half-brother of the Queen Dowager of the Netherlands, was killed while on patrol duty in France.

ALLIES STILL ADVANCING

LONDON, Oct. 21.— Despatches from Paris last night reported the advance of the Allies in the Meuse district. There were no advices from the coast.

TURKEY FORBIDS ENTRANCE OF WARSHIPS

COPENHAGEN, Oct. 21.—Turkey has forbidden warships to enter the Gulf of Smyrna. This is aimed at the Allied fleet in the Mediterranean.

ALL ATTACKS REPULSED

PARIS, Oct. 21.—An official communication says: "During yesterday the attacks of the enemy were particularly violent at Nieuhort, Dixmude, and La Bassee. They were all repulsed by the allied armies with great energy. At all other points the situation is without any change."

SEIZE STABLES OF ENEMY'S RACEHORSES

Animals are Sold at Auction at Newmarket as Prizes of War

LONDON, Oct 20.—Next to the German ships seized by the Government since the outbreak of war, probably the most valuable prizes of war are the racing stables in England, formerly belonging to Germans and Austrians, but now the property of the Board of Agriculture. Shortly after the war broke out, a London paper published a list of horses owned by Germans and Austrians and racing under their colors on English tracks. Acting on this hint, and profiting by an old act which allows private informers to claim a share of the sale proceeds, a number of citizens brought actions, and horses valued at half a million dollars were seized.

Among the horses seized were the stable belonging to Baron Springer and managed by the veteran trainer Butters at Newmarket. In this stable are Adular and Aides, bred by the Hungarian Government stud and lent to Baron Springer for racing purposes only. Adular, valued at a hundred thousand dollars, has not yet been advertised for sale, but Aides and Bolond, other members of the same stable, will soon be sold at auction at Newmarket.

LIMITED TRAIN SERVICE

OTTAWA, Oct. 21—It is announced that there will be a limited train service on the N.T.R. this winter between Moncton and Levis, and probably also from Hearst eastward.

KAISER'S MASTER SPY A GUEST OF KING GEORGE

Accompanied His Master to London and Stayed at Buckingham Palace—Met His Secret Agents—Returned to Royal Abode and Delivered Reports to Treacherous Emperor of Germany

LONDON, Oct. 20.—The Daily Express in a special article, describes the career of Steinhaer, head of the German secret service, whose name has figured in recent spy prosecutions in this country. It says he even, on the occasion of the Kaiser's last visit to England, stayed as a member of his suite in Buckingham palace. Seven or eight years ago, Steinhaer was placed at the head of the German secret service on what he terms the personal friendship of the Kaiser who gave him a free hand to organize a complete service of spies in Great Britain. In order that the work should not suffer from the lack of funds, Steinhaer had at his command just as much money as he required. He made frequent visits to this country, and got into touch with the principal German residents, and within a few months had appointed paid agents in London and in every arsenal and dockyard town, in every important provincial city, and even in villages on the English and Scottish coasts. Letters for this master spy were addressed Steinhaer, Potsdam, nothing more. It was a sufficient address for the German postal authorities, who had instructions to deliver all such letters without the slightest delay.

"It was in May, 1911," says the Express, "that the Kaiser and his master spy carried out their machiavellian plot of coming to London together and using Buckingham Palace for furthering their treacherous designs to wreck the British Empire. That month the Kaiser visited London for the purpose of attending the unveiling by the King of the Queen Victoria memorial. He remained in London nearly a week. One of the members of his suite was Steinhaer. Steinhaer went to Buckingham Palace. All the time the Kaiser was professing the greatest friendship for Great Britain, he knew that his master spy, whom he had especially brought over with him, was engaged in perfecting the organization which he hoped would tumble the British Empire in the dust. One afternoon, while the Kaiser was fulfilling a private engagement in London, Steinhaer met his principal and most trustworthy agents in a West End hotel, managed by a German. There, in a private room, this gang of spies held a conference and handed their reports to Steinhaer. That night Steinhaer took his reports to Buckingham Palace, and it is only reasonable to suppose that he lost no time in communicating them to the Emperor."

No Election This Year Says Hon. Robert Rogers

Talk of Early Appeal is Far-fetched, He Says

NO PREPARATION MADE

Minister of Public Works Speaks Enthusiastically of the Business Brought to the Country by the Manfacture of War Supplies

TORONTO, Oct. 21.—(Special.)—No election this fall—not before 1915, was the statement made by Hon. Robert Rogers, Minister of Public Works, in the King Edward Hotel last night.

The Cabinet, so far as I am aware," said Mr. Rogers, "is not making any preparation for going to the country, and the talk of an immediate appeal is far-fetched."

Mr. Rogers said his visit to Toronto was devoid of any political significance. He was passing through on his way to Fort William to look after the shipment of a large quantity of oats and wheat that had been ordered by the British and French Governments. He did not know what the total would amount to, but thought the figure would finally reach many million bushels.

Speaking of trade conditions, the Minister of Public Works said there was a lot of purchasing of war supplies being done in the country. He thought the total amount of cavalry and artillery equipment being furnished by harness factories would reach nearly the $4,000,000 mark. "All this is a Canadian produce," said he, "and besides keeping our factories going will give the tanneries something to do." Hardware, transport equipment and other supplies were being required in such quantities that the bulk of Canadian factories would not suffer for lack of orders.

On the remount question Mr. Rogers said that a preference was being given to Canadian horses. Sir Frederick Benson already had a representative in western Canada. Lord Kitchener's order for horses was 15,000 a month, and it would keep Canada busy supplying that number.

In regard to the rumor that Col. the Hon. Sam Hughes would retire from the Cabinet, and that his trip to England was due to dissatisfaction, Mr. Rogers characterized the whole thing as an untruth. There was no possibility of such a thing, and Col. Hughes' work had won for him commendation from his colleagues.

KAISER'S BANDMASTER CAPTURED BY ALLIES

He Cannot Keep the Score of the Triumphal March Into Paris

PAS DE CALAIS, Oct. 21.—Special.—One of the most curious captures of the war was made last week in the neighborhood of Ypres. The capture is of no less an important personage than the Bandmaster-in-chief of the German army. A good deal of doubt at first surrounded the identity of the much decorated individual, some captors being persuaded that their captive was judging from his gorgeous uniform, the Chief High Commissionaire, but there is no doubt that the downhearted prisoner is the Kaiser's military Bandmaster-in-chief. He will not, of course, be allowed to keep the score of the triumphant march into Paris, the first performance of which was fixed for August 15, but he might have permission to wear the uniform, for it would always be a bright spot on the somewhat drab scenery of the prisoners' camp. He was marched off, but before night fell he made an effort to escape. Though he may know a great deal about music, he proved a child in the matter of endeavoring to elude his captors, so the bandmaster-in-chief of the German army remains a gloomy prisoner.

PROVINCIAL BANK WON CONTRACT CASE

Father of Minor Ordered to Pay Damages in Lieu of Notice

MONTREAL, Oct. 20.—Mr. Justice Mercier rendered judgment yesterday afternoon in the contract case between the Provincial Bank of Canada and Napoleon Beaudin, ordering the latter to pay the bank $1,000 for breach of contract. The bank, through their their attorneys, alleged that defendant has signed an agreement by which his son Telesphore, minor, was given a position in the bank, three months notice to be given if he wished to leave or $1,000 paid in default of notice. The young man left, the bank claimed after only a day's notice. Mr. Beaudin, senior, stated that he did not understand the agreement which he had signed.

WM. McINTOSH & CO.

HORSE BLANKETS.
Linen Jute unlined blankets at ................ 75c. each.
Linen Jute wool lined blankets, special at
$3.00, $2.75, $2.50 and $1.50 each
Dutch Kersey Blankets, on sale at ............ $1.50 each
Plaid Shawl Automobile Rugs at ............. $2.25 each.

BEDDING.
White Wool Blankets in great variety at
$5.50, $5.00, $4.00 and $3.35 per pair
Heavy dark and ligh grey wool blankets, on sale at
$2.75, $2.50 and $2.25 per pair
Flannelette Blankets, white and grey, 12/4 size, at
$1.75 and $1.60 per pair
Flannelette Blankets, white and grey, 11/4 size, at
$1.50 and $1.40 per pair
Flannelette Blankets, white and grey, 10/4 size
at $1.25 per pair.
Bed Comforters, large variety, filled with the best Puritan batting at ............ $4.00, $3.50, $3.00, $2.50, $2.00 each

WM. McINTOSH & CO.

House Furnishing

Some new Curtains and Shades will brighten up your room and give a softened effect.

We have dainty designs at reasonable prices, in Nottingham, Swiss Net, Bungalow Net, Madras, Voile, etc. Shades in Green and White, Cream, etc., plain or insertion.

We can fit any window.

Small Rugs, Hall Runners, etc.

Wire and Cocoa Door Mats will keep the mud out and and save the rugs.

Stoves, Comforters, Pillows, Spreads.

THE THOMPSON FURNITURE Co.
UNDERTAKERS Phones: Day. 62; Night, 295.

Fit — Reform Suits

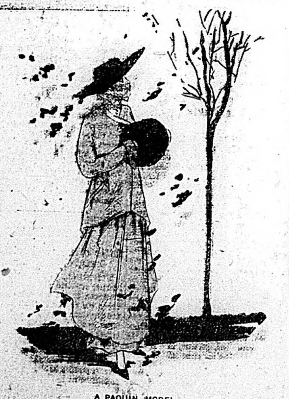
Pin Stripes and Small Checks are the popular patterns for the early Fall.

Browns, Olives and Grays seem to be the shades most in demand—although Blue Serges and Blue Worsteds are in wide favor.

Come in and see all the new Styles. $18 to $35.

FIT-REFORM

Chas. J. Symons
"The Store With
The Electric Man"



A PAQUIN MODEL

Of serge, in the new shade of dull green, this coat suit would serve for street wear even during the snowy weather. This long tunic is very much flared and dips down the front.

POSITION WAS MINED

And Three German Battalions Were Blown to Pieces.

Point In Northern France, Which Had Been Taken and Retaken Several Times by French and Germans Was Finally Mined by the French and Exploded When They Were Dislodged.

FROM THE BATTLEFRONT, Oct. 21.—(Via Paris.)—The German invaders in their efforts to shorten their lines and rest their right wing further southwestward upon the English Channel are meeting with a vigorous offensive by the allies. A good part of the fighting is being done in the obscurity of fogs.

French marines on Monday put forth a fine effort against the Germans. The troops of Emperor William had tried a surprise attack on the marines Sunday, but they had held the field works against superior numbers. The fight lasted all day, and then the Germans contented themselves with cannonading the position of the marines.

A thick fog covered the entire region Monday, and the marines, accustomed to such weather conditions, crept toward the German trenches. "No shooting," was the order; "use the bayonet!"

The marines got within thirty feet of the trenches before they were seen. It was too late for the defenders, who were bayoneted in the trenches and beyond the trenches as they ran. Four hundred German prisoners were taken.

One of the places where the French had been most harassed is near the elbow of the western line. The important position there had been taken and retaken frequently during the last three weeks. Every time the Germans had been obliged to abandon the position they returned in greater force and pushed back the French by weight of numbers.

The French took the position for the twelfth time and held it for ten hours. Then came a shock of the human battering ram, and the French gradually gave way. The Germans began fortifying the place, but while they were engaging in this task the earth heaved and a deafening explosion occurred. The ten hours the French had held the point had been sufficient to mine every rod of the ground.

It is estimated that three German battalions were annihilated.

JAPANESE LOSSES LARGE?

Refugees From Tsingtau Say Besiegers Have Suffered Heavily.

PEKIN, China, Oct. 21.—Refugees who have come out of Tsingtau, the fortified position in the German possessions in Shantun province are authority for the statement that up to the time they left the Japanese had lost several thousand men before Tsingtau, while the casualties of the Germans had not amounted to more than several hundred.

Reliable information obtained in Pekin is to the effect that a British detachment sustained a number of casualties while crossing land that had been mined by the Germans in Kiaochau.

Arrivals at the Chinese capital from Siberia say that Russian troop trains are traveling westward over the trans-Siberian Railway hourly.

An uncensored letter received in Pekin from a reliable correspondent within the Japanese lines, dated Oct. 9, says that the Japanese attacked Tsingtau on several nights, but invariably were repulsed. Once, the correspondent says, the Germans followed the Japanese successfully for a short distance.

DUCHESS OF SUTHERLAND WEDS

Nuptials Interrupt Labors of Red Cross Worker and Soldier.

LONDON, Oct. 21. — Millicent, Duchess of Sutherland, who recently went to the war zone as head of the Red Cross Hospital, and Major Percy Desmond Fitzgerald of the 11th Hussars, were quietly married last week at Roehampton. The duchess has returned to her Red Cross work in France.

The Duchess of Sutherland is the fourth daughter of the Earl of Rosslyn. She was married in 1884 to the Duke of Sutherland, who died in 1913. She is deeply interested in social questions.

Major Fitzgerald was born in 1873 and has served in South Africa. He was decorated for distinguished service in Ladysmith and the Transvaal.

GERMAN ARMY SHRINKS.

Only Old Men and Volunteers Remain Says Prisoner's Letter.

PARIS, Oct. 21.—An official communication issued by the War Office last night says:

The following are extracts from a letter found on a German prisoner, dated Dusseldorf, Oct. 4:

"'With us officers and soldiers are becoming rarer. We have no more men than are adequate. Volunteers and men of the landwehr are all we have to-day. If you saw these soldiers you would turn your head. Everybody is being taken. It is Germany's last hope. All the aged men are becoming soldiers. Have you bread? Many complain they have none'."

Killed By Falling Tree.

NORTH BAY, Ont., Oct. 21.— At Field Station, on the C. N. R., Mike Rossa, a Pole, was fatally injured by a falling tree. The unfortunate man not being used to bush life, made a step in the wrong direction and the tree fell directly across his chest. He lived only three hours.

AT-HOME BALL, BANQUET, and Private Invitation Cards—new line—at The Intelligencer Job Dept. See these. Prices right.

Advertise in The Intelligencer

CONSUMPTION AND BRONCHITIS

For the past three years COPELAND'S CURE FOR CONSUMPTION has been steadily winning confidence by its splendid record of results. Consumptives in all stages of this dread disease have been restored to the full vigor of life by the use of this medicine.

HUNDREDS
of testimonials on file at our offices testify to the remarkable results obtained even after noted doctors had given up all hope of recovery.

ARE YOU A SUFFERER?
If so Copeland's Cure for Consumption and Bronchitis will benefit you.

SOLD BY ALL DRUGGISTS
or a trial bottle will be sent prepaid on receipt of the regular price, $1.00.

Copeland Medicine Company, Limited,
Toronto, Ont.
Registered under Proprietory and Patent Medicine Act, No. 2211.

75 VOLUNTEERS Wanted for Second Contingent Canadian Expeditionary Force.
For particulars apply to any officer of the 15th Regiment, or at the Armouries any evening.
W. H. HUDSON, Capt., Adjutant 15th Regt.

15th Regiment

A Provisional School lasting 6 weeks will be started at the Armouries here on Wednesday, the 21st instant, for qualification of Officiers and N. C. O.'s Officers and N. C. O.'s interested will govern themselves accordingly.
By order of the O.C. W. H. Hudson Capt., Adjutant

IN AND ABOUT THE CITY

Condensed News Items For Busy Readers.

DEATH OF MR. ELMEY

The death occurred this afternoon of Mr. Elmey, Lewis street. Further particulars to-morrow.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

Mr. J. C. Lazier, an old Belleville boy, who is now President of the Bank of Gonzales, at Gonzales, Cal., is visiting relatives in the city.

MUSIC AND DRAMA

THE COURTSHIP OF CANADA

The programme of this excellent operatta is now completed, rehearsals have placed the cast of eighty persons in the pink of condition, the City Hall is being appropriately decorated, and Thursday and Friday evenings, the 22nd and 23rd, the date set for one of the most elaborate productions given in our city for some time. The Ladies Aid of the Tabernacle church, under whose auspices the operatta is being produced, have spared no pains to make the event one worthy the patronage of all, and we can assure all who attend a genuine treat. It might be the part of wisdom to buy tickets early, which can be secured at the music store of Mr. Goodsell, Front street. Half the proceeds will be donated to the patriotic fund, the balance going to the church improvements. Remember the dates, Thursday and Friday evenings, Oct. 22 and 23.

JUNIOR Y.M.C.A. NOTES

Great enthusiasm is being shown among the boys at the Y.M.C.A. these days. Yesterday afternoon the gymnasium was crowded with healthy, husky boyhood. It was the occasion of the first athletic event (100 yds, in the monthly awards. 35 boys tried for their respective time in this event. The mercury typed athlete, Ewart Maidens, and Hugh Ferguson the sturdy boy who comes from Brockville, were tied for the time in this event, 14 and two fifth seconds. 75 points is given to the boy who can run it 19 seconds flat, and 5 points for every 5th of a second under that time.

Saturday morning there will be a one length swim as the equatic event. 75 points for 11 seconds, and 5 points for each fifth of a second under that time. 10 points will be given to a boy if he even tries in this event.

War Reveals Waste of Food

Apprehensive over food shortage, the London press is advising the English people to save and utilize every article of food value, including the brawn coating of grain.

Why? The outer coat of grain holds the precious mineral elements which means so much in vital building and upkeep of body, brain and nerves. And yet the modern miller throws out about four-fifths of these priceless food elements just to make the flour look white and pretty!

Isn't it astounding that it took war to wake people up to such a fearful waste!

Nearly twenty years ago the crying need of a food which would fill the lack caused by demineralized white flour products led to the making of —a wonderfully nourishing and appetizing food containing all the nutriment of wheat and barley, including the vital mineral elements, just as nature designed them for our use.

Grape-Nuts

A daily ration of this crisp, wholesome, ready-to-eat food along with other food will soon prove

"There's a Reason" for Grape-Nuts
—sold by Grocers everywhere.

Canadian Postum Cereal Co., Ltd., Windsor, Ont.

CURLING IN BELLEVILLE

Tankard and District Cup Competition to be Played Here—Mr. F. E. O'Flynn Appointed Umpire

The Ontario Curling Association met yesterday in annual session at the Victoria Club Toronto. The officers were re-elected for the ensuing year and arrangements made for the Ontario Tankard and District Cup competitions. Mr. J. A. MacFadden, who is so well and favorably known here, was elected President. Mr. MacFadden donated the beautiful trophy won by the Belleville Ladies' Club in the Provincial competition last year.

Tankard Group No. 2 consists of the following clubs: Belleville, Campbellford, Cobourg, Hastings and Port Hope, and will be played off at Belleville. Umpire, Mr. F. E. O'Flynn.

The district cup competition Group No. 3 (a) comprising Belleville, Campbellford, Cobourg, Colborne, Hastings and Port Hope, will also be played at Belleville. Mr. F. E. O'Flynn, umpire.

The curling club here is a large and enthusiastic one and are eagerly looking for a splendid year of sport. The annual meeting will be held in a few days for the election of officers and making arrangements for the coming season. We congratulate the members of the club and their representative, Mr. F. E. O'Flynn, for his success in bringing these competitions here.

First Social by Sons of England

Enjoyable Evening at Sons of England Lodge Room

Oxford Lodeg Sons of England held their first social of the season last evening. Lodge business was disposed of by nine o'clock, when the lodge entertained Lodge Role of England, Daughters and Maids of England Benevolent Society and Lodge Lydford of the Sons of England. A splendid and lengthy programme was contributed to by members of the various lodges, and much praise was due to the ladies for the splendid talent provided from amongst themselves, which was much appreciated by all present. During the interval refreshments and fruit was provided by the committee, Bros. T. Weymark, R. C. Barlow and J. Simpson, assisted by other members. The proceedings opened with a few appropriate remarks by Bro. R. Parmenter, President of Oxford Lodge, on the opening of the social season, and calling upon Bro. H. A. Lennox to act as chairman for the evening.

The programme was as follows:
Pianists—Mrs. Armitage and Bro. A. Harman.
Song—Bro. J. Savage.
Song—Miss Biggs.
Song—Bro. F. Rolls.
Song—Bro. White.
Piccolo Solo—Bro. Scriven.
Song—Miss McDowell.
Song—Bro. Stanley Robbins.
Song—Mrs. Follwell.
Song—Bro. J. Savage.
Song—Miss Phyllis Lewis.
Song—Bro. F. Rolls.
Song—Miss Jenny Ashmore.
Address by Bro. Dr. Platt, of a stirring and patriotic nature.
Piano solo—Bro. A. Harman.
Piccolo solo—Bro. Scriven.
Song—Miss Biggs.

A few well chosen remarks by Bro. Keys, President of Lydford Lodge, on inter-lodge sociability.

Bro. H. A. Lennox spoke on behalf of the Daughters of England and Bro. R. Parmenter responded on behalf of Lodge Oxford. The proceedings closed about 11.30 by all singing the National Anthem, and all pronounced the evening's entertainment a brilliant success.

THE WEATHER.

Moderate westerly winds, fine and warm.

Thursday, a little cooler, fair until night.

Try Our
DOUGHNUTS
FRIED CAKE
and
ALL KINDS OF PASTRY
Jas. Wallace & Co.

Have Hope and Confidence if you were born in October.

THE OPAL IS YOUR BIRTHSTONE

This stone is unique among stones in the variety of colors.

"When nature had finished painting the flowers, coloring the rainbow and dyeing the plumage of the birds, she swept the colors from her palette and moulded them into Opals.

Our ring stock includes much of this beautiful material in Solitaire settings and combinations with diamonds and pearls.

Angus McFee
Jeweler, Optician.
The Store with the Big Clock.

Wallbridge
&
Clarke's
Delicious
Coffee
Best in Quality
Best in Value

Neilson's
Chocolates
Fresh Supplies
"Aristocratic", "Demonstrator", "Classic", "Empress", "Every Piece Different", "Cream Dipped Brazils", "De Lux," etc, etc.

Wallbridge & Clarke
Established 1871

Clean Your House With Electricity

Just at this time, house sweeping is being given serious thought. Why not clean your house with A VACUUM CLEANER? Cleans thoroughly, quickly, and takes the dirt out, flying.

The Trenton Electric and Water Company
Limited
Oswald H. Scott, Local Mgr.

THE NEW STORE

New Goods Arriving Daily

New Neckwear
New Blouses
New Gloves
New Hosiery
New Corsets
New Unkerskirts.
Health Brand Underwear from 25c to $2.00 each.
New Sweaters from 50c to $7.00 each.

New Linens
Flannels
Blankets
Staples

Serges
Meltons
Cashmeres

Men's and Boys' Underwear, Ties, Shirts, Sox, Braces.

Just placed in stock 100 pairs Blankets, prices from $1.25 to $7.00 pair.

PATRONAGE SOLICITED. SATISFACTION ASSURED.

WIMS & CO.

NEXT DOOR TO GEEN'S. 282 FRONT STREET

Ruptures Cured

By Chiropractic are permanent cures. The truth of this statement can be proven by the success I have had with others.

Dr. B. G. HAHN
Chiropractor
42½ Bridge St. Phone 758

INTELLIGENCER NIGHT LETTER BOX

Our friends will find a letter box in The Intelligencer Front Door for the reception of news items after the office closing hours. The box will be emptied each morning.

BIG ISLAND

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Clement on Sunday were callers at the home of Mr. John Wardner.

Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Vidler visited at the home of Mr. and Mrs. I. Thompson, Demorestville, on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Wager and Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Wardner were on Sunday the guests of Mr. Sidney Fox and wife.

No man is so illiterate that he can teach others something.

Advertise in The Intelligencer

Keep This Date Open

Thursday & Friday Evenings

October 22 and 23 At City Hall

Courtship of Canada

Under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid of the Tabernacle Church.

TICKETS 25c
Reserved Seats 35c

On sale at Goodsell's Music Store.
Half Proceeds in aid of Patriotic fund.

6TH. CON. OF SIDNEY

Mr. and Mrs. George Bell spent Sunday visiting friends in Trenton.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Lott visited at the home of Mr. Ernest Lott of Glenn Ross, recently.

Miss Grace Sine spent her Thanksgiving holidays under the parental roof.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Shorey of Wallbridge were guests at the home of Mr. Morley Scott, on Sunday.

It is rather late in the season for raspberries, but Master Harry Scott picked some one day last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Moon attended the anniversary services at the Stone Church on Sunday.

To Keep Our Workers Busy

For nearly half a century the standard price and the higher character of Gerhard Heintzman Pianos have been rigidly maintained. Nothing would induce us to lower the quality or the reputation that these pianos have earned. But these are strenuous times, and necessitate stern measures.

Profit Sacrificed to Keep Wheels Turning

We are reducing the price of Gerhard Heintzman Pianos to the point where profit vanishes, solely in order that the enormous business that will result will enable us to keep the hundreds of employees in our factories at work. The skilled workmen who build represent an almost unique organization. If work stopped this organization would drift apart; and, aside from the misery and suffering entailed in non-employment, we would be confronted with the enormous task of rebuilding an organization capable of upholding our standards. Rather would we sacrifice all profit now.

GERHARD HEINTZMAN PIANOS

You Reap the Advantage

Never was a better time to purchase a really high-class instrument. Those who found the price of the Gerhard Heintzman Piano the only obstacle to its possession now have that obstacle removed. Buy your Piano now-save money—help hundreds of families.

Gerhard Heintzman, Limited

J. A. Goodsell & Co.,
316-318 FRONT STREET

TENPENNY DICK STATES THE FACTS

By Harold Beghie

I haven't had no chat with Mr. Asquith, and I haven't got the tip from Teddy Grey,
To tell the straight and honest truth, I haven't not a notion what those old chaps have to say;
But if, as man to man, you took and arst me the reason for this up-and-at-'em tiff.
Not employing no official information I could tell you all the facts in 'alf a jiff.

It had to come, old cully,
It had to come, all right;
The German goes on barking
Till someone has to bite;
It's either us or them mate,
This here's the final scrum;
They've pushed and shoved and kicked us
Until it had to come.

There isn't any flesh and blood existing, not from Ireland to the mountains of Japan.
What is more disposed to peace and easy-going, than what I am as a father and a man.
And I'm 'alf inclined to 'old with other thinkers as War is cruel stupid in the main,
But whenever I have knocked against a German, common sense has made me hate him worse than Cain.

It had to come, old cully,
It had to come, all right;

The Kaiser he's a national diraster, he's a danger to the public going large.
And his jack-boot, strutting bullies, they're the limit, you can smell 'em like a high explosive charge;
Ho, their country isn't grand enough to please 'em; ho, they want to run the planet to a wreck;
And the snorters won't be happy till they get it, and they'll get it—now they're arsting—in the neck

It had to come, old cully,
It had to come, all right;

Now, there may be decent-living, gentle Germans, and I'm not the kind to say as there are not,
But the Germans what I read of in the papers, and have run against in Rotherhithe, are hot;
There is something knock-you-down about the beggers, and the way they stick their chests out makes you creak;

It had to come, old cully,
It had to come, all right;

When a lodger in the house where you are living takes to nagging and to shoving you about.
Why, at first you tell him quiet not to do it, and after, if he don't, you chuch him out;
It isn't you that's spoiling for a squarrel, it isn't you that want to show your pluck,
It's the other bloke what can't contain his muscle, and he'll go on being funny till he's stuck

It had to come, old cully,
It had to come, this fight;
The Germans think as no one
Except themselves is right;
They blow their cocky trumpet,
They bang their boasting drum,
And arst and arst for trouble—
By crickey, now it's come!

—London Daily Chronicle.

SIDNEY CROSSING

The Ladies Aid of Aikens church held a very successful pie social at their church on Thanksgiving night. Rev. L. Sharpe, pastor, ably filled the chair, and patriotic addresses were delivered by Mr. R. J. Graham and Mr. Elliott of Belleville, which were much appreciated. Proceeds, $58.75; part of which is for the patriotic fund.

Mr. Jas. Dennyes of Odessa, is the guest of his daughter, Mrs. S. Ketcheson.

Mr. and Mrs. Dyer and daughter of Port Hope, came down in their auto and spent a few days with Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Spafford and other friends.

Mr. and Mrs. P. Casey attended the funeral of the latter's aunt, Miss Cadman, of Belleville, on Saturday. The esteemed lady was much respected by many friends here.

A great many farmers in this section have sold their apples to Phillips & Co. Prices range from 75c. to $1.00 per barrel for choice fruit.

Faith is what a woman thinks she believes because she believes it.

SPECIAL SHOE VALUES FOR MEN

$5.00 Shoes
For $3.48

Come here for Fall Shoes. The weather is cool, and comfort demands them. We are placing on sale for quick clearance

300 Pairs Men's $5.00 Shoes for $3.48

All sizes, and up to the minute in style, including GUN METAL, TAN, and PATENT BUTTONED or BLUCHERS, while they last, all one price,.................. $3.48

ADAMS, The Shoeman
Next Door to Sinclair's
PHONE 495

Weak Women!

Some women are weak because of ills that are common

In Girlhood—Womanhood and Motherhood

The prescription which Dr. R. V. Pierce used most successfully—in diseases of women—which has stood the test of nearly half a century—is

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription

Take this in liquid or tablet form as a tonic.

Mrs. Kale D. Richardson, of Beazley, Essex Co., Va., says, "I esteem it a pleasure to testify to the wonderful curative qualities of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. For some years I suffered greatly with weakness. I was treated by several physicians but gradually grew worse. One of my friends told me of the good results of your "Favorite Prescription." I went to the drug store and got a bottle, and after taking it, with the "Pleasant Pellets," I commenced to get better. I never knew what happiness was, for I was always sick and complaining and made others as well as myself unhappy. So you see what a debt I owe you!"

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets regulate stomach, liver, bowels

Deseronto Notes

High School Field Day a Great Success--Movements of the Townspeople

Dr. and Mrs. Polkinghorn of Peterborough, former residents of Deseronto, were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Bogart last week. They motored form Peterborough, and while here drove to Trenton and Newburgh, Mr. and Mrs. Bogart accompanying them.

Mrs. Samuel Allen is in Toronto visiting her daughter, who is ill.

Mrs. W. S. Pierce was in Napanee on Friday.

Mr. Fred Lloyd of Belleville was in town on Friday. Mrs. Lloyd and Miss Lloyd returned from New York last week.

Mrs. Day of Buffalo is visiting Mrs. W. S. Moore.

Mrs. I. Allum entertained at cards on Tuesday evening in honor of her sister, Mrs. Armstrong of St. Louis, Mo.

Mr. Geo. Richardson was in Kingston on Saturday.

Miss Margaret Mulville of Oswego is visiting her sister, Mrs. Morgan Meagher, Green Street.

Mrs. C. A. Milliner spent a few days in Toronto last week.

Mr. Howard Vandusen returned from Picton this week, where he had been attending the funeral of the late Mr. Williamson.

Messrs. Wannacott of Belleville were week-end guests of Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Groves.

Dr. Hamilton of Athens was a recent visitor in town.

Miss Paulina Roblin of Belleville returned home this week after spending a few days with Mrs. Howard Vandusen.

Miss Gladys Thompson is visiting Miss P. Gimlet of Kingston.

Mr. and Mrs. Robt. Geddes motored as far as Brighton with Toronto friends one day last week.

The ladies's guild of St. Mark's Church are having a tea at the Rectory on Wednesday.

Messrs. Ernest Robinson and John Joyce were in Napanee on Saturday.

The many friends of Mrs. Chamberlain, Mill Street, will be sorry to learn that she is at present in the Kingston Hospital. Mrs. Chamberlain has been in poor health for some time and it was decided that a slight operation was necessary.

Mr. Milo Cole and Miss Olive Cole of Roblin spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Cole.

Mr. William Richardson was in Kingston on Saturday.

Mr. W. S. Pierce was in Kingston on Monday.

Field Day in the High School was observed on Monday afternoon and a goodly number of townspeople were on hand despite the threatening weather. The sports were to have been on Friday, but owing to the rain they were postponed until Monday. The different events were well contested and were greatly enjoyed by the onlookers. The prizes for many of the contests were handsome class pins bearing the inscription "D.H.S., 1914". There was to have been a football match between a Belleville team and our High School boys, but arrangements had to be cancelled at the last moment. However, a match was played between the High School and a town team, resulting in no scores for either side. The High School staff is to be congratulated upon the success of their annual Field Day.

Mr. J. D. Thompson was in Kingston on Monday.

VINOL DID ME A WORLD OF GOOD

Woman Seventy-Five Years Old Exhausted by Effects of Grippe, Restored to Strength by Vinol.

Canton, Miss.—"I am seventy-five years old, and I contracted a severe cold and cough due to a case of LaGrippe, so that I lost my strength and became very weak and feeble. Vinol was recommended to me and after taking it for some time, I can truly say it has done me a world of good. The cold is gone, and my cough is practically cured and it has built up my strength, so I feel active and well again. I think a lot of Vinol, and tell all my friends about what it has done for me."—Mrs. LIZZIE BALDWIN, Canton, Miss.

Old people may regain much of their former strength and vigor by taking Vinol, our delicious cod liver and iron tonic, on which so many elderly people depend for good health. Vinol sharpens the appetite, aids digestion, enriches the blood and in this natural manner creates strength.

The reason Vinol is so efficacious in such cases is because it contains in a delicious concentrated form all the medicinal curative elements of cod liver oil, with tonic, blood building iron added.

Red Cross Drug Store, J. S. McKeown, Proprietor, Belleville, Ont.

Hearing Is Restored To Deaf

Without Mechanical or Artificial Hearing Devices. Deaf hear With Their Own Ears. A Wonderful English Discovery.

Thousands of people suffer from catarrhal deafness or poor hearing, who having tried specialists, advertised treatments, artificial ear drums, ear phones, electric vibrators and various mechanical appliances without success have at last resigned themselves to a "world of silence thinking that nothing can ever restore to them their normal hearing. Yet their case is not hopeless. A remarkable scientific treatment discovered a little more than a year ago in England is making people hear after years of deafness and is also unequalled for quickly stopping the distressing head noises that are so often the companions of defective hearing. This discovery is called Parmint and has attracted wide-where reports of the remarkable results it has given to deaf people have come in by the hundred.

The effect of Parmint it seems is by tonic action to reduce all inflammation, swelling, enlargement or thickening of the organs of hearing and to stimulate the entire auditory tract.

Parmint is now being sold by many leading druggists in Belleville and vicinity and a speedy trial is urged upon all who suffer from catarrhal deafness or headnoises in any degree. Ask the druggist for 1 oz. of Parmint (Double Strength) and take it home and mix with ¼ pint of hot water and 4 oz. of granulated sugar until dissolved. Take one tablespoonful four times a day and you should soon find a remarkable improvement in your hearing.

CHRIST CHURCH RE-OPENING SUPPER

A banquet was held last night in the Parish Hall of Christ Church in connection with the re-opening, under the auspices of the Parish Guild. A very large number sat down to partake of the excellent things that were furnished in great profusion. The room was decorated suitable to a period between Thanksgiving and Hallowe'en with grain, flowers, greens and pumpkins. A large figure sat upon the platform with a pumpkin head illuminated internally with an electric light. Another such figure saluted you as you entered. There was also a ghost dressed in becoming habilaments who, just after supper, delivered a real ghost story from the life of ghostdom and then distributed bouquets in the shape of decorated heads of corn to each performer on the programme, which consisted of songs by Miss Lavoie, Mr. Hector and Mr. Batchelor, and an original recitation by Miss J. Bishop on the Parish Guild and others. Mr. H. Sneyd, John Newton and Col. Ponton were the speakers, all of whom gave interesting and helpful addresses. Mr. Sneyd, after speaking in felicitous terms of the finish of the interior of the church, went on to speak of the place of sacrifice in the present war and the lessons we may learn, illustrating from incidents of the war. Chief Newton, who spoke for the renovation committee, outlined the process leading up to the completion of the renovation and urged the necessity of each one doing his part in connection with it.

Col. Ponton referred in happy language to the beautiful interior of the church and then turned feelingly to the war conditions. He recalled several eventful incidents, the anniversary of which we commemorate in the month of October, first in connection with the South African war and then others more remote, finishing eloquently with a recitation from King Henry V.

Votes of thanks were proposed by Walter Alford and seconded by W. E. Griffith. After singing Rule Britannia and the National Anthem a very enjoyable evening closed.

Our Men'
$4.00 Fall Wieght Shoes

Cannot be Equaled
Heavy Wet Proof Soles
Leather Lined in
Tan, Black and
White Elk Leathers

We expect to offer these great values
$4.00
during this season when price will advance

SEE OUR WINDOW

The J. J. HAINES SHOE HOUSES
Belleville Napanee Trenton Smith's Falls

Special Underwear Sale

Men's, Women's and Children's underwear, reliable and popular makes in Fall and Winter Weights, at special value giving prices.

MEN'S UNDERWEAR.

Two great specials in Nova Scotia unshrinkable wool underwear, all sizes, shirts and drawers. Extra value per garment, 75c. and $1 each.

Blue and red label all wool shirts, reg. $1.25 and $1.50 each. Bargain price .................. $1.00

Natural wool underwear, fine quality wool in all sizes, on sale per garment .................. $1.00

Fall weight undershirts for men, reg. 50c.; sale price ....... 35c.

WOMEN'S UNDERWEAR.

Unusual values in women's underwear, white or natural, high necks, long sleeves, button fronts, 50c. vest and drawers; sale price 25c.

Other great specials on sale, per garment ........ 35c. and 50c.

Women's white vests, 25c. each, on sale .................. 15c.

White woven corset covers, 25c. each. Sale price .......... 15c.

Great values in Women's Turnbull's natural wool vest and drawers, on sale, garment .................. $1.00

CHILDREN'S UNDERWEAR.

Great bargain price on boys' natural wool shirt and drawers, double fronts and backs, fine soft wool on sale, 20 per cent. less than regular prices.

All sizes in Children's underwear on sale, 15c., 25c., and 50c. per garment.

McINTOSH BROS.

Our October Sale
IS NOW IN FULL SWING

The following goods are on sale at SPECIAL PRICES:
Enamelware, Flannelettes, Cottons, Soaps, Brooms, Starches, Hair Brushes, Gas Mantles, Table Oilcloth, Pictures, Stamped Linen Goods, and hundreds of lines of Smallwares.

Be sure and get your share of the good things while they last.

THE BEEHIVE CHAS. N. SULMAN

One of the many New Style Hats for Men, only - $2.00

At G. T. WOODLEY'S
Belleville's only Exclusive Hatter and Furrier.

IF YOU LEAVE IT TO OUR JUDGMENT
we will supply the kind of canned goods you will thoroughly appreciate when you come to eat them. In fact you can do the same with any groceries you may need. You can send your little girl or boy with a list of the things you want and we will select them even more carefully than you would if you came in person.

H. E. FAIRFIELD

ADVERTISE IN THE INTELLIGENCER

Daily Intelligencer.

Printed and published every afternoon except Sundays, for The Intelligencer Printing and Publishing House (Limited), in the City of Belleville, County of Hastings, Province of Ontario, at their offices, No. 287 Front Street.
CHARLES JAMES BOWELL,
Publisher.

RATES OF ADVERTISING.
Measurement, Agate—14 lines to the inch.
Display Advertisements, 10c. per line.
Reading Advertisements, 15c. per line.
Legal Advertisements, 10c. per line first insertion, 5c. per line subsequent insertions.
Preferred position, 20 per cent. advance upon usual contract rates.
Minimum space, 10 lines.
Births, 25c. each insertion. Marriages, 50c. each insertion. Deaths or funeral notices, either singly or combined, $1.00.
Rates for condensed advertisements will be found elsewhere.
Business cards by the year at low rates.
Further information may be obtained at The Intelligencer business office.
Weekly Intelligencer to the United States, $1.50, strictly in advance.

AN INVASION OF ENGLAND

The establishment of the Germans on the Channel coast and their advance toward Dunkirk and Calais make the possibility of an invasion of England the most popular subject of speculation at the moment. Since the time of William the Conqueror England has never been invaded by a foreign foe. All of the wars within the territory of the British Isles have been civil wars, sometimes aided by small expeditionary forces from France, but no Continental army has operated on English soil in 848 years. It has been the belief of the British during this entire period that so long as they maintained a sufficient navy to control the sea no military invasion could be possible. That, rather than mere lust for Empire, has been the basis of the English policy of always having a navy equal to that of any other two powers. It is a policy based on the lessons of experience going back to the very beginnings of history, and almost universally accepted by military authorities. The doctrine that no army can cross the sea without a fleet behind it capable of keeping open its communications and insuring the regular dispatch of supplies has become axiomatic. Accepting this principle as true, an invasion of England by German land forces can become possible only after the German navy has fought and destroyed the British navy.

CURRENT COMMENT

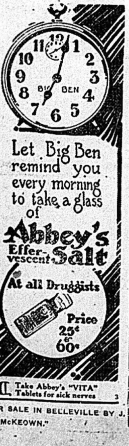
In an editorial in the St. Louis Republic entitled "An Imperial Mystery," the following extracts are of interest: "Whatever the machinery of the British Empire lacks, appears to be supplied by its spirit. The defects of its body are made up for by the unity of its soul." "England has the gift of keeping alive, across tumbling seas, round half the world, the undying bond that unites the heart to home." "She has a fearfully muddled theory of government, but her practice of government lays hold on the deepest things in the soul of man." "The British Empire is unscientific. It is unreasonable. But it is mighty, with the greatness of the soul."

Toronto Globe: "Liberals should understand that the dominant forces in the Conservative organization are determined to have an election. If the Hon. Robert Rogers and Boss Cochrane have their way the Dominion General Election will be held on Nov. 30. Sir Robert Borden's reluctant compliance is anticipated when it is shown that the sinews of war are available." Try again. It was not long since a Liberal paper set the date for November 19th. The next date will be some time in December. It reminds us of a certain religious sect who dated the end of the world at October 18th. The earth still exists, and the calculations are all off. When the Government is ready for an election the country will be informed as to the date.



Big Ben
Let Big Ben remind you every morning to take a glass of Abbey's Effer-vescent Salt
At all Druggists
Price 25¢ & 60¢
Take Abbey's "VITA" Tablets for sick nerves
3

"FOR SALE IN BELLEVILLE BY J. S. McKEOWN."

THE DOW ALES AND PORTERS ARE THE BEST

FOR SALE AT YOUR LEADING LIQUOR STORES

WAR NOTES

Journal of Commerce: "While it is true that Germany and Austria were prepared and were able to put a larger number of men into the field at the outset, in any long drawn out war, they will be completely outnumbered by the Allies. It does not matter in what way the two are compared, the advantage in every case lies with the Allies. They outnumber the enemy in men, in money, in ships, in latent resources, in supply of horses and munitions of war. In addition, they control the seas, which means that the Allies will be supplied with foodstuffs, with raw material to keep their families going, and can carry on business with the rest of the world, while all these advantages are denied the Germans. In brief, there is every reason for encouragement.

London Express: "In this war, as we have said before, it is each for all and all for each. A battle won in Poland is a blow struck in vengeance for the massacres in Belgian villages, and for the freeing of Belgium from the Teutonic hordes. The Russian peasant soldier, tireless, persistent, gallant, is fighting for the same great cause as the Belgian townsman, the French piou-piou and the British soldier and sailor. He is striking lustily and well for European freedom. We rejoice in his victories. We are proud of his valor."

Buffalo Express: "According to a dispatch from Ottawa: "Orders went out from militia headquarters today to the various district centres to proceed at once with recruiting for the new Canadian expeditionary force. Within a year or less it is expected to have 100,000 men under arms." Here is a hint as to how long the authorities expect the war to continue." Until the Kaiser is beaten to a frazzle.

It is said that 100,000 Roumanians have declared for the Triple Entente and the reconquest of Transylvania and Bukowina. A Roumanian invasion of Hungary might be of great help to the Russian army just now.

About the time that the Germans should be putting in their crop next spring, the Russian hordes will be tramping over the fields of Prussia, while the Allies will be performing a similar feat in West Germany on their way to Berlin. If the war should last that long, Germany will face 1915 unable to put in one per cent. of her usual crop.

It's Like a Journey To Other Lands

ILLUSTRATED BIBLES OFFERED BY THE INTELLIGENCER REVEALS GEOGRAPHICAL WONDERS.

Most of us know the boundaries of our own state, or at least our own county, but we little realize the educational value to be gained from an occasional hour devoted to reading of other lands.

Take, for instance, Palestine, which is described as a narrow strip of country at the eastern end of the Mediterranean sea, stretching north and south 140 miles, and from 30 to 40 miles east and west, covering in its entirety an area of only 1,200 square miles. Why, most of our states cover from five to ten times as much space, the state of Texas alone containing more than 20 times the area of Palestine.

Of all the lands of the earth, Palestine is one of the most interesting, for in this small country originated a volume that is familiar to all—the Bible. It has often been a question of wonderment that such a small portion of our earth could be instrumental in producing a work so universally known. And yet small countries have given to the world some of its greatest treasures. Take for instance Greece, England, Italy and Egypt; all of them are small, yet they have been world leaders in some one or another characteristic.

To-day there is not a place on our planet which is more thoroughly studied and known than this 1,200 square miles of Palestine. Even in our own generation, every foot of it has been surveyed. Our geologists have gone through the rocks, botanists have gathered and classified its plants, and zoologists have collected and arranged its animals. Maps have been made that show every mountain, valley, lake and river, as well as cities and villages.

In Palestine are to be found all the rock formations, as well as all of the flora and fauna known to this earth. Between the high altitudes of its mountains with their perpetual snow and tepid waters of the Salt sea, every climate is experienced, in which there is every living thing that is known to the earth. So it has been truthfully said that Palestine is the whole world in a nutshell.

By reading the foregoing, one may get a slight glimpse of the interesting knowledge set forth in the New Illustrated Bible, which is being distributed by the Intelligencer. This magnificent volume contains 600 text illustrations prepared by the world's greatest artist at the enormous cost of $50,000, aside from the numerous full-page plates from the famous Tissot collection. Every picture accurately portrays a scene that throws a new light on the particular subject which it accompanies. Some Bibles lay claim to "illustrations" where they simply have "pictures" inserted at random, without regard to the subjects. These may be said to entitle the volume to the word "illustrated," but it must be admitted that they have no educational value, inasmuch as they have no bearing on particular subjects which they accompany. The New Illustrated Bible which the Intelligencer distributes is the only one that truly illustrates the exact subject related to it in position as well as in name.

THE OPPOSITION PRESS ON MINISTERIAL CHANGES ETC.

The opposition press, led by the Toronto Globe, are indulging in various predictions as to what has been done, and what is in contemplation, and where the editors fail, a supply is furnished by the quid-nuncs who hang around public buildings and the corridors of principal hotels to pick up gossip, which is sent off to the journals they represent as facts. The reading of these editorials and the letters of correspondents from the Capital brings to mind an answer given to an interviewer by the late Sir John A. Macdonald, who when approached by one of this class of correspondents, and asked what was to be done by the Government on an important question then under consideration, replied "I really cannot tell you, I have not see the Globe this morning." So it is to-day, if one is desirous of learning what is to be done in reference to an election turn to the editorial columns of leading Liberal journals, and there will be found predictions of what is in store for the electors. Why the Globe and those who follow its lead should be so fearful of an appeal to the people it is difficult to understand, unless it is fear of being wiped out of existence, by an outraged electorate, which has not forgotten their tactics in the past, and do not look upon their sudden reformation as sincere, hence the Liberal press is daily, in its agony, using every weapon that can be reached, against a dissolution which would place Liberal leaders at the mercy of those who have the power to politically punish them. They plead one day in coaxing vein, expressing the earnest hope that the Government would not do such a thing as dissolve parliament at such a time, pointing to the wild rush to cover which the Laurier blockers made when the Government called Parliament in emergency session. Note the word "emergency," and how they use it now.

Other days these same papers print a yard or two of constitutional argument in a pathetic endeavor to show that the Government really must not go to the country during a war. Presumably it would be all right if the Borden Government had embraced the Laurier doctrine of Canadian neutrality, and then dissolved Parliament. That, in all probability, would have suited the opposition. But the Borden Government, knowing the will of the Canadian people, has placed the unlimited resources of the richest Dominion in the scale, and Canada is taking a proper and a proud part in the great fight for human freedom and for the integrity of the Empire.

The constitutional objection discovered by Laurier and passed on to the organs of the party is as wierdly indefinite as anything that ever came from the same unreliable source. It is as unsafe as a Laurier promise, and everyone knows how unreliable that is. It does not come from the constitution, but from the wholesome fear which agitates the chief separatist. There is nothing in the constitution and nothing in British precedent to prevent the Government from going to the country now, or at any other time. The whole spirit and purpose of the British form of government, the form of Government which we have in this country, is contrary to the theory that at any time and under any circumstances the people are not to be consulted on a great issue which concerns them.

The Liberal expression of belief that the Government will not go to the country now, because it should not, is as shallow as the minds that make it, there being no good reason discoverable why the Government should not ask a further mandate of the people if the situation calls for it. Only in the interests of the men who blocked the Naval Aid Bill, and other important measures which were proposed in the interest of the people. We cannot say that we favor an election at the present time, but if it is, in the wisdom of the Government necessary, let's have it, and the result will not be favorable to those whose record in the past is not forgotten.

Your home merchant will back up our guarantee on this splendid range. Ask to see McClary's Pandora Range and let him demonstrate its many exclusive features to you. A McClary dealer in every town.

"Made in Canada"

Sold by The Smith Hardware Co.

Mrs Newlywed says—
"I can't imagine how you manage to be dressed by the time your husband comes home on a wash day."

Mrs Wise Neighbour says—
"I use an Eddy Globe Washboard and an Eddy Indurated Fibreware Tub, which keeps the water hot for a long time. No fear of rust. But be sure they are Eddy's."

JINGOIZING BUSINESS

Confidence in the made-in-Canada campaign might well afford now and then to break forth into Jingoizing. An old song went the round of the London music halls in 1878 when England and Russia were on the verge of war over the Turkish question. There was a large war party in England composed of both Tories and Liberals and a war poet made a song of which one verse has become famous:

"We don't want to fight, but by Jingo,
if we do,
We've got the ships, we've got the men, we've got the money too."

There is an industrial war party in Canada just now, and it consists of Canadian citizens not from both political parties, but without reference to parties whatever. This Made-in-Canada party is national. Recognizing that in an industrial crisis this country has everything necessary to grapple with conditions, it may be pardoned for indicting this commercial parody on the old Jingo song:

"We know how to fight, and by Jingo,
when we do,
We've got the power, we've got the men, the raw material too."

OAK HILLS

Dr. Ackerill of Belleville, visited Mr. Nathan Eggleton one day last week.

Messrs. W. Fitchett and Geo. Gay shipped a fine load of cattle on Friday last.

A number from here took in the show in Stirling on Thursday night.

Miss Elsie Eggleton and friends from Madoc Junction, attended church in Belleville on Sunday night.

Mr. J. Bronson went to Madoc on Thursday last.

Mrs. Robert Good fell and broke her ankle last week.

VICTORIA

Mrs. E. Brickman is visiting at the Carrying Place for a few days.

Mr. and Mrs. B. White of Sidney, spent Sunday at the home of Mr. Will Bush.

Mr. and Mrs. F. Crouter spent Sunday at the home of Mr. J. F. Weese.

Mrs. Harris of Madoc, is visiting her daughter, Mrs. B. Hencsey, for a few days.

Mr. and Mrs. R. Dempsey, Mr. and Mrs. R. Adams and Mrs. E. Gamble spent Sunday at the home of Mr. F. DeLong.

CLIP $5.00 THIS
ILLUSTRATED BIBLE
EDUCATIONAL
CERTIFICATE
PRESENTED TO YOU BY THE INTELLIGENCER, Oct. 21
HISTORICAL DESCRIPTIVE
ABRAHAM LINCOLN SAID: "NO LIBRARY IS COMPLETE WITHOUT TWO CERTAIN BOOKS—THE BIBLE AND SHAKESPEARE; HARDLY A QUOTATION USED IN LITERATURE THAT IS NOT TAKEN FROM ONE OF THESE WORKS."

The above Certificate with 5 others of consecutive dates
Entitles bearer to this $5.00 Illustrated Bible
If presented at the office of this newspaper, together with the stated amount that covers the necessary EXPENSE items of this great distribution—including clerk hire, cost of packing, checking, express from factory, etc., etc.

MAGNIFICENT ILLUSTRATED $5 Edition of the BIBLE (like illustration in announcements from day to day) is bound in full flexible limp leather, with overlapping covers and title stamped in gold, with numerous full-page plates in color from the world famous Tissot collection, together with six hundred superb pictures graphically illustrating and making plain the verse in the light of modern Biblical knowledge and research. The text conforms to the authorized edition, is self-pronouncing, with copious marginal references, maps and helps; printed on thin bible paper, flat opening at all pages; beautiful, readable type. 6 Consecutive Free Certificates and the $1.18 Amount EXPENSE Items

The $3 ILLUSTRATED BIBLE is exactly the same as the $5 book, except in the style of binding, which is in silk cloth; contains all of the illustrations and maps. 6 consecutive free certificates and the 81c Amount EXPENSE Items

Also an Edition for Catholics
Through an exclusive arrangement, we have been most fortunate in securing the Catholic Bible, Douay Version, endorsed by Cardinal Gibbons and Archbishop (now Cardinal) Farley, as well as by the various Archbishops of the country. The illustrations consist of the full-page plates and maps approved by the Church, without the Tissot and text pictures. It will be distributed in the same bindings as the Protestant books and at the same Amount Expense Items, with the necessary Free Certificates.

Any Book by Mail, 23 Cents Extra for Postage.

UNION BANK OF CANADA

A Strong, Far-reaching Organization

This local office of the Union Bank of Canada is but one of over 310 Branches of an organization whose Total Assets exceed $80,000,000. Our banking service covers Canada, and through our connections we are prepared to transact business in any part of the civilized world.

The confidence of Canadians in this Bank is attested by over Sixty-four Million Dollars of Deposits. Yours would make a wise and welcome addition.

Belleville Branch J. G. MOFFAT, Manager
LONDON, ENG., BRANCH, 51 Threadneedle St., E.C. { F. W. ASHE, - - - Manager, G. M. C. HART SMITH, Assistant Manager

RAILROAD TRANSPORTATION

GRAND TRUNK RAILWAY SYSTEM
TORONTO - CHICAGO
TORONTO - MONTREAL

The International Limited
Canada's Train of Superior Service
Leaves Toronto 4.40 p.m. daily, arrives Detroit 9.55 p.m. and Chicago 8.00 a.m.

MORNING SERVICE
Leaves Toronto 8 a.m., arrives Detroit 1.45 p.m. and Chicago 8.40 p.m. daily.
LAST TRAIN OUT OF TORONTO AT NIGHT
Leaves 11 35 p.m., arrives Detroit 8 a.m. and Chicago 3.00 p.m. daily, assuring important connection with principal trains for Western States and Canada.

FOR MONTREAL
Leaves Toronto 9 a.m., 8.30 p.m., and 11 p.m. daily.
Berth reservations, etc., at G. T. R. ticket offices.
H. C. Thompson, City Passenger and Ticket Agent. Phone 403.
T. H. Coppin, Station Ticket Agent. Phone 3w.

CANADIAN PACIFIC
WINTER TOURS
To The Land of Sunshine and Summer Days.
CALIFORNIA, FLORIDA, LOUISIANA, ETC.
Limited trains leave Toronto daily, making direct connection at Detroit and Buffalo for the Southern States, and at Chicago for California, etc.
Those contemplating a trip of any nature should consult Canadian Pacific Agents, who will be pleased to quote rates, arrange reservations and attend to all details in connection with your trip, or write M. G. Murphy, District Passenger Agent, corner King and Yonge Streets, Toronto.
S. BURROWS, Gen. Agent, Belleville.

CANADIAN GOVERNMENT RAILWAYS
INTERCOLONIAL
PRINCE EDWARD ISLAND RY

2 Through Trains 2
From Bonaventure Union Depot, Montreal.

OCEAN LIMITED
Leaves 7.30 p.m. daily for Quebec, Riviere du Loup, Campbellton, Moncton, St. John, Truro and Halifax. Connections for Glasgow, etc., and the Sydneys (except Saturdays).

Maritime Express
Leaves 8.40 a.m. daily except Saturday, for Quebec, Campbellton, Moncton, Truro, Halifax, St. John. On Saturdays will run Montreal to St. Flavie only.

For further information concerning rates, reservations, etc., apply to local Grank Trunk Railway Ticket or Freight Agent, or to E. Tiffin, General Western Agent, 51 King St. East, (King Edward Hotel Block), Toronto, Ontario.

RAILWAY TIME TABLE

GRAND TRUNK RAILWAY

Time of departure from Belleville station:
Going East.

No. 18—12.30 a.m. Mail train, daily.
No. 16—2.08 a.m. Fast train, Flyer, daily.
No. 32—Local for Brockville, 7 a.m.; arrives back from Brockville, 8.50 p.m.; daily except Sunday.
No. 6—11.10 a.m.—Mail and Express, daily.
No. 14—12.16 p.m. Express, daily.
No. 28—5.45 p.m. Local passenger, daily except Sunday.
No. 30—9.30 p.m.—Local passenger, daily except Sunday.

Going West.
No. 19—2.15 a.m.—Mail and Express, daily.
No. 13—4.35 a.m. Limited Express, daily.
No. 29—7.50 a.m. Local Passenger, daily except Sunday, leaving Toronto 6.00 p.m., arrives in Belleville at 9.25 p.m., arrives in Kingston at 11.05 p.m.
No. 27—11.15 a.m. Passenger, daily except Sunday.
No. 1—1.50 p.m. International Limited, daily.
No. 7—4.55 p.m. Mail and Express, daily.

BELLEVILLE AND PETERBORO'

Going West.

| | Leave. | Ar. Peterboro' |
|---|---|---|
| Mail | 5.20 a.m. | 8.00 a.m. |
| Passenger | 6.00 p.m. | 8.50 p.m. |

Going East.

| | Arrive | Lv. Peterboro' |
|---|---|---|
| Mixed | 10.56 a.m. | 8.20 a.m. |
| Mail | 4.15 p.m. | 1.30 p.m. |

BELLEVILLE AND MADOC.

Going North.

| | Leave | Ar. Madoc |
|---|---|---|
| Mixed | [illegible].11 p.m. | 1.50 p.m. |
| Mixed | 6.30 p.m. | 7.50 p.m. |

Going South.

| | Arrive | Lv. Madoc |
|---|---|---|
| Mixed | 4.50 p.m. | 3.20 p.m. |
| Mixed | 9.15 a.m. | 7.15 a.m. |

None of the above trains run on Sunday.

RAILWAY TIME TABLE

CANADIAN NORTHERN ONTARIO RAILWAY

EFFECTIVE SEPT. 14TH.

For Toronto and intermediate points—6.40 a.m., 5.15 p.m.

Trenton, Wellington, Picton and intermediate points—6.40 a.m., 12.40 noon.

Marmora, Bannockburn and Coe Hill—12.40 noon.

Marmora, Bannockburn, Bancroft and Maynooth, and intermediate stations—6.40 a.m.

Deseronto, Napanee and B. Q. stations—10.35 a.m., 1.00 p.m., 9.40 p.m.

For Kingston, Brockville, Smith's Falls, Ottawa and intermediate stations—1.00 p.m.

Trains arrive from Toronto and intermediate points—1.00 p.m., 9.40 p.m.

From Picton, Wellington, Trenton and intermediate stations—10.35 a.m., 6.05 p.m., 9.40 p.m.

From Napanee, Deseronto and intermediate stations—6.40 a.m., 12.40 p.m., 5.15 p.m.

From Maynooth and intermediate stations—4.22 p.m.

From Coe Hill and intermediate stations—10.35 a.m.

From Tamworth and intermediate stations—5.15 p.m.

From Kingston, Brockville, Smith's Falls, Ottawa and intermediate stations—5.15 p.m.

THE STANDARD BANK OF CANADA
QUARTERLY DIVIDEND NOTICE No. 96.
NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that a Dividend at the rate of Thirteen Per Cent Per Annum upon the Capital Stock of this Bank has been declared for the quarter ending the 31st October, 1914, and that the same will be payable at the Head Office in this City and its Branches on and after Monday, the 2nd day of November, 1914, to shareholders of record of the 23rd of October, 1914.
By order of the Board,
G. P. SCHOLFIELD,
Toronto, 29th September, 1914. General Manager.
JOHN ELLIOTT, Manager, Belleville Branch
Shannonville Branch open Mondays and Thursdays
Foxboro " " Tuesdays and Fridays
Rednersville " " Wednesdays

The Merchants Bank Of Canada
Capital........................$7,000,000
Reserve........................$7,000,000
YOUR SAVINGS ACCOUNT INVITED
Interest added every six months. Small or large amounts deposited. Banking may be done by mail. Drafts on any parts of the world sold or bought.
A General Banking Business conducted.
Belleville Branch H. SNEYD, Manager

The Lapse of Enoch Wentworth

Author of "The Woman from Wolver tons."
Illustrations by Ellsworth Young Copyright, 1914 by F. G. Browne & Co.

"Am I worth the trouble?" he interrupted.

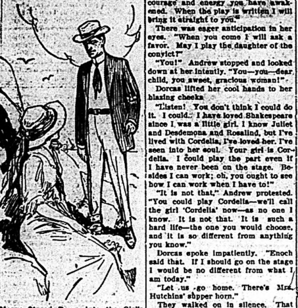
"Worth the trouble! I don't believe you know yourself yet. You have a wonderful imagination and such knowledge of human nature. You could write a great play, many of them possibly. You know men and women. You have laid bare the souls of some of them when you talked with me. After you bring a being into life, think how you could make him live again on the stage!"

Dorcas jumped to her feet. "Andrew Merry, go to work! Show them what you can do, if for nothing else than to please me and prove that I haven't made a mistake."

"Miss Dorcas, sit down."

The girl looked at her companion curiously.

"Let me shake hands on a bargain," he laughed. "That's a foolish little ceremony I used to go through with mother when I was a boy. If I promised faithfully I would do anything, I shook hands on it."



Merry Stared Down Into the Girl's Face.

Dorcas held out her hand cordially. Her clasp was magnetic.

"Sit down again and listen," he begged. "For years and years and years I've had a play crystallizing in my mind. It's all blocked out. Let me tell you about it."

Dorcas sat leaning forward, her face between her hands, her eyes glowing with interest.

"My hero is cashier in a bank, a young fellow of good family, jovial, happy-go-lucky, generous, democratic. He has married the bank president's daughter, who is exactly his opposite—cold blooded, haughty, selfish and fond of luxury. There is a sweet, tender little daughter. The love between the father and the child is beautiful. The man, trusting to luck to see him through, steals for years, covering his defalcations in the cleverest way. He had to get money, for his wife denies herself nothing. The father-in-law discovers the crime, exposes it to his daughter, then drops dead. She gives her husband up to public justice. His trial comes off and he is sentenced to twenty years. The child is told that she is fatherless. The wife takes her father's fortune and goes West. When the second act opens she has divorced the husband and married again. The child is a lovely, true-hearted woman. She is engaged to the young mayor of the city, and preparations are afoot for the wedding, when she receives a letter from the one man who remained loyal to her father—an old janitor at the bank. He tells her the story which had been hidden from her. The father, penniless, broken down, hopeless, is to leave prison in a few weeks. She confronts her mother, who denies the story, but later confesses. The girl breaks her engagement, leaves home, and goes East. The old janitor takes her to live near the prison until her father is released. Every day she watches the convicts at their lockstep tramp and sees her father. The closing of that act, when she meets him leaving prison, can be tremendous in human interest."

He turned to look at Dorcas.

"Go on," she said.

"The last act is laid in a New England village, among simple country people. The girl and her father are living on a little farm. Her lover comes, having searched for her everywhere. She tells him the story. He marries her and takes the father home with them."

Merry paused. The sun had dropped below the horizon and the western sky glowed in red, gold and purple.

"When," cried Dorcas in a flush of enthusiasm, "when will you begin to write?"

"At once, tomorrow. I'll go away somewhere; I can't do it here."

"Go to Enoch," she said. "He will be delighted. He has such faith in you and he loves you. Besides, you'll have his sympathy. Poor Enoch, the one ambition of his life is to be a famous dramatist."

"No?" said Merry incredulously.

"Don't tell him you know it. I discovered it by accident. I was tidying his desk one day. I came on a pile of manuscript. There were dramas, comedies, tragedies, even comic operas. He has been writing that sort of thing for years and years."

"Queer he never told me! What were they like?"

"Don't think me disloyal, but they are awful! Some day, when he gets a great plot, he thinks he will succeed. He won't. It was cruel to tell him so. He's nothing but an expert newspaper man."

"Dear, good, generous old Enoch!"

"You will never tell him—never?"

"I won't," said Merry.

They sat for a few minutes in silence. The flush of the sunset began to fade from the sky. Seagulls wheeled above their heads.

"We must go home," said Andrew. "Crossing these rocks in the dusk would be perilous."

Dorcas rose and followed him, clasping his outstretched hand. When they leaped down from the sea wall to the beach, the girl asked: "This is our last evening here?"

"I imagine so. You go to New Haven next week, don't you?"

Dorcas nodded.

"Think of me working with all the courage and energy you have awakened. When the play is written I will bring it straight to you."

There was eager anticipation in her eyes. "When you come I will ask a favor. May I play the daughter of the convict?"

"You!" Andrew stopped and looked down at her intently. "You—you—dear child, you sweet, gracious woman!"

Dorcas lifted her cool hands to her blazing cheeks.

"Listen! You don't think I could do it. I could. I have loved Shakespeare since I was a little girl. I know Juliet and Desdemona and Rosalind, but I've lived with Cordelia, I've loved her. I've seen into her soul. Your girl is Cordelia. I could play the part even if I have never been on the stage. Besides I can work; oh, you ought to see how I can work when I have to!"

"It is not that," Andrew protested. "You could play Cordelia—we'll call the girl 'Cordelia' now—as no one I know. It is not that. It is such a hard life—the one you would choose, and it is so different from anything you know."

Dorcas spoke impatiently. "Enoch said that. If I should go on the stage I would be no different from what I am today."

"Let us go home. There's Mrs. Hutchins' supper horn."

They walked on in silence. That evening Merry sat for half an hour with an idle pen in his hand. At last he pulled a sheet of paper toward him and wrote in feverish haste:

Dear old Enoch—Send me $100 to the Broadway today, please. Don't ask questions, don't try to find me; I'll turn up when I've finished some work.

Your slave,
MERRY.

CHAPTER IV.

The Play.

Enoch Wentworth sat before a table littered with sheets of manuscript when a knock sounded on the library door.

"In a second!" he cried. Then he tried to gather the pages together in numerical order.

"All right," cried a cheerful voice.

"Lord, it's Merry!" whispered Enoch. He swept the sheets of paper into a drawer of his desk, then he rose and opened the door. Merry stepped into the room with a dancing lighthearted gaiety that Enoch had seen him don with his stage garb. Still it was accompanied by a dignity of manner odd to the comedian, a dignity which had self-respect behind it. Wentworth put an arm about him affectionately.

"Have you come into a fortune, boy?" he asked with a laugh.

"Better than that—I'm on the verge of making a fortune."

"Good!" Enoch pushed him into a comfortable chair and stood looking down at him. "Let's have the news, boy."

"I will," answered Merry slowly. "I've got to—I want your advice and help. I need it as I never needed it in my life before. Only—I'm not going to trot out a word of it until we are sure of a couple of hours clear. I can't stand a solitary interruption—today."

Wentworth shut and locked the door, then he opened a small cupboard.

"What'll you have?" he asked, lifting down a couple of glasses.

"Nothing." Andrew pulled a large envelope from his pocket and sat down beside the fire. Wentworth faced him with an expectant look upon his face.

"You never guessed, I suppose, that I'm an incipient playwright?"

"Never!" Enoch's tone was emphatic.

"Well," Merry laughed hilariously, "well, I am, I'm the coming dramatist."

"I take off my hat to you, boy." Enoch swept him a pantomime bow.

"Wait a minute." The comedian's face grew unusually resolute. "Wait, old man, you've got to take this seriously, or I won't tell you a blessed word about it."

Merry rose and laid his hand on Enoch's shoulder with an imploring gesture. "Dear old man, I want your help and guidance. I'm such a blamed unbusiness-like chump. If you hadn't been head and right hand and mother, father and brother to me for years, as well as the truest friend a man ever had, I'd have been in the gutter. Enoch," Merry's face flushed, "if I win out, it means more to me than fame or wealth—it means the happiness of a lifetime."

"Andrew! A woman at last."

The actor nodded gravely. "Yes, a woman at last."

"Not Drusilla?"

"Oh, curb your curiosity," he laughed lightly; "you can't have everything at once. Now I'm going to read."

Wentworth lit a cigar, leaned back in a leather chair, and turned his eyes

(To be Continued)

The Intelligencer's Free Bible

CERTIFICATES

printed on another page, clipped on consecutive days, together with the stated amount that covers the necessary EXPENSE items of this wonderful distribution, including clerk hire, cost of packing, checking, express from factory, etc., entitles you to your choice of the beautiful books described below. This is not a Bible with meaningless pictures. The illustrations serve a distinct purpose. They enrich the text, but they do more — they intelligently explain it, so that many a hitherto obscure passage assumes to thousands a new meaning through these eye-teaching pictures.

The Grand Triumph of Artistic Perfection Is This Magnificent $5.00 Bible

More than 100 of the world's greatest artists working under the advice of archaeologists and historians of wide renown, have contributed the choicest products of their skill and genius to produce this grand triumph of artistic beauty in historical detail. These pictures are not mere reproductions of mediaeval frescoes and more or less familiar modern photographs, inserted at random; they have been specially made, in the light of Twentieth Century Knowledge, to illustrate selected texts in accordance with the matured beliefs of the greatest living theologians.

Present Six Certificates To The INTELLIGENCER and Take Your Choice

One need not be a member of a religious organization to appreciate this magnificently illustrated work. Every one who reads needs it; everybody that has occasion to carry on a conversation needs it; everybody can use it as an everyday reference book — a historical treatise, a key to familiar quotations. It is an educational volume for progressive people of TO-DAY.

The $5 Illustrated Volume, Limp Leather Binding, with Overlapping Covers.

GREAT EDUCATIONAL CAMPAIGN

As an EDUCATIONAL work alone, the Bible demands a place in every home — and this new ILLUSTRATED BIBLE enhances the value 100 per cent. for purposes of LEARNING. It portrays ACTUAL SCENES in a way that permanently impress the reader with the FACTS of HISTORY. There is actual need of a hand Bible (or "handy" Bible) in every home. The old family Bible fulfils its purpose, but is unwieldy even for occasional reference, and where is the man, woman or child that cannot gain KNOWLEDGE from this book?

Nothing will interest a child so quickly as a picture. Pictures speak a universal language, intelligible to young and old alike, and with no embarrassments of moods and tenses.

Magnificent Illustrated $5 Edition of the Bible (like illustration) is bound in full flexible limp leather, with overlapping covers and title stamped in gold, with numerous full-page plates in color from the world-famous Tissot collection, together with six hundred superb pictures graphically illustrating and making plain the verse in the light of modern Biblical knowledge and research. The text conforms to the authorized edition, is self-pronouncing, with copious marginal references, maps and helps; printed on thin Bible paper, flat opening at all pages; beautiful, readable type. Six Consecutive Free Certificates and the $1.18 Amount Expense Items

The $3 Illustrated BIBLE is exactly the same as the $5.00 book except—in the style of binding, which is in silk cloth; contains all of the illustrations and maps. Six consecutive free certificates and the 81c Amount Expense Items

ALSO AN EDITION FOR CATHOLICS

Through an exclusive arrangement we have been most fortunate in securing the Catholic Bible, Douay Version, endorsed by Cardinal Gibbons and Archbishop (now Cardinal) Farley, as well as by the various Archbishops of the country. The illustrations consist of the full-page plates and maps approved by the Church, without the Tissot and text pictures. It will be distributed in the same bindings as the Protestant books and at the same Amount Expense Items, with the necessary Free Certificates.

FOR MAIL ORDERS SEE COUPON.

Accurate Pictures appeal to the intellect through the "windows of the soul," whose portals let in a flood of light alike to the illiterate and the learned—to the child mind no less than to the man or woman of ripe learning.

Grand Trunk News Items

Prince Rupert has this month begun to supply the East with real fish. Halibut from the waters of the Pacific Ocean will soon be featured on the menus of discerning chefs in Canadian and United States cities, for the fishmongers declare that in quality and condition the shipments of Pacific Coast fish just received have reached a very high standard.

The supply has been made possible by the completion of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway. In special refrigerator cars the Canadian Express Company has during the last fows days delivered 60,000 lbs. of fresh Halibut to Eastern dealers. This is the first regular fish shipment from Prince Rupert these will be continued all the year round. Each car carried 100 boxes, each box containing 200 lbs. of Halibut. On the sides of the car were large painted signs telling the story of Prince Rupert's wonderful fishing industry.

The waters in the vicinity of the Western terminal of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway have been declared by experts to be rich beyond any in the world in their wealth of fine fish. Millions of pounds of Halibut, cod and other staples have been taken there for some years past. Most of this has been smoked and dried. With rapid railway communication now at hand, however, local consumers will be able to obtain the halibut in the fresh state. Housewives who buy snow white slices from their market men, and patrons of the clubs and restaurants who order this satisfying fish from the bill of fare will be difficult to convince that it was caught in the Pacific Ocean half way between Puget Sound and Alaska and shipped by Canadian Express 3,600 miles in refrigerator cars. Carefully packed in ice the fish is in excellent condition when it reaches here, for the Halibut is being delivered in Chicago within four of it being caught, and at Montreal, Boston and New York and other distant points in five days.

The fishing industry at Prince Rupert, under this new stimulus, is develing rapidly and providing work for hundreds of men and an investment for large amounts of capital, the Canadian Fish and Cold Storage Company having the most modern plant procurable for the rapid handling of the fresh fish.

THE AFTER-DINNER STORY TELLER.

Many of the best stories and anecdotes that you hear repeated by ministers and other public speakers come from The Youth's Companion.

A young man who wishes to make his conversation entertaining or to increase the effectiveness of an argument, can do no better than to study these witty and apt stories in The Companion.

Another feature of value is the doctor's weekly talk on getting well and keeping so. His advice is sound and practical. He suggests remedies for minor ills, describes the symptoms of others and urges the importance of consulting a physician whenever the indications are obscure or disquieting. He recommends certain things to be done in cases of accident before the doctor arrives.

These are just two particulars in which The Companion excels and they are by no means the only ones. If you do not know The Companion, let us send you one or two current issues, with the Forecast for 1915.

Every new subscriber in Canada who sends $2.25 for the fifty-two weekly issues of 1915 will receive free all the issues of the paper for the remaining weeks of 1914; also the Companion Home Calender for 1915.

THE YOUTH'S COMPANION
144 Berkeley Street, Boston, Mass.
New Subscriptions Received at this office.

Advertise in the Intelligencer.

TURNER SETTLEMENT

The Chatterton Women's Institute met on October 8, at the home of Mrs. George Hamilton, the principal feature being a bun contest. Miss Beatrice Griffin secured first prize; Miss Boardman, second, and Mrs. Nathan Reid, third. A most gratifying sum was reported to have been raised in the interests of the Red Cross work.

Mr. A. E. Richmond of McMaster University, Toronto, has taken up the work at Sidney Baptist church, in succession to Mr. A. H. Richardson, who has returned to college.

Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Fairman, of Trenton, were visitors at Mr. W. E. Griffin's during Thanksgiving.

MARRIAGE LICENSES

Marriage Licenses issued by R. Harrison at The Intelligencer Office, or at residence, Lewis Street.

NO ALUM MAGIC READ LABEL BAKING POWDER

TELEGRAPH BRIEFS.

Five vessels at Seattle are loading about 10,000 tons of wheat for Great Britain. The American bark, Edward S. Sewell, cleared yesterday.

In view of the situation resulting from the war King Victor Emmanuel has signed a decree reducing Italy's import duties on cereals during the period from Oct. 20 to March 31, 1915.

Cecil Burtch, aged seven, son of Burton Burtch, Seeley's Bay, near Kingston, was killed by the accidental discharge of a shotgun. He received the entire charge in his face and chest.

The number of prisoners of war at Fort Henry has now reached 260. One German started a small sized riot when he tried to line for dinner a second time, but the cook was able to handle him.

Brockville's new theatre was partially swept by fire which broke out in the basement and enveloped the dressing-rooms and stage, with a loss of $10,000. An asbestos curtain saved the auditorium.

The negotiations between the Canadian and British Governments in reference to the prohibition of the exportation of raw wool from the United Kingdom have resulted in a satisfactory arrangement.

A privileged character at the provincial asylum, Elijah Hamilton, was found dead on the property of W. J. Lord on the top of Hamilton's mountain Sunday. The unfortunate man had hanged himself to a tree.

OUTMANOEUVRES GERMANS.

Sultan of Turkey Gives Enver Pasha a Political Slap In the Face.

LONDON, Oct. 20.—A despatch to Reuter's Telegram Co. from Petrograd says that the Constantinople correspondent of The Bourse Gazette is authority for the statement that at a family council the Sultan of Turkey, in order to combat the dictatorship of Enver Pasha, Minister of War, and German influence, unexpectedly proclaimed the heir-presumptive to the Turkish throne, Yussof Izzedin, Generalissimo of the army and navy.

Prince Yussof Izzedin is the eldest son of the late Sultan Abdul Aziz.

Japs Destroy Torpedo Boat.

TOKIO, Oct. 21.—Tokio officially announced that the German torpedo boat S90, after escaping under cover of darkness from the Tsingtau, ran ashore at a point south of Kiao-Chow Bay and was destroyed by the Japanese blockading squadron. It was the S90, according to a message from Tsingtau, which sunk the Japanese cruiser Takachiho.

To Train In London.

LONDON, Ont., Oct. 20. — In accordance with instructions received from Ottawa yesterday, the organization of a full regiment of infantry, 1,015 men, with reinforcements of 10 per cent., will be proceeded with immediately in the first military division. This city will be headquarters and training ground for Western Ontario, pending departure over seas.

Germans Still Employed.

KINGSTON, Ont., Oct. 21. — As they are experts at this certain kind of work Germans employed at the locomotive works here for years, are now engaged in the manufacture of shrapnel. Considerable complaint is made by Canadians about Germans being given preference in this work.

Austrian Losses.

ROME, Oct. 21. — Austrian losses in action against Russia, Servia and Montenegro up to Oct. 6 are estimated approximately at: Officers, 435 killed and 1,539 wounded; men, 4,334 killed and 23,272 wounded; total killed, 4,769; wounded, 24,811. Only eight officers and 132 men, it is stated, are missing, and the numbers who have been taken prisoners are not given.

These figures are official, but are declared to be approximate. They are regarded as underestimated.

Jibutil Under Fire.

ROME, Oct. 21.—The port of Jibutil, in British Somaliland, has been under fire from a German cruiser, causing considerable damage to the terminal buildings of the Addis Abebe Railway. Jibutil is located near the entrance to the Red Sea, opposite Aden.

Nothing Doing.

There was a sea captain named Haun
On the warship with crew of brawn.
It was his proud boast
The enemy to roast.
But when he got there they were gone!
—Spokane Spokesman-Review.

His Proceedings.

"A pickpocket in the park caught a couple of spoons the other night."

"What did be do to them?"

"Told them he would knife them unless they would fork over."—Baltimore American.

A BACKACHE

—with burning, highly colored urine—are sure signs of weak or inflammed Kidneys. Gin Pills cure all Kidney and Bladder Trouble. 50c. a box, 6 for $2.50. —at all dealers. 208

GIN PILLS
FOR THE KIDNEYS

BUILDINGS BLOWN UP BOMB DESTROYS TENEMENTS

One Body Is In the Morgue and Another Is Thought To Be In Ruins, While a Dozen Inmates of House Are Injured as the Result of Plot to Destroy Tenements Largely Occupied by Russian Families.

MONTREAL, Oct. 21. — Two men who are believed to have blown up a block of nine tenements and three stores in Frontenac street, about six o'clock last night with a bomb, met death in the ruins of the explosion, in which a dozen others were injured, according to the information that Inspector McLaughlan gathered last night in an investigation that he started at the Frontenac street police station, following the explosion.

The body of one of the men believed to have thrown the bomb is thought to be in the ruins, while that of the other is in the morgue.

Paul Belanger and Joseph Lefreniere, who say they were passing up Frontenac street at the time of the explosion, told Inspector McLaughlin that they had seen two men who looked like foreigners, carry a big, round, black object, into one of the doorways of the block of tenements in which the explosion occurred. The moment they deposited it on the stairway there was a loud explosion, and the entire block appeared to rise from the ground. They both said that one of the men they had seen carry the object into the doorway was hurled back on the sidewalk, but the other man did not appear and must have been buried in the ruins.

The two young men were detained as witnesses for the coroner's inquest that will be held.

The explosion occurred while the majority of nine families and their boarders, who occupied the premises, mostly Russians, were at supper. The interior of the building was wrecked from cellar to roof, and how anyone who was inside escaped is a miracle. The explosion not only shattered the block of nine tenements, but it smashed the windows in houses on both sides of the street for some distance.

So far as the police were able to learn last night from the Russians who occupied the tenements in the buildings, none of those who resided in the building were missing.

The police were of the opinion that if there was a body in the ruins it was that of one of the men who are said to have deposited what was evidently a bomb in one of the hallways of the building.

Many of the occupants of the tenements of the house were blown through the windows by the force of the explosion.

So far as can be learned there are two men dead, two women supposed to be dying, one man in a critical condition, four men in hospitals with good chance of recovery, four known persons whose injuries were not severe and probably half a dozen persons more or less injured who were not taken to any hospital.

Late last night the police came to the conclusion that only one body was in the ruins, that of the unidentified second boom-thrower, hence the search for bodies was discontinued.

The dead man in the morgue is thought to have been an Austrian, and meant to have caused the death of the occupants of the building because they were Russians. There are Austrians and Germans living in the vicinity of Frontenac and Ontario streets, where the explosion took place.

VON KLUK BLUFFING.

Every One of His Desperate Rushes Is To Cover a Retreat.

LONDON, Oct. 21. — The Daily Telegraph publishes the following from W. T. Massey, its correspondent in Northern France.

The British army is going ahead steadily, persistently, and irresistibly. Nothing can stop it. Gen. Von Kluk's pretence of getting to the sea is shattered, and probably he would want half a million men to reinforce him before he made another attempt. He is still trying a make-believe game, and wishes the allies to understand his objective is one, or may be two, French seaports, but all the time he is making his attacks, and they end in strategic movements to the rear.

News from the districts which are extremely important supplements what has been told in the official communiques. It is consistently good. Some of our lines are just where they were Monday. They could have been pushed farther east and northeast, but there were sufficient reasons why they should remain stationary.

Germans Admit Terrible Losses.

ROTTERDAM, Oct. 21.—The latest lists of casualties published in the German papers clearly indicate that the claims of the British and French troops to have wiped out whole battalions are absolutely true. Reserve infantry regiment No. 77 lost in one battalion 800 men wounded, apart from the dead, and in another battalion of the same regiment 740 were killed at the battle of the Marne.

Reserve infantry regiment No. 89 is said to have had unassessable loss, and such words as "innumerable losses" and "tremendous number of dead and wounded" follow the names of several regiments.

Society Influences Roumania.

PETROGRAD, Oct. 21.—The Ministry of the Interior says it has received information to the effect that a secret society exists in Roumania which is controlled by Germany and the purpose of which is to influence public opinion through the press. The society is said to have a capital of $4,400,000.

Berlin Fears Portuguese.

LONDON, Oct. 21.—The following despatch was received here last night from Berlin by the Marconi Wireless Telegraph Co.:

"On Sept. 12 Portuguese left for Angola and Mozambique, Portuguese possessions in West and East Africa respectively. Each of these forces consisted of one battalion of infantry, one squadron of cavalry, one battery of mounted artillery, one battery of machine guns and an ambulance staff. Each force aggregated approximately 16,000 men. Two native companies, each of 240 men, have left Mozambique for Angola."

Maritz Revolt Peters Out.

LONDON, Oct. 21—In South Africa the rebellion of Col. Maritz has been virtually broken up. Another lot of officers and men have been captured, while others have surrendered voluntarily to the African authorities.

Maritz himself is having trouble with his German allies who are not pleased with his inaction.

MARKET REPORTS

CHICAGO, Oct. 20.—Enlarged offerings from first hands gave the wheat market today a downward turn. Prices closed weak, ½c to 1⅛c off. Corn lost ⅜c to ⅝c net and oats ⅛c to ⅜c. There was an irregular finish in provisions ranging from 10c decline to an advance of 12½c. After ten days of almost continuous climb, the wheat seemed to many dealers to be in a position where any bearish developments would have unusual weight. In this connection signs that the continued bulge in prices had induced rural holders in the northwest to accept bids more freely proved sufficient reason to cause extensive profit-taking here on the part of recent buyers. Notwithstanding that considerable rallying power was shown, especially after the first break in prices the market closed at the lowest point of the day.

TORONTO GRAIN MARKET.

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| Wheat, fall, bushel..... | $1 15 to | $.... |
| Goose wheat, bushel.... | 1 10 | .... |
| Barley, bushel ......... | 0 67 | 0 68 |
| Peas, bushel ........... | 1 25 | .... |
| Oats, bushel ........... | 0 54 | 0 55 |
| Rye, bushel ............ | 0 85 | .... |
| Buckwheat, bushel ..... | 0 75 | .... |

TORONTO DAIRY MARKET.

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| Butter, creamery, lb sq.. | 0 29 | 0 31 |
| Butter, creamery, solids.. | 0 28 | 0 29 |
| Butter, separator, dairy.. | 0 27 | 0 28 |
| Cheese, new, lb............ | 0 16 | .... |
| Eggs, new-laid ............ | 0 27 | 0 28 |
| Honey, new, lb............ | 0 11 | 0 12 |
| Honey, combs, dozen.... | 2 50 | 3 00 |

GRAIN AND PRODUCE.

TORONTO, Oct. 20.—Quotations on the Board of Trade are as follows:

Manitoba wheat—Lake ports, old crop, No. 1 northern, $1.21½; No. 2 northern, $1.19; new crop, No. 1 northern, $1.16; No. 2 northern, $1.14½.

Manitoba oats—Bay ports, old crop, No. 2 C.W., 62c; No. 3 C.W., 61c; new crop, No. 2 C.W., 57½c; No. 3 C.W., 54½c.

Ontario wheat—Car lots, $1.05 to $1.06, outside, according to freights.

American corn—Fresh shelled, No. 2 yellow, 81c to 82c, Toronto; Canadian corn, 82c, Toronto.

Ontario oats—New, outside, 44c to 46c.

Peas—No. 2, $1.20 to $1.25, car lots, outside, nominal.

Rye—No. 2, 82c to 83c, outside.

Barley—Good malting barley, outside, 65c to 67c; Manitoba barley, 61c to 63c, lake ports.

Rolled oats—Per bag of 90 lbs., $2.85 to $3; in smaller lots, $2.15 to $3.25; per barrel, $5.70, wholesale, Windsor to Montreal.

Buckwheat—66c to 65c.

Millfeed—Car lots, per ton, bran, $22 to $24; shorts, $25 to $26; middlings, $27 to $28; good feed flour, $32 to $34.

WINNIPEG GRAIN MARKET.

WINNIPEG, Oct. 20.—Wheat—Prices opened unchanged to ½c higher; oats unchanged and flax unchanged to ½c lower. Considerable wheat was sold for export. Oats and barley were also in good demand.

Inspections were 633 cars, as against 1412 last year, and in sight were 275 cars.

Cash—Wheat—No. 1 northern, $1.15½; No. 2 do., $1.11½; No. 3 do., $1.06½; No. 4, $1.00½; No. 5, 96½c; No. 6, 91½c; feed, 87c.

Oats—No. 2 C.W., 50½c; extra No. 1 feed, 50½c; No. 1 feed, 49½c; No. 2 feed, 48c.

Barley—No. 4, 61½c; rejected, 59c; feed, 57½c.

Flax—No. 1 N.W.C., $1.13½; No. 2 C. W., $1.10½.

MINNEAPOLIS GRAIN MARKET.

MINNEAPOLIS, Oct. 20.—Wheat—No. 1 hard, $1.14½; No. 1 northern, $1.11½ to $1.13½; No. 2 do., $1.08½ to $1.11½; December, $1.11½.

Corn—No. 3 yellow, 71c to 72c.

Oats—No. 3 white, 45½ to 45½c.

Flour — Fancy patents, $5.75; first clears, $4.65; second clears, $3.15.

Bran—Unchanged.

DULUTH GRAIN MARKET.

DULUTH, Oct. 20.—Wheat—No. 1 hard, $1.15¾; No. 1 northern, $1.14½; No. 2 do., $1.11½; December, $1.13½.

CHEESE MARKETS.

STIRLING, Ont., Oct. 20.—At today's cheese board 410 boxes were boarded. All sold at 15⅛c.

CAMPBELLFORD, Ont., Oct. 20.—At the cheese board held here today 480 white and 30 colored were offered. All sold at 15 3-16c.

CATTLE MARKETS

UNION STOCK YARDS.

TORONTO, Oct. 20.—Receipts of live stock at the Union Yards were 540 cattle, 1412 hogs, 1335 sheep and lambs and 115 calves.

Stockers and Feeders.

Choice steers, 950 to 1000 lbs., $6.75 to $7; good steers, $6.25 to $6.50; medium steers, $5.75 to $6; good stockers, $5.25 to $5.75; common eastern stockers, $4 to $5.

Milkers and Springers.

The demand for milkers and springers of good and choice quality was greater than the supply. Prices ranged from $65 to $115, two selling at the latter price, and two more at $110, and two more at $100 each.

Veal Calves.

Choice calves sold at $10 to $10.50; good calves, $8.50 to $9.50; medium, $7.50 to $8.25; common calves, $6 to $7; inferior, rough eastern grass calves, $4.50 to $5.75.

Sheep and Lambs.

The sheep and lamb market was steady to 10c lower taken altogether. Sheep, $5 to $6 for light ewes, and $3 to $4 for heavy ewes; culls and rams, $2.50 to $4.50; lambs, $7.50 to $7.90; those selling at the latter price were the black faces, which were as a rule nice tidy killers; cull lambs sold at $6 to $6.50.

Hogs.

Selects, fed and watered, $7.85; and $8.10 weighed off cars, and $7.50 f.o.b. cars.

EAST BUFFALO LIVE STOCK.

EAST BUFFALO, Oct. 20.—Cattle—Receipts, 700 head; steady; prices unchanged.

Veals—Receipts, 50 head; slow; $5 to $11.50.

Hogs—Receipts, 4500 head; active; heavy and mixed, $7.85 to $7.90; yorkers, $7.50 to $7.85; pigs, $7.25 to $7.35; roughs, $6.75 to $6.85; stags, $6 to $6.50.

Sheep and lambs—Receipts, 1600 head; slow, unchanged.

Will Lose Russian Titles.

LONDON, Oct. 20.—The Petrograd correspondent of Reuter's Telegram Co. says that Emperor Nicholas has ordered that German and Austrian subjects who have been granted the honorary rank of councillor of commerce be deprived of the title.

SINCLAIR'S

Pen-Angle Hosiery

We have just placed in stock a complete range of Pen-Angle Ladies' Cashmere Stockings, the only stocking that is Knit to Fit without a seam and made with Shaped Foot and Narrowed Ankle—the best Cashmere Stocking made and sold in Canada at 35c, 45c, 50c, 65c, and 75c a pair.

39-inch Black Dress Silk, $1.15

This week we have on sale about 400 yards of 39-inch Black Pailette Dress Silk and we would like you to pass judgment on this silk. We think it is the best value to be had in a good Black Dress Silk, but we want your opinion of it—39 inches wide and only $1.15 yd.

Corset Comfort
Becomes second nature to wearers of à la Grâce
Corsets
Come in and look them over; also be sure to see our new style Ready-to-Wear Garments.

These Corsets Sell from 75c to $5.50

SINCLAIR'S

New Wash Silk Waists at $4.00.

Here is a Ladies' Tailored Silk Waist that will interest you. These waists are made of a Heavy Jap Wash Silk in black and ivory, in very smart Tailored Style and are certainly the best value we have ever shown, in all sizes 32 to 42 bust measure.

Price $4.00

Extra Large Coats

we show several styles specially designed for Large Figures in Ladies' Black Curl, Zibeline Cloths, Serges and Kersey Cloths. These coats are sized up to 48 bust measure and sell from

$12.50 to $22.50 each

HAVE YOU JOINED THE "GYM" CLASS IN THE Y. M. C. A.?

If you have you will require a Bathing Suit and also a Gymnasium Suit. For both of these we show Navy Lustres, Navy Wool Serges and Navy Viyella Flannels to sell at 25c., 35c., 40c., 50c. and 60c. per yard.

Sinclair's ASK TO SEE GOLFINE VELVET COAT CORDS AT $1.00 YARD. Sinclair's

PERRIN'S
ARROWROOT BISCUIT

Arrowroot Biscuits are a severe test of the baker's skill —it is easy for you to see from their delicious flavor and golden brown crispness how well we succeed.

The kiddies and even the babies may have as many as they want—nothing is better for them.

Every Package Guaranteed. At your grocer's.

Send for the Perrin "Sampler" Package. It contains so many delicious surprises that you will be sure to consider it worth the 10c. (coin or stamps) that covers the cost of mailing it. Mention your grocer's name.

D. S. PERRIN & COMPANY LIMITED
London, Canada
21

PERRIN'S
ARROWROOT
LONDON

Stops Headache

Mr. E. F. Tomkins, Ex-Mayor of Coaticook says so.
"Your tablets are a safe and effective remedy for headache."

Mr Geo. Legge, Editor of Granby Leader Mail says so.
"Your Zutoo tablets deserve to be widely known as a cure that will cure."

Major A. C. Hanson, B.A., B.C.L. says so.
"I use Zutoo tablets and find them a very satisfactory cure for headache."

So says every mother's son who has tried

Zutoo

BELLEVILLE BUSINESS DIRECTORY

The Professional Fraternity of our city will find an advertisement under this head an exceptionally advantageous investment, the returns hitherto obtained making the extremely moderate rates but normal. By consulting our price list in another column, or calling at The Intelligencer business office, full information may be obtained.

LEGAL.

WILLS & WRIGHT
Barristers, Solicitors, Notaries Public, etc. Office: 15 Campbell Street, Belleville. Money to loan at lowest rates.
J. FRANKLIN WILLS, K.C.
MALCOLM WRIGHT.

NORTHRUP & PONTON
Barristers, Solicitors, Notaries Public, Commissioners. Offices: North Bridge Street. Solicitors for the Merchants Bank of Canada and the Bank of Montreal. Money to loan on mortgage.
W. B. NORTHRUP, K.C., M.P.
W. N. PONTON, K.C.
R. D. PONTON.

CLUTE & SHOREY
Barristers, Solicitors, Notaries, etc. Office: North side of Campbell Street, Belleville. Solicitors for the Dominion Bank. Money to loan on mortgages on easy terms.
A. X. CLUTE, LL.B.
W. D. M. SHOREY.

PORTER & CARNEW
Barristers and Notaries Public, etc. Office: Robertson Block, East Front St., Belleville, Ont.
E. GUSS PORTER, K.C., M.P.
WM. CARNEW.
Solicitors for Union Bank.

W. C. MIKEL, B.C.L., K.C.
Barristers, &c., 28 Bridge St., over G.N.W. Telegraph office.
Solicitor for Molsons Bank.
Phone 77.

W. D. M. SHOREY
Barrister, Solicitor, etc. Solicitor for the Dominion Bank and the Township of Ameliasburg.
Money to loan on mortgages on easy terms.
Office 8 Campbell Street, Belleville.

MUSICAL.

Mrs. Wilmot
VOCAL INSTRUCTOR
Tone Production a speciality. Pupils conscientiously trained for Concert Work and Church Positions. Voices tested free of charge.
"THE STUDIO," BRIDGE ST.
S16,dtf

HIGGS Miss Joy. Violin Instruction.
Terms Moderate
"THE STUDIO," Bridge

WHEATLEY Professor, Piano, Theory, Vocal.
Modern Methods. Best Results
THE "STUDIO." Tel. 546

INSURANCE.

Liverpool & London & Globe Ins. Co.; North British & Mercantile Ins. Co.; Sun Fire; Waterloo Mutual; Lloyd's Plate Glass; Dominion of Canada Guarantee and Accident Insurance Co., and other companies.
Farm and City property insured in first class and reliable companies and at lowest current rates. Land valuator and agent for selling, purchasing, or renting property. Rents collected.
W. H. HUDSON
Office: No. 17 Campbell St. Belleville. Phone 161.

FARM INSURANCE
I have made arrangements with English Companies to insure Farm Dwellings and Barns and contents at from 75c. to $1.00 per $100.
Call and see me before renewing your insurance.
CHANCEY ASHLEY
Opposite Post Office. Belleville, Ont.

THOS. STEWART
Bridge Street, Belleville.
Fire, Accident and Plate Glass Insurance effected in the oldest and most reliable companies.
REAL ESTATE AGENT.
Stocks and bonds bought and sold.

R. H. KETCHESON
Agent for
Queen Fire Insurance Co.; York Fire Insurance Co.; Inter-State Live Stock Insurance.
Canadian Railway Accident Insurance Co.

ROBERT BOGLE
MERCANTILE AGENCY.
Insurance, Real Estate, Loans Negotiated, Accountant, Auditor, Estates Managed. Office: 28 Bridge Street.

LAUNDRY.

QUINTE LAUNDRY
Work done by the Quinte Laundry is guaranteed to be satisfactory in every way.
Shirts, Collars and Cuffs our specialty. Family work done by the dozen.
W. R. VALLANCE .................. Manager
Phone 330

BUS, AUTO AND CABS

ASELSTINE'S
BUS, CAB AND TRANSFER LINE.
Special cabs, broughams and carriages, all rubber tired; for weddings, private driving or funerals. The finest turnouts in town.
Office and stables, cor. Moira and Centre Streets. Tweed Stage in connection.
Phone 229.

MEDICAL.

JOHN J. FARLEY, M.D., C.M.,
M.R.C.S., England.
Office and Residence: Corner of Bridge and George Streets; three streets east of the Post Office.

DR. J. CHANT
Specialist in Diseases of Eye, Ear, Nose and Throat, and Fitting of Glasses.
Office: Corner Queen and John Streets. Phone 716.

MONEY.

Private money to loan on mortgages on farms and other real estate, at lowest rate of interest, on terms to suit borrowers.
Apply to
S. MASSON
Barrister, etc.
Over Wallbridge & Clarke's Bridge St. Belleville.

MINING

BELLEVILLE ASSAY OFFICE
Ores and minerals of all kinds tested and assayed. Samples sent by mail or express will receive prompt attention. All results guaranteed. Office and Laboratory, 185 Pinnacle St., opposite market. Telephone 386.

ENGINEERING.

J. D. EVANS, C.E. & O.L.S. J. W. EVANS, C.E & M.E.
EVANS & EVANS.
Civil and Mining Engineers, and Ontario Land Surveyors.
Belleville and Trenton.
Belleville Office: 185 Pinnacle Street, opposite market. Telephone 386.

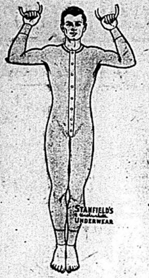
AUCTIONEER.

J. L. PALMER
We specialize in City sales.
Terms Reasonable
Belleville Box 182 Ontario
LICENSED AUCTIONEER.
for counties of Hastings, Prince Edward, Northumberland, Lennox and Addington. Office: over Bell Telephone, opposite Post Office, Bridge St. Prompt attention.

"COLLIP"
FLORIST
Night Phone 175. Day Phone 26.
All kinds of Cut Flowers and Plants in Season.
Wedding and Funeral designs specialty, shipped to all parts. Front Street.

A little brief authority or a few dried apples will puff a small man up to the limit.

The world is a cage in which humanity is tamed.



HIGH GRADE FURNISHINGS

Travel the Country over and you'll not find a better line of Men's Toggery than you'll find right here.

The best Shirt makers, Underwear makers, Scarf makers, Sweater Coat makers and Coat and Glove makers send us their productions.

The Best In Every Line Is Here!

Then again we are not high priced.

All the Patrons of the Store know this to be a fact. Test us and see.

See our New $1 Shirts;
Look at our $1 Gloves;
See our 25c and 50c Neckwear;
Look at our Sweater Coats from 75c up;
If You Doubt Our Splendid Value Giving.

Quick & Robertson
CLOTHING AND FURNISHING

Don't Think Your Eyesight is good because you read the paper a yard from your eyes!

This is a sure sign that you have Presbyopia, and need Glasses to see clearly for close work.

Decide to-day to have me examine your eyes and prepare just the Lences your eyes need to enable you to see without effort.

Alex. Ray
Eye Specialist

ARTHUR McGIE
Merchant Tailor

Our New Fall Stock of imported Suitings and Overcoatings now in stock in all latest designs.

You are invited to inspect our stock.

ARTHUR McGIE
208 Front Street

Coffee Ice Cream

COFFEE ICE CREAM makes a nice change, and we will have it on our menus for the balance of the week, or have a brick delivered to you.

Coffee and Walnut Bricks, 25c and 50c

Ed. F. Dickens & Son
Phone 170

A SAVING PROBLEM

GET THE
F. S. ANDERSON CO'S
GENUINE
SCRANTON
COAL
BELLEVILLE

Pure Clinkerless, Well Screened Coal.
"The coal of perfect satisfaction."
Office, 42 Bridge St. Phone 231a
Yard Office, S. Front St. Phone 231b

Marriage is apt to prove a failure if the courtship stops as soon as parson has tied the knot.

Money may help the man who helps himself.

S. A. HYMAN & CO.
Established 1870. MAKERS OF FINE FURS

Furs Cheaper This Year

That every advantage comes to purchasers of Furs this season.

It is just the difference between what was paid last season for Furs and the lower prices which prevail this season that makes the saving of at least 20 per cent. possible.

Good Style, Quality and Lowest Prices

Make a combination in our Furs that means satisfaction to the purchaser.

Those who have worn our Furs know their value, and to all who have not yet had an opportunity we invite inspection and comparison.

Ladies' Fur-Lined Coats, $35 to $75
Ladies' Muskrat Coats, $37 to $85
Western Sable Sets, $20 to $40

S. A. Hyman & Co.
242 FRONT STREET

N.B.—Fur Repairs and Alteration carefully attended to at Lowest Prices.

At our Window.

The little ones enjoying the

BARLER "IDEAL" HEATER

$4.00, $5.00, $6.50

THE SMITH HARDWARE CO.
PLUMBING—HEATING
MOTOR CYCLES
314 FRONT ST. PHONE 204

HAVE THE INTELLIGENCER SENT TO YOUR HOME ADDRESS

IN AND ABOUT THE CITY

Condensed News Items for Busy Readers.

ANSWERED CALLS

The police answered three calls last night with the result that one arrest was made, namely a drunk.

HUNTERS' LICENSES

Mr. A. R. Walker of the Public Library, has received the Deer Hunters' Licenses for issue in this district.

INTOXICANT DISCHARGED

Samuel Janbean was last evening arrested on a charge of drunkenness. This morning the accused appeared before the magistrate and was discharged.

STILL VIOLATING LAW

Last night the police obtained the names of two parties who were driving their autos without the rear light lit, and a motor cyclist was also caught without having any lights on his machine.

A FAMILY JAR

Last evening the police responded to a call to a house on Pinnacle street, where it was reported a man was abusing his wife. When the officer arrived all was serene and the woman did not desire to have her husband taken in charge.

DISTURBED A DANCE

At 12.30 this morning the police were called to a residence on North Front street, where a dance was in progress. It appears that some uninvited guests arrived at the above hour, and it is alleged tried to break up the affair. The parties, however, made themselves scarce when the police were sent for.

ALLEGED ASSAULT

Laughton Webster was yesterday arrested on a charge of assaulting his wife. The accused was this morning brought up before Magistrate Masson, but the Crown was not prepared to proceed with the case. An adjournment until Saturday, 24th inst., was granted. Webster was in the meantime remanded to jail.

WANTED HIS CHILD

Yesterday afternoon the police were called to a house on Foster avenue, where it was alleged trouble was ensuing between husband and wife, who are living apart. The woman stated that the husband was endeavoring to take away their child, which she objected to, hence the trouble. The outcome of the affair was that the little one was left in her charge.

AGED LADY DEAD

Mrs. James Davidson, who resided at the family residence, Herchimer avenue, Thurlow Township, passed away last evening, after being ill for some time. Deceased, who was in her 71st year, was a lady well known and much respected in the neighborhood in which she resided. Deceased had been for years a member of the Kingston Road Methodist church. In addition to the husband, seven sons and two daughters survive. The sons are Thomas, of Ottawa; James, of Vanouver, B.C., John of Calgary, Alta., Wm., David, Henry M., and B. O., of this city. The daughters are Mary Ellen of Duluth, Minn., and Harriett H. of Belleville. One brother, Thomas Gilbert, of this city, is also living.

WEDDING BELLS

McGRIMMON—SHAW

On Tuesday, Oct. 20 at the Tabernacle parsonage by Rev. W. G. Clarke, William H. McGrimmon and Martha Shaw, all of Belleville, were quietly wedded.

ASSELSTINE—HOLTON

On Saturday, October 10, at the Tabernacle parsonage, by Rev. W. G. Clarke, William John Asselstine and Amy Holton, all of Belleville, were quietly wedded.

ANDERSON—SCOTT

A very happy event took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Scott, Sixth Concession of Sidney, at 10.30 a.m., Wednesday October 14th, when their eldest daughter, Pearl, was married to Mr. Ezra Anderson of Stockdale. While the usual wedding march was being played by Mrs. J. N. Chisholm, sister of the groom, the bride leaning upon the arm of her father, entered the parlor, and took her place beneath a huge bell suspended from an arch of evergreens and asters. The Rev. Mr. Sharpe conducted the ceremony. The young couple were unattended. The bride was most becomingly attired in cream silk voile, trimmed with allover net and satin, and wore the usual veil caught up with orange blossoms and carried a shower bouquet of roses and carnations. After the usual congratulations, about fifty guests sat down to a dainty breakfast. The groom's gift to the bride was a sunburst of pearls. Among the many beautiful and useful presents were noticed a cabinet of silver, and several checks. The happy young couple left amid showers of rice and confetti in an auto, which was most appropriately decorated for the occasion, for Belleville, where they took the train for Ottawa. The bride travelled in a suit of navy blue cloth, with hat to match. Upon their return they will take up their residence at Stockdale.

A Clean Mouth Promotes Health

Oral hygiene is quite properly receiving the attention of the medical profession as well as the laity. A noted authority is quoted as saying: "There is not one single thing more important in the whole range of hygiene than hygiene of the mouth."

In the process of sterilizing the mouth—destroying disease germs—dependence may be placed on Absobine, Jr. This germicidal liniment has made good under severe laboratory tests and its use as a germ destroyer and preventive is becoming quite general. It is unlike the usual germicide because it is non-poisonous and is safe and harmless to use.

Prof. J. D. Hird, Biological Chemist, Washington, D.C., after an extensive laboratory examination of Absorbine, Jr., reports: "Four or five drops of Absorbine, Jr., to an ounce of water is sufficient to thoroughly cleanse the mouth and teeth of injurious bacteria, without injurious action on the teeth." (Complete report mailed upon request).

Sold by most druggists at $1.00 per bottle or sent postpaid by the manufacturer, W. F. Young, P. D. F., 457 Lymans Bldg., Montreal, Can.

RED CROSS NEEDS

Cash and Many Articles Will be Welcomed

Owing to the misconceptions as to the sort of articles required by the Red Cross Society, Mrs. Plumptre of Toronto, superintendent of supplies, has issued a circular letter to the press women of Canada, asking that the matter be clearly explained to the public. The articles mentioned in a booklet of suggestions for work are shirts, pyjamas, dressing-gowns, bed jackets, night shirts, socks wristlets, mitts, cholera belts, scarves, kit-bags, sheets, towels (huck-a-back or Turkish) washclothes, blankets, pneumonia jackets, bandages, handkerchiefs. The pneumonia jackets, of cotton wool, and cheesecloth, should only be made under the directions of a nurse or doctor.

"Money," said Mrs. Plumptre, "is the most urgent need of the Society, because it can be turned into any kind of supplies at any moment. When the Canadian head office received word that it was necessary to provide supplies for five hospitals to accompany the first contingent, its first action was to call in all sewing from the branches. There was not sufficient to fill the list required, and the funds at the head office sufficed to buy the rest of the aricles immediately, so that the equipment could go on the transports with the troops. Of course many of the supplies cannot be made by hand and must be bought, such as blankets, medical and surgical supplies, invalid foods, etc. For these money is absolutely necessary. Therefore, no one should imagine that all collected funds should be applied to the purchase of materials. Yet the application of a small part of the funds to this purpose serves to keep up interest in Red Cross work, and if wisely expended may bring in excellent returns. Of course, every woman who buys and makes up her own materials, as suggested, is giving more than the cash value of the materials she buys; especially is this true of knitted socks, gloves and mitts."

KINGSTON

Kingston Anglicans were highly favored last Sunday by Rev. R. Millman, M.A., of Japan. He preached in S. George's Cathedral in the morning and addressed the Sunday School children in St. James' church in the afternoon. St James' church was packed to the doors by the people, who were given an illustrated sermon with the aid of a lantern. The views of Japan and some of its industries were fine. The views which showed the religious work proves the hard task before all the missionaries. A missionary meeting addressed by Mr. Allen and Rev. Mr. Millman was held in St. George's Cathedral on Monday night.

Kingston Veterans Association and well-wishers filled the council chamber in the city building on Monday night. The constitution was read and adopted. The military band was in attendance and gave several fine selection. Alderman Couper san "Tipperary," the men joining in the chorus. Sergt. Bailey sang an Irish song. Able addresses were given by Col. Hunter, Col. Hemming, Col. Ogilvie, Major Gillispie, W. F. Nickle and others. Dr. Edwards, M.P., made an important point with regard to allowing large numbers of foreign people selling en bloc in this country. It will prove the source of trouble in coming years. Major Gillespie urged the men to take an interest in the school children learning the drill. Capt. McCarthy recited two patriotic pieces. The National Anthem brought this very interesting evening to a close.

St. Andrew's Choir Concert

A Rich Musical Feast Held in the Church Vestry Last Evening

One of the most delightful musical concerts that it has been the privilege of many of our people to enjoy was that given in the vestry of St. Andrew's Church last evening, under the auspices of the church choir, of which Mrs. A. P. Allen is the leader. The apartments had been prettily decorated with flags, ferns, flowers and bunting, turning the place into a cosy bower, which was well filled with music lovers from all parts of the city. As might be expected, the talented leader had provided an extensive programme, made up of a number of our most prominent vocalists and musicians, to hear whom was a rare treat. When you doubt that it is possible to harmonize a double quartette of feminine voices, and finally have to admit by hearing for yourself, as such was the case last evening, you can grasp the extent to which a ready musician can instil the art of harmony. This was but one of the excellent items presented, the solos, duets, trios, quartettes, recitals, all tending to one grand end—the inspiring of every heart present. It is impossible to detail the programme, carried through without a flaw, telling the story as follows:

PROGRAMME

Overture—Violin, 'Cello and Piano—Mrs. Connell, Miss Fenn, Mr. Connell.
Scotch Song—"Jock o' Hazeldean"—Mr. Thomas Bowie.
'Cello solo—Mr. J. Bennett.
Double Ladies' Quartette—"Rockabye"—Mesdames Strom, Stallworthy and Bogart; Misses L. Sharpe, Waters, Strong, Wilson, Ketcheson.
Song—"On the Road to Ballyshee"—Mr. James Booth.
Song—"It's a Long Way to Tipperary"—Mr. Ernest Mouck and Excelsior Quartette.
Reading—Miss Helen Ketcheson.
Duet—"Snowdrops"—Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Stallworthy.
Song—Miss Gertrude Price.
Song—"Somewhere a Voice is Calling"—Miss Lillian Sharpe.
Song—"My Ain Folk"—Mr. W. H. Wrightmeyer.
Ladies' Trio—"Love's Old Sweet Song"—Mrs. A. P. Allen, Mrs. Karl Strom, Miss Ketcheson.
Song—"Jack Briton"—Miss Maysel Stork.
Song—Mrs. James Grant.
Violin Duet—Canzonetta—Mr. and Mrs. Connell.
Song—"Hymn Before Action."—Miss Anna Ponton.
Song—(By request)—Mrs. A. P. Allen.
Song—"The Harlequin"—Mr. Dan A. Cameron.
Excelsior Male Quartette—"The Old Black Crow"—Messrs. Mouck, Wrightmeyer, Stallworthyy and Dulmage.
God Save the King.

Advertise in The Intelligencer.

Stoves! Stoves! Stoves!

Before Buying, See Our Big Line Of

Quebec Heaters
Oak Stoves
Base Burners, etc.

We have the Stove you want at the right price

SATISFACTION GUARANTEED

The John Lewis Co.
Limited
THE STOVE STORE

NOTICE

To my Customers and the Public in General: Everybody knows that all kinds of Fat Stock are bringing record prices at the present time; but I have not raised my prices. I buy direct from the farmer for cash so as to give my customers the middleman's profits. Read these prices:—

Best Sirloin or Porter House Roasts or Steaks .......... 20c. lb.
Legs of Lamb .......... 20c. lb
Lamb Chops .......... 20c. lb
Fore Quarters Lamb .......... 15c. lb.
Best Round Steak .......... 18c. lb.
Home made All Pork Sausages .. 15c. lb.
Mixed Sausages ...... 10c. lb.; 3 lbs. for 25c.
Pure Home Rendered Lard .......... 15c.
Choice Western Beef kept the year round.

GEO. I. THOMAS
377 Front Street. Phone 305.

Cooling Beverages

Roy's Ale and Porter, O'Keefe's Special Mild Ale, Gold Label Ale, Lager and Stout; Carling's Ale and Porter, and Half and Half and Half; Dow's Ale and Porter; Dawe's Black Horse Ale; Molson's Ale and Porter; Regal Lager; Basses Ale; Guinness' Stout; Budweiser's Lager; Kegs of Ale, Lager and Porter.

W. A. RODBOURNE
Up-town Liquor Store.
[illegible] Front St. Phone [illegible]
Orders delivered promptly to any part of the city

All That's New In Fall And Winter . . .

MILLINERY

Will be found at our store.

HATS for Ladies, Girls and Children.

Moderate Prices

Miss M. Campbell

We are now showing our first importations, indicating the true trend of fashions for the approaching season in both Tailored and Dress Hats from the famous contouries of Paris.

McCrodan & Sills

BRIGHTEN UP
YOUR STOVES, STOVE PIPES, RADIATORS, Etc., with
The SHERWIN-WILLIAMS
Aluminum Paint
Looks better, lasts longest, goes farthest
25c tin
WATERS DRUG STORE

WHENEVER WHEREVER
YOU SEE THIS SIGN

SCRANTON COAL.
THE SCHUSTER CO.
LTD.

IT IS A SIGN OF GOOD COAL

We Never Sleep
The Hogan Burial Co.
Leading Undertakers
Our exclusive lines of caskets and several new additions in the line of funeral equipment make our parlors one of the most up-to-date in Canada. Open night and day.
Phone 774.
189 Front Street
Belleville

INTELLIGENCER NIGHT LETTER BOX

Our friends will find a letter box in The Intelligencer Front Door for the reception of news items after the office closing hours. The box will be emptied each morning

CLASSIFIED ADVERTISEMENTS

Advertisements under this head, 25 words or less, 25 cents for each insertion, and one cent for each additional word;4 insertions 75 cents; 6 insertions, $1.00, invariably in advance. This rate applies to all a xept advertisements for Auction Sales, which will be published attwo cents per word. Count 8 marks and (180) figures as one word each.

SITUATIONS WANTED—FEMALE

CAPABLE DOMESTICS — GOOD REFERENCES—Scotch, Irish and English, arriving almost weekly. Apply 183 Gerrard Street East, Toronto, and 71 Drummond Street, Montreal.

A GENERAL HOUSEMAID. APPLY 80 Commercial Street. 21.2td

BUSINESS CHANCES

DO YOU NEED ADDITIONAL CAPITAL to commence or enlarge a business? If so, we will organize a Limited Company and procure such capital as required. Write or call. A. G. Robertson & Co., 155 King Street east, Toronto. dtf

TO-RENT

TWO SIX ROOMED DWELLINGS, CORNER Bridge and Dufferin Streets, and two five roomed flats and a two roomed flat. Apply Dr. Caldwell. o1.dtf

FLAT, WELL LIGHTED, ALL CONVENIENCES, Moira Street. Apply Don Bleecker. 17-4td

THREE ROOMS, GOOD CELLAR, GAS, electric light, private entrance, 23 Charlotte Street. 1td

A FURNISHED SITTING ROOM AND bed room with hot water heating and electric light, with or without meals. Will rent bed room separately if desired. Apply to Box L, Intelligencer. 20-6td

ROOMS TO LET OVER UNION BANK; Hot water heated, suitable for offices, workrooms or light housekeeping. Burrows of Belleville. 20-6td

TWO ROOMS TO LET; CONVENIENCES: low rent. 47 Charlotte Street. 20.4td

HOUSE ON CATHERINE STREET. MODern conveniences. Apply to F. O. Diamond, Grocer, W. Bridge. 21-4td

AGENTS WANTED

AGENTS WANTED — MONEY EASILY earned selling our Peerless Series of Personal Greeting Cards during your spare time. $10 to $20 per week easily earned in half an hour each evening. Our cards are the cheapest on the market Book free. Write Toronto Greeting Card Co., 529 Pape Avenue, Toronto. o7-12td

J. L. R. GORMAN
REAL ESTATE AND INSURANCE
Office over Dominion Bank
Phones:
Office 603 Residence 534
We Specialize in City Property

Two New Cakes
Apple Cake
12c each
Antwerps
20c each
Try them, you'll find them fine.
Chas. S. Clapp

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTHWEST LAND REGULATIONS.

The sole head of a family, or an male over 18 years old, may homestead a quarter-section of available Dominion land in Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta. Applicant must appear in person at the Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-Agency for the District. Entry by proxy may be made at any Dominion Lands Agency (but not Sub-Agency) on certain conditions.

Duties—Six months residence upon and cultivation of the land in each of three years. A homesteader may live within nine miles of his homestead on a farm of at least 80 acres, on certain conditions. A habitable house is required except where residence is performed in the vicinity.

In certain districts a homesteader in good standing may pre-empt a quarter-section alongside his homestead. Price $3.00 per acre.

Duties—Six months residence in each of three years after earning homestead patent; also 50 acres extra cultivation. Pre-emption patent may be obtained as soon as homestead patent, on certain conditions.

A settler who has exhausted his homestead right may take a purchased homestead in certain districts. Price $3.00 per acre. Duties—Must reside six months in each of three years, cultivate 50 acres and erect a house worth $300.

The area of cultivation is subject to reduction in case of rough, scrubby or stony land. Live stock may be substituted for cultivation under certain conditions.

W. W. CORY, C.M.G.,
Deputy of the Minister of the Interior.

N.B.—Unauthorized publication of this advertisement will not be paid for.—64388

PURSUANT to Section 191 of the Railway Act Notice is hereby given that a certified copy of Plan, Profile and Book of Reference referred to in Order No. 22525 of the Board of Railway Commissioners for Canada was, together with duplicate original of said Order and certified copy of Application on which said Order is issued, deposited in the Registry Office for the County of Hastings, in the City of Belleville, this 13th day of October, 1914.

THE said Plan shows and said Order refers to certain lands situated in the City of Belleville, and are authorized to be expropriated by the Campbellford, Lake Ontario and Western Railway Company, for the purpose of a team yard at Belleville, as aforesaid.

DATED in Montreal this 9th day of October, 1914.

E. W. BEATTY,
General Counsel.

3td:o21,28;n4.

FOR SALE

SECOND HAND NO. 3 DAISY HOT WATER boiler, 292 Front St., W. McGie. o15-6td

HOUSE FOR SALE OR TO LET ON COLEman street; bath, gas, electric light. Immediate possession. Apply to E. T. Cherry. 19-4td

A TOP BUGGY AND CUTTER IN GOOD condition. Also 2 lots. Apply 255 Foster Avenue. o21-4td

PERSONAL

DR. MARSHALL'S OFFICE REMOVED TO Angus McFee's Block, 216½ Front Street. a11:d&w2m

WANTED

YOUR ORDERS FOR SILVER PLATING. Write for price list. Belleville Plating Works, 257 1-2 Front Street. o14-d1m

THE BOARD OF RAILWAY COMMISSIONERS FOR CANADA.

PUBLIC NOTICE is hereby given that the Campbellford, Lake Ontario and Western Railway Company will, after the expiration of four weeks from the date hereof or so soon thereafter as the Application can be heard, apply to the Board of Railway Commissioners for Canada, under the supervisions of Sections 221 and 225 of the Railway Act, for authority to construct, maintain and operate the Passing Sidings and Freight Sheds in the City of Belleville, in the County of Hastings and Province of Ontario, lying between the Westerly limit of the Moira River and the Easterly limit of the Bay Bridge Road in the said City of Belleville, as is shown in Red on the Plan, Profile and Book of Reference deposited in the Registry Office for the County of Hastings, in the City of Belleville ,this 15th day of October, 1914.

E. W. BEATTY,
Montreal. General Counsel.
3td:o21,28;n4

SYNOPSIS OF COAL MINING REGULATIONS

Coal mining rights of the Dominion, in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, the Yukon Territory, the North-West Territories and in a portion of the Province of British Columbia, may be leased for a term of twenty-one years at an annual rental of $1 an acre. Not more than 2,560 acres will be leased to one applicant.

Application for a lease must be made by the applicant in person to the Agent or Sub-Agent of the district in which the rights applied for are situated.

In surveyed territory the land must be described by sections, or legal sub-divisions of sections, and in unsurveyed territory the tract applied for shall be staked by the applicant himself.

Each application must be accompanied by a fee of $5 which will be refunded if the rights applied for are not available, but not otherwise. A royalty shall be paid on the merchantable output of the mine at the rate of five cents per ton.

The person operating the mine shall furnish the Agent with sworn returns accounting for the full quantity of merchantable coal mined and pay the royalty thereon. If the coal mining rights are not being operated, such returns should be furnished at least once a year.

The lease will include the coal mining rights only, but the lessee may be permitted to purchase whatever available surface rights may be considered necessary for the working of the mine at the rate of $10.00 an acre.

For full information application should be made to the Secretary of the Department of the Interior, Ottawa, or to any Agent or Sub-Agent of Dominion Lands.

W. W. CORY,
Deputy Minister of the Interior.

N. B.—Unauthorized publication of this advertisement will not be paid for.—30690 dtf

Let us Develope and Finish Your Films. We Know How.
The Belleville Pharmacy
The Kodak Store, Bridge St.

BANK OF MONTREAL
Established 1817

| | |
|---|---|
| Capital, all paid up . . | $16,000,000 |
| Rest . . . . . . . . . . | $16,000,000 |

SAVINGS BANK DEPARTMENT
Interest allowed on sums of $1.00 and upwards at current rates.
Banking hours, 10 to 3. Saturdays, 10 to 3.

R. TANNAHILL,
Manager Belleville Branch

Ladies' Genuine
Persian Lamb Sets
$47
Large Pillow Muffs and Stoles
AT
J. T. DELANEY
236½ Front St. Phone 797
(Over Blackburn's Jewellery Store)

S. S. CAPTAIN FINED

FORT WILLIAM, Ont., Oct. 20.—The captain of S. S. Beaverton has been fined $25 and costs in the Police Court on a charge of interfering with local military guards in the execution of their duty.

DEATHS.

DAVIDSON—Died at Belleville on Tuesday, Oct. 20th, 1914, Helen Davidson, beloved wife of James Davidson, aged 70 years.

The funeral will take place from the family residence, Herchimer Ave., on Friday, October 23rd, 1914. Service at the house at 2.00 p.m. Interment at Belleville cemetery. 1t

ANTWERP A "DEAD CITY"

Woman Novelist Decries the German Bands That Play Therein

ROTTERDAM, Oct. 20.—One of the few women to go through the bombardment of Antwerp and await German occupation was Mrs. Creed, the novelist, who is gathering the atmosphere of war for future works. She has just got away and tells a remarkable story of what happened immediately after occupation. She describes concerts by German bands in the "dead city."

"Nothing," Mrs. Creed says, "could give a more profound impression than this sinister gayety which took place in Station Square among ghostly houses and in deserted streets, all of which were strewn with the clothing of refugees. Everywhere the barking of forgotten dogs could be heard.

"The Germans installed themselves open. At one hotel where the military in cafes and hotels which they found open. At one hotel where the military was staying members of the civilian population, young men manifestly of the richer classes of society, came on the very first day to laugh and gossip with the Germans, and spoke intimately with them in purest German.

"I also noticed that the proprietor of one hotel was a German whom the Belgian military authorities failed to expel. I also recall that the Belgian military authorities made a descent one evening on a certain hotel, on suspicion that luminous signals were burned from the roof.

"I regret also to say that there were there as constant guests three gentlemen in English uniforms. If they were prisoners they found imprisonment very agreeable and sighed out a dolorous tale in perect German. I am concinced that Antwerp had a veritable population of German spies.

"German officers and soldiers tell the same tale. They said: 'We have taekn Ghent and Ostend. Paris has ohisted the white flag. The Russians are completely smashed. We go to tae Calais and bombard England from there.' "z

BEST OF "HOPES" WHIPPED BY LANGFORD

BOSTON Oct. 21.—Sam Langford of Boston knocked out Gunboat Smith of New York in three rounds here last night.

Smith finished the first round in a weakened condition. In the second round Langford again took the aggresive. Leading a left, he hammered a right home to Smith's jaw, crushing him to the mat. Smith sprawled there for nine seconds, staggering to his feet barely in time to save himself from being counted out. Feinting and landing with left and right, Langford rocked Smith with his blows and floored him again. Referee Jack McGuigan of Philadelphia had counted four when the bell gave Smith a reprieve.

Protecting himself as best he could, Smith lasted through nearly two minutes of the third round. Then Langford again pointed his left menacingly, and drew Smith's guard over. The negro quickly drove his right with terrific force to the white man's jaw and Smith sank to the mat, where he was counted out.

Forts Reduced Says Berlin

Main Support of the French Right Wing Reported in Danger

LONDON, Oct. 21.—(Special.)—According to an official report from Berlin several of the forts in the outer ring of the defences of Verdun have been reduced. From other sources have come reports that the outer redoubts which had been bearing the brunt of the German shell fire had been seriously damaged, and that the French commander was contemplating their abandonment and the withdrawal of the batteries to the inner circle, where the main resistance upon which will hang the fate of the stronghold is to be fought.

Verdun is the French fortified position which is the main support of the French right wing army, and from which the offensive operations of the defenders of France have been carried on along the Meuse and in the direction of Metz.

LAUDS RUSSIAN SOLDIERS

PETROGRAD Oct. 20.—It is difficult to summarize the crowded events of the last few days, during which I have travelled about in the rear of the main Russo-German fighting line. The first stage of the gigantic battle that began last week is being fought out in Poland, and the German-Austrian advance have been met by the determined impact of a strong Russian force.

All that can be said for the present is that while this is regarded as the most serious moment of the campaign, the general outlook is most hopeful for the Russians. At several important points the Germans have been compelled to retire.

My chief impression formed is that of the extraordinary fine quality of the Russian soldier. During the last few days I have seen thousands of soldiers and spoken to scores of them. I have seen them in various circumstances. I have seen Cossacks patrols in warm, hooded overcoats cantering through the forests in the twilight or at early morning; Cossacks in camp, smoking around their bivouac fire, and have come across long military trains at wayside stations, where soldiers stretched their legs after almost interminable journeys and where they bought bread and asked for the latest news of the war.

One cannot help being struck by their fine physique and hearty, open manner. They are cheerful when marching through the streets of a town, when strolling along in charge of transports and munching turnips within sound of a cannonade, and even cheerful when suffering from wounds. Such magnificent soldiers as these deserve to win.

DRS. SOPER & WHITE

SPECIALISTS
Piles, Eczema, Asthma, Catarrh, Pimples, Dyspepsia, Epilepsy, Rheumatism, Skin, Kidney, Blood, Nerve and Bladder Diseases.
Call or send history for free advice. Medicine furnished in tablet form. Hours—10 a.m. to 1 p.m. and 2 to 6 p.m. Sundays—10 a.m. to 1 p.m.
Consultation Free
DRS. SOPER & WHITE
25 Toronto St., Toronto, Ont.

THE RITCHIE COMPANY, LIMITED THE RITCHIE COMPANY, LIMITED

THe Problem Of a FALL And WINTER SUIT Was Solved When We Announced Our Great

Clearing Sale Of LADIES' And MISSES' SUITS

This is an offering which has had few if any precedents. True, we have offered many Suit Bargains in former seasons, but none have been so liberal and extensive as the present one. We have decided on a general clearance of all the season's suits—hence the drastic reductions. See Windows.

SPECIAL BARGAINS From the MILLINERY PARLORS

Pattern Hats at Reduced Prices

We have in stock about 20 imported pattern hats, all "chic" models, that were imported direct from Paris at the beginning of the season. They are in velvet and feathers, trimmed with the newest flowers and mounts. These we are going to clear out during this and the coming week at the following sacrifice:—

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| 5 Hats, reg. | $15.00, | for | $10.00 each |
| 6 Hats, reg. | $12.50, | for | 9.75 each |
| 8 Hats, reg. | $9.00, | for | 6.00 each |

Regular $3.00 and $3.50 Untrimmed Felt Shapes On Sale at $1.00

All up to the minute shapes are represented in this lot in shades of navy, Alice, brown, old rose, red, taupe, etc.; worth regularly as high as $3.50; clearing at . . . . . . . . . . $1.00 each

LADIES' AND MISSES' HIGH GRADE SUITS THAT SOLD

Regularly as high as $15.00, Now Selling at $7.50

What more reasonable price could one expect to pay for a Fall and Winter Suit than this remarkably low price? especially when they are in such fashionable materials as Serges, Cheviots and Fancy Tweeds, in shades of Blue, Tan, Grey and Black. About fourteen suits in the lot that are mostly plain tailored, and very suitable for present or future wear. The sizes run from 34 to 40, and if there is a garment in the lot that will fit you, it will be an exceptional bargain. At any rate come in and see them and have a trial fitting; you will indeed be surprised at the remarkable price reductions. Regularly to $15.00, for . . . . . . . . . . $7.50

HANDSOME SUITS FOR THE LADIES AND MISSES THAT

In the usual way Sold as high as $22.50 now clearing at $10.00

The garments in this lot are exceedingly smart, and being mostly plain tailored with three-quarter length coats, you are assured of a suit strictly up to the minute in style, while the materials are all new, such as plain Serges, Cheviots, Boucle, Tweeds, Ratines, and one Corduroy Velvet, in shades of Grey, Brown, Tan, Taupe, Navy, Black, Black Stripes, and Black and White Checks. Very fe-wo fthem are fancy suits, although a few of them have pleated skirts and coats trimmed with braid.

Ladies' and Misses' sizes are represented, from 34 to 40, and they sold in the regular way as high as $22.50, but we have reduced them to clear quickly at . . . . . . . . . . $10.00

ABOUT 20 LADIES' AND MISSESFA SHIONABLE' SUITS

Worth up to $30.00 now Reduced to Clear at $14.50

Even if you had not thought of a new suit this fall, these remarkable bargains will undoubtedly prompt you to quick action, as these Suits are in very fashionable styles, the Suit Coats three-quarter cut-away effect, some trimmed with moire and velvet collars, and all lined with "Skinner's Satin," while the skirts are mostly all plain tailored.

The materials represented are Bedford Cords, Cheviots, Diagonal Serges, Plain Serges and Poplins, in shades of Black, Navy, Copenhagen, Tan, Grey, Purple and Black and White Stripe. The sizes of these garments range from 36 to 40 inches, and sold regularly as high as $30.00, but for quick clearance we have reduced them to only . . . . . . $14.50

LADIES' AND MISSES' UP-TO-THE-MINUTE SUITS

Marked formerly to Sell up to $35.00, Clearing now at $18.50

Every suit is a this season's garment, which means that the Suit Coats are cut in the very latest style, and Skirts in plain tailored and tunic style, while others are in the pleated effects; made up in such popular materials as Bedford Cords, Brocades, Mahogany, Brown, Dark Navy, Black and White and Brown and White Checks, Black, Greys and Colored Tweed Mixtures. Sizes from 16 to 42, and about 18 in the lot that sold regularly at as high as $35.00, clearing at . . . . . . . . . . $18.50

FURNITURE UPHOLSTERING

We make a specialty of furniture upholstering, and if you will call phone 451a we will send a man and give you an estimate on your needs.

The Ritchie Company Limited

CITY AND VICINITY

"L'INCOGNITA"

Don't forget to visit the FLAG BOOTH, and consult L'INCOGNITA, who will tell your future, and if you are worried over Business she can help you out of all your difficulties. Don't forget the date, Oct. 30th and 31st., at the Armouries, in aid of the Red Cross Funds. 1t

Reorganization meeting of Philharmonic Society postponed until Monday, November Second. Cards will be mailed. 1t

DANCING.
Thursday Evening, Oct. 22
Mr. and Mrs. Johnstone's Social Dance in aid of Red Cross Fund. Dancing 8.30 till 12. Usual admission. wt

MASSASSAGA

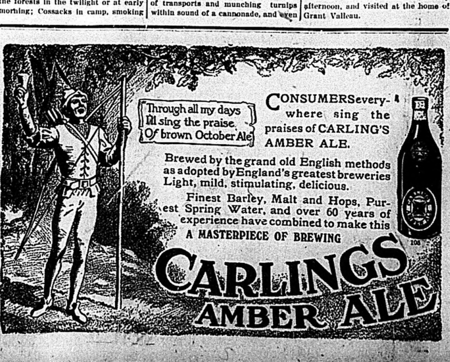
George Ackerman and son Frank have returned home after a week's visit at Sarnia and Toronto.

Mr. and Mrs. R. Hazzard and sister, and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Lent motored to Bowerman's on Sunday afternoon, and visited at the home of Grant Valleau.



CONSUMERS every-where sing the praises of CARLING'S AMBER ALE.

Brewed by the grand old English methods as adopted by England's greatest breweries Light, mild, stimulating, delicious.

Finest Barley, Malt and Hops, Purest Spring Water, and over 60 years of experience have combined to make this A MASTERPIECE OF BREWING

CARLINGS AMBER ALE

STORM SASH AND DOORS
Made to your order, any Shape or Size
SAVE YOUR COAL BILLS
The Holton Lumber Co. Limited
EVERYTHING IN LUMBER
Phones 112-1197 Offices 1 Bride St. W; Water St.

The Daily Intelligencer.

LET THERE BE HARMONY IN THINGS ESSENTIAL—LIBERALTY IN THINGS NOT ESSENTIAL—CHARITY IN ALL.

Vol. 48 BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO, THURSDAY, OCTOBER 22, 1914. No. 141

Established 1858
FURNITURE & UNDERTAKING
TICKELL & SONS CO.
SPECIAL -- AT COST
49 VERANDAH CHAIRS

"Cold Feet" Revealed Plot

Several Lads Had Planned to Break Out of Reformatory--In Juvenile Court

MONTREAL, Oct. 21.—An attempt of several boys to break out from the reformatory was frustrated by the guards of that institution and the three ringleaders appeared before Judge Choquet in the Juvenile Court as a result.

It appears from the story told in the Juvenile Court that a concerted attack was to have been made by forty boys detained in the Reformatory upon their guards. The three were the ring leaders of the mutineers, and had arranged things in such a manner that their plans might have involved loss of life. The authorities of the Reformatory would not divulge particulars of the threatened mutiny, but it is said that a small army of desperate young criminals had gathered such arms as they could, in the shape of lead piping, kitchen knives and stones. They apparently intended to break through the Reformatory guard if necessary by force. It was only owing to one of them developing 'cold feet' and divulging the plot that the attempt was frustrated.

FOUR FINGERS AND THUMB BLOWN OFF

Kingston Lad Victim of Dynamite Cap Explosion

KINGSTON, Oct. 21.—Shortly before nine o'clock this morning George Tyo, the 12 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. S. Tyo, Raglan Road, had three of the fingers and the thumb of his left hand and the top of the first finger of his right had blown off through the explosion of a dynamite cap.

The little lad was walking along Bagot street with his companion, Russell Northmore. When opposite McCalls' Shoe Store the latter gave young Tyo a dynamite cap. The little lad, it appears wanted to see what kind of a noise it would make in going off, so, taking a stick he struck it while holding it in his left hand. The explosion was very loud and came instantly. With a loud cry the lad dropped the stick and grasped his hand. Assistance was soon at hand and he was taken to the Hotel Dieu where his injuries were dressed by Dr. Quigley.

It was found that three of the fingers and the thumb of the left hand had been completely blown off at the hand. All that remained was a finger and the jagged stumps which had to be cut even to allow sewing. He received a bad tearing of the flesh in the palm of his hand. The tip of the first finger of his right hand was blown off and this member had to be shortened. His face received part of the charge but nothing of a very serious nature ensued. The parts blown off were found on the walk and on the road and formed gruesome evidence of the accident.

The Fort Prisoners

Now Number 223--The Prisoners Will be Furnished with Winter Clothing--Some of the Suspects Kicking up

KINGSTON Oct. 21.——The number of war prisoners at Fort Henry is now the largest since war was declared. A count made on Tuesday evening showed that 223 were in confinement at the old fortifications. Some weeks ago there were 204 inside the walls, but this number has been increased during the past few days. The last lot of prisoners to arrive were brought to the city on Tuesday evening from Windsor, where they made an attempt to cross the American border.

In the course of a couple of days, the prisoners will be furnished with winter clothes. A supply consisting of a heavy sweater, socks, caps, underwear and moccassins has arrived at the fort.

At present time there are two prisoners confined to the hospital at the fort. They are not in a serious condition.

During the past few days some of the military police have been experiencing difficulty with a couple of the prisoners. On Tuesday one of the men deliberately threw some dirty water down into the the well which is used by the men for washing purposes. He was placed in a cell for doing it, but was only there a few minutes when one of the other prisoners deliberately opened the door where the man was locked up.

The difference between luxury and necessity is much the same as that between character and reputation.

SHELLS FROM WARSHIPS REACH CITY OF OSTEND

Bombardment of German Trenches in Vicinity of Seaport Continues--Fine Work of the Monitors--Vessels Ordered for Brazilian Government Used to a Good Purpose

LONDON, Oct. 21.—A despatch from Berlin received here to-night by the Marconi Wireless Telegraph. Company says: "It is reported that Ostend is being bombarded by the British fleet."

It is also reported here that the German forces have evacuated Ostend under fire from the British fleet. The report is in no way confirmed.

It is quite possible that some of the sheels fired by the British ships have fallen in Ostend. The trenches of the Germans within a few miles of the seaport have been under bombardment for the past two days.

The Admiralty announces that the monitors Severn, Commander Eric Fullerton; Humber, Commander Arthur Snagge, and Mersey, Lieut.-Commander Robert Wilson, which recently were purchased from Brazil, have been engaged in the operations on the Belgian coast, firing on the right flank of the German army. The monitors were being built for the Brazilian Government when war broke out, and were taken over by Britain.

Owing to their light draught they have been able to contribute materially to the success of the operations in this district, and they have already abundantly justified their acquisition on the outbreak of the war.

JUMPED FROM TRAIN ESCAPED DETECTIVES

Officers Arrested Three Suspects But Fourth Made Dash for Freedom

TORONTO, Oct. 21.—By a sensational leap an incoming passenger train which was travelling at about thirty miles an hour, a well-known pickpocket last night escaped from five Toronto detectives near West Toronto station. Three other suspects who were with the man were arrested.

The officers had been instructed to wait for the four men who were coming in on the Owen Sound train. The train was boarded a short way from Toronto and the officers experienced no difficulty in arresting three of the men. The other, however, made a dash for the rear door, and just as the train was crossing Bloor street, sprang from the steps onto the embankment. He has not yet been located.

The three men who were arrested gave their names as Fred W. Harris, Robert Fields and George Adams.

Trafalgar Day

LONDON, Oct. 22.—London yesterday honored the memory of Nelson and Trafalgar.

Crowds passed along all day before the colossal Nelson Column in Trafalgar Square, immediately opposite the Canadian Pacific Railway offices, but the flags and floral festoons which usually decorate the monument on Trafalgar Day were replaced by wreaths and floral tributes in memory, not alone of British sailors lost in the present war, but of French sailors who fell fighting against Britain in 1805:—"Compatriots of our comrades in arms to-day."

Canada was represented by maple leaf designs from the Victoria, Esquimault, and Cowichan branches of the Navy League; also wreaths from the wife, father, mother and other relatives of Lieut.-Commander Clive Phillipps-Woolley, lost on H.M.S. Hogue on September 22.

The Australian, New Zealand and South African Government sent beautiful wreaths.

Most heartening of all, however, is the intimation that Britain has commissioned for the sea twenty-two new fighting ships, from Dreadnoughts to mosquito craft, since the war began. The Daily Telegraph says that, though the armies on the Continent conquer or fail, the security of Britain and the Empire, and their weight in the war for liberty depend on sea security.

OFFICERS OFFER FOR SECOND CONTINGENT

OTTAWA Oct. 21.—Although orders have not been received from Kingston for enlistment, already many offers of service in the second contingent have been made. Included in the list are Lieut.-Col J. W. Woods, commander of the Governor-General's Foot Guards; Lieut. Arthur Black, the well-known footballer, Sergeant Jack Fee; Major J. H. MacLean, one of the civic commissioners; Lieut. J. D. Wood, son of Lieut.-Col. Wood; Lieut. Stewart Bate and others. Third field company of engineers is rapidly recruiting up to war strength, while the batteries and other infantry units are receiving many recruits daily.

FOOD AND FEED FOR SETTLERS IN NEED

Government Taking Action in West Where Harvest Was Failure

OTTAWA Oct. 21.—Immediate steps are being taken by the Interior Department to aid the settlers in the west where the crop last summer was a total failure. The supplies to be distributed will include provisions for the family, feed for hogs and poultry and fuel. For all such advances the settler will give a lien on his farm. Aid will be given only in cases where investigation shows it is absolutely needed.

Supervisors are being appointed for each of five districts—Moose Jaw, SwSift Current, Maple Creek, Medicine Hat and Lethbridge. In the Swift Current and Maple Creek districts, where the conditions are the worst, assistant supervisors are also to be appointed. Cases that are reported, will be investigated as quickly as possible by the Northwest Mounted Police, agents of the Dominion Lands, sub-land-agents and homestead inspectors acting under the supervisors.

Supplies are to be purchased as far as possible from the merchants of the districts affected. There is to be no discrimination between merchants, but if any are found overcharging no further orders will be given them.

KITCHENER AND HUGHES IN PERFECT ACCORD

LONDON, Oct 21.—Colonel the Hon. Sam Hughes, Minister of Militia and Defence for Canada, came up yesterday from Salisbury to see Lord Kitchener. Subsequently interviewed at the Savoy Hotel, Col. Hughes said he could not reveal the object of his conference with the Minister of War, but he volunteered the information that Lord Kitchener and he were in accord on all points.

Col. Hughes expressed his complete satisfaction with the arrangements made so far for the Canadian troops at Salisbury Plain.

Col. E. W. Wilson, of Montreal, chief of staff, who was present at the interview, added that there was evidence to show that the troops were also pleased with the camp arrangements. Col. Wilson jocularly remarked that the Minister of Militia had given him no easy job, as the minister had work to do morning, noon and night.

Britain Has Won Dutch Admiration

Holland Will Never Forget That Britain's Sense of Honor Saved Scheldt

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—A despatch from The Hague says:

A prominent Dutch politician, referring to the fall of Antwerp and expressing to me the general feeling here toward Great Britain, said:

"Had England sent troops to Antwerp through the Scheldt, matters assuredly would have taken a different course, for Antwerp would have been absolutely impregnable.

"To do this, however, Great Britain would have to violate the neutrality of Holland, and Holland will never forget that Great Britain at the cost of heavy disadvantage, respected the 'scrap of paper and kept clear of the Scheldt. This great example of British honor is one which history will regard with admiration and the Dutch with everlasting gratitude.'

Hon. L. Pelletier's Farewell Message

Tribute to Premier Borden and Thanks to Colleagues and Electors

OTTAWA, Ont. 21.—Hon. L. Pelletier, who yesterday retired from the Postmaster-Generalship owing to ill-health, has issued a communication to his friends and electors. After referring to the fact that his medical advisers told him he had presumed too far on his strength in taking up the onerous duty of a Cabinet office, the ex-Minister states:

"On the more mportant questions of public interest I was sometimes obliged to take a stand which a sacred and imperative duty imposed upon me, in view of the intimate and full knowledge I had of the situation. I could not always lift the veil, and had to ask you to trust me. I knew events would justify my course, and so followed the star that lighted my way. To-day you see in the dim horizon that which proves the wisdom of my course.

Tribute to Premier Borden.

"I cannot close these few words, which I dictate under great emotion, as you can understand, without telling with what sincere regret I part from the Prime Minister, my colleagues and my department. One must know Sir Robert Borden, must have enjoyed that intimacy which it has been my privilege to share during the past three years, to know his claims to our admiration. He is not only a great statesman, with a wide range of thought, but he is just and honorable, and his heart is in the right place.

"My other colleagues have proved friends of whom I will hold the warmest remembrance. To my faithful friends of the Post Office Department, who have worked so earnestly with me towards the efficiency of the postal service throughout Canada, I wish happiness and prosperity.

"To all I say may God keep you and protect you; may He bless your undertakings and your hopes—that it is my most fervent wish for my country, for you, for your families and all who are dear to you."

BUILDING GONE BUT INSURANCE STILL PAID

OTTAWA, Oct. 21.—An example of the lack of attention to detail which characterizes the conduct of municipal business to a large extent is found in a discovery just made by civic officials.

It is that for three or four years the city has been paying premiums on insurance policies on buildings which have been non-existent during that time.

It has been found that the city treasurer has been paying out money for insurance on building in Lansdowne Park which were destroyed three or four years ago. Although the buildings were removed, the insurance policies were not cancelled.

The discovery was only made when the insurance companies applied to have the city renew the policies.

PREPARED HIS OWN FUNERAL SERVICE

PITTSBURG—At the funeral service over the remains of Frank F. Faulk, held here, the service written by the deceased just prior to his death was read. Mr. Faulk's physician informed him some months ago that his death was only a question of a short time and he made all preparations for his funeral service, the manuscript being in his own handwriting and accompanied by a request that it be read as he designated. Mr. Faulk was a member of no church, holding the "fatherhood of God and the brotherhood of man was broad enough to guide aright all mankind."z

SUCCESS REWARDS ACTION OF THE ALLIED FORCES

Meet German Troops at Every Point With Shell, Bullet and Bayonet--General Retreat of the Enemy Expected at Any Moment

(Canadian Press Special Exclusively to The Intelligencer)

MEETING ATTACKS WITH SUCCESS

PARIS, Oct. 22.—The following is this afternoon's official announcement:

"On our left wing German forces in considerable strength have continued their violent attacks, particularly in the vicinity of Diamude, Warniton, Armentieres, Radinghem and La'Bassee, but the positions occupied by the Allies have been maintained.

"On the rest of the front the enemy has delivered only partial attacks. These have all been repulsed."

REPORT SAYS NAMUR HAS BEEN RETAKEN

A despatch from The Hague says it is reported there that Namur has been retaken by the Allies. A Paris despatch says the Allies are commencing a turning movement for the purpose of rolling back the German right from Nieuport and Ostend. It is stated that the British fleet is in action and the British naval brigade is co-operating with the Belgians. It is believed that the German right is much weaker than at first reported.

JAPANESE SEEKING GERMAN CRUISERS

TOKIO, Oct. 22.—A Japanese squadron is seeking German cruisers in the vicinity of Hawaii.

TELEPHONE WIRES OUT OF ACTION

LONDON, Oct. 22.— The Havas Agency says telegraph and telephone communication between Lisbon and Oporto has been cut, possibly by Royalist agents bent on embarrassing the Republican Government's negotiations with the Allies.

BRITISH REBELLION REPORTED AT BERLIN

LONDON, Oct. 21.—The British Official Bureau says .the reports from German sources that there has been a rebellion in British Somaliland, and that Berbere with all the British officials had been taken, is entirely without foundation.

GERMAN PRISONERS CONTINUE TO ARRIVE

LONDON, Oct. 22.—A Reuter despatch from Warsaw says parties of German prisoners continue to arrive and they include one General.

RE-INFORCEMENTS ARRIVING

A Daily Mail despatch from Rotterdam says German reinforcements, including two 17-inch howitzers, have arrived in Antwerp from Liege on the way to Bruges.

Threat of Enemy To Montreal Mayor

Arms, Bombs and Wireless Outfit Secreted in City Ready For Action

(Canadian Press Despatch)

MONTREAL, Oct. 22.—A signed letter was received this morning by the acting Mayor, purporting to come from an organization of Germans and Austrians in the city, asserting that these people are in possession of arms, bombs and wireless outfit and are prepared on a moment's notice to inflict an appalling amount of damage to property here. The letter, which is taken seriously, was handed over to the Chief of Police.

Contract Seekers Overrun Capital

OTTAWA, Oct. 21.—Representatives of no less than eighty-six clothing houses who are after Government contracts for the second contingent, have invaded Ottawa and the capital is to-day over-run with the besiegers.

It is said at best, there is not enough work for all to get a portion worth while. Mr. Fred Stobard, the British purchasing agent, has transferred his headquarters to Montreal where he has opened an office. Prices and difficulty in filling orders in the alotted time, may prevent many Canadian firms from getting large British contracts.

Hon. Finlay G. Macdiramid, Minister of Public Works for Ontario, was elected without opposition in West Elgin.

150,000 BELGIANS IN BRITAIN TWO-THIRDS OF THEM PENNILESS

LONDON, Oct. 21.—Lord Gladstone, former Governor-General of South Africa, and his associates, who are directing the war refugees committee, regard the temporary assignment of the Belgians to the hospitality of the various English cities as merely an emergency work.

Lord Gladstone in a statement made to-day, explained that the Government is bearing the cost of the, railway transportation of the refugees and that the Local Government Board, which is a department of the English Government under the direction of Mr. Herbert Samuel, is considering plans for the permanent relief of the Belgians and for their employment.

More than 100,000 Belgians are already in England and Mr. Samuel's Board will probably name a committee shortly to consider means to provide for their care during the winter and possibly during the entire war.

Glasgow now has 3,000 Belgians; Leeds, 2,000; Birmingham, 2,000; Cardiff, 3,000; Dublin, 700; Cork, 600; and twenty-five other cities have smaller numbers.

There are also many of them in villages and on farms. It is estimated that there are 50,000 in London.

Probably 150,000 Belgians in all are refugees in England, but 50,000 still have some money. Many of these, however, will also soon be penniless.

The boats from Flushing and Calais are still bringing large crowds of Belgian refugees daily.

Message in Bottle Meant to Deceive

Four Young Men Who Had Disappeared Nine Weeks Ago Heard From

TORONTO, Oct. 2.—Every week or so some person of limited mentality puts a desperate message in a bottle and drops it in the water and, smiling at his own originality, waits, inanely pleased with himself, to read of some wife's added anxiety for her son or husband.

Yesterday a note came ashore proving that Toronto has that kind of fool too. The message said that four men had been lost on the lake. Unfortunately four men who went out in a boat nine weeks ago are still missing.

A letter from Buffalo some time last week, however, informed the owner of the boat, Mr. Bert Gibson, of Adelaide street west, that if he wanted his boat he could find it near Oakville. The boat was indeed there, fitted with mast and sail, and with a hole in the bottom.

Since the letter came from Buffalo the parents of the missings boys hope that they may be found there, and they are following the clue in that direction. The names of the boys are John Horzack, 17 Manning avenue; Frank Scott, of Robinson street; Frank Kelly and Wilfrid Allen, of Brant street.

HINDU SHOOTS A CANADIAN OFFICAL

VANCOUVER, B. C., Oct. 21.—William C. Hopkinson, chief assistant to the immigration inspector here was shot and instantly killed in the court house on Georgia street this forenoon by a Hindu. The alleged assassin was immediately arrested by the police. Hopkinson was standing in the main corridor of the court house when a party of Hindus passed by. A man named Newa Singh is believed to have done the shooting.

J. Bicknell, K. C., Died Suddenly

TORONTO, Oct. 22.—(Special.)—James Bicknell, K.C., one of the best known solicitors in Canada, died very suddenly at his late residence, 37 Cluny avenue, at 12.20 this morning after a brief illness of pneumonia.

Mr. Bicknell was senior partner in the firm of Bicknell & Bain. He was 52 years old and had lived in Canada since he was ten years old.

Inspector Hopkinson of Immigration Office, Vancouver was killed at the Court House there by a Hindu.

Letter in Bottle Sent by Soldier

Was Found by Gaspe Fisherman and Forwarded to Home in Toronto

TORONTO, Oct. 21.—"My name is Sergeant Foot 51st Soo Rifles, of Sault Ste. Marie, Ontario, Canada, and I am on my way to the front. Am having a good time here, but am ready for a rough time while away. Will the finder please write me to my home at 50 College street Toronto, Ontario. With good wishes, believe me sincerely, Sergt. Foot."

This letter was readdressed from a bottle thrown from the deck of the Cassandra as the transport ship left the mouth of the St. Lawrence. It was forwarded to Sergt. Foot's mother, Mrs Edward Vicars, by one Gilbert Briand of Seal Cove, probably a fishermen of the Gaspe coast. The address read: "To Sergt. Foot's House, 50 College street," and there was a note inside from Gilbert Briand: "Dear Friends—I found this letter on the sea, corked up in a bottle. There were 36 steamships in Gaspe and after they left I found this letter."

Mr. Hazen Busiest Minister By Far

Has to Look After Entire Defence Arrangements on Land and Sea

OTTAWA, Oct. 21.—The busiest man in the Government at the present time is Hon. J. D. Hazen, upon whose shoulders is now developing the burden of the defence of Canada, both on land and sea. With daily meetings of the Militia Council and the Cabinet, and with all the details of organization to attend to, Mr. Hazen is working from early in the morning until nearly midnight daily.

Despite his lack of military training Mr. Hazen has already thoroughly familiarized himself with the working of the Militia Department, and his taken hold of the organization of the new contingents for which recruits are now being called.

ENEMY'S SUBMARINES BUSY OFF OSTEND

LONDON, Oct. 21.—The warships of the British navy with their big guns were sent to the coast to co-operate in the movements against the Germans at Ostend and other points. Apparently the Germans heard of this, and, according to the Daily Mail, five German submarines were sent to attack them. A scout division of destroyers went to the support of the warships and attacked the submarines Monday. In the course of the action twelve torpedoes were fired by the submarins but not one of them got home. As far as is known none of the submarines were sunk.

WRITS FOR BY-ELECTION MAY BE ISSUED TODAY

Ottawa Expects New Quebec Ministers Will be Returned Unopposed

OTTAWA, Oct. 22.—(Special. —It is expected that the writs for the bye-elections in Quebec and Champlain Counties, rendered necessary by the elevation of Hon. T. Chase Casgrain and Hon. P. E. Blondin to the Dominion Cabinet, will be issued today. It is not expected that there will be any contest, although there is a rumor that the Liberals may oppose Mr. Blondin.

TRENTON REBEKAHS VISIT PICTON

In response to an invitation given by Machpelah Rebekah Lodge No. 144 of Picton to Quinte Queen Lodge No. 135, the Trenton degree team, accompanied by several other enthusiastic members went by special train to Picton on Monday evening to exemplify the work of this degree, which they did to the satisfaction of all present. A large number of members were in attendance and eleven candidates were initiated into the mysteries of the degree. At 11.30 we were invited to the dining hall where all did ample ustice to the oysters and all other dainties served. A short time was spent in social chat and after singing "They are Jolly Good Fellows'" and giving three cheers for Picton, we returned to our home town, arriving at 2.10 a.m. Everyone was delighted with the hospitality of our neighboring brothers and sisters and hope before long to eb able to entertain them in a like manner.

ONE WHO WAS THERE.

WM. McINTOSH & CO.

HORSE BLANKETS.

Linen Jute unlined blankets at ................ 75c. each.
Linen Jute wool lined blankets, special at
$3.00, $2.75, $2.50 and $1.50 each
Dutch Kersey Blankets, on sale at ............ $1.50 each
Plaid Shawl Automobile Rugs at ............ $2.25 each.

BEDDING.

White Wool Blankets in great variety at
$5.50, $5.00, $4.00 and $3.35 per pair
Heavy dark and ligh grey wool blankets, on sale at
$2.75, $2.50 and $2 25 per pair
Flannelette Blankets, white and grey, 12/4 size, at
$1.75 and $1.60 per pair
Flannelette Blankets, white and grey, 11/4 size, at
$1.50 and $1.40 per pair
Flannelette Blankets, white and grey, 10/4 size
at $1.25 per pair.
Bed Comforters, large variety, filled with the best Puritan batting at ............ $4.00, $3.50, $3.00, $2.50, $2.00 each

WM. McINTOSH & CO.

Linoleum and Oilcloth

Get that linoleum now for the colder room of your house that you use the most. It will make it warmer by keeping out those cold draughts.

We have a variety of patterns to choose from in floral and conventional designs, just the pattern you want for your room.

All Linoleum and Oilcloth of best English grade.

THE THOMPSON FURNITURE Co.
UNDERTAKERS Phones: Day, 62; Night, 295.

Children Cry for Fletcher's

CASTORIA

The Kind You Have Always Bought, and which has been in use for over 30 years, has borne the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher and has been made under his personal supervision since its infancy. Allow no one to deceive you in this. All Counterfeits, Imitations and "Just-as-good" are but Experiments that trifle with and endanger the health of Infants and Children—Experience against Experiment.

What is CASTORIA

Castoria is a harmless substitute for Castor Oil, Paregoric, Drops and Soothing Syrups. It is pleasant. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other Narcotic substance. Its age is its guarantee. It destroys Worms and allays Feverishness. For more than thirty years it has been in constant use for the relief of Constipation, Flatulency, Wind Colic, all Teething Troubles and Diarrhœa. It regulates the Stomach and Bowels, assimilates the Food, giving healthy and natural sleep. The Children's Panacea—The Mother's Friend.

GENUINE CASTORIA ALWAYS
Bears the Signature of
Chas. H. Fletcher.

In Use For Over 30 Years
The Kind You Have Always Bought

THE CENTAUR COMPANY, NEW YORK CITY.

CLIP $5.00 THIS
ILLUSTRATED BIBLE
EDUCATIONAL
CERTIFICATE
PRESENTED to You BY THE INTELLIGENCER, OCT. 22
HISTORICAL DESCRIPTIVE

ABRAHAM LINCOLN SAID: "NO LIBRARY IS COMPLETE WITHOUT TWO CERTAIN BOOKS—THE BIBLE AND SHAKESPEARE; HARDLY A QUOTATION USED IN LITERATURE THAT IS NOT TAKEN FROM ONE OF THESE WORKS."

The above Certificate with 5 others of consecutive dates

Entitles bearer to this $5.00 Illustrated Bible

if presented at the office of this newspaper, together with the stated amount that covers the necessary EXPENSE items of this great distribution—including clerk hire, cost of packing, checking, express from factory, etc., etc.

MAGNIFICENT ILLUSTRATED $5 Edition of the BIBLE (like illustration in announcements from day to day) is bound in full flexible limp leather, with overlapping covers and title stamped in gold, with numerous full-page plates in color from the world famous Tissot collection, together with six hundred superb pictures graphically illustrating and making plain the verse in the light of modern Biblical knowledge and research. The text conforms to the authorized edition, is self-pronouncing, with copious marginal references, maps and helps; printed on thin bible paper, flat opening at all pages; beautiful, readable type. 6 Consecutive Free Certificates and the $1.18 Amount EXPENSE Items

The $3 ILLUSTRATED BIBLE is exactly the same as the $5 book, except in the style of binding, which is in silk cloth; contains all of the illustrations and maps. 6 consecutive free certificates and the 81c Amount EXPENSE Items

Also an Edition for Catholics

Through an exclusive arrangement, we have been most fortunate in securing the Catholic Bible, Douay Version, endorsed by Cardinal Gibbons and Archbishop (now Cardinal) Farley, as well as by the various Archbishops of the country. The illustrations consist of the full-page plates and maps approved by the Church, without the Tissot and text pictures. It will be distributed in the same bindings as the Protestant books and at the same Amount Expense Items, with the necessary Free Certificates.

Any Book by Mail, 23 Cents Extra for Postage.

OBJECTIVE OF ENEMY.

License For Explosives Factory Opposed by Admiralty and Refused

Nobel's Explosives Company, Ltd., failed at Sittingbourne, England, to get an explosives factory at Harty Isle. Evidence in support of the application was given by Sir Frederick Nathan, formerly of the Army, and Brigadier-General Stone.

On the other side, Major-General Maxwell, General Officer Commanding the East Coast Defences, on behalf of the Admiralty, said if an explosives factory were established on the proposed site it would form an objective for an enemy, who, if successful in securing a landing there, would be able to take the defences of Sheerness in the rear.

Captain Schwann, assistant director of the Air Department of the Admiralty, said an explosives factory there would hamper the operations of the instructional flying school at Eastchurch.

The chairman of the Bench announced, after a private consultation, that they could not disregard the evidence of General Maxwell. The objection of the Admiralty must be upheld, and the license refused.

LORD MAYOR'S FIRST GOLF

London's Lord Mayor, Sir Thomas Vansittart Bowater, opened a new golf course at Shirley Park and suddenly found himself under the necessity of making his first essay at golf before a critical crowd.

Sir Thomas had never used a club in his life, and when Tom Crapp, the professional, put one in his hand and told him how to strike the innocent-looking ball the Lord Mayor looked with perplexity at the flag on the green 400 yards away. However, he buttoned up his coat and said he would do it.

Then he struck wildly at the little ball, actually hit it, and it drove hard into an unhappy spectator.

The ball rebounded into the rough and was not found for a few minutes. Then it was handed to the perspiring Lord Mayor in a silver frame as a souvenir.

A Parisian Beauty

MME. LEONE REBOUX

Mme. Leone Reboux is the most beautiful woman in Paris, according to her husband, Paul Reboux, noted playwright. Other judges of womenly beauty are inclined to agree with him, in fact, several French artists have declared that her loveliness is unrivalled.

Fraud on Undertakers

A man, who represented that his wife had just died, called at the offices of two firms of undertakers in Barrhead to make arrangements for the funeral. In each instance a parcel was made up for him with the usual grave clothes required on such occasions. The man made requests for a loan of money to enable him to carry out other arrangements pending payment of the insurance. This request was refused, but the order for the interment was taken as bona-fide, and in one instance the undertaker's visit at the address given caused a good deal of annoyance. The parcels containing the grave clothes had been deposited at the doors of houses in different parts of the town, and the finders were annoyed at what they looked upon as a gruesome practical joke.

More blonde Eskimos have been discovered in the Arctic. Somebody must be responsible for a shipment of peroxide to that region.

75 VOLUNTEERS Wanted for Second Contingent Canadian Expeditionary Force.
For particulars apply to any officer of the 15th Regiment, or at the Armouries any evening.
W. H. HUDSON, Capt., Adjutant 15th Regt.

IN AND ABOUT THE CITY

Condensed News Items For Busy Readers.

CONGRATULATIONS

A daughter to Mr. and Mrs. J. E. McCarkell. The young mother is a daughter of Mrs. S. E. Haight.

COMMITTEE MEETING

A regular meeting of the various committees will be held this evening.

G.T.R. ENGINEER DEAD

Mr. David Young, a G.T.R. engineer, residing in this city, died this afternoon. An obituary notice will appear in to-morrow's issue.

FOR CHILDREN'S HOME

There is a current rumor about the city that the Dunnett residence in West Belleville, has been purchased for a Children's Home. This rumor must be cauard.

TO INSPECT DORMITORIES

Premier Hearst, accompanied by some of his colleauges, are, we learn, to be in Belelville on Friday, October 30th, to inspect and declare open the new dormiteries of the Deaf and Dumb Institution.

ON PROHIBITED LIST

Roy W. Hay, who is upon the list of those prohibited from obtaining intoxicants, yesterday secured sufficient of the beverage to make him intoxicated. He was arrested, and before Magistrate Masson this morning pleaded guilty, alleging he secured the booze at Trenton. The minimum fine of $10 and costs was imposed, or in default 21 days in jail. He was unable to pay the fine and was committed to jail.

WEDDING BELLS

SLEED—POST—

Laura M. Post, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Post of this city, was quietly married to Mr. Geo. Sleed in Toronto on Oct. 17th, by the Rev. J. Morrow.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

Miss Grace Barragar of Octavia St., entertained the staff of Misses McCroslon & Sills last evening, and made an ideal hostess.

Mrs. Alexander Ray will receive at her residence, 223 William street, with her niece, Mrs. Shorthill (nee Miss Betsey Mary Margaret Flint) on Tuesday, October the twenty-seventh, from four to six, and from eight to eleven.

Flippant Flings.

Judging by the pictures of the Zeppelin air craft, they are shaped like Texas watermelons, but are not half so glorious inside.—Houston Post.

Kansas reports a hen swimming a river. Hens used to be satisfied with crossing the road. The feminist movement is marching on.—Toledo Blade.

Surgical instruments have gone up greatly in price because of the war. No one can afford to go away and leave a forceps in you now.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

A western man left $10,000 to a barber who shaved him for two years and never asked him a question. We fear, however, that even this won't cause the habit to spread.—Detroit Free Press.

When some men think, they make a noise like a boiler shop.

Where rigid censorship is needed is in the case of fish stories.

Who was it that was inquiring about the "blessings of civilization?"

King And Kaiserdom

Toronto World says: Sides of church bulged wide when Dr. JAS. HUGHES spoke at Dale Presbyterian Church, Toronto, on King and Kaiserdom. By request Dr. Hughes will give this lecture at HOLLOWAY ST. METHODIST CHURCH, Monday evening, Oct. 26th. ANNUAL TEA AND LECTURE.—40cts.

22-23-24

OBITUARY.

Died in Colborne, on Wednesday, Oct. 21st, George Keys, aged 82. The deceased when a boy was an apprentice in The Intelligencer Office, and subsequently for many years published a weekly journal in Colborne. The Intelligencer and staff extends its sympathy and condolence to those who are left to mourn their loss.

STRUCK BY AUTO

Rev. W. G. Clarke, pastor of the Tabernacle church in this city, this afternon had a narrow escape from a serious if not fatal accident. He was riding a bicycle on Front street when in avoiding a collision with a horse and vehicle his wheel was hit by an automobile. The wheel was badly damaged, but the Rev. gentleman escaped with slight bruises.

MUSIC AND DRAMA

THE COURTSHIP OF CANADA

All is ready at the City Hall for the first production of this splendid operetta. The rehearsing has come to an end, and now, given to the public for the first time in Belleville, is sure to score a success. Those who wish to enjoy one of the most spectacular events yet given in our city, should secure their tickets at once. 25 and 35 cents, at Goodsell's music store.

Educational Value Of Goods Books

PRACTICAL EDUCATION TO BE GAINED BY FAMILIARITY WITH ONE'S OWN LIBRARY.

Few there are who realize the extensive knowledge that can be gained through an occasional reference to what might be termed commonplace books. There is probably not a family in Belleville that does not possess at least one such volume that is seldom eferred to, or that is possibly concealed in some hiding place where it is not even seen, except at such times as there is a general housecleaning. Run over in your mind the titles of some of these books in your own home. Doubtless you have a copy of the Bible. Do you ever refer to it as a historical work or as a work of reference? You know Abraham Lincoln said: "No library is complete without two certain books—the Bible and Shakespeare; hardly a quotation used in literature that is not taken from one of these works," and Lincoln was a self-educated man—a man of practical learning, whose words of wisdom will be handed down to posterity.

The Bible thus becomes a work of more than ordinary educational value to the everyday citizen; to men and women, boys and girls, old and young alike. The Intelligencer is now offering the New Illustrated Bible, a volume that is unique in that it completely illustrates the subject which each picture accompanies. The illustrations alone cost $50,000. It is possible to embellish a book without actually illustrating it. This Bible is not merely embellished; it is truly and accurately illustrated. Other Bibles there are containing pictures; none other in which the individual texts are actually illustrated, as though by the touch of inspiration. Comparison is impossible, for this new Bible stands alone—there is no other of its kind. Therefore, praise of this superb new book means no disparagement of the many excellent editions published heretofore. Nor is this superiority surprising; for more than 100 of the worlds greatest artists, working under the advice of archaeologists and historians of wide renown have contributed the choicest products of their skill and genius to produce this grand triumph of artistic beauty and perfection in historical detail. These pictures are not mere reproductions of mediaeval frescoes and more or less familiar modern photographs, inserted at random; they have been specially made, in the light of exact knowledge, to illustrate selected texts in accordance with the matured beliefs of the greatest living scientists. It must be remembered that this new Bible also contains every essential special feature that gives peculiar value to the best of ordinary Bibles, such as marginal references, descriptive helps, and beautifully colored maps.

Get this Bible by clipping certificates from The Intelligencer. Today's certificate is printed on another page, and the plan is fully explained there.

FORTNIGHTLY MEETING OF THE RED CROSS

The fortnightly meeting of the Red Cross and Supply Committee of the Belleville Patriotic Association was held on Monday evening, Oct. 19th.

The Treasurer begs to acknowledge the following donations received since the last meeting:—

| | |
|---|---|
| Miss H. Lynch | $1 00 |
| Miss Holden | 5 00 |
| St. George's Sunday School | 3 25 |
| Miss Laura Smart | 25 |
| Mrs. Charles Clark | 1 00 |
| Miss A. Reid | 1 00 |
| Miss Pierson | 5 00 |
| A Contribution to Red Cross Fund | 2 00 |
| From Two Ladies | 1 00 |
| Mrs. A. Tett | 1 00 |
| Miss A. Reid | 50 |
| Mrs. H. Bryant | 50 |
| | $21 50 |

The convenor of the Camp Supply Committee, Mrs. O'Flynn, gave a statement showing the number of articles on hand ready to supply the boys of the next contingent, and also gave a list of the contents of a bale sent in by the Plainfield Patriotic Association through their president, Mrs. C. Beavie:—19 housewives, 24 caps, 11 pairs wristlets, 44 hemmed cheese cloth handkerchiefs, 18 pairs of socks, 1 pair pillows, 15 rolled bandages, 1 cholera belt.

The Y's are also working in conjunction with the Red Cross for the soldiers and have received the following donations for buying material:—

| | |
|---|---|
| Miss Herchimer | $ 5 00 |
| Mrs. W. B. Northrup | 5 00 |
| Mrs. Geo. Boyle | 5 00 |
| Mrs. Templeton | 2 00 |
| Miss Templeton | 2 00 |
| Miss McClatchie | 2 00 |
| Mrs. Boyd | 50 |
| Three donations for wool | 60 |
| Total | $22 10 |

The reports of the other committees were very encouraging, particularly that of the Finance, which has in hand the Hallowe'en Festival at the Armouries on Oct. 30th and 31st.

The Dorcas reported that the families of soldiers were well looked after, also that Mothers' Meetings have been instituted and were held every Wednesday afternoon.

BELLEVILLE RECRUITING SECOND CONTINGENT

Canada's Second contribution to the Overseas forces who will fight for the Empire is now in process of enrollment, and lists have been opened at the Belleville Armouries for volunteers from Belleville and vicinity. On Tuesday evening 10 men applied and were accepted, after being examined by Dr. MacColl, surgeon of the local regiment. Last night eight more were added to the list. Nearly everyone who enlisted and was acepted, were Englishmen, who are anxious to serve the Mother Country. Recruiting will proceed actively each evening, and officers will be present at the Armouries to receive applications and give all information.

Grand Trunk News Bureau

MONTREAL, Oct. 21.—Effective this date Mr. W. H. Sample is appointed Master Mechanic of Western Lines with headquarters at Battle Creek, in place of Mr. G. Viles, deceased. W. D. Robb, Supt. of Motive Power. Approved by Howard G. Kelley, Vice President.

Effective this date Mr. T. McHattie is appointed Master Mechanic of Eastern Lines with headquarters at Montreal, and the title of Master Mechanic of Ottawa Division is abolished. W. D. Robb, Supt. of Motive Power. Approved: Howard G. Kelley, Vice president.

Effective this date Mr. J. Markey is appointed Master Mechanic of Ontario Lines with headquarters at Toronto, and Mr. J. R. Donnelley is appointed Assistant Master Mechanic of Ontario Lines with headquarters at Allandale, and the title of Master Mehanic of Northern Division is abolished. W. D. Robb, Supt. of Motive Power. Aproved: Howard G. Kelley, Vice-President.

Dress Hints.

Vaseline rubbed into patent leather boots or shoes twice a week will prevent them from cracking.

When pressing velvet lay the piece to be pressed face down on another piece of velvet; then it will not become at all glossy.

Sponge a shiny suit or dress with clean hot vinegar and press in usual manner. No odor of vinegar will remain, all the "shine" caused by wear will disappear, and the garment will look like new. The vinegar leaves no stain.

Town Topics.

Philadelphia has declared a moratorium against street beggars.—Washington Post.

Ostend suggests what a fine place our own Atlantic City would be as a military base.—Boston Herald.

New York is not the only city that needs to modernize its ways of bringing in its nearby food supplies.—Boston Herald.

"So Ethel is now engaged in patriotic work?"
"Yes; she is teaching her parrot not to swear."—Boston Transcript.

When the people wed in Holland
And the wedding guests enthuse
Do they shower the bridal party
With those heavy wooden shoes?
—Kansas City Journal.

Mr. Pester—I dreamed I had uncounted gold.
Mrs. Pester — That's just like you. You never even take the trouble to count your change.—Puck.

"Won't you take a chair?" said he,
Just to see her at her ease,
And without meaning she
Said, "After you, sir, please."
—New York Sun.

THE WEATHER.

Moderate to fresh north winds, fine and cooler.
Friday, early winds and fair.

Try Our
DOUGHNUTS
FRIED CAKE
and
ALL KINDS OF PASTRY
Jas. Wallace & Co.

Have Hope and Confidence if you were born in October.

THE OPAL IS YOUR BIRTHSTONE

This stone is unique among stones in the variety of colors.

"When nature had finished painting the flowers, coloring the rainbow and dyeing the plumage of the birds, she swept the colors from her palette and moulded them into Opals.

Our ring stock includes much of this beautiful material in Solitaire settings and combinations with diamonds and pearls.

Angus McFee
Jeweler. Optician.
The Store with the Big Clock.

Wallbridge & Clarke's Delicious Coffee
Best in Quality
Best in Value

Neilson's Chocolates
Fresh Supplies
"Aristocratic", "Demonstrator", "Classic", "Empress", "Every Piece Different", "Cream Dipped Brazils", "De Lux,", etc, etc.

Wallbridge & Clarke
Established 1871

Clean Your House With Electricity

Just at this time, house sweeping is being given serious thought. Why not clean your house with A VACUUM CLEANER? Cleans thoroughly, quickly, and takes the dirt out, flying.

The Trenton Electric and Water Company
Limited
Oswald H. Scott. Local Mgr.

The question of how to collect a tax so that no one will notice it is one of the oldest known to civilized man.

A despatch says "small hot bullets cause little pain." Albeit, this information did not come from a war window.

THE NEW STORE

New Goods Arriving Daily

New Neckwear
New Blouses
New Gloves
New Hosiery
New Corsets
New Underskirts
Health Brand Underwear from 25c to $2.00 each.
New Sweaters from 50c to $7.00 each.

New Linens
Flannels
Blankets
Staples

Serges Meltons
Cashmeres

Men's and Boys' Underwear, Ties, Shirts, Sox, Braces.

Just placed in stock 100 pairs Blankets, prices from $1.25 to $7.00 pair.

PATRONAGE SOLICITED. SATISFACTION ASSURED.

WIMS & CO.

NEXT DOOR TO GEEN'S, 282 FRONT STREET

Keep This Date Open

Thursday & Friday Evenings
October 22 and 23
At City Hall

Courtship of Canada

Under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid of the Tabernacle Church.

TICKETS 25c
Reserved Seats 35c

On sale at Goodsell's Music Store.

Half Proceeds in aid of Patriotic fund.

Ruptures Cured

By Chiropractic are permanent cures. The truth of this statement can be proven by the success I have had with others.

Dr. B. G. HAHN
Chiropractor
42½ Bridge St. Phone 758

Ladies' Genuine
Persian Lamb Sets
$47
Large Pillow Muffs and Stoles
AT
J. T. DELANEY
236½ Front St. Phone 797
(Over Blackburn's Jewellery Store)

BANK OF MONTREAL

Established 1817

Capital, all paid up . . $16,000,000
Rest . . . . . . . . . $16,000,000

SAVINGS BANK DEPARTMENT

Interest allowed on sums of $1.00 and upwards at current rates.

Banking hours, 10 to 3. Saturdays, 10 to 3.

R. TANNAHILL,
Manager Belleville Branch

Despite the havoc that powder and ball are producing, girls still persist in going to balls and powder their face without fear fear of explosion.

The most that foreign powers can reasonably ask of Uncle Sam is to remain neutral and boom business.

To Keep Our Workers Busy

For nearly half a century the standard price and the higher character of Gerhard Heintzman Pianos have been rigidly maintained. Nothing would induce us to lower the quality or the reputation that these pianos have earned. But these are strenuous times, and necessitate stern measures.

Profit Sacrificed to Keep Wheels Turning

We are reducing the price of Gerhard Heintzman Pianos to the point where profit vanishes, solely in order that the enormous business that will result will enable us to keep the hundreds of employees in our factories at work. The skilled workmen who build represent an almost unique organization. If work stopped this organization would drift apart; and, aside from the misery and suffering entailed in non-employment, we would be confronted with the enormous task of rebuilding an organization capable of upholding our standards. Rather would we sacrifice all profit now.

GERHARD HEINTZMAN PIANOS

You Reap the Advantage

Never was a better time to purchase a really high-class instrument. Those who found the price of the Gerhard Heintzman Piano the only obstacle to its possession now have that obstacle removed. Buy your Piano now-save money—help hundreds of families.

Gerhard Heintzman, Limited

J. A. Goodsell & Co.,
316-318 FRONT STREET

WALK-OVER SHOES
The Popular English kind

Are still in great favor with dressy men, We don't know of anything more refined than

The Carlton Model

It has the wanted bench made effect—the stitched sole swinging out wide and clear round the heel helps that—the toe recedes sharply, the eyelets, as fashion decrees, are invisible.

Comes in Tan or Black.
The Price is
$5.00 and $6.00
the pair.

See Our Window Display

W. H. Adams
The Shoeman
Next Door to Sinclair's

Refugees Advised To Return.

THE HAGUE, Oct. 22.—(Via London.)—Cardinal Mercier, Archbishop of Malines, who took refuge in Holland some weeks ago, has now returned to his native city. He has advised all Catholic refugees to follow his example. The Uleuwe Rotterdamsche Courant declares that 20,000 Belgian refugees passed through Roosendaal on their way home during the past two days.

Canada Proud of Tie.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22. — Canada's pride in being a part of Great Britain, a nation which "keeps sacred its covenants and maintains its plighted word," was asserted last night by Sir Charles Fitzpatrick, Chief Justice of Canada, in an address here before the American Bar Association on "The Constitution of Canada."

INTELLIGENCER
NIGHT LETTER BOX

Our friends will find a letter box in The Intelligencer Front Door for the reception of news items after the office closing hours. The box will be emptied each morning.

Had Abscess 9 Years

ZAM-BUK CURED IT AND LEFT NO SCAR.

Mrs. Herbert Cox, of Port McNichol, Ont., writes: "For nine years I suffered with an abscess on my face. I was under medical treatment most of the time and had the abscess lanced repeatedly. I also tried several ointments and salves, but without satisfactory results. Finally the doctor told me I had a tumor on the bone and would have to undergo an operation. I did so and they scraped the bone, but instead of healing, the wound became even worse than before. By this time I was beginning to despair of ever being cured, when a friend suggested Zam-Buk. I had little faith in at the time, but agreed to give it a trial. I soon noticed such a marked improvement that I was encouraged to continue. Day by day I got better. The Zam-Buk seemed to go to the very root of the trouble. Bit by bit the sore healed and Zam-Buk has now completely cured me. It has healed the chronic sore without leaving any trace or any scar."

The above is but one of many instances that could be cited where Zam-Buk has cured after doctors failed.

For any disease or injury to the skin, nothing can equal Zam-Buk. No matter how deep-seated or protracted the malady, this marvellous ointment will destroy the roots of the disease, and its healing herbal essences will quickly build up new herbal tissue.

If you suffer from eczema, piles, cuts, burns, bruises, rheumatism, sciatica, or any eruption. injury or skin disease, give Zam-Buk a trial. It has cured others, why not you?

At all druggists and stores, or postpaid from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, upon receipt of price. 50c. box, 3 boxes for $1.25. Refuse harmful substitutes.

Grand Trunk News Bureau

WELL KNOWN RAILWAY MAN HAS SPLENDID SPORT IN BRITISH COLUMBIA.

Mr. L. A. Robinson, General Passenger Agent, New York Central Lines has just completed a successful hunting trip in the Yellowhead Pass region of British Columbia. He bagged two grizzly bears, three caribou and a moose and he declares that he is going back next fall. He is enthusiastic over the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway and the territory which it has opened up. He was a passenger on the second through train, between Edmonton and Prince Rupert, over the newly completed Western section of the line. He says the G.T.P. will lead to largely increased trade between the Northwestern part of the United States and Canada.

GRAND TRUNK APPOINTMENTS

The following Grand Trunk appointments are announced by Mr. W. D. Robb, Supt. Motive Power, with the approval of Mr. Howard G. Kelley, Vice President.

Mr. T. McHattie, (previously Master Mechanic, Montreal) to be Master Mechanic of Western Lines; Mr. I. Markley (previously Master Mechanic at Allandale) to be Master Mechanic of Ontario Lines; Mr. J. R. Donnelley is appointed Assistant Master Mechanic of Ontario Lines with headquarters at Allandale, and the titles of Master Mechanic of Northern Division, and Ottawa Division are abolished.

BIG CATCHES OF FISH AT PRINCE RUPERT

How rich the waters of the Pacific Ocean are in fine fish is shown by the September statistics for the port of Prince Rupert just received at the Grand Trunk Pacific headquarters in Montreal. The catch of the local fishing fleet during the month comprised: 11,920 cwts. of halibut; 4,440 cwts. of cod; and 10,552 cwts. of salmon. The catch at ten cents a pound would produce $300,120. Prince Rupert has now begun to ship its fresh fish to the East in special refrigerator cars over the Grand Trunk Pacific and the October fishing is therefore expected to be productive of even larger catches.

WANT BELGIAN SETTLERS FOR TERRITORY OPENED BY GRAND TRUNK PACIFIC.

Transportation experts agree that the European war will result in a rush of settlers to Canada and a special effort is being made to obtain for Central British Columbia a large number of Belgian farmers driven from their homes by events in the war area. These people are known to be good farmers and very thrifty people, and will be a great factor in developing the agricultural possibilities of this section of the Dominion, recently thrown open to cultivation by the completion of the tract in the Stuart River district with Belgians and their families. It is expected that after the war is over a large colony will be placed on the land there, as well as in many other valleys along the line of the Grand Trunk Pacific in Northern and Central British Columbia.

CORNS, WARTS, BUNIONS

removed for all time and without pain, by applying Putnam's Corn and Wart Extractor. Contains no acids, never burns, always cures, promptly and effectually. Use only "Putnam's."

When a man tells you what he thinks of you it is apt to be evident that he is not thinking very hard.

DO NOT INFRINGE ON NEUTRALITY BY SELLING TO BELLIGERENTS

State Department at Washington Defines Position of Private Individuals Who May Have Occasion to Deal with European Nations

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21.—In view of the apparent misunderstanding on the part of the general public the State Department issued an informal announcement to-day that the sale of materials of war to beligerents by American citizens is not prohibited by any statute of the United States nor by the neutrality obligations of the United States Government, and that such sales will not be interfered with by the Federal Government. The statement in part follows:

"It should be understood that generally speaking a citizen of the United States can sell to a belligerent Government or its agent any article of commerce which he pleases. He is not prohibited from doing this by any rule of international law, by any treaty provision or by any statute of the United States. It makes no difference whether the articles sold are exclusively for war purposes, such as firearms, explosives, etc., or are foodstuffs, clothing, horses, etc., for the use of the army or navy of the belligerent Government.

"Furthermore, a neutral Government is not compelled by international law, by treaty or by statute to prevent those sales to a belligerent. Such sales therefore by American citizens do not in the least affect the neutrality of the United States.

"I is true that such articles as those mentioned are considered contraband of war and are outside the territorial jurisdiction of the neutral nation, subject to seizure by an enemy of the purchasing Government, but it is the enemy's duty to prevent the articles from reaching their destination, not the duty of the nation whose citizens have sold them. If the enemy of the purchasing nation happens for the time to be unable to do this that is for him one of the misfortunes of war; the inability, however, imposes on the neutral Government no obligation to prevent the sale.

"Neither the president nor any legislative department of the Government possesses the legal authority to interfere in any way with trade between the people of this country and the territory of a belligerent. There is no act of Congress conferring such authority or prohibiting traffic of this sort with European nations, although in the case of neighboring American republics Congress has given the President power to proclaim an embargo on arms and ammunition when in his judgment it would tend to prevent civil strife.

"For the Government of the United States itself to sell to a belligerent any product of the United States is neiher unlawful nor unneutral nor within the power of the Executive to prevent or control.

"The foregoing remarks, however, do not apply to the outfitting or furnishing of vessels in American ports or of military expeditions on American soil in aid of a belligerent. These acts are prohibited by the neutrality laws of the United States."

CHARACTERISTICS OF THE ALLIED SOLDIERS

THE FRENCH

The French coldiers are very gay, singing when they return from the trenches and always seeking to learn the news from any new arrival from the rear. They gather branches from bushes to make fires on which they boil their soup and coffee.

THE BELGIANS

The Belgians are somewhat the same in character, but the recent damage to so many cities of Belgium has rendered them rather gloomy, though they are still full of fight and sure of eventual victory.

THE ENGLISH

The British appear to to be ready to seize the slightest opportunity to play game when off actual duty. They are always cleanly shaven and love to plunge into a creek or river. Behind their trenches are many kneading troughs captured from the German commissariat and now turned into tubs.

THE INDIAN

The Indian troops maintain a calm silence except when in action. Then they utter wild cries in their eastern languages as they enter the fight.

THE MORROCCANS

The Morroccan auxiliaries, known as "Goumiers," maintain all their African habits. They apparently are always ready to rest anywhere that they may find themselves, but sleep with the bridle over their arm and spring into action at the slightest movement or noise.

NILE'S CORNERS

The Watt brothers of Coe Hill, are moving to their new home here, which they purchased from F. W. Clarke.

Mr. R. Sopher is on the sick list.

Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Clarke of Bloomfield, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Irwin of West Lake, Mr. and Mrs. E. MacDonald and Mr. and Mrs. A. Goodmurphy of Chisholm, Mr. and Mrs. H. MacDonald of Gillead, Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm French of Melville, and Mr. and Mrs. Murphy of Wellington were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Elis on Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Walted May, from near Belleville, visited friends at Nile's Corners last week.

Mrs. A. C. Pettingill, of Rose Hall, visited with Mrs. W. Pettingill on Tuesday.

Miss Bryant spent Wednesday with friends on the Lake Shore.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Robertson of Bloomfield, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Ellis on Wednesday.

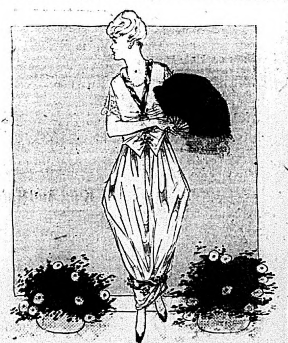
Mr. and Mrs. R. Cruickshanks and children of Melville, and Mr. and Mrs. Ted May of Belleville, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. B. Ellis on Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Way of Consecon, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Nease on Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Ellis and son Clifton, and mother, Mrs. Champside, left on the early train Tuesday morning for Indian Head.

Mr. and Mrs. David May of Little Kingston, and Mrs Stanley McConnell of West Lake, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. C. Ryan on Wednesday.

Mr. Wm. Demeral and family are moving to Little Kingston.



CHARMING FOR THE DEBUTANTE

Fur here begins its new season in an evening gown of turquoise blue taffeta, of the basque style, with a narrow band of fitch at the decolletage and a band around the bottom of the skirt. Pink roses are placed down the front of basque and at intervals on the fur at the bottom of the skirt.

Our Men'
$4.00 Fall Weight Shoes
Cannot be Equaled

Heavy Wet Proof Soles
Leather Lined in
Tan, Black and
White Elk Leathers

We expect to offer these great values
$4.00
during this season when price will advance

SEE OUR WINDOW

The J. J. HAINES SHOE HOUSES
Belleville Napanee Trenton Smith's Falls

Special Underwear Sale

Men's, Women's and Children's underwear, reliable and popular makes in Fall and Winter Weights, at special value giving prices.

MEN'S UNDERWEAR.

Two great specials in Nova Scotia unshrinkable wool underwear, all sizes, shirts and drawers. Extra value per garment, 75c. and $1 each.

Blue and red label all wool shirts, reg. $1.25 and $1.50 each. Bargain price . . . . . . . . . . $1.00

Natural wool underwear, fine quality wool in all sizes, on sale per garment . . . . . . . . . . $1.00

Fall weight undershirts for men, reg. 50c.; sale price . . . . . . . 35c.

WOMEN'S UNDERWEAR.

Unusual values in women's underwear, white or natural, high necks, long sleeves, button fronts, 50c. vest and drawers; sale price 25c.

Other great specials on sale, per garment . . . . . . . . 35c. and 50c.

Women's white vests, 25c. each, on sale . . . . . . . . . . 15c.

White woven corset covers, 25c. each. Sale price . . . . . . . . . . 15c.

Great values in Women's Turnbull's natural wool vest and drawers, on sale, garment . . . . . . . . . . $1.00

CHILDREN'S UNDERWEAR.

Great bargain price on boys' natural wool shirt and drawers, double fronts and backs, fine soft wool on sale, 20 per cent. less than regular prices.

All sizes in Children's underwear on sale, 15c., 25c., and 50c. per garment.

McINTOSH BROS.

Our October Sale
IS NOW IN FULL SWING

The following goods are on sale at SPECIAL PRICES:
Enamelware, Flannelettes, Cottons, Soaps, Brooms, Starches, Hair Brushes, Gas Mantles, Table Oilcloth, Pictures, Stamped Linen Goods, and hundreds of lines of Smallwares.

Be sure and get your share of the good things while they last.

THE BEEHIVE CHAS. N. SULMAN

One of the many New Style Hats for Men, only - $2.00

At G. T. WOODLEY'S
Belleville's only Exclusive Hatter and Furrier.

IF YOU LEAVE IT TO OUR JUDGMENT we will supply the kind of canned goods you will thoroughly appreciate when you come to eat them. In fact you can do the same with any groceries you may need. You can send your little girl or boy with a list of the things you want and we will select them even more carefully than you would if you came in person.

H. E. FAIRFIELD

ADVERTISE IN THE INTELLIGENCER

Daily Intelligencer.

Printed and published every afternoon except Sundays, for The Intelligencer Printing and Publishing House (Limited), in the City of Belleville, County of Hastings, Province of Ontario, at their offices, No. 227 Front Street.
CHARLES JAMES BOWELL, Publisher.

RATES OF ADVERTISING.
Measurement, Agate—14 lines to the inch.
Display Advertisements, 10c. per line.
Reading Advertisements, 15c. per line.
Legal Advertisements, 10c. per line first insertion, 5c. per line subsequent insertions.
Preferred position, 20 per cent. advance upon usual contract rates.
Minimum space, 10 lines.
Births 25c. each insertion. Marriages, 50c. each insertion. Deaths or funeral notices, either singly or combined, $1.00.
Rates for condensed advertisements will be found elsewhere.
Business cards by the year at low rates.
Further information may be obtained at The Intelligencer business office.
Weekly Intelligencer to the United States, $1.50, strictly in advance.

ROYAL YEAST

MOST PERFECT MADE

MAKES LIGHT WHOLESOME BREAD.

REFUSE SUBSTITUTES

MADE IN CANADA
MAKES THE WHITEST LIGHTEST
ROYAL
YEAST CAKES
QUICK
PURE
E.W.GILLETT COMPANY LIMITED
TORONTO, ONT.
WINNIPEG
MONTREAL

THE DOW ALES AND PORTERS ARE THE BEST

FOR SALE AT YOUR LEADING LIQUOR STORES

JAPAN PEACE SOCIETY EXPRESSES VIEWS ON WAR

The Japan Peace Society has given an expression of its peace policy in a letter to the Central Bureau at Berne of the International Peace Conference. It reads:

"The great war which has broken out in Europe threatens to involve the whole world in the struggle, and we, the members of the Japan Peace Society, earnestly hope that the officials of the Central Bureau at Berne of the International Peace Conference and the peace societies of each bellicose country should do all in their power for the restoration of peace in Europe."

This action was taken at a meeting of the society attended by Count Okuma, Premier of Japan and President of the peace oragnization, Baron Sakatani and Mr. Ebara, Vice-Presidents, Mr. Ozaki, Minister of Justice, Dr. Anegaki, of the Tokyo Imperial University, and others. Count Okuma and Baron Sakatani sought the views of the members as to whether a resolution should or should not be adopted to the effect that the society, deeply deploring the war in Europe, hopes for the restoration of peace. The opinion prevailed that the members being Japanese subjects it was improper for them to adopt a resolution of this kind in view of the fact that the Japanese Government had declared war against Germany. It was decided, however, that the American Peace Society of Japan, which is in a neutral position, should be asked to adopt such a resolution.

The preliminary discussion revealed a deep regret that the circumstances have forced a situation throughout the world that threatens to hold back for years the fulfilment of the hopes and desires of the peace-loving people of this and other lands. The danger of Japan's motives being misunderstood by America and the British colonies in the South Seas, and the checking of German scientific research and progress were deplored by a number of speakers.

PRO-GERMANS IN RUSSIA

After all that has been heard from German partisans about the war being primarily one of Russian aggression, it is interesting to find that Russia is, so far, the only one of the allies which is confronted with a more or less serious pro-German agitation at home. At least, a statement made by M. Sazanoff, the Russian foreign minister, shows that he considers this pro-German agitation to be serious to receive some attention. He calls it the "reactionary party," speaks of it as a small element reflected in a "few reactionary journals" and declares that it has gone so far as to compliment Emperor Wilhelm and laud the Hohenzollern family. He insists, of course, that this party is not at all representative of Russia and is negligible so far as Russian policy is concerned.

In view of restrictions on the press and on speech in Russia, it is a singular anemaly to hear of a party represented even by a "few journals" which venture openly to side with the enemy when Russia is at war. One would say that this party must have some powerful protectors. It is not surprising, however, that such a party should exist in view of the ancient enmity between Russia and England and the former alliances between Russia and Germany. Moreover, there is a large element of German descent in the Russian population.

MOBILIZATION RULES

The instructions which have been sent out in connection with the mobilization of further contingents for overseas service state that while young men from eighteen years up may be recruited, those under twenty-one years of age must have the written consent of their parents. Men twenty-one years of age and older are not required to have this consent. This will eliminate a considerable amount of correspondence such as the Militia Department had to deal with in connection with the first contingent. Where a man, however, is the only son of parents who are dependent on him, their written consent must be given. Married men, as before, must have the consent of their wives. Otherwise, the instructions are practically the same as for the first contingent.

SCRUPULOUSLY FOLLOWED

The Government has had a heavy task to perform in the purchase of supplies on short notice and for quick delivery. The situation has been unprecedented. The work thus entailed has been over and above the ordinary duties of administration, in themselves heavy enough. But it has been performed. It has been done expeditiously, wisely, and subject to every precaution and safeguard possible in large business transactions. It has been handled in a straightforward business-like way by straightforward business men, and so far as the public trust is concerned, no just criticism can find foundation. That trust has been amply protected and respected in every transaction in so far as care and foresight could protect and respect it. In neither motive nor method, in any single instance, has there been a departure from this principle.

If minor mistakes have not occurred in the numerous transactions which have had to be encountered it would be a marvelous record, but not a graft has occurred.

CURRENT COMMENT

At the bare mention of an election there was such a panic among Liberal politicians as the world has not witnessed since the flood.

Toronto Globe: "The Hon. T. Chase Casgrain is a good Britisher as well as a French-Canadian." It is much to be regretted that the same cannot be said of many of the Laurierites.

The Borden Government fears no investigation, even with the Laurier press as inquisitors, if the Canadian people are to pronounce the judgment. Let the test come when it will.

Toronto News: "The arrogant, intolerant and brutal obstructionists of eighteen months ago continue to give tongue about the "decencies of politics." Why marvel at anything the "obstructionists" say or do. Even Laurier is prating about Canada's "autonomy."

Wm. Carver, aged 35 years, of Humberstone, died very suddenly of heart disease Tuesday night at a meeting of the B. Y. P. U. held in the basement of the Baptist Church, at Port Colborne. Mr. Carver was just preparing to read an address when stricken.

President Wilson has signed the Alaskan Coal Land Leasing Bill, opening the coal fields of Alaska. Because of restrictions put on the output of coal from Canada to Alaska since the European war began, the bill was hurried through Congress at the request of Secretary of the Interior Lane and several western Senators.

The Toronto Globe is constantly calling attention to some remarks said to have been made by the new Minister of Inland Revenue, which he denies ever having been made by him, but if made are not only objectionable but reprehensible; but no reference is ever found in the columns of the Globe in condemnation of Lemieux's declaration in favor of annexation, uttered, as he explained, when a young man, or of Sir Wilfrid's declaration that his "day dream was separation from England." Why?

Victoria Colonist: "Mr. Pelletier's successor in office, Mr. T. Chase Casgrain, is a Lawyer, aged 62, a member of an old Quebec family. For many years he took an active and leading part in the Quebec Legislature, and while Attorney-General introduced many important reforms. He has the reputation of being a learned and broad-minded man of unimpeachable integrity and with an excellent parliamentary training. His name was prominent at the time of the Taft-Fielding reciprocity compact, of which he was one of the most vigorous opponents."

WAR NOTES

Montreal Herald-Telegraph: "The agitation against German spies in Great Britain, following upon the revelations as to the traitorous work of wealthy German residents there, will have the effect of strengthening the hands of the authorities in dealing with this menace. Britain has been too lenient with spies in the past. Canada appears to have been almost criminally negligent. We have had ample evidence that spies are busy here."

S.S. Bermudian, the well-known steamer of the Canada Steamship Lines, which cruises between Quebec and Bermuda, has been taken over by the British Government, and will carry troops from India to Europe. The Bermudian was one of the ships which took the first Canadian contingent to England. It was expected when the troops disembarked that she would be released. She is the first Canadian steamer to carry Indian troops, and is well fitted for the purpose, her capacity being about 1,000 each voyage, while her fittings are specially suitable.

Information from an authoritative source shows that the precautions being taken in London against an airship attack are thoroughly justified, though a bit premature. While occasional minor raids may be made on London sooner, if Germany gets a foothold on the Channel, the Grand Aerial Armada will not be launched against England until February, for Germany will not be ready till then.

The French military authorities indignantly deny that they used the towers of the Rheims Cathedral as military observation posts, as has been asserted by the Germans to justify the further bombardment of the Cathedral last week. It is stated in Paris that, owing to the lay of the land, such a post is unnecessary and would have no military value.

Statements from several sources agree that the Kaiser has arrived at Czenstochau. The grounds of the club where he and his suite are staying are enclosed with high barbed wire fencing and roofed with wire netting like an enormous cage for fancy birds. His Uhlans and aeroplane squadron are quartered outside.

The fact that British war loans are freely subscribed at 3½ per cent while Germany has to force 5 per cent. flotations on unwilling takers shows which country is in the greater distress.

The death of the son of Field-Marshal Count Von Moltke, head of the German General Staff, in the military hospital at Fecamp, is announced. He was wounded during the early fighting in France.

Two Austrian spies were caught at Quebec early Saturday morning, with drawings and plans, close to the Martiniere Fort, near Levis. They are being held at the citadel.

Signor Salandra, in assuming direction of the Foreign Office at Rome, said: "The supreme tendencies of our international policy will be the same to-morrow as yesterday. There must be unshakable firmness of mind, serene perception of the country's real interest and matured reflection—not excluding the case of the need of rapidity of action."

Montreal Mail: "London hears on good authority that Germany will feel the pinch of hunger this winter. No doubt about it Germany cannot stand a long war."

In an interview, King Albert of Belgium reminds the United States of what is likely to happen to neutral nations. The warning, from such a source, is bound to carry influence.

Hints on Hair Health

If you use our treatment, we will either stop your hair from falling or pay for the treatment ourselves.

Dandruff is a contagious disease caused by a microbe, which if not removed causes baldness. This microbe often comes from a comb or brush belonging to someone else.

If you are troubled with dandruff, itching scalp, falling hair, or baldness, we believe that Rexall "93" Hair Tonic will do more than anything else to remove the dandruff, destroy the germ, make the scalp healthy and stop falling hair, and, if there is any life left in the roots, also promote growth of new hair.

We believe that probably 65 per cent of the cases of baldness could be overcome if people would only use Rexall "93" Hair Tonic for a reasonable time, as directed.

We don't want you to take our word for this. We want you to test the merits of Rexall "93" Hair Tonic at our risk. If you use it and it does not give satisfaction, just come back to us and tell us, and we will immediately hand back to you the money you paid for it. You promise nothing, sign nothing and your mere word will be taken for it.

We are dependent upon your confidence and patronage, and we would not make these claims, or make this offer if we did not believe that Rexall "93" Hair Tonic is the very best hair preparation you can use. Two sizes of bottles, 50c and $1.00.

You can buy Rexall "93" Hair Tonic in this community only at our store:

J. S. McKEOWN

The Rexall Store

There is a Rexall Store in nearly every town and city in the United States, Canada and Great Britain. There is a different Rexall Remedy for nearly every ordinary human ill—each especially designed for the particular ill for which it is recommended.

The Rexall Stores are America's Greatest Drug Stores

HOW TO GET RID OF DYSPEPSIA

Don't Rely on Medicine; Don't go on Freak Diet; Common Sense and an Antacid Usually All That Are Needed

"If you have dyspepsia, indigestion, sour stomach, belching, distress after eating due to hyperacidity (the usual cause of stomach trouble), you should take no medicine to act upon the stomach itself. That is positively not the way to cure the trouble. Again, you should not half starve yourself by going without the nutritious food that you need to rebuild waste tissues. Some foods are not good for people even when in perfect health—very rich, sweet, highly seasoned dishes. Avoid these, but eat fairly substantial meals of plain foods. Eat slowly. Even if you drink nothing but water you should not drink with meals. Drink before and after eating. Do not take pepsin or other artificial digestants. If you follow the simple instructions it is probable that you will not need any medicine at all except, if you want to call it medicine, a little antacid after meals. The best antacid is ordinary bisurated magnesia, which can be purchased at any drug store. This is not to act upon the stomach but on the contents of the stomach. The antacid, as you can learn by consulting your dictionary or encyclopedia, is merely to neutralize or counteract the excess acid so the stomach can digest the food normally. Take a teaspoonful of bisurated magnesia in a little cold or hot water after each meal. You should get immediate relief, even if your case is severe. Careful, moderate eating and the use of bisurated magnesia should put your stomach in normal condition in a short time; if you have not allowed dyspepsia to advance to the extreme stage of developing stomach ulcers.

I FIRST SAW

Hon. Pierre Edouard Blondin, P.C., M.P., the New Minister of Inland Revenue, when he was elected to the House of Commons for Champlain in the general elections of 1908. He went to Ottawa with a reputation of being a fiery platform speaker, but he did not give any indications in the Chamber of any great eloquence. This was probably due to the fact that at that time his knowledge of English was quite superficial.

Since then, however Mr. Blondin has studied hard and well, especially since his selection as Deputy Speaker of the Commons in 1911. He has often had a very difficult position to fill owing to his inability to grasp the "niceties" of the English language when it is used in ill temper as it was during the famous long sittings of 1912 over the naval bill; but, despite the fact that he was at the time the subject of a good deal of hostile criticism by the Liberal press he was upheld by the House and Cabinet, so that he did not need to worry.

Mr. Blondin is the tenth French-Canadian to hold the portfolio of Inland Revenue, his predecessors of his own nationality having been since Confederation: Hon. Telesphore Fournier, Hon. Felix Geoffrion, Hon. Rodolphe Laflamme, Hon. Joseph Cauchon, Hon. Wilfrid Laurier, Hon. L. F. C. Baby, Sir Henri Joly de Lotbiniere, Hon. Louis Brodeur, and Hon. W. B. Nantel. Of these Messrs. Fournier and Laflamme were afterwards Ministers of Justice; Hon. Joseph Cauchon was lieut.-governor of Manitoba; Sir Wilfrid Laurier became Premier; Hon. Mr Baby died a judge; Sir Henri Joly died lieut.-governor of British Columbia; Hon. Mr. Brodeur is a judge of the Supreme Court of Canada; and Mr. Nantel is now a Railway Commissioner.

So that it can be taken for granted that the portfolio of Minister of Inland Revenue is a stepping-stone to higher things—The Wanderer in Montreal Mail.

GRAND TRUNK APPOINTMENTS

The following Grand Trunk appointments are announced by Mr. W. D. Robb, superintendent, motive power, with the approval of Mr. Howard G. Kelley, vice-president: Mr. T. McHattie, previously master mechanic, Montreal, to be master mechanic, Eastern Lines; Mr. W. H. Sample, previously master mechanic, Ottawa, to be master mechanic of Western Lines; Mr. J. Markey, previously master mechanic at Allandale, to be master mechanic of Ontario Lines; Mr. J. R. Donnelley is appointed assistant master mechanic of Ontario lines, with headquarters at Allandale, and the titles of Master Mechanic of Northern Division and Ottawa Division are abolished.

Why Britain Is At War

The Causes And The Issues

It was a reflection of the first of political philosophers that disturbances in States, though they may arise on trifling occasions, do not involve trifling issues. The present world-wide war started from the case of Servia, but involved, even from the start, much larger issues. If only a dispute between Servia and Austria-Hungary had been in question, Britain would have no concern in the affair. But since, as we shall see, this dispute was bound to have ulterior consequences, it is necessary to understand what the dispute was about.

The Case Of Servia.

Servia is a small, but very ancient kingdom in the Balkan peninsula. It obtained considerable accession of territory as the result of the recent wars in the Balkans, the war between the Balkan States and Turkey, and then the war among the Balkan States themselves. The Servian people are akin, in race and religion, to the Slavs, of which race Russia is the predominant Power, and to which race also many of the subjects of Austria-Hungary belong. On June 28, 1914, "the crime of Serajevo" was committed, namely, the murder of the heir-apparent to the throne of Austria-Hungary and his consort in the capital of Bosnia. That province, once a part of the Servian kingdom, had fallen into the possession of the Turks; the administration of it had been given to Austria, by the Berlin Treaty after the Russo-Turkish war, in 1878; and in 1908 Austria had annexed it. The Austrian Government alleged (but has not proved) that the crime of Serajevo was a culminating point in a "subversive movement" organized by the Servian Government "with the object of detaching a part of the territories of Austria-Hungary from the Monarchy." On July 23 the Austrian Government addressed an ultimatum to Servia. Austria had been "left a perfectly free hand" by Germany. It was admitted by Sir Edward Grey that "one naturally sympathized with many of the requirements of the ultimatum," and that "the murder of the Archduke and some of the circumstances respecting Servia quoted in the (Austrian) Note aroused sympathy with Austria." Russia also admitted that "the demands were reasonable enough in some cases." But there were two features in the Austrian ultimatum which caused alarm and regret to those who desired to see the peace of Europe maintained. The first was the inclusion of a time-limit, so short (forty-eight hours) as to leave diplomacy little time to avert war. The second was that what Austria demanded within forty-eight hours was not a reply, but the reply dictated by Austria. "I had never before seen," said Sir Edward Grey, "one State address to another independent State a document of so formidable a character." The German Foreign Secretary "admitted that the Servian Government could not swallow certain of the Austro-Hungarian demands." Sir Edward Grey advised Servia to go to the furthest possible point in meeting those demands, and similar advice was given to her by France and probably by Russia. The Servian Government replied, within the appointed time, conceding the greater part of the Austrian demands. The conceded demands were of a very stringent character. The Servian reply "involved," said Sir Edward Grey, "the greatest humiliation that he had ever seen a country undergo." Nevertheless, Austria refused to accept the reply, and declared war against Servia (July 28). The part of the Austrian demands which Servia had felt unable to concede touched her very existence as an independent State, and with regard to these matters she offered to submit them to the Hague Tribunal. The fact that Austria, while receiving satisfaction on the other points, had made the refusal of the latter points casus belli raised suspicions of her ultimate intentions. "The real question," said the Russian Foreign Minister, "was whether Austria was to crush Servia and to reduce her to the status of a vassal, or whether she was to leave Servia a free independent State."

Continued in to-morrow's paper.

WORK OF LIVE STOCK BRANCH

The past two years have witnessed a considerable extension, both in importance and in effectiveness, of the work carried on by the Live Stock Branch of the Federal Department of Agriculture in Western Canada. A little more than a year ago there was instituted by the Honorable Martin Burrell, through this branch of his service a comprehensive policy providing for the distribution of pure bred sires to associations of farmers organized in districts in which sires of pure breeding and of individual worth were not already available. The details of this policy are now very fully known to the farmers of the Prairie Provinces and British Columbia, and its advantages have been demonstrated in many outlaying districts which have benefited by the use of the sires loaned by the Department. As may have been expected, the demands for assistance have considerably increased since the initiation of the policy, and it is of interest to note that the territory covered by the applications which have been presented has extended so far north as to include the Peace River District in Alberta and British Columbia.

Distribution of Stallions.

The stallions distributed in Western Canada have, with but very few exceptions, all been purchased in that part of the Dominion. While it was not possible to distribute any in 1913, 49 were located with associations during the present year. Of these, Manitoba received 6, Saskatchewan 17, and Alberta 26. The horses purchased for distribution are bought subject to a rigid veterinary examination, and, in addition, must possess desirable quality and action. Being Canadian bred and thoroughly acclimatized, they may be depended upon to leave a fair percentage of strong, hardy, vigorous colts. The prices paid for the stallions, although not extravagant, have allowed Canadian breeders a very fair margin of profit, and are thus providing a satisfactory outlet for useful, home-bred stock. It is estimated that between seven and eight hundred farmers have participated in the use of these Government-owned stallions, and the increasing demand, together with the reports received from the inspectors and the letters addressed to the Branch by members of the associations, would appear to indicate very conclusively that the object of the Department is being satisfactorily achieved, and that these stallions may be expected to improve very materially the horse stock of the country.

Distribution of Bulls.

Since the inauguration of the policy a year ago, applications for the loan of bulls have been presented to the Department in almost overwhelming numbers. Last year, despite the fact that policy was not announced until the latter part of May, in the neighborhood of 100 bulls were located with associations in the Western Provinces. This year, as every live stock man knows, beef bulls have been exceedingly scarce, and the good ones have been hard to buy. Since January 1st, however, there have been located with associations in the Western Provinces as many as 233 bulls. Of these, Manitoba has received 30, Saskatchewan 127, Alberta 70, and British Columbia 6. In this connection it may be of interest to note that, of the breeds supplied, 182 of the bulls were Shorthorns. It may be mentioned, also, that practically 50 per cent. of the applications expressed the wish that, if possible, a strain of Milking Shorthorn should be procured. While the bulls have been purchased, so far as practicable, in the province in which they were to be located, it was found necessary to ship several carloads of Shorthorns to the Western Provinces, in order to meet the large demand for sires of this breed. It has never yet been possible for the Department to completely supply the demand for the loan of Government-owned bulls, but the administration of the work is being carefully and systematically extended from year to year.

A distribution of boars and rams under this policy has also been undertaken. The applications for these sires however, have not been particularly numerous, owing to the fact, perhaps, that both boars and rams may be procured with reasonable ease and without undue expense. While it is not likely that the location of these classes of sires will be extended to any great degree, an endeavor is being made to place animals in districts where such sires are most needed, and where they will yield the best results. In 1913, 25 rams and 79 boars were distributed. During the present year, applications have been received for 22 rams and 85 boars. The distribution of these rams is now in progress.

Wool and Egg Exhibit.

A useful feature of the work of the Branch, and one which will, no doubt, contribute considerably to its effectiveness, is illustrated in the wool and egg exhibit which has been displayed at the larger Western fairs during the past summer. The wool exhibit has been designed to assist farmers and city dwellers alike in gaining a more complete and definite knowledge of the character of wools grown in this and other countries, and of the products manufactured therefrom. It demonstrated how wool may be handled to secure the best advantages to both producer and consumer. It illustrated very clearly the evil results following carelessness in the preparation of wool for market, and indicated the methods by which these evils may be conteracted. The exhibit, in a word, provided an instructive lesson regarding the care, uses and manufacture of this important produce of the farm.

Marketing and Grading.

The principal feature of the egg exhibit illustrated the right and wrong methods of marketing, and included a demonstration in the candling and grading of eggs. On the one hand was depicted the serious loss resulting from careless methods in the handling and in the marketing of the product, and, on the other, was illustrated the manner in which eggs may be marketed to the best advantage and the losses eliminated. The comparison afforded much food for thought, as representing a constructive solution for present-day marketing problems.

The candling demonstration has invariably interested large numbers of people, their interest being awakened by an illustration of the qualities and defects characteristic of the various grades of eggs and by the distribution of an appliance, through the use of which consumers may determine the quality of their purchases, and thus protect themselves against the appearance of stale and ill-conditioned eggs on their breakfast tables.

The whole exhibit was suggestive of a progressive movement, looking toward the development of improved facilities in the production and marketing of farm commodities.

That which has been accomplished by the Branch, as outlined in the above sketch, makes clear that the problems of live stock husbandry are receiving careful attention at the hands of the Minister. The work comprises a very large field of operation, but that consideration is being given to the economic aspects of live stock production is especially to be encouraged, in view of the present industrial situation in Canada.

How's This?

We offer One Hundred Dollars Reward for any case of Catarrh that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure.

F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O.

We, the undersigned, have known F. J. Cheney for the last 15 years, and believe him perfectly honorable in all business transactions and financially able to carry out any obligations made by his firm.

NATIONAL BANK OF COMMERCE, Toledo, O.

Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. Testimonials sent free. Price 75 cents per bottle. Sold by all Druggists.

Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

WAR SONG

The call for enlistment was greatly aided in Britain by patriotic songs. To the tune of The British Grenadiers a lot of people have been singing a song by W. M. L. Hutchinson, of which the first and last verses are:

"Roll up the map of Europe!"
The German Kaiser cried,
"For I'm a new Napoleon,
An' England's 'ands are tied."
But another sort o' rollin' up
Is comin' into play—
"Roll up! Roll up!" sez Kitchener,
An' we're rollin' up all day.

An' while we do our part 'ere,
We'll think with love an' pride
Of our comrades now a-rallyin'
Acrost the oceans wide.
For East an' West an' farthest South
They hear K's call resound—
"Roll up! Roll up for England!"
An' they're rollin' up all round!

BROCKVILLE MAN KILLED

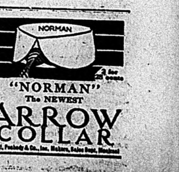
BROCKVILLE, Ont., Oct. 21.—William Cater, an old citizen of Brockville, was killed at a late hour last night on King street, while returning home. He stopped in front of a swiftly moving automobile, giving the driver no opportunity of avoiding a collision. Cater was thrown violently to the pavement, and when picked up was practically dead. He leaves a widow and family.



"NORMAN"
The NEWEST
ARROW COLLAR
Cluett, Peabody & Co., Inc. Makers, Sales Dept. Montreal

Several dozen Ladies' Long Woollen Toboggan Mitts. Reg. 50c. value. Sale price, per pair .. 25c.

25 dozen Children's Woollen Mitts, black and navy; reg. 25c., sale, half price .. 13c.

Alarm Clocks, American make. Reg. $1.00; on sale .. 49c.

One lot Sewing Sets, worth up to $1.00. Sale, 50c. and 60c.

Men's and Boys' Fine Wool Undershirts (all samples), all sizes, on sale at 33⅓ less than regular prices.

Men's All Wool Flannel Shirts; colors navy, light and dark grey; all sizes, sale .. .. .. .. .. 95c.

50 pairs Fine Nottingham Lace Curtains, reg. $4.00 to $5.00. Sale . $3.39

Hundreds of yards Linen Towelling. Sale .. .. 6c, 7c, 8c, 9c.

10 dozen Hand Crocheted mats; reg. 35c.; sale .. .. 20c.

Flannelette Blankets at sale prices.

10 dozen Cape Gloves; reg. $1.00. Sale .. .. .. .. 79c.

50 only, Boys' Sweater Coats, pure wool, several colors, sizes 26 to 32, worth $1.50, to clear the lot in half an hour, rush sale .. .. .. .. 89c.

25 dozen Ladies' Extra Quality Cashmere Hose; never such value sold in Belleville before. 2 pairs .. .. .. .. 44c.

15 dozen Ladies' Plush Vests; reg. 50c. sale .. .. .. .. 35c., or 3 for .. .. $1.00

50 dozen Ladies' Wool Vests. Reg. 25c. Sale .. .. 16c.

About 50 Ladies' Cloth Skirts, in black, navy and grey; tweeds, meltons and serges; worth up to $5.00; quick sale .. .. .. .. .. $1.25

Horse Blankets of all kinds and prices cut to the lowest figures for this sale.

See the immense range of Gents' Ties on sale .. .. .. 15c.

700 yards Plaid Wrapperette, for children's dresses. Sale .. .. .. .. 10c.

10 dozen Tango Hair Pins. Reg. 25c. Sale .. .. .. .. 15c.

26 dozen Boys' Heavy Ribbed Hose. Reg. 25c.; sale . 15c.

Great Sale of Ladies', Men's and Children's

UNDERWEAR AND HOSIERY

Friday Morning, Oct. 23rd, at 8.30

We have just purchased from several manufacturers a large quantity of Woollen Goods, which we are going to Sell in many cases at 50 per cent. less than regular. We also include in this Sale a good many of our Regular Lines of STAPLE GOODS, LINENS, BLANKETS, FANCY GOODS OF ALL KINDS. Thousands of Dollars Worth General Dry Goods to be slaughtered in the next few days. Here is the SALE OF SALES, where you can purchase your Winter Supply at Enormous Savings.

Read Carefully the Items Enumerated Below, and Come Early in the Morning

Sample Corset Covers.

Sample Wrappers.

Boys' Sweaters, ages 8 and 9 years. Sale .. .. .. .. 25c.

Sample lot Children's Knitted Shirts. .. .. .. Half Price.

Ladies' Silk Scarfs. Reg. 75c. to $2.50; to clear .. Half Price

25 dozen Mens' and Boys' 4-ply Linen Collars, all sizes, reg. 15c. to 20c. Sale, each .. .. .. .. 5c.

25 gross Fancy Buttons, fancy pearl and glass; worth 25c. dozen. Sale . . 10c.

Child's Knitted Polkas .. .. .. .. 25c.

Children's Wool Mitts. Reg. 25c. Sale .. .. .. .. 15c.

6 Dozen Ladies' Knit Sample Gloves; worth from 35c. to 50c. Your choice .. .. .. .. 19c.

About 100 Women's House Dresses, all kinds of materials. All sizes; worth up to $4.00. Sale .... 98c.

Another 50 dozen Gents' four-in-hand Silk Neckties. Reg. 50c. Sale .. .. 29c.

1500 yards Fancy Dress Trimming; reg. up to 75c. yard. Sale .. .. .. .. .. 5c.

4 dozen Ladies' Suede Gloves (samples). Reg. 75c. Sale .. .. .. .. 25c.

Table Linen Bleached (absolutely pure). Reg. $1.25. Sale .. .. .. .. 79c.

Men's Linen Handkerchiefs. Sale . 15c.

Pure Linen Tabling Sale .. .. .. .. 50c.

Men's "Union Made" Overalls, with bib; black only. Sizes 32 to 38. Regular 75c. Sale .. .. .. .. .. .. .. 43c.

Men's Water Proof Coats, all sizes, best colors. Regular $10.00 values, on sale at .. .. .. .. .. .. .. $6.48

1000 extra large rolls Toilet Paper; on sale 4 for .. .. 25c.

250 boxes Note Paper and Envelopes to match; reg. 25c. Sale .. .. .. .. 15c.

25 dozen Women's Pure Wool Vests and Drawers. Regular 50c. Sale .. .. .. 25c.

1000 Tungsten Electric Bulbs, 25, 40, 60 watts. Sale, .. .. .. .. 33c.

500 Snap Shot Albums; 2 sizes. Sale .. .. .. 10c. and 25c.

30 dozen Boys' Ribbed Worsted all wool Hose. Reg. 25c. Sale, 2 pairs .. 35c.

29 dozen Ribbed Union Hose for Boys. Reg. 20c. Sale, 12c.

About 50 Women's RainCoats, in all colors.
Reg. $9; sale $5.69
Reg. $7; sale, $4.69
Reg. $5; sale, $3.69

Japanese Matting, 36 inches wide; reg. 25c. Sale .. .. 20c.

Thousands of yards of Dress Goods. Reg. up to $1.25 yard. Sale .. .. .. .. 50c.

300 Preserve Kettles, grey enamel; Sale .. .. .. .. 15c.

25 dozen Manufacturers' Samples Wool Vests and Combination Suits; all best quality goods, on sale less than manufacturers' prices. Penman's $1.00, $1.50, $2.00 values, nearly Half Price.

Boys' Tweel Pants, ages 5 to 15 years. Sale price .. .. 47c.

Men's Wool and Worsted Sox, every color made, all sizes. reg. 30c. and 25c. Sale .. .. .. .. 15c.

100 Japanese Mats and Rugs; all sizes on sale at 10c., 15c., 79c., $1.29, $1.89.

3 dozen Ladies' Comb Sets, 3 pieces to set. Reg. 25c. Sale .. .. .. .. 19c.

Woollen Blankets and Comforters marked at sale prices.

Hundreds of False Faces for the boys and girls, on sale 1c. up.

25 dozen Boys' Heavy Ribbed Worsted Hose, worth 35c. and 40c. Sale . 25c. Not more than 6 pairs to a customer.

11 dozen Ribbed Cashmere Hose; reg. 35c. Sale .. .. 25c.

10 dozen Ladies' Vests and Drawers. Reg. 40c. and 50c. Sale .. .. .. .. 29c.

6 dozen Children's Bootees; factory samples, worth up to 35c. Sale .. .. .. .. 15c.

60 Ladies' Sweater Coats; all sizes, all colors, pure wool, reg. $3.00. Sale .. .. .. .. .. $1.49

Japanese Matting, 36 inches wide. Reg. 20c. Sale .. .. 15c.

1000 yards Plain Silk Ribbon, 5 to 6 inches wide. Sale .. .. .. .. 15c.

100 Sample Dolls. Sale .. .. .. .. 25c.

3 dozen Tea Aprons plain and cross-bar muslin, lace trimmed. Reg. 25c. Sale, 15c.

6 dozen Wool Clouds. Reg. 25c. Sale .. .. .. 19c.

12 dozen Wool Clouds. Reg. 40c. Sale .. .. .. .. 25c.

15 dozen Ladies' Plain Cashmere Hose, Reg. 25c. Sale, 2 pairs .. .. .. .. 35c.

One case Fine Wool Clouds, white and cardinal. Reg. 90c. Sale .. .. 49c.

Men's Silk Mufflers Reg. $1.00. Sale, .. .. .. .. .. 50c.

25 Men's Wool Sweater Coats and Cardigans; all colors, $2.00 goods. Sale .. .. .. .. .. $1.00

15 dozen Boys' "Yorknit" Underwear; all sizes; reg. 25c. Sale .. .. 19c.

5000 yards heavy English Flannelettes, 36 inch wide; reg. 15c. Sale ... 12½c.

100 Japanese Shopping Bags. 5 sizeas. Sale .. .. .. .. 15c.

Linen Table Mats; embroidered, scalloped border. Reg. 50c. Sale .. .. .. .. 25c.

Wm. McIntosh & Co.

The LAPSE of ENOCH WENTWORTH

By ISABEL GORDON CURTIS

Author of "The Woman from Wolvertons"

ILLUSTRATIONS by ELLSWORTH YOUNG

COPYRIGHT, 1914 BY F. G. BROWNE & CO.

steadfastly upon the man opposite him. Merry was a singularly dramatic reader. Across his face flashed each human emotion as he put it into words. Enoch forgot the outer world when Merry leaped into the words with which he had clothed a daughter's greeting to her outcast father—a father disqualified, hopeless, timid, stunned, dumb after the long separation from his fellows.

Wentworth's cigar went out and he forgot to light another. He sat in utter silence, a silence which was half critical, although at moments he was deeply stirred, partly by surprise, partly by unconscious emotion. He breathed a half-stifled sigh. This task, such a splendid achievement, had cost one man a month's labor! He remembered the years of ardent toil he had spent on what, as he realized sadly, was poor. It was worse than poor—it was futile. Even Dorcas had sadly but truthfully acknowledged its impossibility.

When Merry spoke the last word and the curtain fell, he looked up with triumph and joy shining in his eyes. Then he waited in silence, as if for ardent hands to clasp his own. It was an actor's pause for the thunder when he knows he has won his audience. Enoch's fingers lay clasped together on his knees, his eyes bent on the glowing caves of the coal fire. As the actor spoke his voice had a chill, shivering note in it.

"Say, old man, isn't it good? Tell me—don't you like it?"

"Like it?" echoed Wentworth. He turned his eyes straight on Merry's questioning face. "Why, boy, it's magnificent. You'll pull Broadway to its feet with that. Merry, you've done a tremendous piece of work. That will live for—it ought to live for years."

"Thanks, old man, thanks with all my heart. You can't imagine how hard it was to wait for your verdict."

"It's wonderful," mused Wentworth, "it's a corker!"

"Now, old man," Andrew jumped to his feet and began to pace the room impatiently, "I want to rush it on the stage—quick! Quick, I say. Hecht will take it, I know."

"I suppose you'll play the convict?"

"Good God, what else could I play?" Andrew stopped suddenly and looked down at Wentworth.

"You'll kill your reputation as a comedian."

"Perhaps [illegible] be interested in knowing that I've thrown up my part in 'The Left-over Bachelor.' No more doddering idiots for me! Why, it will be easy sledding to get this on."

"Andrew, you're a steam engine."

"Did you think I was a steam roller?"

"Well, it's waked you up. That's dead certain. Who did it?"

"The woman—I told you." Merry turned aside and stood with his back to Enoch, running his eyes over a volume he had lifted from a bookshelf.

"Say, old man," suggested Wentworth, "leave that with me over night. You've given me a lot to think about. I want to read it again—when I'm alone."

The closely written sheets fell reluctantly from the comedian's hand. He fondled the paper as if it were a beloved child.

"You'll be careful of it, won't you, Enoch?" he said anxiously. "It's all I have. My first draft was a garbled, dirty mess; I threw it away."

"Bless your soul, I'll be careful. When I've finished I'll put it in my safe. I'll have it typewritten tomorrow."

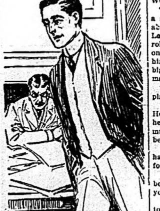
Merry laughed. "Good night, old pard; I'm grateful for your faith in me."

"Good night, boy." Enoch gripped his hand. "I'm terribly glad to have you make good. Your play is wonderful."

Merry went down the stairs whistling. A few seconds later he turned back. He put his head in at the door and said in a melodramatic whisper: "Rush the business, my lord, I'm owing thee a hundred and much else. It shall be paid with compound interest from the first night's returns." Then he laughed and shut the door.

"A hundred!" whispered Wentworth. He dropped into the chair beside the fire and covered his face with his hands. The room had grown dark and it was so silent that when a cinder fell from the grate it made him start to his feet. He searched for a small brass key on his ring, hurried into the library, and unlocked a drawer in the desk. He took a slip of paper from a yellow envelope and stood staring at it for several minutes. His brows wrinkled and a curiously startled expression came into his eyes. He drew a long breath, put the paper back in the envelope, laid it in the drawer, and turned the key in the lock. He walked to a window, which looked down on the square, and stared at the life of the city. It was a habit of his. He has solved many a knotty problem with his eyes fixed unconsciously upon the busy street.

The thought-spell lengthened out indefinitely, then ended abruptly. He hurried to his den, lifted Andrew's manuscript, and seated himself before the desk. From a lower drawer he took a heap of paper, filled the inkwell almost to overflowing, and tried several pens before he found one that suited him. Then, switching on the electricity under a green-shaded bulb, he began with steady laboriousness to copy Merry's play. The clock struck three before his task was ended. He gathered the manuscript into two neat piles. One he placed in his safe, the other he locked in the drawer which held the bit of paper he had studied so intently.



Andrew Began to Pace the Room Impatiently.

He returned to his chair beside the ghost of a fire, laid his face between his palms, and fought a battle between two antagonists, his conscience and temptation. He felt as if his soul was in shackles.

CHAPTER V.

The Forfeit of the Bond.

The telephone in Enoch Wentworth's room rang insistently. He had gone to bed three hours before, and he struggled to shake off sheer, stupid drowsiness. He rushed to the telephone. Its ring had become peremptory.

"Hullo," he called briskly.

"Hullo, old chap," Merry answered him gaily. "The top o' the morning to you."

"Good morning." Wentworth's alertness died in a second. Something flashed back to his mind, something unpleasant, and an ugly frown corrugated his brow.

"Grouchy this morning?" cried Merry with a laugh. "Or say, did I wake you from your beauty sleep?"

"You certainly did."

"Old man, I'm sorry, blamed sorry. Some day I'll show you I'm grateful. I couldn't sleep last night. I lay thinking of something I can do for you when my production begins to pay. I'm going to drag you away from the everlasting grind. We'll go to Switzerland next summer and carry out your dream. We'll sit on mountain tops, crane our necks over the edge of a crevasse, and skid down a glacier."

"I'd rather go back to bed," growled Wentworth.

"You lazy old duffer, you may go in a second, only I want to talk to you about the luckiest sort of accident. Last night I ran across a fellow who's rolling in money. He's crazy to get in on a theatrical venture. We can catch him, I know. I want you to have a big share, to manage the thing and make all you can out of it."

"Did you tell him it was—your play?" Enoch's tone was brusque.

"No, I thought I'd break that gently. He thinks now I'm a devil of an actor; he might imagine I couldn't have so much versatility; that my play might be of the brand some actors turn out."

"Good," cried Enoch, warmly. "You have more sense than I gave you credit for."

"Really? Now, old pal, go back to bed. But tell me first when I can see you. I want a long talk with you."

"Make it four. I've a pile of work to do before that time."

"All right, four o'clock. Good-by."

Wentworth hung up the receiver and passed a hand across his forehead; it was cold and damp. He did not return to bed, but dressed hurriedly, pausing once or twice to stare at himself in the mirror. His face looked unfamiliar. It seemed to have aged. There were lines about the clean-shaven mouth he had never noticed before.

At four o'clock Enoch sat in his library. He was so absorbed that he did not hear a step in the hall. When he lifted his eyes Merry stood before him. Wentworth stared for a second before he took the outstretched hand.

Merry had changed. He looked young, handsome and vivacious—he was better groomed. A few stems of Roman hyacinths sat jauntily in his buttonhole. His trimness seemed odd in contrast to the old whimsical carelessness, as if he had already achieved fame and was living up to it, dressing up to it. These were the thoughts that flashed through Wentworth's mind while Merry took his hands affectionately between his own. Andrew was only a few years younger than Enoch, but occasionally he fell into fond, demonstrative ways which were boyish. Wentworth drew his hand away suddenly and pointed to the low chair opposite. His friend sat down half perplexed, half anxious.

"Say, old man, aren't you well? You look groggy."

"I'm well enough."

"You're working too hard, you always did!"

Wentworth did not answer. His eyes were studying a pattern in the rug beneath his feet.

"Say, Enoch, you're going to tend to the whole business, aren't you?"

The newspaper man lifted his eyes. "Yes, I'm going to tend to the whole business. I'll make it the finest production that New York has seen in years. 'The House of Esterbrook' is going to win money and—fame."

"Good!" Merry jumped up and flung his arms around the shoulders of the older man.

"Sit down," said Enoch. "We're going to talk business."

He rose, walked to his desk, and emptied a drawerful of papers on the table. Merry watched him with a puzzled expression.

"You never guessed, Andrew, that your ambition was mine?" Enoch did not lift his eyes or pause for a reply. "For years and years and years I have dreamed just one dream, only one—that some day I might produce a great play. See how I worked!" He swept the manuscript into an untidy heap. There were thousands of sheets. He had written on paper like onion skin. It looked like toil—one had a feeling of years of toil—after a glance at the laboriously interlined and reconstructed sentences. Wentworth crushed it mercilessly into loose bunches and began to lay the pages by handfuls upon the reviving fire. A little flame climbed up and kindled them into a wavering blaze.

"Here, here, Enoch, old fellow," cried Merry, "don't!" There was a thrill of compassion in his voice. "Say, don't—this is a wicked thing to do."

Wentworth paid no heed to him. He gathered the sheets together with quiet deliberation, crushing them as one would crush some hated, despised living thing, and burned them with stolid satisfaction.

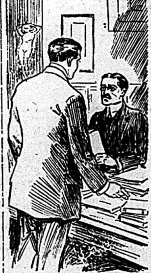
"That funeral's over," he said abruptly. "Now I'm in a mood for—business." He turned to his desk. Merry's eyes followed him. They were dim with unspoken sympathy, but he knew the man well enough not to put it into words.

Wentworth pulled out his key-ring, opened a drawer, and took the slip of paper from the yellow envelope. He stood staring at it for a moment. A wave of crimson swept across his face, then his mouth straightened into a cruel, inexorable line. Merry's eyes were still fixed on him. Enoch did not speak, but crossed the room with the paper in his hand and laid it on the table beside Merry. Andrew's eyes took it in with one sweeping glance: it was the bond he had signed when they played that last hand of poker.

"Do you remember this?" asked Wentworth abruptly.

"Of course. Say, old chap, what has that to do with our business? Oh, I know." He lifted his eyes with a relieved glance. "Of course it's an understood thing you're to run things, and as for money, Lord, I don't care for money. Take all you want of it. It's fame my heart's set on; I've a grand ambition and a thirst for greatness—as I told you—but it runs in only one direction; to win a name as a dramatist, a name that will live when my capering days are over. I want a halo; not such an aureole as Shakespeare's," his eyes sparkled and a smile lighted his face, "but a halo—I demand a halo. I'll be satisfied with nothing smaller than a cartwheel."

He rose and went prancing buoyantly about the room on his toe tips, humming a fantastic waltz from "The King at Large." Wentworth sat with a grim, brooding look in his eyes. Andrew stopped to stare at him.



When He Lifted His Eyes Merry Stood Before Him.

"Why so mum, sweet Sirrah?" he asked blithely.

"Merry," Wentworth spoke in an expressionless voice, "read that bond through—carefully. Read it aloud."

The actor picked up the sheet of paper and read it with dramatic gestures, bowing almost prostrate at each pause.

To Enoch Wentworth.

I hereby pledge myself to you until death—to do your every bidding—to obey your every demand—to the extent of my physical and mental ability—you to furnish me with support.

ANDREW MERRY.

He dropped lightly upon his knees in front of Wentworth when he finished.

"I await thine orders, most grave and reverend seigneur." Then he laid his fingers upon Wentworth's arm and looked up with an expectant smile.

Enoch wrenched his arm free and rose awkwardly to his feet. The comedian drew back with a startled expression, as if fear struggled with bewilderment.

"You see," Enoch's lips were perfectly colorless, "your mental ability is pledged to me."

Merry stared at him, curious and perplexed.

"It is your mental ability which I claim now," Enoch said deliberately.

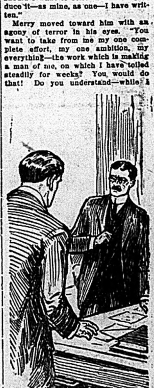
Andrew spoke in a coarse whisper. "I don't understand."

"I demand your play!"

"You demand my play? To sell?"

"No; of course not." Wentworth jerked out the words abruptly. "Why should I want to sell? I want to produce it—as mine, as one—I have written."

Merry moved toward him with an agony of terror in his eyes. "You want to take from me my one complete effort, my one ambition, my everything—the work which is making a man of me, on which I have toiled steadily for weeks? You would do that! Do you understand—while I wrote I scarcely stopped to eat or sleep? When I did sleep I dreamed of it and—"



"You Demand My Play? To Sell?"

To Be Continued

GERMAN LINE WAVERS

British Fleet Takes Part in Fighting Along the Coast.

Desperate Fighting Has Gone on All Day From Switzerland to the English Channel and In Many Cases the Germans Have Given Ground—German Right Wing Weakens and May Fall Back to Antwerp.

LONDON, Oct. 22.—All along the allied front from the English Channel to Switzerland the Germans were held at every point during the fighting of yesterday. In some instances they lost ground after desperate counter-attacks started by them in an effort to resume the offensive. The situation on their extreme right is rather uncertain, but it is positively known that the Belgians have maintained their position on the River Yser, and that British warships are pouring a devastating fire on the German troops within reach of their guns. The fire of the warships has also served to render futile every effort of the Kaiser's men to bring heavy guns into play. Aviators of both the fleet and army have kept the naval commanders fully informed of every such attempt, and the British gunners have more than sustained the navy's prestige for accuracy of gun fire. One German battery after another has been blown into atoms, and it now seems that their artillery operations along the channel must be confined to light field guns, which can be kept on the move.

A flotilla of German torpedo boats delivered an attack against the British men-o'-war, but were driven off by destroyers. Details of the engagement have not been received, but it is stated that all the torpedoes fired by the Germans went wild.

From Lille to the channel the fighting yesterday was steady and of a most sanguinary character. Weighty reinforcements came up from Antwerp to strengthen the German wedge directed at Nieuport, held by the Belgians. From there to Dixmude, defended by British and French forces, the German assault was of a most bitter nature. At the latter point heavy artillery was brought into action by the invaders, and the losses on both sides were great. In the end the Germans were compelled to fall back to their second line of trenches.

The German right wing is wavering all along its tortuous length from the force of blows delivered by the allies. Lille is a seething vortex, and both sides seem bent on holding the town, now occupied by the Germans. The French and British troops are gradually closing in on the position, in the face of perhaps the most stubborn resistance which they have yet encountered. Every few yards German trenches and barbed wire entanglements render attacks extremely difficult. These latter have caused the most serious trouble, the time occupied in their destruction exposing assaulting forces to a withering fire from the German trenches.

Just as the Germans have been unable to make good their advance along the channel, so have the allies failed to cut the line of communication between the Germans in France and those coming from Belgium. All efforts to back through the Kaiser's lines have met with repulse, and the allied commanders are loathe to make the sacrifice of life which accompanies frontal attacks on a scale sufficient to accomplish this purpose. The flanking operations of Gen. Joffre have proved the most effective in dealing with the invaders, and both the French and British are proving adept in whip-saw manoeuvres, which are marked by a demonstration in force at one point, and sudden, daredevil drives a few miles away. With these tactics the centre of the German line between the two points attacked nearly always give ground, and a few more miles, even yards, are gained.

It is declared by correspondents at widely-scattered points that the stand of the allies and the steady receding movement of the Kaiser's army at many points has caused the gravest anxiety among German officers, and something akin to alarm among the German people.

Both began to fear that the Kaiser's prediction that all of his troops will be in Germany before Christmas may be fulfilled in a way he had not anticipated. Indications of this anxiety are shown in the orders countermanding a big feast which was to have been held at Ghent, where as many officers as could be spared were to celebrate the victory of German arms.

In the neighborhood of St. Mihiel, the German crown prince continues to face a steadily tightening line of the republic's troops. His front here resembles a peninsular running into territory held by his enemies, and which, to complete the simile, may be cut by a tidal wave advance at a point behind St. Mihiel.

Reports are persistent that the Germans are hurrying work on a new line of fortifications from Metz to Namur, and thence northwestward in the general direction of Antwerp. This is believed to be the next bulwark behind which the victors of a few weeks ago will attempt to stem the oncoming allies.

Recruiting is Excellent.

OTTAWA, Oct. 22.—Reports to headquarters from the various divisional centres indicate that already the greater portion of the 18,600 infantry required for the next contingent have been recruited. The response at Toronto and other Ontario and Quebec centres has been particularly good.

William Ruttan To Hang.

BRACEBRIDGE, Oct. 22—William Ruttan of Housey's Rapids, who was Tuesday night found guilty of the murder of George Coutermanche, was yesterday sentenced by Mr. Justice Lennox to be hanged on Friday, January 15.

The older a girl is the easier it is for her to forget her birthday anniversaries.

The world is a cage in which humanity is tamed.

WARSHIP'S IN BATTLE ON BELGIAN COAST

English Channel Ablaze With Lights of Fighting Craft.

Newspaper Correspondent Says British Fleet Has Taken Part In the Battle Which is Now Raging on the Coast of Belgium—Big German Retreat is Now In Sight Declares Times' Correspondent.

LONDON, Oct. 22.—In despatches from various newspaper correspondents to-day the reports of the fighting in Belgium and northern France graphically recount the stirring events of the past two days. One correspondent from an unnamed place on the French coast states that under the glare of searchlights the British navy joins in the battle still raging. The entire Channel is ablaze with vivid gleams from the English coast to Calais.

The London Times' correspondent in France says: "The news from the front is entirely satisfactory, and there are unconfirmed reports of successes in the interior, which, if true, point to a German retreat on a larger scale than anticipated.

"Uhlans for the moment have ceased troubling the peaceful villagers. The enemy's rush for the narrow seas has landed him in difficulties which will require all the strategy of the German General Staff to surmount. Meantime the battle of Aisne still drags on its weary course, although serious fighting has practically ceased."

In The London Chronicle Martin H. Donohoe, telegraphing from northern France, says: The Germans, advancing along the coast, made a desperate attempt to break through Dunkirk to Calais and the Straits of Dover. The fighting was exceptionally severe. The Germans returned to the attack three times, and ultimately were driven back along the whole line.

Another correspondent, after deleted details, tells of the Germans being driven back towards the coast, and of heavy British losses. The Germans fire on the white flag and Red Cross discriminately.

ATTACKS ALL REPULSED.

Servian Government Reports Series of Successes in the Field.

NISH, Oct. 22.—(Via London.)—The following official announcement has been issued by the Servian Government:

"On the night of Oct. 17-19 attacks by the enemy were repulsed near the Loznitza customs house and the principal positions on the [illegible] river to the south of that town. On the same night the enemy bombarded Banovia from the Bejania heights and also Topchidelsko, the Bardo bridge across the Save and the two Singanili Islands. None of these operations met with success.

"On Oct. 18 fighting took place along the whole front occupied by our troops in Bosnia, and all the attacks made upon them were repulsed with heavy losses to the enemy.

"On the same day the enemy directed an attack against our right wing in the direction of Montchevo and against Erninova. Both these attempts were repulsed, as well as one against the Servians near Belgrade on the left bank of the Save. On the remainder of the front there is nothing of importance to report."

GREAT LINE IS BROKEN

Russians Crush German Advance and Rout Invaders.

Long, Sustained Struggle Along the Vistula Results In a Severe Repulse For the Germans Moving on Warsaw and Russians Are Advancing Their Entire Front—Austrians Assembling Again.

PETROGRAD, Oct. 22.—The Russian official statement issued last night says:

"The German troops which had occupied the roads leading to Warsaw, in the region north of the River Pilitza, have been repulsed and are now in full retreat, leaving their wounded on the battlefield.

"The Germans have abandoned the positions they had fortified in advance.

"The Russian troops are energetically advancing along the whole front.

"The enemy is still occupying the left bank of the Vistula, south of the Pilitza, and as far as Sandomir.

"The Russians who had been gallantly holding for eight days the region of Kozenitz, under most unfavorable conditions and heavy artillery fire, achieved considerable success on Oct. 20, and their position on the left bank of the Vistula is now secure.

"The attempt by the Austrians to cross the River San below Przemysl have been checked, and the Russians are assuming the offensive there.

"In the region south of Przemysl are found the remains of all the Austrian corps defeated in prior fights in Galicia. Here the Russian troops are energetically checking the advance of numerous bodies of the enemy.

"There is no essential change in East Prussia. We are at present in touch with the enemy on a front covering over 400 versts (about 267 miles) from the lower Bzoura to the slopes of the Carpathian Mountains."

UHLANS' CRIME PUNISHED.

Highlanders Wreck Vengeance For Outrage of German Horsemen.

NORTHERN FRANCE, Oct. 22.—A certain place in the north of France was the scene of a fierce drama of crime and punishment. The actors were a small body of Uhlans and 12 men of a Highland regiment. The latter were carrying out a reconnaissance when they came upon a small farm. It was late in the evening. They noticed fourteen German horses in the farm yard. Stealthily and unobserved they crept into the farmhouse. Downstairs all was silent, but there were sounds from a room upstairs. The Highlanders burst into a room, where they found fourteen Germans and tied to a bed, a young woman.

The scene that followed was swift and terrible. The Uhlans were surprised in their dastardly conduct, and the entry of the Highlanders was like the descent of a sword of vengeance. Rightfully no mercy was shown the Uhlans. Every one of the fourteen was killed with the bayonet, and their bodies hurled through a window into the yard below.

SINCLAIR'S

Pen-Angle Hosiery

We have just placed in stock a complete range of Pen-Angle Ladies' Cashmere Stockings, the only stocking that is Knit to Fit without a seam and made with Shaped Foot and Narrowed Ankle—the best Cashmere Stocking made and sold in Canada at

35c, 45c, 50c, 65c, and 75c a pair.

39-inch Black Dress Silk, $1.15

This week we have on sale about 400 yards of 39-inch Black Pailette Dress Silk and we would like you to pass judgment on this silk. We think it is the best value to be had in a good Black Dress Silk, but we want your opinion of it—39 inches wide and only

$1.15 yd.

Corset Comfort

Becomes second nature to wearers of

C/C

à la Grâce

Corsets

Come in and look them over; also be sure to see our new style Ready-to-Wear Garments

These Corsets Sell from 75c to $5.50

SINCLAIR'S

New Wash Silk Waists at $4.00.

Here is a Ladies' Tailored Silk Waist that will interest you. These waists are made of a Heavy Jap Wash Silk in black and ivory, in very smart Tailored Style and are certainly the best value we have ever shown, in all sizes 32 to 42 bust measure

Price $4.00

Extra Large Coats

we show several styles specially designed for Large Figures in Ladies' Black Curl, Zibeline Cloths, Serges and Kersey Cloths. These coats are sized up to 48 bust measure and sell from

$12.50 to $22.50 each

HAVE YOU JOINED THE "GYM" CLASS IN THE Y. M. C. A.?

If you have you will require a Bathing Suit and also a Gymnasium Suit. For both of these we show Navy Lustres, Navy Wool Serges and Navy Viyella Flannels to sell at 25c., 35c., 40c., 50c. and 60c. per yard.

Sinclair's We Sell Priestley's Dress Goods. Sinclair's

MARKET REPORTS

CHICAGO, Oct. 21.—Huge export sales at rising prices communicated to the wheat market today an appearance of great strength. The finish, altho somewhat unsettled, ranged from 1⅝c to 1⅝c net higher. Corn closed ⅝c up, and oats with a gain of 1c to 1½c. In provisions the outcome was 2½c to 7½c decline.

TORONTO GRAIN MARKET.

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| Wheat, fall, bushel | $1 13 | to $.... |
| Goose wheat, bushel | 1 10 | .... |
| Barley, bushel | 0 67 | 0 63 |
| Peas, bushel | 1 25 | .... |
| Oats, bushel | 0 54 | 0 56 |
| Rye, bushel | 0 55 | .... |
| Buckwheat, bushel | 0 75 | .... |

TORONTO DAIRY MARKET.

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| Butter, creamery, lb sq. | 0 29 | 0 31 |
| Butter, creamery, solids | 0 23 | 0 29 |
| Butter, separator, dairy | 0 25 | 0 28 |
| Cheese new, lb | 0 16 | .... |
| Eggs, new-laid | 0 27 | 0 28 |
| Honey, new, lb | 0 11 | 0 12 |
| Honey, combs, dozen | 2 50 | 3 00 |

GRAIN AND PRODUCE.

TORONTO, Oct. 21.—Quotations on the Board of Trade are as follows:

Manitoba wheat—Lake ports, old crop, No. 1 northern, $1.23½; No. 2 northern, $1.20½; new crop, No. 1 northern, $1.20; No. 2 northern, $1.16.

Manitoba oats—Bay ports, old crop, No. 2 C.W., 62c; No. 3 C.W., 61c; new crop, No. 2 C.W., 57½c; No. 3 C.W., 54½c.

Ontario wheat—Car lots, $1.05 to $1.06, outside, according to freights.

American corn—Fresh shelled, No. 2 yellow, 81c to 82c, Toronto; Canadian corn, 82c, Toronto.

Ontario oats—New, outside, 44c to 46c.

Peas—No. 2, $1.20 to $1.25, car lots, outside, nominal.

Rye—No. 2, 82c to 83c, outside.

Barley—Good malting barley, outside, 65c to 67c; Manitoba barley, 64c to 65c, lake ports.

Rolled oats—Per bag of 90 lbs., $2.85 to $3; in smaller lots, $3.15 to $3.25; per barrel, $5.70, wholesale, Windsor to Montreal.

Buckwheat—66c to 68c.

Millfeed—Car lots, per ton, bran, $23 to $24; shorts, $25 to $26; middlings, $27 to $28; good feed flour, $32 to $34.

Manitoba flour—First patents, $6.60 in bags; second patents, $6.10 in bags.

Ontario flour—Winter, 90 per cent. patents, $4.50 to $4.70, Montreal or Toronto freights, in bulk, nominal.

Cornmeal—Yellow, 98-lb. sacks, $2.65 to $2.75.

WINNIPEG GRAIN MARKET.

WINNIPEG, Oct. 21.—Cash close: Wheat—No. 1 northern, $1.17¼; No. 2 do. $1.13; No. 3 do. $1.08; No. 4, $1.02¼; No. 5 98¼c; No. 6, 92¼c; feed, 89½c.

Oats—No. 2 C.W., 54c; No. 3 C.W., 50¾c; extra No. 1 feed, 50¼c; No. 1 feed, 49¾c; No. 2 feed, 49c.

Barley—No. 3, 65½c; No. 4, 61¼c; rejected, 59c; feed, 57½c.

Flax—No. 1 N.W.C., $1.12½; No. 2 C.W., $1.10½.

MONTREAL GRAIN MARKET.

MONTREAL, Oct. 21.—In sympathy with the weakness in the Winnipeg market yesterday, the tone of cable advices today were weaker and bids were down 6d to 9d per quarter, consequently no new business was reported, but there was an extra good demand from both local and western exporters for ocean grain room, and engagements were made to London, Glasgow, Avonmouth and Leith at 3s 6d.

There was a better local trade in oats and the undertone of the market is firmer. A sale of 10,000 bushels malting barley was made at 77½c per bushel, ex-track, with sellers now asking 78c to 80c. The local trade in flour is quiet and prices are firm. Mill feed is unchanged.

Butter and cheese are quiet. Eggs firm and active. Dressed hogs 25c per hundred pounds lower.

MINNEAPOLIS GRAIN MARKET.

MINNEAPOLIS, Oct. 21.—Wheat—No. 1 hard, $1.13½; No. 1 northern, $1.12½ to $1.15½; No. 2 do., $1.09½ to $1.12½; December, $1.13½.

Corn—No. 3 yellow, 70c to 72c.

Oats—No. 3 white, 46½c to 48½c.

DULUTH GRAIN MARKET.

DULUTH, Oct. 21.—Wheat—No. 1 hard, $1.16½; No. 1 northern, $1.15½; No. 2 do., $1.12½; December, $1.14½ to $1.14½.

CATTLE MARKETS

UNION STOCK YARDS.

TORONTO, Oct. 21.—Receipts of live stock at the Union Yards were 714 cattle, 1808 hogs, 2015 sheep and lambs and 158 calves.

Butchers' Cattle.

Good steers sold at $7.25 to $7.85; medium, $7 to $7.25; common, $6.25 to $6.50; choice cows, $6.50 to $6.75; good cows, $6 to $6.25; canners, $3.50 to $4.50; bulls, $5 to $6.75.

Stockers and Feeders.

Short-keep feeders, 1150 lbs., $7.10 to $7.25; choice feeders, 900 to 1000 lbs., $6.75 to $7; good feeders, $6.25 to $6.50; stockers, common to good, $4 to $6.

Milkers and Springers.

A moderate supply sold at prices ranging from $45 to $90 each, the bulk going at $60 to $80 each.

Veal Calves.

The run being light, prices remained steady. Choice veals, $10 to $11; good at $9 to $9.50; medium, $7.50 to $8.50; common, $5.50 to $6.50; inferior, $4 to $5.

Sheep and Lambs.

Prices remained about steady. Sheep, light ewes, $5 to $6; heavy ewes, $3 to $4; culls and rams, $2.50 to $4.50; lambs, $7.50 to $7.85; cull lambs, $6 to $6.50.

Hogs.

Selects, fed and watered, $7.65 to $7.75; and $7.90 to $8 weighed off cars. We did not hear of any hogs being bought at f.o.b. prices.

EAST BUFFALO LIVE STOCK.

EAST BUFFALO, Oct. 21.—Cattle—Receipts, 800 head; steady; prices unchanged.

Veals—Receipts, 160 head; slow; $5 to $11.50.

Hogs—Receipts, 2500 head; active; heavy, $7.75 to $7.85; mixed, $7.75; yorkers, $7.35 to $7.75; pigs, $7 to $7.25; roughs, $6.65 to $6.75; stags, $6 to $6.50; dairies, $7.00 to $7.75.

Sheep and lambs—Receipts, 2600 head; sheep slow, lambs active; lambs, $5.50 to $8.25; yearlings, $4.50 to $6.75; wethers, $5.75 to $5.90; ewes, $2.50 to $5.50; sheep, mixed, $5.50 to $5.65.

Thinking of Moving?

LONDON, Oct. 22.—The Exchange Telegraph Co. has given out a despatch from Amsterdam which says that an arrival in that city from Brussels is an authority for the statement that the German military commander in the Belgian capital has placarded the city advising all German civilians to leave within 48 hours.

Hon. F. G. Macdiarmid Elected.

ST. THOMAS, Oct. 22.—At Dutton, yesterday afternoon, Hon. Findlay Macdiarmid, the new Minister of Public Works, was re-elected to the Legislature by acclamation for West Elgin. There was much cheering when Sheriff McCall, returning officer, declared Mr. Macdiarmid elected.

DETAIL IS ANNOUNCED.

Contributions of Second Military Division Regiments to New Force.

TORONTO, Oct. 22.—Orders detailing the composition of the quota from the Second Military Division for Canada's second overseas force, which have been eagerly awaited since the announcement that a second contingent would be sent to the war, arrived at military headquarters last night. Though the individual contributions are small, it will be seen that the new force has been spread without discrimination over practically all the regiments in the division.

The quota consists of two battalions consisting of sixty-nine officers and 2,130 N. C. O.'s and men, and is distributed as follows: Queen's Own Rifles, Toronto, 7 officers, 240 men; 10th Royal Grenadiers, Toronto, 5 officers, 120 men; 12th York Rangers, Toronto, 4 officers, 120 men; 13th Royal Regiment, Hamilton, 4 officers, 120 men; 19th Lincoln Regiment, 4 officers, 120 men; 20th Regiment, Halton Rifles, Georgetown, 2 officers, 50 men; 23rd Regiment, Parry Sound, 3 officers, 100 men; 31st Grey County Regiment, Owen Sound, 3 officers, 100 men; 34th Ontario Regiment, Whitby, 3 officers, 100 men; 35th Simcoe Foresters, Barrie, 2 officers, 50 men; 36th Peel Regiment, Brampton, 3 officers, 100 men; 37th Haldimand Rifles, York, Ont., 3 officers, 100 men; 38th Dufferin Rifles, Brantford, 3 officers, 120 men; 39th Norfolk Rifles, Simcoe, Ont., 2 officers, 50 men; 44th Lincoln & Welland, Niagara Falls, 3 officers, 100 men; 48th Highlanders, Toronto, 5 officers, 150 men; 51st Regiment, Sault Ste. Marie, 4 officers, 120 men; 77th Wentworth Regiment, Dundas, 2 officers; 50 men; 91st Highlanders, Hamilton, 4 officers, 120 men; 97th Algonquin Rifles, Sudbury, 3 officers, 100 men.

The numbers required fo Engineers, Canadian Army Service Corps, Army Medical Corps and the various cavalry regiments have not yet been made known.

The force, when formed, will be concentrated at the Exhibition grounds, Toronto, where the men will train until the complete mobilization for overseas transportation takes place.

BATTLE ON LEFT WING.

Allies Hold Everywhere Says Paris War Office Bulletin.

PARIS, Oct. 22—The official statement issued by the French War Office last night reports a violent battle on the left wing, with the allied forces holding their ground everywhere. The text follows:

"On our left wing from the North Sea as far as La Bassee, on the several fronts from Nieuport to Dixmude, from Ypres to Menin, and from Warneton to La Bassee a violent battle has been fought during the whole day.

"According to the latest advices the allied forces were holding their ground everywhere.

"There is nothing to report regarding the centre or the right wing.

"Russia—The German army which had advanced on Warsaw was forced yesterday (Tuesday) to beat a precipitate retreat, the enemy abandoning the positions which he had established for defence. The Russians are in pursuit and have captured a number of prisoners."

The official communique, issued yesterday afternoon, was notably laconic:

"During the day (Tuesday) the attacks of the enemy were particularly violent at Nieuport, Dixmude and La Bassee. They were all repulsed by the allied armies with great energy.

"At all other points the situation is without any notable change."

HUNDREDS ARE ARRESTED.

Austrians and Germans Are Being Rounded Up In Britain.

LONDON, Oct. 22.—Austrian and German subjects of military age who, since the beginning of the war, have been allowed their liberty in England unless they rested under some suspicion, are to be interned in detention camps.

The police during the last few days have been arresting hundreds of men between the ages of 17 and 65 years, and sending them to camps in different parts of the country. More than 200 were arrested yesterday in London, 100 were arrested in Manchester and similar numbers were taken in all the large cities.

This action of the Government is necessitated, it is said, because of the facilities offered German spies to enter with Belgium refugees on the pretence of being Belgians.

Two Years For Grain Swindle.

TORONTO, Oct. 22.—A sentence of two years less one day in the Ontario Reformatory, with the recommendation that the prisoner be sent to the Industrial Farm, was imposed by Judge Coatsworth at the sessions yesterday, upon Charles E. Hall, who was found guilty of attempting to secure $45,000 from the Maple Leaf Milling Co., on Aug. 18, by means of bogus bills of lading.

Gulf of Smyrna Closed.

COPENHAGEN, Oct. 22.—A despatch appears in The Frankfurter Zeitung from Constantinople to the effect that the Porte has closed the Gulf of Smyrna to warships, and that all foreign ambassadors have been notified of this action. The Dardanelles, controlled by Turkey, have been closed to all shipping for several weeks.

TELEGRAPH BRIEFS.

The Belgian refugees are beginning to return to their own country, especially to the city of Antwerp.

An effort is being made to organize a corps of civil servants in Ottawa who do not belong to any of the militia regiments.

Mrs. James Romain and her brother, Tony Demarco, of North Bay, were arrested yesterday on a charge of arson, as a result of a fire at the Romain residence.

Lt.-Col. W. S. Hughes will be appointed provisionally in command of the infantry battalion to be organized from the infantry and rifle units of the third division.

It is officially announced that Maj. Liberte, Quebec, will have charge of the machine gun section of the French-Canadian regiment, while Maj. Rainville will be quartermaster.

Italy has decided to remain out of the war, but she has notified the powers that she may find it necessary to occupy Avlona, Albania, owing to the chaotic conditions prevailing in that country.

The German steamer Santa Catharina, from New York for Rio Janeiro, etc., before reported seized as a war prize, is now reported sunk off Parcel dos Abrolhos, off Rio Janeiro as a result of fire.

A message from Athens states that two submarines and a number of aeroplanes in parts are en route to Constantinople via Rustchuk, on the northern border of Bulgaria. They are from some German point.

The steamer Brussels reports that she saw the steamer Cormorant of Cork sink in the North Sea. It is supposed she struck a mine. Her crew probably were saved by a torpedo boat which was seen to leave Harwich.

Priest Killed Station Agent.

CHICAGO, Oct. 22.—Father J. J. Mullen, pastor of Holy Rosary Church, stabbed and killed Thomas W. Patterson, the station agent at Hillside, a suburb, Tuesday night, after a quarrel in which Patterson had no part. The priest then stood on the right-of-way of the Illinois Central Railroad, stopped a train, and, threatening passengers and the train crew with a knife, boarded it. He was overpowered after a struggle and locked up at Hillside.

Father Mullen has been pastor of Holy Rosary Church for 12 years, ever since his arrival here from Rome.

DRS. SOPER & WHITE

SPECIALISTS

Piles, Eczema, Asthma, Catarrh, Pimples, Dyspepsia, Epilepsy, Rheumatism, Skin, Kidney, Blood, Nerve and Bladder Diseases.

Call or send history for free advice. Medicine furnished in tablet form. Hours—10 a.m. to 1 p.m. and 2 to 6 p.m. Sundays—10 a.m. to 1 p.m.

Consultation Free

DRS. SOPER & WHITE

25 Toronto St., Toronto, Ont.

Winston Churchill Thanks Japan.

LONDON, Oct. 22.—The following message of thanks has been sent to the Minister of Marine at Tokio by Winston Churchill, First Lord of the Admiralty:

"The great object is the extermination of the main German base in the Pacific. The Japanese squadrons are giving invaluable help to the protection of trade, the search of the enemy's ships and the convoy of troops in this decisive theatre of conflict."

NOTED SWINDLER TAKEN.

Dr. R. C. Flower Wanted on Charge of Frauds of $1,000,000.

TORONTO, Oct. 22.—After a chase which has extended over the whole North American and part of the South American continents for the past fifteen years, Dr. R. C. Flower, alias Oxford, alias Montgomery, was arrested last night as he was about to enter his home at 1,542 King street west. Detective Armstrong of the local police was accompanied by Supt. Fuller of the local branch of the Pinkerton Agency and Lieutenant of Police McConville of New York City. Flower was held an an indictment returned against him in the fall of 1899 in New York City. He is alleged to have swindled New Yorkers and others out of $1,000,000 by means of a mine which was not even a prospect.

Flower is now nearly seventy years of age and in a bad condition physically. His health is such that he is now compelled to use drugs to keep up his apparent vigor and nerve.

Rising In Portugal Suppressed.

LISBON, Portugal, Oct. 22.—(Via London.)—A revolutionary outbreak in the cities of Braganza and Mafra, under the leadership of Adriano Beca, a former colonel, has been promptly put down, according to official announcement made yesterday.

Beca has been arrested and a band of the revolutionists who went out from Mafra are being pursued by troops. Beyond the cutting of telegraph wires, and the stopping of trains, nothing seems to have been accomplished.

Mine Kills Children.

ROTTERDAM, Oct. 22.—The Nieuwe Rotterdamsche Courant states that on Monday a floating mine, which was washed ashore at Deyst, exploded and killed three children. Another mine came ashore at Knocke. Four drifted into Zeebrugge, where they were dealt with by Germans. If, as reported from Harwich, a Holland-American liner had run on a mine in the North Sea and been damaged, the vessel is probably the Ryndam. The Potsdam is lying at Rotterdam.

Short Stories.

Guam island is twenty-two miles long.

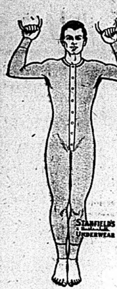
Coffee was first planted in Brazil in 1754.

Cholock waterfall, Yosemite, is 2,384 feet high.

The effective range of the rifle, which in 1870 was a little over 400 yards, is now 700.

The Daily Republic, one of the native newspapers of Hankow, China, recently published "The Pilgrim's Progress" as a serial.

HIGH GRADE FURNISHINGS



Travel the Country over and you'll not find a better line of Men's Toggery than you'll find right here.

The best Shirt makers, Underwear makers, Scarf makers, Sweater Coat makers and Coat and Glove makers send us their productions.

The Best In Every Line Is Here!

Then again we are not high priced.

All the Patrons of the Store know this to be a fact. Test us and see.

See our New $1 Shirts;
Look at our $1 Gloves;
See our 25c and 50c Neckwear;
Look at our Sweater Coats from 75c up;
If You Doubt Our Splendid Value Giving.

Quick & Robertson
CLOTHING AND FURNISHING

Don't Think Your Eyesight is good because you read the paper a yard from your eyes!

This is a sure sign that you have Presbyopia, and need Glasses to see clearly for close work.

Decide to-day to have me examine your eyes and prepare just the Lenses your eyes need to enable you to see without effort.

Alex. Ray
Eye Specialist

ARTHUR McGIE
Merchant Tailor

Our New Fall Stock of imported Suitings and Overcoatings now in stock in all latest designs.

You are invited to inspect our stock.

ARTHUR McGIE
208 Front Street

Coffee Ice Cream

COFFEE ICE CREAM makes a nice change, and we will have it on our menus for the balance of the week, or have a brick delivered to you.

Coffee and Walnut Bricks, 25c and 50c

Ed. F. Dickens & Son
Phone 170

A SAVING PROBLEM

GET THE
F. S. ANDERSON CO'S
GENUINE
SCRANTON
COAL
BELLEVILLE

Pure Clinkerless, Well Screened Coal.
"The coal of perfect satisfaction."
Office, 42 Bridge St. Phone 231a
Yard Office, S. Front St. Phone 231b

MARRIAGE LICENSES

Marriage Licenses issued by P. Harrison at The Intelligencer Office, pr. at residence, Lewis Street.

S. A. HYMAN & CO.
Established 1870. MAKERS OF FINE FURS

Furs Cheaper This Year

That every advantage comes to purchasers of Furs this season.

It is just the difference between what was paid last season for Furs and the lower prices which prevail this season that makes the saving of at least 20 per cent. possible.

Good Style, Quality and Lowest Prices

Make a combination in our Furs that means satisfaction to the purchaser.

Those who have worn our Furs know their value, and to all who have not yet had an opportunity we invite inspection and comparison.

Ladies' Fur-Lined Coats, $35 to $75
Ladies' Muskrat Coats, $37 to $85
Western Sable Sets, $20 to $40

S. A. Hyman & Co.
242 FRONT STREET

N.B.—Fur Repairs and Alteration carefully attended to at Lowest Prices.

At our Window.

The little ones enjoying the

BARLER "IDEAL" HEATER
$4.00, $5.00, $6.50

THE SMITH HARDWARE CO.
PLUMBING—HEATING
MOTOR CYCLES
314 FRONT ST. PHONE 204

HAVE THE INTELLIGENCER SENT TO YOUR HOME ADDRESS

IN AND ABOUT THE CITY

Condensed News Items for Busy Readers.

WHEEL CLAIMED

A bicycle was at a late hour last night found in a gangway and was taken in charge by the police. This morning the article was claimed.

RODE ON WALK

A citizen was this morning before Magistrate Masson charged with riding his bicycle upon the sidewalk. He was found guilty and a fine of $5 and costs was imposed, which was paid.

CHICKENS STOLEN

On Tuesday evening the chicken coop of Mrs. Naylor, who resides on McDonald Avenue, was raided and a number of fowls taken away. There is no trace of who the guilty party or parties were.

REMAINS BROUGHT HERE

The body of Mrs. Lockwood, an elderly lady who died at Napanee, was brought here to-day and interred in the family plot at the Belleville cemetery. Deceased was a sister of Mr. James Chisholm who resides on the Kingston Road.

SENT UP ON THE HILL

Margaret McCarthy, an elderly woman, will for the next 21 days be taken care of at the County Jail. This morning the unfortunate woman pleaded guilty to intoxication, and as it was by no means her first offence, she was find $10 and costs, which she was unable to pay.

BISHOP BIDWELL A VETERAN

The Bishop of Kingston has been elected honorary chaplain of the Kingston Veterans' Association. His Lordship intended joining the ranks of the Association having had five years military experience in the Bedfordshires. Kingston's Bishop is proud of his early military experience and the Veterans are pleased to have him in their ranks.

BIRTRHDAY PARTY

A pleasant and enjoyable party was held yesterday in honor of Miss Winnifred Riggs, who celebrated her twelfth birthday. A large number of young friends were invited, and after a tasteful supper, provided by the young hostess, games were indulged in until a seasonable hour, when the young folks dispersed to their various homes, wishing Winnie many more such happy birthdays.

DEATH OF AGED MAN

Mr. James Elmy, who resided with his brother, Mr. George Elmy, Lewis street, passed away yesterday afternoon after being ill for some time. Deceased, who was 78 years of age, was a son of the late Mr. James Elmy and was born in Prince Edward county. For many years Mr. Elmy resided in Manitoba, but of late years had lived in this city and vicinity. He was a widower and a member of the Anglican church. Two brothers, John and George of this city, and two sisters, Mrs. P. Davis, of Michigan, and Miss Maria of this city, survive. The remains will be taken to Sannonville for interment.

A Special Exposition of Ladies' Afternoon and Evening Dresses, also Waists At Ritchie's To-morrow

We are very pleased to announce that for to-morrow only we are holding a special style display of the latest New York and Paris styles in Ladies' Afternoon and Evening Dresses, also Waists.

They are the entire range of style models from the largest Dress and Waist firm in Canada, and you will have the privilege of ordering from any one of them if you so desire.

The newest, materials and most authentic styles for this and the coming season will be shown, and we cordially invite every lady to be present. Remember, for one day only — to-morrow.

The Ritchie Company, Limited.

Rifle Shooting

The members of the Belleville Rifle Association held their last shoot of the season on the rifle butts yesterday afternoon. Conditions, 7 shots each at 200, 500, and 600 yards; handicap for silver spoons. There was another big attendance and the scoring was very good. This shoot also decided the championship of the association; conditions, best three scores made during the season. The result of this proved very exciting, there being only a few points between the leaders, and the result was in the balance until almost the last shot was fired. Mr. Douch is again the champion for the second year in succession, but as he took the Ross rifle, which goes with the championship, last year, it goes to the next best man—Mr. Corrigan, a most popular winner.

Full score and details:—

SPOON COMPETITION.

| | Actual score | Handicap added | Total |
|---|---|---|---|
| *A. Haggerty | 87 | 8 | 95 |
| *J. Douch | 93 | 0 | 93 |
| *P. Geen | 70 | 20 | 90 |
| *H. Sneyd | 72 | 15 | 87 |
| *J. Thompson | 80 | 5 | 85 |
| A. J. Stewart | 83 | 0 | 83 |
| D. J. Corrigan | 84 | 0 | 83 |
| J. J. Shea | 64 | 15 | 79 |
| W. Vallance | 59 | 20 | 79 |
| W. Smith | 61 | 15 | 76 |
| Col. W. N. Ponton | 65 | 10 | 75 |
| J. W. Davison | 75 | 0 | 75 |
| P. McL. Forin | 70 | 5 | 75 |
| S. Amodeo | 52 | 20 | 72 |
| Lieut. R. E. Orr | 66 | 5 | 71 |
| A. R. Symons | 55 | 15 | 70 |
| A. D. Harper | 66 | 2 | 68 |
| G. B. Smith | 58 | 10 | 68 |
| C. J. Symons | 47 | 20 | 67 |
| L. F. Evans | 51 | 15 | 66 |
| H. C. Thompson | 61 | 5 | 66 |
| J. McIntyre | 43 | 20 | 63 |
| C. I. White | 40 | 20 | 60 |
| M. Wright | 44 | 15 | 59 |
| J. Thrasher | 36 | 15 | 51 |

* Winners of silver spoons.

Best ten scores in championship. Highest possible score, 315.

| | |
|---|---|
| J. Douch | 289 |
| *D. J. Corrigan | 284 |
| A. J. Stewart | 283 |
| J. Thompson | 282 |
| J. W. Davison | 279 |
| A. Harman | 269 |
| A. Haggerty | 264 |
| J. Gilbey | 258 |
| C. Thompson | 254 |
| W. J. Andrews | 248 |

* Winner of Ross rifle, presented by Senator Corby.

Last night's scores on the indoor range of the Armouries were as follows: 10 shots at 25 yards. Highest possible score, 100.

| | |
|---|---|
| B. Parks | 98 |
| J. Douch | 96 |
| G. Stallworthy | 96 |
| A. J. Stewart | 96 |
| J. Thompson | 95 |
| A. Harman | 95 |
| D. J. Corrigan | 94 |
| W. J. Andrews | 94 |
| A. D. Harper | 93 |
| E. Deshane | 92 |
| R. McMullen | 91 |
| G. Ellis | 91 |
| Capt. A. P. Allen | 91 |
| E. T. Austin | 91 |
| H. C. Thompson | 88 |
| P. McL. Forin | 88 |
| L. F. Evans | 87 |
| A. Haggerty | 87 |
| R. Tannahill | 84 |
| H. Sneyd | 84 |
| L. Weese | 84 |
| C. Thompson | 84 |
| G. W. Anderson | 84 |
| J. W. Evans | 80 |
| D. Asselstine | 76 |
| R. Spafford | 75 |
| G. F. Barlow | 71 |
| J. Woodley | 70 |
| D. Price | 64 |
| W. Alford | 60 |
| C. J. Symons | 57 |
| S. Amodeo | 52 |

Shooting takes place in the Armouries every Monday, and Wednesday night.

A Successful Pedro Party

At the B.L.E. Hall on Pine street, last evening a most enjoyable time was participated in by the large number who assembled there. The occasion was a pedro party, given under the auspices of the local branch of the Grand International Auxiliary. About 150 were present, filling the hall to its utmost capacity. Guests from Montreal and Toronto were in attendance. As a result of the competition Mrs. Gains won the prize for the ladies, conductor Jerdon won the gent's prize for the greatest number of games won, and conductor M. Murray won the gent's prize for playing the greatest number of lone hands. After the competition refreshments were served by the ladies, and this was followed by dancing, which was indulged in for some time. The chief engineer of the local branch of the Brotherhood occupied the chair, filling it in a most capable and affable manner.

$10,000 Desecration

The Editor, The Intelligencer.

Dear Sir,—It is nothing short of an outrage proposed to be perpetrated on the City of Belleville, to plant the Children's Shelter in the beautiful gore at the top of Murney's Hill with its old historic elms and associations, and in the beautiful residential centre. With 1800 acres in the city limits to choose from, will the citizens of Belleville calmly submit to having one of their great assets destroyed by this parading our poverty, or rather, parading the philanthropy of the few who stand behind this proposal. It will be of course a grand thing for those who thus no doubt will meaningly but misguidedly give this black eye to Belleville, for those who thus destroy the whole assessable value of a whole neighborhood, to say "See what we did. This is our glory!" If I do not mistake the common sense as well as the public spirit of the citizens of Belleville the Children's Shelter, estimable as its objects are in the proper place, will receive no further support in this city if the building by-laws of the city permit the perpetration of this act of obtrusive vandalism. It will cost, not merely them, but also the whole city, dearly. Who is getting the $10,000?

W. N. PONTON.

Stoves! Stoves! Stoves!

Before Buying, See Our Big Line Of

Quebec Heaters
Oak Stoves
Base Burners, etc.

We have the Stove you want at the right price

SATISFACTION GUARANTEED

The John Lewis Co.
Limited
THE STOVE STORE

A Winter Scene in The Schuster Co's Ltd. Lumber Yard, Belleville

The European War has resulted in an active demand for CANADIAN FARM PRODUCTS AT GOOD PRICES. Keep your buildings in good repair and erect new ones. Our prices are attractive on lumber, shingles & lath.

THE SCHUSTER COMPANY LTD.

NOTICE

To my Customers and the Public in General: Everybody knows that all kinds of Fat Stock are bringing record prices at the present time; but I have not raised my prices. I buy direct from the farmer for cash so as to give my customers the middleman's profits. Read these prices:—

| | |
|---|---|
| Best Sirloin or Porter House Roasts or Steaks | 20c. lb. |
| Legs of Lamb | 20c. lb |
| Lamb Chops | 20c. lb |
| Fore Quarters Lamb | 15c. lb. |
| Best Round Steak | 18c. lb. |
| Home made All Pork Sausages | 15c. lb. |
| Mixed Sausages | 10c. lb.; 3 lbs. for 25c. |
| Pure Home Rendered Lard | 18c. |

Choice Western Beef kept the year round.

GEO. I. THOMAS
317 Front Street. Phone 305.

INTELLIGENCER NIGHT LETTER BOX

Our friends will find a letter box in The Intelligencer Front Door for the reception of news items after the office closing hours. The box will be emptied each morning

Leak Let Water Into The Milk

Fine of Twenty-Five Dollars and Costs at Police Court

At police court, Peterborough, yesterday morning, Joseph B. Reylock was charged with supplying milk to the Belmont cheese factory, in which there was a large percentage of water. It transpired that the creamer in which he placed the milk cans had a hole in it, and the water kept running into the milk until both vessels were at the same level. This went on for about 10 days. When the leak was discover- he told the inspector about it. He was unaware how long this had been going on.

Mr. Thompson, Madoc, official prosecutor for the Dairymen's Association, laid the information. The defendant was fined $25 and costs, amounting in all to $28.50.

Names Omitted

The following name were unavoidably omitted from the list of those who contributed clothing to the Belgian Fund:— Ketcheson & Earle, Mrs. (Dr.) Dolan, W. H. Adams, Miss Gael.

Cooling Beverages

Rey's Ale and Porter, O'Keefe's Special Mild Ale, Gold Label Ale, Lager and Stout; Carling's Ale and Porter, and Half and Half and Half; Dow's Ale and Porter; Dawe's Black Horse Ale; Meisers Ale and Porter; Regal Lager; Basss Ale; Guinness Stout; Budweiser's Lager; Kegs of Ale, Lager and Porter.

W. A. RODBOURNE
Up-town Liquor Store.
[illegible] Front St. Phone
Orders delivered promptly to any part of the city.

We are now showing our first importations, indicating the true trend of fashions for the approaching season in both Tailored and Dress Hats from the famous contouries of Paris.

McCrodan & Sills

All That's New In Fall And Winter . . .
MILLINERY
Will be found at our store.
HATS for Ladies, Girls and Children.
Moderate Prices
Miss M. Campbell

BRIGHTEN UP
YOUR STOVES, STOVE PIPES, RADIATORS, Etc., with
The SHERWIN-WILLIAMS
Aluminum Paint
Looks better, lasts longest, goes farthest
25c tin
WATERS DRUG STORE

We Never Sleep
The Hogan Burial Co.
Leading Undertakers
Our exclusive lines of caskets and several new additions in the line of funeral equipment make our parlors one of the most up-to-date in Canada. Open night and day.
Phone 774.
189 Front Street
Belleville

In modern warfare comes quick. Troops front in a hurry, and driven at high speed thing as delay.

Ice Cream

We have
ICE CREAM
Every Day
Hot or cold, rain or shine.

We can send it to you in bulk, bricks, or individual fancy moulds.

Chas. S. Clapp

Your friends will smile if you let your money talk.

Advertise In The Intelligencer.

OWES HER LIFE TO "FRUIT-A-TIVES"

Cured Both Stomach Trouble and Headaches

PALMERSTON, ONT., JUNE 20th. 1913.

"I really believe that I owe my life to "Fruit-a-tives". Ever since childhood, I have been under the care of physicians and have been paying doctor's bills. I was so sick and worn out that people on the street often asked me if I thought I could get along without help. The same old Stomach Trouble and distressing Headaches nearly drove me wild. Sometime ago, I got a box of "Fruit-a-tives" and the first box did me good. My husband was delighted and advised a continuation of their use.

Today, I am feeling fine, and a physician meeting me on the street, noticed my improved appearance and asked the reason. I replied, "I am taking Fruit-a-tives". He said, "Well, if Fruit-a-tives are making you look so well, go ahead and take them. They are doing more for you than I can".

MRS. H. S. WILLIAMS.

"Fruit-a-tives" are sold by all dealers at 50c. a box. 6 for $2.50, trial size 25c. or sent postpaid on receipt of price by Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

CLASSIFIED ADVERTISEMENTS

Advertisements under this head, 25 words or less, 25 cents for each insertion, and one cent for each additional word; 4 insertions 75 cents; 6 insertions, $1.00, invariably in advance. This rate applies to all except advertisements for Auction Sales, which will be published at two cents per word. Count 8 marks and (12) figures as one word each.

SITUATIONS WANTED—FEMALE

CAPABLE DOMESTICS — GOOD REFERENCES—Scotch, Irish and English, arriving almost weekly. Apply 183 Gerrard Street East, Toronto, and 71 Drummond Street, Montreal.

HELP WANTED—FEMALE

A GENERAL HOUSEMAID. APPLY 80 Commercial Street. 21 2td

BUSINESS CHANCES

DO YOU NEED ADDITIONAL CAPITAL to commence or enlarge a business? If so, we will organize a Limited Company and procure such capital as required. Write or call. A. G. Robertson & Co. 155 King Street east, Toronto. dtf

TO RENT

TWO SIX ROOMED DWELLINGS, CORNER Bridge and Dufferin Streets, and two five roomed flats and a two roomed flat. Apply Dr. Caldwell. o1.dtf

A FURNISHED SITTING ROOM AND bed room with hot water heating and electric light, with or without meals. Will rent bed room separately if desired. Apply to Box L, Intelligencer. 20-6td

ROOMS TO LET OVER UNION BANK: Hot water heated. Suitable for offices, workrooms or light housekeeping. Burrows of Belleville. 20-6td

TWO ROOMS TO LET: CONVENIENCES; low rent. 47 Charlotte Street. 20-4td

HOUSE ON CATHERINE STREET. MODern conveniences. Apply to F. O. Diamond, Grocer, W. Bridge. 21-4td

WANTED

YOUR ORDERS FOR SILVER PLATING. Write for price list. Belleville Plating Works. 267 1-2 Front Street. o14-dlm

CHOIR LEADER WANTED. A SOPRANO soloist as choir leader for John Street Presbyterian Church. Apply to Dr. Marshall, 216½ Front Street, City. 1t

FOR SALE

HOUSE FOR SALE OR TO LET ON COLEman street; bath, gas, electric light. Immediate possession. Apply to E. T. Cherry. 19-4td

A TOP BUGGY AND CUTTER IN GOOD condition. Also 2 lots. Apply 255 Foster Avenue. o21-4td

HAPPY HOME RANGE, IN FIRST CLASS condition. Apply 38 Sinclair Street. 1t

PERSONAL

DR. MARSHALL'S OFFICE REMOVED TO Angus McFee's Block, 216½ Front Street. o11:d&w2n

J. L. R. GORMAN
REAL ESTATE AND INSURANCE
Office over Dominion Bank
Phones:
Office 603 Residence 534
We Specialize in City Property

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTHWEST LAND REGULATIONS.

The sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years old, may homestead a quarter-section of available Dominion land in Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta. Applicant must appear in person at the Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-Agency for the District. Entry by proxy may be made at any Dominion Lands Agency (but not Sub-Agency) on certain conditions.

Duties—Six months residence upon and cultivation of the land in each of three years. A homesteader may live within nine miles of his homestead on a farm of at least 80 acres, on certain conditions. A habitable house is required except where residence is performed in the vicinity.

In certain districts a homesteader in good standing may pre-empt a quarter-section alongside his homestead. Price $3.00 per acre.

Duties—Six months residence in each of three years after earning homestead patent; also 50 acres extra cultivation. Preemption patent may be obtained as soon as homestead patent, on certain conditions.

A settler who has exhausted his homestead right may take a purchased homestead in certain districts. Price $3.00 per acre. Duties—Must reside six months in each of three years, cultivate 50 acres and erect a house worth $300.

The area of cultivation is subject to reduction in case of rough, scrubby or stony land. Live stock may be substituted for cultivation under certain conditions.

W. W. CORY, C.M.G.,
Deputy of the Minister of the Interior.

N.B.—Unauthorized publication of this advertisement will not be paid for.—64388

Let us Develope and Finish Your Films. We Know How.
The Belleville Pharmacy
The Kodak Store, Bridge St.

SYNOPSIS OF COAL MINING REGULATIONS

Coal mining rights of the Dominion, in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, the Yukon Territory, the North-West Territories and in a portion of the Province of British Columbia, may be leased for a term of twenty-one years at an annual rental of $1 an acre. Not more than 2,560 acres will be leased to one applicant.

Application for a lease must be made by the applicant in person to the Agent or Sub-Agent of the district in which the rights applied for are situated.

In surveyed territory the land must be described by sections, or legal sub-divisions of sections, and in unsurveyed territory the tract applied for shall be staked by the applicant himself.

Each application must be accompanied by a fee of $5 which will be refunded if the rights applied for are not available, but not otherwise. A royalty shall be paid on the merchantable output of the mine at the rate of five cents per ton.

The person operating the mine shall furnish the Agent with sworn returns accounting for the full quantity of merchantable coal mined and pay the royalty thereon. If the coal mining rights are not being operated, such returns should be furnished at least once a year.

The lease will include the coal mining rights only, but the lessee may be permitted to purchase whatever available surface rights may be considered necessary for the working of the mine at the rate of $10.00 an acre.

For full information application should be made to the Secretary of the Department of the Interior, Ottawa, or to any Agent or Sub-Agent of Dominion Lands.

W. W. CORY,
Deputy Minister of the Interior.

N. B.—Unauthorized publication of this advertisement will not be paid for.—30690 dtf

Nothing Doing.

There was a sea captain named Haun
On the warship with crew of brawn.
It was his proud boast
The enemy to roast,
But when he got there they were gone!
—Spokane Spokesman-Review.

His Proceedings.

"A pickpocket in the park caught a couple of spoons the other night."

"What did he do to them?"

"Told them he would knife them unless they would fork over."—Baltimore American.

---

Warden—Are you willing to confess?

Voice From the Dungeon—No, sir. I'm as much in the dark as ever.—Buffalo Express.

---

He dreamed a castle in the air,
A lazy chap's ideal one,
Then sold the plan to a busy man
With cash to build a real one.
—Judge.

---

"How on earth did a man with a record like his ever manage to clean it up?"

"I guess he did it with soft soap."—Baltimore American.

---

I always envy Mr. Keer,
For he has wealth, I know.
His park contains a herd of deer,
And he has plenty doe.
—Cincinnati Enquirer.

---

"How's that budding genius son of yours?"

"He's a blooming idiot now."—Philadelphia Ledger.

---

Old Stingy Jenks would never treat—
It cost too many pence—
But he invited every one
To joke at his expense.
—New York Mail.

---

"Ever see spots on the sun, Sam?"

"Oh, yes, sah."

"When, Sam?"

"Other day, when dat ornery mule kicked me at high noon, [illegible]—Yonkers Statesman.

ALDERSON INSPECTS FORCE.

Commanding Officer of Canadian Contingent Begins Work In Camp.

LONDON, Oct. 22.—Gen. Alderson held an informal inspection of a large portion of the Canadian contingent yesterday, the parade including the Princess Patricia Light Infantry. Most of the brigades are still one or two battalions short.

The greater part of the artillery did the journey from Plymouth yesterday, and by to-day the contingent will be pretty fully established on the plains.

Some heavy marches have already been undertaken by the earlier arrivals.

Three days' leave passes have been fairly generously granted.

No rain has fallen since the camp has been established. The health and spirits of the entire contingent continue at the highest pitch.

Young Men To Be Trained.

BORDEAUX, Oct. 22—The French Government, through the Minister of Public Instruction, has directed Baron Pierre De Coubertin, president of the French Olympic Games Committee, to organize the physical and military training of the young men of France, and especially of those youths who would come normally into the army in 1316.

These young men are now eighteen years of age, and they number between 275,000 and 300,000.

Churchill In Trenches.

LONDON, Oct. 22. — Right Hon. Winston Spencer Churchill, the first Lord of the Admiralty, who accompanied the British naval brigade and marines to Antwerp, was, according to one of the latter, with them in the trenches practically all the time, and just before the order was given to retire, urged the men to hold out 24 hours longer, when the big guns would arrive. One day he reconnoitered the position of the Germans in an aeroplane.

Germans Are Foxes Says Expert.

PARIS, Oct. 22.—Col. Rousset, the military critic, declares that the German system of fortifications is excellent and furnishes a protecting curtain for heavy artillery and the insidious machine gun. "It is not chivalrous warfare," he writes, "but it is practical. Our enemy fights not after the fashion of the lion, but like the fox, and we should make use of some of these ideas."

NOT VERY SANGUINE.

Berliner Tageblatt Hints at Anxiety In Germany Over Situation.

COPENHAGEN, Oct. 22. — (Via London.) — The military correspondent of The Berliner Tageblatt hints that there is a certain amount of anxiety about the situation manifesting itself in Germany. He explains, though, that a decision is likely to come "like a thief in the night," and that it will more probably be on the east front rather than in the west.

"While fresh masses of troops can be brought without hindrance overseas," he says, "they constitute an awkward adversary. Although the unity of their handling—if they invaded Germany—is to be doubted, Germany has still a somewhat hard task which must not be forgotten in waiting for the decision."

Chancellor Bethmann-Hollweg, according to The Tageblatt, is being attacked in certain influential circles as responsible for the war.

TELEGRAPH BRIEFS.

King George and Queen Mary, who left London last week for Sandringham, returned to the capital yesterday.

The American Ambassador at Berlin has succeeded in arranging for the release of all Britishers in Germany over 55 years of age.

The family of Venustiano Carranza, Constitutionalist first chief, reached the Mexican border yesterday to be ready for a hasty exit.

Thos. Murphy, of Chaffey's Locks, died in the Hotel Dieu at Kingston as a result of a fall from the steamer Colonial on which he was employed as wheelsman.

The Nova Scotia Steel & Coal Co. are at present turning out approximately 170 shells per day for 12-pound field artillery guns for the Dominion Government.

Wm. Carver, aged 35, died suddenly of heart disease last evening at a meeting of the Baptist C.Y.P.U. in Port Hope. Mr. Carver was just preparing to read an address when stricken.

The Japanese Navy Department has announced the occupation for military purposes of strategetically important islands in the Marianne (or Ladrone), Marshall, East Caroline and West Caroline Archipelagos.

In a despatch from Rotterdam the correspondent of The London Evening News declares that the German marines are leaving Antwerp to rejoin the German fleet, and the German ships are being extensively provisioned.

War Echoes.

No one has yet complained of any war advance in wages.—Chicago News.

The war may not last very long, but for thousands it means eternity.—Philadelphia Press.

We might make a try at applying the Sherman law to this war, for it's surely a combination in restraint of trade.—Indianapolis News.

A cannon with an 18.5 inch bore shooting sixteen miles at a cost of $1,125 per shot and good for but twenty discharges adds to the high cost both of living and dying.—New York World.

Remember, in discussing the war, that a man is not necessarily anti-German because he is not pro-German, anti-English because he is not pro-English or anti-French because he is not pro-French. He may be an American.—Cincinnati Times-Star.

---

What does a man's bravery amount to when he is in front of a machine gun that is working overtime?

---

The mule that gets in the first kick usually wins the scrap.

THE RITCHIE COMPANY, LIMITED THE RITCHIE COMPANY, LIMITED

THe Problem Of a FALL And WINTER SUIT Was Solved When We Announced Our Great

Clearing Sale Of LADIES' And MISSES' SUITS

This is an offering which has had few if any precedents. True, we have offered many Suit Bargains in former seasons, but none have been so liberal and extensive as the present one. We have decided on a general clearance of all the season's suits—hence the drastic reductions. See Windows.

LADIES' AND MISSES' HIGH GRADE SUITS THAT SOLD

Regularly as high as $15.00, Now Selling at $7.50

What more reasonable price could one expect to pay for a Fall and Winter Suit than this remarkably low price? especially when they are in such fashionable materials as Serges, Cheviots and Fancy Tweeds, in shades of Blue, Tan, Grey and Black. About fourteen suits in the lot that are mostly plain tailored, and very suitable for present or future wear. The sizes run from 34 to 40, and if there is a garment in the lot that will fit you, it will be an exceptional bargain! At any rate come in and see them and have a trial fitting; you will indeed be surprised at the remarkable price reductions. Regularly to $15.00, for .......................... $7.50

HANDSOME SUITS FOR THE LADIES AND MISSES THAT

In the usual way Sold as high as $22.50 now clearing at $10.00

The garments in this lot are exceedingly smart, and being mostly plain tailored with three-quarter length coats, you are assured of a suit strictly up to the minute in style, while the materials are all new, such as plain Serges, Cheviots, Boucle, Tweeds, Ratines, and one Corduroy Velvet, in shades of Grey, Brown, Tan, Taupe, Navy, Black, Black Stripes, and Black and White Checks. Very fe wo fthem are fancy suits, although a few of them have pleated skirts and coats trimmed with braid.

Ladies' and Misses' sizes are represented, from 34 to 40, and they sold in the regular way as high as $22.50, but we have reduced them to clear quickly at .......... $10.00

ABOUT 20 LADIES' AND MISSESFA SHIONABLE' SUITS

Worth up to $30.00 now Reduced to Clear at $14.50

Even if you had not thought of a new suit this fall, these remarkable bargains will undoubtedly prompt you to quick action, as these Suits are in very fashionable styles, the Suit Coats three-quarter cut-away effect, some trimmed with moire and velvet collars, and all lined with "Skinner's Satin," while the skirts are mostly all plain tailored.

The materials represented are Bedford Cords, Cheviots, Diagonal Serges, Plain Serges and Poplins, in shades of Black, Navy, Copenhagen, Tan, Grey, Purple and Black and White Stripe. The sizes of these garments range from 36 to 40 inches, and sold regularly as high as $30.00, but for quick clearance we have reduced them to only ...... $14.50

LADIES' AND MISSES' UP-TO-THE-MINUTE SUITS

Marked formerly to Sell up to $35.00, Clearing now at $18.50

Every suit is a this season's garment, which means that the Suit Coats are cut in the very latest style, and Skirts in plain tailored and tunic style, while others are in the pleated effects; made up in such popular materials as Bedford Cords, Brocades, Mahogany, Brown, Dark Navy, Black and White and Brown and White Checks, Black, Greys and Colored Tweed Mixtures. Sizes from 16 to 42, and about 18 in the lot that sold regularly at as high as $35.00, clearing at .................. $18.50

To-Morrow
We hold a Special
Exposition
Of Latest New York and Paris Styles in Ladies' Afternoon and Evening Dresses
Also Novelty Waists

This special display will be in our Mantle Department for to-morrow only, when hundreds of Exclusive Models will be displayed for your seeing in Ladies' Afternoon and Evening Dresses, also Waists. They represent the entire range of style models from the largest dress and waist manufacturing firm in Canada, and you will have the privilege of ordering from them if you so desire.

The newest materials for this and the coming season are shown, such as Silks, Silk Crepes, Chiffons, Charmeuse and other sheer fabrics in the most authentic styles.

A special representative will be in attendance, and you are cordially invited to visit this department to-morrow and see the especially interesting display.

Mantle Department Main Floor Rear

FURNITURE UPHOLSTERING

We make a specialty of furniture upholstering, and if you will call phone 454a we will send a man and give you an estimate on your needs.

The Ritchie Company Limited

CITY AND VICINITY

AT-HOME BALL, BANQUET, and Private Invitation Cards—new line—at The Intelligencer Job Dept. See these. Prices right.

COMING

Prof. Pember, Hair Dresser, Hair Dealer and Scalp Specialist, will be at Hotel Quinte, Friday, Oct. 23. 1914. See large advt. on another page of this issue for particulars. O10-14-17-22

COAL

The FOUR best to buy. D. L. & W. Scranton Coal; C. B. B. Pocahontas Coal; Betts Channel Coal; Beaver Charcoal. You can get them from Downey Coal Co

---

Everybody come to New England Supper in Bridge St. Methodist Church, Friday evening, Nov. 6. Good programme. Supper served 6 to 8 Tickets 25c. o22,d5

DANCING.

Thursday Evening, Oct. 22 Mr. and Mrs. Johnstone's Social Dance in aid of Red Cross Fund. Dancing 8.30 till 12. Usual admission. wt

---

Thanks to the present European crisis, future tourists visiting that continent will have a magnificent array of ruins to gaze upon.

Tenders Wanted

TENDERS for Bread and Milk to be supplied to the Hospital and Home for the Friendless for one year, commencing November 1st, 1914. Milk to be delivered twice daily when necessary. Lowest or any tender not necessarily accepted. Tender to be sent in by Oct. 30th to

MRS. W. C. MIKEL,
Rec. Sec'y. W.C.A.
22 5td 285 Charles Street, Belleville.

Tenders Wanted

TENDERS will be received by the undersigned up to and including the 27th day of October, 1914, for repairs on the Ontario House, this city.

The highest or any tender not necessarily accepted. Specifications may be seen at this address.

22-5td THE PRINGLE CO.

Electric Charwoman

Machinery has now invaded the field of the charwoman for an electric scrubbing machine has just come into use. It is a little push cart, supplied with electric power through a cable connected with a lamp socket.

The operator simply pushes it over the marble floor and controls its operations by levers on the cart handle. A set of brushes revolve on the floor, while a little stream of water trickles down through them from a tank.

Powdered soap is fed to the water in easily-regulated amounts. As the cart is pushed ahead the dirty water is swept up to a pipe and a little pump sucks it up from the floor.

LAWLESS LONDONERS

Mr. Justice Darling Likens Modern Doings to Those of Middle Ages

A glimpse of lawless life in the neighborhood of Brick lane, London's famous Sunday dog market, was afforded the Old Bailey, which knows it well, when Mr. Justice Darling sentenced two Hornsey men, named Daniel Curtis and Edward Curtis, to twelve months' hard labor, a third, Richard Curtis, to eighteen months', and a member of their gang, John Craig, to three months. The affair arose out of "civil war" between rival gangs in the district. One gang struck the notion of raising funds by blackmailing a number of street betting men who "did business" there. The Curtises and Craig were four of the betting men.

Manifestly shy of calling in the police against the blackmailers, the betting men set about collecting a force of mercenaries, whom they employed to fight the gang. The rivals knew no law against each other but the law of the strongest. One night the betting men and some of their mercenaries caught a man named Charles Callaghan alone in a public house. He was one of the men whom they accused of forcing a levy upon them. Callaghan was immediately attacked, beaten on the head with an iron bar, and shot. He was left in the street, and eventually carried to hospital, where he recovered from his wounds, while the police ran down the four prisoners.

Addressing the prisoners, the judge said: "You live in the neighborhood of lawless men, and apparently in order to carry on your business you have to pay blackmail to a gang or people of whom Callaghan is one. The state of society in this part of London is very much that of many mediæval towns, very much the state of Verona, when the Montagues and Capulets flourished, very much the state of Florence at one time.

"It has, I daresay, certain picturesque attractions for you and men like you, and people who choose to go there and write about them, but in England you cannot be allowed to shoot people and beat people on the head, even if they do get their living by blackmail.

"This man was very grievously wounded; had he died all four of you would probably have been hanged—and society would not have had cause to regret your disappearance."

Maiming Renewed.

At the same time that a postcard was received in Wolverhampton intimating that a maiming outrage would be committed in the district, two horses were found badly mutilated, with a knife or a razor, in a field near the borough boundary. This fresh attack has caused renewed disquietude among horse owners.

Relic of Charles I.

Many Royal relics are not above suspicion, but the Southampton corporation museum has acquired an unquestioned and remarkable relic of Charles I. in the form of a heart-shaped locket bearing upon one side the legend: "Prepared be to follow me," the initials C. R. (Carolus Rex), and a death's head. On the reverse side is a heart pierced with two arrows and the wording: "I live and die in loyalty." Inside the locket is fastened a silver medallion portrait of the martyr king.

Twelve Pages

The Daily Intelligencer

Pages 9 To 12

LET THERE BE HARMONY IN THINGS ESSENTIAL—LIBERTY IN THINGS NOT ESSENTIAL—CHARITY IN ALL.

Vol. 48 BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO, THURSDAY, OCTOBER 22, 1914. No. 141

CANADIAN MANUFACTURER HAS ADVANTAGE IN GETTING TRADE

We Must Soon Come to Period When Our Exports Overtake in Volume and Value, Our Imports--Canadians Can Succeed in Doing this With an Effort and Foresight

We have for some time at least, passed the period of great importations of capital. The cost of money—will be too great. Europe is literally bringing up capital, and we all know what a serious factor the destructive Balkan war was. Even if the war ended to-morrow, the period of reconstruction must be long, industries which have been crushed must rise again, cities must be rebuilt, and all this will require capital. It is to be hoped that the common sense of the nations will restrain future armament rivalries, but even if this is done the wasted country must be rebuilt and this will take both time and capital. The consequence of this will be a curtailment of imports, our importations of capital have been largely in the form of goods and consequently we must look forward to a period in which our exports must overtake in volume and value our imports. This means a very great increase in our productive effort.

This change will take place in several ways. Our imports from Germany will cease at once. In volume at present they exceed $14,000,000. In the past two years the increase has been over 30.1.

This business will now be divided with other countries. Europe is too busy with its own troubles to provide the energy to secure more business in Canada, consequently we may expect the bulk of this and other European business to fall to Canadian and American manufacturers. The Canadian manufacturer has the advantage, he is on the ground and knows the trade. On the other hand he has in the past trusted pretty largely to his tariff protection; has not standarized his goods, has not advertised his products and in consequence the average Canadian knows more of American products than he does of Canadian.

In this connection, the enterprise of the British manufactures is commendable. A great British manufacturing establishment recently wrote a Toronto customer as follows:

"We have to-day cabled you, as requested, that goods will leave the mill about September 18. The present crisis makes no difference to us, in fact we are very busy because we have the German and French clothes to imitate. If you have taken up any styles that you cannot get we shall be very pleased to make same for you." The firm referred to, manufactures the finer grades of cloth, and evidently believe that the bottom is not going to fall out of the markets, either in Britain or elsewhere. They are therefore going right after business, and similar enterprise must be shown by Canadian manufacturers.

The American manufacturer faces a different condition. The crop in the United States is large. The demand for manufactured goods must increase, and it is a question if the American manufacturer will be in a position to exploit to the full, the opportunities now open to him. In certain cases too it must be evident that there will not be such ready access to the raw materials of production. An instance of this occurs in the Province of Alberta. Our one manufacturer of sugar finds the supply of raw material cut off by the conflict with Germany. The seed for next year's crop of beets may be difficult to secure, so here is an industry presented with difficulty not so much of marketing as of purchasing its raw materials. In fact in the consideration of the whole question it will be seen that the actions and reactions are so complete as to render estimates of ultimate consequences difficult in the extreme. We must bear always in mind, this one factor: We are part of the world's commercial public and we must feel, and in some cases, keenly the wrench and strain upon some features of our work.—L. C. Carp in the Commercial Review.

To Organize 2nd Contingent

Purpose to Enlist More as Each Force is Despatched--Home Defence First Secured

OTTAWA, Oct. 20.—An official statement given out to-night by the Prime Minister, Sir Robert Borden, announces that the Givernment will proceed at once with the organization of Canada's second expeditionary force, the first installment of which, consisting of 10,000 men, is to be despatched in December. Sixteen to twenty thousand men are to be immediately enlisted, under the supervision of the commanding officers of the various military divisions throughout Canada, and as soon as equipment, rifles, etc., are available the Government will keep continuously under arms and in training a total force of 40,000 men, including some 10,000 needed for garrison and outpost duty in Canada. The Prime Minister states that this force will be maintained as long as the war lasts, or as long as the War Office wants them, and a continuous stream of reinforcements will thus be available for service at the front.

The Official Statement.

The official statement is as follows; "During the past week the Government have continuously had under consideration the organization of a second contingent. The Prime Minister, the Acting Minister of Militia and the sub-committee of the Privy Council had a lengthy conference on Saturday with Col. Gwatkin, Chief of the General Staff, and Col. Denison, Adjutant-General, respecting the following questions:

"(1) The defence of Canada against any probable raid or attack by land or sea.

"(2) The training, organization, equipment and despatch of further expeditionary forces.

Thousands Ready to Go

"There is no question about the officers and men available. Many thousands throughout Canada are eager for an opportunity to go to the front. The response to the call of duty throughout the country has been most inspiring.

"Two considerations have to be taken into account in connection with the despatching of further expeditionary forces:

"(a) The provision of rifles, guns, ammunition and other equipment.

"(b) The ability of the British Government to receive further contingents, and give them the necessary final training, having regard to the enormous force which is being organized and trained in the British Islands.

"All these and many other matters were discussed at length, and after the conference the following conclusion were announced by the Prime Minister:

First Concern Home Defence

"The first concern of the Canadian Government is the defence of our own territory, including our ports and harbors. For this purpose about 8,000 men are now under arms in Canada, and are serving on garrison or outpost duty from the Atlantic to the Pacific. At important points on both coasts the defences have been strengthened and guns have been mounted. Other coast and harbor defences, the nature of which it is not desirable to publish, have also been prepared. Expert military advisers of the Government advise that this force could be very rapidly increased from the active militia at a few hours' notice, and they consider that every reasonable safeguard against successful attack has been provided.

Keep 30,000 More Trained

"As to the organization and despatch of further contingents the following conclusions have been reached:

"(1) From the present time until the end of the war, so long as the War Office shall deem it advisable, Canada will keep continuously in training and under arms (in addition to the eight thousand men above mentioned) 30,000 men.

Despatch 10,000 When Ready

"(2) As soon as arms, guns and equipment can be provided for a force of ten thousand men, that force will be despatched to Great Britain as the first instalment of a second expeditionary force. Thereupon additional men will be enlisted, so as to keep the number under training continuously at 30,000. This process continue from time to time. That is to say, as soon as each force of 10,000 men is armed, equipped and despatched another force of 10,000 will be enlisted to take its place, and to bring the number in training up to 30,000.

"(3) It is anticipated that the first force of 10,000 men will be despatched in December, and thereafter at regular intervals similar forces will be continuously sent forward as rapidly as they can be armed and equipped.

Steady Stream of Reinforcements.

"(4) Including the forces on garrison and outpost duty, we shall thus have under arms or in training about 40,000 men in Canada, and, until the end of the war, or until the War Office advises that further expeditionary forces are not needed, a steady stream of reinforcements will go forward from our shores to the seat of the war.

"(5) If the expected communication from the War Office should make any modification in the above arrangements necessary, that modification will be announced at a later date.

"(6) The Government is informed by its military advisers that it would be impossible to supply arms, guns and equipment on a larger scale than that laid down in these proposals.

Enlist 16,000 or 20,000 Immediately

"(7) Pending advices from the War Office as to the composition of the second contingent, which have not yet been received infantry to the number of 16,000 or 20,000 will be immediately enlisted, and the organization and training of infantry units will be proceeded with throughout the Dominion from Halifax to Victoria.

Other Units When Word Comes

"(8) As soon as the expected instructions arrive from the War Office immediate arrangements will be made for enlisting such cavalry, artillery, engineers and administrative units as the War Office may advise.

"(9) The organization of these units and the forces contemplated by these proposals will be under the direction of officers commanding divisions and military districts, and will be carried out by them."

CANADIAN SILHOUETTES

The Stern Wheeler

THE locomotive with the short, bulging funnel and the great, fanning cow-catcher, after many swervings and screamings through a wild, tossed-about landscape of pine trees, boulders and swamps, and patches (or "pockets") of fertile soil, crawled down to the lake side, where the white-painted stern-wheeler awaited its advent.

Half an hour later we were off. The motionless trees on either hand glided sternwards. Far peaks beyond the first ridge began to peep through patches in the top of that first ridge, and with a sound like the slow breathing of a giant we advanced. The waters of the lake were so calm that it seemed soon as if we stood still, and the lake, under some spell, was moving northward. The jetty behind us dwindled and dwindled. The few scattered houses above it, where the trees had been cleared, became more diminutive. It was as if we looked at them through opera-glasses the wrong way, slowly, at the same time decreasing the magnifying power. Now and then, on either hand, logs of trees drifted past us sternward, perfectly still in the water, almost as if they had been split down the middle and laid upon a sheet of glass. To east and west the reflections of the mountains ran down into the deeps of the lake, clear in every detail, as in a mirror dimmed by no breath.

But now the shore ahead was rapidly rushing upon us—a silent and august charge of a little spit of sand and a long army of trees, the first ranks in the water, a mountain side rising so steeply behind that the dark poles of the firs appeared oddly balanced one above the other—the second rank just a hair's breadth behind the first and a foot or two higher; the third rank just a hair's breadth behind the second and a foot or two higher; and so on, up, up, up to a frightfully quiet serrated ridge of firs. The whole front of dark-green quietness swept down on us. And then we felt suddenly that it was we who moved upon it: for the steamer swerved westward in an abrupt way that, though her decks were broad like floors of a dance hall, made those who stood upon the deck aware that she turned. Then another swerve—and behind us a foaming interrogation mark of white, snow-white wake, on the surface of the water; and ahead—ahead more majesty of still lake water, millions of firs rising and rising up on either side.

When the timber area stopped, rough peaks, with wavering ridges, looked sleepily over the tree-tops. Beyond these crests, away back, precipices stood, grim and sphinx-like. Every here and there they were cleft, broken open by fissures, like scars, to look up to which all the passengers on the deck down here had the backs of their heads pressing on their collars, like people looking at skied pictures at the Academy. I have been informed by artists that the skied pictures at the Academy are often not as bad as the ones on the line; but here, in this great landscape exhibition seen from the deck of the stern-wheeler that breathed grandly down the Arrow Lakes, British Columbia, who could say which views were greatest—the low views along the shore, the views of the edge of the timber, the views of the bald tops of the first ridges, the views of the mountain forests beyond, or the views up the long fissures, the stupendous high valleys, that only a sense of distance and proportion told one were no mere cracks, but upland valleys with creeks foaming in them, and goats leaping, and perhaps some lonely prospector, with a hanging-headed and lean cayuse close at his heels, seeking, bemused by silence, for silver-lead.

Men who have sailed the South Seas talk of landfalls there, of palms rising at dawn above the horizon and bringing up magic isles at their roots, and anon disclosing a bay and a ribbon of surf before the bay, and a whale boat leaping through the surf to meet them. If it be the will of the Red Gods we shall see that too before we die. But if we cannot, we have seen this, and a man cannot see everything he desires in the absurdly short span of life. For one thing at least we are grateful; for this.

Presently the steamer whistled, just as the end of the lake seemed again to be rushing down on us, whistled and swept aside, and a fresh reach opened before us. And as it opened there awoke, up in the hills, a hollow boom—the echo of the steamer's whistle, and everybdy looked up, quiet. The steamer breathed on, two or three great breaths from her engines. What a tiny thing she must have seemed to the invisible goats up on these peaks, despite her decks, broad as dancing floors. Then high up, ever so high, another deep boom rang out, and another, deep and yet strangely mild and muffled in its sonority. The crevices of the farthest peaks were echoing the whistle with which this little speck of a thing of man's making had dared to break the silence.

We whistled because we had on board a sack of flour, one of potatoes, and a flitch of bacon, and a letter to land at a spit of shingle. Even now the engines had stopped. The shingle spit was rushing at us. There was a low, rumbling, grating sound as it went under our bows. At the top of the shingle, where a trail came out of the woods, a lean horse stood with the reins hanging from the bit to the ground. On the shingle was a man (in black shirt, high laced boots, and rough pants) under a flopping slouch hat. He looked up grimly at us. A plank protruded from a lower deck, and down it a deck hand ran, balancing a sack. After him ran another deck hand, balancing a second sack on one shoulder, and holding the flitch of bacon on the other, the way tight-rope walkers perform with a Japanese umbrella. The man on the shingle went, with sliding and rattling steps, up to his pony, led it down to the sacks, and began to load them on to its back.

Our engines breathed and breathed and breathed, and nothing happened for a few minutes but an apparently aimless churning. Then suddenly the shingle let us go again. We were off, steaming backwards from the shore. By the time we had stopped, reversed the engines again for "ahead," the little dot of a man on the shingle had loaded his pack pony. He was slithering up the short strip of shingle ahead of it. With one look round at the steamer—we could just see the head turn, and his hand go and wave adieu—he disappeared among the trees, going in under their lowest branches like a man entering the low, squat door (low and squat by comparison with what soars above it, that is) of some great cathedral. His knock-kneed and knowing little pony followed him with a final sweep of its tail—and once again the whole stupendous wilderness (chaos of pine trees andboulders and spits of sand, cleared patches and high ultimate peaks with snow on the darker sides of their lofty fissures) was as silent, and primitive, and heedless, as if no man had ever adventured through it.—By Frederick Niven, author of "Hands Up."

Russia Will Never Manufacture or Sell Alcohol Again.

PETROGRAD, Oct. 21.—The Russian Government will never again embark in the manufacture and sale of alcoholic drinks. This statement, confirming previous reports, has been made in the name of Emperor Nicholas himself.

The Russian Union of Abstinence, which devotes its energies to the combating of alcoholism, addressed to Emperor Nicholas a solicitation that he forbid forever the sale of spirituous liquors in Russia. His Majesty replied in a telegram sent in the name of Grand Duke Constantine and addressed to the president of the alliance, in which he said:

"I thank you; I long ago decided to interdect for all time in Russia the sale of alcoholic drinks by the Government."

Krupp's Latest Weapon of Warfare

Not for Bombarding English Coast But for Arming Channel Naval Base

THE HAGUE, Oct. 20.—To the rumors that the Krupp works at Essen are building fifty-six centimetre guns has now been added another—the claim that the same plant is turning our 60-centimetre pieces. While it is hard to believe this, it must be borne in mind that a siege piece of 42-centimetres the existence of which was doubted before the war, has become a convincing reality.

Since the increase in weight of a 56-centimetre or 22-inch gun over a 42-centimetre gun would not be very great, and since the increase in a 60-centimetre, or 23½ inch gun over a 22-inch gun would be an almost negligible quantity, the existence of such a piece need not be doubted. If it is possible to move over ordinary roads and across soft fields a 26-ton piece, it is not unreasonable to expect that a gun weighing 35 tons would offer no new transportation problems. The case is one of increasing motive power instead of new aspects in transportation.

No attention need be paid to popular rumor making in Germany that the new pieces are designed to bombard the English coast from the coast of France. The maximum flight of a 16½ shell has recently been given as about 12 kilometres for the "Krumbahn" or high trajectory pieces, and 16 kilometres for those having a flatter course. Since the increase in calibre from 16½ to 52½ does not necessarily mean a proportionate lengthening of range, it is not at all likely that the English coast cities opposite Calais and other channel ports will make the acquaintance of the "Brummer," as the Germans have come to call their large siege pieces.

The 56 centimetre and 60 centimetre pieces, since they actually exist would find their uses in arming some naval base on the channel which the Germans hope to establish during the couse of this war. It is maintained that Calais has been decided upon as the best locality for such a base, and that the great activity in the Krupp works is in a measure due to this.

DEAN DEFIES KAISER EVEN IF ABBEY FALLS

LONDON, Oct. 20.—The Rev. Dr. W. R. Inge, Dean of St. Paul's, delivered an impressive war sermon in Westminster Abbey today.

"We have read," he said, "our newspapers since the beginning of August and have seen nothing but triumphant and unpunished deviltry. We refresh our memories by reading that passage of Plato's Republic in which the Pagan philosopher 2300 years ago draws up his laws of civilized warfare—non-combatants to be spared, no houses to be burned, no farms to be devastated, the dead to be buried honorably, no trophies of war to be placed in the temples of gods, and then we read of the exploits of the self-styled apostles of culture who dare to claim the favor of a Christian God, or we think of these horrible words of their accredited spokesman on the ethics of war: "Cause the greatest possible amount of suffering; leave to the non-combatants nothing but their eyes to weep with; the law of Christian charity has no bearing on the relations of one nation to another."

Dr. Inge then asserted that if retribution did not follow surely force alone was king.

"Force, perfidy and the iron discipline of the camp of Napoleon," he said, "is too strong for Christ. The Corsican and not the Gallilean has conquered and for us who have not worshipped this Molech, who have kept our armaments at the bare limit of safety, is it possible that our reward may be to see this Abbey share the fate of Rheims and Oxford that of Louvain? We hope to win in this war, but if not, be it known unto thee, O Emperor, that we will not serve thy gods, no worship the blood-stained image of iron thou hast set up.

"If we are allowed after this war to live in peace with our neighbors we shall be all the better Christians for having to abate our pride. Nothing has injured English Christianity so much as its apparent connection with vast colonial dominions and bloated trade returns. We shall have to be content with plainer living and I hope with higher thinking in the future.

"An unfortunate unction of forces might easily plunge us back into the Dark Ages. It may depend upon America, England and France to maintain the ideals of liberty, justice, fair play, and gentleness until the tyranny of militarism is overthrown."

TRAINING WILD ANIMALS TO ACT BEFORE THE FILM

Ambitious wild animals, that until lately have hoped for fame only in the circus or on the vaudeville stage, have found a new field for exercising their talent. A private dramatic school has been established near Fort Lee, New Jersey, which devotes its time exclusively to training beasts for the moving picture stage. Paul Bourgeois, a young French animal tamer, first thought of teaching the jungle inhabitants to appear before the camera, and he immediately founded the school of which he is still director. When a film requiring beasts is to be made, the animals are first trained regularly in their simple movements until the performance becomes a habit, since they can respond only to instinct, not to intelligence. Originality must be used by the trainers to make their charges do the right thing at exactly the proper time for the camera men. For this purpose common devices are coating tree branches with honey to keep Bruin aloft the entire length of a scene, or exposing a chicken off the stage when the fox should jump out of a window.

Crack Italian Oarsman

GUISEPPE SINIGAGLIA

the first Italian to win the diamond sculls. He is a huge fellow with the strength of a giant.

SUITS FOR SHIPWRECKS

In One a Person Can Live For Days in the Water

Since the Titanic and Empress of Ireland disasters hundreds of ideas and inventions have been brought before shipping companies and shipping authorities, with the object of minimizing the risk of life at sea. Perhaps the most ingenious of these ideas is a device which takes the form of a combination of life-belt and suit made of watertight canvas, which envelops the whole person. The suit has sleeves ending in gloves, and there is a porthole in the head, which can be closed when the weather is rough. When this porthole is closed, air enters through a tube above the head, this tube being so constructed that no water can enter.

Furnished with this device, it is claimed that a passenger might be thrown into mid-Atlantic and live in comfort for many days, while waiting to be picked up, for the suit can be equipped with sufficient food and drink to keep a shipwrecked passenger alive for a week or more. A man or woman using this device stands with feet in a sort of bucket, which forms the base. This bucket takes in a certain quantity of water, which acts as ballast and keeps the life-saver and its occupant upright. Furthermore, the apparatus is provided with a revolver and signal lights with which the shipwrecked passenger can signal for help by day or night. Attached to the apparatus are ropes by which two or three people can keep themselves afloat if they have not the good fortune to have one of these life-saving suits. The suit is the invention of a German named Gustave Henrich, and of 133 miles, and another walked nc he declares that it will deprive shipwreck of all its terrors in all circumstances.

Concrete Replaces Wood

Economy of material was the explanation of the erection of a house in Los Angeles in which every part was made of concrete in the same forms they would have been if made of wood, then nailed or wired together.

Scientific Rest

According to a French physician a short period of rest suffices to prepare a person for new exertion after heavy but not protracted work, while longer rest is necessary after continuous work of lighter nature.

The mule that gets in the first kick usually wins the scrap.

Your friends will smile if you let your money talk.

PACIFIC
CHEWING TOBACCO
CONTAINS A
WHICH IS PACKED
BETWEEN THE FOIL AND PAPER

IF YOU HAVE A WIFE

She won't object to your chewing

PACIFIC

BRIGHT CHEWING

because each plug is wrapped separately in foil and cannot soil your pockets and your clothes. And the chew is so "DELICIOUSLY GOOD" that you yourself will never want to go back to the old kinds sold in bulk. Buy a plug to-day and see how different it is.

A beautiful satin-insert that can be made into many pretty things is contained in each wrapper. See window displays around town.

10c -- AT ALL DEALERS.

WOMEN LAWYERS IN FOREIGN LANDS

Their Right to Practice Law as Barristers Questioned in Europe and Other Countries

While in this country lawyers have been particularly sympathetic to women, and may be said as a profession to have fought less than others against admitting them to such a share of law practice as they could obtain by their merits, it would seem that the reverse has been the case in Europe. There appears to exist still in many European localities a decided reluctance to admitting women to practise law. In addition to a list of questions lately sent out by the suffrage paper, Jus Suffragii, answers to which revealed the above fact, recently a number of illustrations of the same feeling have been published in European papers.

For instance, the High Court of Roumania has rejected Mme. Elia Negnitzi's appeal against an adverse decision on her right to practise law as a barrister. England likewise excludes women from the bar, although its Australian dominions have long admitted them. In Norway, of course, women are admitted even to the judge's bench, not to mention the jury box, and this results, it is said, in justice to women and girls being more uniformly done.

In Denmark women may practise law. Madame Magnussen, who was the first to be admitted to the Danish bar, succeeded in having the law altered in 1905 after she had passed her examination, and she found that she was disbarred from practising. Since then several women have followed in her footsteps. Madame Magnussen and her husband recently have been studying English legal procedure at Oxford and in the London law courts, with a view to the coming introduction of oral pleading in all the Danish courts, where at present all pleading—save in the Court of Appeal and in the special court for maritime and commercial cases—is done in writing.

WOMEN WRITERS

In Her book, "Woman's Place in the World of Letters," Alice Stopford Green points out that woman's work in letters is of very recent generations.

The author's citation of examples is limited, but with good judgment she praises "Charlotte Bronte with feeling set aflame by a burning imagination" and George Eliot, "in whom emotion is sustained by intellectual passion," but it may be doubted, she adds, "whether there is any woman save Christina Rossetti (and within her own limits Emily Bronte) whose sincerity has never faltered, and whose ardent soul has constantly scorned to wear the livery of any passion save its own."

Woman, this writer avers, is impelled by instinct and emotion rather than the great experiences of life, and she is constantly groping to find more language to express the subtle intimations that visit her. Though women stand high in poetry and have done something in history, theology, she has left on one side, philosophy and metaphysic she has skirted with precaution, and has done little with logic, law and ethics.

Miss Green goes over woman's characteristics closely, and, feeling there is much yet to accomplish, sums up thus eloquently:

"If she is to deliver her true message or to be the apostle of a new era, she must throw aside the curiosity of the stranger and the license of the anarchist. The history and philosophy of man must be the very alphabet of her studies, and she must speak the language of the world to which she is the high ambassador, not as a barbarian or foreigner, but as a skilled and fine interpreter. From culture she must learn deeper lessons than 'Taste,' and the 'Reason' which in the last resort must give stability to the shadows projected by her instinct must be honorably reckoned with. While learning ripens there may cling to it some husks of pedantry, and knowledge may perhaps seem to check the spontaneous message. But we have prophets enough of the message which cannot survive knowledge, and has no roots in reason. No equipment of heart or brain can be too great for the pioneers that a suffering world sends forward to sink wells where the solid rock has till now promised no water, and open new horizons where man's vision has stopped short."

Dissolve a lump of soda in a little hot water and add it to the blue water. This prevents the blue from settling in the clothes, and makes them beautifully white.

In Leeds, England, over 25,000 women are employed in the manufacture of wool and worsted goods.

The older a girl is the easier it is for her to forget her birthday anniversaries.

Advertise in The Intelligencer.

A Fire Needs Lots of Air to Breathe

THE quickest way to put a fire out is to smother it. A fire must have air. If it gets no air it goes out immediately. If it gets insufficient air it smoulders. A smouldering fire gives out little heat; and it's heat you want from the coal you burn.

The grates in a Gurney-Oxford are designed to give the fire lots of air to breathe. So the fire is bright and snappy. The combustion is perfect. A fire will burn lots of air—if it can get it. The fire in a Gurney-Oxford gets all the air it can use. The coal burns to white, flakey ashes. You don't find a mass of tough, half-burned clinkers in a Gurney-Oxford fire box. This means efficiency—getting the most heat from the least fuel. So the economy in a Gurney-Oxford starts with the grates.

Then, the distribution of heat to the oven is through a series of divided flues. They direct all the heat where it should go—around the oven. That is why the Gurney-Oxford is such a satisfactory stove to cook with.

And the third feature for economy and comfort, is the Gurney-Oxford Economizer, because it enables the fire to be kept down to a spark and then brought to baking heat quickly and surely.

Let us demonstrate these features of the Gurney-Oxford to you. We claim this to be the most economical and satisfactory stove ever devised. Will you come in and let us prove it?

GURNEY-OXFORD

JOHN LEWIS CO. LTD.

PRESSING ENEMY BACK

Belgian Army Forces Them to Retire Along the Yser.

French and British Troops at Ypres After Hard Fighting Strengthen Positions — Big Battle Looms Up In Vicinity of Arras—Report of Recapture of Ostend Not Confirmed—Crown Prince Enveloped.

LONDON, Oct. 21. — The Belgian army yesterday made good its excellent beginning against the German advance toward Dunkirk and the other French channel ports. Heavy fighting along the River Yser resulted in complete defeat of the Germans. They have ceded from two to five miles of ground all along the northern bank of the river. Their losses are said to have been considerable.

Ypres was again the centre of desperate fighting, French and British troops gaining strategic positions of value and materially strengthening the movement against the German left flank in Belgium.

Along the battle line from Arras to the coast heavy reinforcements are concentrating on both sides and it seems probable that a decisive engagement may take place here between formidable forces.

It was reported from several sources yesterday that a British maritime force landed at Ostend and drove the small German garrison from that city supported by the guns of the fleet off the port. This information was passed by the censor, but without confirmation of any kind. However, Ostend is of small importance in a military sense and it is believed that the foothold of the Kaiser in western Belgium is so precarious that the Belgian watering place is likely to be occupied by the advancing allies at most any time.

The last definite statement of the position of the Belgian forces places their advance at Roulers, thirteen miles northwest of Courtrai and but a short distance from Ostend. If this wedge should penetrate further, Ostend would be isolated from the remainder of the German army.

Out of the mass of conflicting messages stands the fact that the Germans in Belgium are attempting two major operations, first, to cut through the Belgians between Nieuport and Dixmude, and second, to throw back the Franco-British army around Arras. All of their skill and the full weight of their powerful army has been directed to this end, but without any result whatsoever.

The statement made Monday that Lille had been retaken by the allies proves premature. The town is invested on three sides and advantage in the fight for its possession rests plainly with the Germans. They have erected strong fortifications and have some of their best regiments in the trenches around the town. The Kaiser is said to place much importance on holding the city and there can be no question that the conflict at this point will be stubborn and long drawn out.

In distinction to the success of the Germans at Lille is the progress made by their foes to the west of that point. Here the allied troops have driven the Germans backward and Lille now stands well forward in territory held by French and British forces.

This is also true of St. Mihiel, held by the crown prince, now the most southerly position of the Germans. It is regarded as one of the most surprising developments of the war that Frederick Wilhelm has been able to maintain himself at St. Mihiel, with the French winning on both sides of the town. Although his stubborn resistance reveals a resolute spirit that commands the highest respect, it is agreed by all military authorities that he is none the less in a very serious predicament and is risking capture or destruction of a good part of his army by holding on to a position that is almost hopeless. The day was marked by French concentration on the right bank of the Meuse, further endangering the haughty German heir. Despite a desperate counter-attack delivered by his forces in the vicinity of Camp des Romains, the French gained considerable ground around that town. Etain continues to be the objective of a fierce French attack and its fall would mean a complete severance of the crown prince's communications with Metz.

On the centre the situation remains in status quo, both the French and German lines having been weakened until artillery play is practically the only activity.

North of Zagny on the road to Metz, the Germans yesterday combated the French most savagely. The hand of the Kaiser is seen in the increased resistance in this vicinity. He has evidently taken alarm at the close approach of the republic's army to that strong fortress. Monday it was asserted that German trenches, only nine miles from Metz, had been assaulted.

"Did you see where an heiress married a butcher?"

"I suppose she saw it was the only way she could afford to eat meat every day."—Baltimore American.

Come into the garden, Maud,
And wear your skirt with slits.
The birds don't mind the scarecrows now,
But you will give them fits.
—Atlanta Constitution.

"What makes her so positive about everything?"

"Her sex."—Philadelphia Ledger.

But now with folly and with pride,
Their husbands' pockets brimming,
The ladies are so full of whims
That people call them whim-men.
—Cornell Widow.

Willie—Paw, what is unconscious humor?

Paw—That is something that is never indulged in by the man who laughs at his own jokes, my son.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

He asked the girl to fly with him
His words we heard him mutter.
Beseeched to fly, no wonder that
It put her in a flutter.
—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Bill—I see King George of England is in the hands of his dentist.

Jill—Crown work, I suppose.—Yonkers Statesman.

A good thing is the thing to do,
Even though it be a wee one.
And I can say, 'tween me and you,
I'd rather do than be one.
—Puck.

"Are you economizing?" "I should say so," said the man who is always cheerful. "My wife bought enough marked down articles to save $50 on the original prices."—Washington Star.

They say that golf's a splendid game
And perfect recreation,
But every time I play I claim
That golf's an irritation.
—Detroit Free Press.

"Fashion-Craft"
CLOTHES
FC

ENGLISH STYLE SUITS

Cut, tailored and made in Canada by the highest-class Canadian workmen, on full time and full pay.

Ready for service or made to order.

F. W. MILLARD

236 Front Street Belleville, Ont.

MADE IN CANADA

MEAGRE BUT SATISFACTORY.

Germans Repulsed All Along the Line Say Communiques.

PARIS, Oct. 21.—News from official sources concerning the war operations is meagre but satisfactory.

The French official statement issued last night says that the Germans, during the day, made attacks along the entire front and everywhere were repulsed.

The text follows:

"The day has been characterized by an effort on the part of the Germans along all parts of the front—to the extreme north, where the Belgian army has held remarkably; at Labassee where the German troops have attempted an offensive movement of particular violence to the north of Arras; at Mametz, between Peronne and Albert, at Vauquois, to the east of the Argonne, and, finally, on the heights of the Meuse and in the region of Champion.

"Everywhere the German attacks have been repulsed."

The official French communique of yesterday afternoon is as follows:

"In Belgium, in spite of violent attacks on the part of the enemy, the Belgian army has held its position on the line of the River Yser.

"There have been other actions in the region of Ypres between the allied forces operating in this territory and the forces of the enemy.

"On our left wing the Germans continue to hold strongly their advance posts around Lille in the direction of Armentieres, Fournes and La Bassee.

"On the Meuse the enemy has endeavored in vain to drive back the advance posts of our troops, who have moved out along the river bank of this stream in the peninsula of the Camp des Romain.

"To sum up on the day of Oct. 19, we have made progress at various points on the front.

"In East Prussia, and on the Vistula River, there is no change in the situation. The efforts of the Austrians to cross the River San have been repulsed. The battle south of Przemysl is continuing under conditions favorable to the Russians."

RUSSIANS ADVANCING.

They Are Making Progress Slowly Near Warsaw.

PETROGRAD, Oct. 21. — Official statements declare that the Germans are continuing their efforts to cross the Vistula river at several points, despite very heavy losses. At no point, says the statement, have they succeeded.

The Russians are declared to be advancing steadily, although slowly, on the Warsaw-Ivangorod front, driving the Germans before them.

According to a statement published in The Army Gazette, some 18,000 German dead, left on the field by the retreating Germans, were buried by the Russians.

The War Office states that the German right wing, which is extended into Galicia, has been making determined attacks in co-operation with the Austrians, but it is claimed that at no point have the enemy succeeded in gaining any distinct advantage.

An official announcement, dated Oct. 19, has been given out by the General Staff of the Commander-in-chief of the Russian forces, as follows:

"There has been no further change in the general situation. Russian troops are in contact with the enemy at various points, and there has been fighting on the River Zoura, at Stry, in Galicia, and in East Prussia.

"To the south of Przemysl the Russians continue to take prisoners in large numbers. An entire Austrian battalion, with all the officers and machine guns, surrendered to us."

TRAFALGAR DAY.

It is Being Made the Occasion For Recruiting In Britain.

LONDON, Oct. 21.—To-day is Trafalgar Day and it will be made the occasion of a great effort to recruit men for the army.

Hundreds of wreaths and bouquets have been banked at the base of the Nelson monument in Trafalgar Square, where great crowds were present throughout the day. Canada, New Zealand, Australia, Japan and South Africa sent mammoth floral offerings, which are displayed beneath the monolith, which is surmounted by the statue of Admiral Nelson. Nearly all the British ships also sent flowers.

Numerous, pathetic notes accompanied the wreaths sent by relatives of the officers and men of the British cruiser Pathfinder and other ships destroyed recently by German submarines or mines.

In addition to the flowers the entire base of the Nelson monument is enveloped with recruiting banners bearing the words: "Your King and your country need you."

SIRES AND SONS.

General Suckomlinoff, the Russian minister of war, unlike most of his predecessors at the war department, is a Slav and a Russian Nationalist and was formerly military governor of Kiev.

Count Shigenobu Okuma, who was recently appointed premier of Japan, is seventy-six years old. The count has been the head of the treasury department, minister of the interior and minister of agriculture and commerce.

"What did you do while your wife was away on a vacation?"

"I talked!" triumphantly replied skimpy little Mr. Hennypeck.—Puck.

A man gets tight, then walks the street,
A-stumbling left and right.
A woman walks with staggering feet
Because her skirt is tight.
—New York Mail.

EARTHQUAKES IN BIBLE SYMBOLOGY

Symbolic Earthquakes--Revolutions.

CLOSING OF THE GOSPEL AGE

Significance of Earthquakes—The Part They Played In Nature—In Grace—Their Association With the Reign of Sin and Death—Grand Results to Be Expected—Stability of the New Order of Things In the Messianic Kingdom—Dark Hour Preceding the Millennial Morning of Blessing.

PASTOR RUSSELL

October 18. — Pastor Russell's text to-day was, "There shall be great earthquakes in divers places, and famines and pestilences; and fearful sights and great signs shall there be from Heaven." (Luke 21:11.) He said:

It is far from our thought that in itself an earthquake is a sign of the end of the Age; but the prevalence of earthquakes since the beginning of this twentieth century properly enough attracts our attention to "What say the Scriptures?" upon this subject. Our text is from the Master's own lips—a part of His description of the trouble coming upon the world in the close of this Gospel Age, preparatory to the inauguration of the Millennial Age and its glorious manifestation of righteousness under the King of kings.

The Master was answering a question asked by His disciples respecting the End of the Age and the signs which would mark its close. In the context our Lord had told them that they might expect to hear of wars and tumults, but not to be terrified; for although such things would occur; they would not be indications that the end of the Age was near. Then, coming to the events to be expected at the close of the Age, He used the words of our text. He also declared that before these terrible indications of the End of the Age, His disciples would suffer persecutions in the synagogues, churches, etc., for His sake and for the Truth's sake.

Our Adventist friends have also been calling attention to Scriptures predicting great tribulation upon the world in the very near future; but our message is a very different one from theirs and is used for a very different purpose. Their message is that the convulsions of nature now due will results in "a wreck of matter and a crush of worlds"—in the utter destruction of our race and the reduction of this earth to a mass of cinder; and they use this message as a club to drive the wicked to seek protection of the Lord.

Be it noticed how different is our reference to these calamities. We hold with the Scriptures that "the earth abideth forever"; that cold and heat, summer and winter, will continue as long as the earth remains; and that God made not the earth in vain, but formed it to be inhabited. —Ecclesiastes 1:4; Genesis 8:22; Isaiah 45:18.

We have already pointed out that the fire of this Day of the Lord will be a symbolic one, just as the "fiery trials" of the Church throughout this Age have not generally consisted even in part of literal fire; and that the fiery troubles coming upon the world will overthrow present institutions—political, social, financial and religious—and will engulf the whole world in anarchy. In the Scriptures this is symbolically called in some places a flood and in others a consuming fire.

We have also pointed out that the passing away of present institutions, symbolically called "the heavens and the earth that are now," will be followed by the establishment of "a new heavens and a new earth, wherein dwelleth righteousness"—the reorganization of society along lines of Divine approval, intimated by the words of our Lord's prayer, "Thy Kingdom come; Thy will be done on earth, as it is done in Heaven."

We will not attempt to prognosticate the character of the frighful signs which belong to the closing of this Age; but they are very particularly mentioned by our Lord and were also foretold by the Prophet Joel, saying, "I will show wonders in heaven above and signs in the earth beneath, blood and fire and pillars of smoke."—Joel 2:30; Acts 2:19.

The Apostle Paul refers to the same thing in Hebrews 12:26-28. He alludes to the establishment of the Law Covenant at Mount Sinai and the wonderful manifestations which at that time caused Moses and all Israel to fear and quake. Then he tells us that those events were typical, or figurative, of the still more wonderful shakings, signs, etc., to be expected at the closing of this Gospel Age, when the Kingdom of God is about to be established and the New Covenant about to go into effect between God and mankind at the hands of the great Mediator, Jesus Christ and the Church.

St. Paul declares that the Word of the Lord upon this subject implies the removing of all things that can be shaken, so that only the unshakable things will remain; and these unshakable things he associates with God's Kingdom of righteousness. When with the eyes of our understanding open we look about us, we see very many things that evidently are not permanent, not right, not satisfactory to God and to all who love righteousness and hate iniquity; and when we reflect that the shaking will be such as to loosen and destroy all these imperfect things of the present time, we can imagine better than we can describe the severity of that shaking.

In the Revelation this same thought is expressed under the figure of a mighty earthquake, the like of which there had not been before and will never be thereafter. (Revelation 16:18.) Throughout the Apocalypse the term earthquake is used to symbolically represent revolution. What we are to expect then will be a great revolution, a great earthquake, the great shaking of the present institutions which will overthrow everything that is not of the Lord's establishment and approval.

In the Divine order there seems to be a harmony between the literal and the figurative; therefore the literal earthquakes have their part to play in the great Program. Not only are they to serve the Church as signs corroborating the prophecies respecting the approach of the great Time of Trouble which closes this Gospel Age, but they are to serve also another purpose—a particular purpose.

The Scriptures clearly intimate that our physical earth has not yet attained the grand perfection which the Lord designs that it should have, to be fit for the blessed ones whose home, as the Paradise of God, it shall be throughout all eternity. Be it noticed that the Scriptures clearly point out that the Little Flock, called of God during this Gospel Age to be the Bride of Christ, are to experience a change of nature from human to spirit, which will prepare them for Heavenly conditions, spiritual conditions. But for the remainder of mankind God's provision, according to His Word, is not the change of nature, but a restoration to the perfection of human nature and the development of the earth to that perfect condition which will make it as a whole the antitype of the Garden of Eden—the Paradise restored.

We have already called attention to the fact that the flood of waters in Noah's time was called by the breaking of the last of a series of rings that once surrounded the earth after the manner of the rings of the planet Saturn. Foreknowing the wickedness that would develop amongst mankind and the power that would be exercised amongst men by the giants of that day (Genesis 6:4), God had so timed the breaking of this last ring that the flood of waters would serve the purpose of overthrowing that order of things and making ready for the next feature of the Divine Program, the present order, which began after the Deluge, upon the coming of Noah and his family out of the Ark.

Similarly, the Scriptures teach, God has reserved for the appropriate time in the end of this Age certain great physical disturbances necessary to the development of the earth and its preparation for the Reign of Righteousness and Blessing of mankind, so that the troubles incidental to this change will come upon the world as disastrous floods, etc., and will co-operate in the bringing of mankind into sore straits and trials of faith and patience, which will result in anarchy and the complete shaking, not only of the physical earth, but also of the social earth and the ecclesiastical, or "heavenly," institutions, in order that all unstable things may pass away and that the new order of things may be ushered in on a permanent basis, having the Divine approval, and meaning ultimately the grandest blessing for our race.

From this standpoint a certain class can read the signs of the times intelligently and with confidence; and this class the Scriptures call the Lord's Little Flock (Luke 12:32), counted foolish by the world, but counted of the Lord as "the wise" who are to "understand." (Daniel 12:10.) To these the Master Himself addressed these words, "There shall be signs in the sun, in the moon and in the stars; and upon earth distress of nations, with perplexity; men's hearts failing them for fear, and for looking after those things which are coming upon the earth; for the powers of heaven shall be shaken." And again, "When these things begin to come to pass, then look up, and lift up your heads; for your deliverance draweth nigh."—Luke 21:25, 26, 28.

The Lord's consecrated people, possessed of His Spirit, cannot in any sense of the word rejoice at the tribulation coming upon others. Their rejoicing can be only in respect to the glorious things which they hope to experience, and which they know to be near by these outward signs. Their rejoicing is not merely on their own behalf, but also on behalf of the whole world; for they have the assurance of the Scriptures that beyond this Time of Trouble, which looms up as a dark cloud to cover the whole social world, there is a silver lining; and that shortly the glorious Sun of Righteousness will blaze forth, dispel every cloud and all the shadows of ignorance and superstition, and bring to the world of mankind the rich blessings of Divine favor secured through the precious blood of Christ.

From this standpoint the news of destructive earthquakes here and there appeals to us as incidental corroboration of the prophecies of Scripture which show us that we are very near the long-threatened Time of Trouble. True, there may be a lull for a brief period; but we have confidence that our Lord's prophecy as recorded is our text has a meaning, and that the time for its fulfillment must be very near at hand. We are well aware that the natural man and his scientific leaders will consider the association of the facts of our day with the words uttered more than eighteen centuries ago as very foolish. We are aware that they will say, as the Apostle Peter declared they would, that "all things continue as they have been from the foundation of the world," and that the present Age has been going on and will continue to do so, [illegible] any relationship to our Lord's Second Presence and the Time of Trouble with which this Age will end. (2 Peter 3:3, 4.) This is their view—the reverse is ours.

The Word of God teaches us that at this time of transition from the Gospel Age to the Messianic Age we are to expect wonderful contortions of nature and some radical changes in the earth's condition, in order that it may be the better adapted to the wants of man throughout eternity. It is God's own declaration that He will make the place of His feet glorious—the earth, His "footstool."—Isaia 60:13; 66:1.

Evidently great and wonderful changes will be effected, some of which will be brought about gradually. For instance, we all know of the gradual change of the temperate zone—its extension further and further toward the poles. We notice also the increasing moderation nearer to the equator. Those who recognize the Power of God can have full confidence that He is able to perform all the glorious promises of His Word respecting the paradisaical conditions of this earth for the use of mankind during the Millennial Age and the ages to follow.

As already intimated, social upheavals are pictured in the Word of God under the symbolism of earthquakes, "mountains carried into the sea," etc. Similarly, uprisings of the social elements in anarchy are pictured as tidal waves engulfing the "mountains"—governments. This is one of the most forceful pictures used, not only in the Psalms, but also in the Revelation and in our Lord's symbolical reference to the great Time of Trouble which is near at hand. Of this time the Prophet Daniel has declared that it will be "a Time of Trouble such as was not since there was a nation"; and our Lord, when quoting this prophecy, adds, "No, nor ever shall be."—Daniel 12:1; Matthew 24:21.

Let us not be misunderstood to be advocating anarchy or revolution of any kind. On the contrary, we are giving heed to the Master's injunction that all who are His true followers seek peace and pursue it, and so far as possible live peaceably with all men; that like Himself they should not resist evil with evil, force with force, but should rather commit their way unto the Lord, seek to walk in His paths, and rely upon Him for the results that will be to their profit and His glory.

So far from counseling anarchy, we hold and teach that even the meanest and poorest form of government is superior to anarchy; and in all sympathy and kindness we counsel those who are tending toward Socialism that they are unsuspectingly "hatching cockatrice eggs"; for under present conditions Socialism is absolutely impossible. The rich will not give up their advantages without a struggle to the death; and this, as soon as Socialism shall have gained the power which it is seeking, will spell anarchy for the world. For those now starting in with Socialistic hopes will find those hopes vain, and will become so angered, so disappointed, that they will be soured, embittered, mad, with the deceptions of their theories and the impossibility of carrying them out, as they intended, along the lines of benevolence. As a result they will be drawn to the desperate methods of the anarchist.

Would that all could see with us what the Scriptures so clearly indicate, namely, the Divine foreknowledge of past, present and future conditions, and the Divine arrangement of these for the highest welfare of all who seek righteousness, all who hearken to the voice of Him that speaketh from Heaven! Such the Lord urges to take His yoke upon them and learn of Him; that they accept of trials and difficulties incidental to loyalty to Him, and thus be counted worthy of a share in the highest and best of all God's gifts—to be sharers with our Lord Jesus in His Throne, in His nature and in the power which shortly He will exercise in the blessing of all mankind with Restitution.—Acts 3:19-21.

We urge all who are the Lord's to seek more and more to understand His wonderful Plan of Salvation, to glorify Him with their bodies and their spirits, which are His, and to wait for His time and His manner of bringing in the blessings which all see are so much needed by the poor "groaning creation." Meantime, all such should cultivate the graces of the Holy Spirit or, as the Apostle puts it, "put on Christ," His character, His meekness, patience, long suffering, brotherly kindness, love, against which things there is no law. Respecting these graces St. Peter declares, "If ye do these things ye shall never fall; for so an entrance shall be ministered unto you abundantly into the everlasting Kingdom of our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ."—2 Peter 1:10, 11.

These cannot be shaken out of the Lord's hand by any tumult. Indeed, if they be in the disasters of literal earthquakes they will be able to rejoice even in tribulation, knowing that all things work together for good to those who love God.

---

(Canadian Press Despatch)

BERLIN, (wireless via Sayville) Oct. 20.—It is officially announced that the new British submarine E3, was sunk in the North Sea by a German warship.

---

Marriage is apt to prove a failure if the courtship stops as soon as parson has tied the knot.

After exchanging greetings, one said:

---

Salvationist Song Popular.

The story of a Salvation Army song carolled on the fighting line by members of the corps, which are such a familiar scene in every big city, comes in the news from the front. These are the words:

> "I'm a child of a King,
> I'm a child of a King,
> With Jesus my saviour,
> I'm a child of the King."

They were sung by a wounded soldier going to the rear in an ambulance, taken up by a few of his comrades and gradually the chorus swelled until a whole army joined in.

A motor-driver said:

"After the chorus had been sung twice over I heard it taken up by other salvationists, and presently from many parts of the camp came the old salvation song."

An Amateur.

Briefly defined, an amateur is one who is less skilful than a professional.

---

Kindness and politeness would be appreciated more if they were not used so often as gold brick substitutes.

---

Advertise in the Intelligencer.

MODERN METHODS OF SAVING TIME

Machinery Replaces Human Brains and Hands—Office Work Reduced to Minimum

Novelties in the line of devices to save time and trouble in offices have come out in great numbers recently.

A new adding machine has an adding capacity of 10,000,000 and a weight of 13½ pounds. It adds, subtracts, and multiplies. It has seven keys, and an error-correcting device.

Another adding machine has a "Mezzanine" attachment, a keyboard on runways above the regular keyboard, which is said to make easy the solution of involved arithmetical operations.

An electric calculating machine, automatic after the necessary key has been depressed, multiplies, divides, and subtracts with astonishing speed.

Another calculating machine computes pay rolls, total time, and total pay, based on wages per week, per day, or per year.

An addressing machine about the size and weight of a typewriter prepares an address on a metal plate almost as quickly as it could be written on paper with a typewriter.

A special paper for the stencil addressing machines can be placed in any typewriter and written on in the usual way. The striking of the type makes the necessary perforations in the paper, which can then be placed in an ordinary stencil addressing machine and invoices, wrappers, cards, and other matter can be addressed by the thousand in exact facsimile of typewriting.

Presses for baling waste paper effect great savings in offices and large buildings, as every scrap of waste paper is utilized and sold.

A new carbon paper has an uncarbonized strip five-eighths of an inch wide, running lengthwise on the surface edge. This obviates soiling the hands and the paper.

A check machine writes a word at a stroke, impressing the same in indelible characters in the body of the check. It is impossible to remove the letters to raise the amount.

A coin counter will count hundreds of coins in a few minutes and deposit them in tubular containers.

A coin-banding machine will deliver a given amount of change in any variety desired, from one cent to $200.

There are several new envelope-sealing machines with capacities for sealing from 1,000 to 10,000 per hour sealing from 1,000 to 10,000 per hour.

A compact machine has been devised which will sign five checks simultaneously in exact facsimile of the original.

A new stencil machine will cut the name and address of a customer, name of shipper, routing, and special marks in a material much like cardboard. It cuts from five-eighths to one inch high.

A new typewriter model has two sets of keys. The turn of a knob immediately gives a complete change of type. Many different fonts can be used.

CAUSE OF TIDES

Many people regard the rise and fall of the ocean as a profound and baffling mystery. The mystery is not very hard to understand. As all know, the surface of the ocean rises and falls twice in every lunar day, this rise appearing along a coast to be a horizontal motion—always ebbing or flowing.

Now the lunar day consists of about twenty-five hours. Thus, of course, the "time" of the tides varies each day. The tides, moreover, do not always rise to the same height. Every fortnight, with the new and full moon, they rise very much higher than at other times.

These high tides are called "spring" tides, the alternating low tides being termed "neap." When the moon is nearest the earth, the rise and fall of the ocean is markedly increased. Thus the spring tides are greatest at the equinoxes—that is, at the end of March and the end of September.

Yes, you say, but what has the moon to do with it at all? Surely it is the sun which attracts the earth.

That is so. But, although the sun's attraction on the earth is far greater than the moon's, the moon is so very much nearer to the earth that the difference between its attraction at the centre and on the surface is three times as great as the sun's. And it is this difference which causes tides.

Big Customer of Banks

City auditor Sterling of Toronto compiled figures to show that the municipality's transactions with the banks for one year totalled over forty millions of dollars.

---

A man imagines he is a philanthropist every time he gives away a penny's worth of advice.

Money may help the man who helps himself.

THE DIAMOND CENTRE

Amsterdam Employs Thousands of Cutters and Polishers of Gems

The diamond trade of Amsterdam is in the hands of seventy firms, employing more than 10,000 workmen. About 1,700 are cleavers and cutters, and 4,700 polishers, etc., the rest being engaged about the offices in other work.

These workmen are composed of five classes, in the following order, as to the amount of wages received: Cleavers, polishers, turners, cutters, and sawyers. Polishers and turners receive about the same wages. Certain cleavers get as much as $120 a week. From this maximum wages grade downwards through the other classes to $6 and $8 a week for sawyers.

It is the task of the cleaver to split diamonds. Cutters take off the rough sharp edges and corners and determine the general shape of the stone. Polishers polish the stone and make their facets. Turners turn the diamonds around in the apparatus that holds them, so that the facets may be made, each fine diamond having from fifty-eight to sixty-four facets. Sawyers saw stones which cannot be cloven, or which it is more profitable to saw. Sometimes a stone is cleft and the parts then sawed, but very small stones cannot be sawed.

The Amsterdam diamond workers maintain a compact organization for their protection. No one can learn the trade without the consent of this organization, and only children of workers or of jewelers are eligible to become pupils. The waiting list always contains thousands of names.

As a general thing pupils pay for instruction, sometimes as much as $2,000 for cleaving, payable in instalments. In the case of polishers and turners there is a special school, the instruction fee being from $120 to $150.

SCHOOLS OF AGRICULTURE

It is not only what these boys learn in these schools, but the fact that they begin study again will mean that they will be better readers of farm journals, better students of books upon different agricultural subjects. In other words, the instruction they get in the schools will start them out upon the life study of the business of farming from a scientific standpoint. It will give them greater ambition not only for themselves, but for their boys in the future, and will mean not only an improvement in farm methods but an improvement intellectually among our farmers until the whole population on the land will finally recognize the necessity and importance of education and training, and its relation to agriculture. This can only be done by placing schools of agriculture at the very doors of the farmer. Fifty miles is quite a distance for a farm boy to travel to go to school, but he can be induced to travel that far, and there is no reason why a country that depends for the production of its wealth upon agriculture should not place the opportunity for education within easy reach of every boy and girl who expects to spend his or her life in developing and improving the land.—Hon. Duncan Marshall of Alberta, in Agricultural Gazette.

Hygiene in the Desert

Nothing under the sun is new. Facts have proved that even the pitch which hygiene has reached at the present day was equalled, and in many instances excelled, under the laws of Moses.

The particular and careful manner in which animals were slaughtered, according to the laws of the Talmud, is acknowledged to-day to be the most sanitary method possible.

Professor Koch gave to the world the valuable results of his investigations in bacteriology, but several thousand years before that the Mosaic law pointed out the danger to humanity from tuberculosis in cattle, but did not forbid poultry as food. It was not many years ago that specialists discovered that fowl tuberculosis was harmless to man.

The yearly exodus to the country and seaside is no new innovation. Moses, the great law-giver, prescribed not only feasting at certain seasons of the year, but the removal of whole families to great camping-grounds in the open spaces, where they could live near to Nature.

Mica in Alberta

A recent report from Edmonton stated that 30 tons of commercial mica was taken out of claims on Mica mountain, near Tete Jaune. The mica is of excellent quality. Samples from the vein under development took first prizes at Paris, 1900; Glasgow, 1902; and St. Louis, 1904.

---

When a girl looks miserable, even a wise man can't tell whether it is because of a broken heart or an aching corn.

COMING

PROF. PEMBER, of the well Hair Goods Store, Toronto, will be in Belleville, at the Quinte Hotel, on Friday, Oct. 23, 1914, with the finest display of Hair Goods on the American Continent. For Ladies—our Transformations, Pompadours, Bangs, Waves, Switches, etc., are perfection, made from the finest of European Hair.

FOR BALD MEN.

The Pember Light Weight ventilated Toupee or Wig is the most natural substitute for your own hair that has ever been produced. If you have any scalp troubles call and see Prof. Pember, who will give you advice free of charge.

REMEMBER THE DATE.

QUINTE HOTEL,
FRIDAY, OCT. 23, 1914

A Popular-Priced Line OF
Loose-Leaf Ledgers
Well-Made—Good Looking

Badger-it Loose-Leaf Ledger

Price Complete $2.70
One Size
One Price
One Ruling

Leaf Size 7⅝x10⅜ ins.
Bound
Leaves
Full
Cloth
200 D. E.
Printed

About 160 extra leaves can be added, and larger screws furnished with the outfit to give extra large expansion for inserting more leaves.

It is the Best Cheap Loose-Leaf Ledger on the market

Badger-Beauty Loose-Leaf Ledger

Price Complete $4.50
200 Ruled
Leaves
Balance W. D. or D. E.

Leaf Size 7⅝x10⅜ ins.
Bound
Cloth
Sides
With Seal
Grain Cowhide
Back and Corners.

Two Extension Screws are furnished with the above outfits. The LOOSE LEAF LEDGER is an up-to-date practica proposition. GET ONE NOW.

Intelligencer Printing Co.
Belleville - - - - - - Ontario

ing us to breakfast at this hour? It's only 5 o'clock.

Waitress—The missus heard it thundering, and she told me to hurry up and serve breakfast before the milk soured.—Boston Transcript.

With Apologies to Everybody.

Oh, it's easy enough to be pleasant
When life goes along just right,
But the man worth while
Is the man who can smile
When his wife tangoes morn, noon and night.
—Life.

Social Uplift.

"You should join our Discussion club, it is no end of benefit."

"Do you cover a wide range of subjects?"

"Oh, no. We confine ourselves exclusively to bridge and tango."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Wuff!

He married a corn fed named Maud,
Whose shape wasn't long, but quite braud.
They continued to spoon
For a brief honeymoon,
But now he is claud, chaud and jaud.
—Cincinnati Enquirer.

What Would Happen.

"Had I the wings of a bird"— began the poet.

"You'd suffer," interrupted the prosaic person. "Your wife would take them away from you to trim a hat."—Detroit Free Press.

---

I can handle soft corn,
Eat raw oysters with the best,
But I cannot eat spaghetti
Without mussing up my vest.
—Peoria Journal.

---

"How long has he been married?"

"Not very long. He still goes home to lunch."—Detroit Free Press.

---

The Indian that we used to know
Presents a transformation great.
He draws a salary from a show
Or cashes in on real estate.
—Washington Star.

---

Willie—Paw, what is a square deal?

Paw—That's when you get about 10 per cent the best of it, my son.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

---

"A tear was in her voice," he wrote,
And how it made the critic swear
When on a can he chanced to note
A loud voiced booby read it "tear!"
—Judge.

---

Wife (after callers had gone)—How dare you scold me before company!

Hub—Well, you know, my dear, I don't dare do it when we are by ourselves.—Boston Transcript.

---

The whole world hates a groucby stew.
It always makes us cuss
To fall in with a fellow who Wants to fall out with us.
—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Come Across.

A Texan so bold
Toward the border, we're told,
These words would defiantly toss:
"You who yearn for the fray,
Do not further delay!
Come across! Come across! Come across!"

The Texan at last
To the northward was passed
To collect the poor taxpayer's dross,
And with voice clear and strong
Still he warbled that song,
"Come across! Come across! Come across!"
—Washington Star.

A Friend In Need.

Soubrette—Ravenyelp thinks a great deal of the president.

Comedian—Yes; the president did him the best turn any one can possibly do an actor.

Soubrette—What was it?

Comedian—Gave him an audience.—Judge.

The Perfect Baby.

Little Miss Wigger was measured and weighed,
Measured and charted and given a grade;
Little Miss Wigger was tested with care,
Tested and sounded from instep to hair,
Never a point did the measurers miss—
Never a baby as perfect as this!
"Yes," said the judges, "the prize goes to you."
Blushing, Miss Wigger responded with "Goo!"
—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

An Astronomical Theory.

The moon was doing its best to flood Indianapolis' part of the earth with light. Little Margaret and her mother were looking at the moon.

"Oh, mamma," exclaimed Margaret "look how bright the moon is! It must be nickel plated."—Indianapolis News.

Apropos.

Clare and her sister sat without—
We knew a beau was due—
When suddenly exclaimed small Bess,
"Oh, sister, kiss me too!"

Who hesitates is lost, and Clare
Without a single stammer
Replied: "You should say twice, my dear.
Where did you learn such grammar?"
—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

Resting.

Patience—Did you see Peggy down at the beach?

Patrice—Oh, yes.

"What was she doing—flirting, as usual?"

"No; she said she went down there for a rest."—Yonkers Statesman.

Generalship.

He reached the green in two shots, but,
Lifting his ball, he said to me:
"It's scarce ten feet, an easy putt,
I'll just concede myself a three."
A dandy scheme this seemed to be,
So ere to drive I had begun
I said, and lifted from the tee,
"I'll just concede myself a one."
—New York World.

A Saving Woman.

Boarder—What do you mean by call-

RAILROAD TRANSPORTATION

CANADIAN NORTHERN RAILWAY
TORONTO OTTAWA
New NIGHT SERVICE

(Daily)

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| Lv. Toronto (Union Station) | 11.00 P.M. | Lv. Ottawa (Central Station) | 10.50 P.M. |
| Lv. Belleville | 2.40 A.M. | Lv. Belleville | 3.40 A.M. |
| Ar. Ottawa | 7.40 A.M. | Ar. Toronto | 7.30 A.M. |

INTERMEDIATE STOPS

Orono, Port Hope, Cobourg, Trenton, Deseronto, Napanee, Yarker, Harrowsmith, Sydenham, Brockville Junction, and Smith's Falls.

NEW EQUIPMENT

Standard Sleeping Cars — Electric Lighted Coaches

| | |
|---|---|
| Lv. Toronto | 8.20 A.M. |
| Lv. Belleville | 11.55 A.M. |
| Ar. Ottawa | 5.20 P.M. |
| Lv. Ottawa | 12.15 Noon |
| Lv. Belleville | 5.10 P.M. |
| Ar. Toronto | 9.15 P.M. |

(Daily except Sunday)

GENERAL CHANGE OF TIME ONTARIO LINES EFFECTIVE MON. OCT. 19TH. For full particulars, see latest Time Table Folder.

For Rail and Steamship Tickets, Parlor and Sleeping Car Reservations, and all information, apply to J. A. Patterson, Town Agent, or L. W. Buller, Station Agent.

GRAND TRUNK RAILWAY SYSTEM
TORONTO - CHICAGO
TORONTO - MONTREAL

The International Limited
Canada's Train of Superior Service
Leaves Toronto 4.40 p.m. daily, arrives Detroit 9.55 p.m. and Chicago 8.00 a.m.

MORNING SERVICE
Leaves Toronto 8 a.m., arrives Detroit 1.45 p.m. and Chicago 8.40 p.m. daily.

LAST TRAIN OUT OF TORONTO AT NIGHT
Leaves 11.35 p.m., arrives Detroit 8 a.m. and Chicago 3.00 p.m. daily, assuring important connection with principal trains for Western States and Canada.

FOR MONTREAL
Leaves Toronto 9 a.m., 8.30 p.m., and 11 p.m. daily.
Berth reservations, etc., at G. T. R. ticket offices.
H. C. Thompson, City Passenger and Ticket Agent. Phone 403.
T. H. Coppin, Station Ticket Agent. Phone 3n.

CANADIAN PACIFIC
WINTER TOURS
To The Land of Sunshine and Summer Days.
CALIFORNIA, FLORIDA, LOUISIANA, ETC.
Limited trains eave Toronto daily, making direct connection at Detroit and Buffalo for the Southern States, and at Chicago for California, etc.
Those contemplating a trip of any nature should consult Canadian Pacific Agents, who will be pleased to quote rates, arrange reservations and attend to all details in connection with your trip, or write M. G. Murphy, District Passenger Agent, corner King and Yonge Streets, Toronto.
S. BURROWS, Gen. Agent, Belleville.

RAILWAY TIME TABLE.

CANADIAN NORTHERN ONTARIO RAILWAY

EFFECTIVE SEPT. 14TH.

For Toronto and intermediate points—6.40 a.m., 5.15 p.m.

Trenton, Wellington, Picton and intermediate points—6.40 a.m., 12.40 noon.

Marmora, Bannockburn and Coe Hill—12.40 noon.

Marmora, Bannockburn, Bancroft and Maynooth, and intermediate stations—6.40 a.m.

Deseronto, Napanee and B. Q. stations—10.35 a.m., 1.00 p.m., 9.40 p.m.

For Kingston, Brockville, Smith's Falls, Ottawa and intermediate stations—1.00 p.m.

Trains arrive from Toronto and intermediate points—1.00 p.m., 9.40 p.m.

From Picton, Wellington, Trenton and intermediate stations—10.35 a.m., 6.05 p.m., 9.40 p.m.

From Napanee, Deseronto and intermediate stations—6.40 a.m., 12.40 p.m., 5.15 p.m.

From Maynooth and intermediate stations—6.22 p.m.

From Coe Hill and intermediate stations—10.35 a.m.

From Tamworth and intermediate stations—5.15 p.m.

From Kingston, Brockville, Smith's Falls, Ottawa and intermediate stations—6.15 p.m.

A little brief authority or a few dried apples will puff a small man up to the limit.

CANADIAN GOVERNMENT RAILWAYS
INTERCOLONIAL
PRINCE EDWARD ISLAND RY

2 Through Trains 2
From Bonaventure Union Depot, Montreal.

OCEAN LIMITED
Leaves 7.30 p.m. daily for Quebec, Riviere du Loup, Campbellton, Moncton, St. John, Truro and Halifax. Connections for Glasgow, etc., and the Sydneys (except Saturdays).

Maritime Express
Leaves 8.40 a.m. daily except Saturday, for Quebec, Campbellton, Moncton, Truro, Halifax, St. John. On Saturdays will run Montreal to St. Flavie only.

For further information concerning rates, reservations, etc., apply to local Grank Trunk Railway Ticket or Freight Agent, or to E. Tiffin, General Western Agent, 51 King St. East, (King Edward Hotel Block), Toronto, Ontario.

RAILWAY TIME TABLE

GRAND TRUNK RAILWAY

Time of departure from Belleville station.

Going East.

No. 18—12.30 a.m. Mail train, daily.
No. 16— 2.06 a.m. Fast train, Flyer, daily.
No. 32—Local for Brockville, 7 a.m.; arrives back from Brockville, 8.50 p.m.; daily except Sunday.
No. 6—11.10 a.m.—Mail and Express, daily.
No. 14—12.16 p.m. Express, daily.
No. 28— 5.45 p.m. Local passenger, daily except Sunday.
No. 30— 9.30 p.m.—Local passenger, daily except Sunday.

Going West.

No. 19— 2.15 a.m.—Mail and Express, daily.
No. 13— 4.35 a.m. Limited Express, daily.
No. 29— 7.50 a.m. Local Passenger, daily except Sunday, leaving Toronto 6.00 p.m., arrives in Belleville at 9.25 p.m., arrives in Kingston at 11.05 p.m.
No. 27—11.15 a.m. Passenger, daily except Sunday.
No. 1— 1.50 p.m. International Limited, daily.
No. 7— 4.55 p.m. Mail and Express, daily.

BELLEVILLE AND PETERBORO'

Going West.

| | Leave. | Ar. Peterboro' |
|---|---|---|
| Mail | 5.20 a.m. | 8.00 a.m. |
| Passenger | 6.00 p.m. | 8.50 p.m. |

Going East.

| | Arrive | Lv. Peterboro' |
|---|---|---|
| Mixed | 10.55 a.m. | 8.20 a.m. |
| Mail | 4.15 p.m. | 1.30 p.m. |

BELLEVILLE AND MADOC.

Going North.

| | Leave | Ar. Madoc |
|---|---|---|
| Mixed | .11 p.m. | 1.50 p.m. |
| Mixed | 6.30 p.m. | 7.50 p.m. |

Going South.

| | Arrive | Lv. Madoc |
|---|---|---|
| Mixed | 4.50 p.m. | 3.20 p.m. |
| Mixed | 9.15 a.m. | 7.15 a.m. |

None of the above trains run on Sunday.

THE STANDARD BANK OF CANADA

QUARTERLY DIVIDEND NOTICE No. 96.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that a Dividend at the rate of Thirteen Per Cent Per Annum upon the Capital Stock of this Bank has been declared for the quarter ending the 31st October, 1914, and that the same will be payable at the Head Office in this City and its Branches on and after Monday, the 2nd day of November, 1914, to shareholders of record of the 23rd of October, 1914.

By order of the Board,
G. P. SCHOLFIELD,
Toronto, 29th September, 1914. General Manager.
JOHN ELLIOTT, Manager, Belleville Branch
Shannonville Branch open Mondays and Thursdays
Foxboro " " Tuesdays and Fridays
Rednersville " " Wednesdays

The Merchants Bank
Of Canada
Capital.................. $7,000,000
Reserve.................. $7,000,000
YOUR SAVINGS ACCOUNT INVITED
Interest added every six months. Small or large amounts deposited. Banking may be done by mail. Drafts on any parts of the world sold or bought.
A General Banking Business conducted.
Belleville Branch H. SNEYD, Manager

THE WEALTH OF BRITAIN

A British Bluebook on the occupations of the people of England and Wales, recently issued by the Census Bureau, gives figures which indicate how large a proportion of the population is engaged in personal service, ministering to the wants and whims of the rich. Female domestic servants number 1,260,673. In one borough, that of Hampstead, a suburb of London, 757 families out of every 1,000 keep one or more domestics. The other extreme is found in the industrial north. In many small Lancashire and Yorkshire towns there are less than 30 domestics per 1,000 families. The charming gardens of the well-to-do cost an enormous sum to maintain. There are no less than 118,739 gardeners employed under the classification of domestics. The result of the labors of this army is the most delightful countryside to be found in the world. A summary of the total number of persons, male and female, engaged in domestic service gives the following figures:

| | |
|---|---|
| Male indoor service | 41,765 |
| Female indoor service | 1,260,673 |
| Coachmen and grooms | 67,228 |
| Motor car drivers | 23,151 |
| Gardeners | 118,739 |
| Gamekeepers | 17,148 |
| | 1,528,704 |

Movies For Heathen

REV. DR. JUDSON

Dr. Edward Judson who has spent most of his life on Oriental mission fields, has found a new way to interest the heathen in religion. He is going to tell the story of the gospel on the screen. Some pictures will be used to instruct the pagan and others will inform civilized nations how the pagan lives at home.

Sheep as Warming-pans

The high temperature of birds enables them to resist cold more effectually than they could otherwise do. Whereas blood-heat in man is 98 degrees Fahr., it is 107 degrees in the domestic fowl, and more in some other birds. Nevertheless, they feel the cold very much, and display a remarkable amount of ingenuity in finding means to warm themselves. A farmer in the uplands of Lanarkshire one winter observed a number of chaffinches entering an outhouuse where bullocks were stalled. He went in and found them nestling in the straw against the flanks of the reposing beasts. Birds are fond of using sheep as warming-pans, regardless of the risk attendant. Snuggling down into the long wool, they are apt to get their feet entangled, when the result may be starvation.

"Movies" Without a Screen

By optical combinations, the details of which have not been made public, a London theater is showing motion pictures in which the actors appear to move about on a stage without the use of a visible screen.

Indigo Growing in India.

A revival of indigo growing is being agitated in India in view of the reputed discovery of a process that will enable it to be sold at a price that will compete with synthetic indigo.

Sanitary Roller Towel

Sanitary requirements are claimed to be met by a recently patented roller towel of unusual length, soiled portions being reeled on a second roller so they cannot be usedu again.

Improves the Pictures

Apparatus has been invented for forcing a jet of compressed air into the acid bath in the manufacture of newspaper etchings, which is said to improve them by keeping the acid in motion and removing metal particles.

Electrocutes Insects

Two Illinois inventors have patented a trap which attracts insects within it by a lighted lamp so that they come into contact with electrically charged wires and are killed.

MARRIED MEN BARRED

The Army and Many Industries Favors the Man Without a Wife

Can a married man keep a secret from his wife? Some people think not, and among them are the heads of the firm who built the wonderful racing yacht for Sir Thomas Lipton.

There is always a deal of secrecy about the design of a new racing yacht, and particularly about the shape of the keel. The keel of "Shamrock IV." was cast at Messrs. Camper and Nicholson's yard at Gosport, on November 26th, last, and not one married man was among the men employed nor took part in the construction of the hull.

During all those years that Lord Kitchener was busy perfecting his plans for his swoop upon the Mahdi he would not have a Benedict upon his staff. If one of the staff wanted to get married, why, he had to find another job—that was all.

As a matter of fact, there were singularly few desertions for this cause. The Sirdar gave his men precious little leisure for love-making.

In businesses which depend for their success on secret formulas married men are sometimes refused employment.

One such has for more than a century past been manufacturing a certain popular sauce. The firm has two large factories, and employs a great number of hands, including scores of women. There are plenty of married men in the works, but the actual mixing is in the hands of a few highly-paid and much-trusted men, not one of whom is married.

The plan seems to have worked well, for, in spite of many attempts at bribery, the secret has remained inviolate for 120 years.

One might also quote the case of the well known liquer, Chartreuse, the formula for which remained a secret among its monkish manufacturers for more than 200 years.

Some industries there are in which the element of danger is so great that employers prefer bachelors to married men. There is a powder factory in Kent where the posts of danger in the mixing houses are held only by unmarried men.

And in the Du Pont factory at Wilmington, which is the oldest established dynamite factory in the United States, a similar regulation is said to be in force. The Royal Flying Corps of Great Britain prefers to employ unmarried officers and men.

DESTROYING THE CLOTHES MOTH

Swat the Mottled Moth, the Real Source of the Pest

The work of the larvæ of the clothes moth is probably more familiar to the average housekeeper than the moth itself, although the latter is a very common object during the summer months in houses or rooms where the larvæ has been silently at work during the preceding winter and spring working havoc among furs, woollens feathers, and all similar animal substances not in constant use. The damage it does in this direction in wardrobes and to stored-away clothing is a constant source of anxiety to the economical housekeeper. Dusting and treating suspected articles with more or less odorous substances is almost wholly wasted effort. A little knowledge of the life history of the mischievous despoiler would show how easy it is to prevent damage by properly directed efforts. The tiny mottled brown moth, scarcely a quarter of an inch long, seen fluttering airily about rooms, apparently so ridiculously easy but really most difficult to catch in the hand, is the real source of the trouble.

It assumes the adult winged state about the beginning of June and onwards to the end of summer. If struck down with the hand when on the wing, or disturbed when in hiding, it runs very nimbly, and is adept at taking advantage of the slightest cover for concealing itself. During this stage it deposits its eggs, which are practically invisible when deposited among wearing apparel.

Contrary to the custom of moths generally the clothes moth does not attach its eggs to any object, and being loose and free the eggs may be quite easily brushed or shaken out of the articles wherein they have been any time after deposition before hatching takes place. It follows that frequent brushing and shaking of articles liable to attack, preferably in the open air, or at least away from the wardrobe, throughout the summer months, is the only rational way of preventing damage to clothing and woollens during the winter months. Spraying the wood inside the wardrobe with a solution of camphor in methylated spirit—an ounce to the pint—is a wise precaution, and will be effectual in destroying any unseen eggs or larvæ that have escaped the brush.—C. St. J.

QUEER INSURANCES

Beyond the fact that we can insure our own lives, few people know that quite legal insurances can be taken out in many ways. For instance, every subject of the King has an insurable interest in the King's life, and may insure him. A creditor can legally insure the life of a debtor for the amount of the debt, and, even when the debt is paid, the creditor may lawfully continue the insurance. An employer of labor can insure the lives of his workers, the insurable interest, which alone makes the policies legal, being that he is liable for fatal injuries received in the course of their work.

Mere relationship does not create an insurable interest. Husbands and wives can insure each other, and a child can insure its father; but a brother cannot, generally speaking, insure his brothers and sisters. Life policies can be sold or assigned, with notice to the company and an acknowledgment, but fire policies are not transferable without the company's consent.—Tit-Bits.

PLENTY OF LAWYERS

Toronto Has More Than Enough—Big Pay at the Top

Toronto supports about 900 lawyers. Every year adds to the number, out of all proportion to the amount of business offering. In the words of a leading barrister, "Toronto has room about for thirty per cent. of the available law offices. Excess of lawyers always means an artificial stimulation of 'custom' in the form of unnecessary processes of law."

Taking the generally-accepted opinion of professional leaders that if all earnings of barristers in Toronto were pooled the average would be found about two thousand dollars a year, it means that $1,800,000 or thereabouts is paid by the public of Toronto for legal services annually, although a generous slice of that must come from the Province of Ontario. Several hundred barristers here do not approach the two thousand salary, but their minus is considerably balanced by the reputed earnings of Z. A. Lash from his legal practice alone, which is placed at $65,000 a year, and of Mr. E. F. B. Johnstone who refuses to enter a courtroom without a guarantee of from $200 to $400 per day, depending on the difficulty of the case.

From Battlefield to Convent

IVANKA CHRISTITCH

Servian soldiers will miss the ministrations of Ivanka Christitch, the "Florence Nightingale of the Balkans," for Ivanka has changed her Red Cross uniform for the habit of a nun. The Servian nurse is at Tyburn convent on "Tyburn hill" in London, preparing for her consecration as a nun. She will be known as Sister Elizabeth, but as she is entering a cloistered order she will devote her time to teaching rather than nursing.

Book-holder

The principal feature of a new book-holder for the use of persons lying in bed is a pane of glass on which an open book can be laid without needing clamps to retain it.

Fifty thousand combinations are possible with a new combination padlock.

About the time that the Germans should be putting in their crop next spring, the Russian hordes will be tramping over the fields of Prussia, while the Allies will be performing a similar feat in West Germany on their way to Berlin. If the war should last that long, Germany will face 1915 unable to put in one per cent. of her usual crop.

BELLEVILLE BUSINESS DIRECTORY

The Professional Fraternity of our city will find an advertisement under this head an exceptionally advantageous investment, the returns hitherto obtained making the extremely moderate rates but normal. By consulting our price list in another column, or calling at The Intelligencer business office, full information may be obtained.

LEGAL.

WILLS & WRIGHT
Barristers, Solicitors, Notaries Public, etc. Office: 15 Campbell Street, Belleville. Money to loan at lowest rates.
J. FRANKLIN WILLS, K.C.
MALCOLM WRIGHT.

NORTHRUP & PONTON
Barristers, Solicitors, Notaries Public, Commissioners. Offices: North Bridge Street. Solicitors for the Merchants Bank of Canada and the Bank of Montreal. Money to loan on mortgages.
W. B. NORTHRUP, K.C., M.P.
W. N. PONTON K.C.
R. D. PONTON.

CLUTE & SHOREY
Barristers, Solicitors, Notaries, etc. Office: North side of Campbell Street, Belleville. Solicitors for the Dominion Bank. Money to loan on mortgages on easy terms.
A. X. CLUTE, LL.B.
W. D. M. SHOREY.

PORTER & CARNEW
Barristers and Notaries Public, etc. Office: Robertson Block, East Front St., Belleville, Ont.
E. GUSS PORTER, K.C., M.P.
WM. CARNEW.
Solicitors for Union Bank.

W. C. MIKEL, B.C.L., K.C.
Barristers, &c., 28 Bridge St., over G N.W. Telegraph office.
Solicitor for Molsons Bank.
Phone 77.

W. D. M. SHOREY
Barrister, Solicitor, etc. Solicitor for the Dominion Bank and the Township of Ameliasburg.
Money to loan on mortgages on easy terms.
Office 8 Campbell Street, Belleville.

MUSICAL.

Mrs. Wilmot
VOCAL INSTRUCTOR
Tone Production a speciality. Pupils conscientiously trained for Concert Work and Church Positions. Voices tested free of charge.
"THE STUDIO,"
S16,dtf BRIDGE ST.

HIGGS Miss Joy. Violin Instruction.
Tems Moderate
"THE STUDIO," Bridge

WHEATLEY Professor. Piano, Theory, Vocal.
Modern Methods. Best Results
THE "STUDIO." Tel. 594

INSURANCE.

Liverpool & London & Globe Ins. Co.; North British & Mercantile Ins. Co.; Sun Fire; Waterloo Mutual; Lloyd's Plate Glass; Dominion of Canada Guarantee and Accident Insurance Co., and other companies.
Farm and City property insured in first class and reliable companies and at lowest current rates. Land valuator and agent for selling, purchasing, or renting property. Rents collected.
W. H. HUDSON
Office: No. 17 Campbell St. Belleville. Phone 161.

FARM INSURANCE
I have made arrangements with English Companies to insure Farm Dwellings and Barns and contents at from 75c. to $1.00 per $100.
Call and see me before renewing your insurance.
CHANCEY ASHLEY
Opposite Post Office. Belleville, Ont.

THOS. STEWART
Bridge Street, Belleville.
Fire, Accident and Plate Glass Insurance effected in the oldest and most reliable companies.
REAL ESTATE AGENT.
Stocks and bonds bought and sold.

R. H. KETCHESON
Agent for
Queen Fire Insurance Co.; York Fire Insurance Co.; Inter-State Live Stock Insurance.
Canadian Railway Accident Insurance Co.

ROBERT BOGLE
MERCANTILE AGENCY.
Insurance, Real Estate, Loans Negotiated, Accountant, Auditor, Estates Managed. Office: 28 Bridge Street.

LAUNDRY.

QUINTE LAUNDRY
Work done by the Quinte Laundry is guaranteed to be satisfactory in every way.
Shirts, Collars and Cuffs our specialty. Family work done by the dozen.
W. R. VALLANCE .. .. .. .. .. Manager
Phone 330

BUS, AUTO AND CABS.

ASELSTINE'S
BUS, CAB AND TRANSFER LINE.
Special cabs, broughams and carriages, all rubber tired; for weddings, private driving or funerals. The finest turnouts in town.
Office and stables, cor. Moira and Centre Streets. Tweed Stage in connection.
Phone 228.

MEDICAL.

JOHN J. FARLEY, M.D., C.M.,
M.R.C.S., England.
Office and Residence: Corner of Bridge and George Streets; three streets east of the Post Office.

DR. J. CHANT
Specialist in Diseases of Eye, Ear, Nose and Throat, and Fitting of Glasses.
Office: Corner Queen and John Streets Phone 718.

MONEY.

Private money to loan on mortgages on farms and other real estate, at lowest rate of interest, on terms to suit borrowers.
Apply to
S. MASSON
Barrister, etc.
Over Wallbridge & Clarke's Bridge St., Belleville.

MINING
BELLEVILLE ASSAY OFFICE
Ores and minerals of all kinds tested and assayed. Samples sent by mail or express will receive prompt attention. All results guaranteed. Office and Laboratory, 185 Pinnacle St., opposite market. Telephone 386.

ENGINEERING.

J. D. EVANS, C.E. & O.L.S. J. W. EVANS, C.E. & M.E.
EVANS & EVANS
Civil and Mining Engineers, and Ontario Land Surveyors. Belleville and Trenton.
Belleville Office: 185 Pinnacle Street, opposite market. Telephone 386.

AUCTIONEER.

J. L. PALMER
We specialize on City sales.
Terms Reasonable
Belleville Box 183 Ontario
LICENSED AUCTIONEER
for counties of Hastings, Prince Edward Northumberland, Lennox and Addington. Office: over Bell Telephone, opposite Post Office, Bridge St. Prompt attention.

"COLLIP"
FLORIST
Night Phone 175. Day Phone 206.
All kinds of Cut Flowers and Plants in Season.
Wedding and Funeral designs specialty, shipped to all parts. Front Street.

OUR LINES
Automobile Storage and Car Repairing
Supplies
Bicycle Repairing
Motor Cycle Repairing
Gas Engine Work
Electrical Contracting
Electrical Supplies
Oxy-Acetyline Welding
Locksmithing
Machine Work
Storage Battery Care and Charging
General and Steel Repairing
Call and see us, whether you do business or not, at
The Garage
GREENLEAF & SON
Phone 83. 288 Pinnacle St.

GOD BLESS OUR HOME

After the Honeymoon
is the time when domestic help becomes pressing. A Want Ad. in our paper will solve the problem.
Desirable people who want employment appreciate its value and consult the "Help Wanted" ads.

The world is a cage in which humanity is tamed.

STORM SASH AND DOORS
Made to your order, any Shape or Size
SAVE YOUR COAL BILLS
The Holton Lumber Co. Limited
EVERYTHING IN LUMBER
Phones Offices
112-1197 1 Bride St. W; Water St.

The Daily Intelligencer.

LET THERE BE HARMONY IN THINGS ESSENTIAL—LIBERALTY IN THINGS NOT ESSENTIAL—CHARITY IN ALL.

Vol. 48 BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO, FRIDAY, OCTOBER 23, 1914. No. 142

Established 1886
FURNITURE & UNDERTAKING
TICKELL & SONS CO
SPECIAL — AT COST
49 VERANDAH CHAIRS

Young Mother Guilty of Murder

Jury Recommends Mercy, Judge Concurs--Maturo Guilty of Manslaughter

SUDBURY, Oct. 23.—(Special.)—At the Assizes to-day the jury returned a verdict of guilty in the case of Mrs. Hawryluk, charged with murder. Sentence was deferred until the end of the court. In June last, accused give birth to twins, a boy and a girl, destroying the newly-born infants by strangulation and a few hours later burying the bodies in graves dub by her own hands on the banks of a creek a half-mile distant. Counsel for prisoner admitted the crime and set up the plea of pubertin insanity, expert testimony on which was refused admittance in the evidence, but on which counsel for prisoner based his address to the jury.

Mrs. Hawryluk is but eighteen years of age and married her husband in January last, a week after they first met. The motive for the crime was the fact that she had married her husband under false pretences and was trying to conceal her guilt. A recommendation for mercy was attached to the verdict and was concurred in by Mr. Justice Latchford.

A verdict of guilty was also rendered in the case of V. Maturo, charged with manslaughter, in which a countryman was stabbed to death in drunken brawl at Garson Mine. Sentence is withheld. The charge was reduced from murder.

GERMANS AND AUSTRIANS IN CANADA A PROBLEM

Likely that Several Detention Places Will Have to be Established

OTTAWA, Oct. 23.—(Special.)—Officials of the Departments of Justice and Immigration are making a careful investigation as to the location and character of Germans and Austrians in Canada, with a view of taking any necessary precautionary measures to prevent throuble for them. No definite decision has yet been reached as to what action will be taken with regard to unemployed Austrians or Germans, but it is probable that several detention places will be established similar to the one already established at Fort Henry, Kingston. Dejortations of undesirable immigrants to Great Britain and France are still being made, but in the case of Austria and Germany it is, of course, impossible to enforce the deportation regulations at present. It is probable that there will be hundreds of indigent or suspicious German and Austrian immigrants of recent years, who have not yet become naturalized Canadian citizens, gathered at central points and kept under Government supervision this winter. They may be kept employed as some sort of Government work, so as to defray the cost of their maintenance.

APPROVES BRITISH POLICY IN CRISIS

EDMONTON, Alta., Oct. 22.—Premier Sifton yesterday afternoon moved a resolution in the Legislature which was adopted unanimously recording unqualified approval of the action of the British Government in the European crisis and loyally pledging support in their Government's 'prompt and courageous determination to do battle for the integrity of the small outraged states and to vindicate the public law of Europe."

The Legislature also commanded and ratified the gift of the Government of Alberta to the British Government and pledged support to any subsequent contributions from the resources of the Province for the purpose of the war.

The resolution will be forwarded to H.R.H. the Duke of Connaught with the request that it be conveyed to His Majesty, accompanied by an expression of appreciation of the noble sentiments of His Majesty's recent message to his people overseas and assurance of our sincere attachment to his Throne and person."

COMMISSIONS IN CANADIAN FORCE

KINGSTON, Ont., Oct. 22.—The following cadets of the Royal Military College have been granted commissions in the Canadian permanent forces under date of October 19:

J. S. Mcueen, New Glasgow, N.S., and C. R. Sircom, Halifax, N.S., in the Canadian Ordance division. R. H. Harhower, Montreal, in the Strathcona Horse. H. V. Lemesurier, Toronto, in the Royal Dragoons, and R. O. G. Morton, Toronto, in the Royal Canadian Artillery. Morton is a grandson of General Sir Wm. Otter.

COURTSHIP OF CANADA PROVES GREAT SUCCESS

Elaborate Operetta Carried Through Without a Flaw--Fantastic Scenes Delight Large Audience--The Cast and Synopsis

The operetta, "The Courtship of Miss Canada," for which preparations have been going on during the past month, was presented to an immense audience in the City Hall last evening, under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid of the Tabernacle Church, and pronounced one of the most elaborate and pleasing of productions. From the opening of the first act to the concluding scene of the third, the interest was intense, not a flaw marring the conduction of the play, the eighty members of the cast doing great credit to their individual parts.

The opening scene, in which Mrs. Frances Nicholson royally impersonated Miss Canada, to whom the ten Provinces did obeisence, while the four winds, in the form of four little ladies attired in white, was an appropriate beginning to one of the most successful productions that has catered to the patronage of our people. Then came the cadets, in all their youthful energy, prompted by Major Barragar; the Wheel Drill, in which twelve young ladies in white took the audience by storm; the News Army, made up of a half dozen bright youngsters who knew how to dispose of their newspapers; the Indian Maid, in her pathetic portrayal of the passing of her race; a perfectly enacted Flower Drill by a bevy of sprightly young ladies; and the Message of the Winds.

In act two came the building of the British flag, explained section by section; the entrance of John Bull in all his glory, impersonated by Mr. J. E. Walmsley, accompanied by Mrs. James Grant as England; Mrs. M. P. Duff, as Ireland; and Miss Margaret Brown as Scotland; followed later by the various nations, all of whom paid court to the comely Miss Canada, to be gently but decidedly "turned down." Attractive features of this act were the solos by Mrs. Grant, Mrs. Duff, Miss Brown, and a baritone solo by Mr. Dan A. Cameren. In act three the passing of the Indian brought back history in all its force, yet exemplifying Canada's constant progress and increasing importance to the present day.

The operetta is well balanced, patriotic in conception, and while demonstrating the Dominion's ability to successfully govern its own affairs, there is a courtesy shown the Motherland that is good to witness.

Uncle Sam's proverbial bluff in attempting, with a bouquet of flowers to win the fair Canada was met by the presence and protecting attitude of John Bull; the other visiting monarchs, less demonstrative but equally desirous of joining hands with Canada's wealth, were quaint in their national characteristics.

The costumes were beautiful, each province designated by its name upon a silk sash; the attire of the several visiting nations according with their countries, and every appointment was perfect.

The hall was decorated with flags, bunting and national designs, the enlarged stage giving ample space for operation. The throne of honor, with Miss Canada supported on either side by her provinces, presented a captivating sight. The event was in every sense worthy of the liberal patronage it received, and at the second presentation this evening, the large hall should be again filled to the doors.

For the success of the play credit should be given to Mrs. Emily Asselstine, Mrs. James McCurdy, Mrs. James Grant, Mrs. Moat, Mrs. Davis, the Ladies' Aid in general, and members of the Tabernacle choir, whose preparatory efforts have been untiring. The Tabernacle Sunday School orchestra furnished efficient music.

THE CAST.

| | |
|---|---|
| Provinces— | |
| Quebec | Miss Laura Phelps |
| Ontario | Miss Mabel Mills |
| New Brunswick | Miss Pearl Davis |
| Nova Scotia | Miss Helen Moore |
| Saskatchewan | Mrs. Maud Naylor |
| Prince Edward Island | Miss Ethel Slater |
| Yukon | Miss May Wallace |
| Manitoba | Miss Ruth Snell |
| British Columbia | Miss Lucy Forster |
| Alberta | Miss Mary Drewery |
| Canada | Francis Nicholson |
| John Bull | Mr. J. E. Walmsley |
| England | Mrs. James Grant |
| Ireland | Mrs. M. P. Duff |
| Scotland | Miss Margaret Brown |
| Nations— | |
| Belgium | J. J. B. Flint |
| Uncle Sam | Harry Moorman |
| France | Burton Asselstine |
| Spain | T. G. Bell |
| Russia | J. O. R. McCurdy |
| China | L. Wrightmeyer |
| Japan | Armour Bennett |
| Norway | Harold Davis |
| Sweden | Clayton Mastin |
| Mexico | Percy Mastin |
| The Angel | Miss Jean Nicholson |
| Progress | Miss Ada Greenleaf |
| Indian Maid | Miss Lulu Dyer |
| Student | J. E. McCorkill |

Four Winds — Dorothy Clark, Eva Davis, Muriel Greenleaf, Wilda Palmer.

Flower Girls, Cadets, etc.

SYNOPSIS OF THE PLAY

Act I.—Introduction of Canada; The Homage of the Provinces; Progress and Cadets; News Army; Wheel Drill; Indian Maid; Flower Girl; The Message of the Winds.

Act II.—Building the Flag; Entrance of John Bull and attendants; Canada's Bouquet; Courtship of the Nations; Canada's reply.

Act III.—Passing of the Indian; Canada's Regret; Appearance of the Angel; Canada's Surrender and Dedication.

FELL DOWN STAIRS TWO ARE INJURED

MONTREAL, Oct. 22.—M. Desrosier, 42 years old, of 1124 Isabeau street, fell down stairs at his home last night and was taken to Notre Dame Hospital. The doctors fear a fracture of the spine.

George Taylor, 38 years old, of 1648 Des Erables street, fell 12 feet from a scaffold at the Dorchester street portal of the C.N.R.R tunnel, yesterday afternoon, and suffered severe injuries to his back. He was treated at the General Hospital.

Falling down stairs at her home, Miss Eva Dorich, 28 years old, of 203 Berri street, suffered a cut head and injuries to her right hip. She is at the General Hospital.

STATION AGENT IS KILLED BY PASTOR

CHICAGO, Oct. 22.—Father J. J. Mullen, Pastor of Holy Rosary Church stabbed and killed Thomas W. Patterson, the station agent at Hillside, a suburb, last night after a quarrel, in which Patterson had no part. The Priest then stood on the right-of-way of the Illinois Central railroad, stopped a through train, and, threatening the passengers and the train crew with a knife, boarded it. He was overpowered after a struggle and locked up at Hillside.

Father Mullen has been Pastor of Holy Rosary Church for twelve years, ever since his arrival here from Rome.

H. CAPEWELL IS UNDER ARREST

Alleged Fraud in Securing Government Contracts

TORONTO, Oct. 22.—Herbert Capewell, 196 Cottingham street, one of the leading business men in Toronto, who ran for Mayor four years ago, was arrested to-day on a charge of having attempted to obtain certain sums of money by fraud from two business associates, J. H. Tremble and J. J. Tearney. The accused is head of the Capewell Horse Nail Company, 54 Duke street, and the police allege that he was the medium through which prominent local firms secured contracts from the Dominion Government for soldiers' shoes and other articles of clothing.

Sergeant of Detectives Mackie stated to a press representative that Capewell, Tremble and Tearney were partners in the scheme and that their plan had been to make use of their political pull in order to secure contracts. They had managed to get several already and it was decided that each of the men get an equal share of the commission.

Capewell, the police allege, told his associates that he had to pay another agent in Ottawa who was helping him to get the contracts. Tremble Tearney, however, found this was a myth and a complaint foll which resulted in Capewell's a He appeared in the police court and was remanded for a week.

set
the ian g
on, wh
eration.
The G
ly honorat
his own fee
Dr. Veron which was a

No Peace Until Kaiser is Beaten

German Victory Would Mean Death of Democracy in Europe

WASHINGTON Oct. 22.— Despatches to the British Embassy give an abstract of a manifesto issued by leaders of the Labor party, declaring their sympathy with the action of the British Government in the present war. The Labor leaders urged that German victory "would mean the death of democracy in Europe." The statement is as follows:

"Manifesto issued, entitled 'British Labor Movement and War,' signed by Labor members and leaders of the Labor movements, declares false the statement made in various countries regarding the attitude of Labor to war. They always hoped for peace, but that hope was destroyed by the Kaiser.

"It condemns German's wanton violation of Belgium's neutrality and recognizes that Britain, after exhausting the resources of peaceful diplomacy, was bound in honor as by treaty to resist Germany's aggression. The victory of Germany would mean the death of democracy in Europe, consequently the Labor party supports the Government. Until Germany is beaten there can be no peace.

"The President of the Local Government Board states that fears of widespread dislocation of trade have provved unfounded, and, with a few exceptions, unemployment is very much less serious than anticipated. Many districts report that trade is experiencing a distinct revival.

"The German paper, Vorwaerts, states that hundreds of thousands in Germany are without work and dependent upon charity. Winter will increase enormously the number and misery of the unemployed.

England's Loss In Army Officers

Of 20 at a Dinner Before War 15 Have Died Since--New Casualty List

LONDON, Oct. 22.—As indicating the heavy toll of British officers since the war began, an American woman here said to-day:

"Just previous to the departure of the British expeditionary force an American woman in London was hostess at a dinner party at which twenty officers of the army were present. She learned to-day that fifteen of them had since been killed in action."

This heavy toll was further illustrated by the Rev. R. J. Campbell, minister of the City Temple, who told his congregation on Sunday of a dinner given in July in honor of a young man who was just coming of age. Of that gathering, said Mr. Campbell, all had been killed except one, and he was thought to be dead.

Conspicuous among the floral pieces which have been placed at the base of the Nelson column in Trafalgar Square are several in memory of officers and men who have lost their lives in naval disasters in the course of the war. To-morrow is the anniversary of Nelson's victory, and, following the annual custom, the base of the monument is surrounded with floral tributes, but none attract more attention than those sent in memory of men who perished in this war.

Many persons in the throngs that gathered about the monument today were visibly affected when they viewed a floral piece, in the shape of an anchor, placed there by the mother of a Lieutenant who lost his life on the Pathfinder. Canadian soldiers were in the crowd.

CLIFFS OF DOVER WELCOME REFUGEES

LONDON, Oct. 22.—A Belgian refugee, having reached England, recalls her experience thus:

"I shall never forget as long as I live the white cliffs, the sapphire sea, the sun, and the smiling, kind faces of the English, whose hands stretched out to us in welcome at Folkestone. I broke down and wept like a child. Since then it has all been kindness. We have a flat lent to us until the end of the war, and I hope I may have pupils for French, and also to write for your English papers. Already the Daily Mail has published my verses on Tommy Atkins, and the soldiers of Belgium are singing my poem, 'Le Petit Belge.' Our soldiers, who have astonished the world! They were not serious, people thought. Soldiers of parade—too well provided for—not ready for war. Well, the flower of our cavalry rode out, and not a man returned. Yes, we are proud of our soldiers and our king.

HORSE AND KILTIES IN BRAVE CHARGES

Hewed Their Way Through the Barbed Wire Entanglements--Bayonet the Artillerymen--And Made the Deployment of the Allies' Cannon Possible

(Canadian Press Special Exclusively to The Intelligencer)

FROM THE BATTLEFRONT (via Paris), Oct. 22.—The bostinacy of both armies in the fighting apparently is growing daily. The battle in the north has become more violent than ever. The Germans were fiercer than usual in to-day's attacks on the Belgians, whose extreme wing stretches from the coast along a front of over twenty miles, on which they are fighting heroically for the restoration of the independence of their stricken country.

Further on to La Brassee and Lille the combat to-day also was of a most vigorous character.

The allied cavalry distinguished itself in magnificent charges, quite like those in the old style of battle. A light brigade, composed of French and British Hussars and mounted rifles led the way, and were followed by heavy dragoons, lancers and cuirassiers.

The Scottish infantry also took a prominent part in the work. The "kilties" charged a battery of heavy German artillery and machine guns which made the passage of the allied field artillery difficult. The Scotch made their way through the barbed-wire entanglements, reached the German guns and disposed of their artillerymen and made the deployment of the allied guns possible. Despite the frequent fire of the German machine guns, which were brought into play too late, the allies gained the position.

Abbe Carmellino, a Second Lieutenant in the French infantry, when all but thirty of his companions were killed or wounded took command and captured 250 Germans. The abbe was twice wounded.

SEVENTY-FIVE FROM PORT HOPE

PORT HOPE, Oct. 23.—(Special.)—The quota allotted to the 46th Regiment for the second contingent has been limited by divisional headquarters to 75 men, and, although official reports have not been received yet from the company commanders, present indications are that the complement will be exceeded.

BELLS AND WHISTLES WELCOMED HOMECOMERS

Port Hope, October 23rd.—Special—With church bells and factory whistles, Port Hope welcomed home yesterday afternoon the Misses Tuer, Bletcher and Holdsworth, who were touring Germany when the war broke out. After the din had subsided the chimes of St. Paul's Church pealed forth with "Home Sweet Home." Mrs. C. Brent of Toronto was also one of the party. They were interned at the Hotel Hollande at Baden-Baden, and, together with other refugees, were finally permitted to leave the country via Switzerland.

BRITISH SHIPS SHELLING THE ENEMY

LONDON, Oct. 23.—An announcement issued by the British Admiralty states that not only are British gunboats and monitors shelling the German positions along the coast, but that now eleven battleships are using their great guns in this action. The Germans have been compelled to retreat north of Nieuport. Advices from Paris state that the destruction of the railway between Ghent and Ostend is delaying the Germans in bringing up their 16-inch guns to reply to the fire of the British fleet.

ALLIES MAINTAINING THEIR POSITION

PARIS, Oct. 23.—This afternoon's official announcement says the Germans appear to be undertaking a new effort, employing new troops composed of men recently drilled, some of them youths, others middle aged. In the face of their attacks the Allies' position has been maintained and in some regions we have advanced.

GERMAN NAVAL BRIGADE IS ACTIVE

An Amsterdam despatch reports large numbers of German wounded arriving at Bruges. Ten thousand of the German naval brigade with guns are reported to have reinforced the German line near Ostend.

ANOTHER PUGILIST KILLED IN RING

CHICAGO, Oct. 22.—Jack Lundgren, of Chicago, a middleweight pugilist, was sought by the police to-day in connection with the death last night of Jack Levendowski, who died two minutes after receiving a knockout blow.

The fatality occured at the start of the second round of a contest staged at Tolleston, near Gary, Ind., last night. Levendowski was knocked through the ropes by a blow to the stomach.

Ringside spectators pushed him back into the ring where he collapsed. Physicians said his death was caused by internal injuries.

Morris Champaigne, referee, and Porter Mayhew, owner of the hall in which the contest was staged, were arrested.

The dead boxer, who lived in Michigan City, Ind., was 19 years old.

Nominations On November 7th

OTTAWA, October 23.—Special—The Cabinet announced this afternoon that the nominations in Quebec and Champlain counties would take place on November 7. The elections will be on November 14 if the Liberals contest the ridings. Otherwise Hon. T. Chase Casgrain and Hon. P. E. Blondin will be returned unopposed.

PROPOSED BUYING OF CHILDREN'S SHELTER SITE

Editor, The Intelligencer.

Dear Sir,—I was much surprised to learn yesterday from several citizens who are in a position to know, that the Board of Directors connected with the local branch of the Children's Shelter, had practically decided to remove from their present site and had purchased the property recently owned by Mrs. Dunnett, situated on West Bridge Street, Belleville, at the exorbitant price of $10,000, but which figure has been reduced by a gift of the vendor to $9,000. It is doubtful if the property in question could be sold today on the open market for $6,000. Are the directors justified in spending the city's funds in acquiring this property? and leave it mortgaged for $5,000, bearing interest at six per cent., entailing an annual outlay of $300,00 for interest alone. Would any one of them invest $9000.00 of his own money in such a speculation? If not why then consent to the purchase on behalf of the Children's Shelter.

A large percentage of our citizens are opposed to the children cared for in the Shelter being located in such a public place and especially so as all surrounding property would be reduced in value by their presence there. Further, I have reason to believe that if this purchase is carried out, it will alienate the support of many who are now interested in the welfare of the Shelter, and I am informed this transaction is not approved by either the City or County representatives. I hope that in the interests of the Shelter and Belleville, the Directors who are negotiating this purchase will seriously consider the results which may follow their action before it is too late.

J. ELLIOTT.

German Cruiser Battled At Hawaii

Japanese Battleship Hisen Waits Just Outside for Her Appearance

HONOLULU, Oct. 22.—Standing just outside the three-mile limit, her searchlights constantly illuminating the entrance to Honolulu harbor, the Japanese battleship Hisen kept patrol last night, while anchored in the roads the German warship Geier awaited the verdict of port officials as to how long she may remain in the harbor for repairs.

While the port officials have been in communication regarding the time allowance, the repairs, it is said, will be complete within a few days when she must leave port and face her enemy laying in wait without, or intern her for the remainder of the war.

The Hisen appeared off the harbor late yesterday fully coaled and provisioned, fourteen days out from Yokosuva, a naval depot near Kokohama. Her commander, Captain Awanami, when instructed by Rear-Admiral Moore to preserve neutrality, said he would do so and also declared that he had no intention of entering the harbor.

Lille Wrecked By Shell Fire

City a Mass of Ruins as Result of of Recent Fighting

LONDON, Oct. 23.—Special—The Paris correspondent of the Daily Chronicle says that, although General von Kluk now has on his Belgian front the advantage of a practically complete system of railroad communication, there is no sign, after the hard fighting of the last few days, of any breach in the Allies' line, the powerful arrangement of which will be evident to anyone who follows closely the official bulletins. At the village of Radinghem their front has now reached within six miles of Lille.

The Daily Telegrapars's Boulogne correspondent, who left Lille Wednesday morning, says:—

"Lille is a mass of ruins and ashes. On Monday evening numbers of Germans entered the town. The bombardment ceased, but the distant firing still was heard south of the town until one o'clock in the morning.

"About midnight the news was given out that the white flag had been hoisted at the Town Hall, but at two o'clock the firing recommenced and continued for over three hours. Evidently the French were making a last attempt on the border town, unfortunately without success.

"Later military music was heard. The Germans entered the town to the tune of the fife and drum. The troops were singing hymns; most of them were gay and smoked big black cigars as they marched along.

"Meanwhile aeroplanes flying the German flag flew ahead of the columns announcing to the city its occupation by the Germans. At daybreak the inhabitants began to leave, for the most part fleeing toward Roubaix. Those who travelled to Boulogne heard reports later that the Germans the next day commenced withdrawing from Lille.

"Whoever now holds Lille, it is a wrecked city. Flames have completed the work of bombardment. The city's biggest quarter, including the station prefecture and most important commercial houses, was a prey to the flames."

SMOTHERED IN OATS

BRANTFORD Oct. 23.—(Special.)—While men were unloading oats in the barn of J. McHutcheon, a baker, here this afternoon the wall of the oat bin collapsed. Leslie Mounce, who was in the bin, went down when the oats followed the wall, and was smothered to death. He was dug out after ten minutes of hard work, but was dead by then. An inquest will be held. Mounce's father, who is County Constable, it with the 25th Brant Dragoons at Salisbury Plains camp in the first contingent.

GREAT REINFORCEMENTS FOR GENERAL JOFFRE

BORDEAUX, Oct. 23.—(Special.—New forces are ready to join General Joffre's armies. After two months' training this year's class of recruits will be fit to bear arms. It is composed of excellent material. It will be joined at the front by a section of the reserve not yet called to the colors, representing probably half a million entirely fresh troops.

Curlers Held Their Annual

J. A. McFadden is Now the New President

TORONTO, Oct. 22.—The annual meeting of the Ontario curling association, which now holds but one general gathering each year, was held yesterday at the Victoria club, with Vice-President McFadden occupying the chair. Secretary Pearcy read the communication with the Royal Caledonian curling club, of Scotland, regarding the proposed tour of a Canadian team of curlers, in response to the invitation of the mother club. A. Davidson Smith, secretary of the Royal club, wrote, that, as suggested from this side, it had been decided to postpone the tour for a year, at least, in the expectation that by the arrival of another season matters would be in a settled condition. He added that the Royal club had also called off all its home competitions.

The points competition was won by William MacDougall Seaforth, with 42 points. Scores of 41 were reported for A. E. Reckie and Dr. O. G. Plaxton of Parry Sound, and George Wyers, of Mount Forest. Thirty scores of over 36 points were returned.

The Galt Granites won the J. S. Russell Loving cup, having played 28 friendly matches. The only other club to report was Detroit with 10 games.

The ladies' tankard was won by the Belleville ladies' club.

The executive committee reported that the following clubs be admitted: Clarksburg, Millbrook, Drayton, Mitchell, Shelburne and Orillia hospital. Grand Valley and University have withdrawn, leaving 110 clubs on the roll. Registered membership numbers 4,760, and the Detroit club still holds the banner position of the largest club in the association, having a registered membership of 200.

First Vice-President Jas. A. Macfadden, of the Toronto Granites, who first became an officer of the association when he was elected secretary fifteen years ago, is the new president, and the other officers chosen yesterday were as follows:

Patron, his royal highness the Duke of Connaught, governor-general. Hendrie, lieutenant-governor. First vice-president, Chas. Turnbull, Galt Granites. Second vice-president, Thos. Thauburn, Brampton. Chaplain, Rev. T. D. McCullough, Port Hope. Secretary-treasurer, G. S. Pearcy.

Executive committee—A. D. B. Van Zandt, Detroit; T. J. Hamilton, Fergus; W. A. Boys, Barrie Thistles; C. Swabey, Toronto; G. R. Hargraft, Toronto Granites; A. M. Cunningham, Hamilton Victorias.

Committee on annual—Jas. Hedley, Chas. Swabey and Rev. J. W. Pedley.

Auditors—G. G. Eakins and W. H. Burns.

A. M. Cunningham withdrew his nomination for second vice-president, and Rev. Mr. Pedley his for chaplain.

By motion the next annual meeting was fixed for Toronto.

By a change in rule 16 of the playing rules a stone played in error may now be stopped by one of the player's own side.

Capt. J. B. Perry's motion, seconded by J. D. Flavelle, for the opening of a Curlers' Patriotic fund, was adopted unanimously. It provides for a subscription of a dollar from each member of the O.C.A. on the fifteenth of each month of the curling season, December, January, February and March.

At the suggestion of G. W. Lennox the executive will continue its efforts to obtain better rate concessions for curlers from the railways, and also more attention to the shipment of stones.

The district cup competition will be carried out this season, as before, in eight divisions, but two of the groups, No. 1 and No. 3, are divided into two sections.

The Hamilton group is as follows:

District No. 7—Ancaster, Brantford, Bright, Dundas, Glanford, Grimsby, Hamilton, Victoria, Niagar Falls, Paris, Plattsville. Play at Hamilton. Umpire—G. F. James.

The grouping for the coming season's play in the greatest of all Canadian curling competitions, the Ontario Tankard, was agreed on. The Hamilton group is as follows:

Group N. 8—Ancaster, Dundas, Glanford, Hamilton Asylum, Hamilton Thistle, Hamilton Victoria, Niagara Falls. Play at Hamilton. Umpire—Dr. English.

Strength and Beauty
Come With Dr. Pierce's
Golden Medical Discovery

This is a blood cleanser and alterative that starts the liver and stomach into vigorous action. It thus assists the body to manufacture rich red blood which feeds the heart—nerves—brain and organs of the body. The organs work smoothly like machinery running in oil. You feel clean, strong and strenuous instead of tired, weak and faint. Nowadays you can obtain Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery Tablets, as well as the liquid form from all medicine dealers, or trial box of tablets by mail, on receipt of 50c. Address R. V. Pierce, M.D., Buffalo, N.Y.

Dr. Pierce's Great 1008 Page Illustrated Common Sense Medical Adviser will be sent FREE, Cloth Bound for 31 One-cent Stamps.

Linoleum and Oilcloth

Get that linoleum now for the colder room of your house that you use the most. It will make it warmer by keeping out those cold draughts.

We have a variety of patterns to choose from in floral and conventional designs, just the pattern you want for your room.

All Linoleum and Oilcloth of best English grade.

THE THOMPSON FURNITURE Co.
UNDERTAKERS Phones: Day, 87; Night, 298.

Let us Develope and Finish Your Films. We Know How.

The Belleville Pharmacy
The Kodak Store, Bridge St.

Advertise In The Intelligencer.

Brownie Cameras
$1.00 to $12.00
Kodaks . . . $7.00 to $20.00
We have films to fit all Cameras.
We do developing and printing promptly.

Lattimer's
Cut-Rate Drug Store

Willard's
Forkdipt
Chocolates
Always Fresh

Saturday Bargains

We want to impress upon the people of Belleville that we are not taking advantage of the war and raising our prices. So long as we can obtain goods, OUR PRICES WILL BE THE LOWEST.

Patent Medicines

| | |
|---|---|
| 50c. Gin Pills | 25c. |
| $1.00 Pinkham's Compound | 73c. |
| 25c. Nerviline | 17c. |
| 35c. Castoria | 25c. |
| 25c. Nature's Remedy | 15c. |
| 50c. Nature's Remedy | 35c. |
| $1.00 Nature's Remedy | 75c. |
| 50c. Chase's Nerve Food | 33c. |
| 25c. Chase's K. & L. Pills | 16c. |
| 50c. Chase's Ointment | 45c. |
| 50c. Zam-Buk | 35c. |
| 25c. Chase's Syrup | 17c. |
| 50c. Fruitatives | 34c. |
| 25c. Carter's Pills | 15c. |
| 50c. Dodd's Pills | 33c. |
| 25c. Mecca | 17c. |
| 25c. Thomas' Electric Oil | 15c. |
| 25c. Egyptian Liniment | 20c. |
| $1.50 Fellows' Syrup | $1.00 |
| $1.00 Scott's Emulsion | 73c. |
| 50c. Scott's Emulsion | 38c. |
| 50c. Lithia Tablets | 35c. |
| 25c. Baby's Own Tablets | 17c. |
| 50c. Williams' Pink Pills | 35c. |

And all other Patent Medicines at the lowest prices.

Extra Special

$1.00
BEEF, IRON AND WINE
39c.

25c.
BLAUD'S IRON PILLS
2 for 25c.

25c.
HYDROGEN PEROXIDE
2 for 25c.

25c.
SYRUP OF WHITE PINE
2 for 25c.

75c.
HYDROGEN PEROXIDE
35c.

$1.00
EMULSION COD LIVER OIL
49c.

Toilet Creams

| | |
|---|---|
| 25c. Sanitol Cream | 20c. |
| 25c. Vanishing Cream | 17c. |
| 25c. Massage Cream | 20c. |
| 25c. Massaeg Cream | 20c. |
| 25c. Almond Cream | 15c. |
| 25c. Witch Hazel Cream | 15c. |
| 25c. Cucumber Cream | 15c. |

For the Teeth

| | |
|---|---|
| 25c. Sanitol Tooth Paste | 20c. |
| 25c. Sanitol Tooth Powder | 20c. |
| 25c. Hutax Tooth Powder | 20c. |
| 25c. Hutax Tooth Paste | 20c. |
| 25c. Hutax Tooth Brushes | 20c. |
| 25c. Tooth Brushes | 14c. |
| 25c. Tooth Powder | 10c. |

Soaps

| | |
|---|---|
| 2 lbs. Cartile Soap | 20c. |
| 15c. Glycerine Soap | 3 for 25c. |
| 25c. Toilet Soap, box | 18c. |
| 10c. Williams' Shaving Soap | 8c. |
| 25c. Packer's Tar Soap | 20c. |
| 35c. Palmer's Lotion | 25c. |

Cigar Specials

| | |
|---|---|
| Van Horne | 5 for 25c. |
| Traveller | 5 for 25c. |
| Maritanas | 5 for 25c. |
| Benedict | 4 for 25c. |
| Travellers' Club | 4 for 25c. |
| La Preferencie | 4 for 25c. |
| Olympia | 4 for 25c. |
| Colonial | 4 for 25c. |
| Irvings | 4 for 25c. |
| Students | 6 for 25c. |
| Panatellas | 6 for 25c. |

FREE
With each tube of Tooth Paste purchased Saturday, we will give a 25c Tooth Brush
FREE

Drugs

| | |
|---|---|
| 25c. Boracic Acid | 15c. |
| 10c. Epsom Salts | 7c. |
| 25c. Witch Hazel | 20c. |
| 25c. Bay Rum | 20c. |
| 20c. Borax | 10c. |
| 10c. Chloride Lime | 8c. |
| 5c. Chloride Lime | 4c. |
| 20c. Essence Vanilla | 10c. |

Rubber Goods

2 quart Maroon Hot Water Bottle, guaranteed for 2 years
$1.39

LATTIMER'S CUT-RATE DRUG STORE

ALLIES' GAIN IS STEADY

Operations in the North Result in Greater Advantage.

Reported Occupation of Courtral Further Isolates Lille, Which Is Critical Point of Turning Movement—Two Wedges Driven In Near City—German General and Staff Killed by Guns of British Warships.

LONDON, Oct. 23.—From the Belgian coast to a point beyond St. Mihiel fighting was continuous yesterday. The result favors the allies in every instance, important advances being reported in the neighborhood of Lille. It is said that Roulers is again in the hands of the allies, but it is not known whether Franco-British or Belgian forces have effected the capture. On Tuesday the Belgian advance rested on this point, and it was claimed that a further penetration of King Albert's troops in that zone would seriously imperil the German forces between Roulers and the Channel coast. The town of Ypres was the centre of desperate fighting yesterday, heavy reinforcements from the south of France enabling the allies to strengthen their lines from Ypres to the edge of the Channel.

A despatch to the Exchange Telegraph Co. from Flushing says: "Wednesday night nad yesterday the Germans made a violent attack on the environs of Ostend, which was repulsed by an energetic counter-attack by the Belgians.

"Eleven British warships fired on the Germans yesterday morning. Gen. Von Trip and his staff, who were together in Leffinghe, near Middlekerke, were killed by the fire of the British naval guns."

The situation in western Flanders, where the latest German drive has met with a better organized resistance than any which faced the Kaiser's armies in the early days of the war, is befogged by many reports. It is stated that every town on the fighting line has been taken and retaken several times, and that the British warships are wrecking vengeance on the Kaiser's lines within reach of their powerful guns. From Ostend comes a report that the allies have succeeded in destroying the railroad between Bruges and Ghent. This is in no way confirmed, but, if it proves true, signifies that allied cavalry in force has cut into the heart of the German position in Belgium. A despatch to The Daily Mail says that Courtral has been occupied by the allies. Courtral is an exceedingly vital point, and its possession would give the Franco-British forces control of railway lines which would further isolate the Germans at Lille.

Dixmude is one of the towns which the Germans retook from the allies, only to be driven out a few hours later by a desperate bayonet charge. House-to-house fighting continued for some time, in which the losses on both sides were heavy.

The chief success of the allies as the result of Thursday's operations were perceptible gains around Lille. It is claimed that a wedge has been driven into the Germans at a point thirteen miles north of the town, and that a distance of two miles was gained on the east of Lille. This eastern advance is the first of any moment since the action around Lille assumed much importance, and has caused great jubilance among the allied commanders. The tactics at this point are directed toward isolation of the city, which is the critical point in the movement to double the German right wing back on its own lines of communication.

From Roye to Arras considerable fighting took place yesterday morning, but without special significance, further than a very successful artillery exchange near Roye, where the French 75-millimetre guns silenced several German batteries.

The flanking operations of the French to the east of St. Mihiel, held by the German crown prince's troops, was met yesterday by a stubborn counter-attack on the part of the Germans. This attack was repulsed several times, and the efforts of the French to secure control of all highways running to Metz is progressing very nicely. The armies of the republic are hammering steadily at Etain, and it would seem that the town cannot hold out much longer. The French have a secure foothold on the right bank of the Meuse, and are displaying the most brilliant spirit in pushing the advantage gained a few days since. It is declared that French tactics in this quarter have excited the admiration of their British allies in the highest degree.

West of Craonne and in the vicinity of Souain the Kaiser's commanders yesterday threw forward masses of fresh troops to test the French lines. They met with a stubborn resistance and failed to gain ground. The chief significance of this action is the apparent effort of the Germans to resume the offensive in that quarter.

Armentieres was again under fire yesterday, with both sides striving ineffectually to gain an advantage.

Son-In-Law of Kaiser Missing.

LONDON, Oct. 23.—Anxiety is felt in Brunswick as to the whereabouts of Duke Ernest August, the German Emperor's son-in-law. The duke, who was leading a squadron of hussars on the French front, is reported to have been made prisoner. His wife, Princess Victoria Luise, is about to leave for the Emperor's headquarters.

Austrians Sent To Belgium.

MILAN, Oct. 23.—(Via London.)—The Secolo's Venice correspondent says Austrian troops are being removed from the Austro-Hungary-Italian frontier and sent into Belgium to strengthen the German right wing in the neighborhood of the North Sea.

---

Inspector Hopkinson of Immigration Office, Vancouver was killed the Court House there by a Hind

---

It isn't always the winner wears a winning smile.

THE DOW
ALES
AND PORTERS
ARE THE BEST

FOR SALE AT YOUR LEADING LIQUOR STORES

King And Kaiserdom

Toronto World says: Sides of church bulged wide when Dr. JAS. HUGHES spoke at Dale Presbyterian Church, Toronto, on King and Kaiserdom. By request Dr. Hughes will give this lecture at HOLLOWAY ST. METHODIST CHURCH, Monday evening, Oct. 26th. ANNUAL TEA AND LECTURE.—40cts.

22-23-24

INTELLIGENCER
NIGHT LETTER BOX

Our friends will find a letter box in The Intelligencer Front Door for the reception of news items after the office closing hours. The box will be emptied each morning.

IN AND ABOUT THE CITY

Condensed News Items For Busy Readers.

GUARDS ON PARADE

The home guards met at the Armouries last night and were drilled by Col. Stewart. The turnout was a creditable one, and the drilling showed much improvement.

VILLAGE QUARANTINED

There is a rumor current this morning that there are several cases of smallpox in the Village of Madoc, and that the village has been quarantined.

BASKETBALL GAME

There will be a game of basket ball to-morrow afternoon between Belleville and Trenton High Schools. Both junior and senior teams will play. The games will be played at Belleville High School, and begin at 2.30. All persons interested in basket ball are welcome.

LIQUOR CASES

A local hotel proprietor was this morning by Magistrate Masson ordered to pay $75 and costs for supplying liquor to an Indian, and $25 and costs for supplying liquor to a minor, making in all about $110. The case will be appealed, as counsel for the defendant intimated that such action would be taken.

AN ENJOYABLE DANCE

At Johnstone's Academy, Alberta Block, last evening many were present and thoroughly enjoyed themselves. A fine programme of dance music was arranged by Prof. and Mrs. Johnstone, who did all in their power to make the evening enjoyable. The dance was for a most worthy object, namely, the Red Cross Fund. The proceeds were such that this morning Prof. Johnstone gave to those in control of the fund, $20.65. At midnight the pleasing affair was brought to a close.

LAW BREAKER SKIPPED

A party named George Herritage, was this morning summoned to appear before the magistrate to answer a charge of selling liquor without a license and in a local option municipality. The accused resides at Bell Ann and on the 7th inst., a large quantity of liquor was found on his premises, also a number of glasses. It is alleged that Herritage has left the country. He did not appear in court, but this did not deter the magistrate after he had heard evidence in the case, from imposing a fine of $100 and costs.

POPULAR ENGINEER DEAD

Mr. David Young, a G.T.R. engineer, who died yesterday afternoon, was well known in this city and vicinity, and was exceedingly popular with his fellow railway employees. Deceased, who was only 34 years of age was unmarried. He was a son of Mr. Lewis Young, who resides at Shannonville, and was born in that village. For the past 12 years Mr. Young had lived here, being employed on the G.T.R. He was a capable and painstaking engineer. Deceased was a member of B. L. E. Lodge No. 189, of this city. In religion he was a Presbyterian. Two brothers, Edward at Shannonville and Albert of this city, and three sisters, Mrs. Robert Howard, Mrs. A. Steele, and Mrs. A. Harte of Shannonville survive. An attack of pneumonia was the cause of death. The remains will be taken to Shannonville for interment.

CALL FOR DRUNK

At a late hour last night the police answered a call to Foundry street, it being stated a drunk was lying on the roadside. The unfortunate was taken away by a friend before the arrival of the police officer.

Ritchie's Saturday Night Bargain List is an extensive one this week. Be sure you read it before coming down town tomorrow night. It will be on page 8.

YOUNG MEN DROWN, CANOE ABANDONED

OTTAWA, Oct. 22.—Samuel and Ernest Woods, of River Desert, are both believed to have met death by drowning on Sunday last. The young men, aged nineteen and twenty-three, both expert paddlers and swimmers, went out canoeing on Sunday with the intention of returning within a few hours.

When they did not return home that night a search party was organized and the finding of a capsized canoe led the searchers to believe that the men were drowned. Although the shores of the lake have been searched thoroughly and the bottom of the lake dragged, the bodies have not yet been recovered.

The young men are sons of Mr. John Woods, a well known farmer in the vicinity of River Desert and Maniwaki. The search for the bodies will be continued.

See Hyman's List of Bargains on page 7.

No Truth in The Report

There has been a rumor that J. A. Fraser, of Huntingdon Township, deserted from the force at Valcartier. Dr. Walt has investigated this case and finds that there is no truth in the reports. Below we give the details of his enlistment:—On August 17th J. A. Fraser, son of Herbert Fraser, Huntingdon Township, enlisted and joined the 49th regiment in Belleville. He was given the wrist watch when in Belleville. After he went to Valcartier, his father got a certificate showing the boy to be only 16 years of age. Mr. E. Guss Porter forwarded this to proper authorities with the result that he was sent back at once and his equipment and the wrist watch have been turned in to Dr. Walt——Stirling Leader.

MAIL BAG FOUND WITH LOCK MISSING

Weston Farmer's Discovery May be The Result of Theft.

TORONTO, Oct. 22.—A mail bag, the lock of which is missing, was yesterday found at Weston by a farmer on the fifth concession. It is believed that the bag was stolen, although the Toronto postal authorities have no knowledge of the loss of the bag. As the spot where it was found is about one and a half miles from the C.P.R. lines, the bag could not have fallen from a train. The country police are investigating.

HAVE LOST CHANCE OF INVADING ENGLAND

LONDON, Oct. 22—If the Germans ever seriously planned an invasion of England, and the chief military experts here insist that they did, they have lost their chance. The generally credited reports here were that Germany, in moving to take Dunkirk, intended to start an invading force from there and Ostend. First, it is believed an aerial raid was intended to terrorize London. Then the German fleet was to go out and give battle to the British war fleet, while an invading force was rushed across the channel. Practically all military experts here are convinced that this was the plan.

All agree to-day that the Germans have missed their opportunity and cannot again secure it. Once again it has been the Belgians who interferred with the plans of the German general staff. They refused to permit themselves to be cut off by the Germans, and developed such an effective offensive from Nieuport to Dixmude that the march of the Germans toward Dunkirk has failed.

For the last forty-eight hours the allies have been on the offensive. Their enveloping movement is gaining more and more strength, and it is insisted that within a very short time the enemy must withdraw to new lines.

Practically every village and hamlet in Northern France has been wiped off the face of the earth by artillery fire of the battling armies. Houses are heaps of ruins, while entire forests have disappeared, the trees having literally been cut down by shell fire.

Advertise in The Intelligencer.

THE WEATHER.

Moderate winds, fine to-day, becoming showery on Saturday.

Try Our
DOUGHNUTS
FRIED CAKE
and
ALL KINDS OF PASTRY
Jas. Wallace & Co.

Have Hope and Confidence if you were born in October.

THE OPAL IS YOUR BIRTHSTONE

This stone is unique among stones in the variety of colors.

"When nature had finished painting the flowers, coloring the rainbow and dyeing the plumage of the birds, she swept the colors from her palette and moulded them into Opals.

Our ring stock includes much of this beautiful material in Solitaire settings and combinations with diamonds and pearls.

Angus McFee
Jeweler. Optician.
The Store with the Big Clock.

Wallbridge
&
Clarke's
Delicious
Coffee
Best in Quality
Best in Value

Neilson's
Chocolates
Fresh Supplies
"Aristocratic", "Demonstrator", "Classic", "Empress", "Every Piece Different", "Cream Dipped Brazils", "De Lux," etc, etc.

Wallbridge & Clarke
Established 1871

Clean Your House With Electricity

Just at this time, house sweeping is being given serious thought. Why not clean your house with A VACUUM CLEANER? Cleans thoroughly, quickly, and takes the dirt out, flying.

The Trenton Electric and Water Company
Limited
Oswald H. Scott. Local Mgr.

THE NEW STORE

Saturday Specials

20 dozen ribbed wool Hose, sizes 6½ to 10; regular price 25c. to 35c. On sale Saturday at .......... 19c. pair
5 dozen Men's Sox, worth 20c. pair; on sale at .. .. 12½c. pair
7 pieces Plaid Dress Goods, regular price 25c. On sale at 21½c yd.
3 dozen Corset Covers, trimmed with lace, well made, regular price 35c. On sale at .......... 25c. each
3 dozen Men's Print Shirts, always sold at 90c. to $1.00; on sale at .......... 69c.
10 pieces Flannelette, worth 12½c. On sale at .. .. 10c. yard
3 dozen Tailored Blouses, up to the minute in stiyle; worth $1.00 to $1.50. On sale at .......... 69c. each
2 dozen Voile Blouses, regular $1.50; on sale at .. .. .. .. 98c.
1 dozen Leather Hand Bags, worth from $1.25 to $2.00. On sale at .......... 59c.

WIMS & CO.

Keep This Date Open

Thursday & Friday Evenings
October 22 and 23
At City Hall

Courtship of Canada

Under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid of the Tabernacle Church.

TICKETS 25c
Reserved Seats 35c
On sale at Goodsell's Music Store.
Half Proceeds in aid of Patriotic fund.

Ladies' Genuine
Persian Lamb Sets
$47
Large Pillow Muffs and Stoles
AT
J. T. DELANEY
236½ Front St. Phone 797
(Over Blackburn's Jewellery Store)

BANK OF MONTREAL

Established 1817
Capital, all paid up . . $16,000,000
Rest . . . . . . . . . $16,000,000
SAVINGS BANK DEPARTMENT
Interest allowed on sums of $1.00 and upwards at current rates.
Banking hours, 10 to 3. Saturdays, 10 to 3.
R. TANNAHILL,
Manager Belleville Branch

We Never Sleep
The Hogan Burial Co.
Leading Undertakers
Our exclusive lines of caskets and several new additions in the line of funeral equipment make our parlors one of the most up-to-date in Canada. Open night and day.
Phone 774.
189 Front Street
Belleville

Don't hide your light under a bushel; use a reflector and make the best of it.

A ragtime philosopher says that some men are inclined to blow out their brains because they haven't any.

WALK-OVER SHOES
The Popular English kind
Are still in great favor with dressy men. We don't know of anything more refined than
The Carlton Model
It has the wanted bench made effect—the stitched sole swinging out wide and clear round the heel helps that—the toe recedes sharply, the eyelets, as fashion decrees, are invisible.
Comes in Tan or Black.
The Price is
$5.00 and $6.00
the pair.
See Our Window Display
W. H. Adams
The Shoeman
Next Door to Sinclair's

NOTICE

To my Customers and the Public in General; Everybody knows that all kinds of Fat Stock are bringing record prices at the present time; but I have not raised my prices. I buy direct from the farmer for cash so as to give my customers the middleman's profits. Read these prices:—
Best Sirloin or Porter House Roasts or Steaks .......... 20c. lb.
Legs of Lamb .......... 20c. lb
Lamb Chops .......... 20c. lb
Fore Quarters Lamb .......... 15c. lb
Best Round Steak .......... 18c. lb.
Home made All Pork Sausages .. 15c. lb.
Mixed Sausages ...... 10c. lb.; 3 lbs. for 25c.
Pure Home Rendered Lard .......... 18c.
Choice Western Beef kept the year round.
GEO. I. THOMAS
377 Front Street. Phone 305.

INTELLIGENCER
NIGHT LETTER BOX

Our friends will find a letter box in The Intelligencer Front Door for the reception of news items after the office closing hours. The box will be emptied each morning

The British War Song
"It's a Long Way to Tipperary,"
and
Other British Patriotic Songs
on
Columbia, Rena and Jumbo Records
Double Disc. Will play on any machine
85c
CALL AND HEAR THEM
J. A. Goodsell & Co.,
316-318 FRONT STREET

Civic Committees in Routine Session

At a regular meeting of the various civic committees held last evening the business transacted was of a routine nature,

MARKET & CITY PROPERTY

Ald. Duckworth, chairman, presided. Accounts passed were:

| | |
|---|---|
| Doyle's Drug Store | $13 50 |
| Quinte Laundry | 6 65 |

WATER WORKS.

Ald. Woodley, chairman, presided. The accounts passed were;

| | |
|---|---|
| Pay Sheet | $158 12 |
| J. W. Evans | 2 43 |
| Ethel Wheatley | 8 00 |
| Gas Department | 17 51 |
| J. Morrison | 101 64 |
| B. S. Hammell | 118 91 |
| Y. & O. Coal Co. | 61 62 |
| J. S. McKeown | 11 95 |

LIGHT.

Ald. McFee, chairman, presided. An account of $40 to the Gas Department was passed.

FIRE.

Ald. St. Charles, chairman, presided. The accounts passed were:

| | |
|---|---|
| Jas. St. Charles Co. | $16 10 |
| Geo. Keith | 11 60 |
| R. Tuite | 3 00 |
| Quinte Laundry | 2 60 |

GAS.

Ald. Wallbridge, chairman, presided. The accounts passed were;

| | |
|---|---|
| Pay Sheet | $231 15 |
| D. M. Waters | 3 45 |
| Samuel Jardine | 204 52 |
| James Morrison Co. | 7 88 |
| Gen. Gas Light Co. | 48 70 |
| Empire Mfg. Co. | 128 35 |
| Lyons & Marks | 80 24 |
| J. J. Egan Coal Co. | 57 33 |
| Pittsburg Coal Co. | 90 37 |
| Belleville Water Works | 25 00 |
| Stafford Hardware | 7 21 |

PRINTING & STATIONERY

Ald. Smith, chairman, presided. The accounts passed were:

| | |
|---|---|
| W. S. Clarke | $12 10 |
| Morton & Herity | 4 50 |
| Municipal World | 1 62 |
| A. Johns | 24 00 |
| 15th Regt. Band | 200 00 |
| Intelligencer | 344 05 |
| Belleville Pharmacy | 1 90 |

PUBLIC WORKS.

Ald. Platt, chairman, presided. The accounts passed were:

| | |
|---|---|
| Belleville Pottery | $ 15 80 |
| Pay Sheet | 743 94 |
| Gill & Fortune | 44 52 |
| F. C. Clarke | 28 70 |
| Peck & Wills | 5 92 |
| Sawyer-Massey Co. | 15 00 |
| Geo. A. Keith | 5 53 |
| J. Cummins | 4 65 |
| Geo. E. Madden | 7 60 |
| Ethel Wheatley | 8 00 |

EXECUTIVE.

Ald. Panter, chairman, presided. The accounts passed were;

| | |
|---|---|
| Alexandra Industrial School | $27 60 |
| Jas. St. Charles Co. | 25 00 |

The following recommendation was passed:—

"That in the opinion of the Executive Committee of the City Council, it would be very injurious to the locality and to the city to have the Children's Shelter located on the Dunnett property, and that any future aid from the Council will depend on the approval by the Council of the location of the said institution."

WHO HAS THE MONEY?

Editor Intelligencer.

Dear Sir:—There are many in Belleville who would like to know who has the money collected in Murney Ward for departing soldiers who did not get it. It should be openly made known how much it is, where it is, what has been done with it, or what is proposed to be done with it. I suppose there has been nothing wrong except perhaps bad management, but any want of openness in these matters causes distrust, and from talk I hear I know this matter has occasioned distrust. We want to see all funds collected in the present distress, do well. Distrust militates against this more or less. On the 30th and 31st of this month there is to be a special effort made for the Patriotic Fund—would it not be well that such arrangements should be made and that everything should be open and above board in connection with this, so that there should be no room for suspicion even on the part of the most naturally distrustful. There should as fas as possible be no opportunity for wrong-doing, even though some of us may look on those engaged in the work as above taking advantage of such opportunity. I have been asked to write this, and do so with no offensive intent, and as one who will do his part according to his means.

Sign myself,

WELL-WISHER OF THE FUNDS.

We are now showing our first importations, indicating the true trend of fashions for the approaching season in both Tailored and Dress Hats from the famous contouries of Paris.
McCrodan & Sills

All That's New
In Fall And Winter . . .
MILLINERY
Will be found at our store.
HATS for
Ladies, Girls and Children.
Moderate Prices
Miss M. Campbell

Makes good baking a certainty instead of a matter of luck. No guesswork cooking with McClary's
Pandora
Range
Reliable oven thermometer enables you to know. There's a McClary dealer in your town. See him.
"Made in Canada"
Sold by The Smith Hardware Co.

Gold Fish Sale
A Large Shipment of Gold Fish Just Received
Aquarium, 2 Gold Fish
Aquarium Plant, Pebbles, complete
25c
Doyle's Drug Store

WOMEN'S INSTITUTE

The Women's Institute of Q. A. S. met in the assembly room of the above school Monday, October 19. The President, Mrs. R. J. Graham, was in the chair. The women were requested to forward to the president suggestions for new work for the current year.

Mrs. A. M. Chapman was elected delegate to attend the Provincial Women's Institute to be held in Toronto, Novemer 10, 11, and 12. Mr. McLaurin, B. A., gave a general educative talk, impressing those present with the importance of parents "knowing and becoming deeply interested in all that concerns their children, especially during the youthful stage," and always keep in view the necessity of parents, teachers and children working in unison, for the general uplift of the children at work and at play. A vote of thanks was tendered Mr. McLaurin, after which the meeting adjourned to meet again November 9th.

Watch for Ritchie's Special Saturday Night Bargain List in to-morrow's paper, page 8.

DEATHS.

YOUNG—In Belleville on Thursday, October 22nd, 1914, David Young, aged 33 years 11 months.

The funeral will take place from the residence of his brother, Albert Young, 399 Bleecker Avenue, tomorrow, Saturday, 24th inst., at 2 o'clock. Service at the house at 1.30 p.m. Interment, Shannonville cemetery.

SURGEON'S $35,000 FEE PAID LEVY ON EPERNAY

Operated Successfully on Prince and Then Demanded Back Value of Wine Indemnity

PARIS, Oct. 22.—One of the highest doctor's fees on record has just been paid, according to the Matin, in German gold at Epernay.

When the Germans occupied Epernay, on their southward march, they demanded an indemity of 50,000 bottles of champagne, worth about $35,000. These the Mayor duly produced.

Soon afterwards in their retreat from the Marne they brought to Epernay a dangerously wounded imperial Prince on whom an immediate operation was necessary.

As no German surgeons were present who were competent to handle the case, they appealed on humanitarian grounds to the French doctor, Veron, who successfully performed the operation.

The Germans offered him a "princely honorarium," telling him to name his own fee.

Dr. Veron promptly asked $35,000, which was at once paid in gold.

Children's Home

It would appear from a letter from W. N. Ponton, Esq., that appeared in yesterday's Intelligencer and one today from Mr. J. Elliott, that the Dunnett property in West Belleville has been purchased for a Children's Home. Apart altogether from the price said to have been paid for the property of which Mr. Elliott complains, it is doubtful whether a less suitable place for such a purpose could have been selected in or near the City. What is wanted is a comfortable, airy building and plenty of land for play grounds.

We shall be much surprised if the citizens approve this selection.

Read Hyman's Special Price Advertisement on page 7.

NO CLUE TO MURDERER

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., Oct. 23.—(Special.)—"That Michele Franco came to his death on October 15 at the hands of some person or persons unknown to this jury" was the verdict returned at the inquest to investigate the circumstances surrounding the death of the handsome young Italian, whose mutilated body was found at the Canadian Maid of the Mist landing. The police have not the slightest clue to the murderer. No trace has been found of Vincenzo Vocare, who has been missing since the body was discovered. The authorities think he may have been the man who jumped to his death from the upper steel arch bridge the day following the finding of Franco's body.

GERMANS HAVE HAD ENOUGH

George Edwards, the Impresario, Says They Told Him So.

LONDON, Oct. 23.—(Special.)—George Edwards, the impresario, who has arrived from The Hague, says his release by the Germans was mainly due to American intervention. German wounded told him that they had enough. The people of Germany may revolt, he was told, when they learn how they have been deceived by the rulers.

SUBMARINE MISSING.

British Admiralty Fears That E3 Has Been Sunk In the North Sea.

LONDON, Oct. 23.—The Secretary of the Admiralty announces that the submarine E3, commanded by Lieut.-Commander George Chomley, is now considerably overdue, and that it is feared she has been sunk in the North Sea.

A wireless despatch received from Berlin on Tuesday said the E3 had been sunk Sunday, Oct. 18, by German warships. Her complement consisted of 16 men.

It is also reported that the British torpedo boat Dryad is ashore at Kirkwall, in the Orkney Islands, off the coast of Scotland. Her crew is said to have been saved.

The Dryad, which was built in 1893, is 250 feet long, and has a speed of 18.5 knots an hour. She has been attached to the navigation school at Portsmouth.

There are in commission in the British navy now 232 destroyers and 59 torpedo boats.

The most that foreign powers can reasonably ask of Uncle Sam is to remain neutral and boom business.

Your Autumn Regals
Display of Authentic Styles
Gentlemen, will you make the time to glance over our newest assemblage of WORLD FAMOUS REGAL STYLES? Autumn with its new demands is at hand, and we would like you to see the most favored styles. There is a Regal last and leather suited to your individual need.
The "ASTOR"
Patent
Cloth Top
$5.00
For Dancing or Evening Wear
The J. J. HAINES SHOE HOUSES
Belleville Napanee Trenton Smith's Falls

Splendid Values
In
Saturday's Special Sale

Special Bargain in Women's Underwear, white or natural, high necks, long sleeves, good fitting garments. Regularly 50c. garments, on sale Saturday .......... 25c.
Woven Corset Covers in white, good value at 25c. On special sale, 15c.
Heavy ribbed Hose, tan shade, women's and children's sizes. 20c. pair, On sale .......... 15c.
Great value in yard wide Flannelette, stripe patterns in good colors, on sale, yard .......... 10c.
Ginghams and Chambrays, in good colors, 10c. and 15c. value, clearing at .......... 6½c. yard
Big special in Men's Wool Tweed Pants, dark grey stripe pattern; special per pair .......... $1.50
Sweater Coats for Men, in grey, navy or maroon, heavy coats with roll collars, $3.00 each. Saturday Bargain Price .......... $2.00
Men's medium and heavy Wool Sox, great value at 20c. pair. On Saturday .......... 15c.
Nickel plated Sad Irons, set of three with stand, $1.50 set. Sale price .......... $1.15
Wooden Knife Boxes on special sale, each .......... 15c.
Strong Rush Table Mats, on sale .......... 6 for 10c.
Special sale of Linen Writing Paper and Envelopes in boxes, 25c. boxes for 15c. 15c. boxes for .......... 10c.
Toilet Sets on sale; decorations in pink, green or blue. Regular price $2.75 on sale .......... $2.00 set.
Fireproof Bakers, on special sale, each .......... 10c., 15c., and 20c.
Visit the rear store for bargains in Toilet and Laundry Soaps, Polishes, etc.

McINTOSH BROS.

Our October Sale
IS NOW IN FULL SWING
The following goods are on sale at SPECIAL PRICES:
Enamelware, Flannelettes, Cottons, Soaps, Brooms, Starches, Hair Brushes, Gas Mantles, Table Oilcloth, Pictures, Stamped Linen Goods, and hundreds of lines of Smallwares.
Be sure and get your share of the good things while they last.
THE BEEHIVE CHAS. N. SULMAN

One of the many New Style Hats for Men, only - $2.00
At G. T. WOODLEY'S
Belleville's only Exclusive Hatter and Furrier.

IF YOU LEAVE IT TO OUR JUDGMENT
we will supply the kind of canned goods you will thoroughly appreciate when you come to eat them. In fact you can do the same with any groceries you may need. You can send your little girl or boy with a list of the things you want and we will select them even more carefully than you would if you came in person.
H. E. FAIRFIELD

ADVERTISE IN THE INTELLIGENCER

Daily Intelligencer.

Printed and published every afternoon except Sundays, for The Intelligencer Printing and Publishing House (Limited), in the City of Belleville, County of Hastings, Province of Ontario, at their offices, No. 227 Front Street.
CHARLES JAMES BOWELL, Publisher.

RATES OF ADVERTISING.
Measurement, Agate—14 lines to the inch.
Display Advertisements, 10c. per line.
Reading Advertisements, 15c. per line.
Legal Advertisements, 10c. per line first insertion, 5c. per line subsequent insertions.
Preferred position, 20 per cent. advance upon usual contract rates.
Minimum space, 10 lines.
Births, 25c. each insertion. Marriages, 50c. each insertion. Deaths or funeral notices, either singly or combined, $1.00.
Rates for condensed advertisements will be found elsewhere.
Business cards by the year at low rates.
Further information may be obtained at The Intelligencer business office.
Weekly Intelligencer to the United States, $1.50, strictly in advance.

THE GERMAN BOOSTER

The German Secretary of State for the Interior declares that his country can carry on the war indefinitely, and that they cannot be starved into submission. The world has heard big talk from the Germans before now, which had no foundation in fact. In contradiction to the claims made by this boaster we have only to quote the statement of Dr. Karl Ballod of Berlin, who, in an article published in July just before the war broke out, said: "It is a terrible self-deception to make out that the German people can get along eleven months in the year with the grain that they themselves raise for bread. Restricted importations of feed for animals means a reduced supply of animal foodstuffs, and hence a crying need for more bread." Two of the world's greatest economists, Le Roy Beaulieu and Francis Hirst, both declare that Germany will be starved into submission in from six to seven months. It should be remembered that if the war lasts till next spring that the Allies will be marching over the fields of Germany, thereby preventing the usual crop being put into the ground. The silver bullet and the loaf of bread are fighting for the Allies.

THE HARVEST OF ALBERTA

The Department of Agriculture of Alberta has issued a statement in regard to the agricultural resources of that Province. The publication shows that agriculture and the by-products this year will yield a revenue of $175,812,000, or nearly $15,432,000 more than for 1913. This increase in the returns from agriculture is due to the higher prices which now prevail, and more than offset the decrease in the yield, which is estimated at twenty per cent. less than last year.

Despite the fact that we are accustomed to think of Alberta as a great wheat growing province, the value of wheat is surpassed by animals and by oats. The former of these yielded $20,000,000, while oats yielded $13,798,000 and wheat $13,214,000. The Province possesses 600,000 head of horses, 728,0000 head of swine, 501,000 head of sheep, and 1,100,00 head of cattle. The report shows that there were 3,125,000 acres under crop, and the indications are that this acreage will be greatly increased this fall and next spring. Agriculture must always be the great basic industry of Western Canada.

CURRENT COMMENT

Montreal Star: "We respectfully suggest that the perturbed and aggrieved German-Americans address their protest to the British Admiralty. There it will receive the sympathy and attention which it deserves."

Vancouver World: "If you have any flour, corn or vegetables which you wish to ship abroad, you might make a pretty penny by dealing with Austria—that is, if your shipments would not fall into the hands of the Allies. The Vienna government has suspended the collection of duties on the articles mentioned."

Many commercial organizations throughout the country are putting their views on record to the effect that Canadians in their purchases should seek, as far as they may, to support home industry. The idea is good, but not at this particular time more than others. It always was good, and those who acted upon it did much to help Canada's growth. To keep up the spirit of the thing will maintain Canada's progress.

Montreal Star: "Rumors still persist that there are forces—for which the Government cannot be held responsible—that press for a dissolution of Parliament at this time. Such forces cannot have measured the full effect of their proposal. What they urge is the violation of a flag of truce. Both political parties had their plans made for a platform campaign this autumn; and both immediately abandoned them when the nation found itself under foreign fire."

THE BACK-TO-THE-LAND MOVEMENT

The back-to-the-land movement is frequently referred to as a possible remedy for the evil of urban overcrowding. By many social reformers the exodus from the country towards the city is greatly deplored and many earnest workers are putting forth brave efforts to combat the tide and induce the current to flow in the reverse direction.

During the decade 1901-1911 Canada's urban population increased by 62 per cent. and the rural population by only 17 per cent. In the Maritime Provinces and in Ontario the rural population actually decreased. In 1901 the people living in towns and cities formed 38 per cent. of the total population; in 1911 this proportion had been increased to 45 per cent. In the United States it is 46 per cent. and, therefore, the ratio of urban to rural population is now about the same in Canada as in the great republic. This cityward movement, as disclosed by the last census, undoubtedly furnishes food for serious thought and, in some quarters, is regarded as very disquieting.

The advocates of the back-to-the-land movement lay great stress on the congestion, poverty, unemployment and squalor of life in the city slums, and are fond of contrasting this with the comfortable home life, demand for labor, and delightful surroundings to be found in the country. While thousands in the city are crying for work, farmers are complaining of the scarcity of help. Moreover, we are increasing the number of consumers of food products far faster than the number of producers and this is blamed as one cause of the high cost of living. Also, rural conditions are usually more healthful than city environment and, from the point of view of race conservation, the depletion of the rural districts is to be deplored.

Theoretically, the foregoing argument seems unassailable, but the enthusiasts who preach to others the attractions of an Arcadian existence—and who generally have some good excuse why they themselves should not be pioneers—ignore some very important practical considerations. Primarily, the great improvements in farm machinery and the growth of agricultural education and better methods of tillage have made the farmer of today more efficient than his predecessor of a generation ago. In other words, it takes less labor to raise a given quantity of food than use to be the case; each farmer today can feed more men than his father did, and, consequently, a smaller proportion of the total population is needed to engage in agriculture. As for the scarcity of farm help, the scarcity complained of is a shortage, not of labor supply but of efficient labor. The idea that any able-bodied man will do for a farm laborer is held only by those who know nothing about farming. Skill is required in this as in other occupations. The farmer has no use for the city's inefficients or ne'er-do-wells. The cost of living cannot be reduced by overwhelming the countryside with tillers of the soil, thus either making agriculture unprofitable or giving rise to a peasant class which would be no improvement on the slum-dwellers of the town. Millett's "Man with the hoe" is not the ideal we wish to set up for the dwellers in rural Canada. The cost of living, if it is to be reduced at all, will be lowered by an improvement in our costly methods of distribution, and this is an urban, rather than a rural, problem. We must make up our minds that the increase in our city population will continue and that no extensive back-to-the-land movement will counteract it. To conserve the race we must by scientific town planning, improve the material environment of the city-dweller, and, by physical training in our schools, secure as fine a bodily stamina for the city as for the country child.

Speaking generally, therefore, we may say that the movement of population cityward is determined by economic and social causes which it is impossible to resist, and that our policy must endeavor to regulate rather than to dam back this flow. Nevertheless, an actual decrease of rural population, in an agricultural province like Ontario, is a danger signal, and shows that the movement in Canada, during the last decade has been excessive. This was probably due to special causes, such as the rush to the West, and the abandonment of lands like those in the Trent watershed, which should never have been taken up for agriculture. There are not wanting signs that the present decade will show, in this province at least, a slow returning movement, which, when the next census is taken, will exhibit a steady progress in city and in country alike.

SPECIAL SALE
OF
"MADE IN CANADA"
Drug Store Goods
FOR Saturday Only

25c. Thomas' Electric Oil 15c.
25c. Mustard Oil liniment 15c.
25c. Nerivline .. .. .. .. 15c.
35c. Castoria .. .. .. .. 25c.
25c. Fluid Magnesia .. .. 15c.
25c. Putnam's Corn Cure 17c.
50c. Electric Beans .. .. 35c.
50c. Electric Balm .. .. 35c.
25c. Miller's Worm Powders .. .. .. .. .. 17c.
25c. Chase's Pills .. .. 16c.
25c. Baby's Own Tablets 17c.
25c. Carter's Pills .. .. 15c.
$1 Kola Tonic Wine .. 75c.
50c. Scott's Emulsion .. 38c.
$1 Scott's Emulsion .. 73c.
$1 Wine Cod Liver Oil 73c.
50c. Cod Liver Oil Emulsion .. .. .. .. .. 24c.
$1 Cod Liver Oil Emulsion .. .. .. .. .. 48c.
50c. Williams' Pink Pills 3 for .. .. .. .. $1.00
25c. Abbey's Salts .. .. 17c.
35c. Sal Hepatica .. .. .. 25c.
$1 Kellogg's Asthma Cure .. .. .. .. .. 75c.

Extra Special
25c. Menthol Cough Balsam Saturday .. .. .. 2 for 25c.

Toilet Articles
25c. Shaving Lotion .. .. 17c.
15c. Camphor Ice Tubes 10c.
25c. Vanishing Cream .. 17c.
25c. Sanitol Talc Powder 10c.
25c. Sanitol Cold Cream 10c.
25c. Tooth Paste .. .. 15c.

Extra Special
FREE: one 10c. cake Infants' Delight Soap FREE with any one of the following at 25c. each:—
Calypso Talcum Powder
Calypso Liquid Cream
Calypso Cold Cream
Calypso Peroxide Vanishing Cream.

Look at These
15c. Water Glass, Saturday .. .. .. .. 10c.
5c. Fly Pads or Coils Saturday, 2 for .. .. 5c.
Regular 3 for 25c. Toilet Paper. Saturday 5 for 25c.

Seasonable Suggestions
For INTERESTED KODAKERS
Flash Sheets
Flash Sheet Holders
Welox Water Colors
Enlarging Cameras
Snap Shot Albums

Have you had those vacation pictures finished? Better let us fix them up for you.

If you are thinking of partaking of the delights of Kodaking drop in and let us show you our large and varied assortment of Cameras and Kodaks

Let's show you the latest Kodak Creation—The Autographic.

EVERYTHING IN KODAKS AND SUPPLIES
AT
The Belleville Pharmacy
THE KODAK STORE . . . . . . . BRIDGE STREET

Here are the actual words used by Shackleton when planning his Antarctic Expedition:—"The question of the concentrated beef supply is most important—it must be Bovril." You, too, can be sure of being nourished if you take Bovril. In addition to its own wonderful nourishment value, Bovril makes everything you eat more nourishing. But remember Shackleton's words:
It must be Bovril.

Of all Stores, etc., 1-oz. 25c.; 2-oz. 40c.; 4-oz. 70c.; 8-oz. $1.30; 16-oz. $2.25. Bovril Cordial, large, $1.25; 5-oz. 40c. 16-oz. Johnston's Fluid Beef (Vimbos) $1.20.
S.H.B.

Why Britain Is At War
The Causes And The Issues

The Larger Issues Involved

It had been recognized from the first that the case of Servia could not be isolated. The aggression upon Servia by Austria (with the previous consent of Germany) was bound to involve other Powers.

The German Government did indeed protest to Sir Edward Grey that "the question at issue was one for settlement between Servia and Austrai alone"; but everybody else knew that it could not be so, and the German Government, as we shall see presently, seem to have known this also. The relations between Austria and Russia had already been strained by the Austrian annexation of Bosnia and Herzegovina. Aggression by Austria upon Servia was certain to be regarded by Russia with the utmost alarm and indignation. During the Balkan crisis the Russian Foreign Minister "had made it clear to the Austrian Government that war with Russia must inevitably follow an Austrian attack on Servia. It was clear that Austrian domination of Servia was as intolerable for Russia as the dependence of the Netherlands on Germany would be to Great Britain." "It must be obvious," said Sir Edward Grey in the House of Commons (July 27), "to any person who reflects upon the situation that the moment the dispute ceases to be one between Austria-Hungary and Servia and becomes one in which another Great Power is involved, it can but end in the greatest catastrophe that has ever befallen the Continent of Europe at one blow; no one can say what would be the limit of the issues that might be raised by such a conflict." War between Russia and Austria, in a cause wherein Germany had supported the latter, and France would be drawn in as the allay of Russia. The action of Austria and Germany in the case of Servia was thus likely to challenge a European war. England and France and Russia saw this. Italy, the ally of Austria and Germany, saw it also. When the general war was breaking out, the Italian Government, being asked to state its intentions, replied: "The war undertaken by Austria, and the consequences which might result, had, in the words of the German Ambassador himself, an aggressive object. Both were therefore in conflict with the purely defensive character of the Triple Alliance, and in such circumstances Italy would remain neutral." "We were fully conscious," said the German Government itself, "that a possible warlike procedure by Austria-Hungary against Servia might bring Russia upon the scene and so involve us in war in accordance with our duties as Allies." "As for Germany," said the German Ambassador at Vienna to the British, "she knew very well what she was about in backing up Austria-Hungary in this matter."

Continued in to-morrow's paper.

WAR NOTES

The British, French and Russian Governments have joined the movement to buy goods made in Canada.

Sir William Osler, who is supervising hospital work in England during this war, expresses the opinion that this war will set a new record for low mortality among the wounded. The famous physician also says he has yet to see a wound inflicted by either a dum dum or an explosive bullet. Many will be gratified to hear both the opinion and the statement.

Scores of Americans from Port Huron and district are again presenting themselves at the Sarnia, Ont., recruiting stations in the hope of catching places on the second Canadian contingent.

Toronto News: "Mr. Stransky, the conductor of the New York Philharmonic, is making a noise like Hermann Ridder and the Staats Zeitung. Any applause we may have favored him with in the past is hereby withdrawn."

New York World: "Considering the dogged Briton in the trenches, the United Kingdom seems unconquerable. Reading London's talk about invasion by sea, Britain's worst enemy seems to be foolish fear. If such clamor should keep a large army at home to meet an impossible danger, what Berlin says of London would be justified. Lord Kitchener is too old a soldier, however, to forget that the place to fight an enemy's army is where it is.

London Daily Express: "The Berlin lies are colossal. Nothing is too stupid. Nothing too utterly opposed to probability. Within the last few days the German public has been informed that General French is a prisoner, that the British army has been annihilated, that a large part of the British navy has been sunk, that the Thomas docks have been destroyed by Zeppelins, that British soldiers refuse to fight and are always drunk, and that the French ascribe their failure to defeat the enemy to the inefficiency of the British forces.

The Kaiser now proposes to invade England in February. His original intention was to make the raid in October, but, like his dinner in Paris, it has been unavoidably postponed.

One hundred members of the British House of Commons are serving with the army at the front. The big men of the country have taken the lead in

To Illustrate Is to Educate

BETTER UNDERSTANDING GAINED FROM SUBJECT WHERE PICTURES EXPLAIN MAIN FEATURES.

Beginning with the "infant" class in the public schools, the pupils are taught by means of pictures. As they advance to higher grades illustrations are still used as "object lessons," and even in the higher grades the text books are illustrated for the purpose of more clearly setting forth the intending meanings. College and university courses comprise books in which the subject matter is made plain by pictures, and all scientific and technical work everywhere is accurately demonstrated by diagrams and drawings. Almost all the periodicals, including dailies, weeklies and monthlies' are illustrated and many books of fiction also use illustrations which bring out particular points in the text.

It has been left to the publishers of the Bible which The Intelligencer is distributing to illustrate this greatest of all historical and educational works. The publication of this Bible was undertaken with full knowledge of the fact that there were already in existence a considerable variety of eminently satisfactory edition, some of them possessing a degree of merit that would seem to render improvement impossible. But all of them, superb though they are, lack one important feature, viz: Direct and helpful illustrations. The New Illustrated Bible supples this deficiency. In it the other essentials of perfection have been retained—the typography, mechanical execution, self-pronouncing features, marginal references, colored maps, etc., being unexcelled by any other edition; while the hundreds of original text illustrations give to it a distinctive character that entirely separates it from all others.

This Bible is not a mere picture book. It is a high art production. The 600 illustrations are from original paintings and drawings which constitute a wonderful gallery of art. To this branch of the work were called the greatest of living artists, and it is to their intelligent conception of the work, and to their masterly skill in the portrayal of appropriate scenes that the peculiar excellence of this Bible is mainly due. Every picture is a complete study in itself. Events that have been imperfectly comprehended become invested with the charm of the living reality; and places that have seemed far off are made familiar, as though we ourselves had trod the hills ciples of old. This really superb edition has an educational mission to perform, in illuminating and vivifying the Bible narrative and giving it, as never before, a present, living, human interest.

Clip the certificate from another page of this issue and read The Intelligencer's plan of distribution which is fully explained thereunder.

Victoria (B.C.) Colonist: "We think that all Canadians, irrespective of their party connections, will join with us in expressing very hearty satisfaction with the manner in which Sir Robert Borden has acquitted himself during the grave and unexpected crisis, which, as Prime Minister of the Dominion, he was called upon to face. Canada has not only lost nothing but has gained much from his patriotic conception of her duty and from the manner in which, under his guidance, she has been able to discharge it. His absolute singleness of purpose is worthy of the highest praise. The fact that his colleagues have stood loyally by him, while honorable to them, in no way detracts from the merit of his splendid work for our own country and for the Empire."

EATS DIRT
GILLETT'S
LYE
CLEANS DISINFECTS

Your friends will smile if you let your money talk.

An Appeal To Wives

You know the horrible afflictions that comes to many homes from the result of a drinking husband or son. You know of the money wasted on "Drink" that is needed in the home to purchase food and clothing. ORRINE has saved thousands of drinking men. It is a home treatment and can be given secretly. Your money will be reunded if, after a trial, it has failed to benefit. Costs only $1.00 a box. Come in and get a free booklet and let us tell you of the good ORRINE is doing—J. S. McKeown druggist.

THE VICTROLA AND THE FAMILY—No. 2

Grandma
has many hours of leisure now. "The most pleasant of these," she says, "are those I spend in knitting while the Victrola sings for me, the old, old songs I used to love."

"There's 'Love'e Old Sweet Song,' 'Silver Threads Among the Gold,' and 'Sweet Genevieve,' sung by such splendid singers as Clarence Whitehill, Richard José and John McCormack. Those are my favorites, but there are so very many other splendid pieces all by such wonderful artists that it is a constant source of wonder and pleasure to me. The best of it is, the rest of the family are just as fond of it as I am. The Victrola surely has brought sunshine into our lives."

VICTROLA IV $20
With 15 double-sided, ten-inch Victor Records, $33.50

Other Victrolas from $32.50 to $300 (on easy payments, if desired), and ten-inch, double-sided Victor Records at 90c for the two selections at any "His Master's Voice" dealer in any town or city in Canada.

Write for free copy of our 300-page Musical Encyclopedia listing over 5000 Victor Records. Ask to hear "It's a Long Way to Tipperary" the famous British Marching Song, on Victor Record No. 17639

Berliner Gram-o-phone Co.
Limited
102 Lenoir Street
MONTREAL

His Master's Voice

Victor Records---Made in Canada
Patronize Home Products
454-430

J. V. DOYLE AGENT BELLEVILLE

Great Sale of Ladies', Men's and Children's
UNDERWEAR AND HOSIERY
Friday Morning, Oct. 23rd, at 8.30

We have just purchased from several manufacturers a large quantity of Woollen Goods, which we are going to Sell in many cases at 50 per cent. less than regular. We also include in this Sale a good many of our Regular Lines of STAPLE GOODS, LINENS, BLANKETS, FANCY GOODS OF ALL KINDS. Thousands of Dollars Worth General Dry Goods to be slaughtered in the next few days. Here is the SALE OF SALES, where you can purchase your Winter Supply at Enormous Savings.

Read Carefully the Items Enumerated Below, and Come Early in the Morning

Several dozen Ladies' Long Woollen Toboggan Mitts. Reg. 50c. value. Sale price, per pair .. 25c.

25 dozen Children's Woollen Mitts, black and navy; reg. 25c., sale, half price .. 13c.

Alarm Clocks, American make. Reg. $1.00; on sale .. 49c.

One lot Sewing Sets, worth up to $1.00. Sale, 50c. and 60c.

Men's and Boys' Fine Wool Undershirts (all samples), all sizes, on sale at 33⅓ less than regular prices.

Men's All Wool Flannel Shirts; colors navy, light and dark grey; all sizes, sale .. .. .. .. .. .. 95c.

50 pairs Fine Nottingham Lace Curtains, reg. $4.00 to $5.00. Sale . $3.39

Hundreds of yards Linen Towelling. Sale .. .. 6c, 7c, 8c, 9c.

10 dozen Hand Crocheted mats; reg. 35c.; sale .. .. 20c.

Flannelette Blankets at sale prices.

10 dozen Cape Gloves; reg. $1.00. Sale .. .. .. .. 79c.

50 only, Boys' Sweater Coats, pure wool, several colors, sizes 26 to 32, worth $1.50, to clear the lot in half an hour, rush sale .. .. .. .. 89c.

25 dozen Ladies' Extra Quality Cashmere Hose; never such value sold in Belleville before. 2 pairs .. .. .. .. .. 44c.

15 dozen Ladies' Plush Vests; reg. 50c. sale .. .. .. .. .. 35c., or 3 for .. .. $1.00

50 dozen Ladies' Wool Vests. Reg. 25c. Sale .. .. 16c.

About 50 Ladies' Cloth Skirts, in black, navy and grey; tweeds, meltons and serges; worth up to $5.00; quick sale .. .. .. .. .. .. $1.25

Horse Blankets of all kinds and prices cut to the lowest figures for this sale.

See the immense range of Gents' Ties on sale .. .. .. 15c.

700 yards Plaid Wrapperette, for children's dresses. Sale .. .. .. .. .. .. 10c.

10 dozen Tango Hair Pins. Reg. 25c. Sale .. .. .. .. .. 15c.

26 dozen Boys' Heavy Ribbed Hose. Reg. 25c.; sale . 15c.

Sample Corset Covers.

Sample Wrappers.

Boys' Sweaters, ages 8 and 9 years. Sale .. .. .. .. 25c.

Sample lot Children's Knitted Skirts .. .. .. Half Price.

Ladies' Silk Scarfs. Reg. 75c. to $2.50; to clear .. Half Price

25 dozen Mens' and Boys' 4-ply Linen Collars, all sizes, reg. 15c. to 20c. Sale, each .. .. .. .. .. 5c.

25 gross Fancy Buttons, fancy pearl and glass; worth 25c. dozen. Sale . . 10c.

Child's Knitted Polkas .. .. .. .. .. 25c.

Children's Wool Mitts. Reg. 25c. Sale .. .. .. .. .. 15c.

6 Dozen Ladies' Knit Sample Gloves; worth from 35c. to 50c. Your choice .. .. .. .. .. .. 19c.

About 100 Women's House Dresses, all kinds of materials. All sizes; worth up to $4.00. Sale .. .. 98c.

Another 50 dozen Gents' four-in-hand Silk Neckties. Reg. 50c. Sale .. .. 29c.

1500 yards Fancy Dress Trimming; reg. up to 75c. yard. Sale .. .. .. .. .. .. .. 5c.

4 dozen Ladies' Suede Gloves (samples). Reg. 75c. Sale .. .. .. .. 25c.

Men's Linen Handkerchiefs. Sale . 15c.

Table Linen Bleached (absolutely pure). Reg. $1.25. Sale .. .. .. .. 79c.

Pure Linen Tabling Sale .. .. .. .. 50c.

Men's "Union Made" Overalls, with bib; black only. Sizes 32 to 38. Regular 75c. Sale .. .. .. .. .. .. .. .. .. .. .. .. .. .. 43c.

Men's Water Proof Coats, all sizes, best colors. Regular $10.00 values, on sale at .. .. .. .. .. .. .. .. .. .. .. .. .. $6.48

1000 extra large rolls Toilet Paper; on sale 4 for .. .. 25c.

250 boxes Note Paper and Envelopes to match; reg. 25c. Sale .. .. .. .. 15c.

25 dozen Women's Pure Wool Vests and Drawers. Regular 50c. Sale .. .. .. 25c.

1000 Tungsten Electric Bulbs, 25, 40, 60 watts. Sale, .. .. .. .. .. .. 33c.

500 Snap Shot Albums; 2 sizes. Sale .. .. .. 10c. and 25c.

30 dozen Boys' Ribbed Worsted all wool Hose. Reg. 25c. Sale, 2 pairs .. 35c.

29 dozen Ribbed Union Hose for Boys. Reg. 20c. Sale, 12c.

About 50 Women's RainCoats, in all colors.
Reg. $9; sale $5.69
Reg. $7; sale, $4.69
Reg. $5; sale, $3.69

Japanese Matting, 36 inches wide; reg. 25c. Sale .. .. 20c.

Thousands of yards of Dress Goods. Reg. up to $1.25 yard. Sale .. .. .. .. .. .. 50c.

300 Preserve Kettles, grey enamel; Sale .. .. .. .. .. 15c.

25 dozen Manufacturers' Samples Wool Vests and Combination Suits; all best quality goods, on sale less than manufacturers' prices. Penman's $1.00, $1.50, $2.00 values, nearly Half Price.

Boys' Tweel Pants, ages 5 to 15 years. Sale price .. .. 47c.

Men's Wool and Worsted Sox, every color made, all sizes. reg. 30c. and 25c. Sale .. .. .. .. .. 15c.

100 Japanese Mats and Rugs; all sizes on sale at 10c., 15c., 79c., $1.29, $1.89.

3 dozen Ladies' Comb Sets, 3 pieces to set. Reg. 25c. Sale .. .. .. .. .. 19c.

Woollen Blankets and Comforters marked at sale prices.

Hundreds of False Faces for the boys and girls, on sale 1c. up.

25 dozen Boys' Heavy Ribbed Worsted Hose, worth 35c. and 40c. Sale . 25c. Not more than 6 pairs to a customer.

11 dozen Ribbed Cashmere Hose; reg. 35c. Sale .. .. 25c.

10 dozen Ladies' Vests and Drawers. Reg. 40c. and 50c. Sale .. .. .. .. .. 29c.

6 dozen Children's Bootees; factory samples, worth up to 35c. Sale .. .. .. .. 15c.

60 Ladies' Sweater Coats; all sizes, all colors, pure wool, reg. $3.00. Sale .. .. .. .. .. .. $1.49

Japanese Matting. 36 inches wide. Reg. 20c. Sale .. .. 15c.

1000 yards Plain Silk Ribbon, 5 to 6 inches wide. Sale .. .. .. .. .. .. 15c.

100 Sample Dolls. Sale .. .. .. .. .. 25c.

3 dozen Tea Aprons plain and cross-bar muslin, lace trimmed. Reg. 25c. Sale, 15c.

6 dozen Wool Clouds. Reg. 25c. Sale .. .. .. .. 19c.

12 dozen Wool Clouds. Reg. 40c. Sale .. .. .. .. 25c.

15 dozen Ladies' Plain Cashmere Hose. Reg. 25c. Sale, 2 pairs .. .. .. .. 35c.

One case Fine Wool Clouds, white and cardinal. Reg. 90c. Sale .. .. 49c.

Men's Silk Mufflers Reg. $1.00. Sale .. .. .. .. .. 50c.

25 Men's Wool Sweater Coats and Cardigans; all colors, $2.00 goods. Sale .. .. .. .. .. .. $1.00

15 dozen Boys' "Yorknit" Underwear; all sizes; reg. 25c. Sale .. .. 19c.

5000 yards heavy English Flannelettes, 36 inch wide; reg. 15c. Sale ... 12½c.

100 Japanese Shopping Bags. 5 sizeas. Sale .. .. .. .. .. 15c.

Linen Table Mats; embroidered, scalloped border. Reg. 50c. Sale .. .. .. .. .. 25c.

Wm. McIntosh & Co.

The LAPSE of ENOCH WENTWORTH

By ISABEL GORDON CURTIS
Author of "The Woman from Wolvertons"

ILLUSTRATIONS by ELLSWORTH YOUNG

COPYRIGHT, 1914 BY F.G. BROWNE & CO.

He stopped, too much affected to trust his voice. He laid one hand over the other as if to still himself, he was trembling.

Wentworth stood looking at the younger man. Something cold and relentless crept into his eyes. He laid his hand on Merry's arm.

"Let me talk to you, Andrew."

"Talk! Talk! You dammed thief " He pushed Enoch aside with quick repulsion. His face was blazing with wrath. He went tramping about the room in a vague, heedless, half-blinded fashion. A thought seemed to strike him abruptly. He wheeled around suddenly and faced the man beside him.

"Why in the devil's name, Enoch, should you do this? Have I ever done you one cruel, disloyal act in all my life?"

Wentworth did not answer. He returned the terror in Merry's eyes with a cool, stubborn glance.

"Did you have this hellish plunder scheme in mind when you drew up that bond?" he asked unsteadily. "What did you have in mind when you made me your slave?"

"I don't know exactly." Wentworth turned such a straightforward gaze upon Merry that he realized the man was speaking the truth. "As I told you that night, and I am telling the truth, it was nothing but a fancy of mine. When you came to me with this." Enoch's hand dropped on the manuscript which lay upon the table, "you came with a great temptation; it was too much for me."

"Evidently," cried Merry. His tone was withering in its scorn. He heated himself and his eyes turned fiercely upon Wentworth. The muscles of his cheek twitched as regularly as a pulse.

"The play is mine." Enoch seemed to have grown strangely cool and impervious to contempt or anger. "The play is mine," he repeated; "it is the due and forfeit of my bond."

The eyes of the actor narrowed and he laughed savagely.

"Take your pound of flesh," he cried. "What will you do with it?"

"Everything we had planned." Enoch's voice was calm. "Give it a big never was advertised before, and build up your fame as an emotional actor."

"What, will you not play the convict?"

"I! Of course not. There is only one actor in America who can play 'John Esterbrook.'"

Andrew rushed across the room in a blind fury. He stretched out his hand and dealt Wentworth a stinging blow across the mouth. "That actor won't play it. Do you understand?"

Wentworth lifted his arm fiercely, then it dropped nervelessly by his side. The veins rose in his neck and forehead like taut cords. He stood staring at Merry, who strode about the room in a demoniac fury.

"God! You're not a man! You're a damned, low-down, scurrilous blackleg. And to think of you standing there, looking me in the face—God!" Merry raised his hand again as if to strike, then he dropped it by his side, shuddered, and dashed across the room. He picked up his hat and turned to the door.

"Where are you going?" asked Enoch sternly.

"I'm going straight to—hell."

He lifted his gloves from the table. Beside them lay the manuscript of his play. He stretched out his hand and turned his eyes on the other man, watching him as a thief might, who fears being caught in an act of robbery.

"Take it," cried Enoch. "I have a copy of it, a copy in my own handwriting."

Merry stood fingering the pages.

"What do you propose to do with your—swag?"

"Call it by a decent name. It belongs to me. Money does not count with me in this transaction. You may take all the royalties. I want nothing but the authorship of the play."

"Nothing but the authorship—" Merry's glance was a malediction.

He dropped the pages and tossed his hat upon his head. Wentworth watched him curiously. The outer shell of the man had changed. His clothes, immaculate an hour ago, looked disheveled. A lock of fair hair strayed down over his forehead, his linen had a battered appearance, the white hyacinths drooped from his buttonhole like blossoms which had been touched by frost. He stood for a moment with the doorknob in his hand staring at Wentworth, who returned his gaze with a cold, ruthless scrutiny. Merry's eyes fell before them. It was the first palpable concession to Enoch's stronger will.

"Good-by," he said with an unsteady laugh. He closed the door behind him. Wentworth turned to the table, lifted the manuscript and stood glancing through the closely scrawled pages. Then he crossed the room, dropped it upon the red coals, leaned his head upon the mantel, and watched until each gray ash became a filmy atom of dust.

CHAPTER VI.

Stepping Out—Downhill.

"Jason, this is nobody I know." Wentworth sat staring at a card his man laid before him. He knitted his brows querulously. "Make him understand that I'm engaged."

"He's terrible masterful, Marze Enoch," said the darky apologetically; "he's boun' he'll see yo'. He's a gentleman all right. I don' believe I kin git rid ob him easy."

"Tell him I can spare ten minutes."

Jason ushered the visitor into Wentworth's library. He was a tall, distinguished man, with a fine, highbred face. His manners were exceedingly gracious, yet simple.

"I don't believe, Mr. Oswald, I've met you before," said Enoch.

"You haven't." Grant Oswald smiled cordially. "Your man tells me you have exactly ten minutes to spare. I'll go straight to business. I'm an Englishman. I have been in New York for three weeks. I want to invest money in something along the theatrical line."

"Oh." Enoch looked up sharply. "Andrew Merry mentioned you."

"Yes, I spoke to Merry one night on the elevated. He's one of your few American actors whom I admire. If a play could be found that fitted him—venture a hundred thousand dollars on its production."

"A hundred thousand! That would be a production worth while!"

"But—remember—only if the play appeals to me. I've been studying theatrical business since I was a youngster. I never threw money away on it."

"If you can stay I will read you the play now."

"My ten minutes are up." The Englishman smiled.

"This work can wait Excuse me a minute." Wentworth lifted a heap of clippings and copy which littered his table. Then he walked to the safe and knelt before it. He had just opened the door and laid his hand upon the manuscript when the door opened and Dorcas ran in. Jason followed, carrying a suit case. For a minute Wentworth forgot the visitor in his inner room.

"Bless my heart, I'm glad to have you back," he cried. "Never in all my life have I seen you look so well."

She held him at arm's length and gazed at him critically. "I wish I could say as much for you, Enoch. You look decidedly seedy. I've got to stay right here. I'm the only one who can manage you."

"I beg your pardon, Dorcas, I've a guest here." Her brother led her to the inner room and introduced his caller to her.

"Mr. Oswald and I were having a business talk, Dorry—not exactly business either. You may stay if you wish and hear a play. I was just going to read to him. If he likes it he will star Andrew Merry in it."

"Oh!" A glow of anticipation shone in the girl's eyes. She laid her coat and hat on the window seat and dropped into a low chair beside her brother. Once or twice she patted him affectionately on the shoulder. The Englishman watched her. There was vivid admiration in his eyes, but Dorcas did not see it. Her only thought was of the happiness in store for Merry.

Wentworth laid the pages of manuscript on the table and cleared his throat. Oswald sat ready to bestow a business-like attention upon the reading. When Enoch lifted the first page his visitor asked: "May I know who wrote the play?"

"I did," answered Wentworth quietly.

"Ah!" said the Englishman. He noticed the startled look on Dorcas' face. It escaped her brother, who sat turned half way from her.

Wentworth began to read. He was an excellent reader; his enunciation was slow and distinct. The story quickly unfolded itself in strong, vivid language. Grant Oswald, who was an ardent student of dramatic literature, fell immediately under its spell and listened with intent quiet.

The minds of both men were so vitally concentrated upon the drama that they were scarcely conscious of a movement when Dorcas crept from her low chair to the window seat. She lay and stared down at the square. She heard her brother's voice in fragments. Those fragments were always the words of the girl, Cordelia, or of the father fallen to pitiful estate. She clasped her hands together with such a grip that it numbed her fingers. A strange pain and a horrible suspicion were seeping through her body and burning in her veins. Outwardly she was inert.

Suddenly she was awake again, wide awake, tingling with life and emotion, listening to her brother's vibrant voice. The day of release had come for John Esterbrook. He stood with halting, tremulous steps, fearful at the sight of the world he had left twenty years before, hiding his eyes from its tumult. Then Cordelia ran to meet him—young, hopeful, loving and eager. Dorcas forgot the horror and doubt which had swept her down for a moment, she was thinking of nothing but the play. It was greater, more human, than she had dreamed of that day when Andrew and she walked home over the beach at Juniper Point. Her eyes grew wet with pity, then she smiled happily as life ceased to be a problem for Cordelia. Love had come, and the father turned to work out what was left him of a future.

Enoch laid the manuscript aside. The Englishman, hearty in his congratulations and enthusiastic, was urging the earliest possible production. He offered unlimited money and insisted that the best company New York could produce should be engaged. The spell of the story was still upon Dorcas. She passed out, shaking hands hastily with Oswald.

"Dorry," cried her brother. She did not answer.

"The play stirred her intensely," said Oswald. He had noticed a trace of tears on her cheeks. "Was this the first time she heard it read?"

"Yes, I had never even told her of it. She has been away while—it was written."

"Is your sister an actress?"

"No—she wants to go upon the stage."

"Let her have her way," advised the Englishman. "Her every action shows that she possesses dramatic talent."

"It isn't my idea of her future."

"Stage life is exactly what one chooses to make of it. Curiously enough, I have a conviction she could play Cordelia."

Wentworth brushed his hand across his forehead and stared at the scattered sheets of manuscript on the table.

"Get Merry here as soon as possible. I want a consultation with both of you," suggested Oswald while he drew on his gloves. "It is now only a matter of time and a theater. If I may advise now, don't choose anyone on this side for Mrs. Esterbrook. I know a woman who can play that part to perfection. Again let me congratulate you. It's a great play, one of the greatest I've heard in years. It's bound to succeed." flush blazed into his face. He was not hardened enough yet to accept congratulations for the brain product of another man.

"Good-by," said the Englishman, holding out his hand cordially.

"Good-by," murmured Wentworth. He moved to the window. A carriage stood waiting in front of the house. He watched Oswald step into it and drive away.

Suddenly he recollected that Dorcas had not spoken a single word of praise or congratulation on the play. She was always enthusiastic and happy over every triumph that came to him. She must have thought well of the play. She had a full appreciation of Merry's talents and she had seemed to like him while they were together during the summer. He paused to pull himself together mentally, then he called her. She came slowly into the room, which had grown dark.

"Dorry," said Wentworth slowly, "do you know you have not said yet that you like—my play?"

"Your play?"

"Why, Dorry?"

The girl spoke in an unsteady voice. "I don't believe, Enoch, that Andrew Merry told you of a long talk we had at Juniper Point. You remember you left me alone with him when you were called to Boston. We sat on the rocks one afternoon and he told me his plot for this play—he had been thinking it out for years and years. Why," the girl shook her head impatiently, "why, Enoch, he had labored on it so long that some of the speeches were written, in his mind. Sometimes he put the story into the very words you read!"

During a few minutes Enoch Wentworth fought the battle of his life. It was the struggle between good and evil, which every human being harbors to a greater or lesser degree, in one soul, in one body. Wentworth sighed. The battle had passed and evil had won. It was prepared to carry him through the most dangerous moment. With it came fresh valor, and not only the power to sin further, but a mysterious weakening of the moral tissues which made it possible for him to sin coolly and remorselessly. He turned on the light and with cool composure faced his sister. He met her gray eyes without a quiver. They asked a question which could not be evaded.

"I hate to tell you, Dorcas," there was a tone of reluctance in Wentworth's voice, "but Merry is down again, down in the gutter."

The girl jumped to her feet. "I don't believe it!" she cried. "Besides, if he were, what has that to do with his play?"

Enoch did not answer. Instead he asked a question. "Dorcas, do you care for—do you love—Andrew Merry?"

A flush blazed into the girl's face. In spite of the telltale color her brother believed her.

"Yes, I care for Andrew Merry

Enoch gazed at her wistfully. He knew, as she did not, how easy it is to cross the bridge from mere friendship to love.

"Why did you ask me that?"

"I wanted to find out how much it would hurt if I told you the truth. Merry is not worth your love, he is not even worth your friendship."

"It is not true!" There was indignant protest in the woman's voice. "I know better, so do you. Only this does not explain about his play, for it is his play."

"You remember he left Juniper Point suddenly?"

"Yes." She raised her head with an eager gesture. "He went away to write this play." She pointed to the manuscript which lay on the table.

"Yes," said Enoch slowly. "He began bravely enough. Then—he went under, as he had done so many times in his life."

"What was it?" cried the girl. "Drink or gambling?"

Enoch lay back in his chair. He began to marvel at how easily he could lie, because a lie had never come readily to him before.

"Drink and gambling—and everything." Her brother shrugged his shoulders as if in disgust. "Of course he stopped writing. A man could not write in his condition. He sent for me. I stayed by him night and day and—wrote. You see—I wrote it." He lifted a written sheet from the loose pile of manuscript.

"Perhaps—but it is not your play." Dorcas shook her head with obstinate incredulity.

"I told him so. I suggested we make it a collaborated play."

"It is not even a collaborated play, Enoch. Why, every situation, the plot, even the very words, are his."

"He wants me to father it."

"He must have changed since he said good-by to me. He was on fire then with hope and ambition."

"He has changed," acceded Enoch gravely. It was a relief to make one truthful statement.

"Is he to play 'John Esterbrook' when it is produced?"

"No other actor can. Merry has the entire conception of it now."

"Where is he?"

"I don't know."

"I thought you promised Mr. Oswald to have him here and get things started for an early production?"

"I did. I am hoping to find Merry at one of his haunts. He must be found and put on his feet. There's a tremendous lot at stake. Dorry," he turned to her appealingly, "won't you help me?"

"I'll help you," Dorcas spoke slowly, "if you can assure me of one thing."

"What?"

To Be Continued

CLARK'S PEANUT BUTTER
Better than Butter
Nicer than Jam
Sold in sizes:
¼, ½ & 1 lb.
also in 24-lb. pails.
If you get Clark's you get the best.

---

A despatch says "small hot bullets cause little pain." Albeit, this inform-

LITTLE DAUGHTER VERY DELICATE

Mother Tells How Vinol Made Her Delicate Child One of the Healthiest.

Fayetteville, N.C.—"My little daughter was in delicate and very poor health and had so little strength it caused us a great deal of uneasiness. I noticed an advertisement of Vinol and decided to try it. The results were simply marvelous as her appetite improved at once, she gained so much in weight and looks that my friends all commented on the change. She is now one of the healthiest children in town and does not need medicine of any kind. All mothers who have delicate children should try Vinol." —Mrs. Gordon Jessup, Fayetteville, N. C.

Vinol is a wonderful appetizer and you can see delicate, ailing children improve day by day under its use, for it is the tissue building and medicinal elements of cod's livers, aided by the blood making, strength creating properties of tonic iron which makes Vinol so superior to other tonics to build up health and strength for delicate children, feeble old people and weak, run-down, nervous debilitated men and women.

We wish every mother who has a delicate child would try Vinol on our agreement to return their money if it fails to give satisfaction.

Red Cross Drug Store, J. S. McKeown, Proprietor, Belleville, Ont.

Lines of Communication In Danger.

AMSTERDAM, Oct. 23. — The sound of heavy artillery firing was heard yesterday morning at Sluys, a village in the extreme western tip of Zealand, about 20 miles north and a little west of Ghent. The firing apparently was taking place between Bruges and Ghent.

The conveyance of German wounded from Bruges to Ghent has suddenly ceased and it is believed that the German lines of communication between Ghent and Bruges are threatened by the advancing allies.

CHARGES REDUCED.

Conspiracy Case Against Railway Officials Abandoned—Fines Levied.

TORONTO, Oct. 23—Following the inability of the sessions jury to arrive at a unanimous verdict in the case of Henry Coker, the C. P. R. conductor who was charged with having charged short fares and not handing the money to the company, the crown abandoned the charge of conspiracy against the railway officials yesterday and eight of them pleaded guilty to breaches of the Secret Commissions Act, and fines ranging from $50 to $200 were imposed by Judge Coatsworth.

Richard Reid was allowed to go on suspended sentence; Fred Lee was sentenced to two months in jail; Albert Cheeseman and Harry Yates were fined $50 or an alternative of one month in jail. When passing sentence of one month on P. McCarl, the judge declared, that this case was the worst, and he could not allow him to go by paying a fine. He imposed the minimum sentence, however.

Prussian Diet Authorizes Loan.

PARIS, Oct. 23.—A message from Rome states that the Prussian Diet will authorize a loan of $375,000,000, secured by bond, payable before Jan. 1, 1916.

This fund is to be devoted to the relief of the people in East Prussia, invaded by the Russians, and to the aid of public employes thrown out of employment.

To Buy Torpedo Boats.

LONDON, Oct. 23.—A Reuter despatch from Amsterdam says the Netherlands' Minister of Marine yesterday asked the Chamber for a credit of $450,000 as the first payment for four torpedo boats which will be built in Holland to replace four ordered in Germany and seized by the German Government.

War Office Wants Chauffeurs.

LONDON, Oct. 23. — A call has been issued for one thousand chauffeurs between the ages of 20 and 45 to leave for the continent at once. The men are requested to present themselves before noon to-day, and it is understood that they will be transported immediately.

To Put On Flesh And Increase Weight

A PHYSICIAN'S ADVICE

Most thin people eat from four to six pounds of good solid fat-making food every day and still do not increase in weight one ounce, while on the other hand, many of the plump, chunky folks eat very lightly and keep gaining all the time. It's all bosh to say that this is the nature of the individual. It isn't Nature's way at all.

Thin folks stay thin because their powers of assimilation are defective. They absorb just enough of the food they eat to maintain life and a semblance of health and strength. Stuffing waste. What such people need is something that will prepare these fatty food elements so that their blood can absorb them and deposit them all about the body—something, too, that will multiply their red blood corpuscles and increase their blood's carrying power.

For such a condition I always recommend eating a Sargol tablet with every meal. Sargol is not, as some believe, a patented drug, but is a scientific combination of six of the most effective and powerful flesh building elements known to chemistry. It is absolutely harmless, yet wonderfully effective and a single tablet eaten with each meal often has the effect of increasing the weight of a thin man or woman from three to five pounds a week. Sargol is sold by J. S. McKeown's drug store and other good druggists everywhere on a positive guarantee of weight increase or money back.

GERMAN GUNS BEATEN BOASTED HEAVY PIECES

Admiralty's Report of the Participation of the Fleet In Land Operations Along the Coast of France and Belgium Shows That Effective Work Has Been Done by Ships—Naval Losses Small.

LONDON, Oct. 23.—The Secretary of the Admiralty issued last night the following statement of the operations of the British warships in co-operation with the allied army:

"On Oct. 18 requests for naval assistance was made to the Admiralty by the allied commanders. In consequence, a naval flotilla mounting a large number of powerful long-range guns came into action at daybreak on the 19th, off the Belgian coast, supporting the left of the Belgian army and firing against the right of the German attack, which they were, by their position, enabled to enfilade.

"The Germans replied by shells from their heavy guns, but, owing to the superior range of the British marine artillery, practically no damage has been done.

"Three monitors, which were building in British ports for Brazil, and were acquired on the outbreak of the war, have proved particularly well suited to this class of operation. A heavy bombardment on the German flank has been maintained without intermission since the morning of the 19th and is being continued to-day.

"Observation is arranged from shore by means of naval balloons and all reports indicate that substantial losses have been inflicted upon the enemy, and that the fire is well directed and effective against his batteries and heavy guns.

"Yesterday a considerable explosion, probably of an ammunition wagon, followed upon a naval shot. The naval losses have so far been very small, considering the damage and the important assistance rendered to the Belgian left flank.

"All reports received by the Admiral show the courage and determination with which the Belgian army, animated by the King in person, is defending the last few miles of Belgian soil.

"The naval operations are under the command of Rear-Admiral the Hon. Horace L. A. Hood."

GERMANS STILL RETIRE

Rapid Retreat From Warsaw Amounts to 18 Miles.

Russian War Office Says That Desperate Fighting Continues In Galicia Where Russians Have Taken Many Guns and Over 2,000 Men —German Losses In Marshes of Poland Have Been Heavy.

PETROGRAD, Oct. 23. — The official communication issued by General Headquarters last night says:

"The rapid retreat of the Germans from Warsaw continues. The bombardment of the enemy's heavy artillery has caused no essential damage to the fortifications of Ivangorod or the bridges.

"In Galicia desperate engagements are still being fought. During the advance in the region between Przemysl and the Vistula we captured more than 30 officers, 2,000 soldiers and many rapid-fire guns. To the south of Przemysl the Russian operations are developing, also with success.

"The Russian troops displayed exceptional energy in coming to the defence of Warsaw and saving the city from a German bombardment. The Russian concentration was effected with greater swiftness than was called for by strategical reasons.

"The seventeenth German corps and some of their reserve troops who attempted to push forward in the region between Blonie and Prouschkoff, suffered severely. It was there that the Siberian troops, together with other Russian forces, inflicted terrible losses on the enemy. Many villages in the vicinity were taken and retaken in hand-to-hand fighting."

Retreated 18 Miles.

ROME, Oct. 23. —A despatch to The Corriere Heras yesterday, from Petrograd, states that the Austro-German forces have been compelled to retreat 18 miles to the westward. The battle has been renewed on the Vistula river with extreme violence.

The Germans have lost heavily in artillery and munitions of war in the marshes of Poland.

Watch the East, Says Belloc.

LONDON, Oct. 23. — Emphasizing the importance of the operations around Warsaw, Hilaire Belloc, the famous writer on military topics, says: "It is obvious the Russian plan must be a turning movement around the north of the enemy by way of Warsaw. They know this is largely a campaign of exhaustion. They know the enemy has rendered his own communications insecure by a false policy of cruelty toward the peasants. They know he has in his retirement but few roads or railways to depend upon—roads and railways which will be hopelessly clogged in any pressed retirement.

"The Germans have massed themselves, it is said, in not less than five army corps in front of Warsaw—a third of all they have upon the Vistula. It is probable that an appreciable result in Russian Poland will in a short time either release the Germans for the west or in the absence of such reinforcements compel the German line in the west to retire.

"That is why it is the business of all," says Hilaire Belloc, "to keep their eyes fixed upon this eastern field."

Cossack Captured General.

PETROGRAD, Oct. 23.—A startling story is told by an official from Lwoff, Lemberg. An Austrian general ordered a Cossack captured alive and brought to the Austrian camp to prove that he was no better swordsman than the Austrians. When the general handed him a sword the Cossack wielded it wildly, leaped upon the horse where the general was sitting and drove madly away. The Austrians feared to shoot lest they kill their own general, who is now in Russian captivity.

Sir Robert Leaves for South.

OTTAWA, Oct. 23.—Sir Robert Borden leaves Ottawa to-day for the south on a three weeks' vacation. The Premier feels much in need of a rest. He has been working hard for a long time, and since the outbreak of the war he has been especially busy. He will probably spend a portion of his holiday at Virginia Hot Springs. Lady Borden will accompany him.

MARKET REPORTS

CHICAGO, Oct. 22.—Wheat sagged in price today, influenced by a lull in export demand. The market closed unsettled, ⅜c to ⅝c under last night. Corn finished ⅛c to ¼c up, oats ½c, and provisions at an advance of 5c to 25c.

TORONTO GRAIN MARKET.

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| Wheat, fall, bushel.... | $1 15 to $.... | |
| Goose wheat, bushel... | 1 10 | .... |
| Barley, bushel ........ | 0 67 | 0 68 |
| Peas, bushel ........... | 1 25 | .... |
| Oats, bushel ........... | 0 54 | 0 55 |
| Rye, bushel ............ | 0 85 | .... |
| Buckwheat, bushel .... | 0 75 | .... |

TORONTO DAIRY MARKET.

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| Butter, creamery, lb. sq.. | 0 29 | 0 31 |
| Butter, creamery, solids.. | 0 28 | 0 29 |
| Butter, separator, dairy.. | 0 27 | 0 28 |
| Cheese, new, lb.......... | 0 16 | .... |
| Eggs, new-laid .......... | 0 27 | 0 28 |
| Honey, new, lb........... | 0 11 | 0 12 |
| Honey, combs, dozen.... | 2 50 | 3 00 |

GRAIN AND PRODUCE.

TORONTO, Oct, 22.—Quotations on the Board of Trade are as follows:

Manitoba wheat—Lake ports, old crop, No. 1 northern, $1.25½; No. 2 northern, $1.22½; new crop, No. 1 northern, $1.22; No. 2 northern, $1.18.

Manitoba oats—Bay ports, old crop, No. 2 C.W., 62c; No. 3 C.W., 61c; new crop, No. 2 C.W., 57½c; No. 3 C.W., 54½c.

Ontario wheat—Car lots, $1.05 to $1.06, outside, according to freights.

American corn—Fresh shelled, No. 2 yellow, 81c to 82c, Toronto; Canadian corn, 82c, Toronto.

Ontario oats—New, outside, 44c to 46c.

Peas—No. 2, $1.20 to $1.25, car lots, outside, nominal.

Rye—No. 2, 82c to 83c, outside.

Barley—Good malting barley, outside, 65c to 67c; Manitoba barley, 64c to 68c, lake ports.

Rolled oats—Per bag of 90 lbs., $2.85 to $3; in smaller lots, $3.15 to $3.25; per barrel, $5.70, wholesale, Windsor to Montreal.

Buckwheat—66c to 68c.

Millfeed—Car lots, per ton, bran, $23 to $24; shorts, $25 to $26; middlings, $27 to $28; good feed flour, $32 to $34.

Manitoba flour—First patents, $6.60 in bags; second patents, $6.10 in bags.

Ontario flour—Winter, 90 per cent. patents, $4.50 to $4.70, Montreal or Toronto freights in bulk, nominal.

Cornmeal—Yellow, 98-lb. sacks, $2.65 to $2.75.

WINNIPEG GRAIN MARKET.

WINNIPEG, Oct. 22.—Cash close: No. 1 northern wheat, $1.15¾; No. 2 do., $1.12; No. 3 do., $1.07; No. 4, $1.01; No. 5, 97c; No. 6, 92c; feed, 88c.

Oats—No. 2 C.W., 54½c; No. 3 C.W., 51¾c; extra No. 1 feed, 51¾c; No. 1 feed, 50½c; No. 2 feed, 50c.

Barley—No. 3, 66½c; No. 4, 62c; rejected, 59c; feed, 51½c.

Flax—No. 1 N.W.C., $1.12; No. 2 C.W., [illegible]

MONTREAL GRAIN MARKET.

MONTREAL, Oct. 22.—There was a fair demand from foreign buyers for Manitoba spring wheat today, and as bids were in line with exporters' views sales of 150,000 bushels were made, but the volume of business was checked owing to the increased scarcity of ocean grain room. There was also some demand from exporters for wheat on spot, and sales of 20,000 bushels of No. 1 northern were made at $1.19¾, and 45,000 bushels of No. 3 at $1.14½ per bushel, c.i.f. The demand from local dealers for oats was good, and sales of 140,000 bushels of No. 2 feed were made at 54¼c. and 30,000 bushels at 54½c. while 65,000 bushels No. 1 feed sold at 55½c per bushel, c.i.f.

Flour continues quiet, but the tone of the market is firm. The trade in millfeed is quiet. Hay is more active and stronger at an advance of 50c per ton.

Demand for butter is quiet, and prices rule steady.

There was some business done in cheese over the cable, but the sales were principally small lots.

Demand for eggs is good, and the undertone to the market is strong.

MINNEAPOLIS GRAIN MARKET.

MINNEAPOLIS, Oct. 22.—Wheat—No. 1 hard, $1.15; No. 1 northern, $1.11½ to $1.14; No. 2 do., $1.08½ to $1.12½; Dec., $1.12.

Corn—No. 3 yellow, 70c to 72c.

Oats—No. 3 white, 46¼c to 46½c.

Flour and bran—Unchanged.

DULUTH GRAIN MARKET.

DULUTH, Oct. 22.—Wheat—No. 1 hard, $1.15⅝; No. 1 northern, $1.14⅝; No. 2 northern, $1.11⅝; Dec., $1.13⅜ to $1.13½.

CATTLE MARKETS

UNION STOCK YARDS.

TORONTO, Oct. 22.—Receipts of live stock at the Union Yards were 265 cattle, 2435 hogs, 1273 sheep and lambs and 63 calves.

Butchers' Cattle.

Good steers sold at $7.25 to $7.75; medium, $7 to $7.25; common, $6.25 to $6.50; choice cows, $6.50 to $6.75; good cows, $6 to $6.25; canners, $3.50 to $4.50; bulls, $5 to $6.75.

Stockers and Feeders.

Choice feeders, 1000 to 1100 lbs., $6.75 to $7, "short-keeps"; choice steers, 900 to 1000 lbs., $6.50 to $6.75; good feeders, $6.25 to $6.50; stockers, all the way from $4 to $6.

Milkers and Springers.

A moderate delivery sold at $65 to $105, the bulk going at $75 to $85.

Veal Calves.

The run being light, prices remained steady. Choice veals, $10 to $11; good at $9 to $9.50; medium, $7.50 to $8.50; common, $5.50 to $6.50; inferior, $4 to $5.

Sheep and Lambs.

Prices remained about steady. Sheep, light ewes, $5 to $6; heavy ewes, $3 to $4; culls and rams, $2.50 to $4.50; lambs, $7.50 to $7.75; cull lambs, $6 to $6.50.

Hogs.

Selects, fed and watered, $7.50, and $7.75 weighed off cars.

EAST BUFFALO LIVE STOCK.

EAST BUFFALO, Oct. 22.—Cattle—Receipts, 700 head; dull; prices unchanged.

Veals—Receipts, 200 head; active; $5 to $12.

Hogs—Receipts, 3,200 head; active; heavy and mixed, $7.80 to $7.85; yorkers, $7.25 to $7.85; pigs, $7; roughs, $6.75 to $6.85; stags, $6.25 to $6.50.

Sheep and lambs—Receipts, 1,600 head; sheep slow; lambs active, unchanged.

SINCLAIR'S

Pen-Angle Hosiery

We have just placed in stock a complete range of Pen-Angle Ladies' Cashmere Stockings, the only stocking that is Knit to Fit without a seam and made with Shaped Foot and Narrowed Ankle—the best Cashmere Stocking made and sold in Canada at

35c, 45c, 50c, 65c, and 75c a pair.

39-inch Black Dress Silk, $1.15

This week we have on sale about 400 yards of 39-inch Black Pailette Dress Silk and we would like you to pass judgment on this silk. We think it is the best value to be had in a good Black Dress Silk, but we want your opinion of it—39 inches wide and only

$1.15 yd.

Corset Comfort

Becomes second nature to wearers of

à la Grâce Corsets

Come in and look them over; also be sure to see our new style Ready-to-Wear Garments

These Corsets Sell from 75c to $3.50

SINCLAIR'S

New Wash Silk Waists at $4.00.

Here is a Ladies' Tailored Silk Waist that will interest you. These waists are made of a Heavy Jap Wash Silk in black and ivory, in very smart Tailored Style and are certainly the best value we have ever shown, in all sizes 32 to 42 bust measure

Price $4.00

Extra Large Coats

we show several styles specially designed for Large Figures in Ladies' Black Curl, Zibeline Cloths, Serges and Kersey Cloths. These coats are sized up to 48 bust measure and sell from

$12.50 to $22.50 each

HAVE YOU JOINED THE "GYM" CLASS IN THE Y. M. C. A.?

If you have you will require a Bathing Suit and also a Gymnasium Suit. For both of these we show Navy Lustres, Navy Wool Serges and Navy Viyella Flannels to sell at 25c., 35c., 40c., 50c. and 60c. per yard.

Sinclair's We Sell Priestley's Dress Goods. Sinclair's

Will Bring Out Belgians.

KINGSTON, Ont., Oct. 23.—John Weir, of London, Eng., representing several charitable institutions in the old country, is here arranging to bring out a number of Belgian farmers and domestics to Kingston and district. At present these Belgians who have lost their homes are being cared for by these charitable institutions. Mr. Weir intends to go to Toronto to make arrangements for bringing Belgians there.

Gift to Patriotic Fund.

BROCKVILLE, Ont., Oct. 23.—At yesterday's meeting of the local cheese board the patrons of several factories were requested to donate next Wednesday's milk supply to the manufacture of cheese, the proceeds to go to the Canadian Patriotic Fund.

BANDITS RAIDED BANK.

Two Are Dead, One Dying and Two Missing—Officer Killed.

VANCOUVER, Oct. 23.—Two robbers dead, one dying and two yet at large, is the schedule of casualties on the side of the enemy in the battle between the Austrian bank bandits and the authorities near the international boundary at Blaine yesterday morning. Clifford Adams of New Westminster, a young customs officer, was the official killed.

The five bandits who held up the Sedro-Woolley Bank last Saturday night attempted to cross the boundary into Canada yesterday morning. The first fight with the boundary officials resulted in Adams' death, while one of the robbers was shot dead and another wounded. The latter was taken to Cloverdale yesterday afternoon. He was apparently disabled by the officers' shots, and then probably fired at by his fleeing companions, for he is suffering from a scalp wound dealt by a revolver held so close to his head that his hair was singed.

Just after noon yesterday another robber was wounded at Hall's Prairie. He drew his own revolver and shot himself while the officers raced forward to catch him.

At dark the posses were still out, but it looked as if the remaining two or three had escaped. The country is, however, well policed, not only by regular officers but by members of the Home Guard, formed since the starting of the war. These amateur warriors rendered quite valiant assistance yesterday.

TELEGRAPH BRIEFS.

A German casualty list issued yesterday contains the names of about 11,500 killed, wounded and missing.

About 150 Hindus from Canada took passage yesterday on the liners Tenyo Maru and Mongolia from San Francisco for the far east.

Owing to the war all the social functions at Queen's University will probably be cancelled. The matter will be discussed by the senate.

Magna Bell, the native chief of the German Kamerun, has been executed because he attempted to foment among the natives a rebellion against Germany.

The German governor of Jaluit Island, which has been occupied by the Japanese, has arrived at Yokohama on a Japanese warship. The United States consul will arrange for his return to Germany.

It is learned in metal circles that the steamer Troilus, which was sunk by the German cruiser Emden, carried, among other things in her cargo, 700 tons of tin, valued at nearly a half million dollars.

A Havas Agency despatch from Petrograd says that the Russian Minister of Finance has been authorized by imperial decree to place short term treasury bonds, amounting to $60,000,000 on the English market.

The body of a man was taken from the old Welland Canal at Merritton, below lock 15 yesterday afternoon. Beyond an old, empty purse, nothing was found in the pockets. No person has been reported missing of late.

THEY'LL NOT RETURN.

Belgian Refugees Refuse To Go To Towns Occupied by Germans.

FLUSHING, Oct. 23, — (Via London)—A total of 8,000 penniless Belgians, quartered to-day in Flushing, absolutely refuse to return to their homes in Antwerp or other Belgian cities in the hands of the Germans. It is true a hundred refugees did go back to Antwerp Wednesday and that an equal number left yesterday, but the movement to get large numbers to return to the city in the possession of the enemy has been futile.

All the school and church buildings of Flushing are at the present time occupied by impoverished Belgians. The schools have been dismissed to accommodate them.

The normal population of this city is 20,000, but it is to-day augmented by probably 10,000 Belgians, only 2,000 of whom have funds and are able to pay their way. The municipality is bearing the expense of feeding and sheltering those who are without money.

VON MOLTKE DYING.

Germans Making Every Effort To Conceal News of His Condition.

LONDON, Oct. 23.—A private letter received in Amsterdam from a high official in Berlin, says Lt.-Gen. Count Helmuth von Moltke, chief of the German General Staff, is dying, according to the Exchange Telegraph's Amsterdam correspondent.

"Everything, the correspondent adds, "is being done to keep the news secret. Gen. von Moltke is suffering from an affection of the liver. The cure he was undergoing was interrupted in July by the German mobilization. He has now had to leave Emperor William's headquarters, Gen. von Falkenhayn, the Prussian Minister of War being left in charge."

Many German officers ascribe the check to the German advance to the forced retirement of Gen. von Moltke.

Hughes Is Major-General.

OTTAWA, Oct. 23. — Official announcement was made last night of the promotion of Col. Sam Hughes to the rank of major-general dating back to May, 1912, and of Col. Gwatkin, chief of the General Staff, to the same rank.

Col. Hughes becomes senior major-general in Canada. His appointment has been under advisement for some weeks, but passed finally at yesterday afternoon's Cabinet Council.

Oporto Cut Off.

LONDON, Oct. 23.—The following despatch has been received from Oporto, Portugal:

"Telegraphic and telephonic communication with Lisbon has been cut. A number of unexploded bombs have been found on the railways."

ALL POSITIONS HELD.

Violent Attacks of Enemy Repulsed Says French Bulletin.

PARIS, Oct. 23. — With increased success at various points in the line and the evident fruition of the plans of the allies the official bulletins yesterday were more extensive.

The official communication issued by the French War Office last night reports a continuation of the great battle between the sea and La Bassee, in which the Belgians and the allies are holding their ground. Between Arras and the Oise the Germans have met with similar opposition. The text follows:

"The activity which the enemy displayed yesterday (Wednesday) did not slacken to-day. Between the sea and La Bassee the battle has continued with just as great violence, without the Germans being able to force back the Belgian army or the French and British troops.

"Similarly, between Arras and the Oise, the enemy has made determined efforts, which have at no point been crowned with success.

"In the Argonne district we have made progress between St. Hubert and Le Four de Paris.

"To the north of Verdun we have gained ground at Haumont and Brabant on the Meuse. In the Woevre region we have repulsed an attack on Champlon."

The French War Office issued the following communique yesterday afternoon: "On our left wing German forces in considerable strength have continued their violent attacks, particularly in the vicinity of Dixmude, Warniton, Armentieres, Radingham and La Bassee, but the positions occupied by the allies have been maintained.

"On the rest of the front the enemy has delivered only partial attacks. These all have been repulsed, particularly at Fricourt, to the east of Albert, on the plateau to the west of Craonne; in the region of Souain, in the Argonne district; at Four de Paris, southwest of Varennes, in the region of Malancourt, in the Woevre district; in the direction of Champlon, and at a point southeast of St. Mihiel, in the forest of Ailly.

"We have made slight progress in the Argonne district, and in the southern part of the Woevre, in the forest of Mortmare.

"The forward movement of the Russian forces has been positively announced. An important success in the region of Warsaw has driven back the enemy more than thirteen kilometres. The advance of the Russians at Ivangorod and to the south of Przemysl are equally perceptible."

There is nothing new on the situation around Verdun, Belfort and Metz.

DEFIED THE ENEMY.

Fort Troyon With 450 Men Held 10,000 Germans at Bay.

LONDON, Oct. 23. — The Standard's Paris correspondent says: It has already been related how gallantly the little Fort Troyon defied the Germans on the Meuse, but it is only just being realized what a service its garrison rendered the allied force for five days. A force of 450 men kept 10,000 Germans at bay, notwithstanding the awful pounding from the terrible guns that gave the deathblow to Liege, Namur and other strongholds. After two days' bombardment the enemy tried to carry the fort by storm. They got within ten yards, but fell in such numbers they had to withdraw. Next day they summoned the garrison to surrender. "Never," was the reply.

"Then we shall shell you with our heavy guns until you and your fort are but a heap of cinders," retorted the German commander. They almost had time to carry out the threat before relief came. When the siege was raised nothing was left of the fort, while over half its defenders had been buried alive in its ruins. The captain in command was wounded in 28 places, and his lieutenant had his leg blown away. The governor of Verdun came in person to congratulate the garrison on the magnificent feat, and ever since a stream of generals and higher officers from all sides has come to see the damage done. Every regiment that passes has orders to halt and render the garrison military honors. The defenders have been loaded with presents in recognition of their heroic defence.

May Be Returned Unopposed.

OTTAWA, Oct. 23.—It is improbable that any opposition will be offered to the return of Hon. T. C. Casgrain and Hon. Pierre Blondon. Other bye-elections, in Westmoreland, Terrebonne and Jacques Cartier will be brought on shortly.

It is believed that the six vacancies in the Senate will be filled shortly. Five of these vacancies are in Ontario in succession to Senators McMillan, Ross, Coffey, Gibson and Cox, and one in British Columbia, through the retirement of Senator MacDonald.

German Rioters Suppressed.

KINGSTON, Ont., Oct. 2.—An order to the guards to "fix bayonets" prevented a small-sized riot among the prisoners at Fort Henry. One German who has for some time been acting in a disorderly manner and who tried to induce the other prisoners to join in a riot was placed in a cell. For some time a number of the prisoners have been trying their best to make trouble.

DRS. SOPER & WHITE

SPECIALISTS

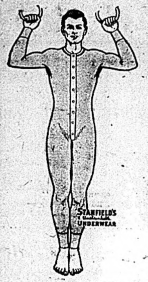
Piles, Eczema, Asthma, Catarrh, Pimples, Dyspepsia, Epilepsy, Rheumatism, Skin, Kidney, Blood, Nerve and Bladder Diseases.

Call or send history for free advice. Medicine furnished in tablet form. Hours—10 a.m. to 1 p.m. and 2 to 6 p.m. Sundays—10 a.m. to 1 p.m.

Consultation Free

DRS. SOPER & WHITE

25 Toronto St., Toronto, Ont.



HIGH GRADE FURNISHINGS

Travel the Country over and you'll not find a better line of Men's Toggery than you'll find right here.

The best Shirt makers, Underwear makers, Scarf makers, Sweater Coat makers and Coat and Glove makers send us their productions.

The Best In Every Line Is Here!

Then again we are not high priced.

All the Patrons of the Store know this to be a fact. Test us and see.

See our New $1 Shirts;
Look at our $1 Gloves;
See our 25c and 50c Neckwear;
Look at our Sweater Coats from 75c up;
If You Doubt Our Splendid Value Giving.

Quick & Robertson
CLOTHING AND FURNISHING

IN AND ABOUT THE CITY

Condensed News Items for Busy Readers.

REGIMENTAL PARADE

The Fifteenth Regiment will have a parade this evening. After drilling in the Armouries the regiment will have a march out.

POLE BURNED

An electric light pole at the corner of Bridge and William streets, last night from some cause became ignited and burned briskly for some minutes. No damage resulted.

CHOIR HELD SOCIAL

At the close of choir rehearsal last night, the choir of John St. Presbyterian church had a social evening, at which they presented Miss Stork with a cameo ring. Miss Stork is leaving John St. Church to act as soloist at Bridge St. Church.

Watch for Ritchie's Special Saturday Night Bargain List in to-morrow's paper, page 8.

THE COMPANION IN CANADA

One of our Canadian subscribers writes us: "No other paper or magazine coming to our house is so highly prized as The Youth's Companion. It is welcomed by every member of the family—and our ages run from seven to eighty-seven."

Some of Canada's best-known writers of fiction are contributers to The Companion, besides many of the most prominent figures in politics and literature in the old country. The whole world is scoured for the best that is to be said of any subject of general interest.

The Boys' Own Page, the Girls' Own Page, the Family Page treating of farming, gardening, domestic economy, cookery, the use of tools, etc., the doctor's weekly health talk—these and a score of other features make The Companion almost indispensable when it has once found its way into a home

If you do not know The Companion, let us send you one or two current issues with the Forecast for 1915. Every new Canadian subscriber for 1915 who sends $2.25 for the fifty-two weekly issues of the paper for the remaining weeks of 1914; also The Companion Home Calendar for 1915

THE YOUTH'S COMPANION
141 Berkely Street, Boston, Mass.

New Subscriptions Received at this Office.

Womens' Rifle Club Shoot

The weekly shoot of the Women's Rifle Club was held in the Armouries on Thursday afternoon, eighteen members taking part. Under the very capable supervision of Mr. Douch, captain and champion of the Belleville Rifle Association. The following creditable scores were made. Conditions, 10 shots at 25 yards, invisable bulls eye—possible 100.

| | |
|---|---|
| Miss Ida Thompson | 98 |
| Mrs. Wheatley | 93 |
| Miss Herrington | 92 |
| Miss Faulkner | 91 |
| Miss V. McLean | 84 |
| Miss McCarthy | 82 |
| Miss H. Fraleck | 78 |
| Mrs. Sneyd | 78 |
| Miss Andrews | 77 |
| Miss Hurley | 76 |
| Miss J. Anderson | 71 |
| Miss Stewart Masson | 70 |
| Miss McDonnell | 66 |
| Miss S. Walton | 64 |
| Miss Anderson | 61 |
| Miss McQuaig | 59 |
| Miss Walton | 42 |
| Miss Campbell | 35 |

GAME OF BASKET-BALL

Yesterday afternoon the St. Agnes School ground was the scene of no little excitement when the St. Agnes basket-ball team contended for glory with the senior team of the Belleville High School. The victory went to the visitors, the score being 42 to 8 in favor of the High School girls. The line-up was as follows:

St. Agnes School—Forwards, Janey Jameson, Elisha Hill; centres, Helen Moore, Ina Hepburn; guards, Esme Elmer and Enid Fisher.

High School—Forwards, Fanny Curry, Norah Elliot; Centres, Mary Yeomans, Bessie Sayers; guards, Ruth Sinclair and Irene Boyle.

CAMP VALCARTIER

Oh whither, oh whither, oh whither away?
From mountain and prairie where speeding to-day?
Where Duty is calling—to Camp Valcartier,
Then up and away and far over the sea.
The Empire is menaced, she's calling for me,
For I am her valiant defender!

From city and hamlet we're speeding to-day
To join our brave comrades at Camp Valcartier;
Then over the ocean and into the fray.
How can we but follow where Duty shall lead?
The Empire is menaced! Today she has need
Of all her loyal defenders!

God speed you, brave soldiers at Camp Valcartier;
With music and laughter the parting is gay;
The heartache is hidden as "Farewell" we say
To husband and brother, to sweetheart and son,
The Empire is menaced, and she were undone
Without you, her gallant defenders!

—ELIZABETH ROLIT BURNS

First London Bus Ever Under Fire

Exhibited, Bullet-Scars and all, by its Proud Driver Back From Antwerp.

Promenaders in Park Lane, London, the other day had a fleeting glimpse of twenty London motor omnibuses which were among those used in transporting the Belgian and British troops from Antwerp just before the Germans entered that city. In single file the omnibuses tore along at terrific speed, occasionaly greeted by cheers. The spectators recognized them as Antwerp's veterans from the tattered Belgian and British flags flying above the drivers' seats and the warlike inscriptions which had been chalked on the sides in French and English by military passengers who had been transported through Belgium in them.

Each was manned by a chauffeur in khaki, but that these military looking men simply were ordinary 'bus pilots transformed into soldiers by the emergencies of the war became evident when one cumbersome vehicle halted abruptly so that its driver could engage in a brief exchange of Cockney badinage with an acquaintance at the wheel of a civilian 'bus which chanced to pass at the same moment.

A group of onlookers who gathered about the war conveyance noticed that it was marked by bullets. When questioned about it the chauffeur proudly said:

"Yessir; this is the first London 'bus to be fired on in the history of the world."

He added that it happened to be the last 'bus to cross the Scheldt, and became a target of the German advance guard entering Antwerp.

Football

FREE KICKS

Captain Sam Manson of the Hamilton Tigers has a cracked bone in one of his heels. A cracked bone in the heel is worth two in the head.

It looks as if Ottawa was in for a bad football season. Both teams have yet to win a game. Better results might have been obtained if they had but one team.

Toronto interest on Saturday will be centred on Montreal, where Argonauts will attempt to, and feel confident they will give the Wing Wheelers their first defeat of the season.

Bert Gilligan will be unable to play for Ottawa St. Patrick's at Hamilton on Saturday. He is teaching at Ottawa College and his duties will prevent him from getting away.

The members of the Carlisle Indian football elvven have elected Peter Calas as captain to succeed ex-Captain Elmer Busch. Calac is a Mission Indian, and like Busch, a Californian.

Billie Baillie is the only Montreal A.A.A. regular who came out of last Saturday's game with an injury. He has a sprained ankle, but will be ready for Saturday's game with Argos.

Can Isbister and Wigle of the Hamilton Tigers do a "come-back"? If they are successful the Hamiltonians will have a chance of realizing the long-cherished hope of beating the Ottawa team in the capital.

In an effort to strengthen his team, Jack Williams of the Ottawa St. Patrick's has lines out for two players attending the Ottawa College and also a line plunger from Gananoque. One of the Ottawa College players is a half-back and the other a wing man.

Stoves! Stoves! Stoves!

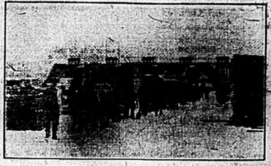
Before Buying, See Our Big Line Of

Quebec Heaters
Oak Stoves . . .
Base Burners, etc.

We have the Stove you want at the right price

SATISFACTION GUARANTEED

The John Lewis Co.
Limited
THE STOVE STORE



A Winter Scene in The Schuster Company's LUMBER and COAL YARD

BRIGHTEN UP
YOUR STOVES, STOVE PIPES, RADIATORS, Etc., with
The SHERWIN-WILLIAMS
Aluminum Paint
Looks better, lasts longest, goes farthest
25c tin
WATERS DRUG STORE

Cooling Beverages

Rey's Ale and Porter, O'Keefe's Special Mild Ale, Gold Label Ale, Lager and Stout; Carling's Ale and Porter, and Half and Half and Half; Dow's Ale and Porter; Dawe's Black Horse Ale; Molsons Ale and Porter; Regal Lager; Basses Ale; Guinness' Stout; Budweiser's Lager; Kegs of Ale, Lager and Porter.

W. A. RODBOURNE
Up-town Liquor Store
287 Front St. Phone 88
Orders delivered promptly to any part of the city

Don't Think Your Eyesight is good because you read the paper a yard from your eyes!

This is a sure sign that you have Presbyopia, and need Glasses to see clearly for close work.

Decide to-day to have me examine your eyes and prepare just the Lenses your eyes need to enable you to see without effort.

Alex. Ray
Eye Specialist

ARTHUR McGIE
Merchant Tailor

Our New Fall Stock of Imported Suitings and Overcoatings now in stock in all latest designs.

You are invited to inspect our stock.

ARTHUR McGIE
288 Front Street

Every Morning

| | |
|---|---|
| Flour Scones | 10c. per doz. |
| Tea Biscuits | 10c. per doz. |
| Graham Gems | 10c. per doz. |
| Currant Buns | 10c. per doz. |
| Butter Buns | 12c. per doz. |
| Chelsie Buns | 12c. per doz. |
| Vanilla Buns | 15c. per doz. |
| Bath Buns | 15c. per doz. |

and others, delivered in time for lunch.

Ed. F. Dickens & Son
Phone 170

GET THE
F. SANDERSON CO'S
GENUINE
SCRANTON
COAL
BELLEVILLE

A SAVING PROBLEM

Pure Clinkerless, Well Screened Coal.
"The coal of perfect satisfaction."
Office, 42 Bridge St. Phone 231a
Yard Office, S. Front St. Phone 231b

MARRIAGE LICENSES

Marriage Licenses issued by P. Harrison at The Intelligencer Office, or at residence, Lewis Street.

S. A. HYMAN & CO.

Hyman's Bargains

It's Your Opportunity To Take Fullest Advantage Of These Specials SATURDAY

| | |
|---|---|
| Men's Combination Underwear, fine light-weight wool. Regular price $1.75; Saturday, | $1.25 |
| Men's Cashmere Sox, colors tan and black. Regular 25c and 35c values; Saturday, | 19c |
| Men's Ties, best quality silk, newest flowing end shapes, Regular price 50c; Saturday, | 35c |
| Men's Tweed Hats, the newest Balmacan styles, latest patterns. Regular $2.00; Saturday, | $1.50 |
| Men's Best Grade Knit Ties, all the newest colors. Regular 50c values; Saturday, | 25c |
| Men's Tweed Caps, the newest checks and stripe patterns. Regular 75c and $1.00 qualities; Saturday, | 50c |
| Best quality Lisle Web Arm Bands. Regular 25c; Saturday, | 19c |

S. A. Hyman & Co.
242 FRONT STREET

At our Window.

The little ones enjoying the

BARLER "IDEAL" HEATER

$4.00, $5.00, $6.50

THE SMITH HARDWARE CO.
PLUMBING—HEATING
MOTOR CYCLES
314 FRONT ST. PHONE 204

HAVE THE INTELLIGENCER SENT TO YOUR HOME ADDRESS

The Rexall Store
IF QUALITY COUNTS GET IT AT McKEOWN'S
McKEOWN'S DRUGS
TO SAVE MONEY GET IT AT McKEOWN'S

SATURDAY SPECIALS

EXTRA SPECIAL

One of our regular guaranteed 25c. Tooth Brushes FREE with the purchase of a 25c. tin of Rexall Tooth Paste or Powder. Both for .... 25c

Patent Medicines

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| $1 | Syrup Hypophosphites | 49c. |
| $1 | Beef, Iron & Wine | 49c. |
| $1 | Wine of Cod Liver Oil | 50c. |
| $1 | Scott's Emulsion | 75c. |
| $1 | Pinkham's Compound | 75c. |
| 50c. | Scott's Emulsion | 40c. |
| 60c. | Chase's Syrup | 49c. |
| 25c. | Chase's Syrup | 17c. |
| 25c. | Syrup White Pine 2 for | 23c. |
| 25c. | Fluid Magnesia | 17c. |
| 25c. | Abbey's Salt | 20c. |
| 25c. | Bromo Seltzer | 20c. |
| 10c. | Bromo Seltzer | 7c. |
| $1 | Burdock Blood Bitters | 69c. |
| 50c. | Zam-Buk Ointment | 38c. |
| 25c. | Mentholatum | 18c. |
| 25c. | Perfect Worm Powders | 17c. |
| 60c. | Chase's Ointment | 45c. |
| 50c. | Lithia Tablets | 35c. |
| 25c. | Baby's Own Tablets | 16c. |
| 25c. | Carter's Pills | 15c. |
| 25c. | Chase's Pills | 16c. |
| 25c. | Hamilton's Pills | 18c. |

Cigar Specials

4 FOR 25c.
La Preferencia, Irvings, Maritanas, Japs, Colonials, Sir William.

5 FOR 25c.
Grey Horse, Official Seal, Garcias, Clear Havanas.

Rexall Goods are Made in Canada and are Not Costing You a Cent More than Before the War.

And what is more, a portion of every Rexall purchase goes to swell the Canadian Patriotic Fund being raised by The Rexall Stores of Canada, 100 of the Best Drug Stores in Canada.

Full list of Rexall Toilet Goods, Rexall Remedies, and other Rexall merchandise free at this store. Get one and you'll realise how easy you can help and how much you can help relieve the suffering caused by the war and at the same time help Canadian Industry as well, by purchasing Rexall Goods at this store or any other Rexall Store in Canada.

50c lb.
Saturday Candy
29c
(Fresh to-day)

Stationery Specials

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| 35c. | lb. Cascade Linen paper | 25c. |
| 50c. | boxes Paper and Envelopes | 29c. |
| 25c. | boxes Paper and Envelopes | 19c. |
| 25c. | Writing Tablets | 19c. |
| 10c. | Envelopes | 5c. |
| 15c. | Writing Tablets 2 for | 15c |
| 5c. | Lead Pencils 2 for | 5c. |

Special

25c. Bottles Essence of Vanilla .... 17c

EXTRA SPECIAL

A large 10c. Wash Cloth FREE with the purchase of a 25c. tin of Rexall Talcum Powder.

Patent Medicines

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| 50c. | Williams' Pink Pills | 35c. |
| 25c. | Nerviline | 17c. |
| 25c. | Thomas' Electric Oil | 15c. |
| 25c. | Pain Killer | 18c. |
| 50c. | Dodd's Pills | 35c. |
| 50c. | Chase's Nerve Food | 35c. |
| 50c. | Gin Pills | 25c. |
| 50c. | Fruitatives | 34c. |
| 100 | Blaud's Iron Pills | 12c. |
| 50c. | Parisian Sage | 39c. |
| 50c. | Florida Water | 40c. |
| 25c. | Witch Hazel | 17c. |
| $1 | Hay's Hair Health | 75c. |
| $1 | Herpicide | 69c. |
| 50c. | Sage and Sulphur | 40c. |
| 25c. | Hydrogen Peroxide | 15c. |
| 40c. | Hydrogen Peroxide | 25c. |
| 75c. | Hydrogen Peroxide | 50c. |

Extra Specials

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| $1 | Rubber Gloves | 49c. |
| 25c. | Dressing Combs | 19c. |
| $1 | Hair Brushes | 47c. |
| 35c. | box French Toilet Soap | 25c. |
| 75c. | oz. Rose Leaves Perfume | 49c. |
| 2 lbs. | Genuine Castile Soap | 20c. |
| 25c. | Winter Cream | 17c. |
| $1.50 | Hot Water Bottle | 79c. |
| $1.25 | Fountain Syringes | 69c. |
| 75c. | Shaving Brushes | 49c. |
| 25c. | Almond Cream | 17c. |
| 35c | Hudnut's Cold Cream | 25c |
| 40c. | Whisks | 25c. |

CLASSIFIED ADVERTISEMENTS

Advertisements under this head, 25 words or less, 25 cents for each insertion, and one cent for each additional word; 4 insertions 75 cents; 6 insertions, $1.00, invariably in advance. This rate applies to all except advertisements for Auction Sales, which will be published at two cents per word. Count 8 marks and (38) figure's as one word each.

SITUATIONS WANTED—FEMALE

CAPABLE DOMESTICS — GOOD REFERences—Scotch, Irish and English, arriving almost weekly. Apply 183 Gerrard Street East, Toronto, and 71 Drummond Street, Montreal.

TO RENT

TWO SIX ROOMED DWELLINGS, CORNER Bridge and Dufferin Streets, and two five roomed flats and a two roomed flat. Apply Dr. Caldwell. o1-dtf

A FURNISHED SITTING ROOM AND bed room with hot water heating and electric light, with or without meals. Will rent bed room separately if desired. Apply to Box L. Intelligencer. 20-6td

ROOMS TO LET OVER UNION BANK; Hot water heated. Suitable for offices, workrooms or light housekeeping. Burrows of Belleville. 20-6td

TWO ROOMS TO LET; CONVENIENCES; low rent. 47 Charlotte Street. 20-4td

HOUSE ON CATHERINE STREET. MODern conveniences. Apply to F. O. Diamond, Grocer, W. Bridge. 21-4td

SEVEN ROOMED HOUSE ON OCTAVIA Street. Rent $10 per month, including city water and garbage collection. Apply W. H. Panter. 23-2td

WANTED

YOUR ORDERS FOR SILVER PLATING. Write for price list. Belleville Plating Works, 267 1-2 Front Street. o14-d1m

J. L. R. GORMAN

REAL ESTATE AND INSURANCE

Office over Dominion Bank

Phones:

Office 603 Residence 534

We Specialize in City Property

Ice Cream

We have ICE CREAM Every Day

Hot or cold, rain or shine.

We can send it to you in bulk, bricks, or individual fancy moulds.

Chas. S. Clapp

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTHWEST LAND REGULATIONS.

The sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years old, may homestead a quarter-section of available Dominion land in Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta. Applicant must appear in person at the Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-Agency for the District. Entry by proxy may be made at any Dominion Lands Agency (but not Sub-Agency) on certain conditions.

Duties—Six months residence upon and cultivation of the land in each of three years. A homesteader may live within nine miles of his homestead on a farm of at least 80 acres, on certain conditions. A habitable house is required except where residence is performed in the vicinity.

In certain districts a homesteader in good standing may pre-empt a quarter-section alongside his homestead. Price $3.00 per acre.

Duties—Six months residence in each of three years after earning homestead patent; also 50 acres extra cultivation. Preemption patent may be obtained as soon as homestead patent, on certain conditions.

A settler who has exhausted his homestead right may take a purchased homestead in certain districts. Price $3.00 per acre. Duties—Must reside six months in each of three years, cultivate 50 acres and erect a house worth $300.

The area of cultivation is subject to reduction in case of rough, scrubby or stony land. Live stock may be substituted for cultivation under certain conditions.

W. W. CORY, C.M.G.,
Deputy of the Minister of the Interior.

N.B.—Unauthorised publication of this advertisement will not be paid for.—64388

DIGGING UP THE VETERAN PLAYERS

OTTAWA, Oct. 22.—Jack Ryan will be on the Ottawa's Football club's line for Saturday's game against the Hamilton team. He turned out yesterday afternoon and resumed the position which he has occupied for the last five seasons. Ryan rowed with the Ottawas this summer and is in fairly good condition. He will be a big improvement over any of the men that the Senators have yet tried out on the end. It is not yet known whether or not Bert Stronch will be available. He has not been to practice since the first game with the Montreal team, in which he injured his left knee. He has been ordered to quit football. But the executive is anxious to score a win over the Tigers, and Stronach may be prevailed upon to return.

Don Brophy has an injured knee and was an absentee. It is not likely that he will play against the Tigers. McCann will be moved from flying wing, and placed at his old position at right half, in the event of Brophy not being able to get into the game. He has generally been a dangerous man in the games against the Tigers, hence the proposed shift. Abelson has recovered and was at left outside again yesterday. All the others came through the Montreal game fairly well, though Boucher and Conyers were battered upon the face.

President Eddie Phillips will appoint his officials to-day. It is likely that Pud Kent and Billit Foulds, who officiated in the Ottawa-Montreal game last Saturday, will take charge affairs here, while the Montreal-Argos game will be in charge of Phillips himself and Tom Clancy. Much difficulty had been experienced in getting another Ottawa man to act with Clancy. Dr. Sheriff, George Church and Jack Williams withdrew, and the club suggested that Phillips appoint himself.

FOR SALE

A TOP BUGGY AND CUTTER IN GOOD condition. Also 2 lots. Apply 255 Foster Avenue. o21-4td

GOOD COAL HEATER FOR SALE AT 24 E. Moira. 1t

LADIES' PERSIAN LAMB COAT; NEW, good style; size thirty-six; a bargain; for particulars address Box G, Intelligencer. 23-2td

PERSONAL

DR. MARSHALL'S OFFICE REMOVED TO Angus McFee's Block, 216½ Front Street. s11:d&w2m

SYNOPSIS OF COAL MINING REGULATIONS

Coal mining rights of the Dominion, in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, the Yukon Territory, the North-West Territories and in a portion of the Province of British Columbia, may be leased for a term of twenty-one years at an annual rental of $1 an acre. Not more than 2,560 acres will be leased to one applicant.

Application for a lease must be made by the applicant in person to the Agent or Sub-Agent of the district in which the rights applied for are situated.

In surveyed territory the land must be described by sections, or legal sub-divisions of sections, and in unsurveyed territory the tract applied for shall be staked by the applicant himself.

Each application must be accompanied by a fee of $5 which will be refunded if the rights applied for are not available, but not otherwise. A royalty shall be paid on the merchantable output of the mine at the rate of five cents per ton.

The person operating the mine shall furnish the Agent with sworn returns accounting for the full quantity of merchantable coal mined and pay the royalty thereon. If the coal mining rights are not being operated, such returns should be furnished at least once a year.

The lease will include the coal mining rights only, but the lessee may be permitted to purchase whatever available surface rights may be considered necessary for the working of the mine at the rate of $10.00 an acre.

For full information application should be made to the Secretary of the Department of the Interior, Ottawa, or to any Agent or Sub-Agent of Dominion Lands.

W. W. CORY,
Deputy Minister of the Interior.

N. B.—Unauthorized publication of this advertisement will not be paid for.—30690 dtf

Strikes Terror To Enemy's Heart

French Guerilla Warfare Doing Effective Work in Forest Fighting

Near Boncourt, on the Swiss-Alsatian frontier, Oct. 22.—A German officer's letter published in the Beurgerfreud (passage deleted by the censor) of Maulbronne, says:—

"Fighting in the forest, fighting on the mountains—these words mean for us terror and spectres. First, terror, for the enemy is always invisible. Second, sorcerers are on every side. Third, we are fired on from every point. Fourth, there is lack of all contact. No company knows whether it is in line with the others, or already in the midst of the enemy. Fifth, the worst, is being shot by one's own troops.

"We take the greatest precautions, but groups of the enemy interpose between our troops frequently. The French never show more than groups from ten to fifty men, who are everywhere and nowhere.

"In the dark of the evening, four or five of them will rush out as if possessed, yelling and firing rapidly. We think it a serious attack. Then they disappear. This kind of warfare would be our despair if the French had grey-green uniforms; it would be difficult to distinguish them in the forest.

"In a part of their line they have chasseurs, an Alpine troop (passage deleted by censor) well trained. They creep noiselessly among the bushes. We do not hear even a whispered command. Suddenly they are on us like wild beasts. After one of these attacks we are always in terror of another.'

The average woman likes to talk about her neighbors almost as well as the average man likes to talk about himself.

Canadian Vessels Escape Germans

No Loss Has Been Suffered by Owners as Result of Was

OTTAWA, Oct. 23.—Special—That not a single Canadian ship has suffered capture or loss as a result of the war, and that the total effect of the outbreak of hostilities on Canadian shipping has been small was the statement made by Deputy Minister of Naval Service Desbarats to-day.

The greater part of Canadian shipping, of course, is engaged in navigation on the Great Lakes or the coasting trade. However, many Canadian vessels voyage between Canadian and South American ports, and also engage in the fish trade with Portugal. The effect of the war on all this has been comparatively small, and, as stated, Canadian ships have so far escaped damage from German cruisers, either on the Pacific or Atlantic. Some 6,000 ocean-going Canadian vessels enter and clear at Canadian ports yearly. Of course, they run the risk shared by British vessels, but the war risk insurance scheme of the British Government, in which they participate, greatly minimizes the effect of this as a deterrent. As far as can be learned, Canadian shippers are generally availing themselves of the scheme under which they are granted its benefits on condition that they follow the directions of the Admiralty as to routes to take and precautions to be observed entering and leaving port.

Nothing definite has lately been heard of the Leipzig, Carlshruhe, Nuremberg and other German cruisers, which were recently in Canadian waters. A close watch is being kept for them, and it is not anticipated they will be able to do much further damage.

Given Seat By Acclamation

ST. THOMAS, Oct. 22—Hon. Finlay G. Macdiarmid, Minister of Public Works, was to-day re-elected by acclamation by the electors of West Elgin, no opposition being offered at his nomination at Dutton to-day. At the after-meeting addresses were given by Mr. Macdiarmid; T. W. McGarry, M.P.P., Renfrew; Hon. T. W. Crothers, Minister of Labor; P. H. Bowyer, ex-M.P.P., Ridgetown; Mayor Johnson, Ald. Meehan and Dr. Guest, St. Thomas, and Dr. Brock, West Lorne.

KAISER TO BLAME.

His Insistence On Advance Responsible For Plight of Forces.

LONDON, Oct. 23. — The Danish press is authority for a story that Emperor William and his generals had a severe disagreement after the battle of the Marne. In the face of all military precedent and common sense, with the right flank seriously threatened, he insisted on an advance and a general debacle was only avoided by noncompliance with the Kaiser's order.

When the haughty German war lord was told of the retreat of the Prussian Guard at Vitry-le-Francois, he is reported to have said: "That and Gen. von Hausen still living? A Samurai would have acted otherwise." This phrase is said to have sunk into the hearts of the German commanders and to have aroused profound misgivings over the future, each man feeling that his imperial master would sacrifice both commander and men as the merest slaves to carry out one of his own ideas.

Why Roquefort Is Strong.

Roquefort cheese gets its sharp flavor from caproic, caprylic and capric acids and their salts, which are formed by a sort of hydrolysis of the fat during the ripening period. This change is caused by a microbe called Penicillium roqueforti. These acids have a peppery taste.

Draining Doughnuts.

A pair of long wooden knitting needles are most excellent for draining doughnuts. As the doughnuts are fried slip them on a needle, and when it is full rest it on the top of a pan to cool. The doughnuts do not crush, and the lard drains off.

Melting the Heart of Anger.

Is thy friend angry with thee? Then provide him an opportunity of showing thee a great favor. Over that his heart must needs melt, and he will love thee again.—Richter.

Glazed Tiles.

The making of glazed tiles or "azulejos" is the only ancient Valencian industry which has retained its importance through centuries up to the present day.

Safe and Sure

should be your relief from indigestion, biliousness, or constipation. Known to be reliable and famous for their prompt and certain efficacy—are

Beecham's Pills

Largest Sale of Any Medicine in the World. Sold everywhere. In boxes, 25 cents

THE RITCHIE COMPANY, LIMITED THE RITCHIE COMPANY, LIMITED

THe Problem Of a FALL And WINTER SUIT Was Solved When We Announced Our Great

Clearing Sale Of LADIES' And MISSES' SUITS

This is an offering which has had few if any precedents. True, we have offered many Suit Bargains in former seasons, but none have been so liberal and extensive as the present one. We have decided on a general clearance of all the season's suits—hence the drastic reductions. See Windows.

SPECIAL BARGAINS From the MILLINERY PARLORS

Pattern Hats at Reduced Prices

We have in stock about 20 imported pattern hats, all "chic" models, that were imported direct from Paris at the beginning of the season. They are in velvet and feathers, trimmed with the newest flowers and mounts. These we are going to clear out during this and the coming week at the following sacrifices;—

5 Hats, reg. $15.00, for $10.00 each
6 Hats, reg. $12.50, for 9.75 each
8 Hats, reg. $9.00, for 6.00 each

Regular $3.00 and $3.50 Untrimmed Felt Shapes On Sale at $1.00

All up to the minute shapes are represented in this lot in shades of navy, Alice, brown, old rose, red, taupe, etc.; worth regularly as high as $3.50; clearing at ........... $1.00 each

LADIES' AND MISSES' HIGH GRADE SUITS THAT SOLD

Regularly as high as $15.00, Now Selling at $7.50

What more reasonable price could one expect to pay for a Fall and Winter Suit than this remarkably low price? especially when they are in such fashionable materials as Serges, Cheviots and Fancy Tweeds, in shades of Blue, Tan, Grey and Black. About fourteen suits in the lot that are mostly plain tailored, and very suitable for present or future wear. The sizes run from 34 to 40, and if there is a garment in the lot that will fit you, it will be an exceptional bargain? At any rate come in and see them and have a trial fitting; you will indeed be surprised at the remarkable price reductions. Regularly to $15.00, for ........................ $7.50

HANDSOME SUITS FOR THE LADIES AND MISSES THAT

In the usual way Sold as high as $22.50 now clearing at $10.00

The garments in this lot are exceedingly smart, and being mostly plain tailored with three-quarter length coats, you are assured of a suit strictly up to the minute in style, while the materials are all new, such as plain Serges, Cheviots, Boucle, Tweeds, Ratines, and one Corduroy Velvet, in shades of Grey, Brown, Tan, Taupe, Navy, Black, Black Stripes, and Black and White Checks. Very fe wo fthem are fancy suits, although a few of them have pleated skirts and coats trimmed with braid.

Ladies' and Misses' sizes are represented, from 34 to 40, and they sold in the regular way as high as $22.50, but we have reduced them to clear quickly at ........... $10.00

ABOUT 20 LADIES' AND MISSESFA SHIONABLE' SUITS

Worth up to $30.00 now Reduced to Clear at $14.50

Even if you had not thought of a new suit this fall, these remarkable bargains will undoubtedly prompt you to quick action, as these Suits are in very fashionable styles, the Suit Coats three-quarter cut-away effect, some trimmed with moire and velvet collars, and all lined with "Skinner's Satin," while the skirts are mostly all plain tailored.

The materials represented are Bedford Cords, Cheviots, Diagonal Serges, Plain Serges and Poplins, in shades of Black, Navy, Copenhagen, Tan, Grey, Purple and Black and White Stripe. The sizes of these garments range from 36 to 40 inches, and sold regularly as high as $30.00, but for quick clearance we have reduced them to only ...... $14.50

LADIES' AND MISSES' UP-TO-THE-MINUTE SUITS

Marked formerly to Sell up to $35.00, Clearing now at $18.50

Every suit is a this season's garment, which means that the Suit Coats are cut in the very latest style, and Skirts in plain tailored and tunic style, while others are in the pleated effects; made up in such popular materials as Bedford Cords, Brocades, Mahogany, Brown, Dark Navy, Black and White and Brown and White Checks, Black, Greys and Colored Tweed Mixtures. Sizes from 16 to 42, and about 18 in the lot that sold regularly at as high as $35.00, clearing at .................. $18.50

FURNITURE UPHOLSTERING

We make a specialty of furniture upholstering, and if you will call phone 451a we will send a man and give you an estimate on your needs.

The Ritchie Company Limited

CITY AND VICINITY

Martin Orme Piano, $200.00; $10.00 cash and $6.00 per month. Goodsell's Music Store. 23-24

AT-HOME BALL, BANQUET, and Private Invitation Cards—new lines at The Intelligencer Job Dept. See these. Prices right.

We have it in sheet music, "It's a Long Way to Tipperary." Goodsell's Music Store. 23-24

The last C.P.R. Homeseekers' Excursion this season, leaves Belleville, October 27th. Burrows of Belleville, C.P.R. Agent. 23-3t

Williams' Upright Piano, $150.00; $10.00 cash and $6.00 per month. Goodsell's Music Store. 23-24

FRESH CANDIES FOR SATURDAY

Chewing Taffy, 20c. per lb.; Peanut Crips, 15c. per lb.; Humbugs, 15c. per lb.; Cream Wafers 30c. per lb.; Marabone, 30c. per lb. and others. Not how cheap we can make them, but how good. Ed. F. Dickens & Son. Phone 170. 23-3,32t

Painting, Glazing, Graining, Paper Hanging, High Class Decorating. John Cornelius, 12 Victoria Ave. Leave order in letter box. 23-3t

The question of how to collect a tax so that no one will notice it is one of the oldest known to civilized man.

Tenders Wanted

TENDERS for Bread and Milk to be supplied to the Hospital and Home for the Friendless for one year, commencing November 1st, 1914. Milk to be delivered twice daily when necessary. Lowest or any tender not necessarily accepted. Tender to be sent in by Oct. 30th to

MRS. W. C. MIKEL,
Rec. Sec'y. W.C.A
22-3td 285 Charles Street, Belleville.

Tenders Wanted

TENDERS will be received by the undersigned up to and including the 27th day of October, 1914, for repairs on the Ontario House, this city.

The highest or any tender not necessarily accepted. Specifications may be seen at this address.

22-5td THE PRINGLE CO.

PARTY OF NURSES MURDERED AT MONS

INNISFALL, Alta., Oct. 22.—Mr. D. R. Evans, teacher of the Spruce View School, Markerville, has just received intelligence that his sister, a Red Cross nurse, has been a victim of the war in Europe.

Miss Evans in company with several other nurses, left England for the front, shortly after the outbreak of hostilities. A cablegram gave the intelligence that Miss Evans was dead, having been shot by the Germans.

There appears to have been seven or eight nurses in the party who were brutally murdered by the Germans at Mons, Miss Evans being among the slain.

CLIP $5.00 THIS

ILLUSTRATED BIBLE

HISTORICAL EDUCATIONAL DESCRIPTIVE

CERTIFICATE

PRESENTED TO YOU BY THE

INTELLIGENCER, OCT. 23

ABRAHAM LINCOLN SAID: "NO LIBRARY IS COMPLETE WITHOUT TWO CERTAIN BOOKS—THE BIBLE AND SHAKESPEARE; HARDLY A QUOTATION USED IN LITERATURE THAT IS NOT TAKEN FROM ONE OF THESE WORKS."

The above Certificate with 5 others of consecutive dates

Entitles bearer to this $5.00 Illustrated Bible

If presented at the office of this newspaper, together with the stated amount that covers the necessary EXPENSE items of this great distribution—including clerk hire, cost of packing, checking, express from factory, etc., etc.

MAGNIFICENT ILLUSTRATED $5 Edition of the BIBLE (like illustration in announcements from day to day) is bound in full flexible limp leather, with overlapping covers and title stamped in gold, with numerous full-page plates in color from the world famous Tissot collection, together with six hundred superb pictures graphically illustrating and making plain the verse in the light of modern Biblical knowledge and research. The text conforms to the authorized edition, is self-pronouncing, with copious marginal references, maps and helps; printed on thin bible paper, flat opening at all pages; beautiful, readable type. 6 Consecutive Free Certificates and the $1.18 Amount EXPENSE Items

The $3 ILLUSTRATED BIBLE is exactly the same as the $5 book, except in the style of binding, which is in silk cloth; contains all of the illustrations and maps. 6 consecutive free certificates and the 81c Amount EXPENSE Items

Also an Edition for Catholics

Through an exclusive arrangement, we have been most fortunate in securing the Catholic Bible, Douay Version, endorsed by Cardinal Gibbons and Archbishop (now Cardinal) Farley, as well as by the various Archbishops of the country. The illustrations consist of the full-page plates and maps approved by the Church, without the Tissot and text pictures. It will be distributed in the same bindings as the Protestant books and at the same Amount Expense Items, with the necessary Free Certificates.

Any Book by Mail, 23 Cents Extra for Postage.

According to a German newspaper, the capture of Antwerp is the first step in carrying the war into England. The second step, however, will be the destruction of the British navy, and this is likely to be a long one.

He is a wise candidate who sticks to his regular job until he gets into office.

Twelve Pages

The Daily Intelligencer

Pages 9 To 12

LET THERE BE HARMONY IN THINGS ESSENTIAL—LIBERTY IN THINGS NOT ESSENTIAL—CHARITY IN ALL.

Vol. 48 BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO, FRIDAY, OCTOBER 23, 1914. No. 142

ANTWERP, CITY OF DIKES PRIZE IN MANY CONFLICTS

Rich City and Seaport Has Been Taken Many Times in the Wars of the Past--History of Her Forts--Outer Ring Hastily Finished When Present War Began--Graft Hinted at in This Construction

Antwerp, the city of dikes, once surpassed Venice, the city of lagoons, in its commercial importance. Just as Venice was the clearing house between Southern Europe and the Levant, so Antwerp was the clearing house for the products of Central Europe, the British Isles, and the Spanish Main. Although it has had an art of its own—almost a culture—the city has always remained true to the significance of its name, "Aan't Werp"—"at the wharf."

Under the protection of the Emperor Charles V. the city rose in the middle of the sixteenth century to be the most prosperous and wealthy on the Continent. Vessels from every part of the world lay in the Scheldt and the great fairs held in the city attracted merchants from Russia and beyond. At one time over 1000 commercial firms had their agents in the city. Besides being a clearing house Antwerp had goods of its own to dispose of—Flemish carpets, cloths, and gold and silver ornaments and the work of her artists.

Like Venice, Antwerp was the envy of all Europe and first one country and then another sought an excuse to take the city by force. In 1566 the Duke of Alva's courts expelled thousands of "her native merchants and turned their business over to the Spaniards. Ten years later the Spanish soldiers were turned loose in the city and burned and pillaged. Nine years later still came the siege of fourteen months and the city's final capture by the Duke of Parma. During these disasters the place not only lost most of its commerce, but most of its population, which dwindled from 125,000 in 1568 to 40,000 twenty years lateer.

What Antwerp lost the Dutch gained and in 1648 the final blow was delivered—the Peace of Westphalia closed the Scheldt to sea-going vessels.

Napoleon I. recognized the importance of Antwerp as a strategic base, and during his dominance of the Low Countries rebuilt its wharves and revived its commerce. His general, Carnot, defended it against the Allies in 1814, but was finally forced to surrender it to the British General Graham. The Congress of Vienna the next year incorporated it with the country lying south in the kingdom of the Neverlands, and then, in 1830, it was claimed by the newly established kingdom of Belgium, not, however, without being bombarded by the Dutch under Chasse, who in his turn was bombarded then by the French.

Restored to Belgium in 1832 the city gradually recovered its commerce, although again and again the Dutch closed the Scheldt to its trade.

HAD REGAINED ITS PLACE

At the outbreak of the war its population even surpassed in numbers its Golden Period being 400,000; it had again become a great mart binding central Europe to the rest of the world! its ancient industries had revived and to them had been added diamond cutting, cigar making, lace making, sugar refining, brewing and distilling.

The Cathedral, the largest and most beautiful Gothic church in the Low Countries, was removed from the direct German assault, being in the northwestern part of the town. It was begun in 1352, but its final pinnacle was not finished until 1592. Its architects were successively Jean Aurel, of Boulogne, and his son, Peter; Jean Tae, Master Everaert, who built the chapels, the sacristies and the tower up to the first gallery; and Herman de Waghemaker, and his son Dominic, whose skill is to be seen in the dome and the upper part of the north tower. The church is cruciform in shape, with triple aisles and ambulatory.

Thrice has the church narrowly escaped fire by zealots; in 1533, at the hands of the Spaniards; in 1566, at the hands of Puritans, and in 1794 at the hands of French republicans. Its injuries, a constant eyesore to the city, have never been entirely repaired. Most of the art treasures were removed before the bombardment, notably Ruben's "Elevation of the Cross," painted in 1610.

The palais de Justice, said to have been first injured by a Zeppelin bomb, is at the end of the Avenue de l'Industries, which runs from the southwest corner of the city toward the centre, where it joins the Avenue des Arts, just west of the park and lake which are exactly in the centre. The Palace de Justice was erected in 1871-75 by Backelmans with French Second Empire style interior and an exterior resembling the chateaux period of Louis XIII.

The Avenue de l'Industrie, which appears to have been a greater sufferer than the Avenue des Arts, has upon it, or near it, the church of St. Michel et Pierre, the Musee Royal and the Banque Nationale.

On August 17, while the final forts at Liege were falling, and just a week before the unlooked-for capitulation of Namur was announced, the Belgian Government removed from Brussels to Antwerp. The former, after some resistance, was evacuated on August 20. In the last days of August a feint was made by a German army against Antwerp, but the attack was repulsed by the Belgians.

Comparative quiet and security, disturbed only by visits from Zeppelins, reigned in Antwerp for a month, while the Belgians made sortie after sortie against the German lines of communication, which were bearing supplies and reinforcements to the German right wing in France.

ATTACKED ON SEPT. 29.

On Sept. 29 the Germans moved on Antwerp in force. By Oct. [illegible] it was reported that three army corps were engaged in the projected investment. Last Monday the town of Malines, thirty miles south of Antwerp, fell. Two days later Forts Waelhem and Wavre were taken—annihilated, it was reported, by the huge howitzers of the enemy. These forts were on the southern outer line of defense. On Thursday two more forts fell, Kessel and Broechem, on the eastern outer line, together with their approaches, Forts Lierre and Konigshoyckt. The assault on the inner line was followed on Friday by the bombardment of the city.

The history of the Antwerp defenses is interesting because Konigshoyckt, Lierre, Kessel, Broechem and Oleghem, although laid out eight years ago, and even palnned many years earlier, were not completed when the present war came.

As early as 1859 Antwerp, the principal port of Belgium, although approached by the River Scheldt from the sea through Holland, was officially chosen as the military capital of the kingdom. In the following year the inner line of forts, on the south and east, known by numbers running from 1 to 8, designed by the French engineer, Gen. Brialmont, was completed. Later, the inner line was completed on the west—the left bank of the Scheldt—with Forts de Cruybeke, de Zwyndrecht and three directly opposite the town called Tete de Flandre.

According to Gen. Brialmont, the defense of the country comprised three stages—a fight around Liege or Namur, a battle south or east of Brussels, and finally the siege of Antwerp, defended by her garrison, reinforced by the retiring field army. Events have proved that he was a good prophet.

OUTER FORTS DECIDED UPON.

But the Franco-Prussian war and the progress of siege artillery showed that Brialmont's inner ring of forts, with advanced lunettes, was not sufficient. In 1900, a military commission insisted that his work be developed outward. It was pointed out that the advanced line, in spite of the flooding of art of its area, was far from complete, a gap of more than fifteen miles being left open to an enemy toward the east, between Schooten and Lierre. It was also noticed that the second line could not have resisted a prolonged bombardment, and that the enciente had acocrdingly become useless.

The report of the commission was acted on by the Chamber in 1906, and it was decided to complete the first line by the construction of thirty forts and redoubts, to transform the second line to an "enciente continue," and to demolish the walls. The expense of this work, which was to be completed by January, 1913, amounted to $20,000,000.

Only part of this programme is known to have been carried out, and when the Agadir crisis came in August, 1911, the Government was severely censured in the Chamber for not having completed the works. Graft was hinted at, and Gen. van Sprang, who commanded the place, admitted that in case of an attack he would have to abandon the first line.

According to Gen. van Sprang's convictions, with the outer line complete it would require an invading army one month with at least 200,000 men to make a mere preliminary investment of the town, whose outer lines could easily be defended with an army of form 80,000 to 100,000 men.

The advantage of attacking fortresses by high-angle firing with howitzers will at once be obvious when it is understood that the attacking force, when once it has got the range, can constantly change its position without losing it, while the guns of a fort have not this advantage and must discover the new range of the enemy with each change of his position. This is why ships attack a fort they seek a "pied a terre" for howitzers as soon as possible in order to save themselves from forcing the issue by direct fire with the fort.

The WAR and the Canadian Pacific

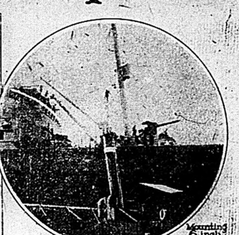
A transcontinental railway, with ample facilities, is a great asset in time of war. The reason why Canada has been able to help the Mother Country so expeditiously with supplies in the present crisis is because Canada's rail connections are so comprehensive.

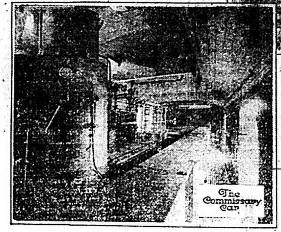
The commissary car which sprang into existence at the first call to Valcartier Camp testifies in no small measure as to the eagerness with which Canadians rose to assist Britain.

This new car of which the C.P.R. Dining Car Department had had ten constructed, is a perfectly appointed hotel kitchen on wheels. With the greatest facility from five to six hundred men can be fed by means of these cars three times a day. Along one side are ranged a big steam boiler, great cooking kettles, steam ovens, and a cooking range, in addition to half a dozen of the most modern contrivances for the operation of the culinary art on a large scale. At one end is a perfectly appointed ice box or cold storage plant.

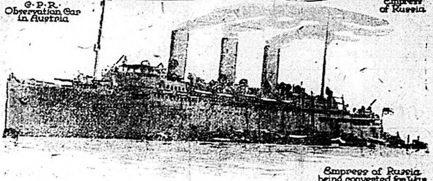
C.P.R. Observation Car in Austria



Mounting 6 inch Guns on Empress of Russia



The Commissary Car



Empress of Russia being converted for War at Hong Kong

It was no small testimony to the speed and seaworthiness of the Canadian Pacific fleet on the Pacific waters when the British admiralty requisitioned the whole of it as soon as war broke out. The newest vessels—the "Empress of Asia" and "Empress of Russia"—have been converted into armed cruisers, and the accompanying photographs show the "Empress of Asia" in Hong Kong painted the regulation grey and fitted out with 6-inch guns.

The picture in the centre of the layout is from a painting by Cyrus Cuneo, a well known Italian artist, shows a number of tourists on an observation car operated by the C.P.R. until the Government of Austria confiscated the cars. The reason assigned for this action was that the Company had refused to pay the dividend of the Austrian shareholders.

Desiring to attract American travel, the Austrian Government decided to put Observation Cars on certain express trains, and turned to the Canadian Pacific Railway, which builds its own cars at the shops in Montreal, where the Company turns out an attractive type of car, peculiarly adapted for similar mountain scenery in the Canadian Rockies. The Canadian Pacific undertook, not only to supply and design, but also to operate these Observation Cars for five years, the third of which has been interrupted by the war.

In selecting the 6,000 extra laborers to whom work has been offered, the C.P.R. has taken care to see that this relief is only given those races which are fighting on the side of the Allies in the present war. The foreigners have to provide a consular certificate proving their country of origin, as this extra employment was naturally not intended for either Austrians or Germans. As the Russian reservists have not yet been recalled from Canada, the Russian Vice-consul, Mr. H. Zanlewski at Montreal, has been particularly busy owing to this C.P.R. order. On one day no less than 400 applicants for certificates were congregated outside his office in St. Nicholas Street.

ORIGIN OF ENTENTE

Scotchman Residing in Paris Was Means of Bringing It About

Great Britain's stand from the very beginning of the present European situation has been so aggressively pro-French largely because during the closing years of the last century there resided in Paris a Scotchman with an idea. The man was Thomas Barclay, and the idea was the desirability of an entente between the monarchy and the republic.

If any individual (outside of cabinet or ex-cabinet ministers) can tell the world of this momentous entente, Barclay is the man. England gave him his knighthood—he has been Sir Thomas for ten years—because of his services in the bringing about of the understanding, while France made him an officer of the Legion of Honor for the same reason. After the signing of the Anglo-French treaty of arbitration in October, 1903, Lord Lansdowne, Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, and Lord Alverstone, Chief Justice of England, gave to Barclay chief credit for the bringing together of the nations, while Paul Cambon, French Ambassador to London, did so at a later date. Lord Alverstone wrote that "no one knows better than I that the signing of the Anglo-French treaty is entirely due to you."

Sir Thomas, who used to be President of the British Chamber of Commerce in Paris, achieved his result in consequence of years of molding of public opinion on both sides of the English Channel through speeches, through the newspapers, through letters, through personal interviews with men in the highest official places, through a set campaign carried forward month after month with profound determination.

In view of the present alignment of the European powers, two facts brought out by Sir Thomas are of peculiar interest. The first is that the alliance between France and Russia, antedating the Anglo-French rapprochement, was entered into largely as a result of hostility to England; the hands of the President and the Czar were both unfriendly to Great Britain at that time, therefore they had in this a common ground of sympathy on which they met and embraced. The second odd point, when Europe's situation of to-day is viewed, is that there was in the beginning no intention on the part of France or England that their friendship should be in the least either a means of defense from Germany or a means of offense against that power; Germany was not considered, the entente being solely to straighten misunderstandings and banish hostility between the Briton and the Gaul. But the entente has changed with age, undergoing evolution with the growing power of Germany.

MAN OF NEW IDEAS

Pioneer of Advertising, Mr. S. H. Benson, a Victim of 'Bus Accident

Illness due to complications following on a street accident carried off Mr. S. H. Benson, governing director of the famous advertising contractors of Kingsway Hall, London. Mr. Benson was run over by a motor-bus in Fleet street eight months ago. His arm was broken and he suffered internal injuries, and at the age of sixty he failed to get over the shock.

Before beginning the career which created the business of Messrs. S. H. Benson, Ltd., Mr. Benson was for some years in the Royal Navy, and served during the Ashanti war, and the blockade of the coast of Dahomey, being eventually invalided from the Navy. He started the Express Courier Corps, the first boy messenger corps organized in London. The Post Office took exception at that time to any such scheme, and the venture had to be terminated. He started in the advertizing business in 1893. Up till that time the main duty of an advertizing agent had been the buying and selling of space, but Mr. Benson realized there was room for development, and he offered the advertizer serious service and advice in the conduct of his campaign.

Soon he became entrusted with the advertizing of some of the largest houses in England, and from that day the business steadily increased, following closely the lines on which it was founded. An interesting scheme of his was the cocoa 'bus scheme. All the London 'buses were decorated with cocoa pods, and every lady passenger presented with a sample of cocoa. The police threatened to stop the scheme, and summoned several drivers, but gave in on the condition that the scheme should not be repeated.

---

Although most of the cities in Japan have good sidewalks modern street paving is practically unknown in the empire.

NEWS OF BRITAIN IN PARAGRAPHS

Aged Lord's Long Row

Lord Brassey rowed nearly a mile from his yacht Sunbeam to the Prince of Wales' Pier at Dover, and sufferd no fatigue despite the fact that he is seventy-eight years of age.

Chorus Singing Stimulant

Buckinghamshire Territorials have gone in for singing practice. It is found that on long route marches men who are beginning to tire respond wonderfully to the stimulus of a chorus to quicken their pace.

Vicar Water Diviner

Haslemere District Council has decided to take expert advice as to increasing their water supply, and the Rev. J. S. Leake, vicar of Grayswood, and Colonel Farquhar Glennie have offered their services as water diviners.

68 YEARS ON SAME FARM

It is the proud boast of Mr. Joshua Swan, of Ivy Cottages, Langdon Hills, that he has been married 63 years, lived in the same pace for 80 years, and worked on the same farm for 68 years. Both he and his wife are active for their ages—84 and 82 respectively. Mr. Swan does odd jobs gardening, while his wife helps in the housework of residence in the neighborhood. They have ten grandsons and 12 great-grandchildren.

Mr. Swan worked on the Lee Chapel Farm for 68 years, and his wife has been in the constant employment of one lady for nearly 50 years.

Neither of them have been in a train or motor-car, or seen an aeroplane. Mrs. Swan has been to London only twice—once on the carrier's cart to see Queen Victoria.

ANTHONY HOPE

"His foe was folly and his weapon wit," is the epitaph Anthony Hope, the English author, has written for the memorial tablet to the memory of W. S. Gilbert, of "Mikado" and "Pinafore" fame.

---

Honiton Fair was opened by the town crier, who stood outside the Market Hall, holding a long pole with a gilt glove at the top. In that position he uttered the ancient formula, "Oyez! oyez! oyez!, The fair's begun, the glove is up; no one shall be arrested until the glove be taken down. God save the King."

FORESTRY FARMS

Saskatchewan requires more Forestry Farms. Then there would be at least two lecturers continuously on the road to hold meetings, giving lectures on forestry, shelter-belts, etc. The gospel of tree-planting should be brought to farmers. These lecturers could take the names and locations of farmers who are anxious and ready to plant trees, send in the lists to the head office in the province, and inspectors should be sent out to examine each farm, so as to advise farmers where to plant, and how to prepare the ground for the following year's planting. It is all right to expend money on the general Conservation Commission to enthuse citizens the Dominion over on what our natural resources are and how they should be conserved, but the practical working end of the problem should not be neglected. Give Saskatchewan forestry farms and practical men to meet progressive farmers, and in a few years the treeless, wind-swept prairies would be changed to a park-like country, with trees on every farm.--Saskatchewan Farmer.

Parrot Knew His Owner

A parrot's kiss decided a vexed question of ownership at Tottenham Police Court, when a bird fancier named Britton was summoned by Mrs. Alice Evans for detaining her pet.

Mrs. Evans said the parrot's name was Bobby. He used to open the door of his cage and follow her about. One day something was said about Bobby's wings being clipped( and he flew out of the window. Eight months later her little boy rushed home and said he had seen Bobby in the window of Mr. Britton's shop. He took his father and mother there, and when they said "Bobby" the parrot screeched. Mr. Evans put his mouth to the cage, and "Bobby" kissed him just as he used to do.

Mr. Britton produced the bird. He said it was very emaciated when I bought it from a boy, and he had cared for it. The parrot screeched and again kissed Mr. Evans, to whom the magistrate ordered it to be given up on payment of $3.00 to Mr. Britton for its keep and his care.

A Page Of Interest to Women

AN ELABORATE WAIST

The separate blouse is receiving its proper share of attention in the Autumn calendar of fashion and fabrics especially designed for it have made their appearance. Among materials for fancy blouses lace will always hold a prominent place and an addition of velvet fashioned in the above manner is just the thing for those afternoon affairs.

Milady's Mirror

Drink Plenty of Water.

You can't gain or retain good looks until you realize the value of plain, everyday water. Do you drink a glass of water every morning, a half hour before breakfast? No! Well, that glass of water will keep your skin clearer than anything else you can use.

Drink it hot—don't waste your time by temporizing with lukewarmness. Have the water steaming and sip it while you are dressing. If you find it hard to take, add a little lemon juice or a pinch of salt to take away the flatness.

Between that first glass and bedtime you should drink at least a quart of water. That isn't as much as it sounds. It is only four or five glassfuls in all—the one in the morning, another at bedtime and two or three in between. Only the first glass need be hot; the rest can be any temperature you prefer.

A quart of water a day will aid in keeping your digestion in perfect condition. It will flush off the impurities that otherwise would come out in pimples and eruptions, and that means a clear, healthy skin.

Sugar a Rejuvenator.

The belief is gaining ground in many quarters that if you wish to stave off old age and to have the feeling of perennial youth and vigor, no matter what your actual years may be, you cannot do better than eat plenty of sugar.

One of the pioneers of this theory is Professor Metchnikoff, who has made exhaustive experiments to prove his statements.

There are some who even assert that not only does the frequent eating of sugar keep one from growing old, but that if a man or woman will begin the sugar treatment, even after senility has set in, the effect will be so great as to amount to a complete change in his or her character.

Oatmeal as a Cosmetic.

If the skin is rough and irritated by heat try the oatmeal bath. Make a number of cheesecloth bags, four inches square and fill them loosely with the following mixture:

Five pounds of oatmeal, one pound of powdered Florentine orris root, one pound of almond meal and a half pound castile soap, scraped fine as powder.

This makes a large quantity, but is cheapest when made in these proportions.

One of these bags thrown into the warm plunge bath is most comforting and makes the skin soft and white.

Warm Water For the Face.

Bathe your face with warm water. Use a soft cloth and plenty of good soap—the kind that is best suited to your own particular skin. Some skins are irritated by the purest castile; others are benefited by it. Find the soap that you can use and stick to it.

Rinse the soap off with clear, hot water and then rinse again with cold water.

The warm water and soap will open and cleanse the pores, the hot water will stimulate the circulation, and the cold water will strengthen the skin.

Summer Baths.

In summer a warm, not hot, bath at night is most cooling, and the bath in the morning should be only a quick sponge with cool, not cold water. The woman who dresses in the middle of the afternoon or just before dinner and bathes then should not bathe just before retiring also. The quick morning sponge and the moderate afternoon or evening bath are quite sufficient for each twenty-four hours.

Nothing Doing.

There was a sea captain named Haun
On the warship with crew of brawn.
It was his proud boast
The enemy to roast,
But when he got there they were gone!

—Spokane Spokesman-Review.

5 POUNDS 5
Redpath
EXTRA GRANULATED
SUGAR

The Redpath Sugar Carton

Certainly is Convenient!

No troublesome dipping out of a paper bag—no spilling—no need of having a special sugar box or tin.

You couldn't get a better container in which to keep your sugar supply, nor a handier one when you want to use it. Just snip off a corner of the Carton, and pour out what you want, exactly where you want it.

Just as important a feature as the convenience, is the certainty that in these Cartons you get genuine Redpath Extra Granulated Sugar, which for 60 years has been recognized as Canada's best. And you get it clean and pure, just as it left the Refinery.

100

Get the Redpath Cartons! It's well worth while!

CANADA SUGAR REFINING CO., LIMITED, MONTREAL

NEW BRAID HAT.

Handsome Hat Which Is Designed to Give Good Service.

SMART FALL CHAPEAU.

Here is a fall turban designed on novel lines. The crown is covered with latticed white hercules braid, through which short quills are thrust. A band of black braid encircles the velvet brim.

BUSINESS WOMEN'S CLOTHES

They Should Be Plain and Comfortable, Yet Withal Becoming.

Everybody seems to disagree about the question of what a girl in an office or other place of business should look like.

Some think that she is better plain, which seems a little hard upon those whom nature has made distinctly pretty.

Others think that, though perhaps a girl is none the worse for being pretty, she had better dress plainly.

And a third set of people affirm that a girl cannot be too pretty in appearance nor too dainty in dress.

So what is the ideal for the business girl, after all?

A little of all three, judiciously combined, of course. If she is pretty, then by all means let her keep her charm. The only thing is that breeding and common sense suggest she should wear becoming but businesslike clothes. Her beauty need not be hidden by dowdiness, but it should be restrained by simplicity.

There is the consolation that youth triumphs over even sober raiment. Indeed, the demure garments of the Quaker maid show off girlish good looks as few more elaborate frocks and hats could do.

CHAIR FOR SUN PARLOR.

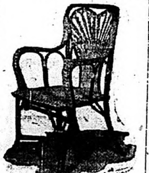
In the autumn and winter the sun parlor takes the place of the summer porch. Any veranda fitted with glass covered sashes may be converted into a sun parlor. Portable oil, gas or electric stoves may be used to take the chill off the air in very cold weather.



CANE AND RATTAN CHAIR.

Rugs and lightweight furniture are required for furnishing. The cane and rattan chair illustrated here is one of a set admirable for this purpose. It is finished in dark blue and white and would be charming with a washable blue and white rug and blue and white cretonne hangings and cushions. For the sun parlor furnishings may be on the line of the summer porch, but a trifle more elaborate.

Homemade Soap.

An excellent hard soap may thus be made: Take six pounds of clean grease, six pounds of salsoda, three pounds of lime. Slack the lime and put in four gallons of soft water; add the salsoda and when dissolved let it settle. Pour off the water in an iron kettle and boil. If the soap does not thicken after boiling a few minutes add more soft water till it is of the consistency of honey. Wet a tub and pour the hot soap into it. When cold cut in pieces and set away to dry. Always make soap in an iron kettle.

For Bedroom Floors.

Nothing is more satisfactory as a floor covering for bedrooms than washable cotton rugs. They can be bought in the small size—a yard long by twenty-four inches wide. They are made either in plain colors, with white stripes for a border across the ends, or in mottled patterns. They are edged with cotton fringe. Cushions for the porch floor are also covered with this cotton homespun.

ONLY an expert can accurately judge the quality of a piece of dress goods by inspecting a piece of the cloth. But, when that cloth is made up into a garment, its quality quickly shows to everybody. Every piece of is guaranteed all-silk, all-wool, or silk-and-wool mixture, as the case may be—its high quality shows in the long wear of the garment as well as in the beauty of the cloth. Well-dressed women the world over have learned that they can rely absolutely upon the quality of all dress goods with "Priestleys' Limited, Bradford" upon the selvedge.

Priestleys' DRESS GOODS

This season's range of Priestley fabrics includes the very popular Silvan and Baroda Crepes; Taffetas, Mohairs, Barbican, Serges, Poplins, Etc., in a wide variety of weights and colors.

The genuine always has PRIESTLEYS' LIMITED stamped on the selvedge

At the Best Stores

16

Milk For Sleeplessness.

A glass of hot milk should be taken last thing at night before retiring by people who suffer from insomnia.

To be really effective it must be quite hot and should be sipped very slowly. To drink milk quickly is almost sure to bring on an attack of indigestion.

Sound sleep is one of the best complexion beautifiers there is.

Keeping the Hands Nice.

If you are doing housework try to soil your hands as little as possible. While dusting and sweeping or doing any dry, dirty work wear a loose pair of old kid gloves. Rubber gloves are no longer very expensive. Provide yourself with a pair of these and use them while washing dishes or any work that demands the use of strong soap and water.

Darkening the Brows.

The continued use of grease will darken the brows and lashes and will not injure as a dye does. Make a mixture of a dram of red petroleum jelly and one grain of sulphate of quinine. This is put on night and morning, leaving some of the grease in the skin. Always rub the brows in the direction in which they should grow.

Tender Gums.

If you suffer from tender gums rinse the mouth three times a day with a tumblerful of tepid water to which have been added a teaspoonful of tincture of myrrh and a teaspoonful of powdered borax.

The myrrh is an astringent and hardens the gums, and the borax acts as an antiseptic.

Word Guessing.

"Haven't you something new for us, Aunt Ruth?" asked Bertha.

"I'm afraid I am thought out," Aunt Ruth said, laughing. "Though I believe something did pop into my head the other night.

"It isn't much of a game," she said presently, "but it may help out some of these rainy hours."

The four drew their chairs nearer, alert to hear what Aunt Ruth had to tell.

"We will begin with the first five letters of the alphabet. Alice, Bertha and Carl may as well use their initials, and Norton and I will take D and E. Alice, you may give us the definition of a word whose first or last letter is A. Then we will try to guess it."

"Well," said Alice, "my letter ends something I like in puddings and cakes."

"Sugar!" shouted Norton, and then joined in the laugh at his blunder.

"Vanilla," guessed Carl, which was right.

"Mine begins something we cannot live without," said Bertha.

"Bread?" ventured Alice.

"No. Besides, we can live without that."

"Breakfast?" asked Norton.

"No, indeed. Plenty of people don't eat breakfast."

"Breath," guessed Aunt Ruth, and then it was her turn.

"It ends a precious stone," said Aunt Ruth.

"Sapphire!" cried Norton.

"Right. Now give us a D word."

"Something I like to eat," said Norton.

"Dates," guessed Carl.

"Dumplings?" asked Aunt Ruth.

"No," laughed Norton.

"What can it be?" wondered Alice.

The tinkle of a bell in the hallway told them it was dinner time.

"Let's go out and get it!" shouted Norton.

"Oh, dinner!" they cried. "Why didn't we think of that before?"—Youth's Companion.

Legend of the Phoenix.

The phoenix of legendary lore was a delightfully interesting bird not only because of its beauty, having a purple body and a gold collar with a glorious tail of blue and pink feathers and a splendid crest, but because it had to die every 500 years by being burned to ashes. A small worm would be found in these ashes, which became a bird on the second day and a phoenix on the third, warranted to last 500 years. And because of this pretty legend the phoenix rising from its ashes is sometimes represented in churches as an emblem of immortality.

Providing For Old Horses.

A certain Herr Franz Bizony, who died not long ago, was a great lover of animals. He dwelt at Miskolcz, Hungary, and in his will bequeathed $61,000 to the city for the founding of a home for old horses.

More than a hundred horses, donkeys, cats, dogs and birds had their homes in outhouses and stables on his property during his lifetime. With the exception of his manservant, it is said that Herr Bizony had not seen another human being for twelve years before his death.

Rimed Enigma.

Once in ages long ago
I was part of wrong and woe,
Was a burden hard to bear
And a sign of shame to wear.
Now I stand for glory, fame,
Before me burns the sacred flame.
Dying men may bless my sign
And for me their all resign.

Answer.—The cross.

Just.

Just a little pleasure,
Just a little pain;
Just a little sunshine,
Just a little rain;
Just a little friendship,
Just a little gold,
Just a little journey,
—Then the story's told.

In Straight English.

"What are you drinking these days?"

"Just aqua pura."

"Cut it out, my boy."

"What would you suggest?"

"Water is good enough for any one."

Exactly.

"What is a white lie?"

"White?"

"Yes."

"Same as any other friend; the one that doesn't get you into trouble."

The Reason.

"Does he make trouble at home?"

"Not a bit."

"That shows he has rather a nice temper."

"Not necessarily."

"Why not?"

"Because he never is at home."

The Brute.

"I wish to marry your daughter, sir."

"You do?"

"Yes."

"Then you are in luck."

"I hope so, sir."

"Yes, you are, for she intends to marry you."

Progression.

At four the boy would think it fine
To be conductor on the line.
At six he has a larger plan:
He wants to be the motorman.
At ten, as he has grown more wise,
A barn boss would be just his size.
When fifteen years have taken wing
He wants to own the blooming thing.
At twenty his ambition slides
To own the earth on which it glides.

Had Cause For Doubt.

"Is that Justice with the pair of scales?"

"Certainly!"

"I'll bet it is a long while since the city inspector of weights and measures has put his O. K. on them."

How Could He?

"Do you ever save any money?"

"No; certainly not."

"You should."

"I should be glad to, but I never caught a dollar hollering to me to come and rescue it."

He Knew.

"You can't keep a good man"—

"I know you are going to say you can't keep a good man in this office and then say you don't know why. I can tell you why. You don't pay enough."

Honest About It.

"Do you like to work?"

"Very much, indeed."

"That's encouraging. What is your line?"

"Easy marks."

Called Out Their Food.

"Is he rough with the men?"

"He orders them about like cattle."

"What does he say to them?"

"Hey!"

IS CLEAN SANITARY AND FREE RUNNING
THE CANADIAN SALT CO. WINDSOR ONT.
REGAL
TABLE
SALT
FREE RUNNING

Always Dry and Free Running

—no matter what the WEATHER
—no matter what the CLIMATE
—no matter what the SEASON

It's a daily pleasure to have such pure, fine, dry salt to use on the table. Get a package from your grocer. 128

Kitchen Kinks

Keeping Food Fresh.

Salads should be washed (or wiped, if this is found sufficient) and then left in a colander in an airy cool place until wanted. A cloth should be placed over the top of the colander. Cucumbers placed stalk end in a jug of water will keep fresher than if placed on a cool stone or slab.

Fleshy fruit should not be piled up in a dish until the last possible moment, but spread out in a cool place so that one piece scarcely touches another.

Milk should be covered by means of a muslin bag held tight by a rubber band, while butter should be kept in a covered ventilated dish and placed in a pan of salted water.

If any suspicion is entertained regarding the freshness of meat or fish, it is well to cook some at once, as cooked food will keep in better condition than raw. Should the meat not be required the same day it is well to partially cook it over night.

It should be remembered that if mildew attacks a dish such as jelly the whole of it is tainted, although the mildew may be visible only in places, and therefore such food is unfit for consumption.

Use For Small Grapes.

Use up small grapes for making grape jam or grape butter. A delicious jam that is almost a jelly is made as follows:

Measure the fruit and allow one pound of sugar to the same weight of grapes. Put the latter over the fire in a preserving pan with very little water. Cook gently for nearly an hour, then press through a colander to remove seeds and skins. Dissolve the sugar in the strained juice and put over the fire again. Cook gently until it begins to jell. When it drops from the spoon and forms a jelly the preserve is done. Skim during the cooking, if found necessary, and when cooked turn into glasses and seal.

Grape butter is made in very much the same way, except that half a pound of sugar only is allowed to each pound of fruit, and the mixture is cooked down until it is very thick and dark. It should be stirred very frequently and canned while hot.

Uses For Extra Milk.

Surplus milk may be used in many ways.

Skimmed milk answers as well as any milk for soups and doughs when fat is also used. Even if otherwise likely to curdle in heating the addition of a little cooking soda makes it possible to scald milk, and then it may be used for custards, puddings, etc. Sour milk is available for doughs and cheese, and cream may be substituted for butter and milk in simpler cakes and cookies.

Another method of using sour milk is to strain it when it is quite thick into a small muslin bag. Tie a piece of string around the top of the bag and hang it in the air in the shade to drip. At the end of three or more days, according to the quantity of milk used, an uncommonly dainty cheese will have been produced without effort.

Cheap Cuts of Meat.

In the preparation of cheap cuts of meat brown the meat first in a hot spider or kettle for flavor and sear the surface so that the juices may be retained in the meat.

Some scraps of fat may be browned and onion sliced and fried in the fat, an equal mixture of flour added, and when it is mixed smoothly with the fat water is put in to make thin gravy.

The meat is then put in and left covered on the back of the stove, and later vegetables and seasoning are added, or they may be put in with the meat, seasoned, covered and boiled five minutes and put at once into the fireless cooker and left several hours or all day. Long, slow cooking is the only rule for good results.

Testing the Oven.

A useful and simple test to try the heat of an oven is by means of a piece of white paper. If too hot the paper when placed in the oven will blaze up or blacken. When the paper becomes dark brown, the color of meat pie crust, then the oven is suitable for small pastry. When light brown, the color of real nice pastry, then the oven is ready for pies, etc. When the paper turns dark yellow you can bake bread, large meat pies or large pound cakes. If the paper is just tinged the oven is right for sponge cakes and meringues. The temperature of an oven may be easily reduced while cooking by placing a bowl of water in it.

Keeping Grapes Fresh.

Select large, nice bunches of grapes, carefully pick out any that are unsound and wipe dry. Warm a can of sealing wax, take each bunch separately and dip the stem in warm wax, not hot, and lay on the table for the wax to harden. Now get a clean, dry box, place a layer of paper in the bottom, then a layer of grapes, another layer of paper, and so on until the box is filled. Keep cool and dry. They may be kept for a long time.

Toast With Vegetables.

When vegetables have been strained and are ready to be put in the dish, if a piece of dry toast is laid on the bottom of the dish first the remaining water will be absorbed by the time

EIGHT THOUSAND AT WEDDING FEAST

Austrian Bride and Groom Had Never Seen Each Other Till Day of Marriage

A wedding whose guests numbered over 8,000 persons and whose feasting continued for eight days was celebrated recently at Sadagora in Bukowana, one of those remote country districts of Austria-Hungary, where mammoth wedding festivities on a scale unknown in America or Western Europe are the rule.

The affair at Sadagora exceeded in magnificence and lavish hospitality any function on record in that district, however. It was a Hebrew wedding. Sadagora enjoys a certain fame in Eastern Europe as the seat of the renowned Rabbinical dynasty known as the Miracle Rabbis. The bride was the daughter of the Grand Rabbi of this line, Aron Friedmann, and the groom, Salamon Friedmann, belongs to a branch of the same Rabbinical dynasty at Czortkow. The marriage was arranged by the chiefs of the two families, entirely without the knowledge of the young people. In fact, they met for the first time only the evening before the wedding at a preliminary feast, when they danced together as a sign of their willingness to marry.

The chiefs had taken it for granted that there would be no hitch in their plans, and had invited the Rabbinical families of all the Orthodox Jews in Russia, Poland, Roumania and Hungary. They came down on Sadagora in thousands. Many were of imposing stature and patriarchial dignity. They wore black silk caftans, low shoes and white stockings, while their ladies were attired in a sort of crinoline and adorned with rich jewels. There were some dressed in the latest modes of Paris and Vienna.

The ceremony took place in the gardens of the Grand Rabbi's palace, guarded by mounted troops. Thousands were unable to hear or see what was going on, so dense was the throng, but all had a hand in the feasting which followed. During the eight days the commisary's books accounted for 200 pounds of fish, 500 head of poultry, 250 pounds of beef, 5,000 pounds of bread and many casks of wine. The Grand Rabbi was out of pocket to the extent of at least $40,000.

In addition to this he presented the bridal couple with a palace in Sadagora, completely furnished and equipped with a staff of servants. He will meet the entire cost of the household for a period of six years, when it is assumed that the young bridegroom will have attained a position where he can support his family himself.

JEWS IN JERUSALEM

How They Have Practically Monopolized Such Trade as Exists

That Jewish immigrants have so well adapted themselves to local conditions in Jerusalem as to "practically monopolise a greater part of such trade as exists" was stated in a consular report on Jerusalem issued at London.

Owing to the non-existence of reliable official records, says the report, it is impossible to give an exact estimate of the population of Jerusalem, and although it is believed that it figures at 110,000, 95,000 might perhaps be a more correct estimate. It is roughly speaking composed of 13,000 Christians, 12,000 Mohammedans, and 70,000 Jews, many of whom are immigrants from Russia.

It is remarked that, in spite of the emigration of many Jews to escape military service, there has still been a marked increase in this section of the population on account of the continuous influx of aged Jews, who come with the intention of ending their days in Palestine.

There has practically been no variation in the size of the British community, which numbers about 350 souls, most of whom are missionaries.

Well Known Sportsman Dead

A prominent and popular East Cork sportsman passed away in Mr. John Evoy, manager of the property of Captain Donelan, M.P., at Ballynona, whose death has occurred at the age of forty-two. Deceased was Master of the Ballynona and Imokilla Hounds, and was a good type of Irish cross-country sportsman.

School's Early Closing

During the hot weather the Grammar School at Newcastle Emlyn, Carmarthenshire, is opened at six o'clock in the morning and closed for the day before noon.

Municipal Dwellings

East Cowes ratepayers balloted on the question: Are you in favor of or against municipal dwellings being built by the council? The majority against was 197.

The mule that gets in the first kick usually wins the scrap.

The world is a cage in which humanity is tamed.

FIT-REFORM MODEL 412

Another of our styles, created expressly for the Young Men—a snappy 2 button sack with patch pockets.—$18. up.

YES—Pin Stripes and small checks are popular for Fall Suits.

In fact, most of the new patterns run to these effects.

As far as colors are concerned, Grays, Browns and Olives predominate.

Of course, Blue is just as popular as ever—in fact more Blue Suits are being worn this Fall than any season we can recall.

When are you coming in to see the new styles and to pick out your Fall Suits?

FIT-REFORM

Chas. J. Symons

"The Store With
The Electric Man"

Humor and Philosophy

By DUNCAN M. SMITH

A MENTAL MISHAP.

A TRAIN of thought is not equipped
With whistle and with brakes,
Which may be why such violent
And sudden stops it makes,
With no attachment to the wheels
Its airy flight to check,
And that is why you often hear
About it in a wreck.

When the conductor of the train
Sits in his easy chair
It runs along without mishap
And takes him anywhere.
But if his wife should motion him
To go and fix the grate
The mishap to that train of thought
Is sad to contemplate.

When all conditions are in tune
And level is the track,
Oh, how that train securely glides
To Halifax and back!
But when a bill collector calls
And there is cash to pay
At once the engine sideways jumps
And spoils the right of way.

A pleasant line on which to ride—
The passengers are gay.
No ticket puncher comes along
And says, "Get off or pay."
But, oh, it is a risky trip,
Although the hurt is slight,
For there may be a dozen wrecks
In just a single night!

The Little Lady.

"Ethel wouldn't you like to have a little baby brother left at your house?"

"Baby brother?"

"Yes."

"Indeed, no."

"Why not?"

"Because babies are too common for anything. It's just like our washerwoman."

Making It Plain.

"You write to your girl friends on a typewriter?"

"I do."

"Isn't that bad form?"

"I don't know about that, but it is safest. I write such a miserable hand that when they can't make out a sentence they take it for a proposal."

Probably.

"You never can tell what a woman will say."

"That may be, but there is another kick."

"What is it?"

"You never can tell what she won't say."

Pure Contrariety.

"He has the blues."

"Blues?"

"Yes."

"Wonder why."

"The only girl told him he was green."

Longing.

I wouldn't hanker for a land
Where it was always spring.
But I could stand a country where
They had that sort of thing
Occasionally.

He Knew.

"You seem to be in a brown study, Miss Flora."

"'Tain't Brown," cheeped her little brother. "It's Jones."

Hot Stuff.

"She gave me a piece of her mind."

"What did you do with it?"

"Put it out on the snow bank to cool off."

Bird, Sure Enough.

"I have been invited to take a ride in a flying machine."

"What a lark!"

Hard to Keep Up.

To claim that you have found the pole
May take but little wit.
But, oh, it calls for skillful lies
To get away with it!

Impossible.

"Don't make a fool of yourself."

"I won't."

"Don't be too certain."

"But I can't. I haven't the material."

PERT PARAGRAPHS.

Of course we all know that some one else frequently gets our due, but that we ever get some one's else—never!

If you are bound to succeed it isn't at all because you failed yesterday, but in spite of it.

Men like flattery, but they hate to have their tastes in that direction commented upon.

Setting an example is one thing and getting it to stay set is another and quite different thing.

INFANTRY WEAPONS

Infantry arms consist of the rifle, bayonet and machine gun. The "pompom," which figured so much in South Africa, has been withdrawn.

The service machine gun is the .303 maxim, which will fire a continuous leaden stream of bullets at the rate of 600 a minute, or 10 bullets every second, at ranges of from 900 to 1,200 yards.

The maxim weighs 60 pounds, and its lightness enables it to be carried anywhere the troops can go. It can be taken along roads on wheels, across country on pack animals, or, if needs be, shouldered by a single soldier right up into the firing line.

The weak point of the maxim is that its mechanism is liable to jam and render it useless. In the hands of trained gunners, its destructive power is greater than land mines, bursting shrapnel, cavalry charges, bayonet charges, or any variety of rifle fire.

Late Pope's Physician Honored

DR. MARCHIAFAVA

who was consulting physician to the late Pope Pius X. He has been created a Senator for life by the King of Italy.

FORCIBLE FEEDING

"Not Used as a Deterrent, But It Does Deter," Says Premier

The Rev. R. J. Campbell, Dr. R. F Horton, and other ministers addressed a letter to Mr. Asquith protesting against forcible feeding of suffragist prisoners.

Replying through his private secretary, the Prime Minister stated that Mr. M'Kenna repudiated the statement which had appeared in the memorial that he had defended forcible feeding in the House, not only as a means of detaining people in prison but also as a deterrent.

"It is true," the Premier's letter ran, "that forcible feeding in some cases actually deters prisoners from adopting the hunger strike, as they realize that the strike will not secure their release, but it has never been used as a deterrent or for any purpose except to preserve the life and health of a prisoner, and it has never been defended on any but this ground."

Amazing Story of a "Cure."

Kitty O'Brien, a pretty Irish girl of seventeen, hailing from Cwmbran, Monmouthshire, is alleged to have been cured at St. Winefride's Well in an amazing manner. The girl states that for the past five years she had suffered from tuberculosis in the knee, and for about two years had had her left knee in plaster of paris and walked with crutches. She was recommended by Father Quigley to visit Holywell. The effect was remarkable, she said. A spasm of pain shot up her leg and side. The next instant the spasm returned and darted downwards to the foot and ceased. She knew then that a cure had been effected. The plaster of paris bandage and the crutches were discarded and left in the crypt, and, it is said, Miss O'Brien walked out of the well free from pain and lameness.

Hermit and His Cat

Though he is fifty-three years of age, David Thomas, a Fishguard hermit, has never been inside a train, and, beyond a short ride on a wagon, has never been further than his native town. He has lived the whole of his lifetime in a little cottage at Lower Fishguard, and his sole companion is a fine tabby cat, of which he is passionately fond. He has been unable to follow ordinary occupations owing to bad eyesight, and for some years he has been almost blind. He was recently given a hand fishing net, and he now goes down to the beach daily to fish for prawns. "I cannot see when I have caught anything," said Davy, "but I can tell by feeling in the net, though I am sometimes bitten by crabs."

Spain exported 4,000,000 pounds of paper for cigarettes last year.

More blonde Eskimos have been discovered in the Arctic. Somebody must be responsible for a shipment of peroxide to that region.

Humor and Philosophy

By DUNCAN M. SMITH

PERT PARAGRAPHS.

YOU never can tell what people mean by what they say. It is only by knowing what they need that you can get a clew.

Being generous is easy enough if kind providence or sly opportunity provides the wherewith.

Some men think that sharing one another's burdens is truly beautiful when the burden happens to be a jag.

As a general thing, being fat is tantamount to being happy, so there are compensations.

Knowing when you are about to be skinned is a sign that you aren't.

Modest Joys.

True happiness does not consist
In tearing up the town,
In daubing war paint on your face
And racing up and down.
In quieter pursuits you may
Grab off of joy your share
And get some very fine results
Without the wear and tear.

This going in the market place
And standing on your ear
And trying, like one shy of sense,
In public to appear
May bring perhaps a passing thrill
As thus the hours you waste,
But in the mouth it later leaves
A most unpleasant taste.

You need not sit around the house
And mope or study Greek
If some amusement, quiet, chaste
And quite refined, you seek.
You needn't read the almanac
For jokes of ancient date
Or even go into the yard
And teeter on the gate.

No; there's a happy medium,
A program large and sane,
That you may follow out without
A thought of raising Cain.
Put on your cap and kiss your wife—
It may the lady shock—
And in the quiet gloaming take
A walk around the block.

Quite True.

"What is the most noticable thing about jokes?"

"Their age as a general thing."

Superfluous.

"You shouldn't worry about the debts you owe."

"Do you think so?"

"I know it."

"Why shouldn't I?"

"That is the prerogative of your creditors, and I can assure you that they are attending strictly to it."

For Domestic Use.

"And so you are married."

"Yes; I have been married for three years."

"And how are all your fine spun theories?"

"I am using homespun ones now."

A Painful Lack.

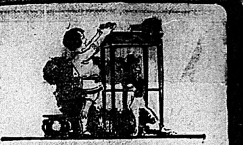
"I don't know what is the matter with my business. I wonder if it needs system."

"No; I think not."

"Then what does it need?"

"Business."



COWAN'S
SOLID CHOCOLATE
MAPLE BUDS

For bites between meals there is nothing equal to Maple Buds---all the goodness of the Indies seems to be caught and prisoned in these pure, velvet-smooth bits of solid chocolate--and they're so wholesome and nourishing too.

28

A Popular-Priced Line OF
Loose-Leaf Ledgers
Well-Made---Good Looking

Badger-it Loose-Leaf Ledger

Price Complete $2.70
One Size
One Price
One Ruling

Leaf Size 7¾x10¾ ins.
Bound Leaves
Full Cloth
200 D. E. Printed

About 160 extra leaves can be added, and larger screws furnished with the outfit to give extra large expansion for inserting more leaves.

It is the Best Cheap Loose-Leaf Ledger on the market

Badger-Beauty Loose-Leaf Ledger

Price Complete $4.50
200 Ruled Leaves
Balance W. D. or D. E.

Leaf Size 7¾x10¾ ins.
Bound Cloth Sides
With Seal Grain Cowhide Back and Corners.

Two Extension Screws are furnished with the above outfits. The LOOSE LEAF LEDGER is an up-to-date practica proposition. GET ONE NOW.

Intelligencer Printing Co.
Belleville - - - - - Ontario

The Toronto Globe is constantly calling attention to some remarks said to have been made by the new Minister of Inland Revenue, which he denies ever having been made by him, but if made are not only objectionable but reprehensible; but no reference is ever found in the columns of the Globe in condemnation of Lemieux's declaration in favor of annexation, uttered, as he explained, when a young man, or of Sir Wilfrid's declaration that his "day dream was separation from England." Why?

Eight Million "You's"

Your individual contribution to Canada's prosperity is important.

This is the time when every Canadian's support is needed, every Canadian means you—yes you.

Don't figure that the amount of goods you individually consume would not amount to a "drop in the bucket." Multiply your purchases by eight million and you will see what you can do for Canada by purchasing only goods "Made in Canada."

This message is for eight million "you's." If you all do your part every Canadian and every Canadian industry will be working at top speed.

You, yourself, cannot fail to benefit by the prosperity this will create for all of Canada.

"Made in Canada" Will Make Canada.

7A

RAILROAD TRANSPORTATION

CANADIAN NORTHERN RAILWAY

TORONTO OTTAWA

New NIGHT SERVICE

(Daily)

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| Lv. Toronto (Union Station) | 11.00 P.M. | Lv. Ottawa (Central Station) | 10.50 P.M. |
| Lv. Belleville | 2.40 A.M. | Lv. Belleville | 3.40 A.M. |
| Ar. Ottawa | 7.40 A.M. | Ar. Toronto | 7.30 A.M. |

INTERMEDIATE STOPS

Orono, Port Hope, Cobourg, Trenton, Deseronto, Napanee, Yarker, Harrowsmith, Sydenham, Brockville Junction, and Smith's Falls.

NEW EQUIPMENT

Standard Sleeping Cars — Electric Lighted Coaches

| | |
|---|---|
| Lv. Toronto | 8.20 A.M. |
| Lv. Belleville | 11.55 A.M. |
| Ar. Ottawa | 5.20 P.M. |
| Lv. Ottawa | 12.15 Noon |
| Lv. Belleville | 5.10 P.M. |
| Ar. Toronto | 9.15 P.M. |

(Daily except Sunday)

GENERAL CHANGE OF TIME ONTARIO LINES EFFECTIVE MON. OCT. 19TH.

For full particulars, see latest Time Table Folder.

For Rail and Steamship Tickets, Parlor and Sleeping Car Reservations, and all information, apply to J. A. Patterson, Town Agent, or L. W. Buller, Station Agent.

GRAND TRUNK RAILWAY SYSTEM

TORONTO - CHICAGO
TORONTO - MONTREAL

The International Limited

Canada's Train of Superior Service

Leaves Toronto 4.40 p.m. daily, arrives Detroit 9.55 p.m. and Chicago 8.00 a.m.

MORNING SERVICE

Leaves Toronto 8 a.m., arrives Detroit 1.45 p.m. and Chicago 8.40 p.m. daily.

LAST TRAIN OUT OF TORONTO AT NIGHT

Leaves 11.35 p.m., arrives Detroit 8 a.m. and Chicago 3.00 p.m. daily, assuring important connection with principal trains for Western States and Canada.

FOR MONTREAL

Leaves Toronto 9 a.m., 8.30 p.m., and 11 p.m. daily.

Berth reservations, etc., at G. T. R. ticket offices.

H. C. Thompson, City Passenger and Ticket Agent. Phone 403.

T. H. Coppin, Station Ticket Agent. Phone 2o.

CANADIAN PACIFIC

WINTER TOURS

To The Land of Sunshine and Summer Days. CALIFORNIA; FLORIDA; LOUISIANA; ETC.

Limited trains eave Toronto daily, making direct connection at Detroit and Buffalo for the Southern States, and at Chicago for California, etc.

Those contemplating a trip of any nature should consult Canadian Pacific Agents, who will be pleased to quote rates, arrange reservations and attend to all details in connection with your trip, or write M. G. Murphy, District Passenger Agent, corner King and Yonge Streets, Toronto.

S. BURROWS, Gen. Agent, Belleville.

RAILWAY TIME TABLE.

CANADIAN NORTHERN ONTARIO RAILWAY

EFFECTIVE SEPT. 14TH.

For Toronto and intermediate points—6.40 a.m., 5.15 p.m.

Trenton, Wellington, Picton and intermediate points—6.40 a.m., 12.40 noon.

Marmora, Bannockburn and Coe Hill—12.40 noon.

Marmora, Bannockburn, Bancroft and Maynooth, and intermediate stations—6.40 a.m.

Deseronto, Napanee and B. Q. stations—10.35 a.m., 1.00 p.m., 9.40 p.m.

For Kingston, Brockville, Smith's Falls, Ottawa and intermediate stations—1.00 p.m.

Trains arrive from Toronto and intermediate points—1.00 p.m., 9.40 p.m.

From Picton, Wellington, Trenton and intermediate stations—10.35 a.m., 6.05 p.m., 9.40 p.m.

From Napanee, Deseronto and intermediate stations—6.40 a.m., 12.40 p.m., 5.15 p.m.

From Maynooth and intermediate stations—6.22 p.m.

From Coe Hill and intermediate stations—10.35 a.m.

From Tamworth and intermediate stations—5.15 p.m.

From Kingston, Brockville, Smith's Falls, Ottawa and intermediate stations—5.15 p.m.

A little brief authority or a few dried apples will puff a small man up to the limit.

CANADIAN GOVERNMENT RAILWAYS
INTERCOLONIAL
PRINCE EDWARD ISLAND RY

2 Through Trains 2

From Bonaventure Union Depot, Montreal.

OCEAN LIMITED

Leaves 7.30 p.m. daily for Quebec, Riviere du Loup, Campbellton, Moncton, St. John, Truro and Halifax. Connections for Glasgow, etc., and the Sydneys (except Saturdays).

Maritime Express

Leaves 8.40 a.m. daily except Saturday, for Quebec, Campbellton, Moncton, Truro, Halifax, St. John. On Saturdays will run Montreal to St. Flavie only.

For further information concerning rates, reservations, etc., apply to local Grank Trunk Railway Ticket or Freight Agent, or to E. Tiffin, General Western Agent, 51 King St. East, (King Edward Hotel Block), Toronto, Ontario.

RAILWAY TIME TABLE.

GRAND TRUNK RAILWAY

Time of departure from Belleville station.

Going East.

No. 18—12.30 a.m. Mail train, daily.
No. 16—2.08 a.m. Fast train, Flyer, daily.
No. 32—Local for Brockville, 7 a.m.; arrives back from Brockville, 8.50 p.m.; daily except Sunday.
No. 6—11.10 a.m.—Mail and Express, daily.
No. 14—12.16 p.m. Express, daily.
No. 28—5.45 p.m. Local passenger, daily except Sunday.
No. 30—9.30 p.m.—Local passenger, daily except Sunday.

Going West.

No. 19—2.15 a.m.—Mail and Express, daily.
No. 13—4.35 a.m. Limited Express, daily.
No. 29—7.50 a.m. Local Passenger, daily except Sunday, leaving Toronto 6.00 p.m., arrives in Belleville at 9.25 p.m., arrives in Kingston at 11.05 p.m.
No. 27—11.15 a.m. Passenger, daily except Sunday.
No. 1—1.50 p.m. International Limited, daily.
No. 7—1.55 p.m. Mail and Express, daily.

BELLEVILLE AND PETERBORO'

| Going West. | Leave. | Ar. Peterboro' |
|---|---|---|
| Mail | 5.20 a.m. | 8.00 a.m. |
| Passenger | 6.00 p.m. | 8.50 p.m. |

| Going East | Arrive | Lv. Peterboro' |
|---|---|---|
| Mixed | 10.55 a.m. | 8.20 a.m. |
| Mail | 4.15 p.m. | 1.30 p.m. |

BELLEVILLE AND MADOC.

| Going North. | Leave | Ar. Madoc |
|---|---|---|
| Mixed | 11.11 p.m. | 1.50 p.m. |
| Mixed | 6.30 p.m. | 7.50 p.m. |

| Going South. | Arrive | Lv. Madoc |
|---|---|---|
| Mixed | 4.50 p.m. | 3.20 p.m. |
| Mixed | 9.15 a.m. | 7.15 a.m. |

None of the above trains run on Sunday.

The Merchants Bank Of Canada

Capital .............................. $7,000,000
Reserve .............................. $7,000,000

YOUR SAVINGS ACCOUNT INVITED

Interest added every six months. Small or large amounts deposited. Banking may be done by mail. Drafts on any parts of the world sold or bought.

A General Banking Business conducted.

Belleville Branch H. SNEYD, Manager

THE STANDARD BANK OF CANADA

QUARTERLY DIVIDEND NOTICE No. 96.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that a Dividend at the rate of Thirteen Per Cent Per Annum upon the Capital Stock of this Bank has been declared for the quarter ending the 31st October, 1914, and that the same will be payable at the Head Office in this City and its Branches on and after Monday, the 2nd day of November, 1914, to shareholders of record of the 23rd of October, 1914.

By order of the Board,
G. P. SCHOLFIELD,
Toronto, 29th September, 1914. General Manager.

JOHN ELLIOTT, Manager, Belleville Branch
Shannonville Branch open Mondays and Thursdays
Foxboro „ „ Tuesdays and Fridays
Rednersville „ „ Wednesdays

MOROCCAN MARRIAGES

Bridegroom Sometimes Acts as Bride —Disguises Much in Vogue

The topsy-turvydom of Moroccan life is illustrated by the many curious customs and superstitions which prevail in that country. In Fez, after a couple have been betrothed, free negresses, whose business it is to assist women on festive occasions, dress up the young man as a bride with garments which they have brought with them. He is then seated on cushions, placed on a mattress opposite the door, and sits there with his eyes closed as if he were a bride.

In some country places in Morocco the bride on her part imitates the appearance of a man, by wearing her shawl thrown over her left shoulder, or leaving her old home clad in a man's coat, or having designs resembling whiskers painted on her face.

Who shall rule in the home of the happy pair is a question which gives rise to quite a number of quaint tests. In some cases the bride may throw one of her slippers at the groom, or beat him three times with it, and should he cry out it is regarded as a sign that she will rule the roost. The bridegroom, on his part, also tries in various ways to gain power over his wife by tapping her three or seven times on her head or shoulders with a sword, or beating her between the shoulders with the cord of his dagger. He may smack her or kick her gently, or attempt to strike her with a cane as she arrives at his house. Apparently, should she cry out at such treatment she will always remain subject to the rule of her husband.

That the bridesmaid of a happy bride will herself find a husband before the end of the year is quite common belief in Morocco, where a wedding is looked upon as a potential cause of other weddings. There it is the custom for seven girls to pour water over the bride at a spring, hoping to get married themselves by so doing, and if any unmarried woman or girl is living in the house of the bride's parents when she leaves it, she is told to "drag her foot" when she goes away so as to help the unmarried one to a husband.

Again, when the bridal box is taken to the bride's village on the back of a mule, an unmarried youth sits inside it in order to get married soon. When the bride, on her arrival at the bridegroom's house, has been lifted down from the mare which carried her thither, a bachelor, for the same purpose, mounts the animal and has a ride on it.

MISTAKEN KINDNESS

Grandmothers Great Obstacles to Proper Feeding of Children

"One of the greatest obstacles to the proper feeding of young children is the opposition and interference of grandmothers!" says Dr. John Lovett Morse, Professor of Pediatrics in the Harvard Medical School. "It is a strange fact," he goes on, "that the majority of women, although they have been good mothers and have brought up their own children sensibly, show no reason whatever in matters relating to their grandchildren. They are willing to give them anything and everything to eat and will, in fact, go out of their way to do so. The most probable explanation of this curious anomaly is that they are not responsible for the care of the children when they are sick." But grandmothers do not make all the mistakes. "It is a curious fact," he says elsewhere, "that many mothers who are very careful about what their children eat in their own house, send them to school with a lunch composed of cake, cookies, and doughnuts, or other kinds of sweets, apparently thinking that a child can digest things at school which it cannot at home. A child's lunch should consist of bread and butter or a meat sandwich. If soup or meat can be obtained at school, so much the better."

For New Housewives

Keep careful tracks of your expenditures, but burn the tracks at the end of every week.

When you take a good, hard cry, save work by crying on the kitchen floor and then mopping it quickly.

Don't try to fatten him on lady fingers and marshmallows when he has been brought up all his life on fried liver and onions.

Don't strain your brain by thinking of such an idealistic subject as a new hat and at the same time be peeling little, wormy apples.

Of course your husband will always be throwing up to you the coffee that his mother used to make, so provide yourself with a dainty raincoat to be worn at the table.

---

About 25 per cent. of the total immigration into the United States is composed of women.

RAILWAYS AND THE PEOPLE

Of the 89,313 shareholders of the Pennsylvania road 49 per cent. are women. The increase in the number of shareholders of the railways in the United States since 1904 has been 115 per cent. This shows the wide-spread degree of interest that is taken by the people themselves in the railways of the country. The Canadian Pacific has something like 65,000 shareholders scattered over the world. The management has never cared to give the number in each country; but it is known that in Germany, Belgium and France the majority of the shareholders reside. Hundreds of thrifty French peasants have invested their savings in the Canadian Pacific. Enquiries are sometimes made by humble people from the other side as to the general conditions of the company, wistful questioning with respect to the dividend, and so forth. These are made for the most part by humble people, who have little acquaintance with business, but who, having a little money invested, are anxious when any sort of doubtful rumor reaches them.

BULLETS PHOTOGRAPHED

Astonishing Results Shown by Series of Wonderful Pictures

Moving pictures have unlimited possibilities, apparently, for the study of rapidly-moving objects. An apparatus capable of making pictures at the rate of 100,000 a second has been made. With it seventy-two pictures of a revolver bullet were taken while moving ten inches.

Pictures of a bullet passing through a stick of wood showed a curious condition. The bullet passed completely through the thin stick and was well on its way beyond before the wood showed any signs of distress.

Then some tiny splinters started out, following the bullet; the stick began to split, and after the bullet had proceeded some distance the stick suddenly fell to pieces.

No camera shutters are fast enough to take pictures at anything like this speed, so no shutter was used. Instead a series of electric sparks was flashed, the sparks following one another at the rate of 100,000 a second, each spark making a picture. The film was mounted on a wheel about three feet in circumference, and the wheel was revolved at the great speed of 9,000 revolutions a minute.

When all was ready the bullet was shot, the spark flashed, and the wheel revolved, the actual exposure being limited to a fraction of a second, so as not to pile up pictures one over the other.

Will Lassoo Gorillas

"Buffalo Jones," who used to divert himself lassoing buffalo on the Western plains, has found a new sport—lassoing gorillas. No full grown specimen of the great ape has so far been taken alive. But "Buffalo Jones" is now in the French Congo to get some for the London Zoo. A moving picture man will trail the gorilla hunter.

Granite in British Columbia

An important matter to Vancouver is the discovery on Texada Island, 50 miles from the city, of an inexhaustible ledge of mottled granite. Some of the stone was quarried experimentally, and the polished slabs used in the new Victoria Theatre. A $150,000 company leased the ledge from the Government to develop the quarry. During the past five years over $3,000,000 worth of marble was imported into Vancouver for interior work on new buildings. In the future most of the stone for such work will be quarried in British Columbia.

Automobile Stretcher

A bed which can be folded compactly when not in use has been invented for the transportation of invalids in automobiles.

BOILS CONTAGIOUS

It is Possible Now to Avoid Them by Inoculation

Boils receive their name because it used to be believed that they were due to the blood becoming too hot and boiling over in different parts of the body.

"You must never cure a boil by outside applications," is a fallacy that lots of good people believe, because, they say, it will "drive the poison in" and lead to some more serious trouble.

This mistaken idea has been widely fostered by the entirely correct observation that scarlet fever, measles and other diseases are often more severe when they are accompanied by only a slight eruption. Indeed, scarlatina is liable to be fatal when the rash is very faint or only present for an hour or so.

This, however, positively does not apply to boils. They may often be cured from the outside, and there is no danger of your 'driving them in,' although a legion of careful grandmothers believe so.

Although it has long been known that boils are caused by little microbes called "stphylococci" and "steptococci," which resemble bunches of grapes and strings of beads, it had never until recently been really certain that boils are contagious. The observation of an army surgeon, who traced an epidemic of boils directly to one man whose collars had inoculated him with boils, seems to prove that this is the case.

The boils, which began on his neck, infected the shirt bands and collars which he wore. When these were thrown into the wash with the linen of other men 82 per cent. of the men in that particular command fell ill with boils.

No one who has to mingle with his fellow men can escape the danger of boils. Wherever you go you will encounter their contagious microbes. When you do become infected don't buy a barrel of "blood purifier." Instead, go to a physician and take the anti-boil inoculation, such as is now given to prevent boils.

And to avoid spreading the trouble to your friends take extra care to disinfect yourself with borax or some other disinfectant in addition to the frequent and free use of soap and water.

RISING FINANCIER

Ontario Man Who Made Rapid Strides Toward Success

Remarkably rapid has been the rise of Mr. George A. Morrow, who succeeded Mr. H. C. Cox as president of the Imperial Life Assurance Company of Canada.

Mr. Morrow was born in 1877, at Millbrook, Ont., a son of J. M. and Mary (Laidley) Morrow. His father and mother were both natives of Canada.

He was educated in the public schools of his native place and later at collegiate institutes at Toronto and Peterboro. After his schooling, he put in three years in the wholesale manufacturing business, and since then has been connected with the financial world, in the lines of loan and savings companies, life and fire insurance companies, bond and securities corporations, and similar business. At present Mr. Morrow holds the following important offices: Vice-President Dominion Securities Corporation, Limited; assistant manager the Central Canada Loan and Savings Company, president of the Imperial Life Assurance Company, and director in the following: The Central Canada Loan and Savings Company, the Imperial Guarantee and Accident Company, the Toronto Electric Light Company, the Western Assurance Company, the British America Assurance Company, the Mississippi River Power Company, and the Canada Steel Company.

Fashions Last Forever

Our modern clothing illustrates the innate conservatism of humanity by a large number of interesting survivals. Among these is the hatband, the original purpose of which was to hold a piece of cloth or linen around the head. The Egyptians of 3500 B.C. wore a piece of linen around the head, with a band terminating in two tails at the back and a survival of this is to be found in the tails of the present-day Scottish bonnet and the sailor's cap.

Again, clocks on stockings, originally were a species of ornamentations to hide the seams where the stuff was joined together, and the "points" on the backs of gloves survive from the braid used to cover the seams in the gloves of early times.

To Keep a Phonograph Disk Clean

To keep a phonograph disk clean there has been invented a tiny broom to be so mounted to sweep away dust as the disk is revolved.

---

About the time that the Germans should be putting in their crop next spring, the Russian hordes will be tramping over the fields of Prussia, while the Allies will be performing a similar feat in West Germany on their way to Berlin. If the war should last that long, Germany will face 1915 unable to put in one per cent. of her usual crop.

BELLEVILLE BUSINESS DIRECTORY

The Professional Fraternity of our city will find an advertisement under this head an exceptionally advantageous investment, the returns hitherto obtained making the extremely moderate rates but normal. By consulting our price list in another column, or calling at The Intelligencer business office, full information may be obtained.

LEGAL.

WILLS & WRIGHT
Barristers, Solicitors, Notaries Public, etc. Office: 15 Campbell Street, Belleville. Money to loan at lowest rates.
J. FRANKLIN WILLS, K.C.
MALCOLM WRIGHT.

NORTHRUP & PONTON
Barristers, Solicitors, Notaries Public, Comissioners. Offices: North Bridge Street. Solicitors for the Merchants Bank of Canada and the Bank of Montreal. Money to loan on mortgagee.
W. B. NORTHRUP, K.C., M.P.
W. N. PONTON K.C.
R. D. PONTON.

CLUTE & SHOREY
Barristers, Solicitors, Notaries, etc. Office: North side of Campbell Street, Belleville. Solicitors for the Dominion Bank. Money to loan on mortgages on easy terms.
A. X. CLUTE, LL.B.
W. D. M. SHOREY.

PORTER & CARNEW
Barristers and Notaries Public, etc. Office: Robertson Block, East Front St., Belleville, Ont.
E. GUSS PORTER, K.C., M.P.
WM. CARNEW.
Solicitors for Union Bank.

W. C. MIKEL, B.C.L., K.C.
Barristers, &c., 28 Bridge St., over G N.W. Telegraph office.
Solicitor for Molsons Bank.
Phone 77.

W. D. M. SHOREY
Barrister, Solicitor, etc. Solicitor for the Dominion Bank and the Township of Ameliasburg.
Money to loan on mortgages on easy terms.
Office 8 Campbell Street, Belleville.

MUSICAL.

Mrs. Wilmot
VOCAL INSTRUCTOR
Tone Production a speciality. Pupils conscientiously trained for Concert Work and Church Positions. Voices tested free of charge.
"THE STUDIO," BRIDGE ST.
S16,dtf

HIGGS Miss Joy.
Violin Instruction.
Tems Moderate
"THE STUDIO," Bridge

WHEATLEY Professor. Piano. Theory. Vocal.
Modern Methods. Best Results
THE "STUDIO." Tel. 594

INSURANCE.

Liverpool & London & Globe Ins. Co.; North British & Mercantile Ins. Co.; Sun Fire; Waterloo Mutual; Lloyd's Plate Glass; Dominion of Canada Guarantee and Accident Insurance Co., and other companies.
Farm and City property insured in first class and reliable companies and at lowest current rates. Land valuator and agent for selling, purchasing, or renting property. Rents collected.
W. H. HUDSON
Office: No. 17 Campbell St. Belleville. Phone 161.

FARM INSURANCE
I have made arrangements with English Companies to insure Farm Dwellings and Barns and contents at from 75c. to $1.00 per $100.
Call and see me before renewing your insurance.
CHANCEY ASHLEY
Opposite Post Office. Belleville, Ont.

THOS. STEWART
Bridge Street, Belleville.
Fire, Accident and Plate Glass Insurance effected in the oldest and most reliable companies.
REAL ESTATE AGENT.
Stocks and bonds bought and sold.

R. H. KETCHESON
Agent for
Queen Fire Insurance Co.; York Fire Insurance Co.; Inter-State Live Stock Insurance.
Canadian Railway Accident Insurance Co.

ROBERT BOGLE
MERCANTILE AGENCY.
Insurance, Real Estate, Loans Negotiated, Accountant, Auditor, Estates Managed. Office: 28 Bridge Street.

LAUNDRY.

QUINTE LAUNDRY
Work done by the Quinte Laundry is guaranteed to be satisfactory in every way.
Shirts, Collars and Cuffs our specialty. Family work done by the dozen.
W. R. VALLANCE .. .. .. .. .. Manager
Phone 330.

BUS, AUTO AND CABS.

ASELSTINE'S
BUS, CAB AND TRANSFER LINE.
Special cabs, broughams and carriages, all rubber tired; for weddings, private driving or funerals. The finest turnouts in town.
Office and stables, cor. Moira and Centre Streets. Tweed Stage in connection.
Phone 223.

MEDICAL.

JOHN J. FARLEY, M.D., C.M.,
M.R.C.S., England.
Office and Residence: Corner of Bridge and George Streets; three streets east of the Post Office.

DR. J. CHANT
Specialist in Diseases of Eye, Ear, Nose and Throat, and Fitting of Glasses.
Office: Corner Queen and John Streets. Phone 718.

MONEY.

Private money to loan on mortgages on farms and other real estate, at lowest rate of interest, on terms to suit borrowers.
Apply to
S. MASSON
Barrister, etc.
Over Wallbridge & Clarke's Bridge St., Belleville.

MINING

BELLEVILLE ASSAY OFFICE
Ores and minerals of all kinds tested and assayed. Samples sent by mail or express will receive prompt attention. All results guaranteed. Office and Laboratory, 185 Pinnacle St., opposite market. Telephone 386.

ENGINEERING.

J. D. EVANS, C.E. & O.L.S.
J. W. EVANS, C.E & M.E.
EVANS & EVANS
Civil and Mining Engineers, and Ontario Land Surveyors.
Belleville and Trenton.
Belleville Office: 185 Pinnacle Street, opposite market. Telephone 386.

AUCTIONEER.

J. L. PALMER
We specialize on City sales.
Terms Reasonable
Belleville Box 182 Ontario
LICENSED AUCTIONEER.
for counties of Hastings, Prince Edward Northumberland, Lennox and Addington.
Office: over Bell Telephone, opposite Post Office, Bridge St. Prompt attention.

"COLLIP"
FLORIST
Night Phone 175. Day Phone 206.
All kinds of Cut Flowers and Plants in Season.
Wedding and Funeral designs specialty, shipped to all parts.
Front Street.

OUR LINES
Automobile Storage and Car Repairing
Supplies
Bicycle Repairing
Motor Cycle Repairing
Gas Engine Work
Electrical Contracting
Electrical Supplies
Oxy-Acetyline Welding
Locksmithing
Machine Work
Storage Battery Care and Charging
General and Steel Repairing
Call and see us, whether you do business or not, at
The Garage
GREENLEAF & SON
Phone 83. 288 Pinnacle St.

GOD BLESS OUR HOME

After the Honeymoon
is the time when domestic help becomes pressing. A Want Ad. in our paper will solve the problem.
Desirable people who want employment appreciate its value and consult the "Help Wanted" ads.

Advertise in The Intelligencer.

STORM SASH AND DOORS
Made to your order, any Shape or Size
SAVE YOUR COAL BILLS
The Holton Lumber Co. Limited
EVERYTHING IN LUMBER
Phones 112-1197
Offices 1 Bride St. W; Water St.

The Daily Intelligencer.

Established 1850
FURNITURE & UNDERTAKING
TICKELL & SONS CO.
SPECIAL — AT COST
49 VERANDAH CHAIRS

LET THERE BE HARMONY IN THINGS ESSENTIAL—LIBERALTY IN THINGS NOT ESSENTIAL—CHARITY IN ALL.

Vol. 48 BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO, SATURDAY, OCTOBER 24, 1914. No. 143

Churchill Has Defender Against Times' Criticism

Attacks Indicate Desire to Rob Parliament of its Control Says Star

ABLE AND DEVOTED HEAD

No Use in Overthrowing German Militarist Tyranny Only to Set up Another in England

LONDON, Oct. 23.—There is a good deal of criticism of Winston Churchill in one section of the press, while a defence is made in another section.

After the fall of Antwerp, the Morning Post printed an editorial article attacking Mr. Churchill, on the ground that the despatch of an inadequate British force of marines and naval reserves was bad strategy. The Times and the Daily Mail reprinted the Morning Post's article.

When the Admiralty's explanation of the reasons which induced the despatch of the British force to Antwerp was made public, the Morning Post stopped its criticisms of the First Lord.

The Times today, however, returned to the charge, adverting patricularly to the German cruiser Emden's successful raids on British commerce.

"There is a general feeling," says The Times, "that the Admiralty is not devoting sufficient thought and attention to its legitimate responsibility upon the high seas. Amphibious warfare may be attractive, but we prefer to see the royal navy pre-occupied with blue water. There is a tendency for the Admiralty to be too diffuse of its activities."

The Star says: "We resent the daily attacks on the Admiralty, because they are obviously inspired by somebody who wants to get rid of the whole system by which a civilian, responsible to Parliament, is at the head of the Department. The matter has been discussed over and over again, and the balance of opinion has always been in favor of a civilian minister, surrounded by professional advisors. The rule has been abandoned in the case of the War Office for reasons peculiar to the recent history of that department.

"The result of this intrigue, if it were successful, would be to deprive the Admiralty of the ablest and most devoted head it has had in our time, and to deprive the House of Commons of any control over the fleet.

"We have not started to fight against one militarist tyranny in order to set up another here."

WOULD FIGHT GERMANS

William Rand, Sentenced at London for Horse Stealing, Has Forwarded Petition to the Minister of Justice

KINGSTON, Oct. 23.—There is a convict in the penitentiary who is very anxious to go on the second overseas contingent.

He is William Rand, alias Gallagher, and for this reason he is having a petition forwarded to the minister of justice asking for his release on parole.

Rand believes that his chances for liberty are good as he has just got the consent of the magistrate who sentenced him, J. C. Judd, of London.

The warden of the penitentiary forwarded a communication to Magistrate Judd concerning Rand and he has reported in favor of allowing him out of the "pen" for the purpose of going to the front. A number of other people have signed the petition and it is to be sent to the minister of justice.

The prisoner was sentenced in London to three years for horse stealing on Jan. 9th, 1913. It is stated that during his incarceration he has been a model prisoner and he has earned ninety-eight day's reduction of his time out of a possible 103.

The London magistrate says he is in favor of allowing all the prisoners out who really want to go to the front.

CANADA'S GIFT LAY ON DOCKS

LONDON, Oct. 23.—The Standard states that 250,000 bags of flour and 4,000,000 pounds of cheese, a war gift to the Mother Country from Canada, has been lying on the London docks for the past two months because of the difficulty in discovering who is responsible for its handling. It has now been ascertained that the local Government board is responsible and its members are busy considering what is to be done with the food. It is possible that some of it will be given to the hungry Belgians in London.

WOMEN SPIES SUFFER THE DEATH PENALTY

Nearly as Many German Women as Men are Shot for Spying Out Conditions of Enemy--Cannot Handle the French Words Without Being Detected

NORTH FRANCE, Oct. 24.—Special—No lists or even figures are officially disclosed, but the shooting of batches of spies takes place daily in this and other towns of the district, and in these last three days there have been nearly as many women shot as men. It is most hard for the veteran who loathes the task of shooting women, but, according to the laws of war, it must be done. They are lined up with men, often young girls or women of refinement, at the zenith of their charm and beauty, and so, according to their lights, they give their lives for their country, and meet their death as bravely as any man. So many spies have been caught in France recently that the possession of papers, apparently in good order, avails a man or woman nothing once an accusation has been made or a suspicion levelled.

It is claimed that no German tongue can ever pronounce certain French words without betraying their Teuton origin. It is failure to pass tests of this kind which condemn. The papers may have been stolen and the signature on the passport learned so that the holder can produce a passable imitation of it at will. Spies even have been caught with their own photographs superimposed upon others on the passports and the official stamp on the photograph counterfieited. I saw a woman challenged in the street yesterday seized and hauled to the gendarmerie. She was well dressed, and the last type which the ordinary home-staying British people would suspect of espionage, apparently a prosperous widow of about thirty, leading a little boy by the hand, but I have heard since that it proved a clear case. She had evaded the war regulation of the local authorities, that strangers must not remain more than twenty-four hours in any town in this part of France without reporting personally to the police, by changing her lodgings literally every day of the week. Her plan was apparently to take a Folkestone boat as soon as she was ready.

Antwerp Almost Clear of Germans

Locomotives Captured, But Possibly to Aid in Retreat

LONDON Oct. 23.—A despatch from Rotterdam to The Star says:

The movement of the German troops westward from Antwerp left only a few hundred men in the town. The last batch left yesterday morning and the great forts are without guards. The German wounded from the front are being quartered at the Soo.

A traveller who has just left the city says that some one restored the Belgian flag to the Town Hall and the Germans did not bother to take it down.

The whole Belgian coast is now deserted by the population, the military being in sole possession. At Ostend over a hundred Belgian locomotives have been collected.

The correspondent hazards the guess that they are for use in a retreat.

INDIAN TROOPS PRAISED

France's Black Soldiers Condemned for Bloodthirstiness

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23.—High praise for native Indian troops sent to France by Great Britain and condemnation of the French black troops from Senegal, was contained in an official wireless from the Foreign Office at Berlin, which was made public at the German Embassy to-day. It read:

"The Roman paper, 'Tribuna' publishes an interview with an Italian deputy, just returned from France, expressing admiration for the Indian troops seen at Marseilles. The Senegal troops also made the best impression, though they were so bloodthirsty that the French army commander was often prevented from sending them to the front. These negro forces often killed without their officers' knowledge. German prisoners say that once these Senegalese murdered all the German war prisoners in a railway 'transport."

Custom Report of Dominion

The Grand Aggregate Returns are Given as $1,129,744,725--Exports are $478,997,928

OTTAWA, Oct. 23.—The annual report of the Department of Customs issued to-day reviews of the trade of Canada, Customs revenue and shipments in comparative tables covering the whole period since Confederation. The grand aggregate trade of the last fiscal year is given as $1,129,744,725, of which the exports amounted to $478,997,928 and the imports to $650,746,797. The duty collected amounted to $107,180,578.33, the percentage of duty on the total value of goods entered for consumption dutiable and free being 16.91, as against 17.03 in the previous year. The Custom duty collected is shown by ports, and under this head there are some large totals. $24,460,814.03 being collected at Montreal and $18,866,881.27 at Toronto.

Salvation Officers Load Beer Wagons

Brewery and Army Work Hand in Hand to Distribute Apples

TORONTO, Oct. 23.—Charity, like misfortune, makes unusual bedfellows. It will be news to many of the citizens of Toronto that the Salvation Army and O'Keefe's Brewery are working together for the same end—to bring apples to the poor. Both yesterday and today O'Keefe Brewery trucks have been bringing apples into the city and distributing them to the homes of the poor. Salvation Army officers may be seen loading the trucks.

Two cars and a truck left the city for scouting today, and there are still three or four hundred bags waiting to be brought in. Two truck loads were again distributed today, but the work will have to faster now in its race with the frost or great numbers of apples will be lost. Trucks and motors are still wanted.

For the last two days the settlements and local agencies have been besieged by crowds of children asking for apples and "apples cards." The demand is inexhaustible. Not so the supply.

MOUNTIES TO SEARCH ALIENS POLICE ACT IN THE EAST

OTTAWA, Oct. 23.—A stricter surveillance of Austrian and German citizens living in Canada is being undertaken as a result of the bomb outrage in Montreal, and the orders in England to arrest all alien enemies. Shortly after the war broke out an order was passed ordering all alien enemies to surrender their firearms by September 15th.

This order has not been very rigorously enforced, but the Dominion Police in the east and the Royal Northwest Mounted Police in the west will begin to-day strictly to enforce this order, and in places where there are settlements of Austrians and Germans not naturalized Canadians, search will likely be made

There are now slightly over six hundred prisoners of war in Canada. The largest number are confined at Fort Henry, Kingston; others are at Halifax, Montreal, Toronto, Winnipeg, Lethbridge, Victoria and several other points. In addition some two thousand prisoners have been let out on parole, and have to report to the authorities at stated intervals.

Elaborate Net of Spy System A Broken Reed

Information Transmitted from England to Berlin Said to be Worse Than Useless

UNPLEASANT SURPRISE

Immediate Arrest of German Emissaries Showed that All Operations Were Known in England

LONDON, Oct. 23.—A German officer interned with some other prisoners of war in South Ireland has given to the English officer in charge of the prisoners some information which throws an interesting light on the Germans' view of the results of their elaborate system of espionage.

According to the German officer, it was fully believed at German headquarters that as soon as the British mobilization was ordered, the transport workers would strike. This information was conveyed to the German headquarters staff three weeks before the outbreak of the war, and was fully relied on. According to the German officer, the information came from a spy who was supposed to be closely in touch with working-class organizations in England.

This spy was in Berlin when war was declared, and later, when his information proved to be false, was arrested. A similar fate has also overtaken several other spies, who had evidently been manufacturing information for which they were highly paid. Some of these men, according to the German officer, have been shot.

Most definite, and apparently accurate, information kept reaching Grman military headquarters, up to the outbreak of the war, concerning the recruiting possibilities in England in the event of war. All this information, gleaned from every part of England, Ireland, Scotland and Wales, confirmed the German military authorities of the belief that 400,000 would be the limit of England's recruiting power. It was believed that when no more voluntary recruits could be obtained in England, conscription would have to be resorted to, and this would lead to political divisions and break up all chance of political unity.

Such, according to the German officer, was the information which the Kaiser and his military organizers received and believed. A general election, fought on the question of conscription, was to be one of the events which would lead to England's downfall somewhere about October or November.

Now, apparently, great distrust of all information received from spies who have been working in England prevails at German military and naval headquarters, and plans based on such information are continually revised or altered altogether.

Perhaps the biggest and most unpleasant surprise that awaited the Kaiser and his advisors at the outbreak of the war was the immediate arrest in England of certain spies, which disclosed the hitherto unsuspected fact to their masters that the business on which these men had engaged in England was fully known to the British Government. If there was one thing that the Germans believed more than another, it was that their spies were, for the most part entirely unsuspected.

With the exception of a few highly-placed personages, from whom the Germans probably received some trustworthy information, every German spy in this country was known to Scotland Yard, as was also, most probably, the character of the information he was giving and, therefore he was allowed to give it to his government. In this connection, it is a noteworthy fact that nearly all the Germans now placed in confinement in England are of the well-bred classes.

THREW BABES IN WELL; JUMPED IN HERSELF

(Canadian Press Despatch)

NORTH BAY, Ont., Oct. 24.—A woman named Cipperone this morning threw her two children, aged four and two, into a well and then jumped in herself. The third child, aged nine, escaped. The children were dead when taken out, but the mother will recover. She is now in the hopsital in hysteries.

When is a fort not a fort? About two days after the enemy's artillery arrives.

RETIRING MOVEMENT OF ENEMY STILL OPERATIVE

Cannot Face The Blasting Fire From Land And Sea Forces-British And French Troops Steadily Advancing-- Antwerp and Brussels About to be Evacuated

(Canadian Press Special Exclusively to The Intelligencer)

STRONGLY ENTRENCHED

GENEVA, Oct. 24.—None of the German heavy artillery has arrived before Verdun or Belfort as yet, according to the correspondent of the Tribune, who has returned to Basle after visiting the French and German frontier for a week. The correspondent says Belfort is so well armed it would take 300,000 men with heavy artillery a long time to oust the French, which army the Germans cannot afford.

FOUR THOUSAND GERMANS WOUNDED

An Amsterdam despatch says reports from the front declare the battle near the coast is still undecided, although the Germans are falling back at certain points near the Belgian frontier. Four thousand wounded Germans were brought into Bruges today. Three hundred Germans have been killed by an advance Belgian battery in the woods near Bruges.

PIER THOUGHT TO BE BLOWN UP

ROTTERDAM, Oct. 24.—According to a report from Flushing, published in the Nieuve Courant, a tremendous explosion was heard at 7.30 Friday night on the Belgian coast, followed by another at eight. Coast guards think the pier at Zeebruge was blown up.

FRENCH SHIP ASHORE

LONDON, Oct. 24.—A despatch to Lloyd's says the French ship Marie Henriette, with wounded soldiers on board, is ashore near Cherbourg and is sending out wireless signals. Another vessel is standing by.

FRENCH MAKING MATERIAL ADVANCES

PARIS, Oct. 24.—The afternoon official communication says: "The Germans have made progress to the north of Dixmude and in the vicinity of La-Basse, but the French have made material advances to the east of Nieuport in the region of Langmarck and between Armentieres and Lille.

WARSAW BATTLE FAVORABLE TO ALLIES

In Russia the Germans are retreating to the south of Warsaw as well as to the west of Ivangorod and Nova Alexandria. Desperate fighting continues in Galacia on the Sandomir front. At Przemysl the Russians have taken two thousand Austrians prisoners.

THE COAST FIGHT CONTINUES FIERCELY

LONDON, Oct. 24—Despatches from Paris last night state that the battle along the coast continues fiercely. It is reported that the Germans are unable to mount their big guns, owing to the fire from the fleet.

GERMANS LEAVING ANTWERP AND BRUSSELS

It is reported at Rotterdam that the Germans are preparing to leave Antwerp and that German officers' wives have been ordered to leave Brussels within 48 hours.

ENGLISH WARSHIPS STILL IN ACTION

A despatch from Flushing reports that the English warships are maintaining a heavy cannonade on the coast.

MAJOR-GENERAL HUGHES THANKS CONGRATULATORS

Knighthood is the Next Honor Expected to be Given Him

OTTAWA, Oct. 24.—(Special.)—A cable was received at the Militia Department last night from Major-General the Hon. Sam Hughes, thanking the Militia Council for a message of congratulation on his new rank. General Hughes added in the cable message that he expected to be back in the capital within from ten to fifteen days. It is fully expected in Ottawa that General Hughes will be Knighted at New Year's.

JUDGMENT FOR TOWNSHIP

Ontario Railway Board Holds N.Y.C. Bridge Assessable.

CORNWALL, Oct. 24.—(Special.)—The Ontario Railway and Municipal Board has given judgment in favor of the township of Cornwall in a case between the New York Central Railway, Ottawa and New York division, and Cornwall township. Mr. Justice Britton gave judgment last June, holding the International Bridge crossing the River St. Lawrence, west of Cornwall assessable. The railway company appealed to the Ontario Railway Board, which has now given judgment in favor of the township, upholding the assessment of $300,000 placed upon the bridge by the township.

HINDUS ARRESTED FOR CONSPIRACY

(Canadian Press Despatch)

VANCOUVER, B.C., Oct. 24.—Three Hindus were arrested early this morning in connection with an alleged widespread conspiracy to assassinate the immigration officers, one of whom, Wm. C. Hopkinson, was shot dead on Wednesday morning.

Clergyman Will Return to Duties

Rev. Dean Starr, of Kingston, Answers Bishop's Order

KINGSTON, Oct. 23.—A few days ago the Bishop of Kingston at the request of the Vestry of St. George's Cathedral, sent a letter to Rev. Dr. Starr, Dean of Ontario and Rector of St. George's that he must return to his duties by January first next, or tender his resignation. Dean Starr went to the Old Country in search of health and when the war broke out, offered his services as chaplain and drill instructor. The offer was accepted. Now the vestry of St. George's feel that if he was able to discharge these military duties, he was able to return and resume his work in the Cathedral, hence they demanded hs resignation. This morning a cablegram was received from Dean Starr stating that at the Bishop's request he will return and take up his duties again in St. George's Cathedral on January 1.

SON IS BORN TO QUEEN OF SPAIN

(Candaian Press Despatch)

MADRID, Oct. 24.—A son was born this morning to Queen Victoria of Spain, granddaughter of the late Queen Victoria of England. The son born today is the sixth child.

DR. MACTAVISH RETIRES

TORONTO, Oct. 24.—(Special.)—Rev. Dr. W. S. MacTavish, who for the past three years has been a Field Secretary of the Dominion Alliance, has tendered his resignation, and has requested that he be released at the end of November. Previous to taking up work with the Alliance, Dr. MacTavish was pastor of Cooke's Church, Kingston.

OPENING OF NEW RESIDENCES ONTARIO SCHOOL FOR DEAF

The new residences at the Ontario School for the Deaf will be opened October 30, by the Honorable W. H. Hearst, Premier of the Province, and the Honorable Dr. Pyne, Minister of Education. Owing to lack of room, admission to the opening ceremonies will be by invitation.

Kaiserites Make Disturbance on Quebec Train

Naval Reservists Menaced Russian Who Told Conductor of Alleged Threat

WIRED AHEAD FOR POLICE

Constables and Detectives Beat Train to Station in Auto, Rushed Car and Effected Arrests

MONTREAL, Oct. 23.—Considerable excitement was caused on the Quebec train arriving at the Place Viger Station at 10 o'clock last night, when after the train had left Three Rivers two German naval reservists, en route to Montreal, caused a disturbance by offering to do battle with several of their fellow passengers, particularly a Russian, whom the Germans are said to have threatened with death. Greater excitement was created in local police circles and among the C.P.R. police authorities when a wire from the conductor of the train gave the impression that a party of Germans armed with revolvers were holding up passengers and threatening them with instant death. A force of C.P.R. and city police took the men from the train at the Mile End station and they will appear in court this morning.

The two prisoners are Frederick Fischer, 29 years of age, a German, and Severs Youssen, 26 years of age, claiming to be a Swede, but who by papers found in his possession is known to be a German naval reservist like his companion. The pair took the train at Quebec yesterday afternoon and their first indication of being troublesome was when the conductor asked one of them for his ticket. The first one asked replied, "Oh, my friend has both tickets." When the conductor reached the other he was given the same story, and the pair seemed to think the affair a huge joke. After vainly demanding the tickets several times, the conductor was forced to bring C.P.R. Detective Cuivillier up from the baggage car to enforce the handing over of the tickets.

The men, it is said, took occasional drinks from a bottle and later they became quarrelsome. Picking out a Russian as a victim, they are alleged to have threatened him with violence. The Rusisan understood German, and from the conversation between the two men in that tongue he learned they were reservists and heard them making threats against the English, French and Russians who happened to be passengers, and, according to the Russian, even threatened to blow up the train itself. From the nature of their talk, the Russian concluded that they had firearms, and he reported the affair to the conductor.

The conductor wired the Mile End station from St. Martin, with instructions to have police waiting at the station upon the train's arrival. The detective office was notified and as there was not time to reach the Mile End station from down-town, police stations numbers 15, 20 and 21 were notified to send men to the station, while Detectives J. Foucault and Daoust were sent up from headquarters to try to make the train.

With nine minutes in which to reach the station in time to meet the train, Captain Charland and three men of the St. Hubert street station commandeered an automobile and arrived just as the train pulled into the yards. The conductor was ready to point out to the police the car in which the Germans had established themselves and Captain Charland with his men and a squad of C.P.R. detectives rushed the car almost before the train came to a stop, and before the Germans had a chance to move they were surrounded, overpowered and handcuffs were snapped upon their wrists.

The two men made no struggle when hauled from the train and placed in the waiting automobile. The prisoners were taken to the Laurier avenue police station and locked up, to appear in court this morning. A formal charge of being disorderly on a C.P.R. train was laid against them by C.P.R. Detective Cuivillier, but the case is being thoroughly investigated, and the charge may be changed today. Last night they refused to give the police any information about themselves, aside from their names and ages.

The C.P.R. police are holding several Russians as witnesses, among them the man who reported the conversation of the pair to the conductor, while the names of several other passengers were taken by the police to be called upon as witnesses in the case. No arms were found on either prisoner.

Fall is a good time to fence. Keep the hired man and let him fence after other fall work is done until it freezes up.

Copeland's Cure For Consumption

WINS CONFIDENCE BY ITS WONDERFUL CURATIVE POWERS.

MR. W. R. COPELAND.

Dear Sir—Now that I am well and strong again, I write to state that the fact I am alive today witnesses to the merit of your medicine.

My doctor, a specialist, said that I had the worst kind of consumption and that it was impossible for me to live. He gave me only eight to ten days before the disease would terminate fatally. He also said that it was no use in treating me, as I was too far gone.

I was left to die, but a friend of mine told me about your medicine and procured me a bottle. Without much hope, I tried it. It did wonders. First the weakening perspiration stopped and the food I took stayed in the stomach. After a second bottle, I commenced to regain my appetite and was up in a few days of the time that the doctor said I should die. Five weeks later I was at work and have been working ever since.

I wish everyone could know the worth of your medicine, especially those afflicted with consumption as I was, for I undoubtedly owe my life to its use. I will at all times cheerfully answer any correspondence, and you are at liberty to publish this letter if you think it will help to recommend your medicine to others. I remain, Gratefully yours,

DAVID WARNOCK, Street Car Conductor,
201 Withrow Ave., Toronto.

The remarkable power of this medicine marks it as one of the greatest discoveries of this century. Its work is only just started, but it is safe to say that its reputation will grow world-wide.

It is a blessing, as all who have used it testify. To the real "down-and-out" consumptive, the chronic sufferers from bronchial and lung troubles—it is something more than a blessing. To them it means the difference between happiness and misery, and sometimes life instead of a grave.

It is a medicine that is honest. No false claims are made for it. It is good, most beneficiently good for the ailments specified above. These, even consumption, it will tackle, fight and OVERCOME. If you have a bad cough or cold—take this medicine. If you are a consumptive—take this medicine, for a greater medicine for consumption has NEVER BEEN KNOWN. If you are troubled with bronchitis and can't sleep at night for coughing—take this medicine. Your trouble will become a memory. If your throat or lungs are in any way weak or sensitive—take this medicine—and they will become strong and normal.

Cavities heal under its benign influence. Congestion is freed by its action to remove phlegm until the lungs are clear and work naturally without pain or distress. Emaciation, night sweats, poor appetite, inability to retain food in the stomach—all these effects of disease are mastered and the system built up under its curative and nourishing powers.

Ask your druggist, or send direct to us. Price, $1.00 per bottle. Testimonials of many others can be had on request. 2-14

COPELAND MEDICINE CO., Limited, 511 Pape Ave., Toronto

Coal or Wood Heaters

Don't run the risk of catching a bad cold by putting off the purchase of a heater. Buy it now, and be prepared for the first cold weather.

Heaters for Coal or Wood, large Base Burners, Quebec Heaters, etc. Just what you want for your house.

THE THOMPSON FURNITURE CO.

UNDERTAKERS Phones: Day, 62; Night, 295.

AN AUTHORITY

Sir James Grant, the eminent medical authority, made the following suggestion to the Medical Council: "Every individual should be submitted to a physical examination at least once a year, to the end that any disease or bodily ills could be detected before they advanced to a dangerous degree."

THE

POLICY-HOLDERS MUTUAL LIFE

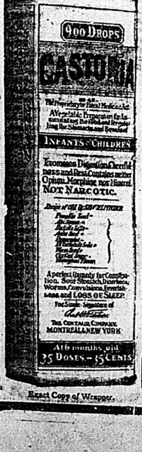
is the only Canadian Company giving its policy-holders the privilege of a FREE ANNUAL PHYSICAL EXAMINATION. This is one of the many exclusive features of this Company.

Local Agent, A. C. TUMMON, 19 Cedar St., Belleville.
Asst. Supt. of Agencies, J. E. PARKS, Belleville.



900 DROPS
CASTORIA
The Proprietary or Patent Medicine Act.
A Vegetable Preparation for Assimilating the Food and Regulating the Stomachs and Bowels of
INFANTS & CHILDREN
Promotes Digestion, Cheerfulness and Rest. Contains neither Opium, Morphine nor Mineral. NOT NARCOTIC.
A perfect Remedy for Constipation, Sour Stomach, Diarrhoea, Worms, Convulsions, Feverishness and LOSS OF SLEEP.
Fac Simile Signature of
THE CENTAUR COMPANY, MONTREAL & NEW YORK
At 6 months old
35 DOSES – 35 CENTS

Exact Copy of Wrapper.

CASTORIA

For Infants and Children.

Mothers Know That Genuine Castoria Always Bears the Signature of

Chas. H. Fletcher.

In Use For Over Thirty Years

CASTORIA

THE CENTAUR COMPANY, NEW YORK CITY.

GERMANS ON OFFENSIVE

Allies Gain Ground at Some Points and Lose at Others.

Unceasing Conflict Continues Along Entire Line Without Marked Result—Persistent Reports of Capture of Lille by Allies Are Current—Experts Believe That Kaiser's Attack Will Weaken Steadily.

LONDON, Oct. 24. — The Germans have undertaken a general offensive movement along the line extending from the River Yser, on the North Sea, to the River Meuse, and while they have compelled the allies to give ground in some places they themselves have lost positions in others. This, in a few words, is what is gathered from official reports coming last night from the French and German headquarters.

The German attack yesterday was particularly severe in the west, where their right wing, strongly reinforced by fresh troops, attempted an advance against the Belgians, who are holding the allies' extreme left. This left rests on the coast and is supported by British and French warships and by Anglo-French troops, which form a front from a point somewhere in the vicinity of Dixmude southward to La Bassee Canal. Both sides claim successes, but the French alone admit that in places they have been compelled to fall back.

Generally, however, there is little or no change in the situation, the swinging and swaying of the lines being the same as has been going on for weeks.

The French yesterday captured Altkirch, Upper Alsace, at the point of the bayonet.

A heavy battle is raging in Belgium about 20 miles south of the Ghent-Bruges line and north of Roulers, according to The Telegraaf's correspondent in Suis, Holland. Roulers was again bombarded by the Germans on Thursday.

"Fugitives from Roulers declare," says the correspondent, "that forty inhabitants of that town were shot by the Germans during the invaders' occupation, and that all the prominent citizens were taken as hostages.

"There is no confirmation of the report that the allies have broken through the German lines near Eecloo."

Putting together the fact of the Kaiser's placing what is practically a mob of raw recruits on the battle front, and the special attention that is now being paid to plans for the sea and air forces, military experts have formed the opinion that the Kaiser's offensive plan of campaign against France has passed its maximum strength, and that from this time on the Germans' efforts will show a weakening.

Reinforcements of British troops are now being concentrated at a point near Havre as a reserve army, to take up the task of defending the sea coast should the Germans succeed in defeating the Belgian army at the River Yser. Such a defeat, it is argued, would enable the Kaiser to carry out his cherished project of hurling a huge army against Dunkirk, and possibly Calais. At present, however, the tide of battle is taking the other turn at the Yser, and the gallant little Belgian army, with an allied British and French squadron sweeping the Belgian seaboard, in defiance of submarine attacks, has won a victory for the allies by forcing the crossing of the Yser, where they aided in blocking German raids on Dunkirk and Calais, and are now firmly established on the right bank of the river.

Heavy reinforcements have enabled the Germans to attack with increased vigor the right wing of the allied armies in France, while continuing the violent attacks upon the Belgian, British and French armies, which are resisting their advance over the coast and canal region of Belgium and northeastern France.

The forces of Crown Prince William yesterday failed in a desperate attack on the French at St. Mihiel. In the Meuse region the Germans are striving to halt the advance of the French toward Etain, an important station commanding the railway to Metz.

Berlin's official day report says that the Germans were successful on Thursday along the Yser Canal, advanced south of Dixmude, and attacked with success west of Lille, occupying a number of villages. However, persistent but unconfirmed reports say that Lille has been recaptured by the allies.

Prince Not Murdered.

LONDON, Oct. 24. — The mystery surrounding the fate of Prince Maximilian of Hesse, a son of the youngest sister of Emperor William, has been disposed of in a report given out by the official information bureau yesterday.

In this it is announced that Prince Maximilian, a young man of 20 years, was mortally wounded Oct. 12 in the hard fighting in the neighborhood of Mont des Cats. He was buried on the grounds of the monastery crowning this hill, together with three British officers and some German soldiers.

Astrologer Predicts Victory

NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—In an address Dr. A. Z. Stevenson, president of the Astrological Society, declared: "Germany will be driven out of France in a decisive battle, to be fought beween Nov. 5 and 7; the Kaiser will be forced to relinquish his throne by the middle of next January; the Russians will be in Berlin in April, and the present European war will last about two years.

All Greek to Father.

"Pa, does money talk?"

"Yes, my boy."

"What language does it speak?"

"Some foreign tongue that I'm not familiar with."—Baltimore Sun.

The most that foreign powers can reasonably ask of Uncle Sam is to remain neutral and boom business.

Style is one of the principal ingredients in a dressmaker's bill.

MAGIC BAKING POWDER

We unhesitatingly recommend Magic Baking Powder as being the best, purest and most healthful baking powder that it is possible to produce. CONTAINS NO ALUM All ingredients are plainly printed on the label.

MAGIC BAKING POWDER

E.W.GILLETT CO. LTD.
TORONTO, ONT.
WINNIPEG-MONTREAL

IN AND ABOUT THE CITY

Condensed News Items For Busy Readers.

CHARGE DISMISSED

Loughton Webster, who was accused of assaulting his wife, was this morning by Magistrate Masson discharged. The wife did not desire to press the charge and Webster promised to do better in the future than he had in the past.

LARGE POTATOES

Mr. A. Moore, who resides in the 4th Concession of Sidney Township near Frankford Village, has grown some exceptionally large potatoes. Seven of the tubers filled a peck measure, and one weighed two and three quarter pounds. The total weight of the seven was sixteen pounds, two ounces. They were of the New Brunswick variety.

THE MARKET

There was an excellent attendance upon the market this morning and prices for all produce offered for sale was good. The ruling price for butter was 32c. per pound, fresh eggs, 30c. per dozen, dressed chickens from 75c. to $1.50 per pair, ducks from $1.25 to $1.50 per pair. Potatoes were plentiful and sold at 75cts. per bag.

Saturday Night Bargains At Ritchie's.

Our advertisement on page 8 tells you about these Twenty-Five Extraordinary Bargains which are offered to-night between the hours of 7 and 9.30. Read about them carefully, then come in and take advantage of them to-night. Watch for the Blue Price Cards.

The Ritchie Company Limited.

Read Hyman's Special Price Advertisement on page 7.

SHOES FOR BELGIAN WOMEN AND CHILDREN

CAMPBELLFORD, Oct. 24.—The Weston Shoe Company of Campbellford, will make about 1,460 pairs of shoes for the women and children of Belgian families. The town will pay for one half of the stock and the Weston people the other half. The employees of the factory all agreed to give their time free of charge.

King And Kaiserdom

Toronto World says: Sides of church bulged wide when Dr. JAS. HUGHES spoke at Dale Presbyterian Church, Toronto, on King and Kaiserdom. By request Dr. Hughes will give this lecture at HOLLOWAY ST. METHODIST CHURCH, Monday evening, Oct. 26th. ANNUAL TEA AND LECTURE.—40cts. 22-23-24

See Hyman's List of Bargains on page 7.

DANCING.

Academy, Alberta Hall.

Mr. and Mrs. Johnstone's Select Social Practice Classes are held every Monday and Thursday Evening, 8.30 to 11. Private instruction daily. Private lessons at any hour by appointment. Phone 750. sm

Cattle in low flesh now are hard keepers all winter. Do not delay feeding too late in the season.

Slippery Sidewalks are Safe and you walk with a sure-footed tread when your winter boots are heeled with

CAT'S PAW

CUSHION RUBBER HEELS

MADE IN CANADA

Don't let the sidewalks trip you. Don't be laid up with a sprained wrist or ankle, or a broken leg or twisted back. Walk safely—step surely—on "CAT'S PAW" Rubber Heels.

They are made of Para Rubber—and are the lightest, longest wearing rubber heels in the world, regardless of price.

YET THEY COST NO MORE

At all dealers—put on—50c.

Don't ask for "Rubber Heels"—Insist on having "CAT'S PAW"

Put me in an envelope with 15 cents in stamps or silver, and send me to Walpole Rubber Company Limited, 8 McGill College Avenue, Montreal.

AND YOU WILL GET

The heel with nine lives
I never slip
CATS PAW
Cushion Rubber Heels

A "CAT'S PAW" Self-closing TOBACCO POUCH—made from Para Rubber.

159

C. N. R. LINE TO BUFFALO

$1,500,000 Company Incorporated Under New York Charter

BUFFALO, Oct. 23.—Plans are under way by interests connected with the Canadian Northern for construction of a bridge across the Niagara river below Whirlpool rapids. The object is to give that road a connection with Buffalo over Ontaria Power Company's right-of-way to Lockport and thence to Buffalo over Buffalo, Lockport & Rochester Electric line. State legislature has already granted a franchise and a congressional committee has inspected the site of the proposed bridge.

A preparatory move was incorporation, at Albany, of Niagara River & Eastern Railroad, capitalized at $1,500,000 for building and operating the road and necessary bridges.

A FATHER'S HEINOUS CRIME

BERLIN, Ont., Oct. 24.—Special—George Maheux, father of nine children, was sentenced by Magistrate Weir in Police Court this morning to two years less one day in the Ontario Reformatory on a charge of attempted incest. The plea of his solicitor, D. S. Bowlby, caused the magistrate to refrain from adding lashes to the sentence.

AN EASY WAY TO STOP HEAD NOISES

GOOD ADVICE FOR THOSE WHO FEAR DEAFNESS

Men and women who are growing hard of hearing and who experience stuffy feeling of pressure against their ear drums, accompanied by buzzing rumbling sounds in their head like water falling or steam escaping should take prompt and effective measures to stop this trouble. Head-noises are almost invariably the forerunners of complete or partial deafness and most people suffer from them constantly. Sometimes these head noises become so distracting and nerve racking, with their never ceasing "hum" they drive the sufferer almost frantic and complete nervous breakdown and even violent insanity have been known to result.

Thanks to a remarkable scientific discovery made recently in England it is now possible to almost instantly lessen the severity of these headnoises and in a very short time to completely and permanently overcome them. With the disappearing of the head noises, the hearing also greatly improves and very frequently can be restored to normal. This English treatment is known as Parmint and can be easily and safely self administered at home. Leading druggists in Belleville and vicinity now have it in stock. Get from your druggst 1 oz. Parmint (Double Strength) and mix it at home with ¼ pint of hot water and 4 oz. of granulated sugar. Stir until dissolved and hearing improves. Parmint is used double strength in this way not only to reduce, by tonic action, the inflammation and swelling in the Eustachian tube and thus to equalize the air pressure on the drum but to correct any excess of secretion in the middle ear and the result it gives are both remarkably quick and effective.

THE WEATHER.

Strong northerly winds, mostly colder to-day.

Sunday, northerly winds, much colder.

Try Our

DOUGHNUTS
FRIED CAKE
and
ALL KINDS OF PASTRY

Jas. Wallace & Co.

Have Hope and Confidence if you were born in October.

THE OPAL IS YOUR BIRTH-STONE

This stone is unique among stones in the variety of colors.

"When nature had finished painting the flowers, coloring the rainbow and dyeing the plumage of the birds, she swept the colors from her palette and moulded them into Opals.

Our ring stock includes much of this beautiful material in Solitaire settings and combinations with diamonds and pearls.

Angus McFee

Jeweler. Optician.
The Store with the Big Clock.

Wallbridge & Clarke's Delicious Coffee

Best in Quality
Best in Value

Neilson's Chocolates

Fresh Supplies

"Aristocratic", "Demonstrator", "Classic", "Empress", "Every Piece Different", "Cream Dipped Brazils", "De Lux", etc. etc.

Wallbridge & Clarke

Established 1871

Clean Your House With Electricity

Just at this time, house sweeping is being given serious thought. Why not clean your house with A VACUUM CLEANER? Cleans thoroughly, quickly, and takes the dirt out, flying.

The Trenton Electric and Water Company

Limited

Oswald H. Scott. Local Mgr.

Let us Develope and Finish Your Films. We Know How.

The Belleville Pharmacy

The Kodak Store, Bridge St.

☛ THE NEW STORE ☚

Saturday Specials

20 dozen ribbed wool Hose, sizes 6½ to 10; regular price 25c. to 35c. On sale Saturday at .................. 19c. pair
5 dozen Men's Sox, worth 20c. pair; on sale at .... 12½c. pair
7 pieces Plaid Dress Goods, regular price 25c. On sale at 21½c yd.
3 dozen Corset Covers, trimmed with lace, well made, regular price 35c. On sale at .................. 25c. each
3 dozen Men's Print Shirts, always sold at 90c. to $1.00; on sale at .................. 69c.
10 pieces Flannelette, worth 12½c. On sale at .... 10c. yard
3 dozen Tailored Blouses, up to the minute in stiyle; worth $1.00 to $1.50. On sale at .................. 69c. each
2 dozen Voile Blouses, regular $1.50; on sale at .......... 98c.
1 dozen Leather Hand Bags, worth from $1.25 to $2.00. On sale at .................. 59c.

WIMS & CO.

Misses' and Children's
White Thibet Sets
FROM $8 UP
AT
J. T. DELANEY
236½ Front St. Phone 797
(Over Blackburn's Jewellery Store)
N.B.---Special attention given to Repairing and Remodelling.

BANK OF MONTREAL

Established 1817
Capital, all paid up . . $16,000,000
Rest . . . . . . . . . . $16,000,000
SAVINGS BANK DEPARTMENT
Interest allowed on sums of $1.00 and upwards at current rates.
Banking hours, 10 to 3. Saturdays, 10 to 3.
R. TANNAHILL,
Manager Belleville Branch

We Never Sleep
The Hogan Burial Co.
Leading Undertakers
Our exclusive lines of caskets and several new additions in the line of funeral equipment make our parlors one of the most up-to-date in Canada. Open night and day.
Phone 774.
189 Front Street
Belleville

We are now showing our first importations, indicating the true trend of fashions for the approaching season in both Tailored and Dress Hats from the famous contouries of Paris.

McCrodan & Sills

All That's New
In Fall And Winter . . .
MILLINERY
Will be found at our store.
HATS for
Ladies, Girls and Children.
Moderate Prices
Miss M. Campbell

PORFIRIO DIAZ DEAD

Rumor Published by Mexican Afternoon Papers

MEXICO, Oct. 23.—The afternoon papers publish a rumor of the death of former President Portforio Diaz at Bordeaux, but without comment.

WALK-OVER SHOES
The Popular English kind

Are still in great favor with dressy men. We don't know of anything more refined than

The Carlton Model

It has the wanted bench made effect—the stitched sole swinging out wide and clear round the heel helps that—the toe recedes sharply, the eyelets, as fashion decrees, are invisible.

Comes in Tan or Black
The Price is
$5.00 and $6.00
the pair.
See Our Window Display

W. H. Adams
The Shoeman
Next Door to Sinclair's

NOTICE

To my Customers and the Public in General: Everybody knows that all kinds of Fat Stock are bringing record prices at the present time; but I have not raised my prices. I buy direct from the farmer for cash so as to give my customers the middleman's profits. Read these prices:—
Best Sirloin or Porter House Roasts or Steaks .................. 20c. lb
Legs of Lamb .................. 20c. lb
Lamb Chops .................. 20c. lb
Fore Quarters Lamb .................. 15c. lb
Best Round Steak .................. 18c. lb
Home made All Pork Sausages .. 15c. lb
Mixed Sausages ...... 10c. lb.; 3 lbs. for 25c.
Pure Home Rendered Lard .......... 18c
Choice Western Beef kept the year round.
GEO. I. THOMAS
377 Front Street. Phone 305.

INTELLIGENCER
NIGHT LETTER BOX

Our friends will find a letter box in The Intelligencer Front Door for the reception of news items after the office closing hours. The box will be emptied each morning

The British War Song
"It's a Long Way to Tipperary,"
and
Other British Patriotic Songs
on
Columbia, Rena and Jumbo Records
Double Disc. Will play on any machine
85c
CALL AND HEAR THEM
J. A. Goodsell & Co.,
316-318 FRONT STREET

The Childrens Shelter

To the Editor of The Intelligencer,

Dear Sir,—In respect to the premises which members of the Children's Aid Society thought would be a suitable place for a Shelter, not one of them would wish for a moment to have anything done in the matter that would harm or inconvenience any of their fellow citizens.

It may be stated that for some time every effort had been made to induce the county and the other municipalities interested in the work of saving the children, to aid in providing means to erect a proper Shelter. Estimates had been made on plans submitted for a suitable building the cost on which would amount to about $20,000, a large proportion of this cost was offered to be met by individual members of the Society, the county however could not be prevailed upon to contribute anything toward the end in view. Something had to be done or else abandon this philanthropic work altogether, for the premises at present occupied have been condemned by the Provincial authority as very unsafe and unsanitary. A proposal to repair and extend the present building to the extent needed would cost a large sum and was abandoned.

A short time ago the deputy provincial superintendent, together with our efficient local agent and some of the officers of the Society, sought to ascertain if a building could be secured in the city to meet the need. Among the places visited was the Dunnett property which the superintendent and our agent said would make an excellent and commodious Shelter. Someone present remarked that its situation might be objectionable to the neighborhood; the provincial officer replied that he did not think that would be the case as the general appearance of the premises would not be affected and the children when out of doors would always be enclosed in the ample grounds north-westward of the building out of sight of passers-by.

However, should it appear that any harm is likely to arise to any individual or loss to the neighborhood by the presence of the Shelter on this property, the matter no doubt would be reconsidered. Letters are coming addressed to me as president of the C. A Society. Dr. Farley is president and has been for a number of years, during which he has worked enthusiastically in promoting its benevolent purpose besides giving of his means and bestowing his professional services gratuitously.

It may be remarked that the harsh language being used just now against some members of the C. A. Society is utterly unjust, for instance the letter of Col. Ponton in the newspaper. It especially ill becomes that gentleman to accuse benevolent men and women of Belleville of seeking to glorify themselves by ostentation in their deeds of charity.

The motto on the crest of every member of the Children's Aid Society might rightfully be "Ostendo non Ostento." (I extend aid not for display).

THOS. RITCHIE.

Children Enjoy The Illustrations

But These are All of Unusual Interest to All Readers; Both Old And Young.

Nothing will interest a child so quickly as a picture. Art speaks a a universal language, intelligible to young and old alike, and with no embarrassment of moods and tenses. Accurate pictures intelligently conceived and artistically executed, appeal to the intellect through the "windows of the soul," whose portals let in a flood of light alike to the illiterate and the learned—to the child mind no less than to the student of ripe learning. For this reason the New Illustrated Bible which The Intelligencer is offering to its readers will be appreciated by every family in Belleville.

One need not be a member of a religious organization to appreciate this magnificent illustrated work. Everybody can use it as an everyday reference work—a historical treatise—key to familiar quotations. It is an education volume for progressive people of the present day and age.

This new $5 illustrated Bible is beautifully illustrated, and every picture bears directly upon the accompanying subject, describing that particular subject as words fail to do. Such splendid illustrations appear in no other work. They were specially prepared for this Bible and the drawings alone cost $50,000— veritable art gallery of rare educational value to everybody

For a short time The Intelligencer will present this Bible on the popular educational plan for six certificates of consecutive dates, together with the stated amount that covers the necessary expense items of this wonderful distribution, including clerk hire, cost of packing, checking, expense from factory, etc.

Find the educational certificate printed on another page and clip it today.

Utilizes every heat unit. Flues arranged so heat is forced to travel over top of oven in McClary's
Pandora
Range
down behind it and twice under the bottom before escaping to chimney. See the McClary dealer.
"Made in Canada"
Sold by The Smith Hardware Co.

Protect Your Children

Their little hurts, cuts, and bruises may have been caused by some germ infected object. There is always the possibility that blood poisoning may be the result of neglect—don't neglect—immediately apply Absorbine, Jr. It will thoroughly cleanse the affected parts, kill the germs, and promote rapid healing.

Absorbine, J. is a powerful germicidal liniment and yet absolutely harmless. It is made of herbs and is nondestructive of tissue. Can be used by the smallest member of the family without any danger whatsoever.

Use Absorbine, J. wherever a liniment or a germicide is indicated. Pleasant to use and economical as only a few drops are necessary at each aplication. Keep a bottle handy at all times—it will prove indispensable.

$1.00 and $2.00 a bottle at druggists or delivered:

A Liberal Trial Bottle will be sent post-paid to your address upon receipt of 10c. in stamps Send for trial bottle or procure regular size from your druggist today. W. F. Young, P.D.F., 457 Lymans Bldg., Montreal, Can.

DOUBLE TRACKING IN ADVANCED WEST

C. P. R. Completed 350 Miles this Year West of Brandon

WINNIPEG, Oct. 23.—Practically half the main line of the Canadian Pacific Railway between Fort William and Vancouver is now double-tracked.

This morning J. G. Sullivan, chief engineer of the company, made the announcement that 350 miles of double-tracking had been completed this year between Brandon and the Pacific coast Prior to this year the road had been double-tracked between Fort William and Brandon, a distance of 55? miles, making 899 miles completed to date. The distance between Fort William and Vancouver is 1,908 miles. Not a bad showing for a road that the late Edward Blake declared would never earn enough to lubricate the car wheels.

Operetta Scores A Second Success

The City Hall Again Packed to the Doors--Performance Better Than Initial Night

The second presentation of the operetta "The Courtship of Miss Canada" in the City Hall last evening was, in the opinion of many, much better than that of Thursday evening, in that the cast, with greater confidence, settled down to the parts with a finish that partook of the professional. The play was highly appreciated by all who attended, and the ladies of the Tabernacle are to be congratulated upon their success. The work of rehearsing, securing of costumes, and stage settings, was no small task. The musical features were of high order, the perfection of which was due largely to the untiring efforts of Miss Florence Davis, whose services at the piano were an inspiration to the participants. On the whole Belleville has every reason to be proud of the marked talent manifested by all who took part.

Read Ritchie's Saturday Night Bargain List on page 8, it enumerates about 25 splendid buying chanceo which you cannot afford ts overlook. Watch for the Blue Price Cards.

Because prices are up is no reason why plowing and fall cutivation should be slighted in the rush to get more land "blacked over."

Hallowe'en Festival
In Aid of the RED CROSS FUND
FRIDAY And SATURDAY
October 30th and 31st
AFTERNOONS AND EVENINGS
IN THE ARMOURIES
LUNCH, TEA AND ICE CREAM SERVED
Programme Each Evening. All the Latest Specialities.
"A GOOD TIME FOR YOUNG AND OLD."
ADMISSION, - - - - - - - 10c

CLIP $5.00 THIS
ILLUSTRATED BIBLE
EDUCATIONAL
CERTIFICATE
HISTORICAL DESCRIPTIVE
PRESENTED TO YOU BY THE
INTELLIGENCER OCTOBER 24
ABRAHAM LINCOLN SAID: "NO LIBRARY IS COMPLETE WITHOUT TWO CERTAIN BOOKS—THE BIBLE AND SHAKESPEARE; HARDLY A QUOTATION USED IN LITERATURE THAT IS NOT TAKEN FROM ONE OF THESE WORKS."

The above Certificate with 5 others of consecutive dates

Entitles bearer to this $5.00 Illustrated Bible

If presented at the office of this newspaper, together with the stated amount that covers the necessary EXPENSE items of this great distribution—including clerk hire, cost of packing, checking, express from factory, etc., etc.

MAGNIFICENT ILLUSTRATED $5 Edition of the BIBLE (like illustration in announcements from day to day) is bound in full flexible limp leather, with overlapping covers and title stamped in gold, with numerous full-page plates in color from the world famous Tissot collection, together with six hundred superb pictures graphically illustrating and making plain the verse in the light of modern Biblical knowledge and research. The text conforms to the authorized edition, is self-pronouncing, with copious marginal references, maps and helps; printed on thin bible paper, flat opening at all pages; beautiful, readable type. 6 Consecutive Free Certificates and the $1.18 Amount EXPENSE Items

The $3 ILLUSTRATED BIBLE is exactly the same as the $5 book, except in the style of binding, which is in silk cloth; contains all of the illustrations and maps. 6 consecutive free certificates and the 81c Amount EXPENSE Items

Also an Edition for Catholics

Through an exclusive arrangement, we have been most fortunate in securing the Catholic Bible, Douay Version, endorsed by Cardinal Gibbons and Archbishop (now Cardinal) Farley, as well as by the various Archbishops of the country. The illustrations consist of the full-page plates and maps approved by the Church, without the Tissot and text pictures. It will be distributed in the same bindings as the Protestant books and at the same Amount Expense Items, with the necessary Free Certificates.

Any Book by Mail, 23 Cents Extra for Postage.

Your Autumn Regals
Display of Authentic Styles

Gentlemen, will you make the time to glance over our newest assemblage of WORLD FAMOUS REGAL STYLES? Autumn with its new demands is at hand, and we would like you to see the most favored styles. There is a Regal last and leather suited to your individual need.

The "ASTOR"
Patent
Cloth Top
$5.00
For Dancing or Evening Wear

The J. J. HAINES SHOE HOUSES
Belleville Napanee Trenton Smith's Falls

Splendid Values
In
Saturday's Special Sale

Special Bargain in Women's Underwear, white or natural, high necks, long sleeves, good fitting garments. Regularly 50c. garments, on sale Saturday .................. 25c.
Woven Corset Covers in white, good value at 25c. On special sale, 15c.
Heavy ribbed Hose, tan shade, women's and children's sizes. 20c. pair, On sale .................. 15c.
Great value in yard wide Flannelette, stripe patterns in good colors, on sale, yard .................. 10c.
Ginghams and Chambrays, in good colors, 10c. and 15c. value, clearing at .................. 6¾c. yard
Big special in Men's Wool Tweed Pants, dark grey stripe pattern; special per pair .................. $1.50
Sweater Coats for Men, in grey, navy or maroon, heavy coats with roll collars, $3.00 each. Saturday Bargain Price .................. $2.00
Men's medium and heavy Wool Sox, great value at 20c. pair. On Saturday .................. 15c.
Nickel plated Sad Irons, set of three with stand, $1.50 set. Sale price .................. $1.15
Wooden Knife Boxes on special sale, each .................. 15c.
Strong Rush Table Mats, on sale .................. 6 for 10c.
Special sale of Linen Writing Paper and Envelopes in boxes, 25c. boxes for 15c. 15c. boxes for .................. 10c.
Toilet Sets on sale; decorations in pink, green or blue. Regular price $2.75 on sale .................. $2.00 set.
Fireproof Bakers, on special sale, each .......... 10c., 15c., and 20c.
Visit the rear store for bargains in Toilet and Laundry Soaps, Polishes, etc.

McINTOSH BROS.

Our October Sale
IS NOW IN FULL SWING
The following goods are on sale at SPECIAL PRICES:
Enamelware, Flannelettes, Cottons, Soaps, Brooms, Starches, Hair Brushes, Gas Mantles, Table Oilcloth, Pictures, Stamped Linen Goods, and hundreds of lines of Smallwares.
Be sure and get your share of the good things while they last.
THE BEEHIVE CHAS. N. SULMAN

One of the many New Style Hats for Men, only - $2.00
At G. T. WOODLEY'S
Belleville's only Exclusive Hatter and Furrier.

IF YOU LEAVE IT TO OUR JUDGMENT
we will supply the kind of canned goods you will thoroughly appreciate when you come to eat them. In fact you can do the same with any groceries you may need. You can send your little girl or boy with a list of the things you want and we will select them even more carefully than you would if you came in person.
H. E. FAIRFIELD

ADVERTISE IN THE INTELLIGENCER

Daily Intelligencer.

Printed and published every afternoon except Sundays, for The Intelligencer Printing and Publishing House (Limited), in the City of Belleville, County of Hastings, Province of Ontario, at their offices, No. 227 Front Street.
CHARLES JAMES BOWELL, Publisher.

RATES OF ADVERTISING.
Measurement, Agate—14 lines to the inch.
Display Advertisements, 10c. per line.
Reading Advertisements, 15c. per line.
Legal Advertisements, 10c. per line first insertion, 5c. per line subsequent insertions.
Preferred position, 20 per cent. advance upon usual contract rates.
Minimum space, 10 lines.
Births, 25c. each insertion. Marriages, 50c. each insertion. Deaths or funeral notices, either singly or combined, $1.00.
Rates for condensed advertisements will be found elsewhere.
Business cards by the year at low rates.
Further information may be obtained at The Intelligencer business office.
Weekly Intelligencer to the United States, $1.50, strictly in advance.

THE CHILDREN'S HOME

Our correspondents have brought forth an explanatory letter from Mr. Ritchie, who in the past has given much of his time and liberally of his means in connection with others in the furtherance and support of the Children's Home, whose opinion therefore is deserving of weight upon the subject.

All he says may be correct that something should be done to secure a continuance of so commendable a charity as a home for the unfortunate. Surely this can be accomplished in other ways than the purchase of the Dunnett property so admirably situated and fitted for a private residence in a residential part of the city, to which those whose residences are in the same neighborhood take such serious objection.

Is there no vacant property that could be obtained and suitable buildings erected that would better answer the purpose of a Children's Home, and at less expense than would have to be made in the purchase of and changing of the Dunnett residence into a home fitted for the purpose?

No obstacle should be thrown in the way of those engaged in so charitable and commendable a work as providing for the care and education of those who are thrown upon the charity of the world whether from orphanage or unworthy parentage, but neither an artistic nor palatial building is required for such a purpose.

RETAIN YOUR MAN

There is a practice all to prevalent on the farms of this country, says the Farmers' Advocate, to hire men from seven to nine months during the summer season, and let these men go as soon as it freezes up, and winter sets in. This has been rightfully blamed for a large part of the rush of hired help to the cities where all year round employment is given. No farmer who succeeds in obtaining a satisfactory hired man should turn this man away to winter, expecting to get him again next season, for such does not often happen. Obviously the procedure to follow on farms where there is enough work to make it necessary to hire in summer, is to make plenty of work to keep the man or men busy in winter. This can readily be accomplished by keeping more live stock, which will soon increase production beyond the increased cost of operating the farm, due to hiring winter as well as summer. There are added reasons why the man should be kept this year. Prices are good and likely to be high, and there is money to be made from an increased output from the farms. Moreover, this output is urgently needed to feed the people who will be dependent upon it. Besides this, the hired man out of work cannot get employment in the city this winter. There are hundreds looking for work there already. To send him there would only add to the burden and trouble. If he is a good man keep him busy as long as the weather stays open, and find work for him around the buildings when winter sets in by giving extra care to stock, cleaning and even hand-picking seed grain that yields may be larger next year, cutting the summer wood so that this job will not interfere with seeding and summer work, cutting an extra supply of winter wood that it may be dried ahead and better fuel, cleaning and oiling harness, tightening nuts and repairing all the farm implements and machinery ready for the field, removing tumble-down and useless fences and cleaning up the fence rows, straightening up the orchard, burning the brush and rubbish which harbors insects and disease, and possibly doing a little pruning. There are dozens of jobs to keep him busy—work that needs doing and work when done that will prove profitable. The city employer of labor who once twitted the farmer of being unfair to his hired help in turning them away before the winter has, in many instances, lost no time in "laying off" his men when he had nothing for them to do. The farmer is better fixed; he can arrange things to find work for his good man, and work profitable in a season like this to man and employer alike. We are not asking that lazy loafers be kept. By no means. The man must be willing and able to work, and must consider that conditions are such that highest wages cannot be expected. Co-operation between the hired help and the farmer will work wonders this winter toward a greater production. Do not turn away the hired man. Find him work on your own farm and in your own stables.

NORMAN
2 for 25 cents

"NORMAN"
The NEWEST
ARROW COLLAR
Cluett, Peabody & Co., Inc. Makers, Sales Dept. Montreal

THE SEA POWER OF BRITAIN

There is a practice all too prevalent from the sea is but one of the manifestations of sea power that may eventually prove decisive in the great land conflict. The part which the British fleet has played, not only in landing expeditionary forces from England, India, and the colonies, but in the transport of Continental troops to strategic points on the coasts of France and Belgium, has not been often mentioned in the reports, but it must have been considerable. The experts say that armies can be moved twenty times as fast on ships as on land marches. The German strategists must think of this in their operations along the western front.

But Britain's fleet has dealt severer blows to Germany. Directly after the declaration of war German import and export trade, amounting to nearly $5,000,000,000 a year, was strangled on the sea by the British and French warships. The North Sea has become a closed lake, and in it and the Baltic most of the German warships are bottled up. The trade routes through the Mediterranean and Suez and across the Atlantic and Pacific Oceans are open to the allied Powers, save for the predacious activities of a few German cruisers that must cease when they are captured or destroyed or run out of supplies. That must occur soon, as Germany's naval bases have been taken.

Moreover, the powerful protection of the British fleet is the guarantee that binds together the parts of the British Empire around the earth. So long as that protection exists it must be paid for in active loyalty, a loyalty that will express itself in increasing levies of troops from populations numbering over 360,000,000. Doubtless the "conversations" between the military and naval experts of France and Great Britain following the Agadir crisis had their influence in formulating a policy that enables Great Britain by her sea power to forge a weapon now day by day strengthening the allied forces on land.

C. P. R. CONDUCTORS

No less than eight of the C.P.R. Conductors who have been under suspension for illegal practices confessed judgment, subjecting themselves to heavy penalties. It is deeply to be regretted that such a state of affairs exists. Conductors of Railways occupy responsibile positions and should be above suspicion of dishonour.

OF SPECIAL INTEREST TO LADIES

Unsightly Warts can be removed in a few hours, by Putnam's Painless Corn and Wart Extractor. Reliable, safe and sure. Try "Putnam's."

Keep the stock that is quickly matured. A rush for food materials is imminent.

CURRENT COMMENT

The Globe indicts Mr. Blondin on fabricated evidence.

That Montreal newsboy who went to England with the troops as a stowaway is the original "war extra."

The Liberal newspapers desire that "the truce to party warfare" shall apply only to the questions they cannot afford to discuss.

The Globe bases its attacks on Mr. Blondin on statements which the Minister declares he did not make and to which he gave autoritative denial on the floor of Parliament. Yet the Globe repeats the charge nearly every day.

In deference to the proclamation of its editor that Bourassa Nationalism is only another name for Globe Liberalism, the chief Opposition newspaper nominates Mr. Bourassa for lieutenant-Governor of Quebec.

The Globe says: "Germany not only planned but began the war when deceptively constructing foundations for siege guns in friendly countries." Yet columns of quotations could be clipped from the editorials of the Globe declaring in the most positive language that Germany planned no attack on Great Britain and that the Emperor was a friend of peace and determined at any cost to maintain good relations with the British people.

WAR NOTES

Montreal Mail: "General Alderson's order permitting the Canadian troops in England canteen privileges is a wise one. The results of dry canteens in a limited area with wide-open canteens all around are not conducive to efficiency or morality."

La Presse: "Do not let us forget that every German or Austrian who is guilty of espionage here works for the ruin of our two mother countries and the death of our brothers."

Brockville Recorder: "The nutritious qualities of Boston baked beans and Quaker oats were demonstrated in the world's series."

Montreal Mail: "Villa is marching 18,000 troops to the big Mexican peace congress in order to dominate it. The methods of Villa are crude but remarkably effective. The peace delegates might put his army to flight by reading to it a few columns of "slush" from the Toronto Globe."

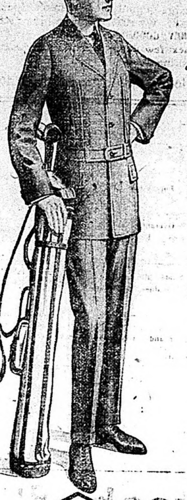
Le Canada: "Developments both at home and abroad should convince us of the fact that every German abroad is an agent for his government (if not dangerous now he may become so at any time), and we should act in consequence. We would be the last to ask that Canada should take action against the Germans located amongst us such as Germany has taken against English, Russian, French and Belgian citizens who resided there before the war. But it is evident that a certain amount of precaution is necessary, and we ask the Government to give the subject careful consideration."

There is no discounting the valor of the German soldiers. They are fighting heroically, and they are not afraid to die. But in northern France and Belgium they are fighting foes who are not less valorous and determined than they, and who are fired by the consciousness that they are upholding a great and just cause.

Hamilton Spectator: "That Kitchener has already 780,000 men for his new army, now training in Britain, exclusive of those in the field or colonial contingents, should be sufficient answer to the Frankfurter Zeitung's sneer that her limit was 600,000 troops."

Montreal Mail: "A very important feature of the war at the present time is the part that Russia is playing. The slowness with which Russia is moving has caused some impatience in many quarters, and the opinion is sometimes expressed that Russia has "fallen down" on the work she was expected to do in a campaign like this. Such an opinion is premature. As a matter of fact, Russia has not yet really started."

The Fine Art of Dress



THE Norfolk is a serviceable two-purpose coat—smart for street wear or travelling and an ideal golf or outing coat. Cleverly styled and tailored by expert needlemen. : :

20th Century Brand
TAILORED BY Lowndes TORONTO
WE ARE EXCLUSIVE AGENTS
QUICK & ROBERTSON

UNION BANK OF CANADA

With Cash in the Bank You Can Buy to Advantage

You know how everything costs more when you have to buy on credit. Why not practice self-denial a while if necessary, open a Savings Account in the Union Bank of Canada, and, with the money in hand, buy at Cash prices? The discounts will help to swell your bank balance, and you will have made a good start towards financial independence.

Belleville Branch J. G. MOFFAT, Manager
LONDON, ENG., BRANCH, 51 Threadneedle St., E.C. { F. W. ASHE, - - - Manager
G. M. C. HART SMITH, Assistant Manager

THE HEROISM OF ONE WOMAN

A Devoted Wife Saves Husband from Drink and Unemployment.

Mrs. S., of Trenton, was in despair. A loving father and a careful provider when sober, her husband had gradually fallen into drinking habits, which were ruining his home, health and happiness. Drink had inflamed his stomach and nerves and created that unnatural craving that kills conscience, love, honor, and breaks all family ties. But read her letter:

"I feel it my duty to say a few words about your Tablets. As you are aware, I sent and got a bottle, thinking I would try them in secret. My husband had only taken them a week when he told me he was going to Port Arthur for the summer, so I had to tell him all about the Tablets. He said he would take them just the same. He writes me saying that he has taken it and feels splendid, does not care for drink. In fact, he has not taken any liquor from the first of my giving it to him. I feel I cannot say too much in favor of your wonderful Remedy."
"Mrs. S——, Trenton, Ont."

Samaria Prescription stops the craving for drink. It restores the shaking nerves, improves the appetite and general health, and makes drink distasteful, even nauseous. It is tasteless and odorless, dissolving instantly in tea, coffee or food.

Now, if you know of any unfortunate needing Samaria Prescription, tell him or his family or friends about it. If you have a friend or relative on whom the habit is getting its hold, help him yourself. Write to-day.

A FREE TRIAL PACKAGE of Samaria Prescription, with booklet giving full particulars, testimonials, price, etc., will be sent absolutely free and postpaid, in plain sealed package, to anyone asking for it. Correspondence sacredly confidential. Write to-day. The Samaria Remedy Co., Dept. 59 142 Mutual St., Toronto, Canada.

Also for Sale by Albert L. Geen, Druggist, Belleville.

Why Britain Is At War
The Causes And The Issues

Britain's Efforts for Peace

Foreseeing all this, Sir Edward Grey, whose efforts during the recent Balkan wars had won for him the title of the Peacemaker of Europe, was early in the field with proposals for averting war, and the British Government "persisted to the very last moment of the last hour in that great and beneficent but unhappily frustrated purpose" (Mr. Asquith).

Already on July 20, having received an inkling of what was on foot, Sir Edward Grey spoke to the German Ambassador of the importance, if the peace of Europe was to be preserved, of Austria "keeping her demand within reasonable limits." The suggestion was not adopted. The German Foreign Secretary "considered it inadvisable that the Austro-Hungarian Government should be approached by the German Government on the matter" (July 22). The Austrian ultimatum, which the same Minister "admitted that the Servian Government could not swallow", was despatched on the following day.

On July 23, having heard from the Austrian Ambassador an outline of what the Austrian note contained, Sir Edward Grey pressed upon him, as also upon the German Government, the desirability of persuading the Austrian Government to extend its time-limit. The Russian Government took the same line. The German Ambasador was instructed to "pass on" Sir Edward Grey's suggestion, but the German Foreign Secretary said that "there would be delay and difficulty in getting time-limit exended," adding, "quite freely that the Austro-Hungarian Government wished to give the Servians a lesson and meant to take military action."

On July 24, having received the text of the Austrian ultimatum, and foreseeing that if Austria attacked Servia Russia would mobilize, Sir Edward Grey proposed that "German, France, Italy, and Great Britain, who had not direct interests in Servia, should together for the sake of peace, simultaneously in Vienna and St. Petersburg," "in the event of the relations between Austria and Russia becoming threatening." "It would be very desirable," he said to the German ambassador, "to get Austria not to participate military action and so gain more time. But none of us could influence Austria in this direction unless Germany would propose and participate in such action at Vienna." France was favorable to this plan. So was Italy. Russia was "quite ready to stand aside and leave the question in the hands of England, France, Germany and Italy. Having thus received assurances that, if only Germany agreed, his plan might be efficacious, Sir Edward Grey on July 26 formally invited the Governments of France, Germany and Italy to instruct their several ambassadors to confer with him "for the purpose of discovering an issue which would prevent complications." The invitation was accepted by France and Italy. The German Foreign Secretary "could not fall in with the suggestion, desirous though he was to co-operate for the maintenance of peace" (July 27).

Sir Edward Grey thereupon saw the German Ambasador (July 27) and promised "as long as Germany would work to keep peace I would keep closely in touch. I repeated that after the Servian reply it was at Vienna that some moderation must be urged." On the following day (July 28) Austria-Hungary declared war on Servia.

As the German Government was understood to have accepted "in principle" the idea of mediation by the four Powers between Austria and Russia, it was proposed, "that the German Secretary of State should suggest the lines on which this principle should be applied." The German Government made no suggestion of any kind.

Sir Edward Grey's scheme had temporarily been in abeyance, as the Russian Government had offered to discuss matters with the Austrian Government direct. This offer was declined by Austria (July 28).

Sir Edward Grey next appealed to the German Chancellor. "If he can induce Austria to satisfy Russia and to abstain from going so far as to come into collision with her, we shall all join in deep gratitude to his Excellency for having saved the peace of Europe" (July 29). The Italian Government had simultaneously appealed to Germany in a like sense.

On that same day the German Government made certain proposals to Great Britain to which we shall come presently and which the Prime Minister afterwards characterized as "infamous." But so persistent was the British Government in pursuit of peace that Sir Edward Grey in declining the proposal used language of great restraint (July 30), and accompanied his refusal by yet another "most earnest" appeal to the German Chancellor: "The one way of maintaining the good relations between England and Germany is that they should continue to work together to preserve the peace of Europe; if we succeeded in this object, the mutual relations of Germany and England will, I believe, be ipso facto improved and strengthened. For that object His Majesty's Government will work in that way with all sincerity and goodwill. And I will say this: If the peace of Europe can be preserved and the present crisis safely passed, my own endeavor will be to promote some arrangement to which Germany could be a party, by which she could be assured that no aggressive or hostile policy would be pursued against her or her allies by France, Russia, and ourselves, jointly or separately."

On the following day (July 31) Sir Edward Grey gave proof of his sincerity and made a further effort for peace. "I said to German Ambassador this morning that if Germany could get any reasonable proposal put forward which made it clear that Germany and Austria were striving to preserve European peace, and that Russia and France would be unreasonable if they rejected it, I would support it at St. Petersburg and Paris, and go the length of saying that if Russia and France would not accept it His Majesty's Government would have nothing more to do with the consequences." In order not to leave this promise in the region of generalities he threw out a particular suggestion. If Germany would sound Vienna, he would sound St. Petersburg whether it would be possible for the four disinterested Powers to offer to Austria to undertake to see that she obtained full satisfaction for her demands on Servia provided they did not impair Servian sovereignty and the integrity of Servian territory. That Russia was ready to accept such a solution is clear from a peace-formula which her Government had drawn up in concert with Sir Edwrad Grey. Austria, who on July 28 had refused, had two days later agreed, to discuss matters with Russia. Everything turned on Germany. Conversations at St. Petersburg and Vienna were proceding, as the British Ambassador at the latter capital has recorded, when they were cut short by Germany's intervention. On July 31 she sent an ultimatum to Russia.

In the early morning of August 1 (3.30 a.m.), the King of England and his Ministers made a last attempt to secure peace. The King telegraphed a personal message to the Tsar. In this the King first set out the text of a communicaion from the German Government. The Tsar had previously requested the German Emperor to mediate between Russia and Austria and had "given most categorical assurances to the Emperor William that Russian troops would not move so long as mediation negotiations continued. The German Government in its communication stated that the Emperor was desirous to mediate and complained that such mediation was frustrated by the Russian mobilization. King George went on to say that he was "most anxious not to miss any possibility of avoiding the terrible calamity which threatens the whole world"; he appealed to the Tsar to remove any misapprehension which might have occurred; he proferred his good offices "to assist in re-opening the interrupted conversations between the Powers concerned." The Tsar replied on the same day, "I would gladly have accepted your proposals had not the German Amassador this afternoon presented a note to my Government declaring war."

"In this solemn hour I wish," said the Tsar, "to assure you once more that I have done all in my power to avert war." This assurance is borne out by the Diplomatic correspondence. It shows, as the Russian Minister said, that "No suggestion held out to him had been refused. He had accepted the proposal for a Conference of Four, for mediation by Great Britain and Italy, for direct conversation between Austria and Russia; but Germany and Austria-Hungary had either rendered these attempts for peace ineffective by evasive replies or had refused them altogether."

Continued in Monday's Paper.

BABY CRIED CONSTANTLY

Mrs. Simon Aumont, Mushka, Ont., says: "My baby was ill and cried continually till I began giving her Baby's Own Tablets. They worked a marvellous change in her and she became happy; gained in weight and all signs of sickness left her. The tablets are the very best medicine I know of for little ones." Baby's Own Tablets cure all the minor ills of little ones such as colic, colds, constipation and indigestion, etc. They are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Several dozen Ladies' Long Woollen Toboggan Mitts. Reg. 50c. values. Sale price, per pair .. 25c.

25 dozen Children's Woollen Mitts, black and navy; reg. 25c., sale, half price .. 13c.

Alarm Clocks, American make. Reg. $1.00; on sale .. 49c.

One lot Sewing Sets, worth up to $1.00. Sale, 50c. and 60c.

Men's and Boys' Fine Wool Undershirts (all samples), all sizes, on sale at 33⅓% less than regular prices.

Men's All Wool Flannel Shirts; colors navy, light and dark grey; all sizes, sale .. .. .. .. .. .. 95c.

50 pairs Fine Nottingham Lace Curtains, reg. $4.00 to $5.00. Sale . $3.39

Hundreds of yards Linen Towelling. Sale .. .. 6c, 7c, 8c, 9c.

10 dozen Hand Crocheted mats; reg. 35c.; sale .. .. 20c.

Flannelette Blankets at sale prices.

10 dozen Cape Gloves; reg. $1.00. Sale .. .. .. .. 79c.

50 only, Boys' Sweater Coats, pure wool, several colors, sizes 26 to 32, worth $1.50, to clear the lot in half an hour, rush sale .. .. .. .. 89c.

25 dozen Ladies' Extra Quality Cashmere Hose; never such value sold in Belleville before. 2 pairs .. .. .. .. 44c.

15 dozen Ladies' Plush Vests; reg. 50c. sale .. .. .. .. 35c., or 3 for .. .. $1.00

50 dozen Ladies' Wool Vests. Reg. 25c. Sale .. .. 16c.

About 50 Ladies' Cloth Skirts, in black, navy and grey; tweeds, meltons and serges; worth up to $5.00; quick sale .. .. .. .. .. $1.25

Horse Blankets of all kinds and prices cut to the lowest figures for this sale.

See the immense range of Gents' Ties on sale .. .. .. 15c.

700 yards Plaid Wrapperette, for children's dresses. Sale .. .. .. .. .. .. 10c.

10 dozen Tango Hair Pins. Reg. 25c. Sale .. .. .. .. .. 15c.

26 dozen Boys' Heavy Ribbed Hose. Reg. 25c.; sale . 15c.

Great Sale of Ladies', Men's and Children's

UNDERWEAR AND HOSIERY

Friday Morning, Oct. 23rd, at 8.30

We have just purchased from several manufacturers a large quantity of Woollen Goods, which we are going to Sell in many cases at 50 per cent. less than regular. We also include in this Sale a good many of our Regular Lines of STAPLE GOODS, LINENS, BLANKETS, FANCY GOODS OF ALL KINDS. Thousands of Dollars Worth General Dry Goods to be slaughtered in the next few days. Here is the SALE OF SALES, where you can purchase your Winter Supply at Enormous Savings.

Read Carefnlly the Items Enumerated Below, and Come Early in the Morning

Sample Corset Covers.

Sample Wrappers.

Boys' Sweaters, ages 8 and 9 years. Sale .. .. .. .. 25c.

Sample lot Children's Knitted Skirts .. .. .. Half Price.

Ladies' Silk Scarfs. Reg. 75c. to $2.50; to clear .. Half Price

25 dozen Mens' and Boys' 4-ply Linen Collars, all sizes, reg. 15c. to 20c. Sale, each .. .. .. .. .. 5c.

25 gross Fancy Buttons, fancy pearl and glass; worth 25c. dozen. Sale . . 10c.

Child's Knitted Polkas .. .. .. .. .. 25c.

Children's Wool Mitts. Reg. 25c. Sale .. .. .. .. 15c.

6 Dozen Ladies' Knit Sample Gloves; worth from 35c. to 50c. Your choice .. .. .. .. .. .. 19c.

About 100 Women's House Dresses, all kinds of materials. All sizes; worth up to $4.00. Sale .... 98c.

Another 50 dozen Gents' four-in-hand Silk Neckties. Reg. 50c. Sale .. .. 29c.

1500 yards Fancy Dress Trimming; reg. up to 75c. yard. Sale .. .. .. .. .. .. 5c.

4 dozen Ladies' Suede Gloves (samples). Reg. 75c. Sale .. .. .. .. .. 25c.

Men's Linen Handkerchiefs. Sale . 15c.

Table Linen Bleached (absolutely pure). Reg. $1.25. Sale .. .. .. .. 79c.

Pure Linen Tabling Sale .. .. .. .. .. 50c.

Men's "Union Made" Overalls, with bib; black only. Sizes 32 to 38. Regular 75c. Sale .. .. .. .. .. .. .. .. .. .. .. .. 43c.

Men's Water Proof Coats, all sizes, best colors. Regular $10.00 values, on sale at .. .. .. .. .. .. .. .. .. .. .. .. $6.48

1000 extra large rolls Toilet Paper; on sale 4 for .. .. 25c.

250 boxes Note Paper and Envelopes to match; reg. 25c. Sale .. .. .. .. 15c.

25 dozen Women's Pure Wool Vests and Drawers. Regular 50c. Sale .. .. .. 25c.

1000 Tungsten Electric Bulbs, 25, 40, 60 watts. Sale, .. .. .. .. .. .. 33c.

500 Snap Shot Albums; 2 sizes. Sale .. .. .. 10c. and 25c.

30 dozen Boys' Ribbed Worsted all wool Hose. Reg. 25c. Sale, 2 pairs .. 35c.

29 dozen Ribbed Union Hose for Boys. Reg. 20c. Sale, 12c.

About 50 Women's RainCoats, in all colors.
Reg. $9; sale $5.69
Reg. $7; sale, $4.69
Reg. $5; sale, $3.69

Japanese Matting, 36 inches wide; reg. 25c. Sale .. .. 20c.

Thousands of yards of Dress Goods. Reg. up to $1.25 yard. Sale .. .. .. .. .. 50c.

300 Preserve Kettles, grey enamel; Sale .. .. .. .. .. 15c.

25 dozen Manufacturers' Samples Wool Vests and Combination Suits; all best quality goods, on sale less than manufacturers' prices. Penman's $1.00, $1.50, $2.00 values, nearly Half Price.

Boys' Tweel Pants, ages 5 to 15 years. Sale price .. .. 47c.

Men's Wool and Worsted Sox, every color made, all sizes. reg. 30c. and 25c. Sale .. .. .. .. .. 15c.

100 Japanese Mats and Rugs; all sizes on sale at 10c., 15c., 79c., $1.29, $1.89.

3 dozen Ladies' Comb Sets, 3 pieces to set. Reg. 25c. Sale .. .. .. .. .. 19c.

Wm. McIntosh & Co.

Woollen Blankets and Comforters marked at sale prices.

Hundreds of False Faces for the boys and girls, on sale 1c. up.

25 dozen Boys' Heavy Ribbed Worsted Hose, worth 35c. and 40c. Sale . 25c. Not more than 6 pairs to a customer.

11 dozen Ribbed Cashmere Hose; reg. 35c. Sale .. .. 25c.

10 dozen Ladies' Vests and Drawers. Reg. 40c. and 50c. Sale .. .. .. .. 29c.

6 dozen Children's Bootees; factory samples, worth up to 35c. Sale .. .. .. .. 15c.

60 Ladies' Sweater Coats; all sizes, all colors, pure wool, reg. $3.00. Sale .. .. .. .. .. $1.49

Japanese Matting, 36 inches wide. Reg. 20c. Sale .. .. 15c.

1000 yards Plain Silk Ribbon, 5 to 6 inches wide. Sale .. .. .. .. .. 15c.

100 Sample Dolls. Sale .. .. .. .. .. 25c.

3 dozen Tea Aprons plain and cross-bar muslin, lace trimmed. Reg. 25c. Sale, 15c.

6 dozen Wool Clouds. Reg. 25c. Sale .. .. .. .. 19c.

12 dozen Wool Clouds. Reg. 40c. Sale .. .. .. .. 25c.

15 dozen Ladies' Plain Cashmere Hose. Reg. 25c. Sale, 2 pairs .. .. .. .. 35c.

One case Fine Wool Clouds, white and cardinal. Reg. 90c. Sale .. .. 49c.

Men's Silk Mufflers Reg. $1.00. Sale .. .. .. .. .. 50c.

25 Men's Wool Sweater Coats and Cardigans; all colors, $2.00 goods. Sale .. .. .. .. .. $1.00

15 dozen Boys' "Yorknit" Underwear; all sizes; reg. 25c. Sale .. .. 19c.

5000 yards heavy English Flannelettes, 36 inch wide; reg. 15c. Sale ... 12½c.

100 Japanese Shopping Bags. 5 sizeas. Sale .. .. .. .. .. 15c.

Linen Table Mats; embroidered, scalloped border. Reg. 50c. Sale .. .. .. .. .. 25c.

The LAPSE of ENOCH WENTWORTH

By ISABEL GORDON CURTIS

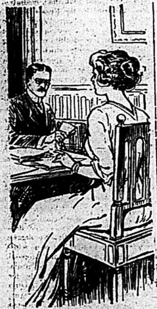
Author of "The Woman from Wolvertons"

ILLUSTRATIONS by ELLSWORTH YOUNG

COPYRIGHT, 1914 BY F.G. BROWNE & CO.

"That there is no wrong to be done."

"There is no wrong to be done. Merry will have the opportunity of his life, if he can only be made to see it that way."



"Then He Must Be Found!"

"And there is no wrong to be righted?"

"There is no wrong to be righted."

"Then he must be found. When he is found," the girl spoke decisively, "he must appear before the world as the author of his play."

"He won't do it," answered Wentworth.

He rose, put on his hat, and went out. Dorcas heard the front door slam behind him, then she laid her face on the arm of the sofa and burst into tears.

CHAPTER VII.

Merry Disappears.

Suddenly, as if the earth had swallowed him, Merry disappeared. A week passed. Grant Oswald, in a fever of enthusiasm, had begun preparations for a Broadway production. He turned a vast amount of responsibility over to Wentworth, who shouldered it thankfully. It kept at arm's length the possibility of dwelling much with his own thoughts: they were not cheerful company, and he was racked by constant anxiety about Merry. There was not a single moment to spare when he could go into the highways and byways of a great city to search, as he had searched before when the man was his friend. He could not delegate the task to another. He had prepared a tale for the public of Merry's whereabouts. Oswald believed the actor was studying his part and stood ready to appear at a moments' notice. Enoch went ahead with the tremendous load of detail that fell upon him, toiling day and night, while his mind alternated between terror and hope.

Every day the man was acquiring traits new to his nature. When a strange accident had tossed before him the possibility of satisfying his dearest ambition, conscience entreated loudly against the theft of another man's life-work. Every noble instinct in Enoch made its appeal; his honesty, his generosity, an innate demand for fair play, the love of his sister and friend, all cried aloud to him during the lonely hours of the night. There had been moments when he would have gladly retraced his steps, but the die had been cast. He was like a racer who, by some treacherous ruse, had pushed aside an opponent and was close to the goal. The intoxication of applause was beginning to sound in his ears and the future held untold possibilities. It was too late to turn back; it would mean the downfall of great ambitions and bitter shame—it might even mean crime. It seemed easier to take the chances.

Occasionally Andrew's dogged face flashed back to his memory when he cried, "I will see what the law can do to protect a man from theft." Enoch felt his face blanch at the thought of it. Many a man had gone down and out for a crime less knavish than this. But he knew Andrew Merry well, and he trusted to one trait which was predominant in the man—his queer, exaggerated idea of honor.

Day by day his conscience quieted down, self-confidence took the place of wavering, and the fear of exposure seemed to recede. At last he could look the situation in the face without flinching. The task of putting on a theatrical production began to absorb him completely. He had always longed for such a chance; he had been storing away ideas he could now utilize, besides he knew New York thoroughly, and he had observed for years the system of producing a play. Oswald looked on with appreciation as Enoch put his plans into shape. He knew how uncommon was the combination of such talents in the same man—the ability to write a virile play, then to stage it with practical skill and artistic feeling and originality. A remarkably strong company was engaged. Oswald insisted on filling even the smallest parts with people far above the level of subordinate actors. The salary list grew to stupendous figures. One morning Wentworth remonstrated against paying one hundred dollars a week to an actor who was to play the janitor.

"Breen is a far bigger man than you need," he objected. "He has played leads to many of the biggest stars. We need a mere bit of character work in this—he isn't on the stage half an hour. I can get a first-rate man for half that price."

"Breen can make the janitor so true to life that the audience will regret seeing him for only half an hour," Oswald rejoined. "That's the test of quality. When I pay a hundred dollars I want a hundred-dollar man."

Before the middle of October all the parts were in rehearsal except two. An Englishwoman, Zilla Paget, was crossing the Atlantic to play "Mrs. Esterbrook." Oswald refused obstinately to give "Cordelia" to any actress that Wentworth suggested.

"We must close with somebody mighty quick," said Enoch, when Oswald had turned down Katherine Dean.

"Miss Dean is not even to be thought of," answered the Englishman decisively. "She's beautiful, but where's her feeling, her intelligence? I sat watching her face—the light fell strong upon her while you talked. There's absolutely nothing to her but beauty."

"She can act," insisted Wentworth.

"I've seen her act. It isn't acting we want in 'Cordelia.' The woman who plays 'Cordelia' must have feeling, tender, compassionate understanding, dignity, with a young face—not a face into which youth is painted."

"'Cordelia' must have beauty."

"We may get both. I am not searching for 'Cordelia' among the stars; I have hopes of finding her among the unknowns."

"That's a risky proposition," said Wentworth impatiently. "'Cordelia' is a big part. Why, it's almost leading business—it ought to be in rehearsal now."

"Wait a few days," suggested Oswald. "Now, tell me, when is Merry to show up? He should have been here a week ago. Can't you wire him today?"

"I'll do it right away." Wentworth tossed his hat on his head and left the office. He drew a long breath, when he stepped out on the sidewalk, and looked anxiously up and down Broadway as if hoping to see Merry approach with his nonchalant stride. He paused for a moment to light a cigar, then started at a brisk gait down the street. He was accosted here and there by a friend. Each one offered congratulations. He was in no mood for that sort of thing. A block further ahead he saw Phillips of the Herald in the moving throng. There would be no escaping him. He jumped on a downtown car, and a few minutes later he was at the Battery.

He stepped off and crossed the square. The tide was coming in and a stiff breeze blew off the ocean.

He seated himself on a bench and watched the spray dash over the pier. Throngs came and went, but Enoch did not see them. His mind was centered desperately upon one anxiety: Merry must be found. He had felt so certain that the actor might appear at any moment that he had allowed Oswald to think he knew where he was. He reported him half-sick, trying to recuperate, and hating the worry of a lawsuit with an agry manager, which Oswald was trying to settle out of court. He assured him that the comedian was letter perfect in his part; all he needed was to appear at late rahearsals. The strain, however, was telling on Wentworth. He had grown nervous and irritable. Oswald saw traces of it, but laid it to anxiety over the preparations for his play.

Dorcas realized the change in her brother and felt it keenly. She contrasted the care-free, generous, gay Enoch as he had been a month ago, with the man who had aged suddenly, who was growing morose, fretful, uncommunicative, and impatient over trifles. Day after day she saw less of him. His plea was hard work, so the girl was left to her own devices. She had few friends in the city. She spent the fall days in long, solitary walks, and her mind dwelt constantly on Merry. Her brother scarcely mentioned the play to her. She read news of it in the papers. Through them came the information that Enoch had relinquished journalism and was working on the production of a new play by a new author. She drew a long breath of relief over that announcement. She felt sure Enoch would do full justice to Merry when the time arrived. She was too proud to ask questions. Her brother had always taken her completely into his confidence; she was certain he would do so again when the toil and worry were over.

Wentworth watched her closely. He realized how she felt his reticence and change of feeling; her every glance told it. He wondered frequently what the thoughts were that she did not put into words. In every woman he had admired for beauty, intellectual or heart qualities there had been imperfections which were temperamentally feminine. Dorcas was different. Sometimes he fancied it might be caused by her seclusion from the world during girlhood. Then he remembered a few of her girl friends he had met. In each of them he had seen some petty deceit or frivolity which, manlike, he accounted a typical feminine vice. Dorcas was different in heart and intellect. She resembled stalwart men he had known.

He sat with his eyes fixed on an ocean steamer moving majestically up the harbor. When her whistle shrieked in response to a salute, Wentworth rose with a start and glanced sharply about him. He felt that some one was watching him. His eyes met the gaze of his sister. She sat on a nearby bench staring at him, a newspaper in her lap and her hands clasped listlessly over it.

"Why, Dorry! How long have you been here? Did you call me?"

"I did not speak to you," she answered quietly. "When I laid down my paper a minute ago you sat there."

He did not offer to take a place beside her, though she moved to make room for him. His face flushed hotly when his glance fell on the headlines of a paper that lay in Dorcas' lap.

"Have you seen the story about yourself in the Times?"

"Of course I have," answered Enoch impatiently. "It was not my doing. Oswald insisted on it. Every paper is clamoring for news. We reproduce the play the first week of December."

"The paper speaks of you alone. Merry isn't given credit for even suggesting the plot. His name is not mentioned."

Wentworth's brow wrinkled into an ugly scowl. "How could he be mentioned? He can't be found—anywhere."

"Mr. Oswald said yesterday he was in the Catskills, ready to come on at a moment's notice."

"I wish to God he were!" cried Wentworth desperately.

"Why don't you tell Mr. Oswald the truth?"

"Dorcas, you're a child. You don't understand that I am up against a harder proposition than I can meet."

"It seems to me, Enoch," said the girl slowly, "if you had not—"

She did not finish the sentence. She had turned her eyes away from her brother and stared at the multitude of craft in the bay, jostling each other as vehicles do on Broadway.

"Had not what?" he insisted.

She met his eyes calmly and they wavered before her own. "I mean if you had not made a false start—if you had gone into this honestly—everything would have come out happily."

Wentworth did not answer.

"I can't feel, Enoch, that Merry has had fair play."

The man stamped his foot impatiently.

"Help me to find him, then. Things will straighten out if he puts in an appearance. Come, let us walk home. It's too chilly for you to sit here."

Dorcas rose and folded the paper which lay on her lap. She kept up with her brother's long strides through the crowd that thronged Broadway. After a few minutes' silence he asked suddenly: "How did you happen to see Mr. Oswald yesterday?"

"He called at the house."

"About what?"

"On business. He has asked me to play 'Cordelia.'"

"It might have occurred to him to consult me!"

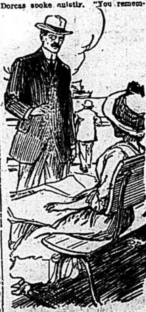
Wentworth stopped for a second. Dorcas was not looking at him—her eyes were turned straight ahead on the bustling street.

"Why didn't he speak to me first?" he persisted.

"I don't know. I can't decide what to do. I would say 'yes' if I could talk it over with Andrew Merry."

"I have told you point-blank you are not to go on the stage."

"You know how I feel about it." Dorcas spoke quietly. "You remember, I told you it was the only work I ever cared to do."



His Eyes Met the Gaze of His Sister.

"When did Oswald suggest this?"

"Several weeks ago. He has talked with me about it more than once."

"He might have taken me into his confidence," snarled Wentworth.

"He knew how you felt about it. Besides, Enoch," the girl's voice trembled, "besides—lately I have not known whether you cared anything about my affairs."

Wentworth did not answer until they turned into the quieter region of Waverly place.

"Don't sit in judgment on me, Dorry," he pleaded. "When the trolley gets swung back on its pole and things begin to run without constant switching, I'll return to the old routine. Have a little faith in me. I have nobody in the world except you."

Dorcas flung away the paper which she was carrying and tucked one hand into her brother's arm.

"It's a bargain?" he asked, looking down at her with a smile.

"It's a bargain," she answered.

"About 'Cordelia,' Dorry, do as you please. I cut loose when father planned my future, and did what I wanted to. A girl, I suppose, has the same rights, especially if she's a girl who can be trusted—implicitly."

When he unlocked the door, Dorcas passed in before him. As he shut it behind him she threw her arms about his neck and kissed him. Wentworth held her for a moment in a close, affectionate grasp. On the hall table lay a note addressed to Dorcas, also a telegram for Wentworth. He tore it open and stood for a minute deep in thought.

"Enoch, I have an invitation here from Mr. Oswald to see Nazimova tonight. Do you mind if I go?"

"No. Give Oswald a message from me. I sha'n't have time to see him before I leave."

"Leave for where?"

"For Montreal. I put a detective on Merry's track. He has almost laid his hand on him. Tell Oswald I will bring Merry back with me in two days at the latest."

"Oh!" cried Dorcas radiantly, "then everything will be righted!"

"Everything will be righted," repeated her brother.

CHAPTER VIII.

The Bread Line.

"Miss Wentworth, what does 'Hilda in 'The Master Builder' mean to you?" asked Grant Oswald during the first lull of quiet they met after leaving the theater. Their cab had been held up in a Broadway blockade and the street became suddenly still. "She means something. Ibsen, first, last, and all the time, deals in parables. Six people whom I know, intelligent people, have six different interpretations of 'Hilda.' I am curious to know what she stands for to you."

Dorcas turned her candid gray eyes to his.

"I see only one thing—conscience. She appears when the 'Master Builder,' by one cruel, unjust, selfish action, is bound to go down to the depths. Nothing can save him but his conscience. 'Hilda' is his conscience, of course."

"That is my interpretation exactly. It is a wonderful play!"

"It is a wonderful play." She pointed to a crowd on the sidewalk. "What is that string of men?" she asked. Their cab had been moving step by step for half a block. Again it came to a standstill.

To Be Continued

Advertise In The Intelligencer.

THE DOW
ALES
AND PORTERS
ARE THE BEST

FOR SALE AT YOUR LEADING LIQUOR STORES

ROLLING UP GERMANS?

Daily Mail Correspondent Says Rumors of Victory Are Current.

LONDON, Oct. 24.—"The German General Staff has left Ghent, and there are strong rumors of a severe German defeat," says the Rotterdam correspondent of The Daily Mail. "Messages from different points of the northwest frontier agree that the German army along the coast is being rolled up like a ribbon.

"The German cavalry has been unable to manoeuvre in the tangled dike country, and the German big guns are stuck in bogs. By a magnificent attack, it is stated, the Franco-British force have cut the German line south of Ostend."

The correspondent of The Times in northern France, on the other hand, states that there is no foundation for the report that Bruges has been evacuated by the Germans. He says the Germans are still in force in the neighborhood of Ostend, and that the reported retirement in the direction of Bruges is in the nature of a precautionary measure which the allied activities to the south and southwest have rendered necessary.

"WET" CANTEEN OPPOSED.

Canadian Methodist Church Protests Against General's Action.

MEDICINE HAT, Oct. 24. — The Methodist Church, through Rev. Dr. S. D. Chown, has sent to Sir Robert Borden a strong protest against the order of Gen. Alderson, authorizing a "wet" canteen for the Canadian troops.

In the message of protest sent from here yesterday Dr. Chown reminds the Prime Minister that Russia has forbidden vodka and France absinthe for the army, and in asking Premier Borden to make an emphatic protest to the Home Government that the order be withdrawn, he questions the moral right of Gen. Alderson to authorize a canteen in the face of the practice of the Militia Department of Canada and contrary to Canadian public opinion, and the tacit understanding with Canadian motherhood.

KAISER BARELY ESCAPED.

German Emperor Almost Captured Near Warsaw, Say Soldiers.

PETROGRAD, Oct. 24.—That the Kaiser, who was present on the field at the battlefront in the vicinity of Warsaw, whence the German troops had been retreating, was surrounded and nearly taken prisoner, but just escaped in a motor car, is the statement of soldiers who participated in the fighting in these parts.

There is no official confirmation of this report.

One of the Kaiser's generals, however, who was being sent with presents from the Kaiser to his troops, was seized by the Cossacks and brought into camp a prisoner.

THE TERRORS OF INDIGESTION

DISAPPEAR WHEN THE BLOOD IS MADE, RICH, RED AND PURE.

The mistaken idea that laxatives or drastic purgatives provide a short cut to the cure of indigestion is largely responsible for the prevalence of dyspepsia and other stomach disorders. Indigestion calls for more than a makeshift. Your stomach needs tone it cannot absorb from the food you eat. To give new strength to your stomach so that it may perform the work of digestion without pain or distress, you much enrich the blood. This is the tonic method for strengthening weak stomachs. In cases of this kind Dr Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People are the best medicine known. Every dose makes new, rich blood, which not only strengthens the stomach but builds up every part of the body as well. Here is an illustration of what this medicine can do. Mrs. I. N Brown, Dowville, N.B., says: "For three years I was a sufferer from chronic indigestion. I was hungry all the time, yet could take very little food, and what I did take was followed by great distress and nausea. My sleep at night was broken, and I often had profuse night sweats. The suffocating feeling which often followed eating would cause my heart to palpitate violently. At times my hands and face would become the color of clay and I would be completely prostrated. It was under the care of a good doctor who finally told me the trouble was incurable and that the most I could hope for was temporary relief. I was in these straits when a friend advised me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, I did so, and used the pills steadily for two months when I was again a well woman, and have since had no return of the trouble."

You can get these pills through any dealer in medicine or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams Medicine Co. Brockville, Ont

RETREAT NOW A FLIGHT ABANDONED WAR SUPPLIES

Russian Army Outflanked the German Left Wing and Cavalry Appearing In Rear of Kaiser's Legions Created a Panic—Grand Duke Nicholas Is Decorated With Order of St. George, Third Class, For Achievements.

LONDON, Oct. 24.—The following official communication was issued last night at Petrograd by the Russian General Staff:

"The energetic offensive of our armies, which have crossed the Vistula on a large front, encounter no resistance on the part of the Germans, who continue to retreat.

"In the trenches below Ivangorod we took large quantities of war stores and ammunition abandoned by the reserve corps of the Prussian guard in its hasty retreat.

"The Austrian armies continue to fight with stubbornness on the Vistula, on the San, and particularly to the south of Przemysl.

"In East Prussia there is no change in the situation."

The Petrograd correspondent of The Rome Tribuna thus desribes the latest phase of the fighting along the River Vistula:

GRAND DUKE NICHOLAS.

"The combat is confined to the German left wing, where 600,000 Germans are engaged in battle with a million Russians.

"The fighting began on Oct. 7, becoming furious the 13th, and was finished on the 18th.

"The Russians drove before them ten cavalry divisions from Novo Georgievsk to a point west of Bsura, where was situated the extreme of the German left wing. The Germans were completely outflanked by the Russian cavalry, which appeared in their rear, producing a terrible panic.

"The order was given by the German commander for a general retreat toward Lowitz and Skierneviez, but the retreat soon degenerated into a disorderly flight, with the Russians still pursuing, and the flight momentarily becoming more disastrous.

"Emperor Nicholas has conferred the order of St. George, third class, on Grand Duke Nicholas, commander-in-chief of the Russian forces and the same order, fourth class, on Capt. Martinoff.

TELEGRAPH BRIEFS

Thomas Gilbert Cook was found not guilty yesterday at Edmonton of the murder of Wm. B. Crawford at Wainwright on May 14.

King George has approved of the naval volunteer force of Canada being known as the "Royal Naval Canadian Volunteer Reserve."

The German authorities have seized the English church at Wiesbaden, requiring Rev. Mr. Freeze to give them a list of the church property.

Ebenezer Coffel, one of the most prosperous and well-known farmers in the vicinity of Merlin, was instantly killed by being run over by a ditching machine.

The Venezuelan Cabinet has resigned because of an economic crisis and a new Ministry has been appointed. Gen. Ignacio Andrade has been made Minister of Foreign Affairs.

The British torpedo gunboat Dryad which went ashore recently at Kirkwall, off the coast of Scotland, has been refloated. An examination shows that she has sustained no damage.

News has been received in London of the death in action of Lord John Spencer Cavendish, son of the late Lord Edward Cavendish, and youngest brother of the Duke of Devonshire.

German made goods to the value of $1,443,793 managed to reach New York during September, according to a detailed review of last month's imports and exports issued by Collector Malone.

In order that he might have a chance to fight the Germans, William Road, a three-year convict in the penitentiary, has had a petition sent to the Minister of Justice asking that he be allowed out on parole.

CRYPTIC LETTER ON GENERAL.

It Referred to Funeral of Crown Prince in Berlin.

PARIS, Oct. 24.—(Via London.)—Two aeroplanes were seen above Compigne yesterday, and when they were discovered to be Germans, French airmen immediately left to meet the Taubes. The invaders fled in the disection of Marseilles.

The German general, Von Freise, has been captured by the Turcos and taken prisoner to Fort St. Nicholas. A letter found in his possession, written by a woman in Berlin, says that eevrything is quiet in that city, except on the day of the "crown prince's funeral, when all turned out to see it."

Canada Bars Three Papers.

OTTAWA, Oct. 24. — The Department of Customs has prohibited the further importation into Canada of two English weeklies, Illustrated Bits and Ally Sloper's Half Holiday, and a New York bi-weekly, The Vital Issue.

The English publications are regarded by the Department as immoral and the American publication as untruthful and unfair in its anti-Britishism.

Ice-Breaker at Archangel.

LONDON, Oct. 24.—A Reuter despatch from Archangel, Russia, says the ice-breaker Earl Grey, acquired from the Canadian Government, has arrived, and that the Russian Government hopes the vessel will be able to keep the port of Archangel open until the beginning of December or later.

CHURCH DIRECTORY

JOHN STREET PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH
Corner Victoria Ave. and John St.
Rev. E. C. Currie, Pastor.
11 a.m.—Rev. C. C. Salisbury, of Seymour.
3 p.m.—Sunday School and Bible Classes.
7 p.m.—Rev. C. C. Salisbury.
Tues. 8 p.m.—Meeting of Guild.
Wed. 8 p.m.—Prayer Meeting.
The minister goes to Seymour for anniversary services.
Strangers and visitors welcome.

ST. ANDREW'S PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH
Rev. A. S. Kerr, M.A., Pastor.
The pastor will preach at both services tomorrow.
11 a.m.—The Reticence of Jesus.
3 p.m.—Sunday School and Adult Classes.
7 p.m.—The Generations of Cain and Seth.
Guild Monday eve at eight o'clock.
Midweek service Wednesday eve at eight o'clock.
A cordial welcome to all.

VICTORIA AVENUE BAPTIST CHURCH.
Corner of Victoria Ave. and Pinnacle St.
Rev. Chas. Geo. Smith, B.D., Pastor.
Residence: Turnbull St. Phone 214.
11 a.m.—Mr. P. C. MacLaurin will have charge.
3 p.m.—Bible School and Organized Classes.
7 p.m.—Mr. J. L. Hess will have charge.
Monday, 8 p.m.—Young People's Meeting.
Wed., 8 p.m.—Prayer Meeting.
All welcome.

THE BELLEVILLE BUSINESS MEN'S BIBLE CLASS
Will meet in the Bridge Street Methodist Church auditorium tomorrow at 2.45 p.m.
Lesson—"The Problem of Judas"—Matthew xxvi:14-25, 47-50; xxvii:3-10.
Soloist—Mrs. T. C. Lapp.
Five minutes talk on the war by J. J. B. Flint, Esq.
Good class singing. Every man not attending another Bible class, especially workmen, students and visitors, are invited.
A. M. CHAPMAN, President.
F. E. O'FLYNN, Teacher.

BETHEL HALL
Over Lattimer's Drug Store.
Christians gather to the name of the Lord Jesus Christ.
11 a.m.—The Lord's Supper.
3 p.m.—Sunday School.
7 p.m.—Gospel Preaching.
WEDNESDAY.
8 p.m.—Meeting for Prayer and Bible Study.
SUNDAY EVENING.
Subject—The Three Judgments to Come.

BRIDGE STREET METHODIST CHURCH
Organized in 1815
Pastor, Rev. H. S. Osborne, B.A., B.D.
10 a.m.—Rev. Mr. Adams' Class and Junior Epworth League.
11 a.m.—Public Service. Preacher, the Pastor. Subject: "God's Minute-Man."
2.30 p.m.—Sunday School with seven Adult Bible Classes.
7 p.m.—Public Service. Sermon by the Pastor. Subject: "Young People and Revivals of Religion."
Music under the direction of Prof. D. A. Cameron.
Monday, 8 p.m. Epworth League Social Evening. Programme games and refreshments.
Wednesday, 8 p.m.—Prayer and Praise Service.
Strangers, students and young people especially invited to these services.

EMMANUEL REFORMED EPISCOPAL
Victoria Ave. between Church and Pinnacle Streets.
Rev. A. M. Hubly, Pastor.
11 a.m.—Sermon: Where We Get Understanding.
3 p.m.—Sunday School and Bible Classes.
7 p.m.—Sermon: Pardon and Chastisement.
Monday evening: Y.P.S.C.E. Business Meeting and Refreshments.
Wednesday evening—Prayer, Praise and Bible Reading.

THE TABERNACLE METHODIST CHURCH
(Church St.)
Rev W. G. Clarke, B.A., Pastor.
10 a.m.—Four Classes. Junior E. League.
11 a.m.—Subject—"How to Detect a Religious Humbug."
2.30 p.m.—Sunday School; Alpha Club; Good Orchestra.
7 p.m.—The Pastor will give a series of Patriotic address to young men. Subject for this Sunday evening—"Nelson at Trafalgar—What England Expects of Every Man."
Splendid music by the choir. Solos, quartettes, etc.
Young men are specially invited. Everybody is heartily welcome.
Mrs. M. P. Duff, organist.
Mrs. J. Grant, leader.

WEST BELLEVILLE METHODIST CHURCH
Rev. A. R. Sanderson, Pastor.
Parsonage: Hillside Street.
ANNIVERSARY SERVICES.
11 a.m. and 7 p.m.—Rev. B. Greatrix of Oshawa, a former Pastor, and Belleville boy. Special music by the choir.
2.35 p.m.—Rev. B. Greatrix will address the Bible School.
8 p.m. Wednesday—Prayer, Praise and Bible Study.
8 p.m. Friday—The League.
Mrs. A. E. MacColl, organist and Choir directress.
Students, Strangers and all Welcome.

CHRIST CHURCH.
(Anglican)
Rev. R. C. Blagrave, D.D., Rector
Residence: 25 Turnbull St.
20th Sunday after Trinity.
Reopening Continued—Harvest Festival Services.
Holy Communion .................... 8 a.m.
Holy Communion, St. George's. ... 9 a.m.
S. S.'s and Adult Bible Classes .... 3 p.m.
Evensong and sermon ................ 7 p.m.
Rev. T. J. O'Connor-Fenton, Colborne, special preacher.
Midweek service at St. George's, Tuesday 7.45 p.m.
Seats free. Visitors and strangers welcome.

How's This?

We offer One Hundred Dollars Reward for any case of Catarrh that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure.

F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O.

We, the undersigned, have known F. J. Cheney for the last 15 years, and believe him perfectly honorable in all business transactions and financially able to carry out any obligations made by his firm.

NATIONAL BANK OF COMMERCE,
Toledo, O.

Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. Testimonials sent free. Price 75 cents per bottle. Sold by all Druggists.

Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

© McCall
McCall Pattern
Ladies' Dress No. 6043
Price, 15 cents

Beautiful New Styles In Ladies' Dresses

The new Autumn Styles in Ladies' Dresses are now being shown in great variety, including Silks and Satins, Silk Crepes and Crepe-de-Chenes, Silk Moires, also Wool and Wool and Silk Mixtures in all the fashionable Dress Fabrics. These dresses are as well made and as perfect fitting as if made to your personal order by the most fashionable dressmaker. We show these dresses to sell from

$6.50 to $27.50 each

TWO SPECIAL COAT VALUES.
PLUSH AND BLACK CURL, $27.50 and $18.50

These are two of our most attractive Ladies' Coats. The one is made of a very Rich Plush, lined throughout with a beautiful Grey Satin, made in latest style and sells for $27.50; the other is Northway's best Black Curl Cloth Coat, lined with Farmers' Satin, in sizes 32 to 48 bust measure and sells for $18.50.

TWO SPECIAL SUIT VALUES,
SERGE AND BROADCLOTH, $17.50 and $24.50

We know you can buy Ladies' Suits for less money, but these are this season's new styles, and are also Northway made Suits, which means they look different and keep their appearance as no other suits will. The one style is made in a Fine All-Wool Serge, satin lined; while the other is a very handsome Broadcloth, both new styles, at $17.50 and $24.50 each.

New Dress Velveteens

It's because this is decidedly a Velvet Season, that we show hundreds of pieces to select from, in every fashionable Autumn shade, of Plain Velvet, Moire Velvet, Shot Velvets and Velvet Cords, in an excellent variety, to sell at

50c, 60c, 65c, 75c 90c, $1.00, $1.25 and $1.50 per yard

Look for the name on the selvedge—

The words "Priestleys' Limited" stamped every five yards on the selvedge, and the varnished board upon which each piece is boited, always identify the genuine

Priestleys' DRESS GOODS

All over the world, "Priestleys'" means absolutely reliable quality and great variety of fashionable weaves and colors. In Canada, the British preferential tariff brings Priestley dress goods within easy reach of every purse. Ask to see Priestleys'.

SINCLAIR'S

39 inch Black Silk at $1.15

We have three pieces only of this special Black Dress Silk, and when sold we cannot repeat it at this price. If you would like a handsome Black Silk Dress, ask to see this 39 inch Pure Silk Pailette, or write us for sample of this silk. Being so wide, six yards makes a good dress length and costs you only

$6.90

Buy It Now

The average woman likes to talk about her neighbors almost as well as the average man likes to talk about himself.

Face And Hands Covered With Sores

ZAM-BUK WORKED COMPLETE CURE.

Mrs. P. Watson Drummond, of Thetford Mines, Que., writes: "Every fall for three years, as soon as cold weather set in, my daughter's face and hands would be covered with rough watery patches, which before long would turn into nasty sores. These would itch and smart terribly, and she would suffer in this way from fall to spring. Nothing we could get did her any good until I started using Zam-Buk. This wonderful ointment quickly relieved the irritation. We persevered with Zam-Buk, and to our great delight it worked a complete cure. I have also used Zam-Buk for cuts and burns, and think there is nothing to compare with it."

For eczema, piles, abscesses, ulcers, cuts, burns, bruises, or any skin disease or injury, Zam-Buk is unequalled. As soon as applied, it commences its work of healing, quickly alleviates the pain, and builds up new healthy tissue.

At all druggists and stores, or from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, 50c. per box. See the name on the box and refuse all substitutes.

Germans Preparing Lighters.

COPENHAGEN, Oct. 24. — (Via London.) — Two shipyards at Kiel, the Germania and the Howard, are building thirty armored lighters capable of carrying 500 men each, and traveling at the rate of nine miles an hour, to proceed to the River Scheldt should eventualities permit the landing of German troops on the coast of England. Furthermore, it is asserted that three of these lighters are completed and already on their way to the Scheldt.

Serving Tea to Men.

Afternoon tea is often very much enjoyed by men, and the arrival of half a dozen or more masculines gives pleasure to the ladies assembled. Men usually like tea very hot and rather strong. Many prefer sugar and cream to lemon, and these should be provided. Salted nuts, bonbons, mints and olives with the sandwiches may well make refreshments the better enjoyed.

Kind Editors.

Needless to say, the night was cold. Brrr!

"We have used up the last stick of wood in the house," said the young artist to the brooding poet as they sat beside the embers of a fire. "What shall we do? Must I sacrifice my latest canvas?"

"Hold!" said the poet. "I shall bring my rejected slips."

And they kept the fire going all night. —New York Post.

the region of Pont-a-Mousson we have had some partial successes. On the rest of the front there is nothing to report.

"To sum up: The enemy appears to be undertaking, along the major part of the front, and particularly between the North Sea and the Oise, new effort, making use of corps made up of new organizations. These are composed of men recently drilled, some of them very young, and others of middle age, and have staffs drawn from various parts of the army."

DAMAGE ENORMOUS.

British Monitors Have Inflicted Heavy Losses on Germans.

LONDON, Oct. 24.—A special despatch to The Standard from the north of France says: The German losses on the coast from the fire of the British monitors, which, with their light draught, are able to go close in shore among the sandbanks off Ostend and Nieuport, have been enormous. The gunners obtained the exact range of the German camps during the night, mainly from the indispensable fires, and shelled them at dawn, before their guns could make any sort of reply, the horses stampeding in all directions. Tents were overturned or blazing, and hundreds of dead and wounded lay where they had been sleeping calmly, as complacent as conquerors.

Around Peronne the Germans appear to be concentrating an immense mass of troops on a movement towards Amiens and Rouen, to cut off the British and Belgian communications before proceeding southwards to attack Paris. They cannot leave the allies' army in the northeast on their right, so heavy fighting is taking place right up to the coast. The Germans are seeking to occupy Pas de Calaix before they advance much farther into France lower down. That they seriously hope to attack England before attempting once more to invest Paris is hardly conceivable. The cheerfulness of the cosmopolitan population of Pas de Calaix, now that the great exodus of refugees from Belgium is over, is altogether admirable.

ARRAS DESTROYED.

Germans Destroy Town Hall and Hospitals With Artillery.

PARIS, Oct. 24. — The Germans on Wednesday again bombarded Arras and finished their work of destruction. The town hall and the town itself suffered frightfully from the heavy gun fire. None of the hospitals was spared and priests and nurses were among those killed. The cemetery was continuously shelled to prevent the burial of bodies, which will now have to be burned.

The Academie des Belles Lettres, at the end of a long secret session, passed strong resolutions condemning German atrocities and German "intellectuals."

The declaration thereon said, among other things: "That the Academie was sadly surprised to see among the members certain of those whom the association had deemed worthy to share in its work, but who were so wanting in the debt of honor and loyalty."

Leaving Ostend and Bruges.

AMSTERDAM, Oct. 24—(Via London.) — The Sluis correspondent of The Telegraaf says:

"The Germans are not prospering in the incessant fighting which is going on over the whole of the West Flanders front, from Roulers to Thourout and between Ostend and Nieuport. The struggle is still undecided, but there is little doubt the Germans are now clearing out of Ostend and Bruges."

Soldiers Were Starving.

LONDON, Oct. 24.—In a despatch from Warsaw the correspondent of Reuter's Telegram Co. says the German retreat from Warsaw was so precipitate that the soldiers had to abandon their food supplies. Many of the prisoners taken are exhausted from starvation. One complete unit of 800 men has been captured by the Russians.

Harwich Farmer Killed.

BLENHEIM, Ont., Oct. 24.—Thos. Sample, a prominent Harwich Township farmer, was accidentally killed last night when he was pierced through the chest by a bullet which his 12-year-old nephew, Jack Sample, was attempting to extract from a .32 rifle.

Foreigners May Make Trouble.

MONTREAL, Oct. 24—Police Chief Campeau is urging the Board of Control to take immediate steps to deal with the problems arising out of the presence in Montreal of thousands of destitute Austrians and Germans.

He has drawn up a statement for the board in connection with the serious situation which exists in the city.

It is made clear by the chief that, if there is not a much more intelligent and stringent supervision of the foreign quarters, conditions here will be dangerous in the extreme during the coming winter.

Body of Col. Burland Home.

MONTREAL, Oct. 24.—The body of the late Col. Jeffery H. Burland, Red Cross commissioner for Canada, who died suddenly in England two weeks ago, arrived in Montreal yesterday from New York. Mrs. Burland accompanied the remains. The funeral will take place this afternoon at 2.30 o'clock.

Grain Dealers Arraigned.

MONTREAL, Oct. 24.—Joseph A. Roberge and George Cardinal, grain dealers, appeared in the court yesterday afternoon on the charge of purchasing oats stolen from the harbor elevators. Both entered pleas of not guilty and the hearing of the case was postponed.

DRS. SOPER & WHITE

SPECIALISTS

Piles, Eczema, Asthma, Catarrh, Pimples, Dyspepsia, Epilepsy, Rheumatism, Skin, Kidney, Blood, Nerve and Bladder Diseases.

Call or send history for free advice. Medicine furnished in tablet form. Hours—10 a.m. to 1 p.m. and 2 to 6 p.m. Sundays—10 a.m. to 1 p.m.

Consultation Free

DRS. SOPER & WHITE
25 Toronto St., Toronto, Ont.

Zutoo

Will cure any headache in 20 minutes, will nip a cold in the bud, will relieve the monthly pains of women, and in every case it

Leaves you Feeling Good.

CANTEEN IS OPENED.

Sergeants at Salisbury Avail The selves of General's Ruling.

SALISBURY, Oct. 24.—Two da ago the camp roads were two fe deep of powdered dust. To-day th are a veritable quagmire whi makes the work of the army servi corps doubly laborious.

Hard work has begun in earne now in every brigade, although the whole of the troops have not eve arrived yet from Plymouth. The fir brigade attained its full complemen yesterday. The Canadian battalion have all adopted the double compan formation for drilling. Nothing ha yet been done in the way of rifle practice. The rifles, in fact, are only ju arriving in camp. Route marches ar undertaken three times weekly.

Several sergeants' messes becam "wet" Thursday night in accordanc apparently with the announcemen made by Gen. Alderson earlier in th week, but wet canteens for the me have yet to materialize.

This subject will probably provok more discussion in Canada than o Salisbury Plains. Officers of the contingent appear to be agreeable to th establishment of such an institution seeing that such is the custom i every training centre of this country One must wait events to see the extent to which the canteens will b patronized.

Meanwhile it is worthy of note tha the marquees erected by the Y. M C. A. are invariable crowded. Piano are provided in each marquee wit ample facilities for letter writing The Canadian emigration departmen van arrived yesterday bearing a bi consignment of song books for thes marquees, as the gift of Hon. Dr Roche.

A lively interest is being manifested in to-day's visit of Lord Roberts. After inspecting the parade a Bustard, he will proceed to each of the other three camps. Lord Roberts has always shown a particular interest in the Canadian military, every year traveling specially to Bisley to inspect the Canadian team. "Bobs" will not see the contingent at full strength, leave for the officers and men having been granted extensively over the week-end.

Dutch To Evict Refugees.

LONDON, Oct. 24. — A despatch from The Hague says it is semi-officially announced that the Netherlands Government, in pursuance of its decision to free eastern and northern Holland of the burden of caring for the Belgian refugees will run many trains to-day from the various cities in these districts to Belgium.

Experimenting With New Gun.

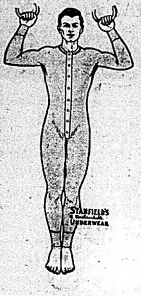
AMSTERDAM, Oct. 24—The newspaper, Bronlngen, states that experiments are proceeding at the Krupp Gun Works at Heppen, near the Dutch frontier, with a 52-centimetre gun, which is said to have a range of 25 miles.

HIGH GRADE FURNISHINGS



Travel the Country over and you'll not find a better line of Men's Toggery than you'll find right here.

The best Shirt makers, Underwear makers, Scarf makers, Sweater Coat makers and Coat and Glove makers send us their productions.

The Best In Every Line Is Here!

Then again we are not high priced.

All the Patrons of the Store know this to be a fact. Test us and see.

See our New $1 Shirts;
Look at our $1 Gloves;
See our 25c and 50c Neckwear;
Look at our Sweater Coats from 75c up;
If You Doubt Our Splendid Value Giving.

Quick & Robertson
CLOTHING AND FURNISHING

IN AND ABOUT THE CITY

Condensed News Items for Busy Readers.

AFTER GAME

Mr. Freeman H. Ketcheson and son of Belleville are conducting a vigorous assault on the partridge in this vicinity. They have an auto along to carry home the game.—Bancroft Times.

CASE ENLARGED

Thomas Cornell was yesterday up before the magistrate charged with neglecting to support his wife. As the accused promised to do better in the future the case was enlarged for 30 days to give him a chance to do so.

PAID HIS FINE

A party from Picton was in the city last evening and was driving his auto about the street with the rear lamp not lighted, when a policeman detected it. The man acknowledged his guilt and paid the usual fine and costs.

LAID AT REST

The remains of the late Mr. James Elmey of this city, were yesterday afternoon taken to Shannonville for interment after services had been held here by the Rev. R. C. Blagrave, rector of Christ Church. At the grave Rev. A. Bareham officiated. The bearers were Messrs. W. Wessels, K. Earle, Jas. Clazie, W. Cole, J. Gillespie and A. Read.

CHEESE BOARD

At the Cheese Board held here to-day 1,295 boxes of white and 30 boxes of colored chesee were offered for sale. All the cheese boarded was sold with the exception of 65 boxes, at 15 1-8c. which is an excellent price.

GOOD TURNOUT

Under command of Col. Marsh the Fifteenth Regiment paraded last night. The turnout was a creditable one. Headed by the Regimental Band the men were marched from the Armouries up Front street and upon returning to the Armouries were drilled for some time.

WANTON DESTRUCTION

Salmon trout which were speared on the spawning beds in Baptiste lake are being brought to town and offered for sale. This wanton destruction of these splendid game fish goes on year after year, and the wonder is that there are any left in the lake. An example should be made of some of the offenders, and it would have a tendency to put a stop to the practice, which is not even sport.—Bancroft Times.

HOLLOWAY ST. LEAGUE

There was a good turnout of young people at the League last evening. The lesson was read by Mr. Horwood. The song "O Canada", was sung by a numer of children, which was much enjoyed. Mr. Horwood then took the topic and gave a very helpful talk on "generosity." Mr Lawson favored those present with a recitation "Nellie's Rose."

Stoves! Stoves! Stoves!

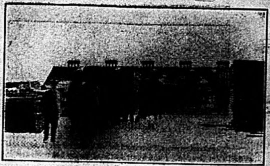
Before Buying, See Our Big Line Of

Quebec Heaters
Oak Stoves
Base Burners, etc.

We have the Stove you want at the right price

SATISFACTION GUARANTEED

The John Lewis Co.
Limited
THE STOVE STORE



A Winter Scene in The Schuster Company's LUMBER and COAL YARD.

"BLIND PIG" FINES REACH GOOD TOTAL

Fifteen Cases Brought to Magistrate in Sault Ste. Marie District

The enforcement of the Liquor law under the Hon. Mr. Hanna is being pushed to its fullest extent.

Provincial Inspector Ayearst and special officers of the Liquor License Department have made a clean-up in the Sault Ste. Marie district and added about one thousand two hundred dollars to the Provincial treasury. The sale of liquor in unlicensed places and in hotels after hours and for removal from the premises has been going on for some time. Fifteen cases were prosecuted before Magistrate MacKay of the Sault, F. J. S. Martin representing the department.

The Rifle Club

Last night there was a shooting competition held in the armories for the members of A. Company. Possible 35. Results were:

| | |
|---|---|
| *Pte. George Wood | 31 |
| *Pte. Massey | 29 |
| *Pte. Converse | 29 |
| Pte. Armstrong | 28 |
| Pte. Pixie | 24 |
| Sgt. Morrison | 23 |
| Pte. Parker | 21 |
| Pte. Arnold | 20 |
| Bugler McCoy | 18 |
| Col.-Sgt. Freeman | 16 |
| Pte. Speer | 16 |
| Pte. Sills | 16 |
| Pte. Webb | 16 |
| Pte. Leavitt | 15 |
| Pte. Wilkins | 14 |
| Pte. Flynn | 14 |
| Pte. Huffman | 13 |
| Pte. T. Wood | 12 |
| Pte. Kimmett | 12 |
| Pte. Knight | 11 |
| Pte. Johnson | 10 |
| Pte. Heaslip | 10 |
| Pioneer Bartbleit | 9 |
| Pte. Baker | 8 |

Massy and Converse had to shoot twice before breaking their tie, finally Massey won out.

* Prize Winners.

Local Legal

Appellate Division—Before Mulock C.J., Clute, J.; Riddell, J; Lennox, J.

Smith v. G. T. Ry. Co—W. N. Tilley for defendants. E. G. Porter, K.C., for plaintiff. Appeal by defendants from judgment of Falconbridge, C.J., of July 10, 1914. Action by railway conductor to recover $10,000 damages for loss of left arm in accident alleged to have been caused by defendants' negligence. At trial judgment was given plaintiff for $4,000 and costs. Appeal partly argued, but not concluded, and adjourned until November 16th next.

RECRUITING FOR SECOND CONTINGENT

The Belleville Armories have again taken on the martial appearance which characterized the formation of the first local quota of the Overseas forces, and there is every indication that another fine body of men will be sent to the front from here. Already a number have enlisted for service, and the lists will be open every evening at the Armories. The medical examiner is Dr. A. E. MacColl, surgeon of the Fifteenth regiment. Already upwards of 30 men have enrolled and they are a fine body of sturdy young men, who are worthy representatives of young Canadian manhood.

Cooling Beverages

Roy's Ale and Porter, O'Keefe's Special Mild Ale, Gold Label Ale, Lager and Stout; Carling's Ale and Porter, and Half and Half and Half; Dow's Ale and Porter; Dawe's Black Horse Ale; Molsons Ale and Porter; Regal Lager; Basses Ale; Guinness' Stout; Budweiser's Lager; Kegs of Ale, Lager and Porter.

W. A. RODBOURNE
Up-town Liquor Store.
[illegible] Front St. Phone
Orders delivered promptly to any part of the city

Ye Olde English Elder Flower

Ye Olde English Toilet Soap
10 cents a cake
For Bath, Toilet or Kitchen
Regular 15c. value and worth it.

WATERS DRUG STORE

BELLEVILLE PATRIOTIC ASSOCIATION

The Treasurer begs to acknowledge with thanks the following subscriptions and monthly payments added to the lists published up to the 17th October. The total cash received amounted on October 23rd to $3,209.45. Additions to subscription list and payments not heretofore acknowledged:—

| | |
|---|---|
| Faculty of Albert College | $50 00 |
| The Walker Foundry | 10 00 |
| The Trenton Electric Co. | 50 00 |
| West Belleville Women's Institute | 50 00 |
| Dr. E. Platt | 10 00 |
| W. R. Vallance | 1 00 |
| Dr. O. A. Marshall | 5 00 |
| 15th Regiment Band (second contribution) | 5 00 |
| R. W. Adams (second contribution) | 50 |
| *Knights of Columbus | 10 00 |
| *John Williams | 5 00 |
| *C. J. Bowell | 5 00 |
| *L. C. V. | 1 00 |
| *Colonel Stewart | 1 00 |
| *Ritchie Co. and Employees | 75 00 |
| *Bank of Montreal Staff | 8 00 |
| *Merchants Bank Staff | 5 00 |
| *Dr. Gibson | 5 00 |
| *W. N. Belair | 4 00 |
| *Belleville Lodge No. 81, I. O. O. F. | 5 00 |
| *Belleville Customs Staff | 10 00 |

* Second monthly contribution.

AT-HOME BALL, BANQUET, and Private Invitation Cards—new line—at The Intelligencer Job Dept. See these. Prices right.

If ever agriculture needed skilful and capable men it is now.

Don't Think Your Eyesight is good because you read the paper a yard from your eyes! This is a sure sign that you have Presbyopia, and need Glasses to see clearly for close work.

Decide to-day to have me examine your eyes and prepare just the Lenses your eyes need to enable you to see without effort.

Alex. Ray
Eye Specialist

ARTHUR McGIE
Merchant Tailor

Our New Fall Stock of imported Suitings and Overcoatings now in stock in all latest designs.

You are invited to inspect our stock.

ARTHUR McGIE
208 Front Street

Every Morning

Flour Scones ..... 10c. per doz.
Tea Biscuits ..... 10c. per doz.
Graham Gems .... 10c. per doz.
Currant Buns .... 10c. per doz.
Butter Buns ...... 12c. per doz.
Chelsie Buns ..... 12c. per doz.
Vanilla Buns ..... 15c. per doz.
Bath Buns ....... 15c. per doz.
and others, delivered in time for lunch.

Ed. F. Dickens & Son
Phone 170

A SAVINGPROBLEM

GET THE F. SANDERSON CO'S GENUINE SCRANTON COAL BELLEVILLE

Pure Clinkerless, Well Screened Coal.
"The coal of perfect satisfaction."
Office, 42 Bridge St. Phone 231a
Yard Office, S. Front St. Phone 231b

MARRIAGE LICENSES

Marriage Licenses issued by P. Harrison at The Intelligencer Office, or at residence, Lewis Street.

S. A. HYMAN & CO.

Hyman's Bargains

It's Your Opportunity To Take Fullest Advantage Of These Specials SATURDAY

Men's Combination Underwear, fine light-weight wool. Regular price $1.75; Saturday, ........ $1.25

Men's Cashmere Sox, colors tan and black. Regular 25c and 35c values; Saturday, ........ 19c

Men's Ties, best quality silk, newest flowing end shapes. Regular price 50c; Saturday, ........ 35c

Men's Tweed Hats, the newest Balmacan styles, latest patterns. Regular $2.00; Saturday, ........ $1.50

Men's Best Grade Knit Ties, all the newest colors. Regular 50c values; Saturday, ........ 25c

Men's Tweed Caps, the newest checks and stripe patterns. Regular 75c and $1.00 qualities; Saturday, ........ 50c

Best quality Lisle Web Arm Bands. Regular 25c; Saturday, ........ 19c

S. A. Hyman & Co.
242 FRONT STREET

STEP IN

AND EXAMINE
The
BARLER "IDEAL" HEATER
$4.00, $5.00, $6.50
At
THE SMITH HARDWARE CO.

JUNIOR Y. M. C. A. NOTES

This morning 30 of the Juniors tried for their respective times in the one length swim, this being the first aquatic event for the monthly awards Ted Lazier propelled himself through the water one length in the fast time of 6 2-5 seconds, while Gordon Chute, who was next man was only 4-5 seconds behind him. Only four out of the thirty fellows failed to make it inside the required time of 11 seconds.

Next Tuesday afternoon the athletic event will be the 220 yards.

Lorne Deeton was unfortunate in spraining his ankle this morning while doing aparatus work.

The Junior Leaders Corps will meet to-night at 6.30. This is their first meeting this season and every member should be out.

The Great Emancipator said---"You can't fool all of the people all of the time."

For a good many years a lot of people have been fooled in the belief that tea and coffee were good for them—that they were harmless—even beneficial.

It was only when the scientific research of the medical profession began to lay bare the bones of the tea and coffee skeleton, that people awoke to the fact that much of the Nervousness, Indigestion, Heart Disturbance, Short Breath, Headache, Biliousness, Sleeplessness, etc. were directly due to tea and coffee drinking.

The proof came to these people when they tried the easy test of quitting both tea and coffee for a while and used

POSTUM

If you are a tea or coffee drinker and feel aches and ills you can't account for, try the simple experiment for ten days. Then you'll know the way to comfort.

"There's a Reason"

Tea and coffee contain "caffeine" and "tannin", two dangerous drugs that vitally affect nerves, stomach, heart, liver and kidneys.

Postum, made from prime wheat and a small per cent. of wholesome molasses, roasted and skilfully blended to produce a delicious, snappy flavor, is absolutely pure and free from the drugs, "caffeine" and "tannin" or any other harmful ingredient.

"There's a Reason" for Postum

—sold by Grocers everywhere.

Canadian Postum Cereal Co., Ltd., Windsor, Ont.

KIDNEY DISEASE CURED BY "FRUIT-A-TIVES"

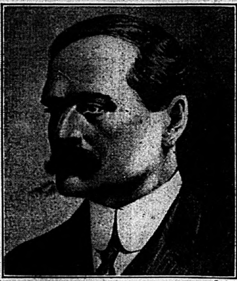
Father And Son Both Owe Their Good Health To The Healing Qualities Of The Only Medicine In The World Made Of Fruit Juices.



H. DORLAND, ESQ.

Bronte, Ont., Oct. 31st. 1913.

"For about 40 years, I was troubled with Lame Back brought on by Kidney and Bladder Trouble. I was never confined to my bed with the trouble, but it affected my spine and I had to rest for a time. I took advertised remedies that did not do me any good. I saw "Fruit-a-tives" advertised and decided to try them. They did me more good than any other remedy. I would advise anyone suffering from Kidney or Bladder Trouble, to use "Fruit-a-tives".

H. DORLAND.

"Fruit-a-tives" acts directly on the kidneys and bladder, relieving inflammation and stopping the pain. But it does more. It prevents the formation of an excess of uric acid, by restoring the Kidneys, Bowels and Skin to healthy action. When these three great eliminating organs of the body are working in harmony, there can be no uric acid to poison the blood and irritate the nerves, "Fruit-a-tives" sweetens the stomach, regulates the bowels, clears, the skin and cures every trace of Backache, Kidney Trouble, Rheumatism, Sciatica, Lumbago, Neuralgia and Chronic Headache.

50c. a box, 6 for $2.50, trial size, 25c. At all dealers or sent on receipt of price by Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

CLASSIFIED ADVERTISEMENTS

Advertisements under this head, 25 words or less, 25 cents for each insertion, and one cent for each additional word; 4 insertions 75 cents; 6 insertions, $1.00, invariably in advance. This rate applies to all except advertisements for Auction Sales, which will be published at two cents per word. Count 8 marks and figures as one word each.

TO RENT

TWO SIX ROOMED DWELLINGS, CORNER Bridge and Dufferin Streets, and two five roomed flats and a two roomed flat. Apply Dr. Caldwell. o1dtf

A FURNISHED SITTING ROOM AND bed room with hot water heating and electric light, with or without meals. Will rent bed room separately if desired. Apply to Box L. Intelligencer. 20-6td

ROOMS TO LET OVER UNION BANK; Hot water heated. Suitable for offices, workrooms or light housekeeping. Burrows of Belleville. 20-6td

HOUSE ON CATHERINE STREET. MODern conveniences. Apply to F. O. Diamond, Grocer, W. Bridge. 21-4td

SEVEN ROOMED HOUSE ON OCTAVIA Street. Rent $10 per month, including city water and garbage collection. Apply W. H. Panter. 23-2td

ROOMS TO RENT; USE OF BARN IF DEsired. Apply to Mrs. John Scott, Donald Street, College Hill. 1t

WANTED

YOUR ORDERS FOR SILVER PLATING. Write for price list. Belleville Plating Works, 257 1-2 Front Street. o14-dim

WANTED, A FIRST CLASS JERSEY COW. E. Savage, Commercial street. 1t

J. L. R. GORMAN

REAL ESTATE AND INSURANCE

Office over Dominion Bank

'Phones:

Office 603 Residence 534

We Specialize in City Property

SITUATIONS WANTED—FEMALE

CAPABLE DOMESTICS — GOOD REFERences—Scotch, Irish and English, arriving almost weekly. Apply 183 Gerrard Street East, Toronto, and 71 Drummond Street, Montreal.

YOUNG LADY REQUIRED FOR POSItion of supervisor at the Ontario School for the Deaf. o24-dtf

FOR SALE

A TOP BUGGY AND CUTTER IN GOOD condition. Also 2 lots. Apply 255 Foster Avenue. o21-4td

LADIES' PERSIAN LAMB COAT; NEW, good style; size thirty-six; a bargain; for particulars address Box G, Intelligencer. 23-2td

BUSINESS CHANCES

DO YOU NEED ADDITIONAL CAPITAL to commence or enlarge a business? If so, we will organize a Limited Company and procure such capital as required. Write or call. A. G. Robertson & Co., 155 King Street east, Toronto. dtf

SITUATIONS VACANT

MAN OR WOMAN WITH FAIR EDUCAtion can make $2 to $5 per day in their district. Rapid advancement. Experience unnecessary. Spare time accepted. Write Nichols Limited, Publishers, Toronto.

PERSONAL

DR. MARSHALL'S OFFICE REMOVED TO Angus McFee's Block, 210½ Front Street. 411-d&w2m

SYNOPSIS OF COAL MINING REGULATIONS

Coal mining rights of the Dominion, in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, the Yukon Territory, the North-West Territories and in a portion of the Province of British Columbia, may be leased for a term of twenty-one years at an annual rental of $1 an acre. Not more than 2,560 acres will be leased to one applicant.

Application for a lease must be made by the applicant in person to the Agent or Sub-Agent of the district in which the rights applied for are situated.

In surveyed territory the land must be described by sections, or legal sub-divisions of sections, and in unsurveyed territory the tract applied for shall be staked by the applicant himself.

Each application must be accompanied by a fee of $5 which will be refunded if the rights applied for are not available, but not otherwise. A royalty shall be paid on the merchantable output of the mine at the rate of five cents per ton.

The person operating the mine shall furnish the Agent with sworn returns accounting for the full quantity of merchantable coal mined and pay the royalty thereon. If the coal mining rights are not being operated, such returns should be furnished at least once a year

The lease will include the coal mining rights only, but the lessee may be permitted to purchase whatever available surface rights may be considered necessary for the working of the mine at the rate of $10.00 an acre.

For full information application should be made to the Secretary of the Department of the Interior, Ottawa, or to any Agent or Sub-Agent of Dominion Lands.

W. W. CORY.

Deputy Minister of the Interior.

N. B.—Unauthorized publication of this advertisement will not be paid for.—30690 dtf

Rowntree's Pastilles

- Assorted Fruit Pastilles
- Black Currant Pastilles
- Dessert Pastilles
- Butter Scotch Pastilles
- French Pastilles
- Apple Pastilles
- Honey Pastilles
- Chocolate Pastilles
- Greengage Pastilles
- Rose Pastilles

and many other of these celebrated gum chocolates.

Chas. S. Clapp

Advertise in The Intelligencer.

RICH GOLD FIELD FOUND IN ALASKA

Silver, Lead and Zinc Ores Also in Broad Pass District

OTTAWA, Oct. 24.—(Special.)—The Mines Department was given details to-day by G. H. Collins of Prince Rupert of a rich new gold and silver strike in the Broad Pass district, 250 miles north of Seward, Alaska. Great ledges of rich gold, silver, lead and zinc ores have been discovered, and there is now a stampede of prospectors into the district. The Mines Department will send two geological experts into the new gold field to examine the character of the ledges and to report on the geological formation, with a view to determining the probability of an outcrop to the eastward in the Yukon.

The new ore fields are reported to be wonderfully rich and the ledges are wide and deep.

F. J. FISHER BEST PLOUGHMAN

COBOURG, Oct. 24.—(Special.)—A ploughing match under the auspices of Hope and Hamilton Townships Ploughmen's Association was held on the farm of Mr. Henry McLaren between Cobourg and Port Hope. The silver cup, to be won twice before becoming the property of the winner, was carried off by Mr. F. J. Fisher, Malvern.

The present conflict has proven that if we sow the seeds of war we shall reap war in all its awfulness.

Notice To Shareholders

The Sun And Hastings Savings And Loan Company Of Ontario

TAKE NOTICE that a special general meeting of the shareholders of the Sun and Hastings Savings and Loan Company of Ontario will be held at the head office of the Company, Confederation Life Building, Toronto, on Monday, the thirtieth day of November, 1914, at the hour of 12 o'clock noon, for the purpose of taking into consideration and, if approved, of ratifying and accepting an agreement as passed and approved by the Registrar of Loan and Trust Corporations of Ontario provisionally entered into by the Directors of the Sun and Hastings Saving and Loan Company of Ontario and the Directors of the Standard Reliance Mortgage Corporation for the sale by the Sun and Hastings Savings and Loan Company of Ontario of its assets and undertaking to the Standard Reliance Mortgage Corporation upon the terms and conditions prescribed in the said agreement.

AND TAKE NOTICE that the original of the said agreement may be inspected by any shareholder at the Head Office of the Company above mentioned.

Dated this Fifteenth day of October, 1914.

(Signed) JOHN P. MARTIN,
Secretary.

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTHWEST LAND REGULATIONS

The sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years old, may homestead a quarter-section of available Dominion land in Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta. Applicant must appear in person at the Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-Agency for the District. Entry by proxy may be made at any Dominion Lands Agency (but not Sub-Agency) on certain conditions.

Duties—Six months residence upon and cultivation of the land in each of three years. A homesteader may live within nine miles of his homestead on a farm of at least 80 acres, on certain conditions. A habitable house is required except where residence is performed in the vicinity.

In certain districts a homesteader in good standing may pre-empt a quarter section alongside his homestead. Price $3.00 per acre.

Duties—Six months residence in each of three years after earning homestead patent; also 50 acres extra cultivation. Preemption patent may be obtained as soon as homestead patent, on certain conditions.

A settler who has exhausted his homestead right may take a purchased homestead in certain districts. Price $3.00 per acre. Duties—Must reside six months in each of three years, cultivate 50 acres and erect a house worth $300.

The area of cultivation is subject to reduction in case of rough, scrubby or stony land. Live stock may be substituted for cultivation under certain conditions.

W. W. CORY, C.M.G.,

Deputy of the Minister of the Interior.

N.B.—Unauthorized publication of this advertisement will not be paid for.—64388

ON SALE TO-NIGHT ONLY

RITCHIE'S SATURDAY NIGHT BARGAINS

For TO-night Between The Hours Of 7 And 9.30

There are Twenty-Four Special Bargains mentioned here for to-night's rush selling, and any one of them worth a special trip down town. Hundreds of economizing people crowded the aisles of our store last Saturday night, and as this is an equally if not more attractive Bargain List than last week, we are assured of another crowded store to-night. When in the store between the hours of 7 and 9.30, watch for the BLUE PRICE CARDS; they indicate the special values.

35c. FLOOR OILCLOTHS, 29c. YARD

That means you have the choice of our entire stock of patterns, which are in beautiful floral, block and tile designs; excellent qualities, and sold regularly 35c. yard. On sale tonight, yard 29c

(Basement)

The Homefurnishing Department Offers These 4 Bargains For To-night

WILTON HEARTH RUGS, $2.25.

About a dozen odd rugs in Oriental designs and excellent colors, size 27x54 inches. Regularly sold up to $4.00; clearing tonight at . . . . . . . $2.25

(3rd floor)

20c. CRETONNES, 13c. YARD.

Thirty-two inches wide in light and dark floral designs, suitable for any class of curtains or coverings. Reg. 20c. yard. For, yard . . . . . . . 13c

(3rd floor)

REGULAR $1.25 HOLMQUIST CURTAIN STRETCHER, on sale tonight at only, each . . . . . 98c

(3rd floor)

$1.50 BED COMFORTERS, $1.19.

Size 66x72 inches, in Paisley designs, on red backgrounds. Good cotton filling and regular $1.50; on sale tonight at . . . . . . . . . . . $1.19

(3rd floor)

Bargains From The Front Store For To-night's Quick Selling

RIBBONS, 12c. YARD.

Excellent quality plain and fancy ribbons in silks and satins, 4 and 5 inches wide, all the best shades are represented and some of them sold as high as 35c. yard. On sale tonight at, per yard . . . . . . . . . . . 12c

LADIES' BELTS, 15c. EACH.

In elastic and leather, in black and assorted shades. Regularly as high as $1.00 each.. For tonight at . . . . . . . . . . . . . 5c

PLEATINGS, 5c. YARD.

A special line in cream only, worth in the regular way as high as 35c. On sale tonight, yard, 5c

DRESS GOODS, 45c. YARD.

Tweeds, cheviots, serges, etc., in shades of blue, tan, brown, navy, old rose, cardinal; up to 75c. yard. Your choice tonight at, yard . . 45c

BUCKLES, 5c. EACH

In steel, enamel, jet, rhinestone; very suitable for trimmings, etc. Worth up to 45c. each. On sale tonight at, each . . . . . . . . . . . . . 5c

CHILDREN'S HOSE, 15c. PAIR.

Odd lines of children's black all wool cashmere hose in plain and ribbed, sizes 4½ to 7 inches, and worth On sale at, pair . . . . . . . regularly 25c. and 35c. pair. 15c

LADIES' HOSE SUPPORTS, 18c.

With pad and four strands of elastic. C.M.C. fasteners, in white, black, sky and pink; extra good value at 25c.; on sale tonight at, pair . . 18

KIMONA CREPES, 15c. YARD.

Flowered and Bordered Japanese designs, in blue, pink, mauve, navy and cardinal. Worth regularly 25c. On sale at, yard . . . . . . . 15c

Extra Special Bargains From The Ladies' Ready - To - Wear Department

50c. LADIES' WINTER UNDERWEAR, 39c.

Vests and drawers are represented and although they are manufacturers' seconds, they are very slightly damaged, and some not at all. All sizes, reg. 50c. Tonight only, garment . . . . . . 39c

50c. LADIES' OVERALL APRONS, 39c.

Splendid roomy aprons, made in light and dark percales. Regular 50c. On sale tonight at, each . . . . . . 39c

$1.00 UNDERSKIRTS FOR 75c. EACH.

Ladies' accordeon pleated underskirts in all the leading fashionable shades. Worth regularly $1.00; tonight for, each . . . . . . . . . . 75c

MILLINERY

UNTRIMMED FELT SHAPES.

Regularly up to $3.50; on sale tonight at . . . . . . . . . . $1.00

Regularly up to $6.00; on sale tonight at . . . . . . . . . . $2.00

All the leading shades and shapes are represented, and these two special lots will be placed on sale on the Front Counter of our main store tonight at the special prices mentioned above.

MILLINERY MOUNTS, 10c. EACH.

Dozens of pretty mounts, suitable for trimming fall and winter millinery will be placed on sale tonight in two lots.

Lot No. 1, regularly to 50c. for . . . . . . . . . . . . . 1

Lot No. 2, regularly up to $1.25, on sale at . . . . . . . . . 25c

LADIES' SUIT SALE

Make Your Selection To-night From The Following Four Remarkable Reductions

LOT No. 1—Ladies' and Misses' high grade suits that sold regularly to $15; on sale at . . . . . . . $7.50

LOT No. 2—Handsome suits for ladies and misses, that sold in the regular way as high as $22.50, for $10.00

LOT No. 3—About 20 ladies' and misses' fashionable suits; worth up to $30; reduced to $14.50

LOT No. 4—Ladies' and Misses' up-to-the-minute suits, marked formerly as high as $30; now clearing at . . . . . . . . . . . $18.50

Here Are 3 Exceptional Bargains For The Men To-night

Regular 35c. and 40c. MEN'S SAMPLE HOSE, 25c. pair.—Excellent quality black and colored cashmere hose, worth reg. 35c. and 40c. On sale tonight at, pair . . 25c

$1.00 MEN'S FLANNEL SHIRTS, 79c. EACH—They have soft collar attached and are mostly in light patterns. Sizes 14½ to 16. Reg. $1.00. Tonight for . . . 79c

50c. MEN'S SILK CRAVATS, 35c. EACH—They are in all the newest shapes and colorings, and sell reg. at 50c. On sale tonight, each 35c
3 FOR $1.00.

WATCH FOR THE "BLUE PRICE TICKETS." THEY INDICATE SPECIAL SATURDAY NIGHT BARGAINS

The Ritchie Company Limited

CITY AND VICINITY

Pratt's Egg Producer—Perry.

Pratt's Hen Lice Killer—Perry.

We have it in sheet music, "It's a Long Way to Tipperary." Goodsell's Music Store. 23-24

The last C.P.R. Homeseekers' Excursion this season, leaves Belleville, October 27th. Burrows of Belleville, C.P.R. Agent. 23,3t

Williams' Upright Piano, $150.00; $10.00 cash and $6.00 per month. Goodsell's Music Store. 23-24

Poultry Supplies, all kinds—Perry.

Every man, woman and child should wear the colors during war time. 24,6t

Meat Meal, Beef Scraps, Shell—Perry.

Visit the flag booth at the Armouries, October 30th and 31st, afternoons and evenings, in aid of the Red Cross Fund. 1t

Nest Eggs; Leg Bands—Perry.

FOWL SUPPER

Under the auspices of Emmanuel church in the Prentice Boys' Hall, Front St., Thursday evening, October 29th. Supper 6.30 to 8 o'clock. Tickets 35c. 24,27,28

New Laid Eggs Wanted—Perry.

Don't forget the Hallowe'en Festival in aid of the Red Cross Fund, in the Armouries, October 30th and 31st, afternoons and evenings. Admission 10c. 1t

Get your costume ready for the grand Hallowe'en parade, at the Armouries, Saturday evening, October 31st, in aid of the Red Cross Fund. Prizes for the best costume.

FRESH CANDIES FOR SATURDAY

Chewing Taffy, 20c. per lb.; Peanut Crips, 15c. per lb.; Humbugs, 15c. per lb.; Cream Wafers 30c. per lb.; Marabone, 30c. per lb, and others. Not how cheap we can make them, but how good. Ed. F. Dickens & Son. Phone 170. 233,32t

Don't forget the tea room when you come to the Armouries on the afternoons of October 30th and 31st, in aid of the Red Cross Fund. Charming young ladies dressed in Hallowe'en costume will serve you.

Painting, Glazing, Graining, Paper Hanging, High Class Decorating. John Cornelius, 12 Victoria Ave. Leave order in letter box. 23,4t

Buy your flags from the Red Cross workers. 24,6t

Martin Orme Piano, $200.00; $10.00 cash and $6.00 per month. Goodsell's Music Store. 23-24

COAL

The FOUR best to buy. D. L. & W. Scranton Coal; C. B. B. Pocahontas Coal; Butts Channel Coal; Beaver Charcoal. You can get them from Downey Coal Co

Don't forget the flag day. October 30th and 31st. 24,6t

WEAR THE COLORS

Every loyal Canadian should be wearing the colors. Be sure and buy your flags from the Red Cross representative who will be on the streets on Friday and Saturday. October 30th and 31st. 24,6t

C. P. R. CONNECTIONS

OTTAWA, Oct. 24.—(Special.)—An application of the Canadian Pacific Railway for approval by the Board of Railway Commissioners of a connection between the C.P.R. and the Canadian Northern Ontario Railway at Oshawa, and for an order for interswitching privileges with the latter road, has been disposed of. An order will issue from the board approving the physical connection. The other question has been settled out of court by the interested parties. It is understood that the privileges asked for have been conceded.

Tenders Wanted

TENDERS for Bread and Milk to be supplied to the Hospital and Home for the Friendless for one year, commencing November 1st, 1914. Milk to be delivered twice daily when necessary. Lowest or any tender not necessarily accepted. Tender to be sent in by Oct. 30th to

MRS. W. C. MIKEL,
Rec. Sec'y. W.C.A
22-3td 285 Charles Street, Belleville.

Tenders Wanted

TENDERS will be received by the undersigned up to and including the 27th day of October, 1914, for repairs on the Ontario House, this city.

The highest or any tender not necessarily accepted. Specifications may be seen at this address.

22-5td THE PRINGLE CO.

Fourteen Pages

The Daily Intelligencer

Pages 9 To 14

LET THERE BE HARMONY IN THINGS ESSENTIAL—LIBERTY IN THINGS NOT ESSENTIAL—CHARITY IN ALL.

Vol. 48

BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO, SATURDAY, OCTOBER 24, 1914.

No. 143

HER DOWRY

It Was Discovered After the Wedding

By MARK TRAVERS

It was 11 o'clock at night. Hackstaff entered his living room and, throwing himself into his chair, sat gloomily thinking. He had just come from Mildred Thorne's. He had proposed to her and had been refused.

His refusal was a more bitter disappointment to him because he had expected an acceptance. There had been a good deal of backing and filling on Mildred's part, but that is not unusual in courtships. Hackstaff had noticed that if he met one of her balkings by a balking on his own part she had come round very quickly. But all the while Mildred was listening to the dictates of her heart. Her mother was telling her that if she married Hackstaff she would prove herself a fool.

Mrs. Thorne was an old woman. She had accumulated some funds by saving—no one knew how much. She and her daughter lived in the house on the hill where Mildred had been born and lived very plainly. They owned the place and raised on it all they ate. Consequently their expenses were confined to what they wore, and they seldom bought any new clothes.

Mildred knew a great deal about her mother and her mother's affairs that the world did not know. She knew that her mother was a miser; not only that she was a miser, but that she was in constant terror lest she should lose her savings. Her husband had been unlucky as an investor, and his wife had no confidence in ever getting back any funds that were put out at interest.

But Hackstaff knew nothing of all this. He was a young farmer much interested in putting his farm on a paying basis. His was not the haphazard way of the uneducated farmer. He had taken a course at an agricultural college and when he put seed into the ground, barring effects of weather, knew exactly what it would produce. He was aware that Mildred was obliged to live economically and supposed that this was because she had very little to live on, which, since there was no income except what the place produced, was true. Hackstaff lived alone. If he could have won Mildred Thorne the world would have looked very bright to him, for he had everything to make a home except a wife, and, having set his heart on her, he would be satisfied with no one else.

He sat on the night of his proposal brooding over his disappointment and thinking of the dull, lonely life before him. Mildred had accompanied him to the door and bidden him adieu there. She seemed to share his disappointment or, at least, to sympathize with him in it. He had not gone far from the house when he heard Hector, the watchdog she always let loose before going to bed, bark. Then all was still.

At 1 o'clock in the morning Hackstaff still sat brooding. He did not go to bed because he had no desire for sleep. Suddenly there was a ring on the telephone bell that sounded at that time of night when all else was still like an alarm. Wondering who could be calling him at such an hour, he sprang to the instrument and took down the receiver.

Shrieks and the bark of a dog.

"Great heavens! That was Hector's bark!" It had been the last sound he had heard from the Thorne place after his departure, and there was no mistaking it for Hector's. The shrieks, the barking, the sounds of a scuffle receded as though to another room. Hackstaff called, but received no answer. The only sound he heard was the ticking of a clock.

Out into the night shot the young farmer, descended the declivity into the valley between his house and the Thornes' and ran up the hill. He found the front door open, but all was dark within. Climbing the stairs three steps at a time, he stood in the upper hall and listened, for he could see nothing. He always carried a box of matches in his pocket and, striking one of them, opened a door.

Mildred was lying on the floor. The light of the match glimmering before her eyes roused her, and, seeing Hackstaff bending over her, for an instant she seemed to be trying to collect her faculties; then she grasped Hackstaff's wrist with a frantic grip, and the flame of the match went out.

"There are matches on the bureau," she said, endeavoring to regain something of her equanimity.

"Are you hurt?" asked Hackstaff, groping.

"I think not. I must have fainted."

Lighting another match, he lit a candle standing on the bureau. By this time Mildred was on her feet, but she seemed unable for a time to collect her faculties. Hackstaff begged her to tell him what had occurred, but she made no reply.

Then came the muffled moan of a dog. Hackstaff was sure it was Hector's bark. It served to recall to Mildred what had happened. She attempted to break away from Hackstaff, but he held her.

"Tell me what to do," he said, "and I will do it. You are not in a condition to act yourself."

"Let me go," she said hysterically. He released her, and she staggered to her mother's room, Hackstaff following with the candle. Opening the door, Mildred found her mother in bed bleeding from several wounds. Hector, who had been shut up with her, was licking them.

A few words was all the explanation accorded Hackstaff at the time. A man had effected an entrance into the house. Crossing the yard, he had evidently been too quick for Hector, but the dog had followed him into the house. Mildred, hearing her mother scream, had gone to her and, taking in the situation, had grasped the telephone receiver and had only time to call Hackstaff's number when the man pulled her away. Then followed the shrieks, the barking of the dog Hackstaff had heard as the burglar dragged Mildred from the instrument, threw her into her room and shut the door. Hector had defended her, but the man had succeeded in shutting him up in the room with Mrs. Thorne.

Hector was of the hound breed and keen of scent. Hackstaff was anxious to follow the burglar, and after neighbors had been called he left in pursuit led by Hector and armed with a revolver Mildred gave him. The dog quickly took the scent, and the two pushed out into the night on an errand of vengeance.

Hector kept his nose to the ground without barking. There was no water in which the robber could lose the scent, and if there had been it is doubtful if he would have used it, for he had not much reason to suspect that he would be so quickly followed, and he had shut the dog in the room with his victim.

Hackstaff felt so deeply the outrage that he thought little of a meeting with a man who was doubtless armed and would shoot to kill. On went Hector with his nose to the ground, and on went Hackstaff some twenty yards behind him. This pursuit had continued for some time and day was breaking when Hackstaff heard in a thicket ahead a simultaneous growl of the dog and the cry of a man. Running forward, he saw by the dim light a man on the ground and the dog at his throat.

Cocking his revolver, Hackstaff pushed forward and saw that the man had evidently been taken unawares by the dog. He had lain down to rest or to sleep perhaps, and Hector had him at a disadvantage. So fierce was Hector's attack that his enemy had all he could do to resist his grip and no time to draw a weapon. He gasped to Hackstaff to call the dog off, and Hackstaff, covering him with his revolver, did so. Then, directing him to put his hands above his head, he disarmed him and, ordering him to rise, began the march homeward.

Hackstaff, after persuading Hector to let go his victim's throat, being absorbed in the man, thought little about the dog. Presently Hector came trotting along with a little cotton bag in his mouth. Hackstaff took it and put it in his pocket.

Drawing the burglar to a road, Hackstaff waited till a farmer driving a team came along, then put his prisoner on the wagon and took him to the jail at the county seat, where he was locked up. Then Hackstaff set out to the Thornes'. He found a crowd about the house and learned that Mrs. Thorne had been mortally wounded. Since Mildred was attended by friends, he did not disturb her, going at once to his own home.

Mrs. Thorne died the next day, as much from shock as from wounds. It was not till the day after the funeral that Hackstaff went to see Mildred. She told him that in her refusal of him she had been influenced by the fact that her mother needed her, and she did not believe that she would be happy or make him happy so long as her mother lived. She was ready to marry him, but he must take her with no dowry except the place in which she lived, which was of little value. She had supposed that her mother had some money hidden away, but nothing had been found.

Hackstaff gladly accepted this withdrawal of her answer to his proposition, and since Mildred was now entirely alone an early marriage was arranged. The burglar was tried, but since there was no evidence forthcoming except the scent of a dog that he was the man who had committed the murder the jury refused to convict him. But he was a hardened criminal and was wanted for another offense, for which he suffered.

A short time after the marriage of Hackstaff and Mildred Thorne the husband one day put on the coat he had worn on the night of the murder. Putting his hand into a pocket, he drew forth a little bag.

"I wonder where that came from," he said, looking at it curiously.

"What's in it?" asked his wife.

Thursting his hand in the bag, he drew forth a number of diamonds. Then he remembered Hector's trotting beside him with the bag in his mouth while he was engaged with the prisoner.

It turned out that the diamonds had been taken from Mrs. Thorne on the night of the murder, and they proved to be worth $30,000.

The robber had thrown them away when captured. How he knew they were in the house and Mildred did not know of it is a story in itself.

After all, Mildred's dowry was satisfactory to herself and her husband.

As for Hector, he lived from that time forward the life of a prince of dogs. His mistress insisted upon having him with her night and day. Since her husband was not with her in the daytime she relied upon the dog for protection. What induced Hector to pick up the bag the robber threw away is hard to determine. It was certainly a case of rare canine intelligence.

Asking Time

A Case of Perseverance

By ELIZABETH GAINES WILCOXSON

Copyright by Frank A. Munsey Co.

Valor McGehee, the boss of the lighterage business, a tenth owner in the Crown mine and owner of the little sawmill up the creek, was a stalwart person of easy manners and the scars of fair fights.

Every day at the same hour he came sauntering in and straddled the bench not far from the sandwich board where Mrs. Taylor was always busy slicing bread and butter.

Her long, oddly slanting, light gray, wise eyes gave him a look of impersonal friendliness as she nodded good morning and briskly lifted two thick sandwiches to a crockery plate and without losing a motion poured a cup of coffee. These she placed before him.

He breakfasted leisurely. As he ate he talked with the cook.

"D'you know what day this is?" he asked one morning.

She flicked an inquiring glance at him, drove her knife through the loaf and repeated:

"Do I know what day it is? Sure. It's Friday." And she smiled. She had a baffling, secretive smile.

The man smiled, too, watching her face.

"D'you know why I call you Mona Lisa?" he drawled banteringly.

"Friend of yours I remind you of?" she offered, another smile lurking in the corners of her mouth.

"You've guessed it. She had a smile like yours. It was a ticklish proposition, that smile of Mona's. You could never tell whether it was with you or on you. But what particular Friday is this?"

"The day of the month? The 10th."

"Correct," said the man. "Which 10th?"

She caught up a big wooden bowl and began piling up the sandwiches into it with the automatic speed of machinery.

She shook her head at his question. "Which 10th would you say?"

"Two months ago today you arrived to open up this haven for the hungry. That's what happened to turn the 10th into a special red letter day," he explained.

"So I did."

"And I was your first customer," he reminded.

"So you were."

"And I've never learned what your name is," he pursued.

"No!" She favored him with a tail eye glance, her hands flying with the motion of closing two slices of bread and butter over one slice of meat. "After my saying it to you so often—'Mrs. Harry Lane Taylor'—just like that!"

She threw out her hands in a jaunty, spread eagle gesture and whisked around to the stove to replenish the fire and readjust the jars of baking beans.

The man smiled after her. He had said the same thing sixty times—once every day for sixty days.

In a minute she was back at the sandwich board, her naturally pale face fire flushed.

"And I am going to ask you something else."

"Something new?" she queried and laughed. She had a frank, clear laugh at variance with her veiled expression and secretive smile.

"Are you a widow?"

"Seems to me I remember you asked me that once."

"Thirty times," he corrected. "I've a reason for wanting to know."

Her long, slanting gray eyes rested upon him for a moment while she answered with mock seriousness:

"Have you? Well, I'll tell you how to get out of telling if anybody asks you if I'm a widow. You just say you don't know."

He grinned.

"All right for you! I'm going to keep on asking till you answer. I'm coming once an hour and ask till you answer."

"Now, I call that downright persecution," she protested, turning to hang up the sandwich board.

McGehee slipped a coin, the price of his breakfast, under his cup, swung his feet over the bench and stood up.

"I'll be back in an hour," he promised.

More than half an hour after he was gone a stranger entered, letting the door blow backward and charging the room with an icy wind.

He was ragged and dirty and gave evidence not only of poverty, but of dissipation. His hair was mixed with gray, and he wore a sandy mustache and a stubble beard. If ever there was a disreputable character it was he. And yet there was about him something that gave evidence of a better past.

He seemed rigid with cold and stopped a minute as if he needed to relax to breathe, then slipped over the bench, hugging his hands together.

Turning with her customary alertness, Mrs. Taylor mechanically picked up a cup. As her eyes fell upon the newcomer her face whitened, and she went taut from head to foot. She automatically put down the cup. A mirthless smile twisted the man's mouth.

"I've got the money to pay for it," he said.

His voice was a mixture of groveling, pleading and sullen defiance.

"Did you come here on purpose?" she asked savagely, stepping toward him.

"Don't be hard on me, Joyce," he begged conciliatingly. "I own I hadn't ought to have left you when I did, but what else could I do? Under the circumstances I thought folks would do more for you if I was gone than"—

"Under the circumstances I accepted charity until I was able to work. The child was buried by charity. I afterward repaid the money, but it was none the less taking charity."

He picked at the edge of the board in front of him.

"I'm going to turn over a new leaf, Joyce," he whined.

"Not in this shack," she retorted decisively. She was gathering composure after her shaken moment. "I wish lightning had struck you before you found out where I was. I was a fool not to get a legal separation at the time, but I learned you'd been sent to prison, and I knew you were out of the way, and I came off up here without doing it. You were given a ten year term, I heard. What you're doing out in four years I don't know."

He stared at her, and she read his cowering fear with hard eyes.

"This country's big, and I want you to move on. This is my place. It's not big enough for us both. You understand? If you'll keep in mind we're perfect strangers and get out of here on the next boat"—

The fear oozed out of his face. A sort of whimpering hope took its place.

"You are hard, Joyce," he sniveled. "God knows, I've always loved you! I never thought of anybody but you."

"Leave God out of it," ordered the woman contemptuously. "You never thought of anybody but yourself in your life."

"I knew you'd be mad at me, Joyce, as soon as I came in. I'm going right up to the mine and get a job. I'll show you I can work. I won't ever leave you again."

"Oh, yes, you will," she said grimly, "and that right away. Just look at my hands!" she cried suddenly, throwing them out before her with a fierce gesture. They were calloused and rough and stiff. "I suppose you remember what they looked like once!"

The man blinked and licked his lips.

"I remember, Joyce," he said humbly. "I thought maybe you'd teach music. You could play right well."

"I tried it for a year and starved."

"If you'll just give me one more chance"—

"You can have all the chance in the world—away from this place. I shall not molest you, though I suspect you've got no right to your freedom. But you just get this once for all: You are to move on at once. And meanwhile we are strangers. I don't now you. You are"—

McGehee entered, and she turned abruptly and poured a cup of coffee, which with food she placed before the man already seated, naming as she did so the price of the meal.

As he passed, McGehee bestowed upon the presence a glance of curiosity and dislike, then sauntered on to his accustomed place. With deliberation that savored of malice Mrs. Taylor filled a cup and plate and set them before him.

He looked at the food with mingled amusement and protest.

"Do I have to eat every hour?"

"Folks don't come in here except to eat," she pointed out.

"Oh, very well," drawled McGehee and began to stir in his cup.

He stirred slowly and sipped the coffee and nibbled the sandwich, but he did not attempt conversation until the presence at the far end of the room was gone.

As the man went out Valor gave him another scrutiny and looked inquiringly at Mrs. Taylor. It struck him when he came in that she and the man were having words, and the thought came back to him.

But the morning was now growing late, and she was getting ready for the noon rush, and somehow, though he could not have told why, the atmosphere seemed subtly against any more half earnest jesting.

So he moodily formed a big interrogation point in the center of his place with breadcrumbs, put a coin, the price of the meal, under his cup, swung his legs over the bench and went out.

He did not come back the next hour, nor the next, as he had promised. The camp was suddenly in a turmoil over the disaster at the Crown mine. McGehee, with others, gave the rest of the day to caring for the five men wounded by the explosion and burying the three who were killed.

"He claimed he was an expert powder man. Just what they were looking for. He lied. He hadn't been there twenty minutes before—oh, well, he any easier for the rest of 'em. It was that fellow who was eating here yesterday morning when I came in for my second breakfast. You remember him?"

He had entirely forgotten his impression of the day before.

"I remember him. It's those he left wounded I pity the most. The others are dead."

Her face looked inexpressibly weary. He noted her unusual expression.

"You aren't sick, are you?" he asked, with sudden perplexity.

She shook her head.

"No. Thinking of the mine accident kept me awake. That's all," she said.

Valor McGehee took occasion to observe:

"Since I wasted so much time yesterday I guess I'll just stay right here till you tell me your name and if you are a widow."

Her eyes met his, and never had her smile been so enigmatic.

"There's a time to ask and a time to answer. My name is Joyce, and—I am a widow," she said.

A Home In America

A Story For Labor Day

By MARGARET C. DEVEREAUX

Jean Stahren and Elsa Vogan lived on adjoining farms on the western coast of Norway. Neither had any brothers or sisters; consequently they were constant playmates, for there were no other children within a couple of miles. Since the country was rocky and not very productive their parents were very poor. But neither Jean nor Elsa had ever known luxuries, and what we do not know of we do not covet. Besides, there is an unconsciousness of deprivation in childhood, and so long as children have enough to eat, though of the plainest food, and enough clothing to keep them warm they are content.

But there came a time with Jean when he began to think of his future. This was when he was seventeen years old. One day, standing with Elsa on a high ridge overlooking the Atlantic ocean, he said to her:

"Elsa, it will not satisfy me to remain here with father and mother to work this little farm. There is barely enough for them to be made out of it, and I feel that I must go out into the world to make something for myself."

A frightened look came to Elsa's face. This was the first intimation she had that she and Jean would not live near each other always as they had lived.

"Where would you go, Jean?" she asked.

"If one sails westward from here in a few days he will reach some islands called Britain. They have a king there, as we have here, and nobles, but I understand that the people are active, and there are opportunities for poor men to make a good living. But if one continues on southwestward he will come to a great continent called America. The people there have no king, no nobles. All are on the same level so far as the law is concerned. To that land people of small means from all nations are flocking. There is plenty of land there which is very rich, and great factories where people work, and those who are skilled receive wages that are unheard of here in Norway. I am thinking of going to America to join in the battle for fortune."

"But, Jean," cried the girl, "you are not skilled at any work, and in no country are farms given away. Having no trade and no money to buy a farm, what will you do to earn a living? And where will you get money to pay your way?"

"I am now of a proper age to learn a trade, and as to the means for the journey I shall work my passage. I shall go on a ship to Hamburg, for which I have the money. There, I understand, there are great vessels sailing to America. They need many persons to wait on the passengers, and it will not be difficult for me to secure one of these places."

"How did you learn all this?"

"Lars Olsen told me; he has been to Hamburg."

Elsa was looking out to the westward, and Jean saw tears gathering in her eyes. He put his arms about her and kissed her. The boundary between childhood and youth had been passed. From that moment they were lovers, though they were still unconscious of the change.

"Don't cry, Elsa," said Jean. "When I have become a skilled workman I will send for you to come over the sea and be with me."

"How could I go over there and be with you, Jean? That would not be right."

"But I will then be a man and you a woman; we can be married."

This ingenuous proposal did not seem to give comfort to Elsa. She said that it would be a long while before Jean could send for her, and even then she could not leave her father and mother, who were every day becoming more dependent upon her. This made Jean feel ashamed, for he knew that he, too, and had more resolution to break the barriers between him and success. Besides, he looked forward to the day when, having become a skilled laborer, he could earn more than he needed for himself and could send money to his parents.

It was a sad day for all when Jean departed. His mother begged him to stay, but his father approved of his going.

"Goodby, my son," he said. "I have heard of that great country beyond the sea where the people are the government and where the workingman must be educated for what he does the same as the lawyer, the doctor and the priest. And they tell me that when he learns his trade he is protected by the trade unions against the competition of those who are unskilled. Go, and God grant that you may prosper."

Elsa went a part way on the road with Jean and when they parted surprised him by encouraging him instead of giving way to repining.

"It will not seem long, dear Jean, before you will be building houses or railroads or ships, and every day you will earn more than you need, so that you can send money to your father and mother to buy them comforts they sorely need in their old age."

"But I shall not be satisfied, sweetheart, till I have earned not only enough for that, but to send for you to come to me."

Nevertheless they had no sooner passed away from each other than Jean's eyes became moist, and Elsa broke down and sobbed as though her heart would break.

• • • • • • •

An ocean liner came sailing down the coast and, entering the lower bay of New York, made its way up toward Ellis island, where emigrants must prove that they come within the laws governing their admission to the United States of America. Among those who were transferred from the vessel to the island was a young woman, who gave her name as Elsa Vogan and her age as twenty-two. She stepped from the lighter that bore her to the dock and looked about her as if expecting some one to meet her; but, seeing no one she knew, her expression of expectancy changed to one of disappointment. Passing with the throng into the apartment where emigrants present their claims for admission, Elsa was brought before an official for examination.

"What means have you?" he asked.

"Only a few silver coins left over after paying for my passage."

"How do you expect to live here in America?"

"I came over here to be married. I expected to meet at the dock when I landed the man who will marry me, but he did not appear."

The official asked the man's name and where he lived. Elsa told him that his name was Jean Stahren and that he was an ironworker in Pennsylvania, but what place in Pennsylvania she could not tell him.

Elsa was told that she might remain on the island for a few days, but if at the end of that time her lover did not appear she must be sent back to Hamburg, whence she had sailed. This was a terrible blow to the poor girl, for she knew that there was some reason why Jean had not met her, which might not be corrected within so short a time.

Fortunately it was summer, the end of August, and Ellis island, surrounded as it is by water, was not a disagreeable place to wait. Elsa gazed out over the bay, wondering at the gigantic statue of Liberty, at the skyscrapers of lower New York, at the Brooklyn suspension bridge and at Castle Williams on Governors island. A day passed, and Jean did not appear. Another day went by and still there were no tidings of him. The third day was Sunday, the 1st of September. Elsa was called before one of the immigration officials and informed that a steamer would sail for Hamburg the next day and if she could not satisfy the authorities that she would not be a burden on the United States before that time she would be sent back to Germany, whence she came.

Elsa was in agony. Jean had sent her the money for her passage, at the same time telling her to write him the name of the steamer on which she would sail, promising to meet her on the dock when the ship arrived. She had written him the name of the steamer, but, not being versed in the ways of the world, had not mentioned the date of its arrival, though she had said that she expected to sail about the last of August. And now, after having waited seven years to be united to Jean and having come all the way across the Atlantic ocean for the purpose, she must go back to Hamburg.

That Sunday was a sultry afternoon, and Elsa in order to get cool sat on the dock gloomily looking out over the waters of the bay. She saw a little steamer leave New York and make for the island. Boats were coming often, and she had looked when each had arrived for Jean. But now she had given up hope. When the boat reached the dock she scarcely noticed those who came ashore. But a man passed near her, stopped and looked at her scrutinizingly.

"Elsa!" he exclaimed.

She arose and for a moment did not recognize Jean, for he wore a full beard.

"Oh, Jean!" she cried. "Why have you not come before?"

"How long have you been here?"

"Three days."

steamer that is telegraphed to be here presently."

Elsa had little education, and she had written the name of the ship on which she would sail so badly that Jean could not read it. He had therefore judged of the time of her arrival from the date she gave and consequently fell between two steamers. But he wasted few words in explanation.

"Come, Elsa," he said. "We must be married at once, go to New York and leave for my home in Pennsylvania on a night train. Tomorrow will be Labor day, and I am at the head of the committee of arrangements for my union and have much to do."

So Jean and Elsa were married on the island and left there at once. It was past midnight when they reached their home, a cottage near a steel works where Jean was employed. Though it was late, Elsa found time to admire the cozy home that Jean had prepared for her.

The first day Elsa spent in America was Labor day, and though she saw little of her husband she saw one of the most important celebrations of the new world.

Jean Stahren became a master mechanic, and, having a wife who was a good manager, they sent monthly remittances to the old folks in Norway, and after awhile made them a visit. But by this time they took with them several children to introduce to their grandparents.

MAKING AN EPIGRAM.

The Prize Winner Was Evidently a Married Man's Effusion.

The head epigrammatist of the great wit and humor factory bent over his work bench and rested his gaze upon an epigram that had been used and used until it was cracked and frazzled.

"It's a shame to throw it away," he said, "for I believe it can still be turned about so that it will have a commercial value. I know what I will do. I will offer a prize to the workman who brings in the best new twist."

So when the workmen were gathered in the room he told them that he wanted them to beat out a new and clever turn upon the old motto "A bird in the hand is worth two in the bush." He gave them just one hour at their anvils, with a monetary prize for the best effort and honorable mention for the others. When the time was up this assortment was handed in:

"A chauffeur in the front seat is worth two under the motorcar."

"A kiss in the dark is worth two under the electric light."

"A grain of sand on the beach is worth two in the eye."

"A gift from a husband after marriage is worth two from a lover before."

"A week's wages in bank is worth two in a trousers pocket that the wife is going through at night."

And, while the first four received honorable mention, it was the last one that won the prize.

BLOWN TO SAFETY.

Curious Incident of an Explosion That Wrecked Fifty Homes.

It happened that in the last months of the reign of Charles I. a certain ship chandler of London was foolish enough to busy himself over a barrel of gunpowder with a lighted candle in his hand. He paid the price of his folly. A spark fell into the gunpowder, and the place was blown up.

The trouble was that the man who did the mischief was not the only one to perish. Fifty houses were wrecked, and the number of people who were killed was not known.

In one house among the fifty a mother had put her baby into its cradle to sleep before the explosion occurred. What became of the mother no one ever knew, but what became of the baby was very widely known. The next morning there was found upon the leads of the Church of Allhallows a young child in a cradle, baby and cradle being entirely uninjured by the explosion that had lifted both to such a giddy height.

It was never learned who the child was, but she was adopted by a gentleman of the parish and grew to womanhood. She must surely all her life have had a peculiar interest in that church.—Sir Walter Besant's "London."

Misplaced Sympathy.

Sitting near the door in a subway car was a middle aged man reading a newspaper. At one station there got aboard this car a mother and her son, a small boy maybe four years old.

As those two came through the doorway and into the car the small boy, quite by accident, of course, hit the middle aged gentleman reading the newspaper a good, smart kick on the shin, causing the man to wince, while the boy's progress was checked for a moment by his thus kicking up against something.

The mother looked down, but she said nothing to the man. It was to the boy she spoke:

"Did you hurt yourself, dear?"

Which seemed a case of misplaced sympathy.

Legend of a Lake.

Avernus is the lake in the neighborhood of Naples where the waters are so unwholesome that birds never fly near its banks. In ancient times it was thought to be the entrance to

A Page Of Interest to Women

WOMEN AND GOLF

Valuable Hints For Those Learning to Play the Game.

MASTERY OF RULES NEEDED.

Grounding In the Elements an Important Point For the Beginner—To Become Expert One Must Combine Theory With Technical Skill.

Women players of golf, especially beginners, are inclined to swing the club so far around that they are thrown off their balance and the club swings the woman instead of the woman the club, says a writer in the Outlook. This fault can be corrected by keeping a tight grip on the club at all times during the swing, as it is the loosened hold that allows the head of the club to drop too near the ground. In the drive, which requires the fullest swing of any of the strokes except perhaps the brassie shot, the shaft of the club at the top of the swing should not go beyond the horizontal.

There is another point that women players, even experienced ones, are apt to neglect, and that is the rules of the game. There have been many matches in which players have been disqualified through the unconscious disregard or breaking of some rule. A book of general rules can be purchased at any place where golf clubs are sold, and the local or ground rules of each club are printed on the score cards of that club, so there is no excuse for any one being in a state of ignorance.

If there is any short cut to learning golf it is through careful study of the reasons for everything. Once the principles of the strokes are mastered a few months of regular and intelligent practice will make any ablebodied woman a fair player, but years of practice without scientific knowledge of the game will bring very uncertain results. A woman who seriously desires to become a really good player must curb her desire to go out and whack the ball along. Before she ever makes a complete round of the links she should study the peculiarities of each club, how to stand when using it, how to address the ball with it, how to swing it and what to expect of the ball once the stroke is made. After she has mastered these essentials and practiced with each club separately at suitable locations on the links she may place together all she has learned and play a whole game, but not before.

It is possible and perfectly permissible to wriggle the feet from side to side until they are comfortably and firmly settled. This may seem rather an unimportant suggestion, but it is next to impossible to keep the body from swaying either sideways or forward unless a firm base is established, and if the body sways the accuracy of the stroke is gone.

Women are rather inclined to walk up to the ball and hit it without taking the time to arrange themselves properly. After all, only a fraction of a minute is required to find the best possible position, and the habit once acquired becomes practically automatic.

GIRL'S PLUSH HAT.

It is no easy matter to find millinery that will combine the two essentials in children's headgear. These are simplicity and beauty. A successful example is illustrated here. It is a green plush hat for fall wear, with trimming of pink velvet roses and green picot edged ribbon. The ribbon is smartly arranged in three flat bows of equal size placed obliquely on the hat.

Keeping Tomatoes Fresh.

Tomatoes picked when just ripe and firm and attached to the stems are said to keep indefinitely with little loss of freshness if covered with brine made by dissolving a teacupful of salt in a gallon of pure, fresh water. Place them in an earthen vessel. A mixture of water and vinegar will also keep them fresh for a long time.

Matching Pincushions.

Lovely silk pincushions in various shades to match the color scheme of the rooms for which they are intended, covered with gold net and much trimmed with lace and tiny silk roses, are durable, in spite of their daintiness, for the gold net protects the silk and

Around the Clock with Everyhousewife

Everyhousewife is in charge of the typical Canadian home. She is responsible for the comfort, the pleasure, the economy of the house. She runs things. Her duties are legion but none is more important than "meals." Three times a day—every day—meals must be prepared. This is her most important duty.

The family comes clamoring to breakfast. Breakfast must be a success. It must be ready on time. Things must be appetizing and attractive, so that the family gets a good start for the day. Back of a successful breakfast there must be a successful stove.

Then after a short period for sewing, sweeping and dusting, comes lunch. The stove has been idle since breakfast, but now a hot oven is wanted QUICK for biscuits. Back of a successful lunch there must be a responsive stove—a stove that jumps from a smouldering "non-consumer" to a bright and ready blaze.

The afternoon has its duties, and perhaps about four or five o'clock calls to be paid. This keeps Everyhousewife out until late sometimes. Dinner is an important meal, with roasts, steaks, soup, fish and puddings to cook. Here is responsibility for a stove! Only a stove of character can meet these responsibilities. The Gurney-Oxford is that sort of a stove.

After each meal the "Gurney-Oxford Economizer" enables Everyhousewife, by the simple turn of one handle, to dampen the fire down so that it burns practically no fuel. An opposite turn of the same handle revives the fire. This is the biggest single feature of economy and comfort any stove ever had, or can have. The grates in the Gurney-Oxford are built to burn not only coal, but air—and air is as important to a fire as to a man.

The heat from the fire completely envelops the ovens by a system of flues. The ovens are uniformly, thoroughly heated. A range that sends heat up the chimney is wasteful and extravagant and unsatisfactory to cook with. We want Everyhousewife not only to read about the Gurney-Oxford, but to see it.

Allow us to demonstrate the features that make it a stove of character, a stove that enables you to make every meal a success with the minimum of expense and time and trouble.

GURNEY-OXFORD JOHN LEWIS CO. LTD. GURNEY-OXFORD

Morris and His Furniture.

In "William Morris—His Work and Influence" is retold how the two friends, Burne-Jones and Morris, setting out to keep house together in the now historic rooms, 17 Red Lion square, found themselves confronted with the unendurable ugliness and vulgarity of mid-Victorian furniture. Says Mr. Clutton-Brock:

"Their rooms were to be furnished, and Morris could not find in any shop a single new table or chair that he could endure. This was not mere fastidiousness. To him vulgarity in furniture was, like vulgarity of manners, the expression of a wrong state of mind, and if his own furniture had been vulgar he would have felt as responsible for it as for his own manners. Therefore he designed furniture to please himself, making drawings that were carried out by a carpenter. Thus simply and naturally he began his business of 'poetic upholsterer.' * * * From the first he was not only an artist, but one who tried to make the world what he wished it to be and, beginning with armchairs, ended with society."

Theatrical Superstitions.

Paris, a city of theaters, is full of theatrical superstitions. Nearly every one associated with the theater has some sort of mascot. Thus, M. Fernand Samuel, manager of the Varietes, always wears an old and battered straw hat as a luck bringer at every first night. Mme. Ristori used to walk in a cemetery on the day when she had to appear in a new part, and Mlle. Breval collects old horseshoes.

Mlle. Mary Garden always consults a clairvoyant before undertaking a new character, and Cora Laparcerie and Mme. Berthe Bady never dream of going on the stage without touching wood.

M. Henri Bernstein believes that there is some curious fetish in the name Zambo. He puts it in all his plays with different orthography. There is always a character called Zambeau, Zambault, Zambeaux, Zambau.—London Express.

Divided.

"Do you have any differences of opinion in your family?"

"Terrible! Why, it couldn't be any worse if we were all members of the supreme court."—Life.

Conclusions.

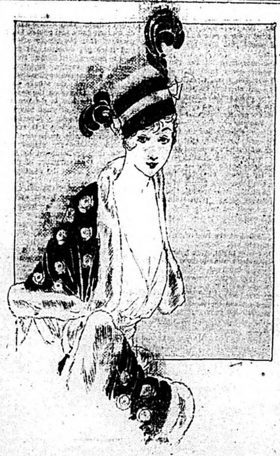
She (throwing down magazine)—Goodness! The end of that story positively startled me. He—You shouldn't



A YOUTHFUL SHAPE

A close fitting French turban of black velvet boasts chic by its beauty of line. Two curling feather fancies are on either side, the highest to the left, and for that reason if one were needed, the hat is tilted toward the right to preserve the proper balance. A band of bronze silk encircles the crown.

In modern warfare action generally comes quick. Troops can get to the front in a hurry, and dreadnoughts are driven at high speed. There is no suc

What does a man's bravery amount to when he is in front of a machine gun that is working overtime?

When a man tells you what he thinks of you it is apt to be

Children.

Children are to be trained daily. To teach a child the right is to give him ideas; to train him is to reduce those ideas to practice.—H. W. Beecher.

Sound Deflection.

Sound does not always travel through the air in a straight line. It often happens that two zones of sound are separated by a zone of silence. In 1908 an explosion of dynamite on the railroad then building up the Jungfrau was heard in two different zones. The first extended through a radius of forty kilometers around the explosion. The other began at a distance of 140 kilometers, the sound being unheard in the intervening 100 kilometers. Similar phenomena had been observed elsewhere, and physicists tried to explain them by the reflexion of the sound waves from certain atmospheric strata. Professor Fujiwhara, who has studied such matters during volcanic eruptions in Japan, asserts now that these phenomena depend upon the direction of the wind in the middle strata of the atmosphere.

He Would Find Out.

Henry Irving in his early days once played a part which in the first act called for a dark stage. In this darkness he fought with an old earl, threw him heavily, and when he did not rise after the loud thud of his fall Irving would cry out:

"Great heavens, what have I done?"

One night he played the part in a small English town. A stage hand was very much impressed with the play, and to him the scenes quickly became real, so that when Irving reached the climax, felled the old earl to the ground and spoke the line "Great heavens, what have I done?" he was startled to hear the stage hand say in a loud voice:

"Strike a match and we'll have a look."—New York Globe.

Chamberlain and His Monocles.

While the late Joseph Chamberlain was crossing Palace yard one day some years ago he was accosted by an American girl with the cool request, "Mr. Chamberlain, please do give me your eyeglass for my cabinet at home."

It was at once handed to her, guard and all, so promptly that the curio hunter apparently felt some remorse and stammered, "Most likely I'm inconveniencing you." "Not at all," replied Mr. Chamberlain as he produced from his pocket a morocco case and took from it a spare monocle, which he screwed in position, and then went

MILITARY LOOKING WRAP.

This cape is of blue broadcloth plaited into a yoke on which is an applique pattern of black velvet and stitched white cloth. The design is repeated at the hem. The frock is of black nocturne satin. The hat is of white hackle plumage. Buttoned dancing boots with tops of cloth are worn.

BROADCLOTH CAPE.

FOR SUN PARLORS.

The Chaise Lounge Convenient For an Afternoon Nap.

For the sun parlor there is no more appropriate and comfortable piece of furniture than a chaise lounge, where the afternoon nap can be taken in peace.

Chaises can be had at many prices. Sometimes their wide arms are supplied with rings just big enough to hold a glass of lemonade or iced tea. Sometimes they are in the form of baskets for magazines and books.

Sometimes they are wide to support your arms and hands. They are always comfortable. One of very good workmanship and material costs about $28.50, stained and fitted with cretonne cushions. This chair is made of willow.

A much cheaper chair is one of bamboo poles, bound with varnished split willow. This sort of chair costs only about $10 and is by no means so durable as the other. But it is comfortable and attractive.

IN MANY STYLES.

Attractive New Bags For Special Occasions.

Tan or bronze green crocheted silk square bags for opera or calling are drawn with silk cord and have rainbow silk long tassels at either side. They are lined with a soft satin to blend with the tassels.

White velvet bags hand painted with flowers in pastel colorings and with the background shaded to blend are new and are for opera or work bag use. They are drawn with gold cords for the former use and with ribbons to match the flowers for the latter purpose.

A Genius For Friendship.

In the Woman's Home Companion a writer presents as a character in her story a botanist who gives the following advice to a young woman who is an amateur painter of ordinary ability:

"There are thousands of young women who can paint as well or better, but you are the one out of a thousand who has the gift of inspiring other people. You lift work from drudgery and vivify with your enthusiasm. The gift belongs only to a nature that is genuine, unspoiled and altogether unselfish. Stay yourself, child. Make the life work of many gladder and saner and truer because of their contact with you. You have a genius for friendship. Trust me, it is rarer than a genius for literature or art."

Odors In the Icebox.

The question of odors is a difficult one to deal with. So many housekeepers complain that, no matter how careful they may be, there is always a little odor in the refrigerator. Be careful of the food you put in. For instance, cucumbers have a very decided and penetrating odor, and there is nothing worse than a cantaloupe to "smell up" an icebox. If there is no cool closet or window box available, put the odorous foods into cracked ice for a short time before serving and they may be made deliciously cold.

Glass Covered Doilies.

Very attractive are the stands made of two thin rounds of glass with a lace doily between and bound together with gold galloon. They are designed to put under the flower vase, so if it sweats it will not damage the polished table beneath. They are

The Club That Knocked Half The Rub Out Of SCRUB
SCRUB
Old Dutch Cleanser
Chases Dirt

HINTS ON JAM MAKING.

Use only fruit which has been gathered dry. Wet fruit prevents the jam from keeping and is often the cause of mold.

Fruit should be boiled as soon as possible after being gathered.

Always use the best sugar and in the right proportions. Cheap sugar is unsatisfactory and is no economy, resulting in no saving.

As a general rule one pound of fruit requires one pound of sugar, but this varies slightly with the amount and kind of fruit.

Always use a copper or china lined pan and stir with a wooden spoon.

The fruit must be boiled quickly and stirred frequently if the color and flavor are to be of the best.

Overboiling destroys both color and flavor. Half an hour to forty minutes is long enough to boil most jams.

Store, if possible, in glass jars, so that any sign of fermentation or mold may be detected.

Jams must be stored in a cool, dry cupboard.

If the fruit is preferred whole boil a sirup before adding the fruit.

Quaker
REGISTERED
MOLASSES CANDY
"The Family Candy"

Pure molasses candy, and Quaker is as pure as can be made, cannot upset the children.

Let them have all they want—they enjoy it so.

And its purity is preserved by the waxed paper machine-wrapping —human hands or dust cannot contaminate it.

"THE FAMILY CANDY"

Odds and Ends of News From the British Isles

Two young lady members of the Perth Swimming Club, Miss Sheila Ross and Miss Maggie Campbell, swam from Perth to Newburgh, a distance of eleven miles, in about four hours.

27 Miles From a Doctor

At a conference at Tobermory on medical service in the Mull district it was stated that a patient in Lochbuie was twenty-seven miles from the doctor in Salen.

Polluted Salmon

At a Newcastle conference on the pollution of the Tyne salmon fisheries it was stated that fish had been greatly reduced in number, and those caught had a tarry flavor caused by sewage.

Fall From Mountain Peak

A boy named John Sullivan, son of a small farmer, lost his life at Glengariff, Ireland, while climbing some of the steep and dangerous mountain peaks in the vicinity. He was found in a dying condition at the foot of one of these peaks.

Farmer and "Servant Boy"

Maurice Murphy, a farmer of Shanahill, Ireland, was remanded on a charge of seriously assaulting his servant boy, Morgan Foley. It is alleged that while Foley was asleep he was struck two blows in the face with a hatchet.

Sunday Card Parties

Thirteen youths, all from Trealaw, Wales, were summoned for gaming with cards on Trealaw mountain side on Sunday. A constable said he kept the defendants under observation by means of field glasses for over an hour. They were playing "banker." All were fined.

In Memory of Adversity

Almshouses at Hull, erected and endowed by Mr. Christoper Pickering, J.P., who started work at the age of nine in a fish-curing smoke house, were formally opened recently. Mr. Pickering made a fortune by exploiting steam trawlers.

Family of Suicides

An Irishwoman named Jane Wictyzatis, aged fifty-six, pedlar, is the third member of her family to commit suicide by drowning. At the inquest held at Ince, near Wigan, a niece told the coroner that two of her aunt's brothers had committed suicide by drowning.

Found Shot in a Lake

Mr. Pierce Mahoney, son of the ex-M.P. for County Kildare, found shot dead in a lake in his father's grounds, is presumed to have rested his gun against a barbed wire fence while getting a boat ready, and that when he reached for the weapon the trigger caught in the wire, both barrels being discharged into his body.

Aeroplane Drops Bombs

The Royal Flying Corps has developed the science of mid-air scouting and dropping of bombs at a height from both aeroplanes and dirigibles.

A 9.2 gun is practically the heaviest howitzer used by the Royal Garrison Artillery. It hurls a 282-pound shell with the utmost accuracy and rapidity.

Living in the Woods

A young man of Trenoo, Redhills, Cavan, who had been missing for a fortnight, was found in a wood near Shercock in a very emaciatad condition. It is said the man is eccentric, and would on no account accost a stranger. It is presumed he missed his way and wandered into the wood, keeping himself alive on wild plants and roots.

Old Soldier's Wooden Gun

When Patrick M'Cormack, an ex-Army man, was charged with drunkenness at Athlone, he appeared with a wooden rifle and a wooden bayonet, and as his case was called he clicked his heels in military style and stood to attention. On his case being adjourned M'Cormack drew his "rifle" to the salute, clicked heels, turned sharply about, and marched out.

Poachers Fire on Bailiffs

A water bailiff named Duggan reported to the Loughgeorge, Ireland, police that he was shot at by poachers on the Claregalway River during the early hours of the morning. He states that while going his rounds he heard a shot, and felt that his hand had been struck. On the same morning another bailiff had to take shelter in a house from poachers.

Lord Kitchener's Titles

The London Gazette announced that the King had been pleased, by Letters patent, to grant the dignities of Baron, Viscount, and Earl of the United Kingdom to Field-Marshal Viscount Kitchener of Khartoum and of the Vaal in the colony of the Transvaal and of Aspall in the county of Suffolk, by the names, styles and titles of Baron Denton, of Denton, in the county of Kent, Viscount Broome, of Broome, in the county of Kent, and Earl Kitchener of Khartoum and of Broome.

---

Thanks to the present European crisis, future tourists visiting that continent will have a magnificent array of ruins to gaze upon.

ELOPEMENT BY AIR

Aviator's Plan to Carry off Heiress Frustrated by Parents

A seventeen-year-old heiress of Berlin, who had planned an elopement in an aeroplane, was hurriedly hauled out of her seat in the machine, and taken back weeping to her parents by the police of the German capital.

Her love romance began with an aeroplane ride with a handsome young pilot, who first became her tutor, and then, after many aviation lessons, her accepted lover.

But her father, a rich property owner in Berlin, got wind of the love affair, and sternly forbade it. So the young people decided, literally, to fly. At early morning the girl quietly left her house in a taxi-cab for the Johannisthal aviation ground. Her keen-eyed parent observed her going from a window, however, and quickly set out in pursuit, while her mother telephoned to the police.

The aeroplane, with the eloping couple in it, was just about to start when the pursuers dashed on the field. Before the swain could get his propeller fairly going the end to the romance had come.

---

House Gowns Make up in Color What They Lack in Frills

Many women are carrying great simplicity of line and decoration into the gowns they wear in their homes.

The one shown is cut in two pieces and hangs straight from the shoulder. Most of these house gowns are made of the Paul Poiret or post impressionist fabrics and make up in brilliant color what they lack in frills and furbelows.

The garment pictured is of hand blocked linen in oriental colors, but it would be quite as chic in conventional cretonnes or silks. It should be of somewhat heavy material, however.

---

The Housewife's Tests

Eggs that are fresh will, if placed in water, sink. To retain this freshness place them, with the small end downward, in a wooden egg fram. Failing this, place them in that position in egg-cups. Milk should be slightly yellowish, with not blue tint, and when poured into a glass and back a greasy film should be left. There should be no sediment to good milk.

Butter can be tested by smearing a little on a piece of white writing paper; then screwing up the paper and setting it on fire. If the smell is tallowy and nauseous the "butter" is not butter. Butter which is streaky or which exudes water is of bad quality.

---

Bananas Make Fine Pies

The woman whose family are continually calling for pie will surely appreciate these new recipes:

Banana Pie No. 1

Beat the yolks of two eggs with one-half cup of sugar until light and foamy. Peel and mash two bananas, beat into sugar and egg mixture. Add tiny pinch of salt. Add two cups of milk with rich pie crust. Bake in hot oven until custard is set. When ready to serve cover with meringue made of whites of two eggs beaten stiff. Add three tablespoons of powdered sugar. Spread on top and brown.

Banana Pie No. 2

Line a pie pan with rich pie crust. Bake and set aside to slightly cool. Just when ready to serve fill with sliced bananas. Sift lightly with pulverized sugar. Cover top with sweetened whipped cream and serve at once.

---

Kansas women want equal property rights with men.

---

Despite the havoc that powder and ball are producing, girls still persist in going to balls and powder their face without fear fear of explosion.

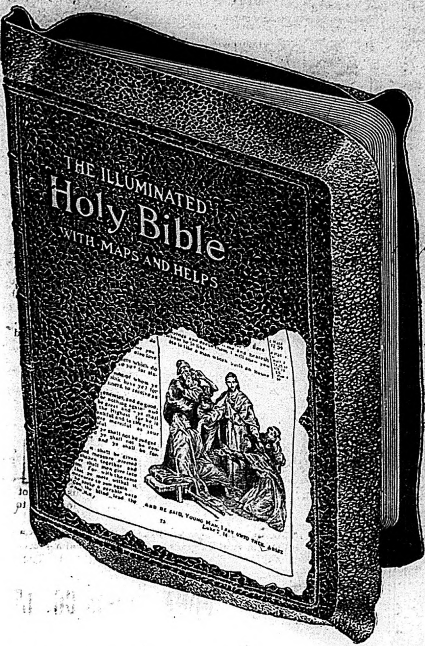
The Intelligencer's Free Bib

CERTIFICATES

printed on another page, clipped on consecutive days, together with the stated amount that covers the necessary EXPENSE items of this wonderful distrib including clerk hire, cost of packing, checking, express from factory, etc., entitles you to your choice of the beautiful books described below. This is not a with meaningless pictures. The illustrations serve a distinct purpose. They enrich the text, but they do more — they intelligently explain it, so that m hitherto obscure passage assumes to thousands a new meaning through these eye-teaching pictures.

The Grand Triumph of Artistic Perfection Is This Magnificent $5.00 Bible

More than 100 of the world's greatest artists working under the advice of archaeoligists and historians of wide renown, have contributed the choicest products of their skill and genius to produce this grand triumph of artistic beauty in historical detail. These pictures are not mere reproductions of mediaeval frescoes and more or less familiar modern photographs, inserted at random; they have been specially made, in the light of Twentieth Century Knowledge, to illustrate selected texts in accordance with the matured beliefs of the greatest living theologians.



Present Six Certificate To The INTELLIGENCE and Take Your Choice

One need not be a member of a religious organization to appreciate this magnificently illustrated work. Every one who reads needs it; everybody that has occasion to carry on a conversation needs it; everybody can use it as an everyday refer ence book — a historical t ise, a key to familiar quotati It is an educational volume progressive people of TO-DA

The $5 Illustrated Volume, Limp Leather Binding, with Overlapping Covers.

GREAT EDUCATIONAL CAMPAIGN

As an EDUCATIONAL work alone, the Bible demands a place in every home — and this new ILLUSTRATED BIBLE enhances the value 100 per cent. for purposes of LEARNING. It portrays ACTUAL SCENES in a way that permanently impress the reader with the FACTS of HISTORY. There is actual need of a hand Bible (or "handy" Bible) in every home. The old family Bible fulfils its purpose, but is unwieldy even for occasional reference, and where is the man, woman or child that cannot gain KNOWLEDGE from this book?

Nothing will interest a child so quickly as a picture. Pictures speak a universal language, intelligible to young and old alike, and with no embarrassments of moods and tenses.

Magnificent Illustrated $5 Edition of the Bible (like illustration) is bound in full flexible limp leather, with overlapping covers and title stamped in gold, with numerous full-page plates in color from the world-famous Tissot collection, together with six hundred superb pictures graphically illustrating and making plain the verse in the light of modern Biblical knowledge and research. The text conforms to the authorized edition, is self-pronouncing, with copious marginal references, maps and helps; printed on thin Bible paper, flat opening at all pages; beautiful, readable type. Six Consecutive Free Certificates and the $1.18 Amount Expense Items

The $3 Illustrated BIBLE is exactly the same as the $5.00 book except in the style of binding, which is in silk cloth; contains all of the illustrations and maps. Six consecutive free certificates and the 81c Amount Expense Items

ALSO AN EDITION FOR CATHOLICS

Through an exclusive arrangement we have been most fortunate in securing the Catholic Bible, Douay Version, endorsed by Cardinal Gibbons and Archbishop (now Cardinal) Farley, as well as by the various Archbishops of the country. The illustrations consist of the full-page plates and maps approved by the Church, without the Tissot and text pictures. It will be distributed in the same bindings as the Protestant books and at the same Amount Expense Items, with the necessary Free Certificates.

FOR MAIL ORDERS SEE COUPON.

Accurate Pictures appeal to the intellect through the "windows of the soul," whose portals let in a flood of light alike to the illiterate and the learned—to the child mind no less than to the man or woman of ripe learning.

TRANSPARENCIES.

Pretty Window Pictures From Flowers, Ferns and Leaves.

ANYBODY CAN MAKE THEM.

Materials Are Inexpensive, and With a Little Taste and Skill Charming Decorative Souvenirs of Woodland Walks May Thus Be Made.

When you are out walking you often find beautiful leaves, ferns or delicate flowers that you wish you could keep. There is a way to do this that requires no special skill.

Smooth out each tiny leaflet of a fern so that its shape will be perfect. Press it between newspapers and change them daily for the first few days.

The materials that you will need to make transparencies are a sheet of Japanese paper, either gray or brown or a dull shade of green, a jar of paste and a pair of scissors.

After your fern is pressed you must decide upon the shape of the picture that you wish. For an oblong, which is perhaps the best, cut two pieces of the Japanese paper of the same size, large enough to cover the fern and leave a quarter of an inch margin around the four sides. Paste the fern lightly to one of these pieces of Japanese paper, being careful to make it lie perfectly flat and smooth. It is a good plan to use very little paste, just enough to make the fern stick fast to the paper. On top of the fern is placed the second piece of Japanese paper, which is glued to the first piece of paper around the outer edge. Here you have your picture ready to be framed.

The next point to be decided is what color frame you will use. Perhaps you will decide on a dull gray, finding that it blends in very well with the delicate, tender green of the young fern. Again you cut two equal oblongs of the colored paper about two inches wider and longer than the oblongs of the Japanese paper. Cut out the centers of these oblongs, and the space thus made must be a quarter of an inch smaller, both in width and length, than the picture. You will notice that when you lay the frame on top of the picture it will cover the extra quarter of an inch of Japanese paper, or, in other words, the frame will overlap the picture a quarter of an inch. Paste the frame firmly to the picture around this center opening and then, turning the picture over, paste down the second piece of colored paper in the same way, so that your picture will be framed exactly alike on both sides.

Now, after the outer edges of the frame have been glued together the picture will be complete. By adding a bit of gray ribbon by which to hang it up your transparency is ready to be hung in the window.

You can make all sorts of transparencies, of all shapes and sizes, using dainty, delicately colored flowers or thin feathery grasses or some little leaves—anything, in fact, that is flat and can be pasted between the two pieces of transparent Japanese paper. Often ferns with just one gayly colored flower will make a beautiful transparency.

---

Shew Little Softened.

"We won't discharge you, Mr. Perkins," said the manager. "We shall allow you to tender your resignation."

"Tendering it won't make it one bit the less tough," gloomily returned the man who was laid off.—Boston Transcript.

---

No Joking Matter.

"How much does Impecune owe you?"

"A cool thousand."

"Ah! Cool, but not collected, eh?"—Boston Transcript.

---

Doing nothing is a lesson in doing ill.—German Proverb.

Sad Case.

"Why doesn't he marry?"

"Brown?"

"Yes."

"Well, you see, he thinks girls are silly, and he is afraid of widows."

---

Quite Previous.

"So Cook never fooled you?"

"No."

"And you doubted his story from the first?"

"Before I heard it."

---

Getting Experience.

"What is he fitted for, anyway?"

"He would make a good soldier."

"Was he ever under fire?"

"Yes; at the last four places he worked."

Out of His Mouth.

His youngest grandchild h aged to get possession of a pri was trying to eat it.

"Pardon me for taking the w of your mouth, little one," said fessor, hastily interposing.— Tribune.

ROAD TRANSPORTATION

DIAN NORTHERN RAILWAY
RONTO OTTAWA
NIGHT SERVICE

(Daily)

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| 11.00 P.M. | Lv. Ottawa | 10.50 P.M. |
| n Station) | (Central Station) | |
| 2.40 A.M. | Lv. Belleville | 3.40 A.M. |
| 7.40 A.M. | Ar. Toronto | 7.30 A.M. |

INTERMEDIATE STOPS

Port Hope, Cobourg, Trenton, Deseronto, Napanee, Yarker, Har. ith, Sydenham, Brockville Junction, and Smith's Falls.

NEW EQUIPMENT

Standard Sleeping Cars — Electric Lighted Coaches

| | |
|---|---|
| ronto | 8.20 A.M. |
| elleville | 11.55 A.M. |
| ttawa | 5.20 P.M. |
| ttawa | 12.15 Noon |
| elleville | 5.30 P.M. |
| Toronto | 9.15 P.M. |

(Daily except Sunday)

GENERAL CHANGE OF TIME
ONTARIO LINES
EFFECTIVE MON. OCT. 19TH.
For full particulars, see latest Time Table Folder.

or Rail and Steamship Tickets, Parlor and Sleeping Car Reservations, ll information, apply to J. A. Patterson, Town Agent, or L. W. Buller, n Agent.

AND TRUNK RAILWAY SYSTEM

RONTO - CHICAGO
RONTO - MONTREAL

e International Limited
Canada's Train of Superior Service
aves Toronto 4.40 p.m. daily, arrives Detroit m. and Chicago 8.00 a.m.

MORNING SERVICE
ves Toronto 8 a.m., arrives Detroit 1.45 and Chicago 8.40 p.m. daily.

LAST TRAIN OUT OF TORONTO AT NIGHT
ves 11.25 p.m., arrives Detroit 8 a.m. and ago 3.00 p.m. daily, ensuring important connection with principal trains for Western States Canada.

FOR MONTREAL
eaves Toronto 9 a.m., 2.30 p.m., and 11 p.m. y.
erth reservations, etc., at G. T. R. ticket ice.
H. C. Thompson, City Passenger and Ticket Agent. Phone 405.
H. Copple, Station Ticket Agent. Phone 26.

CANADIAN PACIFIC

WINTER TOURS
To The Land of
Sunshine and Summer Days.
CALIFORNIA, FLORIDA,
LOUISIANA, ETC.
limited trains eave Toronto daily, king direct connection at Detroit Buffalo for the Southern States, at Chicago for California, etc.
e contemplating a trip of any should consult Canadian Pa- ents, who will be pleased to ates, arrange reservations and e all details in connection with rip, or write M. G. Murphy, Dis- ssenger Agent, corner King and Streets, Toronto.
URROWS, Gen. Agent, Belleville.

RAILWAY TIME TABLE

CANADIAN NORTHERN RAILWAY
EFFECTIVE OCT. 12.

For Toronto and intermediate points— 6.35 a.m., 5.10 p.m.
Trenton, Wellington, Picton and intermediate points—6.35 a.m., 10.50 a.m., 8.25
rmora, Bannockburn and Coe Hill— a.m.
rmora, Bannockburn, Bancroft and ooth, and intermediate stations—6.35
eronto—9.15 p.m., 200 a.m.
Kingston, Brockville, Smith's Falls, wa and intermediate stations—11.55
ains arrive from Toronto and intermediate points—11.55 p.m., 9.25 p.m., 2.40
From Picton, Wellington, Trenton and intermediate stations—7.30 a.m., 11.55 a.m., 25 p.m., 9.15 p.m.
From Deseronto and intermediate stations—6.35 a.m., 5.10 p.m.
From Maynooth and intermediate stations—6.25 p.m.
From Coe Hill and intermediate stations —11.55 a.m.
From Tamworth and intermediate stations—5.10 p.m.
From Kingston, Brockville, Smith's Falls, Ottawa and intermediate stations— 6.10 p.m.
J. A. Patterson, City Ticket Agent, 243 Front St., Belleville, Ont.
L. W. Buller, Station Agent, Belleville, Ont.

A little brief authority or a few dried apples will puff a small man up to the limit.

CANADIAN GOVERNMENT RAILWAYS
INTERCOLONIAL
PRINCE EDWARD ISLAND RY

2 Through Trains 2

From Bonaventure, Union Depot, Montreal.

OCEAN LIMITED

Leaves 7.30 p.m. daily for Quebec, Riviere du Loup, Campbellton, Moncton, St. John, Truro and Halifax. Connections for Glasgow, etc., and the Sydneys (except Saturdays).

Maritime Express

Leaves 8.40 a.m. daily except Saturday, for Quebec, Campbellton, Moncton, Truro, Halifax, St. John. On Saturdays will run Montreal to St. Flavie only.

For further information concerning rates, reservations, etc., apply to local Grank Trunk Railway Ticket or Freight Agent, or to E. Tiffin, General Western Agent, 51 King St. East, (King Edward Hotel Block), Toronto, Ontario.

RAILWAY TIME TABLE

GRAND TRUNK RAILWAY
Time of departure from Belleville station.

Going East.
No. 18—12.30 a.m. Mail train, daily.
No. 16— 2.08 a.m. Fast train, Flyer, daily.
No. 33—Local for Brockville, 7 a.m.; arrives back from Brockville, 8.50 p.m.; daily except Sunday.
No. 6—11.10 a.m.—Mail and Express, daily.
No. 14—12.16 p.m. Express, daily.
No. 28— 5.45 p.m. Local passenger, daily except Sunday.
No. 30— 9.30 p.m.—Local passenger, daily except Sunday.

Going West.
No. 19— 2.15 a.m.—Mail and Express, daily.
No. 13— 4.35 a.m. Limited Express, daily.
No. 29— 7.50 a.m. Local Passenger, daily except Sunday, leaving Toronto 6.00 p.m., arrives in Belleville at 9.25 p.m., arrives in Kingston at 11.05 p.m.
No. 27—11.15 a.m. Passenger, daily except Sunday.
No. 1— 1.50 p.m. International Limited. daily.
No. 7— 4.55 p.m. Mail and Express, daily.

BELLEVILLE AND PETERBORO'

Going West.

| | Leave. | Ar. Peterboro' |
|---|---|---|
| Mail | 5.20 a.m. | 8.00 a.m. |
| Passenger | 6.00 p.m. | 8.50 p.m. |

Going East

| | Arrive | Lv. Peterboro' |
|---|---|---|
| Mixed | 10.55 a.m. | 8.20 a.m. |
| Mail | 4.15 p.m. | 1.30 p.m. |

BELLEVILLE AND MADOC.

Going North.

| | Leave | Ar. Madoc |
|---|---|---|
| Mixed | 11.11 p.m. | 1.50 p.m. |
| Mixed | 6.30 p.m. | 7.50 p.m. |

Going South.

| | Arrive | Lv. Madoc |
|---|---|---|
| Mixed | 4.50 p.m. | 3.23 p.m. |
| Mixed | 9.15 a.m. | 7.15 a.m. |

None of the above trains run on Sunday

THE STANDARD BANK OF CANADA

QUARTERLY DIVIDEND NOTICE No. 96.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that a Dividend at the rate of Thirteen Per Cent Per Annum upon the Capital Stock of this Bank has been declared for the quarter ending the 31st October, 1914, and that the same will be payable at the Head Office in this City and its Branches on and after Monday, the 2nd day of November, 1914, to shareholders of record of the 23rd of October, 1914.

By order of the Board,
G. P. SCHOLFIELD,
Toronto, 29th September, 1914. General Manager.

JOHN ELLIOTT, Manager, Belleville Branch

Shannonville Branch open Mondays and Thursdays
Foxboro " " Tuesdays and Fridays
Rednersville " " Wednesdays

The Merchants Bank
Of Canada

Capital ........................ $7,000,000
Reserve, ........................ $7,000,000

YOUR SAVINGS ACCOUNT INVITED
Interest added every six months. Small or large amounts deposited. Banking may be done by mail. Drafts on any parts of the world sold or bought.
A General Banking Business conducted.
eville Branch H. SNEYD, Manager

"FOR SALE IN BELLEVILLE BY J. S. McKEOWN."

END OF NOTED HOSTELRY

The Old Mill Inn Near Birmingham Long Popular in District

The Birmingham justices decreed that the license of the Old Mill Inn, California, which has existed for upwards of a century, must go, and consequently one of the most unique rural inns in England will shortly cease to exist. Standing as it does right away from the public highway leading from Harborne to Northfield, and approached only by private paths winding through pleasant meadows and corn fields, the uninitiated would never dream of looking for an inn in such a spot, but there for a hundred years refreshment has been obtainable for man and beast. The house has been in the hands of the same family not only since the original license was granted to the grandfather of the present hostess, but for another century before then as a mill and farm.

Originally the mill was established with many others, to supply the ancient Weoley Castle, and two hundred years ago the Connop family settled there as millers and farmers, and for a hundred years ground their corn and pursued the even tenor of their way. Then came the first change in their life. Stone was required for a large building in Birmingham, and thirty stalwart men came over from the city and started a quarry on the old Weoley Castle estate to hew the red stone. The question arose as to they were to obtain necessary refreshment in that out-of-the-way spot, and it was suggested to the then miller, William Connop, that he should obtain a license and supply their wants. His application was favorably considered, and the Mill Inn became an established fact—the first licensed house in the district. From the start business steadily increased, and the house became the regular rendezvous of the well-to-do farmers of the neighborhood. In those days few people could read, and newspapers were dear and scarce.

Fortunately the grandmother of Mrs. Hinton, the present proprietress, was educated, and every Saturday someone would bring home a newspaper from Birmingham, and it became the custom for the old lady to read the news to the company on Saturday and Sunday evenings, and people came from far and near to hear her. So great was the interest that one could have heard the proverbial pin drop whilst the reading was in progress. Among those who came to listen was one Isaac Flavell, a strong rugged character who founded the brickworks at California, now the staple industry.

Then again recreation was provided for the young men and maidens of the district in the shape of country dances, a well mellowed violin supplying the music. Dances once or twice a week were well attended, and an old lady who lives near—nearly a centenarian—recalls with much glee that the greatest joke of all was when they could persuade the worthy old William Connop himself to join in the old-fashioned cushion dance. Time passed on, and in due course Benjamin Connop, father of the present landlady, became the proud owner of the mill and inn, and under his astute care the fame of the place still increased.

He had an eye to business and the ponds around the house being well stocked with fish, he made the fact known, and the disciples of the great Isaak Walton came to regard the place as their happy hunting ground. Shooting, too, was obtainable. In addition to the sportsman, as time went on, the place, by reason of its idyllic situation, became the Mecca of picnic parties, and so it has remained until the present day.

A Fifty Dollar Pipe

Fifty dollars for a briar pipe seems an almost impossible price to pay, yet this is the sum which a London tobacconist asked—and got—for an extra special "bit of wood."

The grain was perfect, and the amber mouthpiece equally perfect, and the customer was apparently quite content with his "bargain."

Fifty dollars is a record price for a briar pipe, of course, but there are plenty of smokers who will pay a fifth of that amount for a really good, "straight" briar.

Italy produces the best briar, and the reason why "straight" grains are scarce and expensive is that they can only be cut from the root, not from the branches of a tree. There is also a great deal of waste in cutting the root.

Legless Chauffeurs

For motorists who have lost one or both legs there has been invented drive mechanism enabling all the controls to be operated by the hands.

A Park Novelty

An amusement park novelty takes its passengers in imagination through the Panama canal, the features of which are realistically reproduced.

About the time that the Germans should be putting in their crop next spring, the Russian hordes will be tramping over the fields of Prussia, while the Allies will be performing a similar feat in West Germany on their way to Berlin. If the war should last that long, Germany will face 1915 unable to put in one per cent. of her usual crop.

BIG STEEL CASTINGS FOR QUEBEC BRIDGE

Sixteen castings for the new Quebec Bridge are worthy of note because they are much larger than any steel castings previously made in Canada. The weight of each is about 43 tons. Each is 21 ft. x 6 ft., 8 in. x 4 ft. in dimensions. Owing to the intricate design of the interior of these castings necessitating a large number of cores the making of the moulds required a high degree of skill and accuracy. The material used in them is a high grade of steel, being scrap metal procured from the wreck of the old Quebec Bridge. They are bolted in pairs, two pairs to each concrete pier carrying the main columns of the bridge.

LEADING CANADIAN MASON

Mr. E. T. Malone, K.C., of Toronto, Grand Treasurer of the Masonic Grand Lodge of Canada.

FORESTS AND NAVIGATION

Equality of Water Flow Dependent on Forest Cover

It has been urged that in the interests of navigation the Dominion Government should purchase such denuded forest land in the Eastern Provinces as might be necessary to reforest in order to prevent floods and the filling up of streams with sediment. In this connection the report on the Trent Watershed Survey, published by the Commission of Conservation, is of considerable interest. In this region of Ontario, as a result of fires, 150,000 acres are practically a desert and the report urges a policy of forest conservation under Dominion, provincial or municipal control, in order to preserve the usefulness of the Trent Valley canal, in which over $10,000,000 is invested. There are many such barren areas in the eastern provinces, which with the assistance of the Dominion Government might be made to produce valuable forest crops.

In Canada disastrous floods and low-water stages have been largely prevented by the timely action of the Dominion Government in setting aside as forest reserves the wooded slopes where the great rivers of the interior of the Dominion have their origin. On the east slope of the Rocky Mountains over 20,896 square miles of non-agricultural land have been thus reserved, for the double purpose of regulating the run-off and of providing a perpetual supply of timber to meet the ever-increasing needs of the prairie settlers. In the Railway Belt in British Columbia smaller reserves have also been set aside, chiefly for the purpose of maintaining a steady flow in the streams on which the fruit-growing industry is absolutely dependent.

Irish Triplets

The wife of a small farmer named M'Hugh, residing at Drummaly, near Strokestown, has given birth to triplets—three girls—all of whom are doing well. A sister of Mrs. M'Hugh gave birth to twins a week previously.

Warning Bell for Fastnet Rock

At the Fastnet Rock, some miles beyond Cape Clear, a submarine with a bell is about to be placed by the Irish Lights Commissioners steamer Alexandria, in order to warn passing vessels of their danger in time of fog.

Religion of Nurses

Great difficulty was experienced in getting Protestant nurses for the Monaghan Asylum, said Dr. T. P. Conlon, R.M.S. There had always been a proportion of Catholic and Protestant nurses in the establishment, and it was left in his hands to maintain the proportion.

Lighted Cigarette and Gunpowder

A youth named Matthew Murphy, of Dranagh, Ireland, placed a quantity of gunpowder in his pocket, and subsequently placed his hand, in which there was a lighted cigarette, in the same pocket, with the result that there was an explosion, which seriously injured his hand, and rendered the amputation of three fingers necessary.

RAINBOW POTATOES

New Variety of Tubers Boast a Vivid Color Scheme

All interested in the culinary art, will hail with delight a new potato that has been placed upon the market. Branched like a spruce tree, fluted like a shell, some specimens being as small as marbles, the new potatoes also reflect every color of the rainbow. Blue-purple potatoes with red centres, scarlet potatoes, and yellow potatoes recently flaunted their hues for the first time in public, when their propagators were awarded a gold medal at London, England. They make a welcome addition to salads, which they improve in both color and flavor.

Many people avoid the use of potatoes in the belief that they contain an excessive quantity of starch. This is a fallacy. In reality they contain less than a quarter of the quantity of starch included in bread. Potatoes can be used as the only item of diet if taken in sufficient quantities. Nevertheless, they should never be eaten alone, but consumed with other flesh-forming foods, when their value is inestimable. It is the alkaline mineral salt contained in the potato that is so valuable to man, and which cannot be obtained to the same degree in any other food.

The Humble Onion

Many unsuspected virtues reside in the humble onion. To ease neuralgic or rheumatic pains there is nothing better than an onion poultice. Very few people know that. As a remedy for sleeplessness, try the effect of eating a Spanish onion before retiring. A few leaves of parsley steeped in vinegar and eaten afterwards will prevent any disagreeable taste or smell.

Scorched linen can be restored by squeezing the juice of an onion on thue marks. The smell of paint can be removed if a saucerful of sliced onion is placed in the room overnight.

For a wasp-sting there is no better remedy than the juice of an onion. The onion is an excellent blood purifier, and its continued use makes the complexion peculiarly smooth.

A sliced onion placed in a sick room on a sheet of paper will absorb infectious odors. Burn, and renew daily. Flies will not disfigure gilt picture frames or mantels if the latter are washed in onion water.

Testing Cigars

A well known cigar expert dispels some popular misconceptions anent the fragrant weed. He alludes to the belief that the whiter the ash and the longer it holds on, the better the cigar. This is quite wrong, he points out. The length of the ash depends on the size of the pieces used in the filler, and a clear steel-grey ash denotes the best Havana. Then, again, nearly every man will reject a spotted cigar, but the spots mean absolutely nothing as regards quality. Most men think they can tell a cigar by squeezing it or smelling. Neither test is the slightest good. And every smoker believes that color denotes strength—that a dark wrapper denotes a strong cigar, a light one a mild cigar. The color has nothing whatever to do with the strength. As a matter of fact, for the average smoker there are practically no outward indications of the quality of a cigar. The only test for the non-expert is in smoking it.

Prescription by Wireless

How a ship's doctor prescribed by wireless for the sick captain of another ship was told on the arrival of the liner "Orduna" at Liverpool. Just before the vessel entered the Straits of Magellan a wireless message was received from the British steamer "Brodstone" saying that the master was ill, and asking the doctor of the "Orduna" to prescribe for him. Dr. Aylward first asked five questions, which were put and answered in twenty minutes. The doctor then prescribed for the patient, who was at least 100 miles away.

Comfort in the Ocean

A life preserver of European invention for sea going vessels is intended to keep a person fairly warm and dry for several days as he floats about awaiting rescue.

Cockfighting for County Honors

Cockfighting, which lasted from three o'clock in the morning until ten, took place at Ballymacully, county Armagh, in the presence of about 500 persons, many of whom travelled long distances on motor cars and motor cycles. The "battles" numbered seven, and concerned the question as to which was the superior cockfighting county —Armagh or Monaghan. Monaghan won five out of seven battles.

Mrs. Mary Ford, of Sandbank Cottage, Hailsham, England, died recently aged 100.

BELLEVILLE BUSINESS DIRECTORY

The Professional Fraternity of our city will find an advertisement under this head an exceptionally advantageous investment, the returns hitherto obtained making the extremely moderate rates but normal. By consulting our price list in another column, or calling at The Intelligencer business office, full information may be obtained.

LEGAL.

WILLS & WRIGHT
Barristers, Solicitors, Notaries Public, etc. Office: 15 Campbell Street, Belleville.
Money to loan at lowest rates.
J. FRANKLIN WILLS, K.C.
MALCOLM WRIGHT.

NORTHRUP & PONTON
Barristers, Solicitors, Notaries Public, Comissioners. Offices: North Bridge Street. Solicitors for the Merchants Bank of Canada and the Bank of Montreal. Money to loan on mortgages.
W. B. NORTHRUP, K.C., M.P.
W. N. PONTON, K.C.
R. D. PONTON.

CLUTE & SHOREY
Barristers, Solicitors, Notaries, etc. Office: North side of Campbell Street, Belleville. Solicitors for the Dominion Bank. Money to loan on mortgages on easy terms.
A. K. CLUTE, LL.B.
W. D. M. SHOREY.

PORTER & CARNEW
Barristers and Notaries Public, etc. Office: Robertson Block, East Front St., Belleville, Ont.
E. GUSS PORTER, K.C., M.P.
WM. CARNEW.
Solicitors for Union Bank.

W. C. MIKEL, B.C.L., K.C.
Barristers, &c., 23 Bridge St., over G.N.W. Telegraph office.
Solicitor for Molsons Bank.
Phone 77.

W. D. M. SHOREY
Barrister, Solicitor, etc. Solicitor for the Dominion Bank and the Township of Ameliasburg.
Money to loan on mortgages on easy terms.
Office 8 Campbell Street, Belleville.

MUSICAL.

Mrs. Wilmot
VOCAL INSTRUCTOR
Tone Production a speciality. Pupils conscientiously trained for Concert Work and Church Positions. Voices tested free of charge.
"THE STUDIO,"
S16,dtf BRIDGE ST.

HIGGS Miss Joy.
Violin Instruction.
Tems Moderate
"THE STUDIO," Bridge

WHEATLEY Professor. Piano. Theory. Vocal.
Modern Methods. Best Results
THE "STUDIO." Tel. 594

INSURANCE.

Liverpool & London & Globe Ins. Co.; North British & Mercantile Ins. Co.; Sun Fire; Waterloo Mutual; Lloyd's Plate Glass; Dominion of Canada Guarantee and Accident Insurance Co., and other companies.
Farm and City property insured in first class and reliable companies and at lowest current rates. Land valuator and agent for selling, purchasing, or renting property. Rents collected.
W. H. HUDSON
Office: No. 17 Campbell St. Belleville. Phone 161.

FARM INSURANCE
I have made arrangements with English Companies to insure Farm Dwellings and Barns and contents at from 75c. to $1.00 per $100.
Call and see me before renewing your insurance.
CHANCEY ASHLEY
Opposite Post Office. Belleville, Ont.

THOS. STEWART
Bridge Street, Belleville.
Fire, Accident and Plate Glass Insurance effected in the oldest and most reliable companies.
REAL ESTATE AGENT.
Stocks and bonds bought and sold.

R. H. KETCHESON
Agent for
Queen Fire Insurance Co.; York Fire Insurance Co.; Inter-State Live Stock Insurance.
Canadian Railway Accident Insurance Co.

ROBERT BOGLE
MERCANTILE AGENCY.
Insurance, Real Estate, Loans Negotiated, Accountant, Auditor, Estates Managed. Office: 28 Bridge Street.

LAUNDRY.

QUINTE LAUNDRY
Work done by the Quinte Laundry is guaranteed to be satisfactory in every way.
Shirts, Collars and Cuffs our specialty. Family work done by the dozen.
W. R. VALLANCE .. .. .. .. .. Manager
Phone 330.

BUS, AUTO AND CABS.

ASELSTINE'S
BUS, CAB AND TRANSFER LINE.
Special cabs, broughams and carriages, all rubber tired; for weddings, private driving or funerals. The finest turnouts in town.
Office and stables, cor. Moira and Centre Streets. Tweed Stage in connection.
Phone 223.

MEDICAL.

JOHN J. FARLEY, M.D., C.M.,
M.R.C.S., England.
Office and Residence: Corner of Bridge and George Streets; three streets east of the Post Office.

DR. J. CHANT
Specialist in Diseases of Eye, Ear, Nose and Throat, and Fitting of Glasses.
Office: Corner Queen and John Streets. Phone 715.

MONEY.

Private money to loan on mortgages on farms and other real estate, at lowest rate of interest, on terms to suit borrowers.
Apply to
S. MASSON
Barrister, etc.
Over Wallbridge & Clarke's, Bridge St., Belleville.

MINING

BELLEVILLE ASSAY OFFICE
Ores and minerals of all kinds tested and assayed. Samples sent by mail or express will receive prompt attention. All results guaranteed. Office and Laboratory, 185 Pinnacle St., opposite market. Telephone 386.

ENGINEERING.

J. D. EVANS, C.E. & O.L.S. J. W. EVANS, C.E & M.E.
EVANS & EVANS
Civil and Mining Engineers, and Ontario Land Surveyors.
Belleville and Trenton.
Belleville Office: 185 Pinnacle Street, opposite market. Telephone 386.

AUCTIONEER.

J. L. PALMER
We specialize on City sales.
Terms Reasonable
Belleville Box 1232 Ontario
LICENSED AUCTIONEER.
for counties of Hastings, Prince Edward Northumberland, Lennox and Addington. Office: over Bell Telephone, opposite Post Office, Bridge St. Prompt attention.

"COLLIP"
FLORIST
Night Phone 175. Day Phone 208.
All kinds of Cut Flowers and Plants in Season.
Wedding and Funeral designs specialty, shipped to all parts.
Front Street.

OUR LINES
Automobile Storage and Car Repairing Supplies
Bicycle Repairing
Motor Cycle Repairing
Gas Engine Work
Electrical Contracting
Electrical Supplies
Oxy-Acetyline Welding
Locksmithing
Machine Work
Storage, Battery Care and Charging
General and Steel Repairing
Call and see us, whether you do business or not, at
The Garage
GREENLEAF & SON
Phone 83. 288 Pinnacle St.

GOD BLESS OUR HOME

After the Honeymoon
is the time when domestic help becomes pressing. A Want Ad. in our paper will solve the problem.
Desirable people who want employment appreciate its value and consult the "Help Wanted" ads.

Advertise in The Intelligencer.

The question of how to ... so that no one will notice it is one of

Style is one

Gin Pills
FOR THE KIDNEYS

Sell Well In The United States
As Well As Throughout Canada

These wonderful pills—doing their work so well and helping to cure so many people—form a bond of union with our good friends to the South. Here are three letters from various parts of the United States, showing the demand for Gin Pills, a truly Canadian product which has helped and is helping thousands of Canadians to get well.

Letters from Massachusetts, New York and Indiana.

543 East Street, Holyoke, Mass.
I received two boxes of your excellent Gin Pills and they relieved me so much that I am quite pleased with the results. I gave an order to my druggist for some more but they have not come and in the meantime, I borrowed a box from a lady friend who is also using them. I am sending for 3 boxes which I would ask you to send at once. AGATHE VANESSE

160 Bleeker Street, New York.
Being troubled with my Kidneys and Stomach, I was recommended to try Gin Pills. I purchased a box at a nearby drug store and I can sincerely and truthfully say that they have been wonderfully effective, and I am now feeling splendid, having nearly finished the box. I'll continue their use for a time longer so that they get at the seat of my trouble. GEO. DIXON

434 N. Y. Ave., Whiting, Ind.
Will you please send me a box of Gin Pills? When I sent for the last box, I was all crippled up with Rheumatism and my face was so badly swollen that I could hardly see out of my eyes, but after taking about six pills, I felt better, and after taking them a few days, I had no more pain. I never intend to be without them as I have tried so many other pills and got no results.
Mrs. ED. DEANS

If you have any Kidney or Bladder Trouble, Take Gin Pills

If your back aches or your hands and feet are swollen—if you suffer with Incontinence or Suppression of Urine—if there is a burning pain in the bladder—if the urine is hot and scalding, or contains mucus or brick dust deposits—or if you are subject to attacks of Rheumatism, Sciatica or Lumbago—Gin Pills will relieve you—help you—cure you. 50c.a box, 6 boxes for $2.50. Sold in U.S. as "GINO" Pills.

Write us direct and we will send you a trial treatment free.

National Drug & Chemical Co. of Canada, Limited, Toronto 231

BC GIN PILLS FOR THE KIDNEYS

More than 70 Quartettes, too

WHEN you rely on the EDISON PHONOGRAPH for your winter's entertainment, you are not confined to Grand Opera Singers or Tango Dancing.

For instance; there are more than seventy Quartette Records; from the frivolous "Great Big Blue Eyed Baby," and tender melodies like "Old Black Joe" to the magnificent quartette from "Rigoletto", Mozart's Twelfth Mass and beautiful sacred hymns as "Lead, Kindly Light" and "Abide With Me."

The new EDISON PHONOGRAPH
(THE INSTRUMENT WITH THE DIAMOND POINT)

If you like music that thrills—that makes you feel as well as hear—just come in and let us play some of the rousing selections made expressly for the Edison Phonograph by the British Male Quartette — Knickerbocker Quartette—and Manhatten Ladies Quartette.

Then, you'll be able to examine the Edison for yourself — the diamond reproducing point, unbreakable and long playing records, superior motors and construction, concealed horns, and Cabinets made in true Period styles, in perfect harmony with the finest furniture.

132 TRADE MARK Thomas A Edison

EDISON DEALERS IN BELLEVILLE
J. A. GOODSELL & CO. W. B. RIGGS.

"Towel" of Hot Air.

an hotel, factory and public lavatories, where roller towels should not be used because of the danger of spreading skin disease and where the expense of furnishing individual paper or cloth towels is considerable, the electric hand drier may be used economically and satisfactorily. A sanitary hand drier described in the Electrical World consists of a sheet metal case with an opening in its top in which the hands can be inserted and dried by a current of hot air. A foot pedal operates a quick acting switch which starts a blower, forcing air through the electric heater. The hand drier is, of course, absolutely sanitary, as it is unnecessary to touch any part of the apparatus when using it. The hands can be thoroughly dried, it is declared, in from thirty to forty seconds, which is less time than is required to perform the same operation with a linen or paper towel.

25¢ 60¢

Even the Laziest Liver and Bowels respond to the gentle action of

Abbey's Effervescent Salt

At all Druggists and Stores.
(Take Abbey's VITA Tablets for Sick Nerves) 5

"FOR SALE IN BELLEVILLE BY J. S. McKEOWN."

Associations.

All experience evinces that human sentiments are strongly affected by associations. The recurrence of anniversaries or of longer periods of time naturally freshens the recollection and deepens the impression of events with which they are historically connected. Renowned places also have a power to awaken feeling which all acknowledge. No American can pass by the fields of Bunker Hill, Monmouth and Camden as if they were ordinary spots on the earth's surface. Whoever visits them feels the sentiment of love of country kindling anew, as if the spirit that belonged to the transactions which have rendered these places distinguished still hovered round with power to move and excite all who in future time may approach them.—Daniel Webster.

The question of how to collect a tax so that no one will notice it is one of

PHILIPPINE ISLANDS.

Their Coast Line Is Longer Than That of the United States.

"It is not generally known perhaps that the coast line of the Philippine Islands is longer than that of the United States," said a man who has spent more than fifteen years in that country. "The Philippines are numerous islands," he continued. "It would take one many months to tour all of the islands. Of course the climate varies, but in most parts it is delightful. The average temperature is lower than in many parts of the United States, and the humidity is not nearly so great. Records of temperature in the Philippines have been kept since 1865, and in that time the maximum recorded was 103 degrees. The mean temperature is from 70 to 80 degrees.

"If the humidity were great there are times when it would be almost unbearable, but ordinarily I would rather live in the Philippines than in most sections of this country. It is fortunate that in the month of greatest humidity, September, the temperature falls lower than at any other time of the year, which makes it possible to endure the conditions.

"I have frequently been asked if there is much drinking among the Filipinos. There is comparatively very little. The Filipinos have discovered, even if some of our own countrymen have not, that alcoholic drinks and the tropics do not mix. It is seldom you see a Filipino intoxicated. There are native brewed drinks in different islands, but the people do not overindulge."

SPONTANEOUS COMBUSTION.

More Liable to Generate In Powdered Than In Solid Substances.

The scientific phrase for combustion is oxidation, or the combining of some substance with the oxygen of the air. Some substances have greater affinity for oxygen than others, and whenever the combustion reaches a certain point of rapidity fire results.

Anything that increases the facility of combination with oxygen increases the danger of spontaneous combustion or explosion, and for that reason a substance is more dangerous when pulverized than when solid, because the separated particles of matter are brought more directly in contact with the oxygen of the air. There is no danger of spontaneous combustion or explosion in a mass of unground wheat, but mills have been destroyed by explosions of flour dust.

Fixed oils absorb oxygen and give out carbon and hydrogen, causing a rise of temperature that may reach the burning point, as has often occurred in heaps of rags, tow, sawdust and similar bodies soaked with oil, paint, varnish, turpentine and sometimes grease.

Bituminous coal is liable to spontaneous combustion when moistened with water, and the coal dust in mines is a common cause of explosions. Moisture aids spontaneous combustion in piles of damp hay or freshly mown grass, and barns have been burned from that cause.

The Deciding Voice.

In a business men's club in a western town there sprang up two factions, one which criticised the steward because he did not provide the members with good meals and one which defended him hotly.

The dispute got fiercer and fiercer. Half the club wanted to fire the steward at once. The other half said he was efficient.

Then without warning the steward himself decided the momentous question.

One day at lunch time a member of the club asked the waiter:

"Where's the steward?"

"He ain't here," replied the waiter. "He said he was going down the street to get something good to eat."—Popular Magazine.

A Progressive Monarch.

Alfred the Great of England has few equals in history, for he was in advance of his times in everything. Born in Wantage, in Berkshire, in 849, he drove the Danes out of the eastern part of England, so after ridding his country of the foreigner he occupied himself in the advancement of learning. After thirty years of wise rule Alfred died in 901 A. D.

Sensitive.

Mistress—Why, Mary, isn't this your Sunday afternoon out? Aren't you going for a walk this lovely day? Mary—Please, ma'am, I'd rather stay in. You see most of the people out on a Sunday is couples, and I don't like to be conspicuous.—London Punch.

Trying to Please.

"Painting your own portrait, eh?"

"Yes."

"Vanity, my friend."

"Oh, no; I was just trying to see if I could paint one person who would be satisfied with the likeness."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Curiosity.

"Pop, did you say a little bird told you I was naughty?"

"Yes, my son."

"Pop, was it a little bird with a telltail?"

So Memory Reminds Us.

The little boy had been whipped as far back as he could remember.—New York Sun. That, we believe, is the customary place.—London Opinion.

Sterile Land.

Two thousand miles of the western coast of South America above Valparaiso are dry and sterile to a width of forty to sixty miles.

Dame Fortune is a stranger to the majority of people, but her daughter, Miss Fortune, calls on them daily.

Style is one of the principal ingre-

WOES OF THE POOR RICH.

How the Wife of One Wealthy Man Got Her Spending Money.

In the American Magazine, in a story by Rebecca Hooper Eastman, is a satire on the poor rich, in which the wife of a wealthy man tells as follows how she gets hold of her spending money:

"Kitty, dear, I can't bear that you should misjudge me, and so I am going to tell you what not a soul in this world knows. I have absolutely no money and no way of getting any. My husband doesn't think it is necessary for me to have money when I can charge things. I owe you a dollar. You think I have forgotten, but I have not. And I am going to pay you—when I can.

"I want to tell you that I have just discovered a way to make money. You see, I have borrowed so many small sums for tips and car fares that I am quite in debt.

"We have one of the finest cooks in New York, as you know, and I order him to make cakes. He thinks they are for a bazaar. In reality I sell these cakes at a certain woman's exchange for $1 a loaf, cash, Kitty. I leave my car at a nearby hotel, walk through the hotel to the exchange on the next street, wear a plain suit and a thick veil, which I put on in the hotel dressing room. Nobody knows."

WHAT CAUSES CRYSTALS?

An Obscure Process That Plays a Large Part In Nature.

In answer to the question, "Will a sudden jar ever cause crystals to appear in a supersaturated solution, or can this be produced only by the introduction of one of the crystals?" Edgar Lucien Larkin in the New York American says:

"Supersaturation and crystal formation are obscure phenomena. Let water dissolve salts until it is supersaturated when perfectly still; then let the containing vessel be suddenly moved, tapped or disturbed; then crystals of the dissolved substances will instantly form. Pure water, distilled, may be put into a closed container and a thermometer placed below the surface.

"Keep the whole very still and the water may be cooled a number of degrees below the freezing—that is, crystallizing—point without crystallizing. Suddenly strike the vessel and the liquid will crystallize. Many solutions of superdensity will thus behave.

"This little understood process underlying the fascinating mathematical science of crystal forming plays a highly important part in nature in the building of solids, of crystalline rocks and general structure of our house—the earth."

End Came Quickly.

The experiences of local jewelers with prospective bridegrooms have been many and varied. Some wish to buy on the installment plan, some wish to take a half dozen sizes to be sure of a fit and some bring "beautiful verses" to see whether they can be engraved in the ring.

One jeweler in recounting his experiences said a young man came into his store and when asked whether he wished anything engraved inside the ring became confused, fumbled a bit in his pockets and finally produced a paper on which was scrawled, "The love that never endeth," which the jeweler said was just the proper sentiment.

A month later the young man returned and told the whole history of his marital life in five words, "Can't you cut that out?" pointing to the engraved sentence.

Glacier National Park.

Glacier National park is in northern Montana and is bounded on the north by the Canadian line, on the east by the Blackfoot Indian reservation and on the south and west by Flathead river. It has an area of about 915,000 acres and derives its name from many glaciers, which are scattered throughout its area. There are about eighty glaciers, between five square miles and a few acres in area. The park is a rugged mountainous region and contains over 250 lakes, which are surrounded by steep and beautifully wooded mountains or precipitous rock walls. The methods of transportation in the park are by automobile, horse stage, launches on the lakes and saddle and pack horses.

Inductive and Deductive.

Deductive reasoning is from theory to facts, while inductive reasoning is from facts to theory. Deduction is sometimes mere dreaming, oftentimes very foolish dreaming, while induction is the sane reaching out from particular facts to general laws.—New York American.

Policy, Not Politeness.

Gibbs—I noticed you rise in the car this morning and give your seat to a stout lady. Dibbs—Yes; it was a question whether she or I was going to stand on my feet.

Train Momentum.

The momentum of a modern twelve car railroad train running a mile a minute is equal to that of a ton weight falling from a height of twenty-one miles.

Fixed Both Ways.

Please give me two bills for my hat, one for $10, to show my husband, and one for $20, to show my lady friends.—Meggendorfer Blatter.

It is too late to throw water on the cinders when the house is burned down.—Danish Proverb.

Probably once in about 4000 years a man who is licked in a fair fight has no excuse to offer.

A woman is never popular with a

THE ERA OF GLASS.

It May Come After Our Iron Ore Deposits Are Exhausted.

The iron ore deposits of the world are being rapidly exhausted, and the time is not far distant when we will have to get along without iron and steel. Before that day arrives some substitute for these valuable things will have to be found, and it has been suggested by a scientist familiar with the subject that the logical successor will be glass.

Glass can be made to meet nearly all the requirements of iron and steel and with improved methods of manufacture will be a great deal cheaper. There is an abundant supply of the materials from which glass is made, and long before iron reaches the obsolete stage it is more than likely that glass will be one of its strongest competitors.

The chief fault with glass is its brittleness, but it is possible even now to produce a grade of glass which can stand a great deal of hard usage and serve many of the purposes for which iron is employed. The progress of invention is bound to evolve a quality of glass which will be as strong and durable as iron and transparent as well.

The use of glass will effect a great improvement in sanitary conditions. The building of the future, according to this scientist, will have its walls, ceilings, floors, sanitary fixtures and almost everything else made of glass.—Exchange.

BELATED RECOGNITION.

Plaint of a Woman Who Was Shadowed by a Detective.

"Acquaintance with a detective is not the good thing some people may imagine," said a young woman who has never yet been accused of being an adventuress or anything else that is supposed to get one's name on the front pages of the newspapers.

"A few months ago I was robbed of a belt that I prized very highly because it was unique and cannot be duplicated. I spent considerable money and had the assistance of a headquarters detective, but without recovering the belt.

"That was all well enough, but the other day as I was walking down Broadway I saw Mr. Detective. He saw me, too, and remembered that he had seen me somewhere, but had evidently forgotten the circumstances. He 'shadowed' me for a block; then when I turned into a store he slipped into a doorway and waited for me to come out. Again he shadowed me till I turned into my doorway.

"At that point he seemed to suddenly remember that he had known me as a client, not as a victim, for as I looked back he seemed to have a sheepish look in his face as he turned and walked rapidly away."

New York's First Mayor.

The first mayor of New York, Thomas Willett, was inducted into office in June, 1665. Governor Richard Nicolls, the first English executive of the future Empire State, was responsible for the appointment of Willett, who was a wealthy merchant and trader and had a town house in New York and a country estate in Rhode Island, where his body was buried in 1674. Willett, who was a shrewd business man, governed New York honestly and well and after his first term of one year was made mayor again in 1667. The municipal government of which he was the head was composed of five aldermen, three Dutch and two English, and a sheriff, although police duties devolved largely upon the mayor, and he was police magistrate as well.

A Wonderful Drummer.

Probably the most remarkable drummer who ever lived was Jean Henri, the famous tambour major of the Emperor Napoleon. One of his feats was to play on fifteen different toned drums at the same time in so soft and harmonious a manner that instead of the deafening uproar that might have been expected the effect was that of a novel and complete instrument. In playing he passed from one drum to the other with such wonderful quickness that the eyes of the spectators could hardly follow the movement of his hands and body.

Mansfield's Humor.

Richard Mansfield's humor was often misapprehended for conceit.

One night the company was playing under a tin roof upon which a sudden downpour of rain caused a terrific clatter. This startled Mansfield into exclaiming, "What's that noise?" "Rain, sir," was the answer. "Tell it to stop!" ordered the actor fiercely.—New York Globe.

She Was Prepared.

"I trust, Miss Tappit," said the benevolent employer to his stenographer, "that you have something in reserve for a rainy day."

"Yes, sir," said the earnest young woman. "I am going to marry a man named Mackintosh."

Perfectly Plausible.

Cautious Customer—But if he's a young horse, why do his legs bend so? Dealer—Ah, sir, the poor animal has been living in a stable too low for him, and he's had to stoop!—Exchange.

Pa's Solution.

"Oh, papa," called Willie excitedly, "there's a big black bug on the ceiling."

"All right, son," said the professor, busy with his essay; "step on it and don't bother me."

We rise in glory as we sink in pride.—Young.

Respecting the preparedness for war doctrine, we are told by one critic that Britain" Germany would have achieved a conquest in a month. Suppose the all had included Germany what about

Sunlight Soap

Dainty Garments—Fine Linen—

These are surely worth your best care and the use of nothing but the soap that cannot hurt the finest fabric—

Here's the Sunlight way:

First, soap the garment; then roll it up to soak. After a while, rinse well and the dirt practically drops out. No wearisome scrubbing, no hurtful rubbing—the gentle strength of Sunlight does the work almost without effort and entirely without injury.

5c.

Try one cake—you'll find it's kind to the hands, too.

At all grocers 135

THE LONG WAISTED BODICE.

All Fashion Leaders Seem to Have Accepted It.

The most startling fashion innovation is the quick and emphatic lengthening of the line from the neck to the hips. Very few designers hold to the short line now, and even those who would not relinquish it under the onslaught made by the Russian and Persian fashions are giving in to this new arrangement.

The threatened close fitting of the figure has not materialized. These long waisted bodices drop in a straight line from the neck to the tunic or sash and make the figure look exceedingly young by this adjustment. It evidently was the only way to get around the large waist measurements of the woman of the hour.

The sash placed as it is today, at the end of this straignt basque or pinafore, contributes to this youthful appearance, but woe to the woman who adopts it when her figure cannot afford it. She should be guided into the safer method —of a binding material or a silk cord.

It is probable this dominating style will alter the waist line of all garments. Some arrangement will be made on evening gowns to lengthen the line without taking up the pinafore, which is hardly a suitable style for a dinner party. If a woman owns an evening gown that she wishes to rearrange in the new fashion the simplest method by which to obtain the desired result is to add a deep girdle of silk or satin.

As brocade is again coming into fashion, she could employ this. It must be carelessly placed, not with precision, and more material put below than above the waist. No trimming is necessary—just the plain silk artistically wrapped about the figure.

Do You [illegible]

Most people are fond of good puzzles, and many are not entirely happy until they have solved them, but the man who resolves not to go to bed until he has found a divisor without a remainder (other than 1 and itself) for 1,111,111,111,111,111 will be able to earn a good living afterward as a sleepless wonder, for nobody in the world yet knows whether that number has a divisor or not.

Songs of a Nation.

Andrew Fletcher, a Scotch writer, who died in 1716, wrote to the Marquis of Montrose, the Earl of Rothes and others, "I once knew a very wise man that believed that if a man were permitted to make all the ballads of a nation he need not care who should make the laws of a nation."

Impossible.

Insurance Agent—It was you who set the house on fire with your alcohol lamp. Tenant—Me? Not on your life! In the first place, I haven't got a lamp, and in the second place I'm a lifelong member of the Temperance league.—Journal Amusant.

A Nice, Polite Man.

"There's some good things in town this week," said the girl who was hinting for an invitation to the theater.

"Well," responded Mr. Grouch, "I ain't one of 'em."

Breakfast Table Talk.

Mrs. Hasche (to new boarder)—How did you find your steak this morning, Mr. Jobson? Jobson—Oh, quite easily; I'm a detective!—London Answers.

Old, but Pointed.

Willis—Putting a pin in a person's chair is an old joke. Wallace—Yes, but it hasn't lost its point yet.—London Telegraph.

PERRIN'S ARROWROOT LONDON

PERRIN'S ARROWROOT BISCUITS

You could not possibly give your children anything more nourishing than Perrin's Arrowroot Biscuits, or anything quite so palatable.

Deliciously toothsome, healthful, and so easily digested. Surely a perfect food for the kiddies!

At your grocer's. Every package guaranteed.

Send for the
PERRIN "SAMPLER" PACKAGE
containing an assortment of our delicious fancy biscuits. They'll be a revelation to you. This package sent to any address for 10c. in coin or stamps and your grocer's name.

D. S. PERRIN & COMPANY
LIMITED
London - Canada
23

Mrs Newlywed says—
"I can't imagine how you manage to be dressed by the time your husband comes home on a wash day."

Mrs Wise Neighbour says—
"I use an Eddy Globe Washboard and an Eddy Indurated Fibreware Tub, which keeps the water hot for a long time. No fear of rust. But be sure they are Eddy's.

CHILDREN'S TEETH.

When They Should Appear and the Order In Which They Come.

The milk teeth (first teeth) are twenty in number. The time at which they appear is subject to considerable variations, even under normal conditions. The following table gives the order and average time of appearance of the different teeth:

Two lower central incisors, six to nine months.

Four upper incisors, eight to twelve months.

Two lower lateral incisors and four anterior molars, twelve to fifteen months.

Four canines, eighteen to twenty-four months.

Four posterior molars, twenty-four to thirty months.

At one year of age a child should have six teeth.

At one and one-half years it should have twelve teeth.

At two years it should have sixteen teeth.

At two and one-half years it should have twenty teeth.

It is not easy to explain where there are so often variations from the average. The order in which the teeth appear is more regular than the time of their appearance. Marked irregularities in order of the appearance of the teeth are the rule in idiotic children or those suffering from slighter mental effects.

Delayed dentition is generally caused by rickets. Many healthy children, however, frequently have no teeth appear until the tenth month of age.—Philadelphia Record.

BATHING IN JAPAN.

Natives Wash Themselves Clean Before Getting Into the Tub.

Partial accounts of the luxury of a Japanese bath lead us to believe that we have something yet to learn about what is regarded by many in this country as a necessity and by more as a supererogation—in Japan the bath is not only a necessity, but a delightful recreation.

The Japanese have a way of their own of taking a bath. They have a system that in some respects resembles that enforced at swimming pools in this country. You must first wash the body thoroughly, and then you enter the tub, the water of which is heated by an individual system. There, if you are in a public bathhouse, you may smoke and doze and chat with your friends in a dissipation that is said to be exceedingly refreshing. The water is kept hot, perhaps increases in heat, and when you leave the tub it is still regarded as fit for the next customer. In a private house the master and mistress may have their baths first, and the same water serves for the invigoration and diversion of the servants. The ignorant foreigner, who goes into the Japanese tub for the purpose of cleansing his body and with soap spoils the water for further use, is not only guilty of a social error, but entails a hardship on the household, including the servants.—Rochester Democrat.

Recognized.

A Pennsylvania lawyer known throughout the state for his sharpness once met his match in a very unexpected quarter.

An old woman was being cross examined by him as to how the testator had looked when he made a remark to her about some relatives.

"I don't remember. He's been dead three years," she answered testily.

"Do you mean to tell me that your memory is so bad that you cannot go back three years?" demanded the attorney.

The witness was silent.

"Did he look anything like me?" the lawyer finally ventured.

"Seems to me he did have the same sort of vacant look," responded the old lady.

An Unconventional Duke.

Kew Parish church had among former worshipers the first Duke of Cambridge, a strong but unconventional churchman, who made audible comments while the service was in progress. To the exhortation, "Let us pray," he would reply, "By all means," and during a dry summer he added to the "Amen" after the prayer for rain, "But we sha'n't get it till the wind changes." On hearing the words, "For we brought nothing into the world, neither may we carry anything out," he would ejaculate, "True, true; too many calls upon us for that."—London Globe.

The Smile of God's Love.

As the ice upon the mountain, when the warm breath of summer's sun breathes upon it, melts and divides into drops, each of which reflects an image of the sun, so life, in the smile of God's love, divides itself into separate forms, each bearing in it and reflecting an image of God's love.—Longfellow.

The Noblest Arms.

We may talk what we please of lilies, and lions rampant, and spread eagles, in fields d'or or d'argent, but if heraldry were guided by reason a plow in a field of arable would be the most noble and ancient arms.—Abraham Cowley.

A Matter of Support.

Her Father—You expect me to support Margaret indefinitely? Her Husband—Well, I hope you may stand from under very gradually, sir.—Boston Transcript.

Nothing is denied to well directed labor; nothing is ever to be attained without it.—Sir Joshua Reynolds.

Essay on Shoes.

Shoes come in pairs.

They go the same way except in the case of solo legged persons.

Horseshoes are signs of good luck except when planted in the middle of one's person by the accompanying horse.

In former times we wore shoes as seldom as possible.

Our feet were about four stubs stubborner than the stubborn glebe that Mr. Elegy Gray writes about.

In the gentle springtime when we first divorced the leaky winter boots that had grown irksome the southern exposure of our farm feet was of about the consistency of patent leather.

In June it resembled horn.

In September harveyized steel had nothing on our hoofs.

Between barefoot days when we attended Sunday school, circus or some other devotional exercise we wore congress gaiters.

The congress gaiters (one of ours is now on exhibition in the Smithsonian institution) had an elastic gore on each cheek.—Indianapolis Star.

Taught by Example.

Mrs. Mordecai Hammerfest turned pale as her husband entered the dining room for breakfast.

"Mordy," she gasped, "do you—don't you feel well?"

"Perfectly," he replied in seeming surprise.

"But—but you are in your"—

"Tell me something I don't know. Pass the butter, please."

She passed the butter, remarking nervously, "But, Mordy, dear, as you came in I saw you didn't have any shoes on."

"Well, what of it? Your hair is in curl papers, isn't it?"

"Why—y-yes."

"And you have on a wrapper."

"Yes."

"Very well, then."

And he went on eating his breakfast in silence except when he asked her to pass the butter. Then he went upstairs and finished dressing, and the next morning and on succeeding mornings she reported for breakfast in regular clothes.—Boston Journal.

Changing Matter.

"Can the diamond be destroyed by intense heat?" asks a reader.

Yes. Any substance known can be vaporized in the fierce heat of the electric furnace. The word "destroyed" should not have been used. Diamond is chemically pure carbon—that is, lampblack—and the same quantity still exists after the diamond has vanished. Man is now able to destroy the form of all matter known to chemists—that is, matter disappears as matter, only to resolve back into its primordial electrons. These are pure electricity, and nothing else exists. These man cannot create nor destroy. All that any human can create is a thought that had not been created before. But this is a theory, for all thoughts may be eternal. But here one must stop, for our minds cannot think of the meaning of the word eternal.—Edgar Lucien Larkin in New York American.

Burns' Cottage.

The Burns cottage at Ayr is under the charge of trustees, who purchased it in 1881 from the Ayr Shoemakers' incorporation for the sum of £4,000. The birthplace of the poet had up till that time been in use as a public house. The trustees abandoned the license and after a time removed a hall and other extraneous buildings which had been added to the premises and restored the cottage buildings as nearly as possible to the state they may have been in in Burns' time. A new museum was built at the northeast corner of the grounds. Most of the relics were removed to the museum, which now contains a priceless collection—a first or Kilmarnock edition of the poet's work, for which £1,000 was paid, and Burns' family Bible, acquired at a cost of £1,700.—London Answers.

Beef In Boston In 1740.

A writer in the Yale Review, who notes that in 1740 beef could be bought in Boston at 12 cents a pound, seems to imply that that price was all it was worth. "Invariably a steak for dinner was heralded by the vigorous pounding with the potato masher wielded by the stalwart arm of the cook." The meat, in fact, often came, he tells us, from the carcass of "a cow that no longer gave milk or a bull that had lost its bloom."

Glove Silver.

Glove silver was the strange name given to a custom which prevailed in England during the middle ages—namely, the granting of a certain sum of money to servants to buy gloves with on Lammas day, or, as it is called now, bank holiday.—London Saturday Review.

A Mistake Avoided.

"I say, old chap, I'm in shocking luck. I want money badly and haven't the least idea where I can get it."

"Well, I'm awfully glad to hear that. I thought perhaps you had an idea that you could borrow from me."—Sydney Bulletin.

Unhappy Marriages.

The reason why so few marriages are happy is because young ladies spend their time in making nets and not in making cages.—Jonathan Swift.

Not Musical.

Boy's Mother (poking her head out of window)—Say, you kids stop picking on my Johnny. He ain't no mandolin.—Boston Transcript.

Minds that are not improving are degenerating. Like a tree, when a mind ceases to grow it begins to die.

So Nice.

On fetching gowns I do not frown,
But have a care, Clarice,
And don't wear such a fetching gown
That you'll fetch the police.
Cincinnati Enquirer.

Upon slit skirts I never frown—
In fact, I like them, Nettie—
But I don't believe that I'd wear one
If I had your spaghetti.
—Birmingham Age-Herald.

Don't let them kid you so about
Your scanty skirts, Leoni.
If you were huskier no doubt
They'd talk of macaroni.
—Indianapolis Star.

On slender folks like you, Marie,
Each fresh and clever youth picks,
But were I you he'd never see
My pipestems or my toothpicks.

Was Hard to Convince.

"I don't care much for moving picture shows," said the grouch. "The films they show are too improbable."

"Whaddy ya mean improbable?" asked the boob.

"Why, I saw one last night that showed a daughter helping her mother to wash the dishes," replied the grouch.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Modern.

When Enoch Arden, after years
Upon the desert isle,
To find his wife and home again
Tramped many a weary mile
And, stealing in the garden gate
Through twilight shadows gray,
Before the cottage window stood
He started in dismay.

"I recognize the room," he said,
"The carpet worse for wear,
The cuckoo clock that never went,
The same old rocking chair,
The worsted motto on the wall—
These things I oft have seen—
But that is not my wife, because
That woman's hair is green."
—Life.

Only Complaints.

"I s'pose John is still taking life easy?" said the woman in the train.

"Yes," answered the woman who was carrying a bundle of clothes, "John has only got two regrets in life. One is that he has to wake up and eat, and the other is that he has to give up eatin' to sleep."—Pearson's Weekly.

The Easy Mark.

Bill Crook again is in disgrace,
And off to jail he's trotted.
Poor Bill has got a freckled face.
That's why he's always spotted.
—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Some brains is what Bill seems to lack,
Or else they couldn't jail him.
Bill has a head just like a tack.
That's why they always nail him.
—New York Mail.

Poor Bill's a nut they like to crack.
The cops are apt to joke him.
Unfortunately he's a sponge,
And that is why they soak him.
—Spokane Spokesman-Review.

More Cruel Than Hubby.

Mrs. Bryde—I told my husband I was going to give him something of my own cooking and he said I'd better try it on the dog first. Wasn't that a cruel suggestion?

Her Friend—Very! And I thought your husband was so fond of dogs.—Boston Transcript.

Wonderful Woman.

With hat tipped over, no eye free,
'Tis very plain she cannot see.

With hair combed over the ears 'tis clear
That she, of course, can hardly hear.

With gown so tight it causes talk
'Tis plain that she can scarcely walk.

And yet she dodges autos, teams,
And gets along quite well, it seems.

Man never could survive, poor chap,
Beneath one-half that handicap.

A Crafty Politician.

"So you think you have your opponent defeated before the campaign starts?"

"I'm sure of it. He is going to depend on the old fashioned handshaking methods to make himself agreeable. I'm learning to dance."—Washington Star.

Ahoy!

"A sailor bold I'd like to be,"
I heard the farmer roar,
"For I would like to plow the sea
And then raise cain on shore."
—Cincinnati Enquirer.

"I'd like to sail the ocean far,"
Said Pugilist McGue,
"For I could teach the mast to spar
And box the compass too."
—Detroit Free Press.

Always Proper.

"Now, girlie, shall I cut your name and my name in the bark of this tree?"

"I suppose there will be nothing to criticise in that," said the dear girl, "provided you also cut the name of my chaperon."

Cause For Surprise.

A fool and his money are parted quite soon
Is as true as a shoe's made of leather,
But the thing that surprises us most is the fact
How the two get so often together.
—Yonkers Statesman.

His Precautions.

"How can such a good man as he is take a fee when he knows it is tainted money?"

"Oh, he always uses an antiseptic solution before handling the fee."—Baltimore American.

In a Bathing Suit.

Debutantely slouching on the beach
She stood, a rare vacation peach.
And smiled, but presently she stormed
When some one said, "Ain't she deformed?"

Its Strong Appeal.

"There's one thing 'bout jail," said the ex-convict, "that makes a mighty strong appeal to most of us."

"What's that?"

"You don't get no music with your meals."

Feats of a Strong Man.

Well known in the old buffalo days of Saskatchewan was Joe Beaupre, famed a thousand miles as the biggest eater in the north. Joe was not six feet tall, but he was a broad, deep, thick sort of man, with a hand like a ham and a stomach like nothing else in the world. He would eat an entire boxful of apples at one sitting and think nothing of it. Once, having encountered a gentleman who thought he was some eater, Joe consumed fifty-three pounds of buffalo meat in one day and topped off with a raw turnip, a six pound piece of pork, some lard and two loaves of bread. The best his competitor could do was thirty-seven pounds of meat. Beaupre was so strong he never would fight any man for fear he should kill him. One day, while sledding on a narrow trail with an obstinate horse, he became angered, struck the horse on the head with his fist and killed it. He loosened the harness and threw the dead animal on one side of the trail. He never really knew how strong he was. Beaupre died of rheumatism while still a young man.—Saturday Evening Post.

The Seventh Inning Stretch.

It is a simple ceremonial, but impressive, like all manifestations of the soul of a multitude. I need only close my eyes to call up the picture vividly. It is a day of brilliant sunshine, and a great crowd of men is seated in the open air, a crowd made up of all conditions, ages, races, temperaments and states of mind. The crowd has sat there an hour or more, while the afternoon sun has slanted deeper into the west and the shadows have crept across greensward and hard baked clay to the eastern horizon. Then, almost with a single motion—the time may be somewhere between 4 o'clock and 5 o'clock—this multitude of divers minds and tempers rises to its feet and stands silent, while one might count twenty perhaps. Nothing is said. No high priest intones prayer for this vast congregation. Nevertheless, the impulse of 10,000 hearts is obviously focused into a single desire. When you have counted twenty the crowd sinks back to the benches. A half minute at most and the rite is over.—Simeon Strunsky in Atlantic.

Virtue of Peanuts.

The oil of the peanut has a quieting effect on the pneumogastric nerve, the largest nerve supplying the stomach. Many nervous persons who like peanuts and do not know why, like them for this reason. They quiet the nerves of the stomach. These persons should eat a few fresh roasted peanuts after each hearty meal, as many nervous conditions are due to an irritation of the pneumogastric nerve, and the peanut oil acts as a sedative to this nerve. Of course the nuts must be crisp and well chewed and not too many taken. To get the best sedative effect a handful of the hot peanuts should be eaten just before retiring. This presupposes that the powers of elimination are in good repair. The peanut, a member of the pulse family, is nutritious and would clog the system if not eaten correctly, as it is almost equal to meat.—Philadelphia Ledger.

Putting It on the Map.

Captain Cook shows in his "Voyages" how some of the mouth filling place names on maps are evolved. "Off New Zealand there is an island called by the natives 'Matuaro.' One of my officers, having asked a native the name of that isle, the latter replied, 'Kematuaro,' putting 'the' before the name, as is the custom. The officer, hearing the sound imperfectly, repeated his question, whereupon the native repeated his reply, emphasizing it with the word 'oeia,' which means 'indeed.' So in the logbook Matuaro was transformed into 'Kemettiwarroweia.'"—London Globe.

He Rivaled Cicero.

Quintus Hortensius, the Roman orator, would have come down in history with great fame had any of his speeches been preserved. He died in the year 50 B. C. He was a soldier and statesman, and his mentality can be judged from the fact that he was a rival of Cicero.

His Future Assured.

"I don't know what to do with that kid of mine."

"Is he disobedient?"

"Not exactly. But whenever I tell him to do a thing he wants to debate the matter a long time."

"He will grow up to be a senator."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

To Remedy a Leaking Pen.

If one is troubled with a leaky fountain pen the application of a little soap to the threads of the screw will work magic. If the pen is emptied, thoroughly cleaned, dried and the soap applied there will be no more trouble until the pen needs filling again.—Exchange.

Looking Ahead.

Practical Father—Has that young man who wants to marry you any money? Romantic Young Lady—Money! He gave me a cluster diamond ring. Practical Father—Yes, I know. But has he any money left?—Exchange.

Verified.

He—And, judge, she's lost a lot of my money playing bridge. She—Don't believe him, judge. I don't know a thing about the game. He—That's right, judge.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Envious.

"Your wife is very fond of dumb animals."

"Yes," replied Mr. Meekton. "Sometimes I most wish I had never learned to talk."—Washington Star.

Montreal Star: "Rumors still persist that there are forces—for which the Government cannot be held responsible—that press for a dissolution of Parliament at this time. Such forces cannot have measured the full effect of their proposal. What they urge is the violation of a flag of truce. Both political parties had their plans made for a platform campaign this autumn; and both immediately abandoned them when the nation found itself under foreign fire."

Advertise in The Intelligencer.

A despatch says "small hot bullets cause little pain." Albeit, this information did not come from a war window.

PACIFIC
CHEWING TOBACCO
EACH FOIL WRAPPED PLUG
PACIFIC
CONTAINS A SATIN INSERT WHICH IS PACKED BETWEEN THE FOIL AND PAPER

THIS TALK IS FOR WOMEN ONLY.

If your husband or men folks of the family are constantly soiling their clothes and pockets with their chewing tobacco get them to try

PACIFIC

BRIGHT CHEWING

each plug is separately wrapped in foil which not only makes it free from dust, dirt and germs, but keeps it clean in the pocket. Present him with a plug of PACIFIC and he will never go back to the other kinds sold in bulk, for it's so

"DELICIOUSLY GOOD"

A satin insert for making all sorts of beautiful fancy work is contained in each wrapper. See window displays around town.

10c -- AT ALL DEALERS.

The City and the Child.

New York city—the length and breadth of Manhattan—and Boston, from the Fenway in three directions to the water front, are as unfit for a child to grow up in as the basement of a china store for a calf. There might be hay enough on such a floor for a calf, as there is doubtless air enough on a New York city street for a child. It is not the lack of things—not even air—in a city that renders life next to impossible there. It is rather the multitude of things. City life is a three ringed circus, with a continuous performance and interminable sideshows and peanuts and pink lemonade. It is jarred and jostled and trampled and crowded and hurried, and it is overstimulated, spindling and premature.—Suburban Life.

Studied Insult.

"I wish," said the waiter who had been serving the man with the grim face and the pert looking girl, "I could think of some way to get even with that fellow. He complained about everything I put on the table and growled about every move I made."

"What did his bill amount to?"

"A dollar and ninety cents."

"And how much money did he hand you?"

"A two dollar bill."

"It's easy. Have it in two nickels when you return his change."—Chicago Herald.

Straw For Hats.

The greater part of the straw employed for making summer hats comes from Italy. To obtain suitable straw for this purpose the wheat is sown as thickly as possible in order that the growth of the plant may be impoverished as well as to produce a thin stalk.

The Italian wheat blooms at the beginning of June and is pulled up by the roots when the grain is half developed. Should it be allowed to remain in the ground a longer time the straw would become too brittle for its purpose.

Uprooted straws to the number of about five dozen, the size of the compass of the two hands, are firmly tied together in little sheaves and stowed away in barns. After that the straw is again spread out to catch the heavy summer dews and to bleach in the sun. When the product has been sufficiently bleached it is put into small bundles and classified.

The last step is to cut it close above the first joint from the top, when it is again tied up in small bundles containing sixty stalks each and is then ready for the market.—Chicago Herald.

Many commercial organizations throughout the country are putting their views on record to the effect that Canadians in their purchases should seek, as far as they may, to support home industry. The idea is good, but not at this particular time more than others. It always was good, and those who acted upon it did much to help Canada's growth. To keep up the spirit of the thing will maintain Canada's progress.

Vancouver World: "If you have any flour, corn or vegetables which you wish to ship abroad, you might make a pretty penny by dealing with Austria—that is, if your shipments would not fall into the hands of the Allies. The Vienna government has suspended the collection of duties on the articles mentioned."

It isn't always the winner who wears a winning smile.

A Popular- Priced Line OF
Loose - Leaf Ledgers
Well-Made---Good Looking

Badger-it Loose-Leaf Ledger

Price Complete $2.70
One Size
One Price
One Ruling

Leaf Size 7¼x10⅞ ins.
Bound Leaves
Full Cloth
200 D. E. Printed

About 160 extra leaves can be added, and larger screws furnished with the outfit to give extra large expansion for inserting more leaves.

It is the Best Cheap Loose-Leaf Ledger on the market

Badger-Beauty Loose-Leaf Ledger

Price Complete $4.50
200 Ruled .. Leaves
Balance W. D. or D. E.

Leaf Size 7¼x10⅞ ins.
Bound Cloth Sides
With Seal Grain Cowhide Back and Corners.

Two Extension Screws are furnished with the above outfits. The LOOSE LEAF LEDGER is an up-to-date practical proposition. GET ONE NOW.

Intelligencer Printing Co.
Belleville - - - - Ontario

Your friends will smile if you let your money talk.

Through all my days
I'll sing the praise,
Of brown October Ale

CONSUMERS everywhere sing the praises of CARLING'S AMBER ALE.

Brewed by the grand old English methods as adopted by England's greatest breweries Light, mild, stimulating, delicious.

Finest Barley, Malt and Hops, Purest Spring Water, and over 60 years of experience have combined to make this A MASTERPIECE OF BREWING

CARLINGS AMBER ALE

STORM SASH AND DOORS
Made to your order, any Shape or Size
SAVE YOUR COAL BILLS
The Holton Lumber Co. Limited
EVERYTHING IN LUMBER
Phones 112-1197
Offices 1 Bride St. W; Water St.

The Daily Intelligencer.

LET THERE BE HARMONY IN THINGS ESSENTIAL—LIBERALTY IN THINGS NOT ESSENTIAL—CHARITY IN ALL.

Vol. 48
BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO. MONDAY, OCTOBER 26, 1914.
No. 144

Established 1868
FURNITURE & UNDERTAKING
TICKELL & SONS CO
SPECIAL -- AT COST
49 VERANDAH CHAIRS

Some Landlords Run No Risks With Tenants

Mother Turned on Floor that the Bed Might be Seized.

REPORTED TO RELIEF FUND

By Victorian Order Nurse in Attendance--Arrangements Made for Comfort of Patient

MONTREAL, Oct. 24.—Although recruiting for the second Canadian contingent has only just started, the relief committee of the Patriotic Fund in the Drummond Building has already received several applications for assistance. The work of handling these applications and passing on their merits without delay, has been facilitated by the forethought of the committee in furnishing each of the recruiting stations of the various armories with forms of which full particulars of the home circumstances of each volunteer has been secured. In so far as preparatory work can expeditate the payment of relief, the workers at the local headquarters are in much better shape to handle what will undoubtedly be a large increase of labor than they were to plunge into the work in the first place, and afford relief at the same time that they were perfecting their their organization.

Trouble with landlords still continues to make demands on the time and the patience of those who are giving their services to the cause. It is fully realized by the visitors that in these days of financial stringency landlords can seldom afford to forego the payment of rent which is due to them. But frequently the demands are so unreasonable and action taken is so extreme that serious problems arise which have to be solved on the instant.

"You would scarcely believe," said Miss Helen Reid, the secretary of the relief committee yesterday, "that a woman with a baby only a day or two old would be turned out on the floor that the bed on which she was lying might be seized, yet such was the experience of one woman whom we are helping, and lest you find this difficult of belief, I may say that it was reported to us by the nurse of the Victorian Order who was attending the case, and who was present at the time. Of course we made arrangements on the instant to insure the comfort of the patient.

Threatened Seizure.

"In another case, a woman with four young children, the eldest only seven years of age, desired to go to the Old Country where she said she would be looked after by her mother. This arrangement was particularly acceptable, because within a few weeks she would require the care of a mother or a kind nurse. When the answer was received urging her to come at once, she was instructed to send a written notice to her landlord, and this she did in the presence of one of our workers, who knows that the letter was mailed. She had purchased about $150 worth of furniture on the instalment plan, on which all but $11 had been paid, and the furniture dealer was quite willing to allow this to be sent from the other side in small sums; in fact the firm for which the husband had worked undertook to make payments to us from which this small balance might be deducted. We undertook to store the furniture free of charge. Then the landlord appeared. When two of the ladies who are volunteers in the work went to the house to assist in the removal of the goods, he threatened to seize each separate piece as it was taken out, and cursed the ladies and the fund in language which could not be indicated in print. It took the ladies, who stuck to their task, from 2 o'clock until 6 o'clock to get the few poor belongings loaded."

GERMAN RESERVIST HELD AT KINGSTON

Authorities Await Instructions Regarding the Man's Wife and Children

KINGSTON, Oct. 24.—A German reservist on his way from Chicago to New York was held at Sarnia and brought to this city last night, together with his wife and two children. The man declared that rather than come here without his family he would kill himself. The man was taken to the fort, and his wife and children have been given a comfortable room at Artillery Park barracks.

Col. Sherwood, the Dominion Chief of Police, has been told of the woman's position with that of her two children, and word is awaited as to their disposal. The man is partially blind, and it is said was going to New York to try to find work, having no thought of going to Germany.

ANNIVERSARY SERVICE AT HOLLOWAY ST. CHURCH

Large Attendance at Morning and Evening Services—Able Discourses by Rev. B. Greatrix, a Former Pastor

Anniversary services were held in Holloway Street Methodist Church in this city yesterday. At both services the attendance was such as to fill the spacious auditorium and gallery. The preacher for the day was the Rev. B. Greatrix of Oshawa, a former beloved Pastor of the church. In the evening the Rev. gentleman delivered a most appreciative discourse, his text being taken from St. Luke's gospel, 22nd chapter and the latter clause of the 27th verse—"But I am among you as he that serveth."

Not a few people in this world rebel at the thought of being a servant or called a servant, and will resort to any subterfuge to escape the title. All service rendered thoroughly and rightly is, however, honorable. We speak of laborers, mechanics and professional men, and are they not all servants? Where would you place the Lord Jesus Christ, Was he not a carpenter? St. Paul was a tent-maker and Moses a shepherd. All toil that is conducive to the safety and comfort of mankind is honorable. A man digging a sewer or cleaning the street is performing a work for the good and health of the community, the same as a doctor who administers to those in sickness. There is one supreme law which says that by the sweat of our brows we shall eat bread. The only way to develop power is to give it service. A selfish life is a poor and mean life. Men in the world today who are honored are not the rich men, but men who serve. The only way to grow rich is to serve. What shall I give in service is the true standard. The life of Jesus Christ was one of service. Out of His infinite love for mankind He poured out His life in service. He was ever going about rendering good service. What names in history are most prominent? Those that served. The name of Florence Nightingale is and always will be revered. She did noble service on the battlefield. Lord Nelson was a great man, but was not General Gordon (known as Chinese Gordon) a greater man? He was a great unselfish man, giving of his substance and at last gave his life for his country. General Gordon heard the voice of Jesus Christ calling him to service and he obeyed. Oh what a life and death was his' Jesus Christ never exercised his miraculous power for His self but he filled the lot of common man. Ex-Mayor Howland of Toronto is remembered for the strenuous efforts he put forth to help those who did not know the Lord Jesus Christ. What this world needs today is not so much preaching but to minister to those about us that they may be drawn to Him who went about doing good. It is not necessary to be rich to do good. The giving of a glass of water, feeding the hungry, visiting the sick, is the doing of simple things in life that immortalizes the lives of men and women. A life of disinterested service in the Master's cause is honored. The little ministrations of life are what endears us to others and brings its reward. What was it that caused the world but a few months ago to sorrow as it were over the death of General William Booth, leader of the Salvation Army? It was not his lofty genius, his wealth or his splendid eloquence. It was his unremitting toil to help the sorrows of humanity. It enlisted the sympathy of the world. It was that kind of life that endeared General Booth to the wide world. He lifted up the fallen to honor and respect. Service is the royal road to the human heart, it is the path that leads to the haven of rest, to heaven and the crown, to eternal joy and felicity.

During the service the choir rendered appropriate selections and Mrs. Rev. A. R. Sanderson sang a solo with much effect.

Tragedy of Battle

Russian Jew Insane After Killing Austrian Hebrew

VILNA, Russia, Oct. 24.—In the hospital at Petrograd I have seen a Jewish soldier who was raving mad. His madness resulted from the following occurrence:

An Austrian machine gun battery was occupying a dominant position, and causing havoc among the ranks of a Russian battalion, which was only lightly entrenched. The battalion was ordered to charge a detachment of infantry covering the machine gun battery, and some six hundred paces away from the Russian lines.

Among those in the first line was this Jewish soldier. He reached the ranks of the Austrians, and in a man-to-man bayonet fight he drove his bayonet through the chest of his opponent. As the Austrian fell, wounded to death he gasped the Hebrew death prayer, which begins: "Hear, O Israel!" The Russian Jew soldier fell in a faint. When he recovered he was a raving lunatic.

A wounded officer gave me the following account of the capture of an entire Bohemian regiment in Galicia:

"We had only recently left Lemberg, and were pursuing the rear guard of the main Austrian army. I was in the advance guard of our corps, and the task was appointed to us of outflanking the Austrian division which was making toward Jaroslaw. We succeeded in surrounding a regiment, and took nearly two thousand prisoners.

Contrary to reports which I had heard that the Austrian Slav troops were, officered by Germans, the officers of this regiment proved to be all Bohemians. Not a shot was fired."

FINE ORDER SECURED FOR LOCAL FACTORY BY J. W. JOHNSON, M. P. P.

Mr. J. W. Johnson, M.P.P., learned a few weeks ago that the Ontario Government was likely to place an order for evaporated apples and he proceeded to Toronto to make an effort to secure it for a Belleville factory. The following letter from the Deputy Minister of Agriculture shows his success, with which, we are sure, Mr. Johnson's constituents will be well pleased. The Graham Company were not aware that the member was making this effort on their behalf.

Department of Agriculture.
Office of the Deputy Minister.
Toronto, October 23, 1914.

Dear Sir,—

As you may have learned, the Government has placed with the Graham Company of Belleville an order for 25,000 lbs. of evaporated apples. This is a result of our conversation a few weeks ago, and I trust will be quite satisfactory to yourself and to your constituent as well as to farmers of the district from whim the apples will no doubt be secured. The order was just placed today, and hence I am taking this early opportunity of advising you.

Yours very truly.
W. BERT ROADHOUSE,
Deputy Minister.

J. W. Johnson, M.P.P.,
Belleville, Ont.

YIELD TO BAD INSTINCTS

Discouraged Germans Drown Sorrow in Debauchery

PARIS, Oct. 24.—Further instances are forthcoming which emphasize the growing discouragement of the Germans. The diary is published of an officer, which, although now a month old, reveals that even then the Germans had discovered they were in a tight corner. The poor fellow writes that division after division had been wiped out; the French "fight like lions," and the German leaders appear all to have been put off their balance by the resistance encountered. As for the men, they are convinced they are doomed. They neglect no occasion to drown their sorrow in debauch.

"They seem to have lost all idea of civilization and humanity", proceeds the diary, "and all their worst instincts get the better of them. We can do nothing to hold them back, and when there is anything to be had, they throw themselves upon it like flies round a dead rat."

War Finance Helps Business Sentiment

Sir Edward Walker Says Benefit is Already Becoming A Reality

A DECLINE IN IMPORTS

Changes in Our Foreign Trade Expected--Reports from Rural Districts to the Bank Indicate Crops for Next Year

TORONTO, Oct. 26.—Special—Sir Edmund Walker said on Saturday that the influence of the arrangement between the British Government through the Bank of England and the Canadian Government whereby Canada would receive in gold the funds necessary for its war expenditures during the current fiscal year was already being seen in business. The President of the Canadian Bank of Commerce expressed the opinion that the arrangement, while beneficial to Canada, in a measure apparently even yet scarcely comprehended by Canadian generally, was also significant in that it exhibited a very practical way the tendency towards the consolidation of the Empire which this war has brought about.

"While a very large part of the expenditure is to be made in Canada, the gold received will help to build up the gold supply of Canada, and our ability to maintain that gold supply is the most critical point in Canada's financing," said Sir Edmund. "The reason for this is that it is only with gold that we can pay our foreign debts.

"We have to spend money on the war, and we would have had to get that money, but for this development, by inflating our paper currency. This is now obviated, for we have in effect borrowed the necessary funds for an indefinite period, which will last until we can conveniently issue and sell bonds to cover it.

"Daily we notice announcements of the placing of large orders for war material in Canada. Great Britain, France and Russia are all buying in Canada, and their purchases all add to our power to pay foreign debts. Presumably they will make their payments in London, while we will be paying for the work in this country in Canadian currency."

Sir Edmund Walker said that the reports from the rural districts indicated that farmers were realizing their opportunities and that Canada's production would be largely increased next year. He said he would not be surprised if the shrinkage in imports would continue at even a faster rate during the remainder of this year.

LIFE OR DEATH FOR GERMANY TO-DAY

(Montreal Star Correspondent)

LONDON Oct. 24.—It is life or death for Germany in the greatest battle of the now being fought between the sea and Lille.

The Germans are making the most desperate, perhaps, because it is the last of their efforts to hack their way through to Calais and the southern shore of the Straits of Dover.

Masses of reinforcements, including Landwehr, many of whom are mere boys, have been brought up in an effort to force the British back.

It is felt that the crisis in the fighting has been reached; the next few days will be fateful beyond imagination, but full of confidence placed in the steadiness and resolution of the Allies, with the belief that the Germans can no more take Calais than they could have taken Paris or Warsaw. The Times says:

"We look to find them in retreat when they have shot their bolt.'

NEW TYPE OF AIRSHIP CAPTURED BY RUSSIANS

PETROGRAD, Oct. 16.—Special—A remarkable new aerial dreadnought has been captured by the Russians, with the pilot, the famous aviator, Blatche.

The machine measures fifty feet between the wings, is thirty-five feet long, is a two-seater, has an automatic engine, and ample accommodation for gun and ammunition.

The Russians are using it with wonderful results near Warsaw. They are also repairing the captured Zeppelin with a view to employing it against the enemy.

THIRD IN THE FAMILY TO ENLIST FOR SERVICE

Jake Palmer, Formerly of Corbyville, Sells Property in West and Offers Services in Second Contingent--An Example for Others to Follow

Jake Palmer, a son of Mr. Ridley Palmer, who resides at Corbyville, is without doubt a thorough Britisher, and is ready at all sacrifice to assist in the defence of the British Empire in its present struggle. Some thirteen years ago Jake, who was then but 16 years of age, left this section of Hastings County for the West, with the intention, if possible, to make a home for himself. He succeeded in procuring at Gull Lake, Sask., a homestead, which he improved and was doing well. The call for the second Canadian contingent touched his heart, and made him determined to enlist. He disposed of his property for a considerable sum and came to this city for the purpose of enlisting with the 15th regiment, and was readily accepted. Not only is Jake anxious to go to the front but he is desirous of going to France and joining an aviation corps. Mr. Palmer, the father of Jake, is a veteran of 1866, and he has the proud distinction of knowing that three of his sons enlisted in Canada. One of them is at present with the first Canadian contingent which is in the Motherland; the second to enlist was from some cause sent back, and now the third has tendered his services at a considerable sacrifice to himself. This is a record which any family may be proud of.

Grandma Foote Is Now 100

Fergus Now Gets Light and Power From Falls at Niagara

FERGUS, Oct. 26.—(Special.)—Friday was a red letter day in town. The Hydro-electric Commission completed its $16,000 contract with the town for light and power from Niagrara Falls, by way of Guelph, and "Grandma" Foote, the oldest resident of the town, now in her 100th year, was given the honor of turning it on, which she did successfully.

Sir Adam Beck had promised to be present, but was unable to be here through lack of other engagements, so Engineer Castor represented the Commission, and addressed the meeting, which was held in the evening. Reeve Wansbrough presided. At the meeting Dr. Groves, who formerly operated and owned the system for Fergus and Elora, spoke in strong language of the unjustness of the cancellation of the Commee bill, though he is a good Conservative.

An electric railway through these parts will be the next progressive step a survey having already been made through to the lake ports

OTTAWA BOY'S HEROISM

In Face of German Fire Carried Wounded Trumpeter Away

OTTAWA, Oct. 26.—(Special.)—Despatches received here tell of the splendid heroism of an Ottawa boy, Lieut. John Eliot, an officer at the front, serving with the Third Hussars. He is the eldest son of Col. C A. Eliot, Manager of the Royal Trust Company here.

In the face of German fire at Compiegne young Eliot picked up a wounded trumpeter and carried him two hundred yards to safety. The wounded man was Trumpeter Newman, who, with a party, chased a German patrol of ten men, of whom six were killed, two wounded and two escaped.

FROM THE WAR ZONE

(Central Press Despatches)

PRISONERS SHOT DOWN WOUNDED FINISHED

WASHINGTON, D.C., Oct. 26.—The French Embassy gives out the following:

"A report appeared in the press some time ago, according to which General Stenger, commanding a brigade of the German army in France, had issued orders to his troops ordering them to give no quarter to any prisoners, but to shoot them all and finish the wounded.

An official statement from Berlin via Sayville, was issued thereupon declaring this was untrue.

The atrocious order had, nevertheless, really been given and carried out, and proof of it is in the hands of the French Government.

Over twenty German prisoners of the 112th and 142nd regiments of infantry (forming Stenger's brigade) are now held in France at Montborison and Stelienne. They have declared under oath before a magistrate that this order was actually issued on the 26th of August and that, in accordance with it, all French wounded found that day were at once despatched. Officers, and notably Captain Curtius, of the 112th regiment, personally superintended the execution.

MAKING NO PROGRESS AT RIVER YSEG

PARIS, Oct. 26.—An official communication this afternoon says the Allies' front throughout yesterday was maintained at all points.

Germans who crossed the Yser between Nieuport and Dixmude have not been able to make any progress. The enemy's losses in the last several days have been enormous.

The Russians have been forcing back the Germans and Austrians on all fronts.

ALLIED TROOPS ADVANCING

LONDON, Oct. 26.—"Advices from the front this morning," telegraphs the Paris correspondent of the Reuter Telegram Company, "indicate a general allied advance in the region between Nieuport and Ypres, as well as to the east of Arras."

PROMINENT FINANCIER DIES IN TORONTO

Mr. A. J. Mason Was' Assistant Manager of Canada Permanent Corporation

TORONTO, Oct. 26.—(Special.)—The death of Mr. Alfred James Mason at his home, 441 Jarvis street, on Saturday morning, removes an old and esteemed Toronto resident. For forty years the late Mr. Mason was associated with first the Canada Permanent Loan and Savings Company and later the Canada Permanent Mortgage Corporation, rising to the position of Assistant Manager. Born at Ivy Bridge, Devon, England, in 1831, Mr. Mason came to this country with his parents in 1842, settling in Toronto shortly after arrival.

FIVE HUNDRED MEN ADDED TO WESTERN MOUNTED POLICE

OTTAWA Oct. 26.—(Special.)—Five hundred extra police have been enlisted in the west by the Government for service with the Royal Northwest Mounted Police this winter. Most of the men taken on the force are ex-members, who have voluntarily offered to serve temporarily in helping to maintain order and render assistance to the many in need during the next few months.

The large foreign element in the west, coupled with considerable unemployment in some districts, has rendered it necesasry to largely increase the police force. This situation also explains why the Government has not been able to meet the desire of large numbers of the Royal Northwest Police to go to the front with the Canadian expeditionary forces. Their experience and knowledge of the thousands of foreigners now scattered throughout the west are doubly valuable at the present time. Comptroller L. K. Fortescue has gone to Regina to look after various matters in connection with the force.

German Cruiser Flying French Flag at Sea

Two Parties Were Landed Near Fanning Island Cable Station

BUILDING DYNAMITED

All the Apparatus Was Destroyed and the Office Safe Looted

OTTAWA, Ont., Oct. 25.—The Ottawa authorities are in receipt of details of the successful raid on the Fanning Island British cable station by the German cruiser Nurnberg, when the cables between Canada and Australia were cut and the station destroyed. The Germans, according to word received at Ottawa, did the job thoroughly while they were at it.

The Germans not only made sure that the cable was cut, but also that the station apparatus and buildings were wrecked upon any hope of hasty repair. It appears that the Nurnberg aproached the cable station flying the French flag, while it is claimed that another party landed at a secluded spot on the Island.

It is believed that shortly after the Nurnberg left Honolulu, she must have picked up a friendly collier, for it is stated that two vessels arrived at Fanning—the Nurnbery and a collier said to be named the Tsigntain which evidently brought coal from the Orient. While the Nurnberg was grappling for the cables to cut them a party landed on the island from the collier coming upon the cable station and completely surprising the operators and officials at the station.

From the Nurnberg, Captain Carl von Schoenberg and several officers and a few men reached the Island from the opposite direction. The German parties met within a short distance of the main building, where the intricate instruments for relaying cable messages are kept. The operating staff were not advised of the arrival of the Germans until the delegation stepped across the threshold and entered the room occupied by the operators. Communications had been interruped for some hours and it was this that served to engage the united attention of the British cable colony, resulting in an unopposed landing upon the part of the Germans.

Dynamite was used to blow up the various buildings. All the elaborate apparatus was destroyed. The office safe was blown up, and the Germans made way with $3,000.

It is difficult to understand why a war vessel was not stationed at Fanning Island to protect that station, knowing as the War Office does that this is the only cable station between Canada and the Australian colonies.

Right To Land Troops In Canada

Count Von Brenstroff Says It does Not Violate Monroe Doctrine

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16.—(Special.)—Germany's right to land troops in Canada, if possible, and thus secure at least a temporary foothold on the American continent, was upheld to-day by Count Von Bernstorff, German Ambassador here, who declared this would not be a violation of the Monroe doctrine. The Ambassador suggested that, as Canada was sending soldiers to Europe to fight against his country, the United States should not consider it in any sense an infringement on the Monroe doctrine if Germany should land an armed force on Canadian soil.

Discussing his now much talked of note of September 3 to the State Department here, explaining the attitude of the German Government towards the Monroe doctrine, and giving assurance that Germany was not contemplating any South American colonization scheme in the event of victory over the allies, the Ambassador said only South American was referred to at that time because there had never been any question raised as to possible German attempts to seek colonization in any other part of the American hemisphere.

A NEW INDUSTRY FOR KINGSTON, ONT.

KINGSTON, Ont., Oct. 24.—C. Schnell, of Patterson, N.J., who is interested in the plan, and although no agreement has yet been made, it is understood that the factory will materialize. The Board of Trade some time ago offered him a site for a factory near the tile works. If the financial end of it is taken care of by the citizen interested, a factory will be erected immediately. The fertilizer, of which Mr. Schnell has the formula, is called "stone meal." The principal ingredient is potash.

HICKS' STORM AND WEATHER FORECASTS FOR NOVEMBER

A reactionary storm period is central on the 1st, 2nd and 3rd. The moon is in apogee and full on the 2nd. The mercury period also will partially affect the elements at this period. The storm diagram indicates, also, that the Mars disturbance begins at this period and extends over the entire month. As we enter November a low barometer, with change to warmer, cloudiness and rain will be in transit from west to east across the country. These rains will turn to snow and sleet on the western tangents with the rising barometer; change to colder that inevitably follow in the wake of low barometer, wind and rain. A sharp cold wave will follow in the immediate rear of these storms, spreading eastward over almost the entire country, causing frosts far into the south, from about the 2nd to the 5th. If the barometer is much below normal in the extreme south at the beginning of this period, watch barometric reports from the west and north, as a very high barometer in those regions, with abnormally low barometer in the south, will be almost certain evidence that a rapid and intense change to colder for this season will spread far into the south and east.

A regular storm period is central on the 7th, covering the 5th to the 10th. The moon will be at its extreme north declination early in this period, indicating that southerly atmospheric tides will flow northward, bringing reaction to rising temperature, falling barometer and ending in renewed storms of rain, turning to snow. This storm will be at the crisis in the central valleys on and touching the 8th and 9th, being a day or two earlier in the west, and a day or two later in the east. Each section will have, first warmer, fair weather, with falling barometer; second, areas of rain, turning to snow and wind; third, rising barometer, with colder, clearing weather—all within the limits of the storm period and the interim leading into the storm period next following.

A reactionary storm period has its central days on the 12th, 13th and 14th. But for the facts that we are now entering well into the Mars period, we certainly would have a minimum of storm-producing causes at this and other November periods. The storm diagram shows that we have only the regular vulcan, and the reactionary periods, blending singly with the Mars influence, throughout almost the entire month of November. On and touching the 13th—upon which date the moon is on the celestial equator—rand, wind and thunder storms will be most natural, followed immediately by rising barometer, winds shifting suddenly to the west and north and change to very much colder.

A regular storm period covers the 17th to the 22nd, having its centre on the 19th. The new moon is on the 17th, near perigee on the 16th, and south declination on the 19th. This period will begin promptly on the 17th, with rising temperature, failing barometer and threatening clouds in the western extremes. These conditions will take up their march eastwardly by the 18th and 19th, and during the 20th, 21st and 22nd they will pass the great central valleys and into the Atlantic coast regions. If a low barometer attends these storms across the country, high and dangerous northeasterly gales will come in from the Atlantic ocean to fill up the inland barometric depression, causing danger to shipping along the coasts, and winding up with violent northwesterly gales on and about the great lakes. These sections, especially, should watch the indications, and heed storm signals. Renewed high pressure, clearing skies and much colder weather will spread over the country behind these storms, lasting up to the 23rd to 24th.

A reactionary storm period is central on the 24th, 25th and 26th. The storms of this period will culminate on and about the 26th, on which day the moon crosses the celestial equator, working from south to north declination. All the phases of a storm period will show at this time—falling barometer, warmer, cloudiness rain, and snow; rising barometer, clearing and colder—all linked together like railroad coaches, rushing eastwardly over the country.

A regular storm period begins on the 28th, is central on the 30th, and runs three days into December. The storms of this period will not be more than developing in western section during the last two or three days of the month. The Mars period has worked back until it is central this year on December 4th. In all reason it would seem that the outlook is for normal or mild November; and if so, the same kind of weather may be looked for through December. The Mars influence is always problematical, but its comparative freedom from other complications at this time simplifies the proposition, and which ever extreme things take will be chargeable to his influence. A seismic period runs from October 20th to November 6th, greatly aggravated by Jupiter's quadrature on the 6th. Another seismic extends from 13th to 20th, central 17th.

Coal or Wood Heaters

n [illegible] e risk of catching a bad cold by putting off the purchase of a heater. Buy it now, and be prepared for the first cold weather.

Heaters for Coal or Wood, large Base Burners, Qeubec Heaters, etc. Just what you want for your house.

THE THOMPSON FURNITURE CO.

UNDERTAKERS Phones: Day, 62; Night, 295.

Hallowe'en Festival

In Aid of the RED CROSS FUND

FRIDAY And SATURDAY

October 30th and 31st

AFTERNOONS AND EVENINGS

IN THE ARMOURIES

LUNCH, TEA AND ICE CREAM SERVED

Programme Each Evening. All the Latest Specialities.

"A GOOD TIME FOR YOUNG AND OLD."

ADMISSION, - - - - - - 10c

DANCING.

Academy, Alberta Hall.

Mr. and Mrs. Johnstone's Select Social Practice Classes are held every Monday and Thursday Evening, 8.30 to 11. Private instruction daily. Private lessons at any hour by appointment. Phone 750. sm

The present conflict has proven that if we sow the seeds of war we shall reap war in all its awfulness.

Keep the stock that is quickly matured. A rush for food materials is imminent.

Fashion-Craft CLOTHES

Mannish Overcoats

Unusually well tailored and bearing a distinctive style only to be found in Fashion-Craft Garments.
The coats here depicted are standard models for the man who avoids freakishness.
Made in a large variety of materials and weights unequalled for general purpose.

Price range varies.
Style and workmanship always the same.
Ask to see the Fall Models.

FASHION-CRAFT

F. W. MILLARD
236 FRONT STREET BELLEVILLE, ONT.

MADE IN CANADA from BRITISH and CANADIAN WOOLENS

Does more cooking with less fuel because it's built with a coal-saving firebox.

McClary's Pandora Range firebox is extra wide but not too deep. Ask the McClary dealer to demonstrate this point for you.

"Made in Canada"

Sold by The Smith Hardware Co.

IN AND ABOUT THE CITY

Condensed News Items, For Busy Readers.

AMBULANCE CALLED OUT

The ambulance was called out twice to-day to take parties to the hospital who were ill

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

Mr. Dan E. Ketcheson has returned home after being in Saskatchewan for eighteen months.

Mr. and Mrs. Dan E. Ketcheson and Miss Blanche Ketcheson visited Mr. and Mrs. S. H. Twiddy, Foxboro, on Sunday.

German Ships Will Dash Out

Dr. Graves Tells of Sixteen Secretly Bought and 10,000,000 Bushels of Grain

NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—The projected German attack on England is not a hoax, according to Dr. Armgaard Karl Graves, the former German spy, who last night told the members of the Booksellers' League, at the Hotel Brevoort, that it would be made between the 1st and 5th of November. Dr. Graves addressed the booksellers because he writes books about the secrets of the German War Office; and though last night some of the bookmen may have thought that it was E. Phillips Oppenheim or some other of the "invasion novelists" addressing them, they remembered that Dr. Graves predictions with regard to the German attack on Antwerp came out almost to the letter.

Dr. Graves will not tell anybody his real name or real nationality, but he says he knows what the Germans are going to do to England. They are going to attack with the fleet, airships and submarines. The German air fleet when it is over London will give the British Government the choice of withdrawing from the war or taking the consequences. If they do not surrender at once the Germans will have to do something which, Dr. Graves assures his hearers, they are very reluctant to do—and he left it to be assumed that when they had finished there would be no more London.

This would drive the English to make peace, he asserted. The average Englishman, during the centuries of immunity guaranteed by the fleet has lost all practical experience of what war really was, and when England was devastated as Belgium and North eastern France had been her people would be glad enough to withdraw. But Dr. Graves would make no prediction as to the length of the war or its eventual result; he only said that it would be long, and that the result would be determined as much by diplomacy and other darkly suggested factors as by actual fighting.

Why German Ships are Here

But while the Germans were attacking England something else would happen. People have been surprised, Dr. Graves asserted, that so many of the finest German merchant ships were marooned in American ports when the war began. This was not an accident. Half of them would not have been here but for the war. In the last three days, he declared, the German ships in Hoboken and South Brooklyn and Boston and Philadelphia and other American ports had been coaled and fully provisioned.

Sixteen grain ships have been secretly purchased in this country by the German Government. Ten million bushels of wheat, purchased in Chicago, where now being rushed eastward; and when the great attack was made on England the German ships now in American ports would be rushed out across the ocean to renew the food supplies of the Teutonic powers.

The reason the attack was not made before, said Dr. Graves, was that the Germans did not dare to build any of the new war Zeppelins or the new Diesel engines before the war began. Money would buy any secrets, and the German War Office did not dare take the risk involved in familiarizing great numbers of workmen with its new methods of destruction.

"I was a fairly highly trusted secret service man," he decalred, "but I did not know of the new siege howitzers, and only once did I receive even the slightest hint that any such weapon was planned. I believe that the Krupps began to build them only when the Government saw that war was certain, although in 1909 I saw at Essen, when I went through the works with the German Crown Prince's party, some huge blocks of metal of whose purpose no one would or could tell me. I believe those were the material for the howitzers; and I have heard that they were soaked for a very long time in a sulphuric acid solution in order to counteract the 'sweating' of the metal.

"It was the same way with the new Diesel engine for aeroplanes and submarines, of which I know nothing except that liquid air in some war furnishes the motive power. Otto Diesel mysteriously disappeared not long ago. I know nothing more about him. But his secret is in the possession of the Government, and after the war began the Germans began to build Diesel motors—not beforae.

"There is only one exception to this. In 1910 a specimen of the new type of war eppelin was built at Stettin and equipped with a Diesel motor. She made a trip, carrying twenty-five men, provisions for nine days, and seven and a half tons of weight besides. She travelled 1,400 kilometers, and returned to Stettin with enough gas—enough of the liquid air preparation that drives the engine—left to last thirty-six hours longer. As soon as she descended the motors were smashed to pieces and no others were built till the war began."

This terrible asasult on England would not happen, said Dr. Graves, if two people should die. But they might die tomorrow and the general public would not hear about it. The doctor left his hearers to conjecture who they were.

Newspapers And The War

It is pleasant to record appreciation of the work done by the Press of Canada in reporting the events and incidents of the great war. Among the general public are still to be found a few people who think that the newspapers are making money as a result of their enterprise, but most readers know now that the cost of war news—coupled with the loss from the decline in advertising resulting directly or indirectly from the war—is far greater than any extra revenue derived from increased circulation. A long war is almost as costly to the publisher as a disastrous fire.

The Guelph Mercury points out that the present war is forcing publishers to adopt a subscription rate more closely in line with the cost of the production. Heretofore much newspaper circulation has been obtained at cut rates in the expectation that what was lost in carrying unprofitable circulation would be made good by higher rates for advertising and a greater volume of advertisements. The Mercury says: "The war is going to have one desirable effect. It will end the insane competition among the larger papers for circulation in which there is no money. A newspaper has only two sources of revenue, viz., advertising and circulation. In the past the advertising end of the business has been called upon to pay the way of the metropolitan papers. They certainly have not paid their legitimate expenses out of the returns they have received from subscriptions of $1 and $1.50 a year. These papers are sent out at a dead loss. They must be, even in view of the fact that they have a very favorable rate from the Post-office Department. The change has started, though. Not long ago the evening papers in Toronto raised their rates to $2 a year, and the morning papers also took similar action some time before. The $2 a year price for a paper ranging in size from 16 to 24 pages is far too low. The publisher knows it, and yet they persist in bleeding their business in order to hang on to a circualtion that has been obtained on a cut-rate basis that a sane business policy would never countenance."

ALLIES PRESS FORWARD

They Have Dislodged the Germans From Dixmude.

Appreciable Advance East of Nieuport Without Aid From Naval Guns and General Repulse of Desperate German Attacks Is Cheering News—Bodies of German Troops Advancing From Bruges.

PARIS, Oct. 26.—The success of allies in repulsing the furious attacks of the Germans, as indicated in Saturday's official statement, was the basis of encouragement to the French and British when the battle of the north resumed yesterday.

The Germans, in a mighty effort to gain a victory, continue rushing up all the reinforcements that can be spared.

The situation on the front in Flanders to-day is uncertain for the most part. It is known authoritatively that the Belgians continue to hold their lines around Dixmude. One report says that the Germans have fallen back from Dixmude in the direction of Thielt. Despite the fact that heavy artillery protected this retirement, a column of French infantry succeeded in cutting off several thousand prisoners.

The fact that the allies have advanced appreciably east of Nieuport, as officially announced, has helped to reassure them, since in this vicinity the British naval guns hardly could continue to exercise an influence in gaining ground. The slight retrogression at other points, which was counterbalanced by progress somewhere else, was considered as inevitable in a great conflict of this kind, and apparently it did not cause the slightest discouragement.

The strategic consequences of this battle of the north, it is felt in some quarters, will be greater to the Germans than to the allies. If it should be necessary for the latter to withdraw it would be upon the normal lines of the allies without risk, it is declared, and the bending of the left wing would not compromise the situation in general. The French also are confident as to the line at other points.

A correspondent at Sluys, Holland, sends the following on the fighting in Flanders: "The Germans are guarding the lighthouse at Knocke, close to the Dutch frontier on the North Sea, as a measure of precaution against a possible landing by the British. The sand dunes also are being guarded. German marines have occupied the Village of Heyst and the villages between Sluys and Bruges.

"Great movements of troops have taken place from Bruges, and Saturday an army corps arrived from Antwerp, Bruges and Ghent, on the way to Thourout and Westende, from which points many wounded are being brought back.

"Long trains conveying wounded soldiers have arrived at Bruges, where it is impossible to accommodate all the unfortunates. The medical stores are inadequate, and the number of surgeons not large enough to cope with the work.

"The fighting has been of a most sanguinary character. One German soldier relates that 1,500 of his comrades were buried in a single field."

It is apparent that the Germans gained ground at La Bassee on Saturday, but the extent of their progress at this point cannot be ascertained. Furious fighting continues in that neighborhood.

At Pont-a-Mousson, the invaders have been thrown back a considerable distance, and French troops have also taken all of the roads leading from Varennes to the River Aisne. This latter success is a big step forward in the movement to isolate the German crown prince.

Lille is still the goal of the allied armies in northern France, and a big movement of troops in that direction yesterday gives rise to the belief that an assault in great force will be delivered very shortly. Most of the ground won in this vicinity has been at the point of the bayonet.

Dutch newspapers declare that behind all of the desperate efforts of the Germans to hack a way through the allied lines, there is careful preparations under way for a retirement at the first sign of disaster to their forces. Many fortifications have been thrown up from Metz to Namur, and it is believed likely that this will be the next line of defence.

From Ostend to Nieuport, it is said, the allied fleets are keeping up a steady bombardment of the German land forces that has driven the invaders inland, beyond reach of the heavy naval guns. Ostend is declared to be under a continuous fire, with the gunners striving to place their shells at points of concentration only, thus sparing the city as much as possible. It is stated that one shell crashed through the roof of the Hotel Majestic when the German staff was at dinner. The casualties are not known.

British papers yesterday, which is the anniversary of both the battle of Agincourt and the charge of the Light Brigade, look for an early occupation of Ostend by the forces from the fleet of Admiral Hood, standing off the coast of Flanders.

Rivers-Bulkeley Killed.

OTTAWA, Oct. 26.—A cablegram received at Government House yesterday announces the death in action of Major Sir Charles Rivers-Bulkeley, C.M.G., M.V.O., formerly comptroller of the Duke of Connaught's household.

Major Rivers-Bulkeley, who was a member of the Scots Guards, married Miss Pelly, who was lady-in-waiting to the Princess Patricia, and who is now in England with her infant son, on April 19, 1913. The marriage in London, which was attended by members of the royal family, attracted wide attention, and the wedding gifts included many from Ottawa, where Major Rivers-Bulkeley and Miss Pelly had been most popular.

The most that foreign powers can reasonably ask of Uncle Sam is to remain neutral and boom business.

THE WEATHER.

Strong winds and moderate gales from northwest. Much cooler to-day and on Tuesday, with some local snow flurries.

Try Our
DOUGHNUTS
FRIED CAKE
and
ALL KINDS OF PASTRY
Jas. Wallace & Co.

Have Hope and Confidence if you were born in October.

THE OPAL IS YOUR BIRTHSTONE

This stone is unique among stones in the variety of colors.

"When nature had finished painting the flowers, coloring the rainbow and dyeing the plumage of the birds, she swept the colors from her palette and moulded them into Opals.

Our ring stock includes much of this beautiful material in Solitaire settings and combinations with diamonds and pearls.

Angus McFee
Jeweler. Optician.
The Store with the Big Clock.

Wallbridge & Clarke's Delicious Coffee
Best in Quality
Best in Value

Neilson's Chocolates
Fresh Supplies
"Aristocratic", "Demonstrator", "Classic", "Empress", "Every Piece Different", "Cream Dipped Brazils", "De Lux,", etc, etc.

Wallbridge & Clarke
Established 1871

Clean Your House With Electricity

Just at this time, house sweeping is being given serious thought. Why not clean your house with A VACUUM CLEANER? Cleans thoroughly, quickly, and takes the dirt out, flying.

The Trenton Electric and Water Company
Limited
Oswald H. Scott. Local Mgr.

Let us Develope and Finish Your Films. We Know How.
The Belleville Pharmacy
The Kodak Store, Bridge St.

THE NEW STORE

Buy Sweaters Now

We place on sale this week our whole stock of sweater coats for Men, Women and Children at the lowest prices ever quoted here for goods of equal merit. Prices from 50c. to $6.00 each. See windows. Our sweaters are all made by such reliable firms as the Knit to Fit Manufacturing Company of Montreal and The Monarch Knitting Co. of Dunnville, a sufficient guarantee that prices and qualities are right.

SECURE YOUR BLANKETS THIS WEEK. Flannelette Blankets, best quality, $1.25, $1.35, $1.50, $1.75 a pair. No seconds, perfect goods.

WOOL BLANKETS, white or grey, from $2.50 to $7.00 pair.

UNDERWEAR for men, women and children. Prices right.

WIMS & CO.

NEXT DOOR TO GEEN'S. 282 FRONT STREET

Misses' and Children's
White Thibet Sets
FROM $8 UP
AT
J. T. DELANEY
236½ Front St. Phone 797
(Over Blackburn's Jewellery Store)
N.B.---Special attention given to Repairing and Remodelling.

WALK-OVER SHOES

The Popular English kind

Are still in great favor with dressy men. We don't know of anything more refined than

The Carlton Model

It has the wanted bench made effect—the stitched sole swinging out wide and clear round the heel helps that—the toe recedes sharply, the eyelets, as fashion decrees, are invisible.

Comes in Tan or Black.
The Price is
$5.00 and $6.00
the pair.

See Our Window Display

W. H. Adams
The Shoeman
Next Door to Sinclair's

BANK OF MONTREAL

Established 1817

Capital, all paid up . . . $16,000,000
Rest . . . . . . . . . . . . . $16,000,000

SAVINGS BANK DEPARTMENT
Interest allowed on sums of $1.00 and upwards at current rates.

Banking hours, 10 to 3. Saturdays, 10 to 3.

R. TANNAHILL,
Manager Belleville Branch

We Never Sleep
The Hogan Burial Co.
Leading Undertakers
Our exclusive lines of caskets and several new additions in the line of funeral equipment make our parlors one of the most up-to-date in Canada. Open night and day.
Phone 774.
189 Front Street
Belleville

We are now showing our first importations, indicating the true trend of fashions for the approaching season in both Tailored and Dress Hats from the famous contouries of Paris.

McCrodan & Sills

NOTICE

To my Customers and the Public in General: Everybody knows that all kinds of Fat Stock are bringing record prices at the present time; but I have not raised my prices. I buy direct from the farmer for cash so as to give my customers the middleman's profits. Read these prices:—

Best Sirloin or Porter House Roasts or Steaks .......... 20c. lb
Legs of Lamb .......... 20c. lb
Lamb Chops .......... 20c. lb
Fore Quarters Lamb .......... 15c. lb
Best Round Steak .......... 18c. lb
Home made All Pork Sausages .. 15c. lb
Mixed Sausages ...... 10c. lb.; 3 lbs. for 25c
Pure Home Rendered Lard .......... 18c
Choice Western Beef kept the year round.

GEO. I. THOMAS
377 Front Street. Phone 305

All That's New
In Fall And
Winter . . .
MILLINERY
Will be found at our store.
HATS for
Ladies, Girls and Children.
Moderate Prices
Miss M. Campbell

INTELLIGENCER
NIGHT LETTER BOX

Our friends will find a letter box in The Intelligencer Front Door for the reception of news items after the office closing hours. The box will be emptied each morning

AT-HOME BALL, BANQUET, and Private Invitation Cards—new line—at The Intelligencer Job Dept. See these. Prices right.

The British War Song
"It's a Long Way to Tipperary,"
and
Other British Patriotic Songs
on
Columbia, Rena and Jumbo Records
Double Disc. Will play on any machine
85c
CALL AND HEAR THEM

J. A. Goodsell & Co.,
316-318 FRONT STREET

Christ Church Harvest Festival

Excellent Programme of Music Morning and Evening--Able Discourses by Rev. T. J. O'Connor

There were big congregations yesterday morning and evening at the Harvest Festival services in Christ Church, which were held in connection with the reopening. At eleven o'clock Choral Communion service was held, and the anthem "O Clap Your Hands Together," was rendered by the choir. In the evening evensong was sung, and the anthem was "And God Said." The choir showed marked improvement in their effort yesterday and merit congratulation. Miss A. Ponton sang with excellent effect "How Lovely are Ty Dwellings". There was little harvest decoration because of the newness of the church decoration itself, which required little addition; so that nothing more than flowers and palms were used. Rev. T. J. O'Connor Fenton of Colborne, preached two able sermons. In the evening he chose for his text Ps. 147, verse 1: "It is a good thing to sing praise unto our God, yea a joyful and pleasant thing it is to be thankful. The existence of such terms as Hallelulia, Amen, Anathema, Maranatha, is evidence of the antiquity of our holy religion. The art of singing in the service of God's sanctuary dates back many thousand years, and the earthly excellency of the song of praise looks forward to the perfect praise to be effected in the fullness of God's glory. Praise, when given to men, must always be given to imperfection, but when given to God is the devotion of the heart to the absolutely perfect all-wise and Holy Being. It is a pleasant thing to be thankful. It covers over a great many difficulties. If in our prayers we would set beside our wants and our grievances some of those things for which we have, even in these trying times, good reason to be thankful it would help us over many a rough place. It is a great mistake to want to know God only for what we feel He can supply, only in our needs. We ought to learn to be thankful for the knowledge of God for His own sake; not for His Fatherhood, as this is but one attribute of God, but for His glory and majesty and right and infinite love and power. To enter into this knowledge of God is indeed a pleasant thing.

I FIRST SAW

Col. Hugh Clark, M.P., for North Bruce, who is amongst the many other newspaper editors who are having satisfaction in recalling to the oponents of the Borden naval policy that there is now present an Emergency, with a very big E., in Ottawa in 1897, when he went to the Capital to become editor of the Ottawa Citizen, then a Conservative and a British newspaper. Hugh did not last long in the Citizen office. He was just a little too Conservative, and, it may be, even in those days, a little too Imperialistic; and so went back to Kincardine, where he publishes one of the brightest weekly newspapers in Canada.

Col. Hugh is not the sort of a man whom at first appearance you would take to be a soldier but he is. Despite his small stature there is probably no officer, of a rural regiment in Western Ontario, or for that matter in Canada, who is a better soldier and has more complete military knowledge, both of to-day and of years gone by (for the Colonel is a heavy reader) than the same Colonel Hugh Clark.

He entered politics in the legislative sense by being elected to the Ontario Assembly in 1902 and held the seat until 1911, when, for the good temper of the House of Commons, he decided to transfer his abilities to the Federal arena, and so he was elected M.P. for North Bruce. And there he is and there he will remain as long as he wants to, because he is a good member, because he is a Conservative, and, because he is a Presbyterian, which is a big asset in Bruce.

Colonel Hugh has the reputation of being the best story teller of the House of Commons, and he has the advantage that the majority of his stories are such as could be repeated anywhere (which is more than can be said about some of the tales told on Parliament Hill) and that all of them are based upon real humor, having the additional advantage in may respects of being original. In fact, if you know Colonel George Ham, and you can imagine his soul transferred into a much smaller body, you will realize what a good companion Colonel Hugh Clark can be, when he likes.

But there are two things that Hugh Clark dislikes. One is the Toronto Globe and the other is the member of the Canadian Senate who voted against the Borden naval bill. When he meets the editor of the Globe or encounters one of the Liberal majority in the Upper House, the onlooker would never know that Hugh Clark had any humor in him. He is humorous at other times because he is earnest. He has made his way from the farm to Parliament because he believes thoroughly in all that he holds dear, politically and religiously, and that is the sort of men they make up in Bruce.—The Wanderer in Montreal Mail.

ROYAL
USED BY ALL BEST HOME PROFESSIONAL BAKERS DECLINE SUBSTITUTES
YEAST CAKES

MAKES THE WHITEST LIGHTEST
ROYAL
YEAST CAKES
E.W. GILLETT COMPANY LIMITED
TORONTO, ONT.

Lost Secret of Greeks.

No greater gift could be made to our modern world than the rediscovery of the Greek physical supremacy. The secret of the method by which for one brief period they realized perfection was long since lost, no one knows how.

At present so little do we understand the principles of training which guided the Greek in his games, in his battles and his dances and made the proportions of his figures different from ours of today that Greek sculpture is in reality a puzzle to us. Certain postures fixed by the Greek sculptor seem to us contortions, bordering on physical impossibilities. There is always a terrific controversy over the restoration of Greek sculpture, and even then the arms and heads and legs we supply never look right.

All this because we do not understand the principles by which the Greek ordered the movements of his body. It was a great secret of bodily co-ordination, and the secret has been lost and with it the ability thoroughly to understand Greek art.—New York Times.

A woman is now called upon to do heroic stunts in keeping down household expenses, but no one can notice that hero medals are any more fashionable than they have been heretofore.

The individual who never changes his mind hasn't any.

RESISTANCE IS FEEBLE

Germans Continue to Fall Back Before Russian Advance.

Austrians Are Putting Up a Stubborn Front Says Petrograd Bulletin and Engagement of Considerable Size Is In Progress Near Radom—Austro-German Forces Are Now Forty Miles From Warsaw.

PETROGRAD, Oct. 26.—The Russian General Staff yesterday issued the following statement:

"Our troops beyond the Vistula are pressing the armies of the enemy in full retreat. North of the Pilitza river the Germans are offering only feeble resistance; they have been driven back as far as Skierniewice.

"South of the Pilitza on the roads to Radom, we have forced the Austro-German rear guards who were attempting to hold positions along the Rivers Ravka, Skernevka and Rylka.

"Lovinz, Skierniewice and Rawa were taken by bayonet attacks.

